Hot and Heavy Campaign Predicted As Ike and Adlai Vie for Presidency

By the time the Democratic convention screeched to a halt in Chicago on July 26 America had the line-ups for what is shaping up to be one of the most crucial presidential elections in the nation's history.

To compete with Republicans Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon for the presidential prize the Democrats picked Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama—and they did it the hard way, in a wide-open, bellowing, week-long convention.

When, on that fateful Friday evening, the forces behind Adlai Stevenson pushed him over the top to receive the presidential nomination on the third ballot it was the climax to one of the most violent and raucous political conventions ever held anywhere.

Ever since the opening of the big quadrennial meeting on Monday, July 21, the 1,230 Democratic delegates inhabiting the swarming floor of Chicago's International Amphitheatre had fought like the Kilkenny cats over civil rights, candidates, party loyalty, and a few other less profound issues—such as whether or not to adjourn.

Breach Healed
But in the end, the main breach that had threatened to divide the party—a liberal vs. conservative fight over the now famous Moody loyalty "assurance" resolution—had been pretty well bridged. Stevenson's choice of Sparkman as the vice-presidential candidate was intended to ease the effort towards North-South unity, although some dissonant voices still were being heard.

Stevenson himself, in a somewhat off-the-cuff manner, had contributed a little to the impending distance by his attitude of total reluctance toward the whole idea of running for president.

His behavior during the weeks preceding the convention, and indeed almost up until the day of his nomination, probably will be recorded as a kind of political classic. He made no deals; he rejected all overt offers of support. He repeated again and again that all he wanted was to be governor of Illinois.

He did everything, in fact, except make an incontrovertible statement that he would not accept the nomination.

Yet, in the end, bereft of his indecision after the convention had made the decision for him, Adlai Stevenson revealed himself as a shrewd, energetic, and willing candidate, ready to go to bat in the best interests of the nation during the campaign between now and November.

Acceptance Speech
"I accept your nomination—and your program," he said in his speech to the clamorous and satisfied delegates who had chosen him. "And now that you have made your decision I will fight to win that office with all my heart and soul. With your help, I have no doubt that we will win."

Stevenson, now 52 years old, has held appointive government positions since the early days of the New Deal. At one time he was special assistant to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. It was Byrnes, incidentally, who started him on his elective political career by urging Jacob Arvey, Illinois Democratic boss, to draft him to run for governor in 1948.

Stevenson is on record with regard to all or most of the issues that will arise in the election campaign. He favors limited social welfare programs to assist those who through "unavoidable circumstances have not been able to maintain a decent standard of living."

Wants FEPC Law
He says he will seek a fair employment practices law "with powers of enforcement." That, as a matter of fact, was one of the provisions he made before he would even begin to talk about accepting the Democratic nomination. He insisted that the party write into its 1952 platform a strong and bold civil rights plank. The civil rights plank, as it turned out, fell a little short of what he had asked, but he had made his point.

He is against socialized medicine, against doles and subsidies, against "McCarthyism" and against loyalty investigations, which he calls the trappings of a police state.

On the Taft-Hartley law he has taken a middle-of-the-road stand, saying that some of its more than 100 sections are good, others bad, anyway.

In this respect he is in a certain amount of accord with the Republican nominee, Eisenhower.

Sen. John Sparkman, the Democrats' vice-presidential choice, has the blessing of the main body of party leaders, although there are some areas of coolness toward him around the fringes.

Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia claims he doesn't think Sparkman "is well enough known to be of any help" to the Democratic party in his state. Sparkman and the Virginia delegation, of course, were staunch and solid backers of Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell during the long convention fight.

There is a possibility, too, that Sparkman's negative record on civil rights and a fair employment practices law might tend to harm or cancel out Stevenson's known attitude on that issue. Because of the serious civil rights flare-up that disrupted the 1948 Democratic convention Sparkman at that time joined in a demand to name Eisenhower as the Democratic candidate.

Disregarded Implications
It is a fair assumption, however, that the Democrats this year had their eyes open to this fact and knew what they were doing, choosing to ignore the possible implications in favor of nominating a vice-presidential candidate who would achieve within the party the North-South unity they need and want so badly.

One thing seems certain at this juncture: the presidential campaign will be a hard-fought battle and the election will be extremely close.

The Democrats, however, have an edge over the Republicans in that the integral structure of their party organization has not been so severely damaged. The Republican Old Guard, represented by the defeated Taft forces, remains bitter over Eisenhower's nomination and has not yet been seen jumping over its fences to give its full support to the GOP nominee.

Although the Democratic convention was a furious political melee, the party succeeded in maintaining a working cohesion, which was at least partly the result of Sen. Estes Kefauver's graceful acceptance of his defeat.

Kefauver, who started out the convention with the most popular support and the greatest number of delegates known to be pledged to any of the candidates, played the role of the stag at bay during the whole proceedings. He was besieged at every turn by a growing force of Stevenson, and in the final analysis could not cope with the tremendous influence wielded by the Illinois and New York delegations.

Two Costly Errors
In addition, the Tennessee senator made two tactical errors during the convention which didn't help his cause a bit: (1) He appeared in the convention hall Wednesday afternoon, in direct violation of a longstanding tradition which says that no avowed presidential candidate should appear before the delegates before the nominations have been completed. Although he received a noisy ovation, he created much resentment among the delegates at the same time. (2) In the rough-and-tumble floor fight over the seating of the Virginia delegation, the Tennessee delegation voted against it. That, in all likelihood, cost Kefauver whatever chance he might have had of getting the support of the southern states.

But when Kefauver appeared on the platform Friday night after Stevenson's nomination he was smiling and courageous as he formally withdrew his name from the running and promised to lend his complete support to the Stevenson cause.

It was another demonstration of the will-o-the-wisp sense of unity that came and went periodically during the convention and which at the end, the Democrats say, finally arrived to stay. For a while, anyway.

