1954 Plymouth Automobiles Are Placed On Display At Hickey Motor Company

The 1954 line of Plymouth automobiles went on display here today in the show room of Hickey Motor Company. Gerald Hickey owns the local firm.

The new models have optional power steering and three choices in power drives, according to Hickey.

They are longer than last year's models. New body lines, a new front end design, new interiors, new advanced design seat cushions, and engine improvements are among the 64 advancements in styling and engineering.

The hydraulic "muscle" in the steering linkage reduces steering effort up to 80 per cent, permits fingertip control in tight packing situations and promotes safe driving through lessening driver fatigue and road shock, Hickey said.

Optional in power drives are Hy-Drive, a no-shift unit made up of torque converter and three-speed transmission; Syncho-Silent with Overdrive, which provides a fourth forward speed for cruising.

The new Plymouth line has 11 body types in three series, consisting of the aristocratic Belvedere, the Savoy series, and the Plaza series, lowest priced of the three.

Interiors are designed with emphasis on color harmony and modern decor. Seat and back cushions and door side panels are upholstered in new types of fabrics which are exceptionally resistant to wear, according to Hickey.

A new type of seat cushions which Plymouth is introducing provide a softer cushioning action in normal riding situations and resistance to "bottoming" when the car hits a bump.

To spread topengine performance over a long period of time, Plymouth is using new silicon chromium alloy intake valves in 1954 models. Exhaust valve inserts have been retained to maintain high compression engine performance during years of service.

Other mechanical improvements include a higher capacity oil pump, new improved clutch, and improved electric windshield wipers.

1954 PLYMOUTH LINE ARISTOCRAT—The Belvedere four-door sedan is one of 11 beautiful body types in the 1954 Plymouth line. All models are longer than in previous years and all models are available with Plymouth's new full-time power steering and Hy-Drive, a no-shift combination.

Gasoline for Sunday driving... or Natural Gas to cook next Sunday's roast?

Most people think only of gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils when the petroleum industry is mentioned. The fact is, practically all oil producers are also natural gas producers. So today the driller of a wildcat, or exploratory well, calls his venture successful if the well discovers either oil or gas.

If it is an oil well, then he has helped to supply the country's increasing needs for oil and oil products; if it is a gas well, he has discovered additional supplies of an efficient, economical fuel for household and industrial use.

The petroleum industry's development and conservation of the country's natural gas resources is a practical demonstration of the progress to which Oil Progress Week invites attention.

Beginning with the location of the well, advanced geological and geophysical studies of underground formations aid in the selection of likely oil or gas producing areas, but still the odds against a wildcat well producing either gas or oil are eight to one.

If a natural gas field is discovered, reservoir engineers immediately begin their studies to determine the best producing methods to conserve the underground energy and to obtain the maximum production for the longest possible time.

If the gas that is discovered is "wet," it is processed in gasoline plants which remove the liquid parts and send them to refineries for further processing into motor fuels and aviation gasolines, or to petrochemical plants to be converted into a long list of useful chemical products, among which are the plastics and synthetic fabrics with which you are so familiar. "Dry" gas, the residue from gasoline plants, and sometimes produced direct from the gas field, is the natural gas that burns in literally millions of homes throughout America and under the boilers of thousands of American industries.

So, whether a wildcat well discovers oil for gasoline or natural gas for the kitchen stove, it adds to the available energy resources of the most highly mechanized nation on earth; it supplies products essential for today's and tomorrow's high living standards; it gives additional strength to measures for National defense.

PUBLIC LIFE NO SNAP

Citizens who take the lead in carrying on affairs of their communities sometimes seem to come in for a great deal of criticism.

In some instances, this criticism probably is needed for none of us is completely free of shortcomings—some willful, some unintentional—but all a part of us because of the simple fact that we are human beings.

So, before we are overly critical of others, it might be a good idea to find out as much as we can about other peoples' actions and intentions before we go overboard in berating them.

We particularly have in mind the several groups whose business it is to look after matters, connected with city and county governments and schools.

Within the past few months, there have been three public budget hearings here. These were held to give citizens the opportunity to meet with officials for the purpose of discussing the budgets and if they wished, to suggest changes which they believed would be beneficial to themselves and their neighbors.

First, there was a hearing on the city budget, next, one on the county budget, and finally, one on the budget of the Memphis Independent School District.

