Insect Damage In County Limited, Hooser Reports

Small, light orange-colored millers which have been found in considerable numbers all over the county for about two weeks are grass millers and are supposed to be harmless to cotton, County Agent W. B. Hooser said Monday. The county agent said numerous farmers have come to his office to learn if the insects might prove damaging to cotton and he had found after investigation, that they apparently would not, adding that so far no damage has been reported from them. Hooser said there are a great many careless worm and careless worm millers in areas of the county where careless weeds abound and that are harmful to cotton. He said that at present, the pests generally are confined to the weeds, but that when they become larger, they will move into cotton fields.

Tentative County Budget For 1955 Totals $243,250

TEST LIGHT JET—America's smallest and lightest jet combat plane, Douglas A4D Skyhawk, bantam Navy A-bomber, successfully passed first tests at Murco, Calif.

The tentative 1955 budget for Hall County has been set at $243,250, according to County Judge Tracy Davis. This represents a drop of $30,250 from the current budget of $273,500. The tax rate is expected to remain at 95 cents on the $100 valuation, the same as for the past three years. The state tax is 42 cents on the $100. Judge Davis said the 1955 budget will be approved at a meeting of the Commissioners' Court, Monday, Sept. 13. Receipts for 1954 have been estimated at $211,600. In 1953, actual receipts were $199,714.54. The assessed county valuation in 1955 is estimated at 10,700,000, or approximately $200,000 below this year. Next year's ad valorem taxes have been estimated at $101,650. The 1955 budget may be seen in the office of Mrs. Ruby Collins, county clerk and Judge Davis says citizens of the county are invited to study it at their convenience. In 1955, tax collections of $101,650 plus other receipts of $96,600 is expected to furnish an income totaling $198,250. An estimated cash balance of $45,000 would bring the total up to next year's tentative budget. Under the proposed budget, six cents of the 95-cent tax rate would go into the jury fund, 30 cents into the road and bridge fund, 38 cents into the general fund, and 21 cents into the permanent. Support Rate For Cotton Announced By ASC Manager

Support rate of 15/16ths inch middling white cotton for 1954 at Memphis has been set at 33.10 cents a pound, Lynn L. McKown, manager of the Hall County A. S. C. office here, said Monday. This price will be paid for cotton of this type which is delivered at the local compress. This compares with 32.55 cents per pound paid last year for this type of cotton. The rate in 1952 was 31.78 cents a pound. Cotton will be handled the same as last year, McKown said, with loan papers being made up at gins and banks in the county by loan clerks, appointed by the county A. S. C. committee. Loans will be disbursed through the banks, the A. S. C. office manager explained. Loan papers will be sent to regional offices of the Commodity Credit Corporation at New Orleans. McKown said a study of cotton records show that a great deal of lint produced in Hall County is of 7/8ths inch staple, which carries a support price 125 points below 15/16ths inch cotton, or 31.85 cents a pound this year.

Area Points Dampened By Week-end Showers

A number of points in the Memphis area received showers Saturday evening and Sunday morning which pushed the month's total for some to around two inches. The showers were accompanied by considerable thunder and lightning and gusty winds that probably reached 30 or 35 miles an hour. Some light hail also was reported. Sunday was pleasantly cool, a welcome change from prolonged heat. Crops generally were said to be looking good over much of this area, although they were reported to be deteriorating at points where moisture has been light. However, there is no question that the hearts of everyone would be gladdened by a good, general rain. Precipitation totaled .35 of an inch in Memphis. Weatherman John McMickin said: This raised the total for August to 1.18 inches and for the year so far to 11.26 inches. Southeast of town, moisture reportedly ranged from a quarter of an inch to a half or more. The total east of the city was said to have been around a quarter of an inch. West and southwest of the city, amounts of from about a

Drinking Spree Puts 'Low Fliers' In 'Jug'

Two Fort Worth men who were headed for the Greenbelt Bowl game at Childress Friday night got "well oiled" en route and overhotted their mark, winding up in the county jail here. The duo discovered their mistake on reaching Memphis and headed back toward Childress. Local officers, notified of their condition, pursued them. However, the pair were making "knots" down the highway, so Deputy Sheriff Bill Baten and Constable Jack Peabody radioed ahead and Deputy Sheriff J. C. Spruill halted the "low fliers" at Estelline. The men ended up in jail here. Saturday morning, the passenger paid $1 and costs on a drunkenness charge and was released. It was Monday morning before the driver regained his liberty but it set him back $100 and costs for driving while intoxicated. The pair never got to the football game but beyond a doubt it's one they'll never forget.

