STATE OFFICIAL PRAISES LOCAL FARMS, RANCHES

Texas' handsome, 45-year-old governor, Allan Shivers, at noon Tuesday told more than 150 local people at a joint luncheon meeting here of the Lions, Rotary and Business and Professional Women's Clubs that he wants the government of this state to remain close to the people of Texas.

Governor Shivers pointed out that the individual citizen is the key and the foundation to this government of ours.

"We in Austin believe that the best government is the government that governs the least," Shivers told luncheon guests.

He went on to advocate perhaps a return of the old town meetings in which a group from Austin would discuss the state government with the citizens throughout the state answering such questions as where the money comes from and where it goes.

Touching briefly on national affairs, Governor Shivers said he believed that government had been taken too far away from the people. The Governor added that it was his aim here in Texas to try and keep the government close to the people.

The young Governor, recently elected head of the Southern Governor's Convention, continued that he and his associates in Austin are trying to run our state government on a sound basis, a responsible government and a responsible government.

"Down in Austin, we feel that we are just trustees, the power is in your hands," Governor Shivers told Memphis and Hall county people.

After a couple of quail hunts in Childress county the Governor said he was impressed with the interesting farmers and ranchers are taking in their land. He commended the work of Soil Conservation workers and farmers in caring for their land in Childress and Hall counties.

"There is no greater heritage we can leave our children than a well-cared-for piece of Texas soil," the Governor declared.

Governor Shivers told local citizens of his cotton farm in the Rio Grande Valley. He is also a newspaper publisher and a successful lawyer.

As for outside interests destroying this country, Governor Shivers said he thought the only real danger lay in the complacency of the people.

"We must all take a greater interest in our government," Shivers declared.

The Governor of Texas was introduced by Lewis Foxhall, who was Hall County campaign chairman for him during the 1950 campaign. He also presented the governor with a certificate for a bound file of Thomas Jefferson's papers, now coming off the press from his friends in the area.

Rotary President Byron Baldwin was master of ceremonies and greeted the governor on behalf of the Rotary Club. The governor was also welcomed by Mrs. Hattie Dem Thompson, president of the B&PW Club and W. B. Wilson, vice president of the Lions Club.

After the luncheon Governor Shivers spoke briefly before students at Memphis High School. Tuesday afternoon he and his party left for Canyon where he addressed a Chamber of Commerce to return to Austin Wednesday.

CLAUDE'S COMMENTS

By J. C. W.

Here are some figures released for 1950 by the Census Bureau concerning farms in the United States: Number of farms were 300,000 less in 1950 than in 1945, and 500,000 less than in 1940. The average size of farms increased from 174.0 acres in 1940 to 194.8 acres in 1945 and to 210.5 acres in 1950. The percentage of farms operated by tenants declined from 38.7 in 1940 to 31.7 in 1945 and to 26.7 in 1950. In 1950, 221,000 fore farms had telephones, 1,402,000 more farms had electricity and a half million more farms had motor trucks and tractors than in 1945. In 1950, 1,440,000 more tractors were on United States farms than in 1945. Figures make dry reading, but the above are worthy of study.

The past week has been more like South Texas or Florida weather than Panhandle weather. Temperatures have been like that of spring instead of mid-winter. Some moisture added to that furnished by the recent snow would come in about right for all concerned.

New Willys Passenger Car On Display Here

One of the few entirely new automobiles to be introduced by an American manufacturer in over two decades, the new Aero Willys sedan is now on public display in the F. E. Monzingo Motor Company showroom, 707 Noel St.

It is named the Aero Willys because of being "more fully engineered than any previous auto to combine principles of aeronautical design with advanced automotive engineering," according to Ward M. Canaday, company president. Long rumored as the car which may prove to be the automotive industry's most outstanding design innovation of 1952, the Aero Willys is powered, Canaday said, with "one of the world's most efficient engines and has 90 features that add up to an entirely new concept of motoring convenience, comfort and economy."

Answer to Rising Costs
The car is designed to meet the challenges of rising motoring costs and increasing traffic density. "Gasoline economy is unsurpassed," according to Willys engineers, who cite tests of various models "from which, with overdrive at 30 miles an hour, up to 25 miles per gallon has been obtained."
The company's mileage tests, which show proportionate fuel economy at higher speeds, have been made with regular gasoline, despite the high 7.6 to 1 compression ratio of the car's newly developed six-cylinder F-head engine, it was stated.