Protect That Window!

HERE IS a simple way to protect the glass window on your coal bin against breakage when a delivery is made. Most such windows are hung with strap hinges. File off the large heads of the hinge pins and knock the pins out with a punch or nail, according to advice given by Family Handyman. Replace the pins with common nails, as illustrated. The exchange of the pins for the nails will enable you to remove the window before the coal delivery is made. Later, of course, it may easily be replaced.

Texas Farm Income Down From Last Year

AUSTIN—Texas farm cash income for the first six months of 1952 totaled $577,000,000 compared to $586,000,000 in the same 1951 period, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Researchers attribute the drop to lower income from oats, corn, grain sorghum, peanuts, cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and lambs, wool, mohair, and eggs.

Ahead of last year are cash returns from cotton (up 214 per cent), cottonseed (up 153 per cent), wheat (up 18 per cent), flaxseed (up 2,240 per cent), poultry (up 19 per cent), milk and milk products (up 10 per cent), and fruits and vegetables (up 20 per cent).

VA Explains Bill For Korean Vets

(Reprinted below is the second of three installments prepared by the Veterans Administration to explain fully the benefits under the new GI Bill for Korean vets—Ed.)

Part II

The loan provisions of the new GI Bill for past-Korean veterans are similar to the GI loan program now in effect for World War II veterans. Some changes have been made, however, to protect the interests of home-buying veterans.

The amount of VA guarantee on a loan is the same for both groups of veterans. Home loan may be guaranteed for up to 60 per cent of the loan, but the guaranteed portion may not exceed $7,500. Other real estate loans may be guaranteed up to 50 per cent, with a $4,000 top. And non-real-estate loans, such as GI business loans, may be guaranteed for up to 50 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling as to the guarantee. All such loans also may be insured.

VA's direct loan program, now in effect for World War II veterans, has been extended to veterans who served since Korea. Under the program, VA may make loans directly to veterans, but only in certain areas where four per cent GI loan money is not available.

GI loan safeguards, written into the new law, apply both to World War II veterans and those with post-Korea service. Among them are the following:

A veteran's property must meet or exceed minimum requirements for planning, construction and general acceptability. This provision doesn't apply to construction started within 60 days of July 16, nor houses which have been completed at least a year before they were purchased with a GI loan.

VA may refuse to appraise any dwelling or housing project owned or built by anyone who has attempted to take unfair advantage of veterans in the past. Examples would be substantial deficiencies in the house, failure to discharge contract liabilities, or unfair practices in regard to contracts or marketing of the houses.

Also, VA may refuse to guarantee loans made by lenders who have failed to service loans adequately, who have failed to keep adequate loan accounting records who have shown poor credit judgment, or who have engaged in other practices detrimental to the veteran or to the Government.

In the case of World War II veterans who have returned to active duty, their unused loan entitlement under the World War II GI Bill will be replaced by the same amount of entitlement under the new law. The result is that they won't be bound by the GI loan deadline of July 25, 1957, set up in the earlier law; instead under the new law, they'll have sent emergency to obtain GI loan. The new GI Bill contains important deadlines that past-Korea veterans should keep in mind, VA said.

The deadline for loans for 10 years from the end of the Korean War after Korea's armistice comes to an end. The deadline for World War II veterans who have not gone back on active duty is July 25, 1957.

Eligibility requirements for GI loan benefit include: (1) discharge under conditions other than dishonorable; (2) active service any time after June 27, 1945 and (3) at least 90 days' total service, unless discharged because of a service-connected disability.

Men Seek to Rise Above the Mediocre

M. Wiggins Lauds American Enterprise System in Speech

ABILENE—The American enterprise of the class of 1952 can be more easily than the... The Texas Tech president, who resigned his position effective September 1, told his audience that schools and other social institutions of the nation have been made possible because men were seeking to rise above the mediocre. The opportunity to rise above mediocrity in all phases of life is possible only under the free enterprise system, he warned. "Free enterprise emphasizes man's effort to rise above mediocrity. This concept made Hardin-Simmons University possible. It made all public institutions possible."

Dr. Wiggins admitted that he himself has returned to a greater acceptance of the need for rugged individualism. "The present concept of social security, carried to its fullest implication, can't operate outside slavery or a Bolshevik state. "Security is easy to find, but men and women are selling out merely to be secure."

The use of liquid fuel in the United States has surpassed the use of solid fuels because of competition, Dr. Wiggins said. "There is no unionization among petroleum engineers. They are in business to compete." America was founded, it was said, because "our forefathers dared to leave their country and modern conveniences. They desired to live above the mediocre in the spiritual. They dared to resist dictation in religion."

Six students were graduated with honors—magna cum laude. They were: Addie Paula Easley Memphis; Florene Hutchens, Rochester; Vera Louise Carver, Gocheater; Joanna Gravitt, San Angelo; James D. Crawford, Abilene; and Mrs. M. C. Arnold, Abilene. Miss Biffie Blair is here from Clarendon visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Parks Mitchum. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Johnson and Robert Mitchum left last week for Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will visit her mother, and Robert will visit his two sisters, Mrs. Cecil Easley and Mrs. Frank Vanter and families.