But not a soul showed up for any of them.

As a matter of fact, city, county, school board and county commissioners meetings are held periodically, at which matters which concern Memphis and Hall County are discussed and settled.

And it is a rare occasion when any citizens are present to learn first hand what is going on and to encourage officials in their efforts, or to let them know what the citizens want.

We attended two meetings of the city council here several months ago, each one of which lasted for some hours, while council members wrestled with the problem of making available money cover the expense of constructing a municipal swimming pool.

At the first session, four bids were submitted. All of them were for more than the sum allotted for financing the project. Three of them ranged from a few thousand dollars to nearly $20,000 higher and were not considered further.

The fourth was almost within the bracket the city could afford to pay and the representative of the company which submitted the bid, showed a willingness to confer with the council in an effort to bring the bid down to where it could be accepted.

When some time passed without an agreement being reached, another meeting was set for the regular council meeting the next week. The construction company representative was advised to make modifications in his plans, so they would fit into the council's ability to pay.

At the second meeting, the bid still was too high. Council members and the contracting company's representative pored over the blue prints for the pool, finecombing it to discover every point where a saving could be made.

Finally, by decreasing the size of the pool slightly, cutting down on some of the features and fixtures, and in some cases, using less expensive materials, the construction cost was low enough to meet with the council's approval.

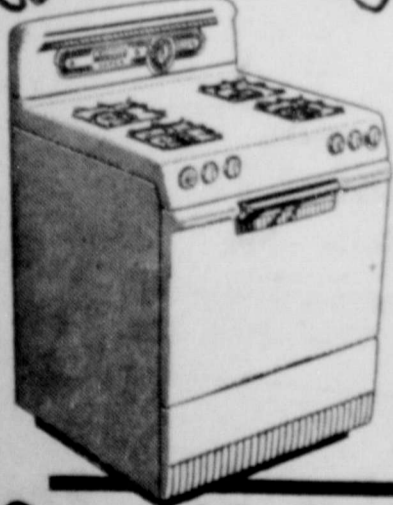

But this was achieved after hours of patient study and negotiations by council members and the contractor's representative.

The result is that Memphis now has a municipal pool which should afford many hours of pleasure for the young people—and maybe older people, too.

Incidents such as those described above are not isolated ones but have been repeated over and over, by public-minded leaders as they worked to get "the most for the least" for their communities.

Citizens might be slower to criticize such men if they would attend some of their meetings.

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Press Paragraphs—

PLAINS WILL COME BACK

We have never lived in a cotton country, and know little or nothing about cotton.

However, we were in Lubbock last week and saw some wonderful crops of cotton. That is, the crops looked wonderful to this ignorant individual who knows nothing about the trials and tribulations of raising cotton.

We came home pretty much elated about the crops that we had seen. However, an authority on cotton took some of the wind out of our sails by declaring that within six miles of Canyon there was better cotton this year than any crop he has seen in the Lubbock area. He then told us of various cotton crops which were being raised in Randall county this year, both on a small and a large scale.

Yes sir, we live in a wonderful country, in spite of the handicaps which have been ours this year of drought. The crops which we have raised have been a marvel to newcomers as well as to the close observers among the oldsters.

Don't sell the Panhandle short! It never pays to be a pessimist.

MORE HOT CHECKS

With the tightening up of business conditions over the country the number of "hot checks" seems to be on the increase, with Perryton merchants getting their share of them.

In many cases, checks that won't clear a bank are written through oversight or carelessness. But there are check writers who make a business of fleecing those who will cash their works of art.

A county attorney in Arkansas City, Kansas, recently told a civic club in that city something about the standard operating procedure of hot check artists and pointed out that a town soon gets the reputation of being hard on check writers or easy, and that the volume of hot checks often varies with this reputation.

The attorney says the fellows who write bad checks for a living usually know their towns. They watch to see if merchants prosecute or let the check writer go if he pays the debt. If merchants are rated as "easy" money, the bad checks keep coming because the writers know that if caught they aren't going to jail. All they have to do is make good the loss.

The man who told the tale said a town gets the reputation of being tough and the number of bad checks decrease as the word spreads.