High operating efficiency on regular gas is a timely feature, the engineers pointed out, in view of threatened shortages of lead for high octane fuel.

Roomy Comfort for Six Adults
"The Aero Willys, for example, has room for six good sized adults. Sixty-one-inch seating width, both front and rear, is wider than most cars, while the exterior width of 72 inches is narrower than most cars, providing a full foot of clearance on either side in entering a standard 8-foot garage doorway.

"Aero-Frame construction following principles closely similar to those used in airplane building, has been used to provide a stressed steel body having reinforcing steel members welded into one strong, solidly rigid unit that will stand up under years of use without body bolt squeaks or rattles. The unit is cushioned from road shocks, and road and power transmission noises by extensive use of rubber pillows.

"The proof of a car's quality is in the driving," the engineers pointed out. "The Aero Willys goes over even rough, multiple railroad crossings smoothly at better than average speeds. Low center of gravity, only 23 inches high, virtually eliminates sway on curves.

"Wind resistance is greatly minimized by a low, tapering hood with the leading edge shaped like the edge of an airplane wing and a low roof only 60 inches from the ground. Air turbulence behind is lessened by vertical fins on the rear fenders. The highly efficient engine enables the car to cruise at 75 miles an hour using only 65 per cent of its capacity, leaving plenty of power in reserve for hills."

Driver Sees All Fenders
Other features claimed for the Aero Willys which contribute to convenience, comfort, easy driving and safety include airborne ride, with all six passengers "cradled" between the axles; panoramic visibility, enabling all four fenders to be seen from normal driving position and enabling driver to see road as close as 10 feet in front of the bumper; automatically stabilized and silenced ride; finger tip steering; oversize brakes; 19-foot turning radius; quick starting and warmup; 24 cubic feet of luggage space; pull-out glove drawer.

The car even has a feature designed to make things easier at the gas station. The gas tank inlet is located at the rear, easy to reach from either side.

them. For this he received the Silver Star and while he was in the hospital he was congratulated by General Ridgway and General Bradley. He was in the hospital at Pusan for three weeks, and then returned to duty with the 7th Co. Regiment.

He was wounded again on November 8th near Kumsong. There were two platoons attacking a Red hill. The Reds had pushed them back and one of Billy Jack's buddies got hit and was left behind on the hill. Bill went back and got him and was carrying him off the hill when they were hit by a mortar shell. Bill was blown about fifteen feet. He got shrapnel in both legs, his right side and behind the left ear. His buddy has his neck and both legs broken.

Billy Jack was in the hospital four weeks and then returned to his outfit again. His division, the First Cavalry Division is in Japan now and Billy Jack expects to be home by April. He and his wife plan to visit his grandparents and friends in Estelline sometime this summer.

Dear Editor:
I am writing in regard to a matter which might be of interest to your readers in Estelline.

This is a story of my brother, Cpl. Billy Jack Tucker, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Tucker of Estelline. I thought you might be interested to know that he has been in the Army since last July 1st, 1951. He is in the First Cavalry Division, 7th Regiment. He was wounded near Chorwon in the big allied offensive on Oct. 3rd. He was estimated to have killed fifteen Reds single handed. He killed 11 Reds with his B. A. Rifle and then ran out of ammunition so he picked up an M1 rifle with a bayonet and with this he charged a trench and bayoneted four of

That's the way the political picture in Colorado's gubernatorial race stacks up now with the announcement that James M. Bass Jr., 31-year-old Navy veteran and Prowers County rancher, will seek the Democratic nomination for Governor of Colorado.

IF HE SHOULD win the Democratic nod, and Gov. Dan Thornton be renominated by the Republicans, it would place two natives of the Panhandle-Plains in competition for the state's highest office.

Bass, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Bass, Sr, live at 1213 Austin in Amarillo, was born in Clarendon, 1920. Dan Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Thornton of Slaton, was born on a ranch near Memphis in 1911. Young Bass lived in Amarillo until three years ago when he moved to a 7,000-acre ranch

LATER HE BEGAN building his spread in Colorado. Last year he became manager of radio station KLMR in Lamar.

