Registered Aberdeen Bull Bought By Owners of Caprock Angus Farm

Herd Sire Added For 90-Odd Head Of Angus Cattle

An Aberdeen-Angus aristocrat arrived in Memphis Tuesday, Raona's Prince Eric, purchased by Wendell Harrison, Jack Simmons and Clifford Farmer for their Caprock Angus herd near Giles. He came from Raona Farms Williamston, Mich., where he had been a junior herdsire.

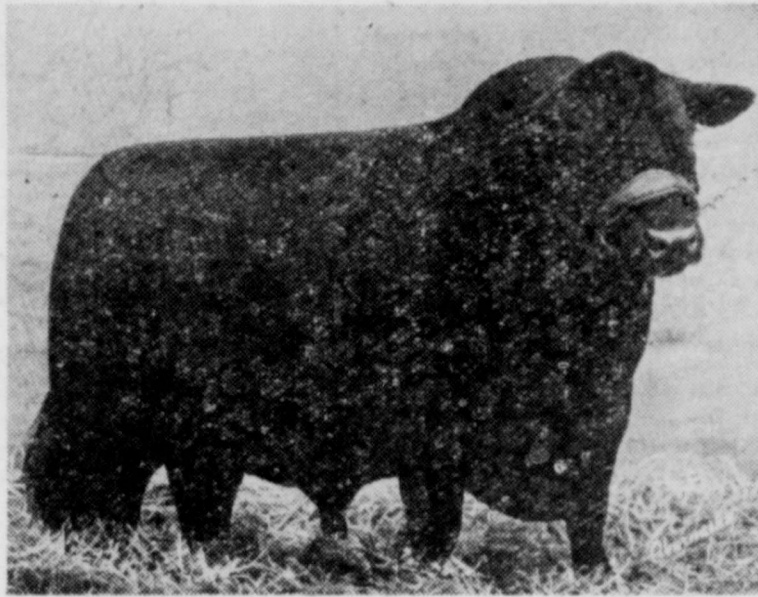

Raona's Prince Eric, a show bull in his own right worth several thousand dollars and sire of calves now being fitted for the Chicago International Livestock show, is a son of Prince Eric of Sunbeam, sire of four International champions, who sold for $100,000 last fall an all-time record for a bull of any breed.

The dam of the new Caprock sire, Miss Burgess 2d of Raona, was reserve champion of the 1944 National Angus show and was the top female in the sale, bringing $5,400.

Raona's Prince Eric was accompanied in the shipment by four cows and calves, also selected in Michigan by Farmer who made a trip there in April to inspect Angus herds. A previous shipment of 34 females for the Caprock herd, also came from Michigan.

Only last year, Harrison and Farmer bought their first Angus cattle. Recently, Jack Simmons, mill owner and automobile dealer of Abilene, became associated with them in their Angus business. A well known Texas business man Simmons has great confidence in the future for Angus cattle in the Southwest.

Rain, Electrical Storm Called Worst in Years

Rains of six to seven inches which fell during a blinding electrical storm last Sunday night flooded and washed as much as 50 to 70 per cent of cotton crops on some farms south and east of Memphis.

In the city of Memphis, the local weather recorder rain gauge showed only 1.98 of an inch of rain; however several persons reported as much as three inches recorded in some spots.

Most of the storm seemed to hit a section a few miles south of the city and traveled to the east.

George Greenhaw, local barber, reported his farm, located about two miles south of town reported more than six inches of rain fell on his farm and waters from that area flooded his cotton to cause almost 70 per cent estimate of damage.

East of Memphis on the farms of Lee Elliott, Frank and Allen Monzingo as much as seven inches of rain were reported which flooded terraces and washed land away. Standing water in some low places was reported as deep as 20 feet.

Production Marketing Administration Lynn McKown and Soil Conservationist Guy Cawfield reported several thousand dollars of land damage done but added that the washing waters destroyed more land than it did crops.

Still Good Cotton
They explained that most of the cotton which wasn't actually under water, had a good enough stand to withstand most of the washing waters. Most of the cotton in these sections had been planted several weeks.

