Oil Bank Cotton Pay 15 to $30 Per Acre

Oil bank cotton pay will range from $15 to $30 per acre, according to the ASC committee met here Friday and set up the various production brackets and rates of pay. They are as follows: 100 pounds of cotton per acre, $15; 125 pounds, $18.75; 150 pounds, $22.50; 175 pounds, 26.25; and 200 pounds, $30.

The maximum amount of cottonland that can be put in the soil bank is one-half of a farm's allotment, or 10 acres, whichever is larger, while the minimum is 10 per cent of the allotment or 5 acres.

When a farmer signs a soil bank contract, he must provide a sketch of the acreage involved. Such a contract will be binding for one year, McKown emphasizing that the signer cannot later change his mind about participating in the program. Penalty for violating a contract is one-half of the payment due the farmer.

More Grass Needed, SCS Man Declares

The Hall County Soil Conservation District contains 303,804 acres of native pasture but an additional 68,000 acres of cropland should be returned to grass, thinks William C. Swindle, a Soil Conservation Service technician currently assisting the district.

Of all plants, grasses are the most important to man, says Swindle, listing corn, oats, wheat, rye, barley, sorghums, sugar cane, and rice as among those that furnish food for humans. In addition, such grasses as grammas, blue-

A good cotton shower pronto would cure a lot of ills, and prospects for same are good.

Since the good rains of a few weeks ago, weeds have really been strutting their stuff. One can cut all in sight and in three days weeds will be six to ten inches high. They sure make one's premises look like heck. We wonder how many residents are keeping up with the work of tidying their places. Last year, after the most extensive clean-up campaigns ever held in Memphis, this was one of the neatest towns in the Panhandle, and for months kept that way. Sorry to say, but some have let down in recent months.

A number of citizens, including the Lions Club, have signified a desire to have a clean-up day July 11.

The Memphis Improvement and Beautification Association, which organization headed last year's drive, is being activated and laying plans for another big clean-up campaign on July 11. The directors will hold a meeting to-night for that purpose. Every citizen, study club, church, school, civic club, and organization in the city will be expected to take an active part in the work. The Lions Club sponsored and did the work several years, but the task became too great for that one club to do the work alone. So the Jaycees (Continued on Page Twelve)

Vaccination Important in Blackleg Control

Livestock raisers in areas where there is a history of blackleg are advised that having animals vaccinated before outbreaks occur is an important step in preventing losses from this disease.

Authorities of the American Foundation for Animal Health point out that this is the danger season from this sudden-death type of disease.

"Vaccination of all calves in a blackleg area should be done when they are three or four months old," the Foundation says. "Blackleg is a disease caused by a germ which can live in the ground for years. It forms spores which may enter the animal's body through small cuts or punctures in the skin, or they may be picked up when the animal grazes on contaminated ground."

"The disease strikes very quickly — often with such speed that no signs of sickness are noted. Early symptoms include dullness and lameness followed by fever, swelling and loss of weight."

Any mysterious deaths among pasture stock should be checked by a veterinarian, the Foundation advises. If blackleg is found to be the cause of death the rest of the herd should be protected by vaccination. Carcasses of animals which die from blackleg should be burned or buried deeply under lime to prevent the infection from spreading and to prevent contaminating the soil, the Foundation warns.

Cancer Report Issued By 11 Texas Clinics

AUSTIN—Texas cancer clinics diagnosed 1,526 cases of cancer in varying stages of development during 1955, the State Department of Health has reported.

Scott M. Grundy Top-Ranking Student

Scott Montgomery Grundy, son of Mrs. Allen Grundy of Memphis, has been named to the Dean's Honor List at Baylor University College of Medicine in Houston, according to word received here. To earn a place on the list, one has to be among the 10 top-ranking students in his class.

A graduate of Memphis High School, Grundy did his pre-medical work at Texas Tech. He has just completed his freshman year at Baylor Medical College.

Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week to drive.

summary of activities of 11 cancer diagnostic and treatment centers operating in Texas which get financial support from the State Health Department.

Of the total number of cases diagnosed, 1,047 were localized tumors, 342 showed evidence of "regional metastases" (spread to adjoining body areas from the original site), and 139 showed remote metastases.

The report said 1,312 cases of the total number diagnosed were placed under medical care.

Statistics from tumor clinics which do not receive financial aid from the State Department of Health were not included in the summary. Eleven of the 25 diagnostic centers operating in Texas receive such aid.

The clinics, staffed by county medical societies, operate in connection with existing hospitals as special diagnostic centers where indigent patients can get the best in modern cancer detection techniques, and where private physicians can send patients for special attention from cancer experts.

Professional education for physicians, bringing them up to date on the latest developments in the field of cancer diagnoses and treatment, is also conducted at the clinics. State Health Commissioner Henry A. Holle called the clinics "one of our greatest weapons against the rising incidence of cancer."

Modern, proved treatment methods, including x-ray, radium, and surgery, are available in all clinics. Dr. Holle said the moving force behind establishment of clinics is that the earlier tumor growths are diagnosed and brought under proper treatment, the better are the patients' chances for survival.

