Jessen Twins Wed In Double Ceremony; Robert A. Wells Marries Evelyn Jessen

In a double ceremony performed at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Ottumwa, Iowa, twin sisters became brides on Sunday afternoon, April 24. They were Miss Evelyn Mae Jessen who became the bride of Robert A. Wells, Jr., of Memphis and Miss Gwendlyn Jean Jessen who became the bride of Harold Eugene Foster of Baton Rouge, La. Rev. W. H. Michels read the double-ring ceremonies at 2:30 p. m.

The brides are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jessen of Pulaski, Iowa. Mr. Wells is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wells, Sr., of Memphis and Mr. Foster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Foster of Baton Rouge, La.

Mrs. Ed Schreiber played the wedding music and Miss Diane Murphy sang "I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love" as the two couples knelt for the benediction.

Escorted to the altar by their father who gave them in marriage, the sisters wore identical gowns fashioned of imported Chantilly-type lace and gossamer nylon tulle over glowing satin. The fitted bodices featured illusion necklines outlined in scallops of lace and the sleeves were wrist length. The voluminous skirts swept to the back in apron effect to frame panels of tier upon tier of tulle ruffles which tapered from the slender waistlines in widening panels to floor-length where they formed cathedral trains.

Scalloped crowns of pearls caught their double-illusion veils and they carried cascades of deep pink roses with white hyacinths.

Cheryle and Donna Blasi, nieces of the brides, were the ring bearers. They wore full-skirted frocks embroidered yellow nylon sheer, flowered bonnets and carried the rings on satin pillows. Cindy Wagler, another niece, was flower girl. Her frock was identical in style but in lavender and she carried a basket filled with rose petals.

Miss Shirley Jessen, sister of the brides, was the candlelighter. She wore a yellow gown.

Mrs. Vernon Wagler attended her sister Evelyn Mae as matron-of-honor, and Mrs. Blasi was the attendant for Gwendlyn Jean. Their frocks were identical of lavender lace over taffeta with full ballerina skirts and matching lace jackets. They wore flower bonnets with matching lavender modesty veils and carried cascades of yellow carnations.

Richard Jessen, a brother of the brides, attended Mr. Wells as best man and Jerald Blasi, a brother-in-law of the brides, was best man for Mr. Foster. Ushers were Vernon Wagler, Ronald Jessen and Larry Augspurger.

Mrs. Jessen wore for her daughter's wedding a rose beige suit with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Wells wore a grey silk shantung frock with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Foster was unable to come north for her son's wedding.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Lloyd Augspurger, Mrs. Arthur Blasi, Miss Bonnie Augspurger and Miss Jerene Bonar assisting. The tables were appointed in yellow and lavender and the brides table held a double wedding cake wreathed with greens.

For their going-away ensembles the brides chose white faille frocks fashioned in princess lines with which they wore avocado green accessories. Both couples will live in Kansas City, Mo.

The brides were employed at Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., in Ottumwa until recently when went to Kansas City. They are graduates of Pulaski high school.

THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, for homestead property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children, the surviving spouse receives all of the property.

If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property, while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parents who would inherit is deceased. And when descendants of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have received, regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is that, the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their descendants surviving, they divide the entire community

In a double ceremony performed at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Ottumwa, Iowa, twin sisters became brides on Sunday afternoon, April 24. They were Miss Evelyn Mae Jessen who became the bride of Robert A. Wells, Jr., of Memphis and Miss Gwendlyn Jean Jessen who became the bride of Harold Eugene Foster of Baton Rouge, La. Rev. W. H. Michels read the double-ring ceremonies at 2:30 p. m.

The brides are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jessen of Pulaski, Iowa. Mr. Wells is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wells, Sr., of Memphis and Mrs. Foster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Foster of Baton Rouge, La.

Mrs. Ed Schreiber played the wedding music and Miss Diane Murphy sang "I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love" as the two couples knelt for the benediction.

Escorted to the altar by their father who gave them in marriage, the sisters wore identical gowns fashioned of imported Chantilly-type lace and gossamer nylon tulle over glowing satin. The fitted bodices featured illusion necklines outlined in scallops of lace and the sleeves were wrist length. The voluminous skirts swept to the back in apron effect to frame panels of tier upon tier of tulle ruffles which tapered from the slender waistlines in widening panels to floor-length where they formed cathedral trains.

Scalloped crowns of pearls caught their double-illusion veils and they carried cascades of deep pink roses with white hyacinths.

