Cyclones Whirl Over Tulia Hornets 31-14

The Memphis Cyclones, hitting on the ground and in the air, whirled over the Hornets from Tulia, 31-14, to win their first game of the season, and thrill some 2,000 fans who had gathered in Cyclone Stadium Friday night.

The game was close for the first three quarters, with both teams showing a fine offense. In the first three periods, the lead changed hands three times before the Cyclones of Coach George Childress pulled out front to stay.

Three of the Memphis backfield quartet got into the scoring act. Harvey Kennedy scored two touchdowns, Duke Frisbie, one, and Davey Corley, one. Carol Gardenhire, end, got the other TD on a long pass from Jimmie Morrison.

Duane Luke, representing Tulia's Hornets, carried his team's losing cause by scoring both TD's and converting both extra points.

Memphis' offense rolled to 312 yards on the ground and 139 in the air to make a total of 451 yards. They were never forced to punt.

Memphis struck for touchdowns from 70 yards out twice, 55 yards 50 yards, and 14 yards. The Cyclones broke up a tight ball game in the fourth quarter after marching 96 yards to score. After that it was the Cyclone's game all the way.

The second half opened and both teams scored swiftly. Tulia took the kickoff and returned to its own 37. In five plays the Hornets went 63 yards to score with Luke going the last 37 yards on a churning off tackle smash. Tulia had a temporary lead of 14 to 12.

Memphis regained the lead several plays later. Cyclone tackle, Gayle Monzingo recovered a Tulia fumble on the midfield stripe. On the first play, Kennedy broke into the open, reversed his field and covered 50 yards for the TD. Mackie Allen's kick was good and Memphis led 19 to 14.

In the final quarter, Davey Corley climaxed a 96-yard TD drive with a 14-yard end caper. Then after a pass interception by Julius Stevens, Frisbie, on a keep off the I-formation, went 55 yards to hit pay dirt again for the Memphis Cyclones.

Memphis had another touchdown drive in motion when the game ended. The Cyclones had the ball on the four yard line.

The first half was full of exciting play as both elevens displayed outstanding offensive maneuvers. Memphis' offense, when it didn't fizzle, couldn't be stopped.

the passing of Morrison, breezed 70 yards for two touchdowns—one in each of the first and second quarters.

In the first quarter, Morrison heaved a pass to Kennedy in the end zone for a touchdown in a play that netted 27 yards. The play capped the Cyclone 70-yard march which started after the opening kickoff of the game.

Tulia took the second kickoff of the game and started for the Memphis goal with determination. The first two Hornet plays were good for first downs and netted 43 yards. They were able to get the ball to the Memphis 26 when they were stopped—but only temporarily.

Two plays later, Frisbie, Cyclone quarterback, fumbled, and Tulia recovered on the Cyclone 33. The first quarter ended only seconds later, with Memphis ahead 6-0.

Luke hit Jimmie Nelson with a pass to the Memphis 3. On two plunges, Luke picked up the yards for the score. He then booted the extra point to put his team ahead 7-0.

Stevens fumbled on the Tulia kickoff and Clyde Dalluge recovered for Tulia on the Cyclone 31.

Tulia drove to the 15 before being forced to give up the ball on downs.

After Kennedy picked up 15 yards to the 30, Morrison faded back again and threw a long pass to Gardenhire who snared the ball on the Tulia 40. He picked his way along shaking off several Hornet tacklers, got a key block from Kennedy which sent two men sprawling on the 10-yard line and then lumbered into the end zone. The play covered 70 yards and put Memphis in front 12 to 7 with 58 seconds left in the half.

Q—A friend of mine, the widow of a serviceman who was killed in Korea, is planning to remarry soon. She has been getting indemnity payments as a result of his death. Will the payments stop after she remarries?

A—No. The remarriage of the widow will have no effect on the indemnity payments, and she will continue to receive them.

Q—Is VA medical treatment available to World War II veterans studying under the GI Bill?

A—A veteran-student is entitled only to such medical treatment from VA as he would otherwise get by virtue of his military service. The World War II GI Bill makes no special provision for medical treatment of trainees.