Clinics supported by the Department are the Taylor-Jones County Medical Society Clinic in Abilene, the Travis County Medical Society Tumor Clinic in Austin, the Cameron-Willacy County Medical Society Clinic in Brownsville, the John Sealy Hospital Tumor Clinic in Galveston, the Jefferson Davis Hospital Tumor Clinic in Houston, the Midland Diagnostic Cancer Clinic, the McLennan County Medical Society Tumor Clinic in Waco, the Wichita County Medical Society Tumor Clinic in Wichita Falls, and clinics in San Antonio's Baptist Memorial Hospital, Santa Rosa Hospital, and Robert B. Green Memorial Hospital.

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

The Anti-Slaughter Committee

Although the above title is not the correct name for a new committee of the Congress recently appointed, it would seem to me to be an appropriate nickname. The Special Committee referred to has been appointed for a thorough investigation of the many and varied problems incident to our nationwide highway accident toll. The primary purpose, as stated by the Chairman, Honorable Kenneth Roberts of Alabama, is "to save human lives". Few people realize that traffic accidents annually take the lives of more than 30,000 people and leave some two million injured or maimed. The traffic problem is present in every community in this country, whether it be a large city or a small crossroads settlement, and daily affects the lives of practically every American. There are many state and national traffic safety associations and organizations formed for the purpose of working out some solution. The problem has become so great in the past few years that the demands for Congressional investigation must be honored. The fine highways in all of the states of our nation, coupled with the tremendous progress that has been made in motor vehicles, result in a continuing flow of traffic across state lines and, therefore, into federal jurisdiction. Many of these vehicles are pleasure vehicles, while others are used for commercial purposes. The laws in the several states differ widely. The color and shape of warning signs differ with each speed area are designated in different manners. Highway markings are different. Light signals vary. Rules with relation to right and left turns are not the same, and there are many other differences such as enforcement provisions, weight loads, length of vehicles, distances to be maintained between vehicles, all of which serve to create confusion to the cross-country traveler, whether it be on the open highway or in a strange city.

How to straighten out this mess and bring about a marked reduction in the human toll exacted each year is the national problem of this Committee. Help is being offered from all sources. Many suggestions are coming in from organizations, associations and individuals. Many of these are excellent, although some of them would settle the problem by going back to the use of the horse and buggy. One particular letter impressed me, because the man who wrote it has had a great deal of experience with law suits resulting from highway accidents. His suggestions were certainly objective and merit serious consideration. They are as follows, and I quote them:

1. "Speedometer readings from 30 to 45 miles per hour be painted

amber, the numbers from 45 to 60 be painted red, and no number after 60, except the word, 'DANGER', that would flash on and off if the speed reached or exceeded 60 miles per hour. (There is no legitimate purpose in having speedometer reading up to 120 miles per hour except as an inducement to speed).

2. "A small apparatus should be attached on top of the hood (where radiator emblems are now located), containing small lights, synchronized to work in connection with the speedometer. These lights would flash amber at 35 miles per hour, flash red at 45 miles per hour, and continue red without flashing at speeds over 60 miles per hour. This SPEED LITE-O-METER would be visible to both the driver and other persons on the highway to alert both driver and public of the speed of the vehicle.

3. "The front part of the passenger seat next to the driver should be recessed back about six inches, with a foot rail, to remove the obstruction of the driver's vision to the right when those sitting in the front seat next to him have a tendency to sit forward.

"(Statistics show that rarely are two taxicabs involved in an intersection accident and are comparatively less than where the taxicab approaches other driver's left)."

Any suggestions that are in finding a practical solution an increasingly difficult one and one that involves the safety of yourself and your children be deeply appreciated. If you will send them in.

Pending Legislation

When you receive this the House of Representatives will be in the most hectic week session, unless parliament maneuvering stalls legislative machinery. It is expected that the Eisenhower Civil Bill (formerly called the Civil Rights Bill), will be debated. A parliamentary procedure committee report stopped committee action on the bill last week. There is a big push on to the floor. Along with it comes the controversial Aid to Education Bill, which provide the stage for a nation fight. If Congressmen of New York offers his amendment. The amendment would federal funds to any school district that failed to integrate. We also expect to see before the Congress the Pension Bill, as well as other measures. In any case get through with the program at an early date. The Congress may adjourn August 1st.

UT Announces Weather Course For AF Cadets

AUSTIN — The Air Force, facing a critical shortage of trained weathermen, has altered its ROTC program to include more cadets who will study meteorology, Col. D. H. Thomas, University of Texas air science professor, announced.

The University is one of the few schools in the nation offering both Air Force ROTC training and an engineering degree in meteorology.

Air Force ROTC programs throughout the country have been authorized to commission an additional 150 cadets who will become forecasters upon completing their college studies in meteorology.

The new program will allow ROTC cadets to obtain degrees in meteorology to go right on the job as basic weather officers in the Air Force.

Until now, men who had a background qualifying them for weather studies had to spend several months after they entered the service gaining additional meteorology training at special schools.

High school students interested in obtaining Air Force commissions along with meteorology may write the Air Force ROTC Office, University of Texas, Austin 12.

