REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS
The House of Representatives served notice on Stalin that the United States of America is ready able and willing to spend whatever is necessary to meet the threats of Communism.

It passed a record 56 billion dollar appropriation for defense purposes. This bill was steered through the House under the able leadership of Congressman George Mahon, of the Lubbock District, who is Chairman of the subcommittee on Military Appropriations.

EXPANSION OF AIR FORCE: Stalin was given notice of our intentions by the bill introduced by Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, Chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

This bill calls for an expansion of the Air Force to 163 groups. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts has advocated an expansion to 150 groups. It seems to be the consensus of opinion that the Air Force should be expanded but that we will probably stop it at somewhere around 130 groups.

I have continually advocated this expansion and have consulted with high Air Force officials on numerous occasions concerning it. There are a number of unused fields in our section that could be utilized for this program with a relatively small overall cost to the Government.

The Panhandle furnishes excellent weather for this purpose and is looked upon favorably by the Air Force. The one great fear of Stalin is a strong Air Force in Western Europe. We can never hope to match the Russians and their satellites man for man in ground forces.

ARMY SPENDING: My office has received a number of communications concerning bulletins and editorials criticizing Army purchases. These matters have been investigated at length by Congressional committees and the Army has been called upon for explanations.

Here is the Army's answer to one of the charges: Charge: "The Army has purchased 68 million can openers since the start of the Korean campaign one year ago. There are about 1.5 million men in the Army." Army's answer: "Both of these statements are true but placed together without further explanation they give a completely false impression.

This is a small expendable can opener for the use of combat soldiers in the field. One such opener is issued with each ration in combat and is packed with the following combat rations: Assault ration, C-ration and 5-in-one ration.

FOREIGN AID: The House is now considering the Mutual Security Act of 1951, or better named, The Foreign Aid Bill. The proposed program involves appropriation and expenditure of $7,848,750,000. The original request from the Executive branch of the Government was $8,500,000,000.

This includes military assistance and economic assistance. You no doubt wonder how much of us as an individual has been called upon to pay for foreign aid. From July 1, 1940, through June 30, 1952, the amount is $688.42 per person.

This means that each person in the United States, or someone on their behalf, has paid $57.37 per year since 1940. Breaking this down on a monthly basis, the cost has been approximately $4.78 per month per person, or approximately 15-1/4 cents per day per person.

Since there are eight in my family, our cost has been approximately $1.20 per day, or $36.00 per month, or $432.00 per year. By the same mathematical process you can determine the approximate cost of your family, your city, your county, or your state.

For example, the total foreign aid paid and to be paid by Amarillo, Texas, is $50,762,025.54 for the period from July 1, 1940, through June 30, 1952.

I expect to be back in the district shortly after this news letter reaches you, and hope to see and visit with you on your personal problems.

Our Peculiar Responsibility

Certain definite things are necessary for a present-day pharmacy to perform its function in any community. In order that this performance may be of the highest order, we believe a pharmacist should recognize the following:

We think that a store such as ours should be able to supply the physicians of this community at once with anything they may need—always be ready to answer calls for stains, reagents, special steril solutions, etc. We carry in our stock of pharmaceuticals lines we know to be of the highest standards these lines are a big factor in establishing our standing with the medical profession.

The ethical pharmacy should never substitute as a means of saving money or making money. If a physician fails to specify, we use the best—not the cheapest—which means definite quality in dose and results. In short, we will never sacrifice principle to "economy of profit."

We hold the above to be important as far as our profession is concerned, and pledge ourselves to recognize at all times our peculiar responsibility to this community.

Just heard that Congressman Walter Rogers will be in the Panhandle over the Labor Day recess to report to the people of his district. He is expected in Memphis this area either September 4th or 5th. Rogers told local men by phone that he had many things to report to the people of his district.

From National politics to state politics, Gov. Allen Shivers' Public Relation Director J. J. Pickle was in Memphis Friday afternoon visiting with several businessmen. He said as of now Gov. Shivers is undecided on whether to enter the United States Senate race against Tom Connally next year.

Enough of politics—let's talk a little about the GIs—they aren't supposed to be called that now the army says, but I still think it is descriptive and a good term. In Korea one GI, unknown, is quoted as saying, "God got tired when He was making the world. Hence Korea."

An Army Colonel, writing about the GIs in Korea, now says "Without a qualifying word, the men of the Eighth Army are the hardest-hitting, most workmanlike soldiers I have yet seen in uniform in the course of three wars. Day by day these formations—my and Marine—are as capable of high action as any troops alive."

The Colonel goes on to say the American Army which has been forged in Korea—has become a tough and splendid Army, which knows its business, can accept and deal with severe hardships with- out whining, has high morale and great pride in itself. The Colonel gives great credit to General Ridg- way who, he says, "come to command at just the right time." When he came, the Army was at rock bottom, according to the Colonel.