Young Bass married Jean Patching, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Patching of Goodnight, in 1939. They have two sons, Johnny, 10, and Tony, 5. He has one sister, Mrs. W. L. Sasser of Waco.

Young Bass never has held public office. He called his parents Thursday night telling them he planned to enter the Democratic primary.

DAN THORNTON lived in Hall County until 1921 when the family moved to Slaton. He was a 4-H Club leader and in 1926 appeared before Congress where he was instrumental in getting appropriations for 4-H clubs.

He played football for Texas Tech and UCLA. He had a crack at the movies and served as a state senator in Colorado. He was a Democrat until 1932 when he changed over to the Republican ranks.

Thornton was elected governor in a stiff battle in 1950. He is expected to seek re-nomination, according to Colorado political leaders.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

The general agricultural picture in the Panhandle country is reflected by the information that I have obtained from the Department of Commerce and include in this letter for your study.

The figures are a comparison of the 1945 and 1950 inventory, production and sales items. The figures are confined to the 18th Congressional District, that is, the 28 counties located in the Panhandle, going as far south on the eastern edge as Cottle and Motley Counties. The actual study and comparison of these figures is most interesting to both the rural and urban populations.

One item of special interest is the great increase in the percentage of farms with electricity.

This was increased from 41 per cent in 1945 to 79.1 percent in 1950. In another five years this should approach 100 per cent. I did not obtain all the data that I had anticipated, but here is some of the information.

The number of farm in 1945 were 15,717, in 1950 there were 14,691.

Number of acres in the farm were 17,005,890 in 1945 and 17,062,840 in 1950. Average acres per farm jumped from 1082 in 1945 to 1161 in 1950.

Value of land and buildings jumped from $352,272,021 to $753,945,060 in 1950.

The number of farms operated by tenants fell from 5,661 to 4,764.

The number of farms with tractors fell from 12,150 to 11,621 in 1950, but the number of tractors increased from 18,221 to 22,147.

Average value of all farm products sold per farm jumped from $10,605 to $16,480 in 1950.

The number of cattle decreased from 1,077,850 to 811,975 in the five year period. Hogs also decreased from 116,146 to 86,798.

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING: Many letters are being received in opposition to Universal Military Training. You will recall that the last session of Congress authorized exploration into the field of Universal Military Training. The matter will be presented to the Congress for final determination during this session. Very few, if any, congressmen would support a universal military training program that would regiment young men of this country into a military establishment under the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the military segment of our life.

They realize that the Americans are not warlike people and that our civilization has not been built on the methods of Prussianism. On the other hand, we all realize that some sort of sound program is necessary if this country is not to meet the continual attacks against it by other nations whose sole objective is the destruction of our government and our economy.

There are a number of proposals concerning universal military training that will be debated when this matter comes before the House. One of those is in keeping with the basic ideas that I have always held.

MINERS BURY BLAST VICTIMS . . . This air view of the Odd Fellows and Masonic cemeteries near Benton, Ill., shows relatives and friends gathered at the graveside of one of the 119 coal miners killed in the recent explosion at the New Orient mine near West Frankfort. Work parties labor at digging graves for others as burial rites are read.

That is, a program in connection with the studies of the students in the schools, similar in many respects to the ROTC program, a program that would afford the student the fundamental and basic military knowledge that would be of great benefit in the event military service became necessary.

This fundamental training would be supplemented by summer training camps. It is the thought of many that such a program would adequately answer the need and at the same time not interfere with the education or civilian pursuits of these young men.

I do not believe that any program will pass the Congress unless the control of the same is left with the duly elected civilian representatives of the people. It is certainly a matter of utmost importance to every citizen of this country, and I earnestly solicit your advice or comments on the subject.

CHURCHILL VISIT: It is consensus here that much progress has been made toward a definite understanding between the United States and England as to how far this country is willing to go and what it expects of England.

It is felt here that this understanding is not what Churchill wanted by a considerable degree. We will get a better insight on what subject, I hope, when Churchill addresses the Congress. All foreign countries should realize that the American people will go all-out for world peace, but will expect the full and complete cooperation of the other nations. Unless we can have that cooperation, we are not going to bankrupt ourselves by futile gestures.

GENERAL EISENHOWER: Since Eisenhower's entry in the New Hampshire primaries, many questions have been floating around official Washington. Here are some of them:

What is his stand on F. E. P. C.?