Hints Given in Care of Eggs

The egg is a perishable product. It cannot stand rough treatment nor maintain the high quality and grade it possessed when laid if given improper care. The use of good management practices in and around the laying house by the flock owner, says F. Z. Beanblossom, poultry marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will increase the income from eggs when sold on grade. Produce clean eggs. The hens will do their part of the job but it's up to the flock owner to provide the surroundings that make clean egg production possible. First, there must be plenty of nesting space—a nest for each four to five hens; keep plenty of clean absorbent material in the nests, such as straw, peanut hulls or shavings. Keep the floor of the laying house dry and be sure there is plenty of ventilation. If the hens are on range, be sure says the specialist, they don't play in a mudhole—they'll track mud into the nests and such holes are trouble breeders. Gather eggs at least three times and preferably five times per day and preferably five times per day says Beanblossom. Then get the animal heat out of the eggs as soon as possible; case the eggs after the animal heat is removed and always place the little end of the egg down in the case and go to market twice per week unless cooling facilities are available on the farm. If eggs are held on the farm, the holding temperature should be kept below 68 degrees says the specialist. If eggs must be cleaned, don't wash them. Use an abrasive such as emery cloth or a buffer. Rub only the soiled spot. Doing the little things that are often overlooked in giving the egg proper environment, says Beanblossom, is good management and a sure way to improve egg quality and income.

A. T. Smith and Son Seriously Injured in Calif.

A. T. Smith and his son, Wesley, about 16, were seriously injured in a car wreck near Escondido, Calif., on August 9. Mrs. S. P. Wells, of Memphis, who is the mother-in-law and grandmother of the injured pair, said Wednesday that they are both still in a critical condition in an Escondido hospital. Mr. Smith, who was reared near Hedley, is suffering from chest and head injuries and has a broken arm. Wesley has a concussion and broken leg. Mrs. Smith will be remembered here as the former Roberta Cope. In 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt was shot by John Schrack, a spectacle case deflected the assassin's bullet and saved the Presidents life.

Photostatic or certified copies of all discharges from the Armed Forces since June 27, 1950, must accompany the completed application. VA advises veterans to take great care in planning and outlining the program of education and training in the second section of the form, since VA may not approve more than one change of program under any circumstances. After VA approves an application, it will issue a "Certificate for Education and Training" to the veteran which he can present to the educational institution or training establishment to show approval of his program. Veterans should make sure that the school or business establishment is approved by the appropriate state agency for training under the Korean GI Bill (Public Law 550, 82nd Congress). The Korean GI Bill prohibits VA from approving a program of education or training leading to an educational, professional or vocational objective for a veteran who is already qualified for such objective. It also prohibits the approval of avocational and recreational programs.

Veterans May Now Apply for Training, Education Help

Although post-Korean veterans may submit completed application forms now, VA cannot pay educational allowances for training for any period that begins prior to August 20, 1952. The four-page "Application for a Program of Education and Training" has five sections which must be completed by the veteran: (1) identification of the veteran; (2) program of education and training applied for; (3) education and training received while on active duty; (4) civilian education; and (5) employment experience. These five sections are contained on the first two pages. Page three is for VA use only and the last page contains instructions for the veteran to follow in completing the form.

4-H Club Boys Receive Achievement Day Awards

Achievement Day for Hall County 4-H Club boys was observed Wednesday, and awards were presented to members for outstanding work during the past year at the weekly meeting of the Memphis Lions Club.

In charge of the presentation ceremony was County Agricultural Agent W. B. Hooser who recognized 40 boys for their record of accomplishments.

At the meeting it was announced that Hall County club boys as a group had won the following awards:

National Better Methods Electric Contest—first in state.
National Safety award—first in state.

R.E.A. award—best in district. This award was a check for $50.00 and was presented to county club boys by J. W. Coppedge, manager of the Hall County Electric Cooperative.

Club members, and the awards they had won, as presented by Agent Hooser, are as follows:

John Luther Byars—National Leadership Award Medal.

Bennie West—National Safety Contest award.

Jimmie Bownds—National Meat Animal Award medal.

Lloyd West—National Soil Conservation award. He was recipient of a gold watch for being the outstanding club boy of Hall County for the past year. The gift was presented by Elmont Branigan.

Winfred Russell—Farm and Home Safety medal.

Daniel Davidson—National Safety Contest award.

Garvis Kennard—National Safety Contest award.

Gold Tournament Winners Named

Winning team of the Low Ball tournament held Sunday at the Memphis Country Club was composed of Andy DeWees, J. W. Coppedge and Nelson Combest.

Joe Lopez, club pro, announced this week. The team shot the 18 holes with nine strokes under par.

Four teams tied for second and third places, all recording five strokes under par, Lopez said.

These teams were composed of Lewis Foxhall, Mack Wilson and Gayle Monzingo; Rufus Grisham, Adrian Combs and Frank Garrett; W. W. Dunn, Ben Parks, Jr., and Herschel Potts; Herschel Combs Ace Galley and W. C. Davis.

Local linksmen will enter another tournament Sunday, the pro-manager stated, although he did not name the kind.

Hollywood Stars Will Appear at Boys Ranch Rodeo

Rogers' own band directed by Hollywood, the Whippoorwill and Georgia Brown will be featured attraction and will furnish music and entertainment for the opening Eighth Annual Boys Ranch Rodeo.

The band is featured in all Roy Rogers' movies and on his radio programs and they are well-known on stage, screen, radio and television.

The Whippoorwill and Georgia Brown will appear at both performances, 2:30 Sunday, August 31 and 8:00 Monday, September 1, at the Boys' Ranch Rodeo to be held at the Tri-State Fair Area, Amarillo, Tex.

The Labor Day Weekend event will be held in addition to the all-rounder, such outstanding attractions as the world famous Bit Spur Riding Club of Kansas and Bud Lucas and his Rodeobats, a troupe of excellent acrobatic entertainers.

The Boys' Ranchers are planning to present several special acts including trick riding and clown acts in addition to the regular events of the rodeo. The Will Rogers Riders of Amarillo are going to sponsor the show.

It will be a star-studded show with several other Hollywood celebrities making a trip to the Texas rodeo over the Labor Day weekend.

The parade made up of hundreds of beautiful horses and silver-mounted parade equipment, expert riders and the Boys' Ranchers' and their special guests will precede the rodeo on Saturday, August 30 in downtown Amarillo.