Q—I recently received a gift of several hundred dollars from my son. In figuring out my annual income—for purposes of getting a VA pension—do I count the gift as income?

A—Yes. Gifts are counted in determining annual income for pension purposes.

Q—I lost a leg in service, and I recently obtained an auto-bile with special attachments, VA paying $1,600 toward the cost of the car. Is the car exempt from taxation by my State, because it was purchased with Federal funds?

A—No. Unless the State provides for such exemption. Although VA paid part of the cost of the car, you still are required to pay city, county or State taxes if they are called for.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Congressman, 18th District
By Walter Rogers

THE TAX PROBLEM FOR THE NEXT FEW YEARS: One of the most fights in Congress for the next few years will not be along alone to cutting government expenditures in numerous places. The biggest problem will be to see that the benefits of expenditure cuts benefit the individual taxpayers. History repeats the cutting of government expenditures in various ways does not always mean relief for the taxpayer. So many of the money saved by expenditure cuts in one field have been used in other fields for the purpose of additional schemes, resulting in no tax reduction. Many of you have ever seen a tax law being repealed? Sometimes additional taxes are added and the people are told that the money collected from the new taxes will be used as a substitute for those that have been collected from some other source in the past. Looking again to history, we find that such has not been the case. The so-called "substitute" tax is usually misnamed, because it ends up as an additional tax burden. Once a tax has been levied, whether it be local, state or federal, it usually stays on the books.

A good example is the income tax. This originated as a tax that would be fair and equitable tax borne equally by all according to income, and a tax that would provide measurable reduction in taxes heretofore collected from other tax sources. This same theory has been used in many states and cities to pass local and state income tax laws. The same is true of the sales tax. However, the result has always been the same. The money collected from these additional so-called "substitute" taxes has never been sufficient to effect a reduction in other taxes. Actually, the existence of the funds thereby collected has always resulted in increased governmental expenditures providing additional services by the government to the people, many of which were not solicited and not wanted.

The job that Congress will have in the next few years is to see that cuts in federal spending result in direct benefit to the individual taxpayer in the form of a reduced tax bill. It makes little difference who may be President or which party may have control of Congress, this job is going to be just as big, for the simple reason that most politicians, regardless of party, regardless of platform, and regardless of promises, seem to recognize as a cardinal rule that expenditures by the government providing all kinds of services to the citizens will sustain them in power.

It is my belief that such a rule is false, especially in the Panhandle of Texas, that our people would much prefer that government services be confined to necessary services, and that the individual retain possession and control of as many of his dollars as possible. However, the fact remains that it is no less difficult than in yesteryear to repeal or reduce a tax levy. We are gaining much strength in our efforts to bring tax relief to the individual taxpayer, and I sincerely hope that this gain will continue.

THE VETERANS HOUSING SCANDALS: The report that was recently released by a select committee condemning the practice of some builders preying upon veterans should not only awaken the building trade, but should also awaken the veteran. Many of the veterans bought homes relying upon the representations of fast talking real estate promoters. This has proven to be a sad experience for many of them. Let us hope that in the future the veteran will get his contracts in writing and will go into the matter fully as to what he is paying for and what he is to get. It is too bad that some people have dropped so low in their morals that they would prey upon a boy who has so ably and patriotically served his country. The veteran certainly had the right to rely upon representations of his fellow man, but the fact remains that in many cases he has been taken. This experience naturally results in causing the veteran to look with suspicion on all people in that business.

The building trade, realizing that the unscrupulous practices of a few in their ranks brings condemnation on the entire trade, has commenced a program to adjust wrongs and weed out the unscrupulous. The success of their efforts in this respect will determine whether or not federal legislation will be passed. The veterans who have been wronged are certainly entitled to redress, and it is up to those who have committed the wrong to provide the redress. The unscrupulous practices uncovered on the part of the builders was an indirect raid on the public treasury. These practices not only affected the veterans but the final result will be an impact on the taxpayer. The loans on these houses are insured by the federal government. If the loans are not paid, then the federal government becomes responsible. This means that if a borrower defaults in the payment of a loan on a house that was purchased for $12,000.00 and the house is sold at a foreclosure sale for less than the amount of the loan at the time of default, the federal government becomes liable for the difference. The many defects in some of these houses could easily reduce the value of the house by several thousand dollars. This, plus a slight downturn in the real estate market, could easily result in liability of the federal government for several thousand dollars on many of these defective houses. John Q. Taxpayer would, of course, end up paying the bill.