Cheryle and Donna Blasi, nieces of the brides, were the ring bearers. They wore full-skirted frocks embroidered yellow nylon sheer, flowered bonnets and carried the rings on satin pillows. Cindy Wagler, another niece, was flower girl. Her frock was identical in style but in lavender and she carried a basket filled with rose petals.

Miss Shirley Jessen, sister of the brides, was the candlelighter. She wore a yellow gown.

Mrs. Vernon Wagler attended her sister Evelyn Mae as matron-of-honor, and Mrs. Blasi was the attendant for Gwendlyn Jean. Their frocks were identical of lavender lace over taffeta with full ballerina skirts and matching lace jackets. They wore flower bonnets with matching lavender modesty veils and carried cascades of yellow carnations.

Richard Jessen, a brother of the brides, attended Mr. Wells as best man and Jerald Blasi, a brother-in-law of the brides, was best man for Mr. Foster. Ushers were Vernon Wagler, Ronald Jessen and Larry Augspurger.

Mrs. Jessen wore for her daughter's wedding a rose beige suit with navy accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Wells wore a grey silk shantung frock with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Foster was unable to come north for her son's wedding.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors with Mrs. Lloyd Augspurger, Mrs. Arthur Blasi, Miss Bonnie Augspurger and Miss Jerene Bonar assisting. The tables were appointed in yellow and lavender and the brides table held a double wedding cake wreathed with greens.

For their going-away ensembles the brides chose white faille frocks fashioned in princess lines with which they wore avocado green accessories. Both couples will live in Kansas City, Mo.

The brides were employed at Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., in Ottumwa until recently when they went to Kansas City. They are graduates of Pulaski high school.

THE LAW in Texas

WHAT SHOULD DIE . . .
What will happen if you should die? . . . What about executing a legal and will? Who will inherit your property? Your husband, mother, father, children, or other relatives? The best way to provide for your family is to provide a will which will provide for your rightful beneficiaries and dispose of your property in accordance with your wishes. If a deceased has no will, the "intestate" as the law calls it, the property of that person is distributed according to a detailed plan fixed by law. In many cases this may be the way in which the property would divide it-but in many cases it is not. The provisions of the law concerning the distribution of the property of a person who dies without a will are rather complicated and all of the possibilities are covered by a general will. There are different rules for real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, for homestead property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children, the surviving spouse receives all of the property.

If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property, while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parents who would inherit is deceased. And when descendants of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have received, regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is that, the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their descendants surviving, they divide the entire community of the three. "Very proud of the little girls are paternal grandma and pa, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Odewaldt and great grandfather, C. E. Hill of Mapleton; maternal grandfather, Willie A. Only about seven species of fish are well known to the average person, but there are about 200 varieties sold in the United States plus about 40 varieties of shellfish. Poultry authorities say there is a definite need in Texas for increasing flock numbers to more economical units—to at least 1,000 layers. A Few Tickets

A few boat and train tickets back in the 19th century might have been the answer to our present world troubles between communism, socialism and free enterprise.

When Marx, Trotsky and their cronies were dreaming up their plans for workers' utopias through government owned businesses, someone should have sent them on a tour of the United States, and let them have a look at what free enterprise can do. Even though the American worker in the 19th century didn't have the best conditions, they were as good, or better than what the communist and socialist country workers have at the present.

Had the fathers of Communism and Socialism been able to see what a free working man has, they probably would have scrapped their unworkable plans for a classless society, which is an impossibility, and joined the free enterprise movement.

There is nothing like competition to make a business work for customers, and where government owns everything there is no competition and the initiative to try and give better service is killed, so the buyer suffers from poor service, and even poorer products.

In communist run East Germany it takes four month's pay earned by an average factory worker to buy a 10 inch television, if he didn't have to use the money to buy the necessities of life. And should he be able to buy the set he could only watch government controlled telecasts.

A few boat and train tickets for the United States citizens, who think that the government can run things better than free enterprise, to government run countries might also cure some of our present and future troubles with "creeping socialism."

If these under the cover socialist could see people going hungry because government owned farms can't or won't produce enough food, and workers just barely existing on what they can earn in government factories, they would come home content to struggle along with their 21 inch televisions and 1955 automobiles, and live in their five to 10 room houses.

No matter how one looks at things or where he goes, he just can't find a system that beats ours for the masses of people. We have it "good" and if we are smart, we will see that some "crackpot" doesn't change it, which we are enjoying life.