How does he stand on labor and the Taft-Hartley Law?

What would be his position on the Tidelands?

Is he for Universal Military Training?

What about "Civil Rights" legislation?

Is he for or against additional foreign aid?

How does he feel about the situation in the Near East?

What kind of foreign policy would he have in the Far East?

There are many others, domestic and foreign. Many he has already answered in speeches that he has made in the past several years, either directly or by inference.

THE DAY IS PAST

"The day definitely is past when an individual can hope to grow wealthy from savings out of wages or salary," says a feature article in a recent issue of U. S. News & World Report.

"Old ideas about what constitutes a 'high' income are having to be revised, along with old ideas about the size of a fortune needed to support a family when a man retires.

This may well be the result of two potent forces which, in combination, have reduced the purchasing power of the dollar on one hand, and have made it impossible for even people with every large gross incomes to save substantial sums on the other.

Force one is inflation. Today's dollar, going by the government figures, is worth only a little more than half as much as the prewar dollar. Force two is taxation, which now bites deeply into the incomes of people of moderate means, and takes most of the earnings of people in the upper brackets.

Let's review some of the tremendous changes that have occurred since 1939. Taking into consideration the most recent tax increases, the man who earned $3,000 to $4,000 a year then, must receive a little better than $8,000 to $9,000 now if he is to live as well—and relatively few people have bettered their incomes to so great an extent.

In the higher income brackets—the man who earned $10,000 must now take in more than $25,000 if he is to take care of taxes and the results of inflation and have the same standard as before.

Further up the income ladder, the situation becomes almost fantastic. It takes an income of better than $365,000 a year to maintain living standards that could be bought for $50,000 in 1939. It is obvious that not one man in hundreds of thousands has been able to increase his gross so greatly.

As a matter of fact, raises of salary, even though they may be large, cannot solve the problem—for the simple reason that the tax collector is going to take a large part of the raise and, at high levels, most of it.

Now this type of situation is bad not only for wage earners and salaried people but look at the position in which it puts people with capital.

If taxes and inflation eat up the majority of profits made from any business investment . . . people with the capital to invest aren't going to be very eager to invest if their own profit is so meager.

Less investment and heavy taxes from wage earners, are evils that could destroy this country, of free enterprise, much faster and much more completely than Russia or any foreign enemy!

Don't be fooled into complacency that any additional taxes the present administration asks for will come from the high income brackets.

Income figures show that future tax money has its greatest potential from the low, and I repeat low, income bracket.

The world policy of this country and this government cannot be to financially support the world.

Most of the world outside the American continents has been in existence or at least inhabited much longer than the United States. They existed satisfactorily for centuries without our help and can continue to do so.

It is right, certainly, for us to help countries and re-establish economic stability after war has wrecked nations. But to continue indefinitely to pour millions of dollars into countries as the ECA and Marshall Plan has into Europe is most certain to spell eventual doom for this country.

Future policies of the administration of this government should be to reduce taxes and government costs instead of asking for increased tax rates.

And if the present administration cannot realize or adhere to this, then let the other political parties campaigning for the 1952 elections take note.

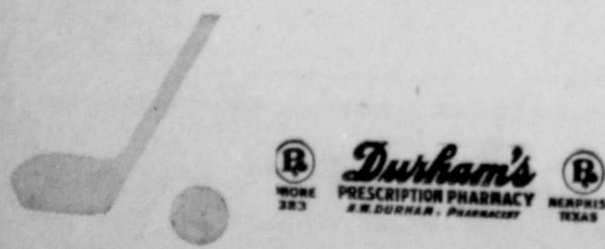

There must be a stop to this lavish spending soon!