All proceeds from the rodeo will go to the expansion program at Boys' Ranch which will help provide for more boys at the Ranch. Admission prices are $1.50 for adults for general admission and 75c for children. Tickets for reserved seats are $2.25. Tickets

Testing of Soil Proves Valuable

There is no point in swapping even dollars. But, when you can swap one for eight, that is good business. Ed Detrixhe, a Hemphill County wheat farmer made that kind of a swap this year on his wheat crop.

Hemphill county agent Walter Grist says it all started as a result of a soil test. Mr. Detrixhe submitted a soil sample to the Texas A. & M. College Cysem's Extension Service Soils Laboratory and then carried out the recommendations on his farm. M. K. Thornton, agricultural chemist in charge of the lab, makes recommendations on fertilizer usage and cropping practices as a part of the soil testing service.

Here is the story as reported by Grist. Mr. Detrixhe applied 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre to 80 acres of wheat and when he had finished combining, he found that this field had produced an average of 35 bushels per acre against a 11 to 14 bushel average for the unfertilized acreage. That increase of better than 20 bushels per acre paid him $8 in return for each $1 spent for fertilizer, and Grist believes the 35 bushels is some kind of a record for dry-land wheat.

Considering that the average Texas farmer last year made an average net return of $4 for every $1 spent for fertilizer, Ed Detrixhe did exceptionally well when he doubled this figure, says Grist. It goes without saying, adds Grist, that Mr. Detrixhe is sold on soil testing.

Local county agents can supply information on how to take and submit soil samples to the laboratory for testing.

Hot Weather Even Hard on Fish, According to Wildlife Specialist

Hot, dry weather is even hard on the finny tribe, especially those in farm ponds. The number of reports received from over the state during the mid-summer months, says R. E. Callender, specialist in wildlife conservation for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reflect to a large measure the type of weather that prevails.

Fish in farm ponds may die from parasites or diseases, poison in the water or depleted supply of oxygen, says the specialist. The shortage of oxygen is listed as the most common cause of fish die-off in the summer time. Callender says fish suffering from a lack of oxygen come to the surface gasping and swim into the shallow water. They sometimes, in desperation, jump out on the bank.

Wave action is very important to maintaining a supply of oxygen in the water, and during periods when this action is at a minimum trouble may develop. Also, he says, the pond vegetation, including various pond weeds and microscopic algae, take up carbon dioxide in the water and release oxygen. This process is slowed down during cloudy periods due to lack of sunlight. At this time of the year, when there is often little wind and some cloudy weather, fish may suffer.

When fish show symptoms of being short on oxygen, Callender says stir up the water by running boats propelled with outboard motors over the pond. This will assist in building up the amount of oxygen in the water and since the calm periods are often of short durations, such action may save the fish.

Callender points out that heavy applications of fertilizer should not be applied to ponds during July and August, especially in ponds that are heavily infested with pond mosses. The fertilizer stimulates the growth of microscopic algae to such an extent that the water is clouded up and sunlight cannot penetrate the water to sustain the life of the vegetation. This decaying vegetation in decomposing, takes up the free oxygen in the water and thus worsens the oxygen situation.

Fish, he says, sometimes die from poison getting into the water. Toxophene and DDT are deadly to fish and when they have been on crops or grasshoppers on the pond watershed, heavy rains following their application may wash them into the pond.

Parasites sometimes cause fish to die but generally, says the specialist, parasites don't cause heavy losses. Heavy infestations of parasites do lower the vitality of fish and may contribute to their death. The yellow grub is the most common of the parasites infesting fish. Others include the threadworm or nematodes, spiny-headed worms, tapeworms and flukes. None of these parasites found in this country are harmful to man, says Callender.

Controlling parasites in the farm pond is a tough job, explains the specialist, but in severe infestations, draining the pond and letting it stand dry for several months will help.

The X-Ray Provides 'Crystal Ball' Predicting Physical Future

The crystal ball and the reader have been moved into scientific fields today. With the aid of the x-ray physical future can be read your physical future from the bones of your hand and feet.

"Bone reading" is not standard for all children. Only children who are failing to grow properly, either growing too fast or too slow, need this kind of medical diagnosis of the development of the body.

Long bones of the body, which make you grow tall, grow by stages, in development which are "skeletal age." Some grow much faster than physically or mentally; who grow too fast or too slow require medical help the way to keep them from growing an oddity.

Similar to the teeth buds in the gums before the teeth start forming and erupting, there are buds on the ends of the long bones. Like teeth, these buds on the bones develop from tiny spots as viewed in the x-ray picture to full-grown caps on these bones. When the caps have completely covered the ends of the bones, then the bone stops growing.

This capping of the bones usually takes place in the later teens. At certain ages as the child is growing, the x-rays of the long bones in the hand and wrist will show how far that "bone bud" has developed towards becoming a "bone cap." If that bud becomes a cap too quickly, the growth of the child stops and he is usually very small. On the other hand, failure of those buds to form a solid cap leads to over-growth of the child, growth that does not stop around the normal ages. Many small children have perfectly normal development of these bone buds, called epiphyses. They are destined to be smaller than average, but they are developing properly for their final height, their full schedule of growth. Other small children may show a definite retarding of the bud development, and when the "buds" are not developing normally the medical treatment is aimed at finding the cause.

Further studies of the bones by x-rays can often tell the whole story of why the child is not growing properly. The fascinating story of your past and your future as told by your bones requires a highly skilled reader to interpret, but malnutrition or a bad illness with fever will each leave tell-tale marks in or on the bones which the x-ray can portray and the reader can comprehend.

Those bone buds in the skeleton of your body are under the control of the growth gland, the pituitary gland, a tiny pouch in the middle of the head. They are also under the control of your diet.

Work Progressing On New Drive-In Theatre

Work was progressing at a rapid rate this week on the new Drive-In theatre located west of Memphis on the Lakeview highway, according to a report by Bill Boren, owner, this week.