PAVING BONDS AUTHORIZED BY OVERWHELMING MAJORITY—A $65,000 bond issue to finance paving in the business district of Memphis, passed by an overwhelming majority Tuesday. Heaviest vote in the history of the city was cast—486 ballots. Of these, 472 favored the bond issue, with only 14 opposing it. The area to be paved will include the courthouse square and the entire business section, or about 13 blocks. Work on the project may begin within the next few days, it is thought.

HALF-MILLION DOLLAR BOND ISSUE IS PROPOSED IN COUNTY—Petitions are being circulated throughout the county for presentation to the commissioners court next Saturday asking for a $500,000 bond election to finance construction, improvement and maintenance of roads and bridges in Hall County.

The petitions are the result of demands from different parts of the county for permission to issue warrants or vote bonds for local road improvements.

Since such issues would jeopardize chances of providing funds by county action and since needed work can be accomplished much more economically on a county-wide basis, it is believed best to take this action.

Two hundred and fifty signatures will be necessary to authorize the court to order the election.

Wm. Travis PTA Meets For Monthly Session Thursday

The William B. Travis Parent-Teacher Association met for the second regular meeting of the year on Thursday afternoon, October 8, in the Travis Cafetorium. An unusually large group of parents and teachers enjoyed a very interesting program. Mrs. Robert Moss brought the afternoon's devotional on the theme "Parent's Love for Their Children" based on I Corinthians Chapter 13. W. E. Leslie gave a very inspirational talk on the importance of the home and parents in the growth and development of children. In developing his subject, "Parents Till the Soil," Mr. Leslie compared the rearing and training of our children to the care a planter must give to fine mums plants in order to produce a good crop of beautiful mums. "The planter must protect his investment by working very hard to provide the proper environment and growing conditions for his fine plants, with special care for each stage and constant attention during the growing season in order to produce a good strong plant and beautiful blossoms," Mrs. Leslie pointed out. "So the parents must protect their far more precious investments and possessions—their children—and bend all their efforts toward providing the proper environment and atmosphere for the most wholesome growth and development of their little people."

TEXAS NURSING HOME OPERATORS TO CONVENE IN AUSTIN, OCT. 19-20

AUSTIN—Nursing home operators from all over Texas will convene in Austin October 19 for a two-day discussion on how they can give the best care to the old folks whom fate has placed in their hands.

The meeting, to be held in the auditorium of the State Department of Health, will open at 10 a. m. on Monday, October 19 and last through the following day.

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox, long-time champion of Texas' oldsters, promised that operators who attend will hear an outstanding panel of speakers cover the various problems associated with running a nursing home.

Specifically urged to attend are home operators who have been granted a temporary license under terms of the nursing home licensing law passed by the last legislature.

Subjects to be discussed during the 2-day meeting include an interpretation of the licensing law; medical and nursing services in nursing homes; sanitation and building standards; the problem of nutrition among the aged; and general standards, rules and regulations of acceptable operation.

Dr. Cox calls the problem of handling aged citizens "one of the most pressing facing our leaders today."

"These people belong to a generation which time is shoving harshly aside," the health official said. "They deserve something better than to be forgotten."

The State Legislature apparently agrees with that sentiment. During its last session, a mandatory licensing law was enacted for all nursing and convalescent homes.

Designed to raise the standard of care given home residents, the law gives the State Department of Health authority to inspect all homes for health, safety and humane treatment of all residents.

Failure to comply means loss of license, without which the home must close its doors.

Attendance at the October 19 meeting will acquaint home operators with what is expected of them, said Dr. Cox.

Winning Fire Prevention Themes Memphis High School Contests

AT DEPREDATOR

er's paradise into an inferno. A minute used to give a campfire a good dousing might be worth a million dollars in timber, which is so essential to the progress of our country. Fire prevention is everybody's business. It's big business. This is one war we can fight at home. The best insurance against this depredator is the cooperation of the people to curb it before it starts.

FIRE: HEARTACHE

By Carol Ann Monzingo
11th Grade

This is a tale of the heartache and grief caused by fire. It's not a pretty story, but it could happen in one moment of carelessness.

After many years of hard work, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Johnson were able to build a small house. Week by week, month by month, they were able to furnish it; adding a new chair at one time and some other furnishings at another. Many years after starting their house and furnishings, they completed their work. During these years they had gone without actual necessities, in order to finish their endeavors and make a home for the family they had planned.