Mrs. T. E. Whaley and son Joe, went to Bowie Saturday to visit relatives for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Knight and son and Mrs. T. J. Hampton spent Sunday in Floydada with relatives.

WE WANT OUR NEIGHBORS TO KNOW THE FACTS—

about the Church of Christ in Italy: January 14, 1949 fourteen workers, six of them wives of the missionaries began evangelistic and benevolent work in Frascati, Italy. Some of these workers had served in the U. S. Army during the liberation of Italy and determined to return there after the war as soldiers of peace. As a result of bombing raids during the war it was difficult for these missionaries to find housing during the winter and they were obliged to live under very poor conditions.

Despite language barriers their work met with enthusiastic results from the first. Within the first month audiences more than 300 were attending the meetings. More than $10,000.00 worth of clothing and food packages were distributed during their early efforts. This benevolent work was only when Italian authorities froze the incoming packages in customs and would not permit the missionaries to leave the them.

JOB VIOLENCE, threats, and persecutions attended the success made by the missionaries. Religious leaders and priests challenged the men to debate and were accepted. These discussions attracted large audiences and some of the subjects discussed were "The infallibility of the pope", "The doctrine of transubstantiation", "The doctrine of the primacy of Peter", "The doctrine of the Arian confession," etc. These religious discussions failed so signally on the part of the challengers and in gaining such attention for the missionaries that the authorities called an immediate halt to them and threatened any missionary with automatic excommunication who returned to the "Protestants".

AN ORPHANAGE for boys, had been opened in the first months of the Italian mission work. Thousands roamed the streets. About the 24th of December, 1949, the home was ordered closed by the authorities.

When pressure to force these workers from the country reached its peak public opinion was aroused in America and the intercession of the U. S. State Department the missionaries were all wed to remain in Italy and the orphanage continued in operation. According to recent newspaper reports a thousand converts have been made and twenty congregations established.

About the Church of Christ in this community:

WE DEPLORE religious oppression or intolerance anywhere. We fear any totalitarian power that denies religious freedom to any group, whether Catholic, Protestant, or any other religion. We do not believe that every religious doctrine is acceptable, but we do believe that it is our given right and duty of every individual to investigate, personally and make his own decision concerning religion. We have raised no voice of protest against any missionary coming from Italy or any other country to propagate the faith on our shores. We insist that we have the same rights as those given to them.

WE BELIEVE in the separation of church and state. John 18:36.

WE ADVOCATE THE BIBLE as the only rule of faith and practice. 2 Tim. 3:16, 17.

WE PLEAD for faith in Christ and a unity of all believers according to the pattern given in the New Testament.

WE RECOGNIZE Christ as the only head of the church. 1 Cor. 1:18 (Bro. Cline Paden is not the "head of the Church of Christ in Italy as reported in news releases but is merely one of the outstanding evangelists in the work.) Churches are entirely local in organization.

Poor Politicians May Win

Vern Sanford, manager of the Texas Press Association, announced last week that the Association would make an intensive drive this year to get out the vote at the various elections. Slogan for the drive will be "Poor Politicians Are Elected to Office by Good People Who Fail to Vote."

The more one studies that slogan the more apparent becomes the truth contained in those 13 words. One need but reflect on past elections and recall the number of times persons have been named to office by minority vote. The recent President of the United States, for instance, is holding office by a choice of only about 25 per cent of the voters of the country.

And the "good people" portion of the slogan is indeed an indictment of our failure as citizens, because it is a known fact that those individuals who expect to profit by the election or defeat of certain candidates make certain that their votes are cast. It is the person who can't be bothered; the person who doesn't want to engage in politics; the person who can't take time to study government and men who aspire to government positions, that makes possible the type of corrupt administration with which we have recently become familiar.

