

Soil Conservation Service Explains Characteristics, Limitations of Land

By William C. Swindle
SCS Technician

The soil is of utmost importance in the production of man's food. Fruits, grains and vegetables depend on the soil for their growth.

Milk, meats, and eggs for food, as well as wool, silk, and furs for clothing are produced indirectly from cereal grains, forage, and other plants. Because of man's dependence on the soil for his very existence, there is need for conservation of the soil and maintenance of its productivity.

It is essential that everyone become familiar with the make-up of the soil its characteristics and limitations. The constant aim and purpose of every owner and operator of land should be to keep its inherent productivity high.

The total land area included in the Hall County Soil Conservation District contains soils that vary greatly in their make-up or characteristics as well as varying in limitations. These soils may differ in texture, permeability, depth, slope, and other physical characteristics.

The texture of a soil indicates its ability to hold soil nutrients and moisture. Texture refers to the fineness or coarseness of soil particles. Coarse-textured soils are the sands. They will not hold together or mold when moist. Medium textured soils are the loams and have a smooth feel when rubbed together between thumb and forefinger. The fine textured soils are the clays. Clay soils have a slick feel and are sticky and plastic when moist.

Permeability refers to the rate air, water and roots penetrate the soil. Slow permeability is found in soils with claypans, hardpans or heavy clay subsoil layers such as are found in clay soils. Tap root crops must sometimes be used to break up these pans. Moderate permeability is found in loams and rapidly permeable soils are those that are sandy in nature. The majority of the soils in the Hall County Soil Conservation District are either moderately or rapidly permeable according to Soil Scientists of the Soil Conservation Service.

Depth refers to the amount of soil above the parent soil material. In general, the soils of this district are deep soils having 20 inches or more of top soil that can be penetrated by plant roots. However, there are shallow spots in many fields that have 10 to 20 inches of top soil. Pastures often have less than 10 inches of topsoil. These are considered to be very shallow soils. Consequently, soil depth greatly determines the land use or the kind of crop to be grown.

The slope of land is the number of feet fall in 100 feet down the hill and as expressed as percentage. Slope is an important factor in determining land classes. Slope affects the rate of runoff, erosion hazard and the use and type of machinery. Proper management of sloping land can greatly reduce the hazards of erosion. Some of these management practices would include terracing, contour farming, crop rotation, and strip cropping if slope is not too great. If slope is excessive, then the retiring of the land from cultivation would be the most wise practice.

Soil erosion is the detachment and movement of soil materials by wind or water. Erosion consists of two distinct processes—detachment and transportation. Raindrops falling on unprotected soil and soil particles blowing against each other are detachment forces. Water and wind are the transportation forces. Practices designed to help prevent erosion are stubble mulching, cover crops, strip cropping and chiseling as well as others.

Soil condition refers to the physical condition of the soil. The degree of condition is expressed as good, fair or poor. A soil in good condition is crumbly and will have plenty of pore space to allow moisture and air to penetrate. Soils in good condition will resist compaction by farm machinery. Soils in fair condition will show some evidence of compaction and will crust when dry. Poor condition describes soils that when wet, run together and puddle; or when dry, form large, hard cement-like clods along with thick crusts. The use of high residue crops and management practices such as stubble mulching will add organic matter to the soil which will improve this condition.

Many factors limit the productive capacity of a soil, some of which have been discussed above. There are many limiting factors and practices that have not been discussed. Soil Conservation technicians assisting the District will be glad to discuss these and other factors and practices with co-operators or non-cooperators who want to get more conservation on the ground.

This is the fourth in a series of articles by New York newspaper reporters Frederick Woodson and Franz Rosenwald, who recently spent several weeks in Duval Co. and South Texas, gathering facts for this series.

All Methods Closely Parallel Expression in Hitler's Germany

—Franz Rosenwald
DIEGO, TEX.—The Parr ruling dynasty in the mal- Duchy of Duval, was in business long before Hitler was ever heard of in Germany.

As painting had picture and living in a Vienna while Tsar Parr was things high, wide and in this sun-seared sec- Texas.

house here in San Diego.

In West Germany "ex"-Nazis are being brought to trial on all sorts of charges harking back to the days of Hitler, war crimes, theft of public funds, graft, political murder.

A few years ago these same men were mousy, quiet, biding their time. Today they're arrogant, truculent, threatening.

In court they thunder at the judge and thunder at the jury, daring them to convict. The day is coming, and soon, they shout, when the "right" will triumph, when the hated foreigner will be trust from the sacred soil of the Fatherland. On that day true Germans will know what to do. They'll punish the enemies with- in and the enemies without.

This courtroom strategy is working like a charm. The fright- ened jurors are acquitting the Nazi bully boys one after the other.

Now let's get back to the Grand Jury room in the Duval County Courthouse here in San Diego.

Red-headed George Berham Parr, of Duval, has been hailed before the jurors and questioning him is Sidney Chandler, assist- ant to Attorney General John Ben Shepperd. Chandler doesn't get very far with the Duke. Parr star- is on his constitutional rights, invoking the "Fifth Amendment"—that a man may remain silent if his testimony might incriminate him or even tend to incriminate him. Then the jury adjourns and Chandler mops his brow in frustra- tion.

"Sidney," Parr said, "I've got something to say to the jury."

Chandler, curious, told him "Go right ahead."

Parr turned quietly to the jury and eyed each man in turn. He knew each man by his first name, and he reminded them of that. One grand juror was a Parr ten- ant, another an employee, several owed him money.