Lamar West, who lives south near the Friendship school reported water damage and also some hail damage. He estimated his cotton suffered about 75 per cent loss.

Hail damage was reported only in spot over the area. More structural damage was reported by Conservationist Cawfield who classed it as moderately severe and especially bad in sections.

Ed Hutcherson reported he had over 100 acres damaged by washing waters and his gauge showed 3.19 inches of rainfall during the night.

Ernest Lee reported about 2 and 3/4 inches of rain and Monday had about 14 acres of cotton standing under water.

W. B. McQueen also reported cotton standing under water, about 25 acres.

Texans Push Tideland Bill Over 1st. Hurdle

Texas' first congressional hurdle in acquiring her oil-rich tidelands back under state jurisdiction was passed yesterday as the bill was approved 18-7 by the House Judiciary Committee, according to a wire to The Democrat from Congressman Walter Rogers.

Next hurdle is approval in the House.

The bill as approved in committee gives Texas control of the submerged lands 10 1/2 miles out because of the conditions under which this state joined the union.

Other states will receive control only three miles out.

Before becoming law the bill must pass the House and Senate and be approved by the President or pass both Congressional Houses by two thirds majority, thus becoming law over a presidential veto.

The Other Side of the Question

Has agriculture been profiting unduly at the expense of the consumer?

A great many people in the United States think that is the case, and it is a theory which has been effectively argued by distinguished economists and others.

But there is another side to the question, and recently it was well presented by Herschel D. Newson, Master of the National Grange, in the June issue of Country Gentleman. His article is entitled, "The Farmer's Side of It."

This article expresses many of the same sound, basic ideas that we here in Hall County have long advocated. We wish persons in Washington might become abreast of such clear and intelligent thinking.

He says frankly, "All of us who live by agriculture must face the brutal fact that if a popularity poll were taken throughout the nation today, the farmer perhaps would get the lowest rating in history."

"More than that, he would be accused by many town and city families as a government-supported gouger who has caused the cost of living to spiral."

Newson admits that some farm prices are out of line and that there are flaws in the government's farm program. Then he says, "I want to say that the farmer and his programs are NOT to blame for the high cost of living which worries all of us. . . . There is no villain except inflation."

Agriculture, Newson feels, has been made a scapegoat for sins of omission and commission over which it has little or no control.

It is true that there has been a rise in the prices of many farm products since the Korean war began. But, Newson observed, "In the past two years before June 1950 the average of farm prices declined 26 per cent—and this decline, which led almost to the verge of another farm-fed depression, went virtually unnoticed in the city press. Most farm prices have not yet caught up with either wages or prices of industrial goods."

Newson implements his statement by impressive statistics. The average of farm prices still is almost 15 per cent below 1947—by contrast, both corporate profits and hourly wages of factory workers are 18 per cent above that level.

In 1947, according to Newson, net farm income was 18 billion dollars. In 1949 it was 14 billion and in 1950 it was down still more to 13 billion dollars.

Newson stated that, "Last year the 20 per cent of U. S. population living on the farms received only 12 per cent of the national income."

The farmers are the first to admit that serious mistakes have been made in the price-support program—such as the potato-support fiasco a while back. But as a general rule, he writes, "Those supports have helped to hold food prices down."

Here his reasoning runs like this: Government purchases have taken surplus products from the market at times of unreasonably low prices. These surpluses have been in reserve, and have been fed back into the market when prices threatened to go unreasonably high. As a consequence, he says, consumers have benefitted as much or more than farmers from most of these programs.

Finally Newson feels that inflation is the real danger to America. He advocates financing rearmament on a pay-as-you-go basis, strictly limiting all government functions which do not directly further the defense effort, and sharply restricting credit for luxuries and non-essential purposes.

If these measures fail to do the job, he continues, price, wage and rationing controls must be devised and applied equally to the entire economy.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

JULY 4, 1776

"When a long train of abuses and usurpations . . . evidence a design to reduce people under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future Security"

JULY 4, 1951

Press Paragraphs—QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Suppose This Happened It is commonly believed that the whole responsibility for getting rid of unnecessary government expenditures falls upon Congress and the Administration. But a third power must bear its full share of the responsibility too—and that power is the American people who, incidentally, pay all the bills.