VA Warns Against Misunderstanding Of GI Home Terms

Veterans should not misunderstand a commonly used statement that Veterans Administration "approves" houses to be financed under the GI loan program, VA has cautioned.

VA said use of the word "approves" causes some veterans to believe the home is "approved or guaranteed" by VA.

VA has only the legal authority to appraise the house to make sure the price the veteran pays is not excessive in the housing market prevailing at the time the appraisal is made.

VA makes available an inspection service in most cases on proposed new homes to determine whether they meet accepted standards of good construction and whether they conform to plans and specifications on which VA's appraisal is based.

The terms "VA or GI financing" are allowed by VA, but the agency frowns on "GI or VA approved" since it gives veterans an erroneous impression.

Million Dollar Cotton Saving

Texas cotton farmers can look forward to a million-dollar saving in ginning costs this year. The Texas Department of Agriculture has revised pink bollworm regulations to eliminate sterilization of cotton seed during ginning operations. The new provision applies to seed moving to areas within the state. Until now, some 928 gins in Texas have been required to treat seed with high temperatures. The heat killed any larvae inside the seed without damaging the growing qualities.

Moisture Control Vital in Extending Life of Wood

COLLEGE STATION — In repairing a wooden building damaged by decay, it is of primary importance first to determine the source of moisture that brought about the decay, and if possible remove it. This advice comes from W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Wood will not decay when it is kept dry, says Allen. To decay it must contain moisture in an amount greater than 20 per cent of its dry weight. The decay is actually caused by fungi — tiny, threadlike plants which grow and carry on their destructive life processes only when sufficient moisture is present.

If the moisture condition in a damaged building cannot be fully remedied, the decayed parts should be replaced with a naturally durable type of wood or with wood that has been pressure treated with a wood preservative. Brushing, spraying, or soaking wood with a preservative is worthwhile if the wood will be subjected to occasional wetting only. In replacing damaged wood, it is advisable to remove material for a distance of about 2 feet beyond evidence of decay, because wood usually is infected beyond the point where rot is apparent. If the source of moisture can be definitely eliminated, however, it is then necessary to cut out only such wood as has been rendered unserviceable. To prevent decay in new wooden buildings, it is important to build with dry lumber and use building designs that will keep the wood dry, or if that is impossible use wood that has been pressure treated with preservatives. The names of 26 states in the U. S. originated from Indian words.

Hot Weather Care Of Poultry Outlined

COLLEGE STATION — As summer temperatures climb above 85 degrees many poultry flocks will drop in egg production. Feed consumption will decrease and water consumption increase. Texas poultrymen should provide adequate protection of their flocks during periods of high temperature, says Ben Wormell, extension poultry husbandman. Increased water space, more effective ventilation systems, water sprays and shade are all being employed in an effort to thwart old man sun. Normal body heat of a chicken is about 107 degrees. Chickens have no sweat glands and therefore cannot depend upon evaporation for body cooling. This makes it necessary to take precautions during the summer to provide the birds with shade and ventilation. About 85 per cent of the sun's heat enters a poultry house as radiated heat through the roof, says Wormell. It is important, therefore, that the roofing material be a light colored material that will reflect a large amount of sun rays, reducing the amount of heat absorbed by the roof. The roof should be 8 feet high at the walls and 12 to 15 feet high at the gable. This provides space for roof heat to dissipate in the ceiling area without reaching the chickens. Proper ventilation will carry heated air from the house before it reaches floor level. Roof overhang should be sufficient to keep direct sunlight off the floor and prevent radiated heat from that source. It is wise to keep outside areas of the house free of tall grass. Keeping free air movement for ventilation, says Wormell. Keeping outside ground around the poultry house covered with short grass but a well-watered helps prevent the warming of air moving into the poultry house. Tall grasses are being used to protect the northwest corner of the poultry house from the sun's afternoon rays. Heating of the corner of the house is reported to be a major cause of death during extreme heat.

Some poultrymen are using sprinkler systems or garden hose to spray and carefully wet birds a few minutes of each hour during periods of hundred degree temperature. Good air movement is a must when the birds are wet. Otherwise stifling humidity can develop which is harder on the birds than dry heat. Poultrymen who are now providing facilities to give maximum protection against extremes of summer heat, will maintain a good rate of feed consumption within their flock and performance that will provide the summer profits needed for good year round earnings, says Wormell.

Area Weather On Dry and Hot Side Past Week

Area weather the past week generally has been dry and hot, although there were a couple of thunderstorms during the period. According to available reports, most crops are looking good, except that a number of farmers say they have found some webworm damage or have cotton which is dying because of a shortage of moisture.

One of the thunderstorms swept across this area Wednesday night. It was blustery and accompanied by considerable thunder and lightning but apparently dropped nothing more than light showers anywhere. Dust was fairly thick at times but caused no particular damage, as far as could be learned.

Memphis seemed to be in the edge of the activity, with the most boisterous part swinging west and south of town. No measurable moisture was recorded here by John McMickin, weatherman, but Clifton Burnett said spotted showers fell south and east of here and in the Plaska community. Showers were reported west of town toward Lakeview, and south of Red river in the Estelline area.