Walter Rogers On Special Committee

Cong. Walter Rogers of Pampa has been appointed a member of a new special sub-committee of the Interior Committee which will study the nation's water resources. The appointment was made by Chairman Miller, of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee in the House of Representatives. Congressman Rogers holds membership on the committee. Until the creation of the new special sub-committee, there was no legislative body in a position to act legislatively on any recommendations made by other governmental groups.

Polio Fund Drive Is Scheduled Here

A campaign to gather additional funds for the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis will start here Monday and continue through Aug. 31. The drive for more funds was made necessary by heavy expenditures this year for the new polio vaccine, which many youngsters have been given, in addition to the usual NFIP activities, such as patient care, research and gamma globulin injections. Coin containers have been placed in business firms in Memphis for the convenience of donors. Checks may be sent either to R. C. Lemons, chairman of the Hall County chapter, or to Miss Roselyn Williams, secretary. Local Boy Scouts are helping preparations for the fund-raising campaign.

CLAUDE'S COMMENTS Note to Highway Officials: The traffic light at intersection of Noel and 10th stays red all the time. Local people have learned that, after stopping, they can then proceed. Visitors and tourists stop and wait for some time before proceeding—mostly from a local-site signals them to go ahead. The light should be repaired so it will flash, or else covered so no light will show. Tourists get a wrong impression of a town when they are detained because the light does not chime. Note to Highway officials this Thursday morning: Many thanks for prompt action. Repairmen were working on the light as I came to town. When anything goes wrong on a highway, the highway department gets repairmen on the job, which was the case on the red light. Mrs. Allen Dunbar got the scare of her life Monday evening when she went to the back yard and saw what she thought was a hoe handle. She stooped to pick it up and it moved. It was a 3-foot rattler with five buttons. She screamed and her husband rushed out to see what was wrong. She told him to bring a hoe, which he did, and immediately dispatched Mr. Snake. The scare became more acute when Mrs. Dunbar thought of her children who play in the yard continually during the day. (Continued on Page 12)

Roy A. Massey Relates European Trip Incidents

Note: The following is a story by Roy A. Massey, who is on a tour of various European countries.

Hotel Moderne
33 Rue des Ecoles
Paris 5, France

I have time to sit down and write you about my trip. I have been going at such a fast pace that I really haven't had time to write anyone.

You know I left Dallas by the morning of May 24. It was perfect flying weather and the trip was wonderful. I arrived in New York that afternoon and picked up an old friend from Bay-

...together a lot while I was in New York as well as with friends from Baylor. It was getting together with old friends again.

Of course, I saw many stage plays. Three of them were excellent. They were "The Teahouse of the August Moon," "Ondine," and "Sympathy."

Among other things I went to see "Carmen," the curved screen play which uses three projectors simultaneously, and "Gone with the Wind" for the eighth time. This time it was on a wide-

...to the top of the Empire Building and took pictures of the city. Also I went to the United Nations Build-

...the people who were to go to Europe with me and we went shopping on 5th Avenue. I found interesting restaurants to go to.

I left New York by train the morning of June 2, for Montreal. It was a beautiful and scenic trip with Hudson and the Laurentian mountains. Up-State New York and Ontario are beautiful in the spring.

...the night in Montreal and left the next morning for Quebec. It is the most interesting I have seen in North America. It is so quaint and fascinating with its French atmosphere. Of course, as in Montreal, she speaks French. You can get a taste of what Europe is like without ever leaving North America.

We rented a limousine and chauffeur and took an afternoon tour of the city. We visited the old wall which surrounds Old Quebec and the citadel with its fortified maze. We went down the narrow street in North America and saw many places of historical interest. It is a wonderful town. You must go there sometime.

On the afternoon of June 4, we embarked on the "Castel Felice," which means Happy Castle. We were two days going down the St. Lawrence, which in many places is so wide that one can't see either bank.

