Town Closing Today for Final Clean-Up

The town is closing up today to off all the trash that can not be burned. Tractor mowers have been working all week in an effort to cut the weeds on all the streets, and vacant lots where the owners have not kept them cut.

City-wide survey made Tuesday by the Junior Chamber of Commerce revealed there were still some lots in town that had not been cut and some yards around vacant houses were grown up, but as a whole the town was much cleaner than before the drive began.

The clean-up committees have decided to by-pass the Morning-side section of town because most of the people living there are chopping cotton from morning until night and have not been able to clean around their homes.

The committee heads have indicated that a drive will be made after most of the chopping is done to enable the people to have a chance to clean-up and get their trash hauled off.

The first plans for cleaning up the town was made three weeks ago when a city-wide meeting was called for that purpose. Committees appointed at that and later meetings decided that because of the abundant growth of weeds since the May and June floods the usual one day clean-up campaign would not be enough, so an entire week was set aside for cleaning up and one day for hauling off.

The cleaning up and beautification of Memphis will not end with today's final drive. A meeting has been called for Monday night in the City Hall at 7:30, for organizing a permanent clean-up, improvement and beautification committee to take over where this emergency committee leaves off.

FFA Boys Leave On Summer Trip

The Memphis Future Farmers of America left Wednesday for their annual summer trip. Chapter sponsor, Hershel Potts said that 22 boys were planning to go on this trip through New Mexico.

Potts said the first day they planned to drive to Carlsbad Caverns and tour them, then on the Rudosa and Raton and possible other points of interest, before coming back Sunday.

The group plans to stop and visit several ranches and irrigated farms along the route, so the trip will not be all entertainment, but have some practical educational value, Potts added. The boys are making the trip in the new Memphis school bus and are accompanied by Potts and Cecil Whitten.

TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOL FUNDS receive a boost as Attorney General John Ben Shepperd (right) presents a check for one and one-half million dollars won by the State in a recent decision in the Texas Company case to Land Commissioner Earl Rudder (left). The money goes to the Permanent School Fund. Shepperd estimated that this court victory will ultimately mean an additional $9 million dollars in revenue for the school children of Texas.

1955 Rates Passed For County Taxes

In their Monday meeting, the Hall County Commissioners Court passed unanimously the tax rate for Hall County for 1955.

Four major funds still collect 95 cents on the $100 valuation of all taxable property in Hall County, but it redistributes the amount that each fund shall receive.

The county ad valorem tax for general purposes was raised from 38 to 50 cents per $100 valuation.

The road and bridge fund tax remained at 30 cents per $100 valuation. Fifteen cents of this will go into the statutory road and bridge fund, with 11 cents or as much as may be necessary, to be credited to the road and bridge warrant sinking fund. An additional special road tax makes up the other 15 cents.

The jury fund tax rate was cut from six to four cents per $100 valuation.

Another cut was made in the permanent improvement fund tax rate. It was sliced almost in half when it was set at 11 cents per $100 valuation. It has been 21 cents per $100 valuation.

Besides setting the rate for these four major funds, the commissioners set the rate for three more taxes.

A poll tax of 25 cents was levied to be collected from every person under the age of sixty and over the age of twenty-one and not exempt from said tax by law, who resides in Hall County.

An occupation tax of one-half the amount levied and imposed by the statutes of all taxable occupations in Hall County, to be collected from all persons, corporations, or firms engaged in, or who may engage in any occupation in Hall County which is taxable by law.

A 10 cent tax per $100 valuation was levied on all taxable property situated within Consolidated Road District No. 1, in Hall County, for bond service.

Acting unanimously, the commissioners passed an order giving a legal discount of three per cent if taxes are paid in October, 1955, a two per cent discount if they are paid in November, 1955, and a one per cent discount if taxes are paid in December, 1955.

Methodist Revival Begins In Lakeview

The Methodist revival at Lakeview will begin Sunday, Aug. 14, and will run all week, closing out Sunday the 21st. The services will begin each evening at 8:00 o'clock with Rev. J. F. Michael doing the preaching.

Rev. Michael is the pastor of the Methodist Church in Wellington, and has been pastor there for the past five years. He has been noted for his long and effective ministry at every place where he has been appointed.

"In Rev. Michael we have a man with a warm heart and a warm message that will be of benefit to every person in Lakeview," Rev. H. E. Parmenter, pastor of the Lakeview church, said.