Suppose, for instance, that chambers of commerce, civic groups, business associations, labor unions and other such institutions in every part of the Country came out for real economy—and said, frankly and flatly, that they wanted their states and their communities to willfully accept their part of the cuts that would follow. And suppose, finally, that when the cuts were made, these organizations would praise Congress for making them instead of crying to high heaven for more Federal tax money to be spent locally. The result would be to enormously encourage those men in government who honestly want to pinch the people's pennies and at the same time, it would bring many new converts into the fold.

For good or evil, the men who run the government keep their ears to the ground. They listen to "the folks back home." Once they become convinced that their constituents want the government to banish the luxuries and the waste, they'll do just that. They'll never do it so long as they believe that everyone wants economy to be confined to the other fellow's pasture. —Industrial Review

PLATTSMOUTH NEBR. JOURNAL: "The policy committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States recognized the necessity to pour out money for defense, both at home and abroad, if all-out war is to be avoided. It felt, however, that non-essential government expenditures can be reduced 'if citizens will refrain from making government hand-outs.' It concludes that 'business should take the lead in promoting a program of self-control.' For once, we find ourselves in agreement with a policy recommendation of the organization that speaks for a large segment of the business life of the nation."

AIKEN, S. C., STANDARD & REVIEW: "Economy in governmental spending should be effected not only on the national level but on that of every political subdivision in the nation. Inflation is an insidious force that can undermine us as it has other countries and leaves us an easy prey for communism."

Twenty-five percent of the land owners in Texas hold less than two percent of the land; on the other hand, 20 percent of the owners hold 80 percent of the land. These are findings from a recent study, "Ownership of Farm Land in the Southwest."

In 1950, 9,400 pedestrians were killed in the United States.

DOAN'S PILLS

ONE RIVER doesn't make an ocean . . .
In the Gas Business, too IT TAKES MANY SOURCES OF SUPPLY
One creek doesn't make a river, nor one river an ocean. In the same way, one joint of pipe doesn't make a natural gas pipe line. It takes thousands of joints to form the gathering lines which move gas out of the field; it takes thousands more to construct a main transmission line; and still other thousands to build a system of distribution mains and service lines.
When gas supplies from more than 200 fields are available to meet the needs of such a system . . . and when more than 400,000 homes and industries are being served from that system . . . then you have, United Gas.

Initial Copy Publication Laws Book Presented Price Daniel

TEXAS' ATTORNEY GENERAL PRICE DANIEL took time out on Father's Day to receive the first copy of his new book, "Texas Publication Laws", as a gift from his family. Gathered around the Attorney General are Mrs. Daniel and the four children—John, Price Jr., Houston, and Jeanie. In spite of a big job and a big family, Daniel found time to edit the law book on newspapers and public notices as a public service for the Texas Press Association.

Americans pay dearly for their independence! In actual conflict on the fields of battle, it cost 4,044 lives to buy it in the Revolution; about 529,000 lives, including the Korean war dead, to preserve it—and 793 lives to celebrate it last July 4th alone! Texas contributed to the bloody toll to the tune of 40 traffic victims, excluding scores of other non-traffic violent deaths.

Little Glow Worm

One of the most curious little insects that appears these summer evenings is the firefly or "glow worm" as he is poetically known. Cecily Morrison writing for Chamber's Journal tells us some quite "glowing" things about this strange fire beetle. The fairy dance of the fireflies, when hundreds of tiny torches weave in and out among the branches of the trees and underbrush, has been acclaimed one of the most beautiful sights in Mother Nature's wonder-world.

This unusual display of flickering lights has so touched the sensitive souls of the spectators that they have set about to commemorate the occasion and laud the lowly lightening bug in song and verse to wit:

With their magic lanterns
Fireflies light the way
For the dancing feet of fairies
In their roundelay.

Esta McElrath
Minute though it be, the power of penetration of this light on the posterior extremity of the firefly is remarkable. One story is told of a Dr. Harvey who, while hunting beetles in Cuba, came upon what he thought was a luminous frog only on closer examination to find that the frog had feasted on dozens of fireflies and his "light diet" rather than has slip was showing.