On the other hand, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Glass, who live near Giles, said they had nothing but wind and dust at their place.

Another thunderstorm occurred Saturday night and Memphis was fortunate enough to be in the precipitation area this time—to the tune of .22 of an inch, according to McMickin. But a couple of miles southeast of here, only .10 fell. So far this year, rainfall here totals 10.77 inches.

McMickin recorded the following temperature extremes the past week: last Thursday 70-99 degrees; Friday 71-102; Saturday 76-98; Sunday 68-98; Monday 66-99; Tuesday 74-97; and Wednesday 72-100. This morning's minimum was 71 degrees.

County Group Attends 4-H Camp

A Hall County group returned home last week after attending the annual three-day District 4-H Conservation Camp at Buffalo Gap near Abilene.

In the party were Roy Alvin and Jimmy Don Molloy, 4-H members from Lakeview, and County Agent W. B. Hooser.

Hooser quoted the boys as stating that they learned more at the encampment than any trip they had ever made.

During the three-day gathering, training activities included instructions and demonstrations in handcraft, soil conservation, land judging, field crops, electrification, and safety.

Swimming was one of the recreations enjoyed by those at the camp.

Approximately 170 4-H members, adult leaders, and Extension Service specialists in every phase of agriculture, attended the meeting, the county agent said.

Copy of Child's Birth Record Needed for Entering School

AUSTIN — The State Department of Health has asked all parents of children who will enter public schools for the first time in September to make requests immediately for copies of the children's birth records.

Most school systems require a birth certificate to prove the child was six years old on September 1.

"Making early requests for save parents and us time and trouble," said State Registrar W. D. Carroll.

Carroll, director of the health department's Division of Vital Statistics, says several hundred parents have already requested and received certified copies of birth records for their children.

But tens of thousands of requests from other parents will have to be processed between now and the beginning of the new school term. If too many people delay until August — as they usually do — Carroll and his limited staff will again have to put in hours of night and weekend work without overtime pay.

"The overtime work isn't important," Carroll said. "But it is important when a youngster can't enter school for lack of a birth record."

Birth record keepers shudder when they think of the estimated 260,000 children who will be eligible to enter the first grade this fall.

Many of them have copies of birth records and will create no problem. Others live in areas where school officials do not require proof of age before admitting the child to the elementary grade.

But the majority do not have certified proof of age, despite the fact that they live in areas where school officials insist on such proof. This is the category that gives health department statisticians and clerks sleepless nights.

Last year the department processed more than 60,000 requests during the months of August, September and October.

"This year we're trying to avoid the fall bottleneck," Carroll said. "We're ready to give immediate service to applications coming in between now and mid-July."

All parents have to do is furnish the child's name and date and place of birth, the mother's maiden name and the name of the father. That information, plus the statutory fee of fifty cents, will buy anyone a copy of their birth certificate — provided the original certificate is on file.

It's a good bet the original will be on hand. Carroll's office keeps track of some ten million birth and death records, some dating back to 1903.

There's just one more thing: If you don't care to write to the State Department of Health in Austin, check with your local registrar or county clerk. Chances are he can supply the record.

In either case, do it soon. Carroll says that fall bind can get mighty tight.

Poultry Expert Offers Advice on Egg Cleanliness

COLLEGE STATION — More than half the work on a poultry farm is made up of collecting eggs and getting them ready for market. Dirty eggs provide the greatest problem to the poultryman, says Ben Wormeli, extension poultry husbandman, Texas A&M College.

Clean litter and correct management of nests offers the greatest opportunity for preventing egg soilage. One nest should be provided for every four hens, especially in the warmer Texas climate.

A good size nest is 12 inches wide, 14 to 16 inches deep and at least 14 inches high, says Wormeli. This is large enough for comfortable laying space. Nesting trays at the bottom of nests should be 4 to 6 inches deep providing high enough sides to hold a good cushion of nesting material, he adds.

Nesting materials should be fine and highly absorbent. Results of a Missouri study of seven nesting materials show that where a fine material such as shavings, oat hulls, sawdust, or excelsior was used, the per cent of clean eggs ranged from 83.4 to 86 per cent.

Where coarser materials such as ground corn cobs, sugar cane pulp and straw were used, clean egg percentage ranged from 77.6 to 79.7 per cent. It was found that it took more time to clean the nests when straw was used than when shavings was the nesting material.

A higher percentage of clean eggs was obtained from darkened nests, states Wormeli. Ninety-one per cent clean eggs were gathered from dark nests whereas 82 per cent clean eggs were secured from well lighted nests.

New Game Bird Brought to Texas

AUSTIN — Another new game bird, described as "a hair smaller than bobwhite quail," is being introduced into Texas in an effort to bulwark native upland game species.

It is the seesee partridge, which originated in Pakistan, according to W. S. Jennings, assistant director of wildlife restoration of the Game and Fish Commission. The first air shipment of sixty-seven seesees is being held in pens in the Palo Duro Canyon area, south of Amarillo, where the fleet birds will be released after they have recovered from the exhausting flight.