Good people do vote, and there are enough good people to control elections if they would but express their opinions. Let's all turn out his year.—The Italy (Texas) News Herald

WIND SWEEP

Press Paragraphs—
QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Economy in Government
It is hard to believe that the United States, the strongest and richest nation on earth, is edging toward bankruptcy. Yet that is exactly what is happening.

As individuals, American citizens practice thrift and conduct their affairs in a business-like fashion. But the Federal government, which the citizens designate as their agent, has become a poor credit risk. The national debt now stands at 259 billion dollars and still the government goes on spending money as though this tremendous obligation did not even exist.

To be sure, the great task of defending our land against communist aggression across the world means an enormous outlay in blood and treasure. This burden we have resolved to shoulder. No cost is too great to pay for defense of our freedom.

This does not mean, however, that we can afford to put aside prudence in our spending, or that the government is free to conduct its business in an inefficient and uneconomic manner. On the contrary, now, if never before in our history, we must discard new deal and fair deal philosophy of reckless government spending which already has led America to the threshold of socialism. Military outlays must be carefully scrutinized to make sure that a full measure of defense is received for every dollar spent. Non-military items must be watched in particular. The vote-buying political dogooders have found a happy hunting ground in the new defense program. Under the guise of the emergency they are passing all sorts of nostrums and panaceas. Socialized medicine, the Brannan Plan for Agriculture, F. E. P. C. public assistance grants and subsidies of many kinds are being labeled as essential to our welfare.

The citizen must not be fooled. The wisdom of spending money in Washington seems to depend on whether it will buy the votes of those who get the benefit. The bureaucrats do not stop to count the cost. We, the citizens, must count the cost before it is too late.
—Littlefield, County-Wide News

Home Town

You can't build a home town. The cleverest architects and the most determined builders in the world never designated or erected a home town.
And yet the world is full of them, revolves around them, would fall apart without them.
They are hard to find. They hide behind streets and buildings and trees and houses, until they look like ordinary towns.
You could be looking right at a home town, and unless you belonged there or came from there you'd never know it. That is until you had learned some of the magical things that make up a home town.

Home towns are made up of borrowed cups of sugar, first names and easy hello's. They are noted for father-and-son banquets, tricycles in driveways, football heroes, village belles, neighborhood bells, bells of the block and many assorted sweethearts. . . all of the latter being the most beautiful in the world.

Hometowns have plenty of near-by fields for Saturday Indian massacres, quantities of veening breeze to help the sounds of choir practice get around, and one of sparkle of tinsel on Christmas baskets down at the firehouse. They are shaded by a wealth and profusion of family trees whose minutest branches are known to all.

They're happiness, family-style. They're the star-spangled excitement of a fourth of July afternoon with its unshamed patriotism. They're George the butcher, Scout Troop Three, the price of potatoes, and the Galworthy girl getting married.

And home towns are hard to find . . . unless you know just where to look!
In your heart.

Stores Raise Curtain On Texas Home Fashion Time

Furniture dealers in Memphis this week are joining with firms over the state in participating in "Texas Home Fashion Time." This observance, Sept. 18-27, will be marked by the presentation of new ideas in design and construction of home furnishings. The celebration will demonstrate to Texans how their homes can be more liveable, attractive and friendly. Taking part will be 600 furniture stores over the state. It is sponsored by the Retail Furniture Association of Texas.

Mid-Century Furnishings
A fashion expert of the association issued the following comment regarding trends in home furnishings:
Mid-century furnishings are changing the appearance of Texas home interiors. The trend follows the demand for greater utility, more informality, and pieces which blend but do not necessarily match in color.

"Along with this trend, interest is still seen daily in Early American and Provincial styles.

Each of the three periods of furniture design had marked effects on the others. But all in all, mid-century modern continues to be the first choice of home-makers.

If a key word is needed for this trend, it could best be the word "comfort." Texans, a friendly people, seek comfort and informality above all other features.