We entered the Atlantic south of Newfoundland because the northern route wasn't open due to ice bergs. For the most part, the crossing was cold, but very smooth. We passed ice bergs and had snow flurries which were interesting to see in June. After we got nearly to England we hit the Gulf Stream and the weather warmed up. As we neared the English coast, it became dark and foggy, which couldn't be more typical of that country. We docked at Southampton several hours to let passengers disembark. Then we crossed the channel to Le Hayre where we disembarked.

While speaking of the boat, I might add that the food was excellent. We had seven course lunches and dinners, and the food was very good. I don't know about the breakfasts as I always slept until lunch.

The entertainment was fine. They had a good orchestra and dance floor and two good bars. We had a library for those who wanted to check out books. We had movies in the afternoons with all kinds of games afterwards. The boat is fitted to accommodate a thousand people, but there were only about four hundred and twenty-five aboard, so you can imagine how nice it was. Nothing was crowded and the service was excellent.

We are coming back on the Italia, which is a much larger ship. It is a luxury liner. We were able to get good cabin accommodations on it, so we should have an even nicer return trip than we did coming.

We disembarked at Le Hayre

MISS UNIVERSE . . . Miriam Stevenson, 21, of Winnsboro, South Carolina, was crowned world's most beautiful girl in competition with beauties from 32 countries at Long Beach, Cal.

and took the boat train to Paris. The people in my group received their first surprise on the train. It was the fact that both men and women share the same rest room (which really is perfectly sane, since one locks the door anyway).

As you know on European trains there are few open coaches. You ride in compartments which accommodate from 4 to 8 people. All seven of my group were in one compartment so we had a most enjoyable trip to Paris.

We arrived in Paris at 4:00 P. M. Mr. and Mrs. Arnould met us at the station. We got in two taxis and began honking our way toward the hotel. You've never lived until you've ridden in a French taxi. Most of them date from 1932 and they go speeding down the Rues, Boulevards, and Avenues at about fifty miles per hour, honking everyone out of their way.

It is a wonderful feeling, coming out of the dark, grimy railroad station into the beautiful heart of Paris.

We zoomed down past the big department stores, the Place de L'Opera, the Louvre, through the Garden of the Tuilleries, down the bank of the Seine, across the Ile de la Cite, and past Notre Dame. Then on to Boulevard Saint Michel through the Latin Quarter and St. Germain des Pres, then on to Rue des Ecoles, past the Sorbonne and we were at our Hotel.

It's wonderful—that first taxi ride through Paris.

There are two things which give you a wonderful feeling and which can be equalled by nothing else. They are the first glimpse of the Eiffel Tower, rising majestically above Paris, letting you know that you are once more approaching "The City of Light," and the first sight of the Statue of Liberty, raising her torch to let you know you are home once more. They are two wonderful and unforgettable moments.

I love London every bit as much as Paris, and am anxious to get back there, but you don't have the excited feeling upon entering it as you do Paris or New York.

After getting settled in our hotel (which was quite a job as I'm on the fourth floor, which by the way would be the fifth floor in the States as they don't count the ground floor here in numbering, and there is no elevator); I decided to go down with the Arnoulds for a cup of tea, and of course a French pastry. Believe me, I was ready for the tea after all the confusion of getting settled. Since I had been here before and knew the hotel people, there was much hand shaking and questions and answers. Then there was the explanations of everything, in French of course, and I had to translate it all for my group.

Then there were the forms which all foreigners have to fill out, giving their life history, both past and future. Getting into a French hotel with seven people is a full day's work.

Later on we went out to eat. The ladies were disappointed to find that the wine they serve with meals is dry, not sweet, so they have been drinking water ever since. We can have Coca Cola if we want it at twenty cents a bottle. Wine is cheaper, and if you like dry wine, very good.

One of the ladies was upset because, she said, the meal was four dollars and fifty cents. Then I reminded her that it was only four hundred and fifty francs, which is only equal to about one dollar and thirty cents.

The next morning every one had a stiff neck, due to the huge round bolsters they use here for pillows. I showed them how to beat them down so that they were relatively comfortable.