Each boy was selected for doing outstanding 4-H Club work in their respective clubs. Each boy also had to pass a physical examination before leaving for the encampment. The Hall County members attending were Bobby Stevens, Jerry Chandler, Clayton L. Lisenby, Ronnie George and Jay Pierce of Turkey; Mike Cox of Baylor, Mackie Salmon, Nolan Salmon, Roy Alvin, Tony and Jimmy Don Molloy, and Jerry Byars of Lakeview; Don Widener, Mike Widener, Johnny Lavender, Phil Howard, and Daryl Long of Memphis.

$258,100 Budget Passed By Hall Commissioners

A budget of $258,100.00 was approved Monday by the Hall County Commissioners' court.

Estimated tax receipts are $95,000 and other revenues are estimated at $109,100, making a total of $204,100 in revenue. The balance on Jan. 1, 1956, will be $54,000. Net at the end of 1956 is expected to be $38,440.

This coming year's budget is $14,850 above the current year's budget of $243,250.

Receipts by funds are estimated as follows: jury, $9000; road and bridge, $137,000; general, $60,800; permanent improvement, $21,100; and officers salary, $29,500. Out of the general fund $20,000 has been allocated to the officers salary fund.

County Judge Tracy Davis explained that since the budget estimates for 1956 are made up in July, 1955, the only valuation figure available is the rendered valuation reported by the county tax assessor-collector. The estimated valuation for 1955 is $10,000,000 with a proposed tax levy of 95 cents, the same as it has been for several years.

The total estimated expenditures in the new budget comes to $219,800. This is $32,095 above this year's estimated expenses of $187,565.

Estimated expenditures by funds for 1956 are: jury, $3,515; road and bridge, $127,300; general, $27,670; permanent improvement, $12,050; and officers salary, $49,125.

In 1956 the estimated expenditures for roads are as follows: Precinct 1, $36,700; Precinct 2, $29,850; Precinct 3, $30,550; Precinct 4, $30,200.

In preparing for working up the report, he said, the school faculty was organized into eight committees: curriculum planning, social studies, other instrumental areas, pupil services, individual need, facilities and materials, methods used and pupil progress.

One teacher from each of the schools was placed on each committee. After the committees had worked for two weeks, the chairman of each committee had a meeting to discuss their problems and progress.

Sheep Are Important In Atomic Research

By BILL JURY

The cast of characters vital to the development of atomic energy lists many players; scientists, engineers, designers, research teams, laborers, clerks, and strangely enough—sheep.

Sheep and other domestic animals are an important part of a plan to probe into the many unknowns of the atomic age.

In tidy pens in the shadow of the huge Hanford atomic energy plant near Richland, Wash., sheep are being studied by some of the world's foremost biologists to determine how they react to radioactive isotopes. Findings from these studies already have helped scientists take long strides in the field of veterinary medicine, and have provided answers to perplexing problems pertaining to atomic energy.

What happens to livestock exposed to excessive radiation, and, for that matter what amount is excessive? Those questions are being answered at the Hanford plant today by General Electric company scientists whose chief laboratories are clean brick barns where their purebred Suffolk sheep are housed.

Countless experiments proved that highly radioactive waste particles from the plutonium-producing Hanford Works are not harmful to animals or humans after they have been dispelled in the atmosphere, despite the fact that many particles eventually fall to the earth and settle on grazing lands.

However, suppose the plan facilities were altered or increased; suppose another plant were built elsewhere in the nation where wind currents swooped the particles to the ground instead of scattering them into the atmosphere as they do at Hanford.

One part of GE's job is to determine if a greater number of particles, or a greater concentration of particles, would be harmful to man or animal in the vicinity. Again, the team of biologists and their black-faced Suffolk sheep are providing an answer to the riddle.

Since 1950, experiments have been conducted in GE laboratories in an attempt to define the threshold level between safety and danger. The Suffolk sheep have been fed concentrated food pellets spiked with I-131, radioactive iodine. Quantities of the radioactive iodine are varied in a search to locate the amount which may be ingested daily without causing either structural or functional changes in the animal.

Every other condition to promote health is included in the care of the sheep so that the experiments are conducted on normal, healthy animals. They are among the nation's best fed sheep, staving away liberal quantities of vitamins and minerals and nutrients in the form of alfalfa, grain, and concentrated food pellets.