In South American, this living light is put to a practical use, for the glow worms are collected in perforated flasks and hung at intervals round the room, to serve as candles. By fastening little cords or chains round the fireflies waist, the belles of costa Rica use the flashing insects as ornaments and women of South America confine fireflies in gauze bags and fix them in their hair to beguile their suitors.

Compared with the gleaming lights of the "cucujo", or fire-beetle of the tropics, the glow of the fireflies is frail indeed. The adult tropical fire-beetle has two vivid green headlights which glow constantly, even in daylight and so strong is this light that a newspaper can be read easily if a single beetle is held above the page.

We are told that the amazing substance which is the basis of this living light—luciferin—seems to be inexhaustible; it is if the battery of a flash light renewed itself after each flash. Scientists in the know think that if this living substance could only be harnessed it could revolutionize lighting systems of the world, and eventually make the incandescent light as out-of-date as the old-fashioned paraffin lamp.

Pondering these possibilities, one is inclined to greet Sir Lightening Bug with considerable respect. Mr. Morrison even ventures to say that illuminated insects now a source of beauty and won-

Paints which contain zinc oxide are best for painting farm buildings in areas that have warm, humid climates. Soft paints, which contain a high percentage of white lead, are better for the areas with a dry climate.

Light Things To Eat May Mean Recovery

When somebody gets sick at home, one of your first reactions is probably, "What should I do?" Everyone is aware that a diet of good health is always the best fuel for the body. When running a fever, fighting infection, or just generally feeling unwell, special diseases have very special diets, of course, but in most cases, dependence on which part of the body is affected, only certain foods must be eliminated to keep that special part of the body from overworking. At the same time certain foods remain in the diet to keep the rest of the body in good shape. The first things taken off any sick person's diet is fried food. When the doctor says a light diet, he means to cut out fried foods, including fried eggs; heavy pastries such as doughnuts, pies, cakes, and steamed puddings; tough cuts of meat, sea food except for canned tuna or salmon, and cheese except for American cheese and cottage cheese; jams and marmalades (though jelly is usually permitted); olives, pickles and nuts; and vegetables except ones which are included in the light diet; lettuce, tomato juice, raw tomatoes, cooked or canned asparagus, string or wax beans, beets, carrots, peas, spinach, squash, and strained corn or lima beans.

The object of the light diet is to keep a well-balanced diet but to eliminate foods which are hard to digest; you don't want foods that stay a long time in the stomach.

The soft diet, frequently called a bland diet, is a further limitation of foods, mainly vegetables. The foods that are cut out of the light diet are also omitted from the soft diet. Lest this become a list of foods you can't have, that time you can read the types of food which are usually meant to be fed to a sick person when your doctor recommends a soft diet.

All beverages are included and all cereals are good, except for bran and whole grain cereals; you want the cereals freed from their outer coating. The same idea

The Kids Favorite—a Clown in New Role

To the young in heart, summer means that circus days are here again! And now, as always, the brightly costumed unpredictable clowns lead in the popularity parade—especially with the small fry. So what kid wouldn't think himself fortunate indeed to be eating breakfast in such surprising and welcome company as Felix the clown, shown here singing a wake-up tune for smiling Tommy.

Welcome, also, in many a home these days is still another clown—the one on the gay and colorful package which holds a krinkly pre-sweetened rice cereal. This new cereal, like the circus, is now going strong all over the country—winning, from old and young alike, enthusiastic applause for its crisp, oven-puffed goodness. Hey fellows! . . . It's a circus!

applies to fruits; you can eat cooked or canned apples, apricots, cherries, peaches and pears as long as the skins and seeds are removed. All fruit juices are good on the soft diet and you can have ripe avocado and banana but dried fruit must be strained so that all the pulp is thoroughly mashed up.

The "softness" of this diet consists in taking away foods that are stringy. Vegetables must be pureed or strained as they are in soups, and meats such as bacon, beef, fowl, lamb, tender liver and sweetbreads, fresh fish, oysters, canned salmon or tuna are more digestible, of course, when they are ground up.