Boren said that entries in the contest to name the new theatre are now being received at the box offices at the Palace and Ritz Theatres in Memphis. He announced last June that he would permit the public to help choose the name of his new theatre, and would give a lifetime pass to the person submitting the winning name.

"Each person who has a name to submit in this contest should take it to either of the theatres in Memphis," Boren said. Each person should list his or her name on a sheet of paper along with the name they suggest for the new theatre. Also, the date the entry is made should be plainly marked.

The owner stated that the last suggestion is being made to eliminate ties.

"In case two or more persons suggest the winning name, the first person filing his or her entry at one of the box offices will be declared winner," he added.

The contest closes at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 2, Boren said.

Three prominent business men will act as judges in the naming contest. They will select the most appropriate name for the new theatre, and the person submitting that name will be notified.

"Construction of my new drive-in theatre in Memphis and this area is progressing at a rapid rate," the owner stated. "It will be as nice as any theatre of its kind in the Southwest, and will be able to take care of all theatre-goers."

Boren said that cost of the theatre is estimated at $50,000. N. A. Jordan Construction Company of Fort Worth has the contract for the job, and plans call for erection of the screen and frame Thursday or Friday of

Hints On Defoliating Cotton Plant Offered

COLLEGE STATION — The ever increasing use of machines for harvesting cotton have also increased the use of chemicals as plant defoliants. Defoliating the cotton plant, says Fred C. Elliott, cotton work specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is a practice, when properly carried out, will materially improve the machine harvesting job.

Here are Elliott's suggestions on doing a successful job. The timing of the application of the defoliant is very important. In order to get maximum staple length development and yield, Elliott says the defoliant should be applied no sooner than 35 days after the period of maximum blooming. Another way to time the application is to wait 30 days after the cotton has quit making or when the youngest bolls are 30 days old. This condition will exist in most fields when about 10 per cent of the bolls are open. The defoliant should be applied from ten days to two weeks prior to intended picking dates in Central and South Texas and from two to three weeks on the high Plains. When calcium cyanamide is used as a dust, the plants must be wet with dew or when adequate dew is forecast. The chemical to be most effective must remain in moisture on the leaf for at least two hours but four or more hours of moist exposure are preferred. Monosodium cyanamide does not depend on dew for activation but takes the needed moisture from the air or from the leaf. The leaves, however, should be green and not wilted, says Elliott.

Spray defoliants may be used in the absence of dew and when humidity is low; however, the specialist emphasizes that the plant must be thoroughly covered with the material. If an airplane is used for applying the defoliant a flagman should always be used. Fenders should be used on ground equipment in rank cotton.

Elliott points out that a defoliation job is obtained when the cotton is mature, leaves are wilted or, toughened by frost or starved by a lack of soil moisture, when plant moisture is adequate and the weather is warm. He emphasizes the importance of using weather forecasts as a guide when defoliants are being applied.

Defoliate only enough to stay ahead of the picking. Elliott and he warns against over-defoliation that is not necessary to its exact chemical content. Using chemicals as defoliants which have not been tested injure the open fiber, the unopened bolls or worst of all may create fire hazards at the gin.

One final caution, Elliott says, before making the application thoroughly clean the spray pumps, lines and nozzles to move residues left in the equipment by liquid insecticides. Spray machines should be flushed with water after each day's operation.

Annual Feast For Booster Club To Be Held Friday

The annual watermelon feast sponsored by the Cyclone Booster Club will be held Friday, evening at 8 o'clock according to an announcement by E. S. "Peck" Morrison, board member, this week.

"We want to invite not only members of the Booster Club, but every citizen who is interested in football and the athletic program to attend this feast," Morrison said.

Booster Club officers plan to have plenty of ice cold watermelon on hand.

"Persons attending will be given an opportunity to visit with the coaches, and to get acquainted with this year's football team," Morrison added.

Summer Program To End Saturday With Youth Party

The summer recreation program will wind up Saturday night with a party in the American Legion Hall, Ted Meyers, city recreation director announced today.

The "back to school party" will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is for boys and girls of all ages. "I wish to extend an invitation to everyone to attend this party," Myers said.

Parents of some of the youths will act as chaperones and help serve refreshments for the party.

The youths may dress up in western style if they wish to do so, Myers said. He also expressed his thanks to everyone for their wonderful support of the summer recreation program.

PEACH PRESERVES — UNUSUAL!

Unusually Good — Unusually Easy

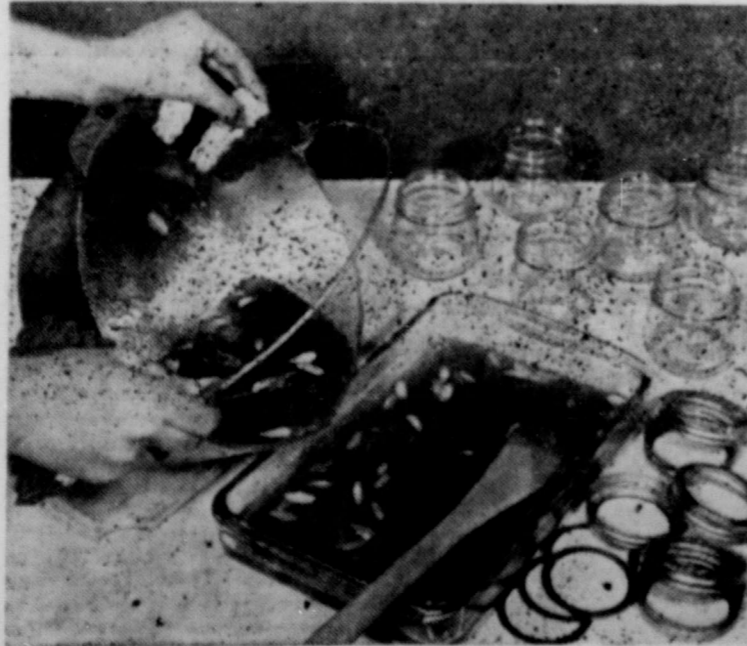

This new, easy method and how-to-do photos courtesy of Jean Porter, C and H Homemakers' Bureau

1. Peel and dice coarsely 4 or 5 ripe, rich-flavored peaches—enough to measure 4 cups after dicing. Measure 3 cups C and H Pure Cane Granulated Sugar. Slinger 1/2 cup blanched almonds, and slice 1/2 cup Maraschino cherries, ready for use later.