In time, the biologists' work with sheep will provide part of the information that will be needed by engineers and scientists who design future atomic plants and will furnish much information of value to the entire livestock industry and to the medical profession.

Plan Fall Grain Now, Says Expert

COLLEGE STATION — Four items should now be receiving attention from farmers who expect to make planting of small grains this fall.

According to Ben R. Spears, extension agronomist, the four are selection of the area to be planted; taking and sending soil testing laboratory a soil sample from the selected field or fields and buying the fertilizer needed; choosing the best adapted variety along with a source of seed and preparation of the seedbed.

Spears in commenting on the first recommends planting the crop on land which was not in small grains last year. Rotation, he says, will help control insects and soil borne diseases. This means better yields and quality in the grain produced.

The only sure way to know what plant foods are needed to make the crop most productive is to have an analysis made of the soil on which it is to be grown.

"Take the guess out of fertilizer requirements by soil testing," says Spears.

Plant food deficiencies are often confused with insect injury, and research has shown that grazing benefits as well as grain yields can be greatly increased through the use of the proper kinds and amounts of fertilizers.

New varieties of small grains adapted to specific areas have been developed by research and Spears recommends that farmers contact their local county agents for the latest information on varieties for their area and also sources of certified planting seed.

He says all planting seed should be treated with a fungicide before it is planted to control seedling and seed and soil borne diseases.

By preparing the land early, the seedbed has time to settle and catch and hold moisture, says Spears. Between now and planting time, he advises only tillage sufficient to control weed growth.

Oats may be dry-planted but it is a bit hazardous to follow this practice in seeding barley and wheat, says the specialist. Finally, he suggests a visit with the local county agent for the latest information on small grain production problems.

Prepare vegetables as short a time as possible before cooking.

Wheeler Observing 50th Anniversary

The town of Wheeler will celebrate its 50th anniversary on Saturday, Aug. 20, 1955, and according to reports from general chairman, R. J. Holt, Jr., there will be fun for all when the curtain goes up on the big celebration to be held throughout the town.

Wheeler was founded in 1905 by James Stanley and R. B. Rogers on a plot of 160 acres. It has grown to a city 2 1/2 miles by 1 1/2 mile. The whole community has gone all-out to see that all have a good time on its 50th Birthday.

The Ex-Students Reunion scheduled for that week end will add much to the celebration. Ex-Students registration will begin Friday, August 19 with special activities Friday night. They will meet by classes in various homes in and around Wheeler. A permanent organization is to be set up during the week end.

The big free Bar-B-Q at noon Saturday will be the highlight of the day. 1500 pounds of beef, 350 pounds of beans, 400 loaves of bread, 50 gallons of coffee and 350 gallons of ice tea will be served at noon on the northeast corner of the square. All necessary eating accessories will be furnished.

Other activities of the day include: Registration of Old Timers and ex-students in the Pennington building starting at 9:30 a. m.; Address by Walter Rogers; Dinner music by Hurshel Clothier and his dance orchestra; interview of oldtimers by Harry Wofford, County Clerk, over the loud speaker; an old time fiddler's contest; square dance contest; and a street dance to close the day on Saturday night.

E. D. Dick Guynes is in charge of the Old Fiddler's Contest and will receive entries until starting time of the contest. Bring your fiddles.

Rhodes Carnival rides will help furnish entertainment during the entire week of the celebration with concessions of all types operated by the local clubs and organization of Wheeler.

Hurshel Clothier of Woodward, Okla., will bring his Oklahoma Travlers to furnish music for the square dance at night. The Wheeler School Band will play during the morning to help provide color and entertainment.

Come to Wheeler Saturday, August 20 to enjoy yourself; visit relatives, friends or neighbors of bygone days; out of curiosity, or for any other reason — but come.

Liberal retirement benefits are now in effect for members of the Army Reserve.

Shepperd Rules Old Age Pension Increase In Sept.

AUSTIN — Attorney General John Ben Shepperd ruled last week that the old people of Texas will begin receiving increased old age assistance benefits in September.

The bill passed by the Legislature provided for the additional $7 million dollars in assistance to begin in September. But because the bill was passed by a voice vote, it ran into a constitutional snag providing that such bills cannot go into effect until 90 days after the session ends which would be September 6.