We have been having a wonderful time in Paris. It costs no more for five to ride in a taxi than one so any time we want to see something, we just all hop in a taxi and go, then divide the fare. If you want to go still cheaper, you can ride the Metro (subway) anywhere in Paris for six cents. The buses charge three cents a zone and it usually costs about fifteen cents to go any distance by bus.

We have spent many hours in the Museum of the Louvre. We have taken a boat ride down the Seine, which of course runs down the center of Paris, dividing the Righ Bank from the Left Bank.

We went to see the Mimes of Marcel Marceau, which were wonderful. He is without a doubt the world's greatest mimist.

We went to the eleventh century Abbey of Royaumont to see a religious play. Also we have been through Notre Dame and to Chartres to visit the Cathedral and see the beautiful stained-glass.

Sunday we went to Longchamps to the horse races. It was the big event of the year; the Grand Prix de Paris. The Agha Khan was there, and the President of the French Republic, as well as other famous people. Many people wore tails with striped trousers and grey toppers. You might know the horse I bet on came in last.

We decided to come back in style, so we hired the biggest Cadillac we could find to bring us back to Paris.

It doesn't get dark here until ten o'clock, so we spent the rest of the afternoon making pictures.

We have been to the Houses of Jacques Fath and Christian Dior to see the latest fashions. We have been to some of the best restaurants. We are just doing everything we can think of to have a good time.

Some friends from the boat looked me up when they got to Paris and we went to a Cabaret to hear Charles Trenet. We had to pay fifteen dollars a bottle for Champagne. It was worth it, but isn't it ridiculous to pay that much in its native country when you can get it in the States for ten dollars. Here you can buy it in the stores for three dollars.

This week we are going to the opera to see Ingrid Bergman and to Notre Dame to see The Passion which is being presented in front of the Church.

We are just taking life easy and doing what we want to as we have six weeks to enjoy Paris. I'm going to Barcelona, Spain for a week at the sea shore, just for a nice relaxing rest before starting our long tour through the rest of Europe.

The only thing I wish is that all of you could be with me so we could enjoy all of this together.

Tell everyone "Hello" for me and that I'd like to hear from them.

Love,
Roy Alvin

The atom will produce power for homes in 5 to 10 years

Full-sized plants will generate electricity from atomic energy without government subsidy

Protective plastic suit enables technicians to work safely. 12,000 G-E employees are assigned to atomic projects.

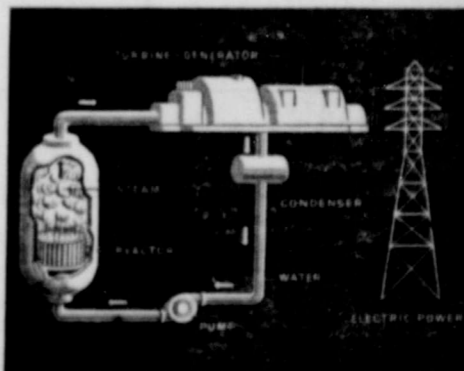

Biggest question in producing electricity with atomic energy has not been: Can it be done?—but: How can it be done economically on a full-scale basis so that many areas and many people can benefit?

America is now very close to a practical answer.

We already know the kinds of plants which will be feasible, how they will operate, and we can estimate what their expenses will be. In five years—certainly within ten—a number of them will be operating at about the same cost as those using coal. They will be privately financed, built without government subsidy.

Developing the right fuel element is still a problem, but the Atomic Energy Commission, General Electric scientists and other experts are all working on a solution. And real progress is being made.

Atomic power plant of type developed by A. E. C.'s Argonne National Laboratory. Fissionable material serves as fuel to produce steam which powers turbine. For more information from General Electric's Atomic Power Study, write Department W, 2-123, Schenectady, New York.

Conservation Vital To Everyone

Conservation of soil and water is a matter which concerns everyone, not only in agricultural areas such as this, but throughout the entire United States—and for that matter throughout the entire world. Because, even though this has become a highly industrialized nation, our economy still is based on agriculture and is likely to continue to be. If this is true, then our economic life will generally be just as healthy as agriculture. And agriculture will have the opportunity of remaining strong only so long as we follow a program of soil and water conservation designed to save and build the soil and to get the fullest benefits from all available or potential water sources.