Armed Forces Day

Today the nation pauses a few hours to pay tribute to the men of the Armed Forces, for this Armed Forces Day. The men who are in the services for one hitch, or for life will receive well deserved tributes from a nation that is learning that it can't exist in today's world without a strong military organization.

In a nation that longs for peace and never wants war, our military men sometimes become the forgotten legion. People are prone to consider the soldier, sailor, airman, and marine as a burden on the national budget in times of peace, but we are being forced to realize by present world conditions that a strong "fighting organization" is the best insurance against war.

As a nation we should never consider our Armed Forces as a "burden", but as protectors of our way of life. They give up much, so that we may have the things that make America.

Today, stop and give thanks that this nation has men who are willing to sacrifice the everyday pleasure of home and family in order that the United States can be strong and, thereby, safe for the rest of us.

Strange Partnership
The unexpected support in Congress of the 90 per cent of parity support price for farm products by the CIO makes some of us wonder what is going on.

It has been but a short time ago when rigid farm support prices were attacked quite bitterly by organized labor. Now they have made an about-face and demand higher support prices.

Proponents of the bill for 90 per cent supports say these supports need to be reinstated because the present variable support system is further reducing farm income.

However, the variable supports are not ever in effect and won't be until the 1955 harvest. So how could these reduce farm income now?

TWO GIRLS WIN SENIOR HONORS— Announcement was made this week by Ike W. Jay, principal of the senior high school of the honor students in the Senior Class of 1955. Clara Alexander was awarded the honors of valedictorian with an average for the year of 95 7-8. Ida Jones received salutatorian honors with an average of 95 2-8. Homer Shankle is the honor student among the boys with an average of 90 2-8. A number of other members of the Senior Class made high averages. THREE CARS MIRE DOWN IN QUICKSAND— "If you don't know quicksand you had better stay out of there!" This was the warning of oldtimers along the banks of streams near the Plaska community last Saturday night, and when three residents of that community, Buck Owens, Tom Ellis, and Elvis Barnes, failed to hear this warning and drove their cars into the streams, they lost them in the treacherous sands.

The Farm Bureau is in favor of reducing farm surpluses thru expansion of foreign market and through a more realistic free enterprise system of prices in the United States. The Farm Bureau is also in favor of giving variable price supports a chance to reduce farm surpluses. The Farm Bureau and other groups say that they are in the dark as to why this present support by organized labor. Could it be that organized labor would like to call for some support in their drive for a maximum wage of 90 cents an hour and a guaranteed annual wage? Politics make strange partners sometimes. —Ochiltree County Herald Powered by the most modern V8 in any truck... Chevrolet's new Taskmaster V8 engine!

Chevrolet's great new L.C.F. models bring you all the advantages of a C.O.E. —plus a long list of important new advances you won't find anywhere else. For example, the cab is a full seven inches lower than former C.O.E. models. And it has only two steps instead of the usual three for C.O.E.'s. Just think of the time and effort this will save the driver! Also, the low L.C.F. is handsomer by far than any C.O.E. ever built! Inside, the L.C.F.'s new Flight-Ride cab has a level floor with plenty of "stretch-out" leg room and offers new driver comfort. The driver has a commanding view of the road—both far ahead and close up front—through the big, broad panoramic windshield. Quicker, simpler maintenance is another big advantage offered by the new L.C.F. Everything's easier to reach in the roomy engine compartment. In an L.C.F. you still get the easy maneuverability of a C.O.E. plus—new frames, new suspension, a whole truck-load of modern features!

Shortest Stroke V8 of All! The new Taskmaster V8—the most modern V8 your money can buy—powers the new L.C.F. With a 12-volt electrical system for faster starting!

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers

Congressman, 18th District

AMERICAN FARMER today and the House are embroiled in bitter debate over the future of the farmer. The bill under consideration is H. R. 12, which provides for the six-year support on the six commodities, cotton, corn, peanuts, tobacco and rice, at a level of parity for the years 1955, 1956 and 1957. The economy as it stands today, the American farmer is entitled to the passage of H. R. 12. However, you will know of the legislature by the time it reaches you. I hope that it is good.