The young man who had been calling frequently at last went to see Mabel's father.

"It's a mere formality, I know," he began, "but we thought it would be pleasing to you if I were observed in the usual way."

"And may I inquire," the father asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Mabel's marriage was a mere formality?"

"Mabel's mother!"

Many a man who has worked his way through college is now working his son's way through.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter DeBord expressed thanks, after which an old fashioned picnic dinner was enjoyed. Vice President Doodie Messer in absence of president Otis Owens called for business meeting and officers for 1952 were elected, president, Doodie Messer; Sec. and Treas. Mabel Bridges; H. M. (Flip) Breedlove master of ceremonies. Walter Johnson arranged old fashioned string music. One pioneer said the young enjoyed in the good old days was the fiddle, no music has ever beat it. Several special dedications were made by the members of the Choral Club, to Mesdames W. I. Rains, founder of the picnic Mother Clarke and our oldest mother Hill of Clarendon. She has lived in Donley County several years. She is 93 years young. Mother Hill was brought to the picnic in an ambulance by her grandson Keith Bain. She said she enjoyed every minute of the day when asked if she was tired she quickly replied no, I still have the pioneer spirit. I love everybody and everyone seems to love me. Bouquets were sent Mother Hill our oldest pioneer. Mrs. W. I. Rains the founder of the old settlers picnic and Uncle Billy have lived in Donley County 60 years. Others who resided in the county 50 years and longer were Mitch Bell, Buster Caldwell, Frank White Sr., Mrs. John Blocker. Before anyone realized it the picnic drew to a close and all stood together and made the old doors ring as we sang "God Be With You Til We Meet Again."

Solving Problems Together

A couple of weeks ago we witnessed a group of men get together, discuss their problem, and actually do something about it in a period of about two hours.

The remarkable thing about this isn't that it was done in two hours, but the fact that these men, about 50 of them, all cotton farmers and businessmen whose interest is cotton, discussed their problem and were able to meet on a common ground which enabled them to do something concrete about their problem.

The situation to which we have referred is the meeting of cotton farmers on the child labor situation a couple of weeks ago which resulted in three representatives from this county being sent to Washington in support of Representative Walter Rogers' bill to permit children under sixteen years of age to work during cotton harvest.

It was inspiring the night these men met to listen to them express their ideas and facts concerning the labor situation and to note their earnestness to help do something about the problem.

It isn't known yet whether their bill on child labor will be amended as they ask or not, yet the fact that they met on equal ground in support of their common problem is truly a significant sign of American Democracy and freedom at work.

When the representatives who went to Washington returned and reported on their activities, though they could report no visible success, every farmer that contributed to send them seemed satisfied.

The representatives reported that though we have some pretty hard beliefs concerning Washington and all the corruption we hear, there are some persons who take an interest in our government and the problems of the ordinary person, the cotton farmer.

They reported that members on the Committee of Education and Labor admitted they didn't know a hardship was being worked on migrant labor under conditions of the present law. Even secretary of Labor Tobin heard the men present their problem and admitted it was a problem.

Thus with success like this, even though their child labor amendment hasn't been passed, these men have worked towards solving their problem and in a cooperative way. A way which is democratic, a way which we in this country have done things since the founding of our government almost two hundred years ago.

For this, we think this community owes a debt of gratitude to these men, not only the ones who went to Washington, but all of those who sent them, who supported them and who believe in the ideals and beliefs of the cotton farmer and are ready at all times to stand behind them.

We are indeed glad and proud that there are men such as these in this community.

FAREWELL TO SUMMER

Press Paragraphs— QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

PROFIT CONTROL
In his mid-year message to Congress, President Truman came out flatly for government control of all business profits. This, he said should be the basis for regulating prices.

Here is a concept that, if it were adopted, would have a cataclysmic influence on the American economy and the American system of government.

First of all, profit control destroys the incentive which makes for growth, progress, and higher living standards for the people. Why should a man or an enterprise take a chance when, if he is successful, his profit will be stringently limited, whereas, if he fails he will have to bear the whole loss?

Second, profit control would make it next to impossible for small business to grow. It would not be permitted to earn the money that could be used for expansion.

Third, profit control would have the worst possible effect on all the productive resources of the country—at a time in world affairs when the whole free world depends upon America's productive strength for survival.

Fourth, profit control would inevitably lead to an economy which would be entirely dominated by government. That sort of economy is but one step short of totalitarianism.

In a free enterprise system, we always have profit control—through competition. Arbitrary, political profit control could ruin us.

—Industrial Review

From Livelihood to Industry
"Electric power has changed farming from a livelihood to an industry," says Electric Light and Power Magazine.