The new species are found in the dryer parts of West Pakistan and

Meanwhile, Wildlife Biologist A. S. Jackson of Canadian, supervised receipt of the seesees reported progress on the seesees introduced exotic wild game. A Cottle County rancher he saw a female red-legged partridge and young. This is the first brood reported of this game bird which was obtained from Spain.

The original shipment of red legs was received in West Texas last year. A second shipment recently was released in the area. Both red legs and seesees were obtained by the Commission through the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Restoration authorities continue to strive to adapt new species to various areas and point to the credible success with Chinese-necked pheasants as justifying effort.

The Palo Duro Canyon area, which will receive the seesee shipment, also is scheduled to get seed stock of wild sheep which are on order at this time.

On-the-Farm Storage Problems Surveyed

COLLEGE STATION — Profits received by farmers for providing their own grain storage vary considerably in different areas of the state. With some individuals, there is little likelihood that on-farm-storage would be profitable at all. In other cases, the extra investment and effort will pay well.

A analysis of each individual situation and a sound estimate of the potential from such a venture should be made before building any farm grain storage facilities.

Providing your own farm storage involves many factors, all of which may be resolved into an economic question — will it pay? All the factors of cost, such as the construction of a building, handling, insect control, maintaining condition and quality, and shrinkage should be considered in one's own operations.

The answers to these questions, with valuable cost and building data for farm storage are included in a new publication, L-275 released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The material was compiled by W. S. Allen, R. J. Hildreth, and J. W. Sorenson, agricultural engineers of the Texas A&M College Station.

In deciding to purchase on-farm-drying and storage facilities, the farmer has to use all available information to predict the future, say the authors. Past experience indicates a seasonal price movement and it appears that there will continue to be a seasonal price spread in the future due to continuation of the loan program.

The publication lists advantages and disadvantages of building on-farm-storage units. It also gives means of figuring space requirements for a farmer's particular needs.

In approved areas, the Commodity Stabilization Service of the USDA provides financial assistance in the form of loans on approved structures. These loans include up to 80 per cent of cost of the structure including cost of conditioning equipment.

The publication is available from local county agents or from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station.

Tourists Visit City Park Pool

A growing number of tourists are visiting City Swimming Pool as the vacation season gets into full swing and temperatures become more sizzling. Hubert Dennis, manager, said this week.

Last week, for instance, out-of-state swimmers included ones from as far away as Honolulu, Hawaii, Bakersfield, Calif., also represented were the states of Missouri, Alabama and Idaho.

Swimming classes, which have been taught by Dennis and Sharon Harrison, lifeguard at the pool, closed Tuesday, according to the pool manager. However, ladies day will continue to be held every Wednesday morning from 9 to 11 o'clock throughout the summer, he said.

The pool will be open the 4th of July, which occurs next Wednesday, Dennis stated. Activities will begin at 1:30 o'clock that afternoon. This is the customary opening time every day except Mondays, when the pool is closed.

Guests in the Paul Fielding home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell of Reed, Okla.

Strength Out of Uncertainty

Citizens of the United States next week will observe the one hundred and eightieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, in which members of the Continental Congress proclaimed that the American colonies were free and independent states, who no longer owed allegiance to the British Crown.

This represented a bold — and what some colonists considered a foolhardy, and others undesirable — step. As is apparent from these different opinions, the desire to separate from the Mother Country was anything but unanimous, a certain number feeling the move had scarcely a chance of succeeding, while another group — called the Tories — looked upon the action as nothing less than traitorous.

But a militant group, headed by such leaders as Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, and John Adams, felt the time had come when English rule no longer was tolerable, and must be eliminated. Among grievances which nettled or enraged these colonists were restrictions on American commerce, tax assessments without consent of the payers, and establishment of a standing army of British regulars.

First active resistance — minor in size but indicative of things to come — included burning of the British vessel Gaspee in 1772, the Boston Tea Party the following year, and the battle of Lexington and Concord in 1775, which touched off a war that was not to cease until determined colonists forced Cornwallis to surrender in the latter part of 1781. Even then, the British sovereign and ministry would not admit defeat or discuss terms of peace. Eventually, however, diplomats from this country were able to negotiate a treaty in 1783 which recognized the former colonies as an independent nation.

This great victory was won against great odds — odds, in fact, that must have been almost heartbreaking and apparently insurmountable at times.

General George Washington is said to have had never more than 18,000 men in any engagement during hostilities, and frequently far less. Those soldiers he did command, served short terms of enlistment. He received little better support from the government, Congress, for instance, being afraid to demand enough taxes from the people to properly supply Washington's military needs. It was a stroke of fortune that the American forces were directed by such an indomitable leader, for a less courageous one might have gone down in defeat.

Even with Washington in charge, our fighters suffered numerous setbacks. But neither he nor they would give up. This stubbornness, this refusal to "roll over and play dead," unquestionably played a major part in achieving ultimate victory for the American patriots. From that uncertain beginning, the United States of America has grown until today it is the greatest force for freedom in the world.

As we celebrate the birthday of our hard won independence Wednesday, each of us would do well to rededicate himself to preserving our way of life, which in both war and peace has been a foe of tyranny and a friend of the weak and the suffering.