First consider the size of the house your parents or grandparents lived in. They generally had a separate dining room. Today dining rooms are almost considered a luxury, with the predominant ideas surrounding open space idea combining the living and dining rooms.

Homes today are smaller, thus furnishing must be styled in proportion to less floor space. In bringing chairs, tables and drawer units down to the scale of a room with smaller area and probably lower ceilings, designers have left out a whole lot of the so-called "ginger-bread" of detail the marked pieces of earlier periods.

In the case of the commonplace living-dining room, seating unit, under modern radical changes. The sofas and chairs needed to be more versatile. Thus sectional sofa came into being. Home-makers can take a sectional sofa and make the pieces fit almost at will—in odd corners, turn corners, making use of every inch of floor space.

Single chest units today take up little floor space but they may open up into full length tables or a desk surface.

In the bedroom, combination pieces are becoming more popular

Headboards have built-in shelves and storage space with tambour or sliding door closings so you may have a comfortable backrest while reading.

These design principles are applied to every room in the house. The demands of space, a changing pace of life and homemaker wishes for more practical units are the major factors leading to the acceptance of mid-century modern as the leading home style.

Today, however, the designers are making each line individual, yet each is purposeful and simple with the air of restrained elegance.

A new style cropping up this year is the "collection" look.

Furniture no longer needs to match exactly in finish, color and styling. Rather, each piece stands alone as part of a well-balanced scheme.

The decorator combines the ingredients of color, line, texture and style to produce a room particularly suited to its occupants. New furniture lines follow this idea, offering pieces which are "coordinated" rather than matching suites. And the new lines will be sold as open stock to each shopper; the pieces satisfying her individual taste and needs.

While many of the collections show all pieces in one finish, there are subtle variations in the wood grain and texture. Then several woods are often combined into one piece.

Richly figured walnut table tops are framed by a banding of contrasting wood, cherry contrasts the cool blondness of maple or birch, and the needled patterns and textures of mahogany are combined in ingenious ways.

Thus designers are offering Texas homemakers the opportunity to express themselves in things with originality.

After Mrs. Odom had introduced officers of the club, committee chairmen and members of the committees, she introduced the new band director, Richard Highfill, who made an interesting talk on music education.

Mr. Highfill pointed out that his primary interest was to turn out the best band possible, but that he had failed if he had not been able to teach something besides music.

"In addition to music, we strive to teach the student to be able to become an individual in a group of individuals," he said.

Making up this program is mental health, mental co-ordination, physical health, etc. Mental co-ordination is stressed by teaching the child to do several things at one time. Under physical health marching is featured, along with correct posture and correct breathing.

By teaching the child to live by rules and regulations which are made for the good of the band as a whole, we strive to teach the child consideration for others. The band is only as strong as its weakest member, he concluded.

During the business session a constitution and by-laws were adopted and Mrs. Reba Stroehle was elected parliamentarian.

Short talks were given by W. C. Davis, superintendent of the schools, and Ace Galley, president of the board of education.

Comments

Republicans, because of Taft and Ike combining forces, may split for Adlai. It's a mess for sure.

The young people of Memphis are getting into the fight for a Youth Center. The latest may be seen on the highway north of Memphis. It is a large sign reading, "Memphis—3,869 good people & a few old fogies welcome you to No youth centers or pastimes—Seniors '53." In all calculations for improvement of the civic and cultural life of the community the youths must be taken into consideration by the citizens.

We older people naturally do not desire to indulge in youthful activities. But, on the other hand, young people, when nothing is provided for their entertainment at home, will go elsewhere for it. Crowded highways and crazy drivers make it hazardous for them to seek enjoyment elsewhere. Let's try to see the need through the eyes of youth, and act accordingly.

The first game of the season for the Memphis Cyclones Friday night was witnessed by a large crowd of fans. The boys put up a good fight and won over their worthy opponent—Tulia. Canadian will be the next foe to meet, and if the Cyclones do as well against Canadian as they did against Tulia, they will come out winner the second time.