Tomato juice, jelly, sugar, syrups when not used too much cream sauce, gravy salt, and vinegar may lend a little variety to a bland diet which needn't be tasteless just because it's limited. Butter, cream and margarine are the only fats allowed but these plants of filling food in the allowable potato, hominy, macaroni, noodles, rice and spaghetti.

You don't have to be hungry on a soft diet; there's plenty of food listed in those foods above but make them satisfy your hunger while your doctor has you on a soft diet. You can even have cake; angel food and sponge cakes are light enough to be included and other desserts permissible include plain cookies, custards, fruit whips, gelatin desserts, junket, plain ice cream, puddings and sherbets.

Any kind of egg, except fried is included in most diets and milk is included unless for some special reason your doctor says no.

Raw eggs in beverages and plenty of milk is, in fact, the basis of many full liquid diets. Anything liquid is included in the full liquid diet. Strained farina, cornmeal or oatmeal gruel thin custards, plain gelatin desserts, junket, ice cream, sherbet, butter, cream, margarine, strained fruit juice, broth, strained cream soups, sugar, plain sugar candy, tomato juice, vegetable puree in soup, salt and spices make up what is known as a full liquid diet.

The clear liquid diet cuts out milk, egg cereal, tomato juice and pureed vegetables so that about all you have left is carbonated beverages cereal beverage, coffee, tea, plain gelatin desserts, ices without milk, strained fruit juice, broth, sugar, plain sugar candy, and salt and pepper; about the only thing you've got in there that you can use salt and pepper on is the broth.

These are such things as special diets are made of. If your case calls for some special omission of some of these foods, as often happens, your doctor will tell you otherwise, unless he gives you a special list of foods which may be eaten, he means something like the above listings when he says "Better keep junior on a light (soft, full liquid or clear liquid) diet until that temperature gets back to normal."

Attempted Theft Thwarted As Heavy Rains Fall

High waters caused by Sunday night's rain storm thwarted attempts to escape with a stolen pickup Sunday night according to officers of the Sheriff's Department.

A 1950 Studebaker belonging to Clark Hudnell was stolen between 3 and 6 a. m. early Monday morning but was found about noon Monday, about five miles East on Highway 287 where evidence indicated it had been abandoned after high waters probably flooded and drowned out the motor.

The would-be thief escaped on foot.

Sheriff E. S. Morrison reported the truck not damaged and the only articles missing were several keys to coin operated music machines that Hudnell had in the pickup.

Evidence as to who stole the pickup was not released by the Sheriff's office.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

By CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS

ABOUT LOBBYING
 At the present time a campaign going on all over the United States by small organizations that have set themselves up to do lobbying work in Washington. They are using scare tactics to collect donations from taxpayers. The taxpayers are already overburdened and do not contribute to these organizations. The tactics used by these organizations are certainly not those of an honest man's view.

Some of these organizations are able to collect thousands upon thousands of dollars each year to maintain lavish hotel rooms and offices in Washington. The best way to put a stop to these questionable activities is for the people to stop subscribing to them. When you receive literature telling you that unless you donate to some fancy organization you are liable to lose all of your rights, please right me and give me the name of the organization and send me the literature. I will be glad to investigate the activities of the organization here and to write you full particulars about their activities. Don't spend your money foolishly so that a few people can live off the fat of the land under the guise of giving you some protection. Some of these organizations use literature that is definitely misleading. They have taken great pains to word this literature so that they will not be criminally liable but will at the same time mislead you as to what is actually going on.

UNCOVERING IMPOSITIONS ON THE TAXPAYERS: This Congress has done a great work in uncovering many impositions on the taxpayers. Some of these investigations have already been thoroughly publicized. There are many others that are building up facts at the present time and stopping questionable practices on the part of many people preying upon the public treasury.

A subcommittee of the Committee of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs, headed by Congressman Olin Teague of Bryan, Texas, is doing an admirable job in ferreting out such vicious practices under the GI Bill of Rights. When this report is finally completed, it will astound the people to learn of the many questionable, if not fraudulent, practices that have been used to collect money from the taxpayers' pockets.