THOUGHT FOR INDEPENDENCE DAY

Press Paragraphs — QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Decisions Not Final
 Supreme Court decisions are the law of the land . . . but they are neither final nor irrevocable. The Supreme Court itself has overruled its own decisions on many occasions . . . reversing the Constitutional Law of the United States.

Congressman Walter Rogers has supplied us with a list, culled from the Library of Congress, citing at least 66 occasions on which the Supreme Court has reversed its own decisions since 1789.

More than half of these reversals, incidentally . . . thirty-five of them to be exact . . . have occurred in the last twenty years. As the Supreme Court changes, so does the Constitution as the Court interprets it. — Canadian Record

Military Squabbles
 Far from saving this country from its enemies, real and imagined, the military may yet be directly responsible for our downfall. Top military men say this nation does not possess security, yet the biggest chunk of our tax dollar goes to buy military security. Another 20 per cent of our tax dollar goes to foreign countries as gifts, in an attempt to bribe them to be peaceful and friendly. NATO costs $312 billion to maintain, with the U. S. taxpayers footing $252 billion, leaving only 20 per cent for the other 13 nations to split among themselves. In addition to this miserable mess our branches or service are at each other's throats in a life and death struggle for supremacy. In order to save America, it may be necessary to abolish separate branches of the service, uniting all under one command, with one uniform. Many ex-combat veterans will applaud this move, what with so many of them eyewitnesses to the warring, non-cooperative spirit which exists among the branches of the service. The Navy and Army competed when they had to. Everybody hated the Air Force. Machine guns everybody else, and everybody hated the Marines. God bless the soldiers who depend upon another branch of service for survival, unless they could wrap up a huge credit line in the newspapers and be photographed by movie cameras while doing what they should have been doing in the first place. This is a good time, right now, to abolish the country club branch, integrate the service, and make only one branch of the military. Even then, we'll have problems like about what the brass is up to. — Jack Barber

Visits Help Nations
 Better relations between nations can be established quicker and better by the exchange plan which has been established by the U. S. State Department than can be afforded by any amount of foreign aid.
 Visitors here this week were a Japanese college professor and his interpreter, Professor Masa Onoe of Kobe University and Toriyu Kuo. Also here were two agronomists, Spanish citizens, who have spent some time in Wilbarger county and were being shown Hardeman county by Homer Harris of the county soil conservation unit.
 Celestino Salvo is chief engineer for the Spanish Government and stationed in West Africa at Spanish Guinea. Jose Maria Ar-voza, also an agronomist with his government, was his companion.

 These schoolmen, industrialists, students and agriculturists coming to this country under the exchange plan, are better able to meet and learn how we live and what are our ideals. They do not come to interfere with our politics or to discuss them. They come to learn from us and the Americans, who are sent out, learn from them. When we become familiar with people we love, distrust and fear of them and it works the other way, too. — Quallah Tribune-Chief

Labor Is Sensitive
 Organized labor has been quite unconcerned over the plight of the nation's farmers, who have seen their income drop while labor has won wage increases, but last week a tender spot showed up.
 Due to the slump in automobile sales, unemployment is on the upswing in Detroit, and already the howl has arisen for "the government to do something about it." The United Automobile Workers have held meetings to determine the best way for the federal government to start passing out the checks to the union members in this time of emergency.

 So when White House Assistant Howard Pyle said last week the right to stiffer is one of the joys of a free economy, just as the right to prosper is, he was immediately leaped upon from all sides.

President Walter Reuther of the UAW protested to President Eisenhower, just as he did when Secretary of Defense said he preferred bird dogs who went out and hunted for food to those who sat and yelled.
 Pyle had to apologize for his remark, and said he was sorry people in Detroit were out of work.
 It seems that it is all right for farmers to be looking at hard times, but when labor is unemployed, look out! — Ochitree County Herald, Perryton

FORMER COUNTY MAN DROWNS IN DRAW HEADRISE
 John Roberts, 42-year-old former Memphis resident, was one of four persons drowned early Sunday when an automobile in which they were riding was caught in a two-foot headrise in a normally dry draw 25 miles southwest of Clayton, N. M.

The other drowning victims were: Mrs. Roberts, 41; Mrs. George Jones, 34, of Wellington, sister of Mrs. Roberts; and Lenora Jones, 18-month-old daughter of Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Harris Royal, 27, another sister of Mrs. Roberts, escaped when she was washed out of the car. She is a resident of Wellington.

The tragedy occurred as the party was returning from a dance at a ranch. Approaching the draw, Mrs. Royal, who was driving, stopped the automobile and asked Mr. Roberts to take the wheel. As the car entered the bottom of the draw, a wave of water smashed into it and swept it into a deep hole beside the road.

Around and About by Helen Combs

We made our way around the square Monday morning for the first time in several weeks... not that we had been off the job so to speak... but just that Ann Spoon and Billy Combs had been collecting the news on Monday morning while we stayed in the office. As we went about our work, we realized many of you pause from your daily chores to help us gather the news each week... we are grateful for this kindness. Frequently, since we have started this column, you have called and we are thankful for this, also. Saturday Mrs. R. H. Werry called to inquire about our garden and to tell us she enjoyed reading our column.