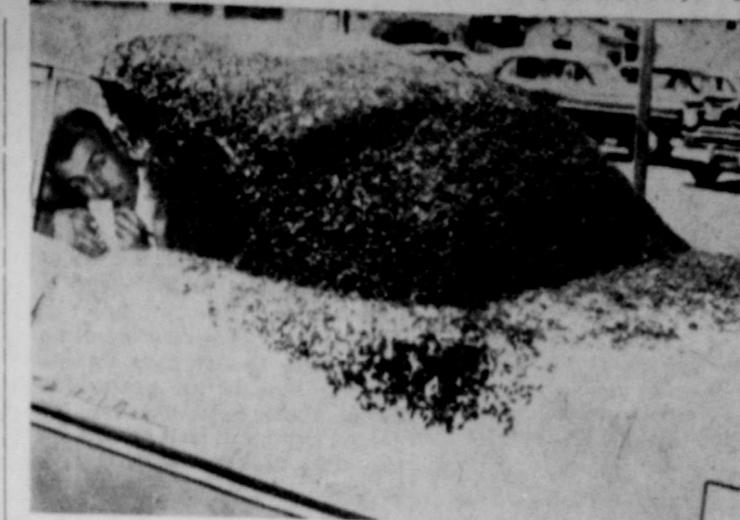

I propose to introduce an amendment in a very few hours which will increase the price support on our section of grain sorghums. This is important to our section of the country, because grain sorghum is a major cash crop in many parts of Texas and in many parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. I am opposed to the amendment because it would reduce the price support on sorghum to a level below the cost of production. The bill will probably fail because it is designed to contribute to the economic equality of the farmer.

There has been a propaganda campaign going on in many of the areas against the American farmer. He has been portrayed as a scoundrel who has stolen the public treasury for the consumption of food products. This campaign is, in my opinion, a deliberate and it is malicious. Some of the accusations directed against the American farmer would lead to believe that the beads of a man's brow have now become a badge of dishonor. God that we ever reach that point would definitely denote the failure of Christian civilization.

It happens to the American farmer during our generation to determine the future of the country. We have during the past few years permitted the price to drop tragically, at the same time the cost of production is increasing. This not only hurts the farmer, but it also hurts the small independent business man in the rural communities in a way from which he cannot defend himself and must face bankruptcy. The decrease in price has resulted in a substantial failure of the farm population. The records will reflect the migration from the metropolitan areas and a decrease in the general market. In other words, the consumer of the products of labor is fast becoming a consumer of those products. The consumer therefore can result in nothing but a general economic depression. This means unemployment, means social problems, means subsequent demands for present governmental programs. This contributes to the perpetuation of the country visualized by the signed Declaration of Independence. Destroy the family-sized farm, and you destroy America.

ed in Phillips, Texas, as guests of the Phillips Garden Club, honored my office with a visit before returning to their native lands. Both are lawyers and are leaders in a large number of organizations in their respective countries. They were most gracious and high in their praise for the Panhandle of Texas, and especially those people whose hospitality they enjoyed. I asked them what impressed them more than anything else in their whole trip. Both agreed that it was not the vast expanse of this country, the great industrial capacity, nor the standard of living which we enjoy, but the fact that they found everyone in this country, whether residing in Texas, New York, or some other state, to be an American first. They told me that they had thought that the people in the different states of the United States were more or less divided in their general philosophies, mannerisms, and so forth, but found during their visit that a Texan in New York was an American first, just as a New Yorker would be in Texas. This is a point that I think should be enlarged upon by the Voice of America and all other mediums through which America can be advertised to foreign countries. If these two outstanding personages were surprised at finding that a Texan feels at home in St. Louis or Oklahoma City, the same as a Virginian would feel in Chicago or Portland, it should certainly be good information for all the world. It could very easily clarify in the minds of the Russians or other red followers any question as to the unity of this country.

It was very noticeable that these two fine women found this country and Texas people invigorating and refreshing. They both appeared reluctant to end what must have been a most pleasant visit. Thanks to the fine ladies in the Phillips Garden Club, and your good neighbors, for striking such a splendid blow for good foreign relations.

Teacher Workshop For Audio-Visual Aids Held Here

As part of their in service training, the teachers of Memphis High School attended an audio-visual teaching aids workshop conducted in the high school cafeteria Wednesday afternoon.

The workshop was conducted by Hugh C. Proctor, consultant in audio-visual education for the Texas Education Agency.

Proctor said his job was to promote and improve audio-visual aids to education for classroom use.

"The day has come when we have a cross-section of children from all of society, not the ones who can read and comprehend the printed word. Therefore, we must have some method to help the child who can't grasp the printed word—that is audio-visual education," Mr. Proctor stated.

"Visual aids are to augment the book, not replace it," he said. "I am here to encourage the teachers to use the aids, and also to show them how to use the aids to a better advantage," he added.

Mr. Proctor also discussed with the teachers, the House of Representatives Bill No. 844, which would increase and de-centralize state educational film libraries to points all over the state.