This past spring once again brought home to us who live in this semi-arid region the supreme importance and necessity of maintaining, as far as possible, cover on our precious soil. For a time, it looked like we were in for the kind of duststorms, such as we suffered from 1934 through 1936. But fortunately, rains came in May and June and we were spared a repeat performance of the destructive wind erosion, at least for the time being. However, we should not push our luck too far but should take steps now while we can to prevent a recurrence of the distressing conditions of the mid-30's.

As a matter of fact, considerable progress toward this goal has been made in the past 20 years. Terracing and contour farming, stubble mulching, cover and strip cropping, and dam and pond construction are among the practices which many farmers and ranchers have adopted in combatting the effects of wind and water erosion. The result, as residents of this section know, has been to stabilize soil and to hold more water where it falls, rather than to have it end up in creeks and rivers along with tons of valuable topsoil.

However, a constant search for new and better methods needs to be maintained and water supplies need to be increased wherever possible. In addition, those, who for one reason or another, are following farming practices which are harmful to themselves, to their neighbors, and to their nation, should be persuaded to adopt better methods. If there are any who persistently refuse to do this, then they should be required by law to do so. We know this is strong language and that there are some who may feel such action would be a denial of individual rights. However, we would disagree with this viewpoint since we feel that agricultural resources of this country, as said before, to be more vital to our national welfare than any others, and not subject to individual whim.

Therefore, it seems to us, that the various states, possibly in conjunction with the national government, should develop a plan or plans for agriculture which would be designed to safeguard our agricultural productivity. Before this is done, however, farm groups and leaders, state and federal government agricultural agencies, agricultural college personnel, and others experienced in farming and ranching should be consulted, with the eventual plan or plans based on the overall thinking on the matter. This should be followed by a continuous search for improvements in agricultural methods, to the gain of not only the people of this nation but possibly of the entire world, by passing our knowledge on to needy peoples. For if the time comes when all, or even most of the inhabitants of this world, have sufficient food and clothing, then perhaps we shall have taken a long step toward a more peaceful life for all of us.

Press Paragraphs—BIG BUSINESS CHARITY

More than 600 national organizations collected over four and a half billion dollars for charitable causes in the United States last year. At least as much, and possibly enough more to bring the whole bill for charity above ten billions, was collected in drives for local charities, separately or in community chests, or both.

In most cities, hardly a day passes but what there is an appeal for funds from some organization or individual, in spite of the fact that in 1,800 cities money raised for local philanthropies is consolidated into one community chest or united fund appeal.

Federal and local governments have taken over much of what used to be the major charities of another age—food, shelter and clothing for the poor now are furnished under various welfare and social security programs; free milk for babies, school lunch programs and the like have been designed to aid the needs and at the same time to try and get rid of some of the huge food surpluses piled up through the government price support program.

It used to be that the church was looked to for charity needs—the collection of clothing, the filling of food baskets for the poor—these are for the most part relics of a bygone age. Instead the emphasis is for money with which to buy these things through agencies, and this sometimes works a hardship on the churches who are trying to collect enough to keep operating while their members are constantly being tapped for charity funds outside the church.

DONATION JUSTIFIED

The machinery is being geared for an Emergency Polio drive, August 16-31 in Hereford. At the same time, the drive will be nationwide in scope and has as its goal 20 million dollars. Coming a scant six months behind the annual 1934 drive, the time is bad. But, so is polio. Without delving into the publicity material or calling the chairmen, it is easy to realize why the drive is necessary.

Our neighboring town of Canyon, Texas, definitely answers any question along this line. Several cases of polio in that community led sponsors to believe a general epidemic possible. They got in touch with Polio headquarters and, without bickering or trouble, they received gamma globulin shots for more than 800 boys and girls. Still more is on the way.

In this day of high taxes, heavy donations and tremendous living costs, we realize that another polio donation will be definitely a burden to many people. On the other hand, take a look at the results which the Polio foundation has achieved. If you just cannot afford to give, you can't—and that's it. However, if you can spare a few more dimes or a few more dollars, we cannot think of a more worthy or more worthwhile recipient than

MR. AND MRS. GENE GARDENHIRE

Wanda Ruth Gollehon Becomes Bride Of Gene Gardenhire In Dimmitt Rites

In a double-ring ceremony performed at 8 o'clock Saturday, July 17, in the First Methodist Church in Dimmitt Miss Wanda Ruth Gollehon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Gollehon of House, N. M., became the bride of Garland Gene Gardenhire, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gardenhire of Estelline.