2. Add sugar to peaches in large, broad kettle. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly; boil, stirring frequently, 20 to 25 minutes, until peaches look almost transparent. Add almonds and cherries, and again heat to boiling.

3. Pour hot preserves into a shallow pan, and stir occasionally while cooling. Let stand overnight. (This permits peaches to absorb syrup, and prevents them from floating.) Spoon the cold preserves into hot, sterilized small jars, and seal at once. Makes about 2 pints of bright, fine-flavored spread.

Wm. Travis PTA Stresses Need For Larger Year's Membership

By MRS. BRAY COOK
President of Wm. Travis PTA
Officers of the Wm. Travis Parent Teacher Association this week direct the following appeal to all parents and other interested adults in this community; In a few days school will begin again, and the P. T. A. needs you. It needs you because there is work to be done for America's children and youth—work that will not wait. It doesn't take a child long to grow up, and growing up under undesirable conditions may mean tragedy for the child and loss to the nation. By joining forces with 6,589,516 other citizens who are members of P.T.A.'s you can:

1. Help build a nation of homes in which children are loved and parents and children alike enjoy a satisfying home life.
2. Establish good home-school relations so that the child's most intimate and powerful educators can do together what neither can do alone.
3. Open the doors of educational opportunity to all children—and to all adults who believe that education never ends.
4. Guided by trusted leadership share in determining the kind of school program that inspires good teaching and effective learning. Most parents, it is safe to say, want the schools to give their children (1) fundamental knowledge, (2) skill to find and hold a job, and (3) faith in God, their country, their fellow men, and themselves.

5. Take an active part in doing something practical and effective about juvenile delinquency—not only in its treatment but in its prevention.

6. Add your voice to millions of other voices that demand and enforce laws protecting children and youth.

7. Make a strong and successful attack, beginning with your own community, on all influences that tend to destroy children's happiness and security.

8. Keep informed on the findings of those who have made a lifework of understanding youth people, and see that these findings are put into practice.

9. Join in carrying out the pledges made to America's children at the Midcentury White House Conference. These pledges are all designed to help children develop the mental, emotional, and spiritual qualities essential to individual happiness and responsible citizenship, and to create the conditions necessary for this development.

10. Strive with like minded men and women to hasten the advent of a world at peace.

The Candidates and Socialized Medicine

Judging by the statements of the principal candidates for the top government offices, the advocates of socialized medicine or of politically-dominated medicine haven't been doing so well.

In a general statement in which he reiterated his opposition to the centralization of power in Washington, General Eisenhower said that we must "support medical education by private means, because if we didn't it would be the first step toward the socialization of medicine, and I am against socialization."

Governor Stevenson said, "I am against the socialization of the practice of medicine as much as I would be against the socialization of my own profession, the law . . ."

Senator Nixon said, "It seems to me that the objective toward which we should work in the United States is a system where eventually anybody who wants health insurance can get it . . . But where no one . . . is compelled to take out such insurance against his will."

Senator Sparkman said, "I would be opposed to any plan which I thought would, in effect, socialize medicine, and to any medical program which would destroy the relationship of doctor and patient."

No doubt these leaders will have more to say on the subject as the campaign progresses, as will the various Congressional candidates. But it seems that those who are seeking the presidency and the vice-presidency are solidly opposed to socializing medicine or making the doctor the tool of bureaucrats. The nation can be thankful for their attitudes.

LABOR DAY—AND HOW!

Press Paragraphs—

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Political Philosophies
It's the same old story as was told so many times in 1948 as well as in other election years. One Republican magazine comes out with the optimistic news—for the Republicans—that "a private poll" in California has given Eisenhower 53 per cent of the votes and Stevenson 39 per cent. Even though such polls, if reliable, would tend to help the cause of the favored candidate, the public is not fooled. Every poll for the last 20 years has favored the Republican candidate. Despite the verdict of the voters on election day, these poll takers are not deterred.

Just for the record, the maximum Republican vote for all times is 22.3 million. The Democratic minimum in the past five elections is 22.8 million. In 1948, Democrats polled 24.1 million. So in order to win, the Republicans must make some terrific inroads into Democratic territory.

We doubt if Truman was more popular in 1948 than Stevenson in 1952.
So far as Tullis is concerned, we find many more people who admit they are going to vote for Stevenson than people in 1948 who would indicate their preference for Truman.

During the weeks before the November election, examine all the facts and don't be influenced by polls, by newspaper columnists, by slanted news stories, by radio commentators. This is a time for cool, clear thinking. Too much is at stake.
So far as personalities are concerned, we have two fine men running for President. We admire Eisenhower a great deal as an honest, sincere Christian man. We admire him even more as a military leader.
"Why then," someone asks, "do you support Stevenson if you admit Eisenhower is a good, sincere man?"

The answer lies in the philosophies of the two major political parties. It isn't that we think one party is more honest or sincere than the other. There are exceedingly competent, honest as well as selfish, incompetent and greedy men on both sides of the fence. Such qualities of characters as unselfishness, statesmanship, reliability, greediness, dishonesty do not follow party lines.
But back of all these qualities which meet the eye are philosophies.