These practices are a definite injustice to the honest and sincere veterans who are for some individual or organization to use the veterans' benefits laws to line their pockets.

The veterans organizations are much disturbed about these vicious practices and are doing something about it. The benefits under the GI Bill could have been extended to Korean veterans several months ago had it not been for the uncovering of the many discrepancies in the use of these funds. I was astonished to find that the subcommittee is uncovering evidence involves many people who appear to be upstanding and honest citizens. I will try to give more detail on this subject as it is available.

Beautiful, blonde mermaid Esther Williams comes up from the waves to smile at the camera man. The lovely MGM queen of bathing beauties wears a cotton swim suit in a striking print designed by Cole of California.

It must be stopped. However, controlling one business and turning another loose is not going to stop inflation. The only remedy for inflation is more production, that is a more equal balance between the goods available and the money in circulation. The dire necessity for goods and materials to be used in the defense program will create a definite shortage on the civilian front unless we meet the challenge and produce enough to meet both the defense needs and the civilian needs. This cannot be done unless the American people are willing to meet the challenge and do the producing.

I say that America will do it. Our choice today lies between more production or economic controls. To me there is only one answer, and that is more production. This will not only protect the little people, but it will stop any trend toward a regimented economy.

DEFENSE PRODUCTION ACT
 The time draws near for some action to be taken on the question of extending the powers under the Defense Production Act. Many members of Congress feel that the powers granted under the Defense Production Act of 1950 have been misused, and these members will not vote for an enlargement of controls and in many instances will not vote for the extension of the present controls.

It has always been my position that if controls are needed, they should be completely across the board and should be used only for the shortest possible time. We are all against inflation and know that

Buick's newest engine—
 the F-263 Fireball—gives this year's SPECIAL the highest power in SPECIAL history

Remember—only BUICK has a FIREBALL ENGINE

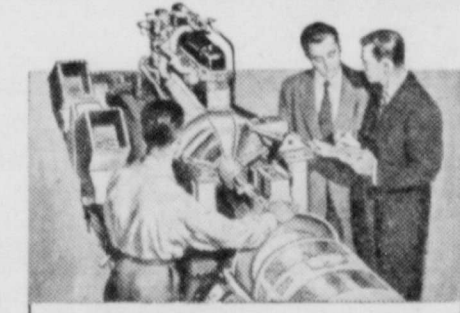

WE get a chuckle, sometimes, over all the fuss that's being made about "new engines."

You'll note that the key feature of their design in every case is the valve-in-head principle—whether these engines are already in production or still in the dream stage.

Fact is, it takes this design to get the most from "high compression"—and how high you can go depends upon the available fuel. Using this design, wartime aircraft engines operated on 100 octane gasoline.

It also takes this design to get the more-miles-per-gallon which folks like in an automobile.

So what gives us a chuckle is this: No other type of engine has ever been used in a Buick—which means that Buick owners, all along, have trick word. It describes what happens in this engine. Inrushing fuel rolls into a swirling ball of gasoline vapor compacted around the spark plug. And when the fat spark sets it off, a cyclone of power lets go.

When you come to check the field you'll find that there's a sweet freedom from roughness to this engine's operation—tracing to the fact that the whole mechanism itself is engineered smooth, and the further fact that every Fireball Engine gets a Micropoise balancing after assembly.

Of course, a Fireball Engine, being a valve-in-head, keeps pace with high-test fuel, when it comes to "high compression."

But what's more important in the present state of the world is this: A Fireball Engine is designed to handle the not-so-high-test fuel we may be getting in the not-too-distant future.

So, if you want to sample all that's fine in motorcar engines, your Buick dealer is the man to see. Come in soon, and find out what the rest of the world has been missing.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Dry Weather
Actual cash estimates of the damage done by Sunday night's storm have not been coordinated but most farmers believe much of their cotton can be salvaged if dry weather now prevails.

Estimates of cotton planted in Hall County have reached as high as 200,000 acres and all indications point towards a record crop here this year.

Here in Memphis, West Texas Utilities Manager Mac Wilson reported the company had more than 128 phone calls Sunday night reporting trouble, most of it caused by lightning.