The delay in the effective date raised a question as to whether the additional funds could be made available before October 1. Shepperd ruled that the increased allocations for September could be made September 6. This permits payment of the increase for that month.

This opinion was requested by the State Department of Public Welfare.

A Fast Town

A traveler passing through Memphis might be prone to put this town in the "quiet and slow" category with so many other towns of its size that dot the broad prairies of West Texas. However, should he tie his 150 horsepower automobile to the nearest lightpost and stay around a few days he would go away with a different attitude.

On the surface we do look a lot like many other towns, but the big difference between us and other towns is our ability to get things done in a hurry when the need arises.

Twice in the last few months important matters have been placed before the town and the concentrated effort put forth by almost the whole town has been surprising. People who had been going about their everyday business have stepped forth as hardworking leaders and pushed the projects to a successful conclusion.

First, it was the matter of getting property owners to sign up for low cost street paving in a very few days. The city hoped for maybe 50 blocks when this project started, but citizen leaders stepped forth and when they stopped the town had almost 200 blocks of paving.

Now in the past three weeks the problem of cleaning up the town after two months of floods had almost buried the town in weeds and trash. Again when the necessity arose people stepped into the lead and made plans for getting rid of this health menace.

As in the street program a majority of the people didn't wait to be probed, but they stepped in well ahead of the closing date of the campaign and cleaned up their property. Even before the clean-up drive started last Thursday a big majority of the people were cleaning and burning weeds and trash from around their homes and businesses, so they wouldn't be behind in the beautification parade.

We may have the outward appearance of a "sleepy" town, but when the need arises for immediate action there is not a town anywhere that gets things done faster.

No Extra Light Bills

In the past few weeks the Congress and Executive branches of our federal government acted to save us taxpayers here in Hall County a large electric bill.

The Federal Power Commission gave the go-ahead to private power companies to build three power dams and plants on the Snake river in the Pacific Northwest and also stopped the expansion of the Tennessee Valley Authority by allowing the city of Memphis, Tennessee, to build their own power producing plants.

The Memphis plant is an outgrowth of the much ballyhooed Dixon-Yates contract under which a private company wanted to build a plant to provide power for Memphis and the Atomic Energy Commission, Memphis was against the private company, so they decided to build their own, but either private produced power or city power, we taxpayers down here are being relieved of the burden of paying Memphis' light bill.

In the Snake river fight between government and private financed power plants, the government financing advocates scream "give away" because the private financing group won out. It is hard to see where anything is being given away when people of an area are allowed to pay for something that will benefit only themselves. The only "give away" involved would have been your's and my money to pay for the Pacific Northwest's electricity, had the government built the dams.

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Texas Natural Resources

Texas is exporting a great part of its natural resources and many people of the state are convinced that only powerful lobbies at Austin prevent suitable taxes being levied on these exported natural resources, meaning, in particular, natural gas that goes by the billions of feet to the north and east. So far efforts in this direction have been abortive or have been declared unconstitutional. The resource is being exhausted at a rapid rate. The mine-run citizen thinks that Texas should be getting something for the children of the state out of this exported natural gas before it leaves the state boundary or as it leaves. Such a tax would relieve a great deal of the burden borne by other resources of the state in carrying on the state's educational program. Whether indignation at delay in tapping this natural resource will finally boil over and legislators have to take action willily is to be seen. Apparently people who feel strongly in the matter will have to talk with their representatives about it. —Floyd County Hesperian

Professional Neighbors

Ideas and initiative coming from Dumas boosters and leaders will determine largely the amount of economic benefit to be realized from the new helium plant which has been approved for construction at Exell.

Though the plant, costing a total of something like six million dollars, will be located in Moore County, it will be claimed by Amarillo... which, we may rest assured, already is fast at work making provisions for construction families, good-will movies — and those things which woo the consumer out of the fringe areas into that city's shopping centers.

Dumas and Moore County have as their only edge the fact that the plant will be in Moore County and that children of its employees will attend school here. Of course, Dumas is a little closer than Amarillo—but only a few minutes closer and hardly a strong arguing point.

Dumas can be made to benefit in several ways from the new project. For one thing there will be hundreds of persons working from time to time on the construction chore, which will require something like a year to complete. When the job is done, the number of employees at the Exell plant will approximately double over its current roll.