Rev. J. Weldon Butler, pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist Church in Amarillo, read the service before an altar draped with white satin and centered with a gold cross. Baskets of white gladioli, greenery and graduated candelabra were used to complete the altar decorations. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Music for the wedding was provided by the bride's uncle, Noel Gollehon, who sang "Through the Years," "Because," and "Wedding Prayer," and Mrs. C. E. Reynolds, aunt of the bride, organist, who accompanied Mr. Gollehon. She also played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Maurer original gown of French imported lace over satin, fashioned with a yoke embroidered with seed pearls and long petal point sleeves. The skirt was accented with tiny lace ruffles which extended into a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of French illusion was attached to a cap trimmed with pearls to match the gown. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Lewis Warren of Dimmitt, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ben Cockrell of Lubbock and Mrs. Curtis Boyd of Big Spring. They wore identical dresses of turquoise blue nylon tulle over taffeta with matching headresses. They carried white lace fans trimmed with pink rosebuds.

Charles Lee Gardenhire of Estelline served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Richard Anderson of Amarillo, Bobby Adams of Estelline and Bill Hunter of Dimmitt.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception held in the Dee Umberson home in Dimmitt.

The table was centered with an arrangement of seasonal flowers. Erma Dean Nunley, sister of the groom, served the three tiered wedding cake and Colline Brown presided at the punch bowl. They were assisted by Emma Jane Brown and Janice Owen. Guests were registered by Joyce Autry. Other members of the house party were Sammy Lamb, Hazel Britt and Doris Harrison.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride chose a luggage tan linen suit accented with avocado accessories. She wore the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the Dimmitt High School and West Texas State College. The groom is a graduate of the Estelline High School and West Texas State College. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gardenhire are employed as teachers in the Lubbock public schools, and will make their home in that city.

What Has Gov. Shivers Done For Hall County?

Here Are Some Of The Answers:

1. During Allan Shivers administration, $1,172,088.89 has been spent on ROADS IN HALL COUNTY. This included the paving of over 39 additional miles of highways.
2. During the last fiscal year, $354,523.31 was spent for your child's education IN HALL COUNTY. It meant better teachers with higher salaries; and school buses and cafeterias with hot noontime meals . . . and other things.

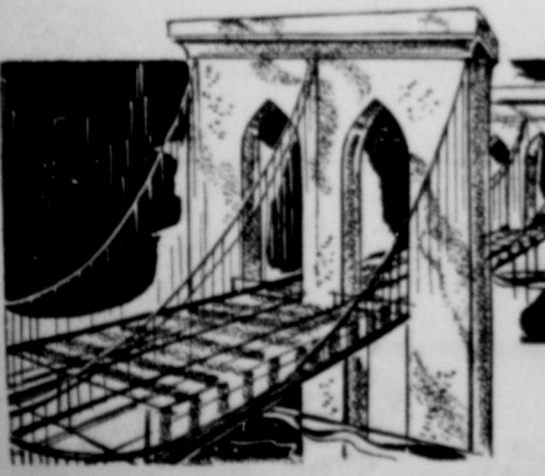

Here Are Other Facts To Remember:

- Gov. Shivers told a radio audience a few days ago that "a fight is looming on this school segregation issue. It will compare to the battle we made to return our lands to the school children of Texas."
- He has consistently fought proponents of State Sales Tax or State Income Tax.
- Gov. Allan Shivers has recognized our section of Texas by appointing several men from this area to commissions and committees.
- Allan Shivers, as State Senator, wrote the first Texas Old Age Assistance Law. He has advocated an increase in old age pensions—and the people will vote on an amendment to do this in the November election.
- He has always been for the farmer. He grew up on a farm, and is fighting to keep union bosses from unionizing farm labor in Texas.

Gov. Allan Shivers' record stands for itself. He should be returned to the Governor's office for another term in the interest of a continuance of good clean government in Texas.

On August 28th, Vote for ALLAN SHIVERS

need moisture. All people are hoping for some general rains right away, believing the result would be a bumper harvest this fall.