More than 50 transformers fuses were burned out and two transformers destroyed when struck by lightning. A special crew of linemen from Childress were dispatched to help with the repairs.

REA workmen reported only two trouble spots one at Estellie where a fuse burned out and one near Memphis.

Also in Memphis Fire Department members answered four fires, caused by lightning, all within a four hour period from 1 a. m. to about 5 a. m.; however, no serious damage was reported from any of the fires.

The Frank Spruill home at 7th and Bradford caught fire in one room as wires ignited and destroyed bed covers, a mattress, wall paper and floor coverings.

The Henry Scott home caught fire while firemen were at the Spruill home but only small damage was reported where electric wires entered the refrigerator.

Later at 1:30 a. m. the James Freeman home suffered minor damage after a small fire was extinguished where wires enter the house attic.

Freeman also escaped serious injury when an inexperienced fire fighter threw a bucket of water on an electric fuse box by which Freeman was standing. The shock knocked him down but he was not seriously injured.

Later at about 5 a. m. firemen answered a call at Banta's Cafe on Highway 287 on the edge of Memphis where an electric cord to a cash registered caused a small fire. Damage was confined to the cash registered.

Some wind accompanied the rain and electrical storm but no damage was reported caused by high winds.

Caprock firm, moved to Memphis in 1948 to become manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development. He had been farm editor of the Springfield Daily News for a number of years, and always interested in fine livestock. As a boy in partnership with his father he fitted many prize winning Hereford cattle, including Kenilworth, first prize winner at the American Royal and grand champion at the Missouri and Illinois state fairs.

Later he raised Jersey cattle and at present, with his son, has the Rolling Acres Jersey farm in Missouri. For several years, this farm exhibited winners at leading fairs.

After moving to Memphis, Farmer liked Texas so well that he sold some Missouri property in order to form a partnership with Wendell Harrison and together they purchased the farm at Giles, Harrison, member of the long-established Harrison Hardware firm, has for several years been active in community and civic affairs. He is at present a member of the city council and president of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce.

Harrison, Simmons and Farmer plan to develop one of the top Angus herds of the country. At present they have 95 head that came from Canada, Illinois, Michigan, Oklahoma, Iowa and Missouri.

A calf and bull barn was recently completed and other units will be added in the future. A pasture program has been started which this year included seeding of 200 acres of King Ranch Blue-stem, Blue Panic, Weeping Lovegrass and Madrid Sweet Clover. One of the unusual things about the Caprock farm is that it is watered by two streams, Parker Creek which originates from Bilderback was born in Quincy, Ill. and came to Texas about 1917. He had been a member of the Methodist church in Hedley for many years.

The number of pigs saved at farrowing time last year by Texas swine producers was 6.4 per litter. This is substantially above the average for past years and better management, breeding and feeding practices as recommended by the Agricultural Extension Service personnel is credited with much of the improvement.

Druggist Plug Beef As Nation's Strength

The strength of a nation depends upon its cattle.

One of the main powers of the U. S. is its beef diet, according to Dr. Guy A. Railsback, Cutter laboratories, Berkeley, Calif. Railsback is in Texas to address members of Texas Pharmaceutical Association at a statewide meeting which adjourned here Wednesday.

The weakest points in the national economy of India and Russia are their serious beef shortages, Railsback said. He declared: "The danger is sometimes people get a little careless in protecting their livestock industry. However, we have the healthiest cattle in the world."

Research is continuing in the perfection of old and the discovery of new vaccines, he commented.

Satisfactory vaccines which are helping to wipe out diseases seriously affecting the cattle industry have been produced. Railsback said. He added:

"In this, the Essar Ranch and the King Ranch are playing an important part in keeping up beef production in this country." Disease still prevalent in livestock are black leg, anthrax and red water, the veterinarian continued.

One of the most serious cattle diseases still active is an-plasmosis, infectious anaemia affects cattle in a way to-malaria's effect on humans, he said.

The country as a whole is expanding its beef raising. Production has not increased in proportion with the increase in population, Railsback asserted.

Inequality between production and population is one of the reasons prices are getting higher, he said.

Railsback advised that way to increase production is to make better use of grazing lands and pastures.