Late in August, Farm Electrification Week will be observed—and it will be of great significance this year. Since 1930, farm output has increased 55 per cent while the number of workers engaged in agriculture has declined seven per cent. In that time, the use of electricity has jumped 200 per cent on the average farm which is one of the main reasons for the improvement in productivity.

Electricity makes farming and farming and farm life more profitable, more productive, and more enjoyable. Model, fully-powered experimental farms have been set up which come remarkably close to the "push button" ideal of accomplishing all the chores. It will of course be a long time before typical farms are so completely electrified, but the trend is unmistakably in that direction. The machine is replacing the strong back—and it does the work better, quicker, and more cheaply.

No longer is it true that only the occasional farmer can obtain dependable, low-cost, central station power service. In recent years the power industry has given intensive effort, and huge sums of money, to extending service to all of rural America as rapidly as possible. Today that is practically complete—some like 94 per cent of all our farms have service available the majority of them are it.

Power is revolutionizing and work on the farm—

"We plan to offer people of Memphis and this area the best DeSoto-Plymouth service possible," J. L. Marcum stated. "We plan to keep a large selection of parts and used cars on hand."

Both the Marcum brothers are local men and came from Estelina. J. L. has been in the funeral business the past few months in Perryton and Joe has been in the used car business in Amarillo.

J. L. and his wife and 3-year-old son have moved to 419 S. 6th street and Joe and his wife will move here soon.

USCC Lists Changes In Defense Ratings

A. C. Jackson, District Manager of the Lubbock District Office of the U. S. Department of Commerce, National Production Authority, wishes to remind all former users of the defense order rating "DO-97" under NPA Reg. 4 that since July 6, 1951, issuance of an order bearing this symbol does not constitute a "rated order". NPA Reg. 4 was revoked as of July 6, 1951 and CMP Reg. 5 was instituted to provide a means of obtaining materials for maintenance, repair and operating supplies under the Controlled Materials Plan.

Under CMP Reg. 5, the symbol "MRO" is used to obtain controlled materials (steel, copper and aluminum) for maintenance, repair, operating supplies and minor capital additions. Delivery orders bearing this symbol constitute an authorized controlled materials order. To obtain materials and products other than controlled materials, the rating "DO-MRO" may be used for maintenance, repair, operating supplies and minor capital additions.

Provision is made in the regulation for persons operating on a fiscal year basis and for the use of seasonal quarterly quotas rather than the standard quarterly quota. Organizations not in operation in 1950 or during only a part of that year will figure their permitted MRO quotas according to formulas described in the regulation.

The limit on the aggregate amount which may be spent in any quarter for minor capital additions is $750.00 or ten percent of the quarterly MRO quota, of the customer.

The regulation provides that a person who makes any use of the allotment symbol "MRO" or the rating "DO-MRO" pursuant to this regulation shall make preserve at his regular place of business for at least two years accurate and complete records in sufficient detail to permit an audit that will determine for each transaction whether the provisions of this regulation have been met.

There is also a limitation on the kinds and classes of materials and products for which the symbol and the rating may be used. Generally speaking, this symbol and rating cannot be used to obtain any consumer goods as shown in Lists A and B of NPA Order M-47A, nor for paper, printed matter, paint, chemicals, tires, tubes, and package materials. Exact limitations are shown on Schedule 1 and Schedule 2 of CMP Reg. 5.

Jackson stated that any questions concerning this regulation should be directed to the U. S. Department of Commerce, National Production Authority, 263 Cotton Exchange Bldg., Lubbock, Texas. Copies of CMP Reg. 5 may also be obtained from this district office.

are grown. One of the most important is the influence legumes have on improving soil structure or condition.

This refers to the way small particles are held together in the soil, Hooser added. "The soil structure should be crumbly or granular so as to allow for deep root and water penetration and air circulation within the soil."

"Planting deep rooted legumes such as sweet clover and alfalfa on soils where the particles have run together to such an extent that little or no water or air can get into them will materially improve this condition."

"The use of legumes like vetch, winter peas, annual yellow sweet clover and crimson clover and materially to the organic matter and nitrogen content of soils, but do not open subsoils," Hooser said.

Soil life is made up of small animals and plants such as earth worms, bacteria and fungi. These organisms are a lot like plants for they too must have food, air and water to grow.

Their food comes from legumes and other plant residue that is plowed under. Since air is a necessity, these small organisms are much more active at greater depths in soils that have been punched full of holes by deep rooted legumes.

Growing deep rooted legumes not only improves the soil home for the small organisms, but also increases the water penetration as well as water holding capacity and aeration. All are needed to maintain and increase the productivity of cropland soils, Hooser continued.

The Hall County Mobilization Committee has urged farmers to make plans now for their fall legume plantings. Soil samples should be taken from the fields where the legumes are to be planted and sent to the soils laboratory, College Station for analysis. This analysis will supply information on what kind and amounts of fertilizers are needed.