Mrs. Wherry is another Memphian who has had much success with gardening... she is noted for her lovely flowers and in the past has grown some fine gardens. However, she tells us she has about given up gardening, but did grow some fine watermelons last year. This week Mrs. Wherry is off to Colorado for a two weeks vacation with her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Otho Fitzjarrald and Kathryn of Amarillo.

Speaking of gardens: remember we told you it took us eight years to get ours planted. We thought that was quite a length of time until we talked with some of our neighbors who had stories to top ours. Seems last week L. W. Stanford dug out some house paint he's had stored for 10 years, according to his wife, Jewel... and now he's busy painting the trim on their home. Then on down the street, Mrs. Alvin Massey had an old garage she'd been wanting down for 20 years... last week she got it torn down. Now we're wondering what Wendell Harrison, across the street, is going to do about the fence he's had stored for seven years... will he put it up now or wait a while? Then there's the story of the plumber's wife who waited two years to get her dryer connected... and the story of the jeweler who got up at 1:30 a. m. to fix a leaking faucet.

This fetching bloomer swim suit will cut a shapely silhouette on any beach this summer. Cole of California designed the suit in a gay hopsotch print cotton by Bates. It is styled with a slim, long torso and "telescope" shirred bra, according to National Cotton Council fashion experts.

At our house, when we hear a noise in the middle of the night we know it's just our husband raiding the ice box... now our daughter is complaining that Susan not only looks like her grandpa... but has adopted his habit of wanting to eat at all hours of the night! Looks like grandpa will have to mend his ways!

Saturday night we were invited to the chicken barbeque held by the General Telephone Company.

Never have we eaten more delicious chicken and other food as well... although he wouldn't admit it, we suspect Tony Craig had a big hand in turning out the deliciously cooked chickens. It's hard to realize the telephone company employs so many people in our district until you see them assembled in a large group as they were Saturday night.

Our friend Jeanne Graham of the State Line Tribune listed two punch recipes in her column last week that sounded delicious to us. The recipes are especially good for serving large groups, Jeanne says. We are passing them on to you.

From the depth of our hearts we want to express our deep appreciation to the neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses shown us at the tragic loss of our loved one. Read Your Bible By HARRY GRAHAM

THE WAY TO HEAVEN

There are only two ways — one leads to Hell and the other leads to the heavenly home prepared by God (Mt. 7:13-14). You are traveling one of these routes. If it is the one leading to Hell it is in your power to change your route. Do it today — while you still have time.

- For salvation in Christ you must:
- (1) Hear God's word. (Rom. 10:11-18; Jno. 8:32)
 - (2) Believe in Christ. (Jno. 20:31; Heb. 11:6)
 - (3) Repent of all past sins. (Lu. 13:3; Acts 17:30)
 - (4) Confess faith in Christ. (Matt. 10:32-33; 10:9-10)
 - (5) Be baptized (immersed) into Christ for the remission of past sins. (Rom. 6:3-4; Col. 2:12; Acts 2:38; 16:15-16; Gal. 3:26-27; 1 Pet. 3:21; Acts 22:16; 8:36-38; John 3:5)
 - (6) Live faithful unto the Lord until the death. (2:10)

This narrow way is set up by the Lord (Matt 7:13-14). It is none of man's doing, and cannot be changed by any man. You are always welcome at the Church of Christ

Worth thinking about. How much have you spent on your crops this year? How much in cash? In labor? In equipment and supplies? In short, how much do you stand to lose if hail should strike your fields?

Automobile Accidents

Now that millions of people are taking their summer vacations and driving about the country, automobile accidents are occurring with increasing frequency.

It is therefore a good idea to plan just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

- 1. Stop! Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences. 2. Render aid. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid. (2) Stop bleeding. (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both. (4) Do not move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.

See your doctor if there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.

McFadden stressed the necessity of impressing the average driver with the importance of setting his speed to suit the prevailing conditions.

McFadden said that the speed demon's role in the traffic accident toll, and rightly so, is not to be underestimated.

McFadden said the average driver should check constantly to see that his speed is safe for conditions of weather, traffic, road, the mechanical condition of his car and his own physical and mental condition at the time.

Abernathy Couple Admit Forgeries

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Neel and County Attorney Bill Teague went to Plainview Monday to obtain statements from an Abernathy couple in connection with the passing of a worthless check here January 14.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Winn, are scheduled to be brought here in the near future to face charges of passing a forged instrument, Neel said. Both are in the Hale County jail at Plainview, awaiting trial for forgery at Floydada, before being brought here.

In a signed statement, obtained by the Hall County officials, the woman admitted writing a $47 check to her husband's credit, according to Neel.

The couple, who are wanted in a number of Texas and Oklahoma towns, admitted to officers that they had committed about $4,000 in forgeries, Neel stated.

Plainview officers located the Winns Sunday and notified the sheriff's department here Sunday night.

Winn is 27 years old and his wife is 24.

New Power Mower Is Purchased for Lakeview Cemetery

The Lakeview Cemetery has taken on a new and more attractive look in the past week as a new power mower went into action for the first time, according to Miss Beulah Black, secretary of the association.

