Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers

Congressman, 18th District

ANOTHER FIRST
 Good friend Tom Steed, who represented the 4th Congressional District in Oklahoma, was recently re-elected to the House of Representatives and Congress in the opening of the Inter-American Highway between Nicaragua and Costa Rica. This was the first time that it has ever been possible to go from the Capital of Costa Rica to the Capital of Nicaragua on an all-weather highway.

It is one of the important achievements in the Inter-American highway program which we all hope will be completed in the not too distant future. Tom is a very loyal Congressman and never fails to bring us Texans about as much news as he can get from his travels. He thinks Oklahoma might be a bit superior at that time. As soon as he returns to the Central American and Caribbean ceremonies, he will be up and said, "Rogers, tell you this story even if it might hurt my pride."

He proceeded to relate to me the ceremonies attending the opening of this important highway about the gathering of the high officials of the government from both countries. He said that immediately after the ceremonies had officially opened, everyone was waiting to see the first car to make the trip.

to make use of the road. He said it was just a few minutes before a car hove into sight, and everyone was waiting to see where it was from. Tom's face then fell and he said, "I swore it couldn't happen, but it did. The license plate was TEXAS." He then laughed, because he is an excellent sport, and walked off mumbling to himself that no matter where you go, the first fellow you run into is a Texan, even in the wilds of the Central American jungles.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF GAS

As I pointed out in several previous newsletters, we are engaged in a very serious and most difficult fight to prevent the Federal Government from regulating the production and gathering of gas and the price thereof at the well-head. We had extended committee hearings concerning this matter and heard from witnesses from every conceivable source. The public hearings were then concluded and we began consideration of the proposed legislation (several bills) in executive session. This means that the discussions are in confidence and are not to be divulged except through the Chairman by proper agreement. Immediately after our first executive meeting on the gas bills, the newspaper came up with a story purporting to be authentic as to what the committee had done. It was partially true and partially untrue, but created sufficient confusion to require a correct statement to be made by the Chairman. No one knows where the leak was in the first place, but it was a good example of how people can get misled. A story in a Washington paper concerning the matter stated in the headlines that the committee had decided upon certain federal controls of gas at the well-head. This was not true at all, but it would very easily serve to confuse the average reader. It would actually indicate to some readers that some of the wild misrepresentations that have been published about gas producers were true and that federal control was necessary. This is a very dangerous practice. It is not fair to the reader, it is not fair to the subject, and it is not fair to the publisher. The simple truth is that the committee has not reached any conclusions on any of the issues involved and probably won't for several days. Wouldn't it be nice if the people could have the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth on all of the issues, domestic and international? It would no doubt be a short cut to peace. But I guess there will always be the confusion created by innuendo, insinuation and misunderstanding.

CONGRESS

Congress moves into its cleaning up process before the closing days. The committees are all hard at work trying to get the legislation on the House Calendar within the next two weeks, knowing that unless it is brought before the House before the 10th to the 15th of June, it will have no chance of passing both Houses this session. This means that efforts will be made by many groups to have legislation helpful to them passed upon as speedily as possible. This will require added vigilance upon the part of the Members of Congress because history has shown that sometimes questionable legislation slips through these busy hours. Each committee and subcommittee must carefully scrutinize the bills coming before it. We hope to adjourn by July 15th, but realize that it will probably be nearer to August 15th or September 1st. It does not presently appear that there will be anything to hold us past August 15th, so I am choosing that as the adjournment date.

Questions & Answers For Veterans

Q. As a disabled Korea veteran, I obtained a $5,000 permanent GI insurance policy. Would I be eligible for an additional $5,000 of insurance, even though more than a year has elapsed since I received my disability rating from VA?

A. No. Under the law, disabled Korea veterans have only one year from the date of their disability ratings to apply for GI insurance. Insurance may not be granted if they wait longer than a year.

Q. I am entitled to three years of training under the Korean GI Bill, based on the length of my military service. Can I get all three years if I take on-the-job training?

A. If your on-the-job training is not a regular apprenticeship course, the maximum you will be allowed, under the law, is two years, even though you do have basic entitlement for three. Apprenticeships, however, are not bound by the two-year limit.

Q. If I get a GI business loan that does not involve real estate, is there any maximum period of time the law allows me to pay it off?

A. Yes. Under the law, non-real estate GI business loans must be repaid within 10 years. Your lender has the right to require repayment over a shorter period of time.

Three out of four traffic accidents involve passenger cars.

Seventy-eight per cent of vehicles involved in fatal accidents in 1954 were traveling straight ahead.

Fire Truck Chasers

Some people in Memphis, as in every town in the country are endangering their lives, other peoples lives, and property with a dangerous and senseless habit—that of chasing right behind fire trucks.

This habit has reached such a point in Memphis that the City Police are dusting off the ordinance which prohibits following fire trucks, and are getting ready to put some teeth in it.