If we are to receive benefits which could easily pour into Amarillo... then we must be prepared to offer whatever is necessary to attract new people to Dumas.

All available housing should be played up to the newcomer. If ample room can't be found, there should be combined efforts made to create some sort of temporary housing. This problem will come with the building crew and not with those who eventually will live at the plant site as employees.

We must meet, become acquainted with and make feel at home those who will be new to our area and community.

Once housed here and made a part of the community, the new residents, though they may be temporary, will return ample favor to their hosts. —Moore County News

The Four Way Test The Rotary Club has a "Four

- 2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

If a person applied the Four Way Test to his relations with others every day, he soon would be a better parent, a better friend, and a better citizen. The Rotary Four Way Test is a creed that could well be adopted by others. Ochiltree County Herald

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers

Congressman, 18th District

FOR-ALL AT THE WHITE HOUSE

without breaking the world price. However, the Department of Agriculture recently undertook to move some of the surpluses into the world market. The State Department vigorously protested and the cotton surplus problem was again at a standstill. This is not the first time the State Department interfered in efforts to dispose of some of our surpluses. Some people contend that the withholding of our surplus cotton from the world market is like holding a golden umbrella over that market while we continue to build up surpluses and cut down acreage.

The President seemed to be deeply interested in the problem as presented and was making very appropriate remarks. The general conversation had been along the lines of protecting our foreign customers and trying to gradually reduce our surpluses. The meeting was about to close when one Member of Congress spoke up and told the President that he did not agree with anything that had been said about putting part of our surpluses on the world market. He contended that all of the Senators and Members of the House who were supporting such a program were wrong, including the former Secretary of Agriculture, Senator Clint Anderson. This looked like the beginning of the verbal free-for-all, but the President immediately observed that the office was not a debate forum and that he felt he had a pretty good picture of the problem. Everyone left quietly.

It is a tough problem and one that is going to have to be settled at White House level. Many of the countries who are benefiting from the firm world market price are also receiving foreign aid from this country. This means that they are getting both direct and indirect foreign aid, because the surplus cotton in this country is withheld from the world market and must be purchased by Uncle Sam and held in storage. This costs money and brings criticism on the farmers which is not justified.

CONGRESS FINALLY ADJOURNED

The hectic final weeks of Congress which had turned into the hectic final days which had turned into hectic final hours turned into hectic final minutes. At 11:36 p. m., August 2, Speaker Sam Rayburn, on the motion of the Honorable Charles Boyle, Democrat of Illinois, declared the House of Representatives of the United States of America adjourned sine die. The last few hours were a wait and see process. What the Senate would do with several bills that had been stamped essential was not known. If they turned down the conference reports, it would mean another day and, perhaps, another week. However, agreements were finally reached and the business of the Session was wound up. As the Session closed the rumor became widespread that a special session was in the very near future. The President was not pleased with the action of the Congress on the road bill nor was he pleased by the housing bill that passed. The big issue, as I pointed out before, was public housing. The House did not want public housing. The President and the Senate were both for public housing. The compromise was in the nature of an authority to construct 45 thousand units in one year. The President had indicated that the least he would take would be 70 thousand for 2 years. The Senate had voted 135 thousand. However, it is my prediction that there will be no special session. The President can have the housing issue thoroughly argued in the early days of the next session and can have whatever action is necessary debated on a road bill. There is much to be done concerning a road bill, and the several months during this fall should be devoted to working out kinks in this particular.

You've got it good under the hood with a new Chevrolet Task-Force truck! With two new V8's and five new sixes to choose from, you can pick the power that's tailor-made to do your kind of hauling.

Shortest stroke V8's in any leading truck! Both of Chevrolet's new truck V8's have an ultra-short stroke—shortest of any V8 in any leading truck. They're of modern oversquare design, which means that the piston stroke is smaller than the bore. The result is less piston travel per mile... longer engine life. Also, Chevrolet's compact truck V8's deliver exceptionally high horsepower per pound of engine weight. More power is actually available for hauling your loads!

Modern 12-volt electrical system! You get this great development in all new Chevrolet truck engines—both V8's and sixes. The 12-volt electrical system delivers twice the punch for quicker cold-weather starting (up to 30% faster cranking speed). It also provides a hotter, fatter spark for better ignition.