Press Paragraphs—QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

"The Senate preparedness subcommittee has recently put its finger on one of the big reasons for big military expenditures—waste—Lack of cost consciousness on the part of officers in charge of expenditures, says the committee, is a principle cause of waste. This blindness or indifference to the burden being cast on the taxpayer has long been typical of the armed services officials. It's one of the reasons why, with the greatly increased cost for preparedness, a limit may have to be placed on the amount of taxes which can be levied on the people. In some degree, the effect of this would be to force the military and the civilian agencies of government to spend their funds on essentials not extravagances." —Anaheim, Calif., Bulletin

"Government determines to what extent you are to be regulated. It determines what you shall receive for your beef and mals, or did determine, but a ray of light and hope was cast when Congress failed to put its stamp of approval on all the control and regulations that could be dreamed up by those wanting a controlled economy." —Salem, Ohio Farm and Dairy

"Commissioner of Internal Revenue Dunlap says that if there is not some let-up in criticism of his bureau people are going to lose confidence in it. Six out of 64 collectors of Internal Revenue have resigned under fire and two of them have been indicted for taking bribes. In addition, numerous lesser officials charged with duties in connection with collecting Federal taxes have been caught redhanded taking bribes and practicing favoritism toward taxpayers —If that causes people to lose confidence in the outfit, let them make room for officials who can be trusted and who will not yield to temptations to take bribes and feather their own nests at the expense of the taxpayers." —Fort Payne, Alabama, Times-News Era

In an effort to curtail the cost of government in England, Premier Winston Churchill starts out by reducing his own salary. Here in the United States officials who want to cut Federal expenditures begin by employing an expert at a salary of $25,000 a year, with a liberal expense account and a flock of assistants.—West Point Miss. Times Leader.

The people are sick of the deficit spending on welfare programs which are used to bolster up a false economy that is termed as a "great prosperity" by the national administration, but which folks are beginning to realize leads only down the socialistic path to federal bankruptcy . . . —Knox Ind., Starke Co, Republican

Our taxes are already up one-third of our income. We are rapidly becoming a country of bureaucrats and pensionists. The same kind of country as were those in Europe from which our immigrants were so glad to escape. —Yoakum, Tex., Herald-Times.

With Churchill and Eisenhower rousing, uniting, energizing the mental and spiritual forces of the peoples of the United Kingdom and Western Europe, with Ridgeway doing all right in Korea, his own people and all those over which he has any influence by adopting the Irishman's good old motto, "If you can't like 'em, jine 'em!" —Zanesville, Ohio News

It would appear that the old saying of "All Chiefs, no Indians" would hold true with the doings of our military in this year of 1951.

The handwriting is on the wall for political parties No longer can they seek to rule by party power alone. They've got to cater to the demands and interest of the little fellows—up to now the forgotten men and women of our Democracy—the independent voters. It's healthy that the army of independent voters is steadily growing to a point where they really decided all elections, local or otherwise. . . . —Pompton Lakes, N. J. Bulletin

We're neighbors

Wherever you live in Texas, the oil industry is your neighbor. For the Texas oil industry is the bread-and-butter, the opportunity, the daily work of some 190,000 Texas men and women.

The girl who sits next to you in the bus; the hearty-looking man who waves as you pass on the highway; the family behind you at the PTA; in Texas, they all could be, some certainly are oil workers. Bookkeepers, stenographers, executives, drillers, roughnecks, stillmen, geologists, salesmen, pipe liners, petroleum engineers—the oil industry supplies the livelihood of all, and many more.

Neighbors of yours these people are, folks who pay taxes like yours, spend their money in the stores you patronize, drive the same kind of automobile, send their children to the same schools.

The oil industry is more than a balance sheet, a set of statistics, an investment in derricks and pipe-stills. In Texas, it's the family next door.

Blewer In Race For Precinct 2 Commissioner

George W. Blewer of Lakeview announced he is a candidate for commissioner of Precinct No. 2 Hall County. In authorizing this announcement, Blewer made the following statement to the voters of his precinct:

"After talking this matter over with several of my friends, I have decided to become a candidate for Precinct 2 Commissioner and take this means of announcing for this important office.

"This is the first time in my life that I have entered any race for public office. I have served in the school boards at Deep Lake and Lakeview. Have taken an active part in community affairs for the 30 years I have lived in Hall County.

"I think I am fully qualified to serve as commissioner. I know county affairs, and believe I know the citizens of Precinct 2. I want to make a statement, I have speaking promises to make except that I am elected, I shall do my best to be a good commissioner and a fair and just county official. No promises have been made to any individual, organization or group which might tend to tie my hands some future date.

"With this announcement I want to earnestly solicit the active support of the people of my precinct in the forthcoming race. Anything that can be done will be sincerely appreciated."

About Memphis, Hall County
By C. L. L.