Two years later, a baby boy was born to them and they were overjoyed at the happiness they found in life. Everything was working out perfectly; their house was beautiful, they had an adorable baby boy, the down payment on a new car had been made and later, they were blessed with a baby girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson had always had dreams of their son's being strong and of their daughter's being beautiful. It seemed that all these dreams were coming true as they watched their children from day to day.

Then, tragedy struck without a sign of warning. It was one winter night when Mr. Johnson came in late from the office and everyone was asleep. He was so tired that he flopped down on the sofa in the living room and began smoking. Exhausted as he was, he couldn't seem to stay awake and the next thing he knew the curtains by the sofa were on fire. He knew that he had dropped the cigarette behind the sofa. Then it seemed that everything in the room was on fire. The first thing he thought of was his family sleeping in their bedrooms and the car that was in the garage adjoining the house, but he was so drugged by smoke that he lost his senses.

In the meantime a neighbor noticing the fire, called the fire department. When the firemen got there, they found Mr. Johnson on the kitchen floor knocked out by the smoke. They managed to get the family out, but were unable to save the house.

Later, in the hospital, when Mr. Johnson regained consciousness the doctor told him that his wife was all right, but his children were burned badly. The doctor said that the son would probably never be healthy again and that the daughter had scars on her body that could never be removed.

The house burned to the ground and with it the car, not yet paid for.

This family was never as completely happy again as they had been before the fire occurred.

Mr. Johnson thought of how one moment of carelessness practically ruined the lives of four people and how it destroyed the home they had suffered long years to build.

When he thought of how easily it could have been prevented, he felt like dying, but continued to live, sharing the sorrows of his unhealthy son and his scarred daughter.

FIRE PREVENTION

By Betty Lemons
10th Grade

All fires are disastrous. Many of them could be averted through a little thoughtfulness on the part of everyone.

The housewife can keep her inflammable cleaning fluids out of the kitchen and her oil mops out of hot, closed closets. Her iron should be disconnected when not in use.

The man of the house should extinguish all cigarettes, matches or campfires. He should keep the garage, attic, and cellar free of trash and other litter. Paint should be kept well away from furnaces. If faulty wiring is discovered, he should summon an electrician.

Teaching children fire prevention and safety at an early age will prove valuable as they grow older. Teach them to stay away from matches when they are younger, and eventually, to go for help immediately when fire is discovered. A good precaution would be to show them the nearest fire alarm box, and how to use it.

Every person has a responsibility and safety. No hazard is greater than that of fire. Let's avert fires and make our community a better place in which to live. Why not improve our community—and our nation!

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

New Conoco Super Gasoline

with TCP*

Start the "TWO-TANK TEST" today!

Conoco Super Gasoline with TCP has been rightfully called the greatest advance in motor fuels since the introduction of tetraethyl lead in 1922. For here, at last, is a gasoline so dramatically different that the average motorist can feel the improvement in his car after just two tankfuls. Yes, after your second tankful, chances are you will know why we say Conoco Super with TCP will:

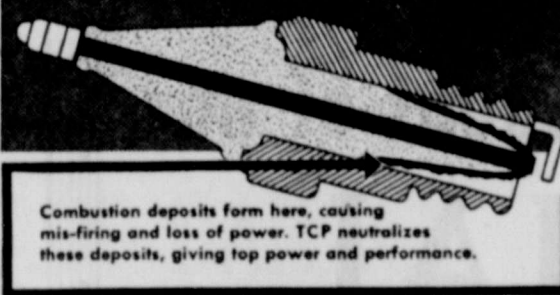

- Boost power as much as 15%!
- Increase spark-plug life up to 150%!
- Give you extra gas mileage!

For Conoco Super is a new kind of gasoline—a gasoline especially developed to correct the greatest single cause of power loss affecting most of the cars on the road today.

Combustion deposits drastically reduce power

When you drive your car, deposits constantly build up on spark plugs and in the combustion chambers. These deposits can "cheat" you of power two ways. First, they short-circuit spark plugs—causing them to mis-fire. Second, deposits in the combustion chambers cause fuel to ignite before it should. This is called pre-ignition or "wild ping." The combined effect of mis-firing and pre-ignition is loss of power, lack of "pep" and wasted gas.