There is nothing like a big fire to attract a crowd, but there are too many people trying to beat the firemen to the scene. They are creating a traffic hazard and impeding the work of the volunteer firemen.

Everytime there is a fire alarm here in Memphis the firemen have to come from all over town to the scene. If the streets leading to the fire are jammed with the traffic of "eye-ballers," these men, who are needed at the fire, are slowed down and property which might have been saved is lost.

Not only is this excess traffic to the fire working hardship on the fire department, but the way people park their cars after they get on the scene make it almost impossible for the trucks to get to the fire plugs to connect-up and pump water on the blaze. When the vacant house on ninth street burned a few weeks ago, the firemen had trouble getting to the fire plugs, because people had their cars parked near them.

While the firemen were waiting for water the house next door caught fire and the house at the back was smouldering as though it might break into flames at any minute.

In the interest of safety and fire prevention, the next time the fire siren sounds, check that impulse to jump into your car and race to the scene of the fire. Wait a few minutes and give the firemen and equipment time to get there. You won't miss much, for if the fire is big enough to be interesting to watch, you can still see it, and if it is just a small one and is put out quickly you will have saved gas by not going.

To paraphrase a well used slogan, "The house the firemen save, might be your own."

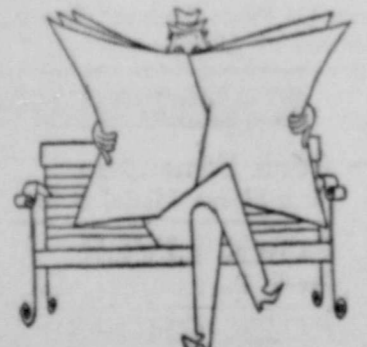

Early Armed Forces Day

Some of our readers claim they know everything that is in the paper before it comes out, but we sure pulled a fast one on them last week. We observed Armed Forces Day Nine days before the rest of the nation.

Early last week when we sat down to write our editorials for the week, we must have had our glasses on backwards, for when we began looking over the advance publicity about the coming events to be held during Armed Forces Day, we read the date as May 12, when it was really May 21. Well, we'll blame it on our glasses, but it might be that we just don't read so well.

Being as the rest of the nation is waiting until May 21, to observe the day, we will go along, but that is one thing you readers didn't know before the paper came out.

Had You Thought Of What "5-5-55" Really Is?

It took the fertile brain of Milton Autry, who edits the column "Across the Editor's Desk" in the Coleman County Chronicle, to enlighten this editor just what was unusual about Thursday, May 5, 1955—the date of his paper's publication day and that of The Stanton Reporter. Autry said: "5-5-55."

"Those who have today used the short abbreviation for May 5, 1955, might take note that the figures are unusual, and won't be repeated for another 100 years. It will be the first and the last time, for us (with very rare exception) to use 5-5-55 in date abbreviations. Furthermore, it will be 11 years before a similar situation comes about, when we will have 6-6-66, representing June 6, 1966."

Another thing unusual to happen in this month of May. There are five Sundays, five Mondays, and five Tuesdays.

The History of Liberty

"The history of liberty is the history of limitations of governmental power, not the increase of it," said the late President Woodrow Wilson. Ever since civilization began, men have had to fight for freedom against all-powerful forebears on guard against any avoidable extension of the power of government.

Many say that cannot happen here, in our own country. But the lesson of history is that it can happen anywhere and will happen—unless the people and their representatives are oppressive states. And, since the Wilson era, such states have reached zeniths of dictatorship and tyranny.

THE LAW

trary is clearly proved. Now, here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provisions prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously deceased children, the children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title in two-thirds of the real estate involved. The surviving spouse receives a life interest in the remaining one-third of the real property, which passes on to the children and their descendants upon the death of the spouse.

Golf Turney Opens When Weather Fairs

Play in the first golf tournament of the season will get underway as soon as the weather clears, according to J. W. Coppedge, chairman of the tournament committee of the Memphis Country Club.

Club members who have entered the tournament have been placed in three groups, and will play as two-man teams in what is known as a "low-ball" contest, Coppedge said. Each team will play three matches of 18 holes.

and was around 26 to 28 years old.

The man they identified as the hoodlum was 5 feet, 10 1/2 inches tall, weighed 155, and was 30 years old.

The two men even described him down to his receding hairline on each side of his forehead.

The only thing Woodring would say when he was confronted by the two men was that he didn't even know where Memphis, Texas, was located, the sheriff said.

He is also reported to have said that he was going to send everyone who had identified him in the different robberies to prison for perjury, because he had never been in any of the towns where the robberies were committed.

Woodring allegedly worked alone in all four robberies and the two men were in Foster's when it was robbed said the "stick-up" was very "cool" throughout the robbery.

He even interrupted the robbery to read a magazine while Galloway waited on a customer who came in during the robbery.