Let's explain it this way: Do you know honest, sincere, competent men in this community whom you would never want on the school board or city commission? They're good men, but they'd never favor building a new school building.
"Let the kids be educated like they were when I was in school 60 years ago," they would argue with vigor and honesty.

They would consistently oppose every progressive movement which came their way, whether it be a new church building or an enlarged sewer system.
We find the identical situation in national politics.
We find millions of honest, sincere, well meaning Republicans. But when it comes to running the country, too often they are not equal to the task of meeting an emergency not because of any deficiency in character but because they are too conservative for the good of the country.

Back in the early '30s when wheat was bringing 20 cents a bushel here in the Panhandle they said, "Let the law of supply and demand reign." When the Democrats subsidized the price of farm products, in order to prevent national bankruptcy of farmers these conservatives were loud with their opposition.

The law of supply and demand is a beautiful sounding phrase for the politician. And it works well in the long range picture. In other words, if for some reason the world's population decides it no longer wants or needs wheat, then the demand has ceased and wheat farmers can start raising something for which there is a demand.
But from the practical standpoint, the farmer can starve to death while he is waiting for the law of supply and demand to adjust itself. If during a particular year the world crop is so bountiful that the price of wheat is forced down to 20 cents a bushel the farmer can decide to plant cotton next year—but what is he going to tell Marvin Charlie and the groceryman in the meantime?
We've got to have men in Washington who are alert to emergencies and will act in time to do some good. How many persons' savings would have been protected if Hoover in 1929 or 1930 had in-

An ultra conservative could never get the job done.

And so, that is why we support the Democratic candidate—not because of the personalities of the candidates, but because of the philosophies of the parties.

Just for fun, we've been tabulating the types of people who agree and disagree with this column's political ideas. Strangely enough, we have had no opposition from the old age pensioner. Of all classes of people, this is one who has a genuine beef. However, he may look at it this way—under the Republicans he didn't even get a pension. We've had no complaint from the person attempting to live on his insurance annuity—and perhaps he has a gripe. But, perhaps he realizes that this thing works both ways. During the depression of the '30s he was sitting on top of the world financially.

Some people complain about their government bonds being worth less because the dollar has shrank since they bought them. Don't this also work both ways? Isn't our whole system of investment and speculation based on contemplated changes in the value of the dollar? Over a period of years, just as many people will be benefitted when they are paid off with dollars whose buying power is swollen.

Who then has been disagreeing with this column?

We had one letter from a man who sold out at what he thought was the top boom. He doubled his investment several times. He expected the bottom to drop out within the next few months and he would be able to buy back his farm and other property at a fraction of what he sold it for. In other words, he expected to further feather his nest when depression came. To this man, a depression would have been a blessing.

But it didn't come, so it makes him mad when he is reminded that we still have prosperity with us. Yet the farmer talks about those "greedy crooks in Washington."

"All my life I've wanted to own a Buick"

Power Steering now available on Super as well as Roadmaster—optional at extra cost.

It seems that owning a Buick is something that a lot of folks dream about plan for—and finally do.

They say that because, so many times, they say so in words like those above. Those words make us happy, of course happy to know we sell a car which means so much to those who own it.

But they make us feel just a little bit sad well—sad to realize all the years of such folks have been missing for no good reason at all.

For the fact is this: you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick.

you can afford the thrill of bossing around that big Fireball 8 Engine that purrs forth a mighty flow of power.

You can afford the gas bills—as any owner of a 1952 Buick will tell you—because that high-compression, valve-in-head marvel gets a lot of miles from a gallon of fuel.

You can afford the extra luxury of a real million dollar ride—the silken smoothness of Dynaflo Drive*—the extra room and comfort and style that have put Buick popularity right up at the top of the list, next to the "low-priced three."

So if you want to own a Buick—there's just one thing to do: Come in—pick the one of your choice—and let us show you how close the figure that goes on the bill of sale comes to what you'd pay elsewhere.

As we've said before, your first car can be a Buick. Why not take the Big Step right away—today?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Sure is true for '52

THANKS To My Friends

Of Precinct No. 2

I want to use this method of thanking all you people who gave me your support in my race for Commissioner—both in the First Primary and the Run-Off Election last Saturday. It certainly makes a man feel good to hear the nice things I have heard since the returns were reported. Although I did not receive enough votes to be elected as your County Commissioner, I have learned to know the people of my precinct better, and to appreciate their friendship more. After all these are the things in life which count the most.

If I can return your past favors at any time, please call upon me.

TRAVAILS WITH A DONKEY—One of the Boys' Ranch cowhands trains Aloysius for his part in the coming Eight Annual Boys' Ranch Rodeo. All the young Ranchers will participate in the various events and will be hosts to a number of celebrities who will appear during the two-day rodeo at the Fair Grounds Arena in Amarillo, August 31 and September 1.

Boys' Ranch Rodeo Set for Labor Day

The young cowhands from America's First Boys' Ranch, coming out of the chutes on bucking broncs and bulls, will furnish all of the excitement of any professional affair at their Eighth Annual Boys' Ranch Rodeo over the Labor Day weekend.

Spectators will get a chance to see the results of months and sometimes years of practice on the part of the 152 boys at Boy's Ranch. Every boy at the Ranch will participate in at least one event of the show and there will be such added attractions as trick riding and roping and the clown acts. The boys have acquired skill associated with professionals and guarantee the audience plenty of spills and action.

Two performances of the rodeo are to be given over the weekend at the Tri-State Rodeo Arena in Amarillo. The first will be at 2:30, Sunday, August 31 and the second at 8:00, Monday, September 1.

It is expected that this year's show will be the biggest and most colorful the boys have ever staged with such celebrities as the world famous Bit and Spur Riding Club of Kansas City, Bud Lucas and his Rodeo Acrobats, and to furnish music for the rodeo are the stars of stage, screen, radio and television, the Whipoorwill and Georgia Brown, who appear with Roy Rogers on his programs and in the movies.