Just a little more than two weeks and voters of Texas can exercise their citizenship rights in the second Democratic primary. A lot of propaganda is being released by both sides in gubernatorial race. Voters should weigh the issues well, and let neither prejudice nor dislike sway them in making a choice. Vote for the one who, in your opinion, will do the most for the whole state of Texas and its citizenship. Then, whichever one wins, you will not have lost your vote. The main thing is to vote.

Andrew Womack has a row of corn along his yard fence that would make the tall-corn growers of Iowa blush with shame. Andrew uses a yard stick to try to reach the top of the stalks, and on some he cannot reach the top by standing tiptoe and reaching as far as possible with the yard stick. A few of them are right at 11 feet tall. The Womacks started from scratch this year at their new home, and their lawn flower plots and garden have grown wonderfully well, and it is hard to conceive such magic results. By the way, they had plenty of beans from the garden for themselves and neighbors for more than a month earlier this year.

This week's Wellington Leader tells the reason for Hall County not being credited with running a close second to Collingsworth County in the Amarillo News awards to counties for showing percentage gains in the primary election of votes over paid poll taxes. We quote Deck Wells of The Leader: "It seems that my cousin Claude, of The Memphis Democrat, was somewhat aggravated because Hall County was not mentioned in the awards. The reason was that Hall should have been listed as second. They came within one per cent of defeating Collingsworth, and would have been far ahead of Briscoe if their county clerk had turned in the figures as he was asked to do."

This morning's Amarillo News gives a belated recognition to Hall County in an editorial headed Pardonable Pride. One paragraph was devoted to this county: "Hall County placed second with an excess of 20.1 per cent over the number of poll-taxpayers—another commendable record."

rain and an estimated inch fell at Hedley. The Deep Lake community had about half an inch and Plaska and Pleasant Valley received about one-quarter of an inch.

A. S. Bevers, who lives 6 miles southwest of Lakeview, said Monday that he had about an inch of rain. He said he had two showers Saturday afternoon and one Monday afternoon of last week.

"I never saw crops look more prosperous," Bevers declared. "I didn't gather a bale of cotton last year but prospects now are the best since 1950."

C. L. Sloan, who farms in the Hulver community, reported that .35 of an inch of moisture fell at his place Saturday afternoon and night. He said crops were looking good in that section.

At the T. W. Luttrell farm, near Lakeview, precipitation Saturday night was set at 1.50 inches.

J. F. McIntush, whose home is 4 miles west of Quail, said Wednesday that he had 1.40 inches Saturday night and another .20 of an inch Tuesday afternoon. He said three inches of rain fell on the north part of his section Saturday, filling a tank. Crops are in good condition in his neighborhood, he said.

Precipitation in the Turkey area has been light in the past two months, John Bush, county commissioner from that precinct, said Monday. He placed the probable total in that period at around .20 of an inch. Bush said Turkey received none of last week's showers.

Skies have been cloudy to partly cloudy several times this week but the only moisture to fall here was a sprinkle that dampened the streets Tuesday afternoon. Dew occurred Monday and Tuesday morning.

Temperature ranges during the past week, according to McMickin, were as follows: last Thursday 73-106 degrees; Friday 79-106; Saturday 74-99; Sunday 69-84; Monday 68-96; Tuesday 67-100; Wednesday 70-102. The low reading this morning was 71 degrees.

Courthouse Lawn Getting Grass Cover

Grass was being set out this week on the lawn of the Hall County courthouse here and it should not be long before the grounds will be adding to the attractiveness of the Memphis business section.

County Judge Tracy Davis said Monday that work on the lawn should be completed by the end of this week. The work began last week with the clearing and leveling of the grounds.

The interior and exterior of the courthouse has received a thorough going-over in recent months. Included were the painting of all woodwork, repairing and refinishing plaster, and overhauling the plumbing and wiring.

As a result, the courthouse has taken on an eye-pleasing "new look."

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Blackmon and Steve, returned Monday afternoon from a week's visit with relatives in Kilgore, Waco, Pasadena, Houston, Galveston and Fort Worth. They returned Betsy, Patsy and Bubba Godfrey to their home at Kilgore. The youngsters had been visiting the Blackmons, who are their aunt and uncle.