CROSS SECTION OF TYPICAL SPARK PLUG

How Conoco Super with TCP works

TCP is a special chemical additive which is added to Conoco Super Gasoline. It was specifically developed to overcome the loss of power and fuel caused by combustion deposits. TCP neutralizes harmful deposits on spark plugs—your plugs spark as they should. It prevents deposits in the combustion chambers from causing pre-ignition—"wild ping" is controlled. Thus, every time you fill up with new Conoco Super, it's like getting your spark plugs cleaned and your engine tuned-up.

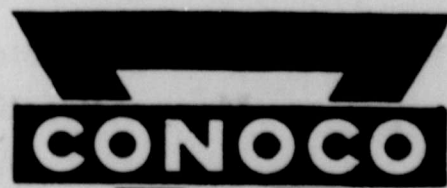

TCP helps your car, whether new or old

If you are driving a new car, with a high-compression engine, you need Conoco Super Gasoline to keep your car delivering all the power that was built into it. If you drive an older car, with tens of thousands of miles on the speedometer, Conoco Super can restore much of the "new car" performance and power you've been missing.

Start your "TWO-TANK TEST" today

When your gasoline tank is one-quarter full or less, fill it with Conoco Super with TCP. Now, there will still be some ordinary gasoline mixed in with your Conoco Super. So make sure your next tankful is Conoco Super, too. So rapidly does Conoco Super work, that with this second tankful, chances are you'll feel as if your engine has had a tune-up. You'll feel a boost in power. Try it today. We're sure you'll stay with Conoco Super.

Memphis B Team Edges Shamrock On Their Field Thursday Night, 7-0

The Memphis B team edged the Shamrock B Squad at Shamrock last Thursday night, 7-0. Most of the play was between the 30 yard lines, with the exception of Memphis' touchdown drive, B Coach Nolan Poteet said. Poteet said his boys kept Shamrock pushed back into their territory a great deal of the time.

Campbell Morris, who quarterbacked the local team after the regular quarterback, Don Davis, had his right shoulder injured, rammed center on a quarterback sneak for two yards and the tally.

The score climaxed a third quarter 40-yard drive, with most gains short and made on the ground. Keithie McWhorter, right ackle, kicked the point.

The B team coach said all of his boys played good defensive games and that this had an important part in the squad's victory. In Poteet's opinion, the team has improved considerably since their game with Childress here, Sept. 24.

He said neither Memphis nor Shamrock was able to launch a successful passing attack.

Poteet said the B team will be in good condition for a return match with Shamrock in Cyclone Stadium tonight. He said Don Davis will be ready to go by that time. The contest will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

to Billy B. Holland of Estelline. Crain said the pair drove the car to Newlin, abandoning it on a side road. Deputy Bill Baten placed the site where the vehicle was found, about 4 miles northwest of Newlin. Crain said he took an automatic pistol from the car before leaving it.

Crain said he and his partner walked to the General Patterson farm, where he had been pulling bolls. The farm is 11 miles southwest of Memphis, according to Morrison.

At the farm, the two men took a truck, owned by Patterson, and drove to Pampa. Crain continued in his statement. The truck was abandoned at Pampa.

Crain later the same week stole the truck near Lefors but was arrested soon afterwards and taken to the Gray County jail at Pampa. In his statement, Crain admitted he has been in the penitentiary five times, being released the last time this past June.

Ran into a snowstorm in the Green Mountains of Vermont. Tops of mountains were white with snow in some places the snow was 7 inches deep. This was a scene not soon forgotten. Fir trees blanketed and other shrubbery and grass with snow mantles.

We stopped for a day in St. Johnsbury, Vt.—the capitol of Vermont's griddle cakes with pure maple syrup and butter from contented Holstein and Jersey cows is the kind of breakfast that is food for the most fastidious diner. By the way, Vermont has more dairy cattle than it has people. By the same token there are more trees than dogs.

The Fairbanks scale was invented by a St. Johnsbury man. The factory—now one of many Fairbanks factories—is still operating with a force of about 700 men. A maple syrup processing plant is also located here. Processing the syrup is worth seeing.

Ethan Allen organized a troop of Green Mountain boys near here during the Revolution. Daniel Webster was born at Franklin not far from here. Famous persons of the early days have the places marked where they stayed. In fact, from Maine to Virginia, such markers are numerous.

Vermont is, in our opinion, the most beautiful, has the most colorful scenery. The greatest green mountains, hillsides, valleys, one can imagine. Autumn colors were in full glory as we came through. Early October is show month for New England in the way of Autumn colors.