Amarillo Will Rogers Range Riders serve as sponsors for the boys' show and will be on hand to lend assistance, but the show will be made up entirely of Boys' Ranchers'. The stock for the rodeo will be furnished by Lynn Buetler.

All proceeds from the rodeo will be used for the Boys' Ranch expansion program. General Admission tickets which may be used for either performance will be on sale at $1.50 for adults and 75c for children. Reserved seats are priced at $2.25. Tickets will be available by mail, at B. F. Goodrich, Vance Hall Sporting Goods and Henry Blackburn's Sporting Goods stores in Amarillo or at the arena the days of the rodeo.

Sim Goodall returned home last week from Baylor University where he has been attending school this summer.

Kulp Plumbing Company Features 3 Big Names In Plumbing Fixtures

The Kulp Plumbing Company, 505 West Main St., features three big names in plumbing fixtures—American Standard, Crane and Kohler. Both tubs, all grades of commodes, kitchen sinks, lavatories, water heaters, floor furnaces, wall heaters and all accessories for these fixtures are available at Kulp's. Owned and operated by Charlie Kulp, the firm does contract work for any kind of plumbing job, large or small. Kulp and his helper, Ira Whitehead, are on call at any time for repair work service calls. Helping to run the office and keep books for the company are Mrs. Kulp and their daughters, Barbara, 16, and Helen, 14. Barbara and Helen are also talented musicians on the piano and accord-ian respectfully. Kulp and his family moved here from Pottstown, Pa., in June of last year. With his brother, Carl, he bought and remodeled the building on Main St. Vena's Dress Shop occupies half of the building. Back home in Pottstown, Kulp worked for one of the largest plumbing and heating firms in that area. He ran all of the big jobs for the company besides handling estimates and blue print work. Kulp has been in the plumbing business ever since he finished high school in Pottstown in 1932. He was born in that city in 1914 and obtained all of his schooling there. He was an apprentice plumber for the required five years and was a journeyman plumber for five more. He became a master plumber in 1942. It is much more difficult to get a master plumber's rating in the East than it is here. A plumber must have had ten years' experience before he can take the examination. To pass the exam one must be an expert at any kind of plumbing work. Kulp's hobbies are hunting and fishing and history. On the latter, he is interested in finding all the historical facts he can about the region where he lives. He is a store-house of knowledge on early Pennsylvania, especially Pottstown which is celebrating its 200th anniversary this year. He doesn't have to go back that far to learn the history of this section, but he is interested in finding out all he can about the early days in this part of the West.

HALL COUNTY ... Rich In Opportunities

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Congressman, 18th District
By Walter Rogers

ADIAN RIVER DAM: The ample water supply in the state of Texas has been beyond any reasonable argument to the contrary. Little force in the drought from which we suffered. This need has long been recognized by those who are with all of the facts. It is that some questioned the possibility of such a project and all necessary facts in connection with it. This procedure is the possibility of a dam project. Certainly the dam project is not a "pork barrel" project. I do not believe the West Texas would even be operating such. Although the dam has appeared slow project, it has been substruction of the project when the funds were available. At the passage of this authorization commitments were made to the effect that appropriations would not be sought until the emergency was over. These commitments were made to senators who were objecting to the passage of the legislation and whose objections would have killed the measure and required the introduction of a new bill and the loss of all progress that had been made up to that date. Efforts are now being made to satisfy these senators that the project is necessary and seeking release from these commitments. All necessary legislation in addition to the original authorization has been passed save and except the appropriation for the actual construction of the dam. As most of you know, preliminary survey work has been going on this summer and much detail work has been accomplished. Our efforts here will continue and we hope to obtain some definite action in the next Congress.

THE CATTLEFEED SITUATION: The tragic disaster that has hit the cattle people is going to do great damage to our section. The Department of Agriculture advises me that there is grain available for feed purposes for the reason that there is no oats, barley or sorghum stored in Texas by the Government. This certainly came as a surprise to me in view of the tremendous amount of feed raised in Texas. The Department advises that the facilities for storage are being used for wheat, which is of course too high for the farmer, rancher or feeders to use. The nearest available grain is corn stored in Kansas, which must be sold at 105 percent of the support price, plus a carrying charge. This means that the price would be several cents more than the same corn could be purchased on the open market.

TAXES: It is encouraging to note that many seeking public office or re-election are speaking favorably of the possibility of some tax relief. There was much ado in the last Congress about the various cuts in appropriations. The President now acknowledges that by reason of this economy wave, progress has been made toward a balanced budget. It is my considered opinion that a continuation of this economy wave, plus the closing of tax loopholes will result in a surplus in the 1953-1954 fiscal year, and there is still a possibility that the 1952-53 fiscal year will not result in a deficit. If such is the case, we can of course get tax relief sooner than expected. I am glad to see the trend downward in government spending and hope that the speed of this trend will increase in the next Congress. The cuts made by the last Congress have proven that there are many services that the people can do without and not be missed. There are some services that can be abolished without undue interference to the public. If these can bring about early tax relief, certainly they should be abolished.

THE MEETING IN MOSCOW: There has been much conjecture about the meeting between the Chinese Red high officials and the Kremlin. One observation is that the tremendous build up of strength by the United States in Japan has convinced the Reds that further conduct of the war in Korea would be futile. Some feel that the meeting has brought to a head the suspected differences between the Red Chinese and the Russians as to the Russians' failure to carry out previous arms commitments. If such is the case, it could explain the Stalin called meeting of the party—the first since 1939—to set up a five-year plan to increase production.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Jones are with her daughter, Mrs. R. E. "Swede" Roark. Mr. Roark, who had polio several weeks ago, has returned to his home in Fort Worth and is reported to be recovering nicely.