Miss Black says that all who are interested are invited to visit the cemetery and see the improved appearance for themselves.

However, she says there still is some hoeing to be done and requests those who have lots, to check them every two or three weeks.

Aubrey Roberson, who is in charge of the mowing, suggests that no trash be left on or near the lots, or no holes be dug in the vicinity of the lots because he can't mow such places. He also asks that lots be kept as level as possible.

Quite a number of persons says Miss Black, and their cooperation is appreciated very much.

Five Injured

According to Neel, Sautler pulled off the highway to let Neel pass, and then drove back on the highway to turn around and head east. In doing this, the truck struck the left side of the Collins automobile, injuring the five occupants and badly damaging the vehicle, a 1955 Dodge.

Neel brought the injured back to Memphis.

The mishap occurred about 5:15 o'clock.

Sautler was filed on for an improper start from a parked position, County Attorney Bill Teague said.

More Grass

Farmers having land in cultivation which they are considering returning to grass are advised by the SCS man that now is the time to make necessary preparations for this by planting sudan, cane, or some other crop which will leave a mulch in which to plant grass seed next spring.

Approximately 125 million acres of land in Texas is devoted to production of native forage plants that are harvested by grazing livestock, and about four million acres now used to grow crops should be in pasture, Swinville states.

Wheat Referendum

(Continued from Page One) with his farm wheat acreage allotment and who has more than 13 acres of wheat for harvest as grain on the farm will be subject to a marketing quota penalty. This will be equal to 45 per cent of the May 1, 1957 parity price for wheat.

Chairman Eddleman emphasized that the vote is on wheat marketing quotas, acreage allotments will be in effect for the 1957 wheat crop.

Marketing quotas have been approved for the past three wheat crops in referendums of this nation's growers. Last year, 77.3 per cent of the growers voting favored quotas for the 1956 crop.

Youth Center

Also visiting here was the Stewart's son, Richard, who is stationed at the Amarillo Air Force base, and two Air Force friends.

1956 Cotton Bloom Brought to Office

Billy Salmon, Jr., who farms in the Brice community, brought a cotton stalk to the Democrat office Saturday that had not only a bloom on it but also a small boll. It was the first cotton plant of the current season received at this office.

The stalk came from a 40-acre field of irrigated cotton, adjacent to State Highway 256, one-half mile east of Brice gin, Salmon said. The Brice farmer planted the acreage in Northern Star No. 11 seed April 16. The stalk which he brought to Memphis was approximately 16 inches from ground level to its top.

Salmon said he noticed quite a few white blooms along the ends.

"This is the earliest cotton I have ever had," he declared.

Three Attend Educator's Meet

Topics discussed in group meetings included desegregation, the school health and physical education program, the Texas Association of School Administrators project, administrator and school staff relations, cooperative purchasing, special school services, teacher retirement and social security, and the intermediate unit.

Among the principal speakers were: Phillip J. Hickey, superintendent of schools at St. Louis, Mo., and president-elect of the American Association of School Administrators; and Dr. C. O. Fitzwater, chief of Local School Administration in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of the Office of Education at Washington, D. C.

The College Station meeting was attended by members of the Texas Association of County Superintendents, the Texas School Administrators Association, and the Texas Association for Instructional Supervisors.

Soil Bank

It will not be necessary to plant the acreage in cover crops, but if producers choose to, they may plant any of a number of approved legumes, pasture grasses, sorghums, sudan, millet, and all small grains. Farmers can have four rows in and four out, if they wish.

None of the above cover crops can be harvested in any manner of form.

Soil bank acreage may be rotated from year to year, because according to McKown, "That's good farming and is what we want."

Farmers will have from July 2 through July 20 to put cottonland in the soil bank. Cotton on such acreage must be destroyed by July 31, and payment will be made soon after the land is measured, McKown explained.

Cottonland which has not been planted may go into the soil bank at regular rates of pay. On the other hand, if cotton is destroyed by hail or other natural causes, and the land is then placed in the soil bank, the payment will be only $6 per acre.

If a farm is operated by a tenant, no soil bank agreement will be accepted on it without the signatures of both the renter and the owner, and a statement, showing the division of payments.

The third in the series of soil bank informational meetings will be held tonight (Thursday) in the Estelline High School. A similar meeting will be held Friday night in the Estelline High School. Both sessions will start at 8 o'clock.

Comments

(Continued from Page One) joined with the Lions. They asked for others to join in the work last year. Yesterday, the Lions voted their willingness to participate this year. Not only did they express a willingness to work in the clean-up. They went to City Park yesterday evening and did a lot of mowing and in other ways started to making the park more presentable. Are all citizens organizations in Memphis ready to join hands July 17?

More visitors and tourists are using the park for recreational purposes than ever before, and it is a crying shame that it is being neglected.

The directors of the Improvement and Beautification Association plan a meeting tonight to sponsor the clean-up. W. E. Leslie is chairman of the group. A good many citizens will be called within a few days and invited to take some part in the campaign, and whether called or not, you are invited, yes urged, to be one of the loyal group who have a love for home, town, community, and cleanliness.