Congratulations to the High School Cyclones for their victory in their own Invitational Tournament here last weekend. Lockney gave the boys a hard battle for the crown but the Cyclones managed to edge out ahead.

Also the Quail girls were victorious in the girls bracket of the tournament. Congratulations to them.

And speaking for all of Memphis, we want to thank all of these teams, the players, the coaches, the officials, the fans and everybody that contributed to the success of the tournament.

We hope you enjoyed your stay in Memphis and we hope you'll look forward to returning.

More politics this week and Memphis gets in on some of it. Governor Shivers was here Tuesday and spoke before several business and professional groups.

Monday, Price Daniel is expected to announce his plans. The more the merrier I guess.

A good feature story in this issue of our paper is another bit of politics. About two old Texas boys in the race for the Colorado Governor's seat.

How Old Are You?
Age is a quality of mind—
If you have left your dreams behind; if hope is cold;
If you no longer look ahead; if your ambition fires are dead
Then, you are old!

But, if from life, you take the best—
And if in life you keep the jest; if love you hold;
No matter how the years go by, no matter how the birthdays fly,
You are not old!
—Rev. H. Samuel Fritsch

The poll tax situation all over Texas is rapidly reaching a climax. Chances are that more people intend to vote in election this year than in many, many years.

Locally the percentage of percentage of persons who have paid their poll tax already, nears 90 per cent. There is still two weeks in which persons may pay their 1952 poll tax.

Was talking to Bill Dunn Monday morning when all the sand was blowing. We both agreed that when the wind blows and the sand tumbles past, we both feel about as depressed as possible. And in this country, you know a fellow might feel depressed quite a lot—so guess about all we can do is to hope and pray for rain—maybe enough of that will halt the sand.

Most of the new 1952 automobiles are either being displayed or will be on display this month. Sure gives you a good feeling to go look at the bright, shiny new cars. It's a shame everything can't be always bright and shiny, maybe it would make us all feel better.

The extension of deadline on the vehicle inspections seems to have solved the problem for the time being. Later developments may straighten the matter out entirely.

Glenn Carlos told me Saturday the sewer cleaning work will begin soon. The Southwestern Norcam Company has some equipment to move here from Lubbock for the job and also some temporary manholes will be dug to facilitate the cleaning work.

Work is really progressing on the new school, William Travis Elementary School by name, out in the west part of town.

Bricklayers are really slinging mud around there. (Mud to you non-construction workers is cement! I knew because Foreman Joe Miller told me!)

Also talked to the architect in charge of the school who is here a lot checking on the building.

Speaking of schools, understand Lakeview may build a new modern school this year.

This is one good sign of progress in a community that takes care and plans for the education of youngsters.

Nothing can better insure the future of a community, a state, or a country.

The amount of cotton ginned here in the county is slowly climbing. Understand it is above 43,000 bales now. I keep checking with Bonnie Hooser every few days to see if it is still climbing.

Isn't it funny how a few thoughtless remarks can ruin a day for you sometimes.

I guess we ought to pass them over and not let something like that bother us so much—maybe the other person had a bad time getting a little bit excited! My wife and I are planning for a big event at our house in a few weeks.

So if I seem a little excited from day-to-day maybe that's the reason.

I think all the volunteer workers who have been helping with the March of Dimes deserve a pat on the back. Ted Myers and many of his boys have helped a lot and many others whose names I don't even know have contributed greatly to the success of the drive.

Something else new about key-holes in icy weather: Protection against freezing for the lifetime of the automobile or other types of locks is said to be provided by a new keyhole anti-freeze. This chemical compound, which requires only one application, is a transparent liquid that will not mar plating or car finish and will neither harden, gum or wash out.

The jokes are rather scarce this week but maybe this one will do:

A contractor, doing some excavating, was charged with negligence when a pedestrian fell into a pit on a dark night. The watchman, a somewhat dull-wit ed but loyal fellow, was to be called to testify concerning danger signals. He was primed by the contractor, and when called to the stand swore steadfastly that ample lanterns had been hung in the area. On the strength of his testimony, the case was closed, and the contractor congratulated him warmly, "You did very well, Sam," he commented. "Were you nervous?" "Wal, not not exactly, Boss," replied Sam, "but I'll tell you I sure was scared that lawyer feller was gain' to ask me if them lanterns was lit."

That's 30 for this week!