Then Parr's voice rose in fury to a crescendo. He shook his fist in the face of each man, shouting that soon there would be a new State government in Austin, a new government in Washington—and George Parr would again be firmly in the saddle. Then there would be a reckoning, a settling of scores.

One grand juror described the scene to me in this way: "He yelled and screamed so loud you could hear him in Alice ten miles away." County employees came out of their offices and stood on the stairs outside the Grand Jury Room, listening in awe. Parr's harangue went on for twenty min- utes.

"I respect you as Grand Jur- ors," he raged, "but only so long as you sit in this room. Outside of this room I don't have to respect you a G . . . D . . . bit, not a damn bit. Outside of this room I do as I please. Remember that! Remember that, all of you."

That Grand Jury, white-lipped and frightened, listened—but right there the parallel ends. Un- like the cringing juries in Ger- many that the jury in Duval braved the threat of wrath to come and voted thirty-one indictments against members of the Parr ma- chine.

We'll just take one more exam- ple of intimidation, an effective weapon in the hands of any ef- ficient political boss or and dic- tator. Here in San Diego those terms are interchangeable.

On Monday, July 16, my writ- ing partner and myself sat in the court room in San Diego, District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin pre- siding. The suit, brought by Man- uel Trevino and Manuel Olivares, was to contest the results of last April's civic elections in San Diego when Parr's forces captured four out of five seats on the city council.

The action was of particular importance because if it succeed- ed in unseating one of two Parr men, Alberto Garcia or Leopoldo Sepulveda, the Duke of Duval would have been stripped of his private army, the San Diego police force.

Here's the way it works: Never in its long and stormy history has San Diego had a police depart- ment. None was needed because the sheriffs of Duval County and Jim Wells County, together with their deputies, were well able to handle things to the taste of George Berham Parr. At one time Duval County alone had as many as 200 deputies, gun-slinging pis- tolers. Some people put the fig- ure as high as three hundred.

But Parr no longer controls the sheriffs. So the San Diego coun- cil dutifully gave him a police force with Manuel Amaya, former deputy sheriff, as chief.

Amaya and his constables are officially paid $50 each per month. Under Texas law a peace officer must be paid at least $40 per month from the public purse be- fore he has the right to pack a pistol.

I have talked to these men, sat with them in the Windmill Cafe, favorite haunt of Parr supporters. They eat well, dress well, have their own cars and show no signs of poverty. Yet their official pay is less than $12.50 per week. Parr reputedly makes up the difference out of his own pocket.

I watched these men in action in Judge Laughlin's court room that hot and sleepy afternoon.

It was a job of straight out and out intimidation of witnesses.

One lone Texas Ranger, Wiley Williamson, sat near the judge's bench, keeping a wary eye on the scene.

Parr's policemen, their .45's loosely holstered, circulated about the big room, here whispering in- to the ear of a witness, there patting another on the back, dig- ging playful knuckles into the ribs of yet another.

The policemen were smiling, jovial, friendly. But the witnesses weren't smiling. They had fright written all over them.

Through a Spanish interpreter the witnesses, dozens of them, were sworn in as a group. Then the questioning began, with the interpreter relaying the questions and answers. It was amazing how much the witnesses couldn't re- member. Their voices were hardly audible.

They couldn't remember, for example, whether they'd ever been convicted of a crime and so lost their right to vote. Or wheth- er they'd received pardons from the governor and so regained their civil rights. One after the other they shuffled to the stand, and one after the other they "could not remember."

My partner and I were in the courtroom for but part of one af- ternoon of the four day hearing. That was enough to see Parrism in action.

At the conclusion of the hear- ing Judge Laughlin ruled that one Parr man, Leopoldo Sepulveda, had lost his seat to Manuel Tre- vino. The election of Alberto Garcia was confirmed, but the anti- Parr forces now had a three to two majority on the city council. The case was immediately ap- pealed, the Parr man keeping his seat for the time being.

Thus, George Berham Parr keeps his police force.

(Note: since this article was written another election was or- dered by a higher court and Parr lost control of the city govern- ment. Thus his last means of keeping his pistoleros armed was taken away. Earlier he lost control of the Commissioners Court after a months-long series of court bat- tles with Attorney General Shep- perd, and saw his old enemy Don- sto Serna installed as Duval County auditor after more than a year- of resistance which took the case up to the Texas Supreme Court. Putting an impartial man in the county auditor's position, Shepperd explains, was the key to blocking Parr from the misuse of county funds. The San Diego city gov- ernment was Parr's last ditch, from which he is now evicted.)

Daphne Hillhouse of Lubbock visited here over the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hillhouse.

Happy to be home this week after eleven weeks in the hospital is Mrs. J. W. Stokes, who has had more than her share of illness during the past year. First, it was major surgery—and then a car accident which sent her back to the hospital . . . but Mrs. Stokes manages to be cheerful and have a sunny attitude through it all!

As inquisitive as we try to be, news has a way of escaping us. Recently it was an accident that happened to Mrs. Grover Kesterson that we didn't learn about for two weeks . . . and hardly a day passes that we don't see her husband in the business next door to ours. Mrs. Kesterson was hit by a car downtown, and we're happy to report is getting along nicely.

"I'm going on 86," was the comment A. Baldwin made after observing his 85th birthday anniversary last week. Hearing this comment reminded us of our grandfather who looked forward to each birthday for weeks in advance in order to add another numeral. His ambition was to live to be 100, but he only reached the 95 mark.

Back to Mr. Baldwin, his birthdays have a special interest because his daughter, Mrs. T. L. Rouse, has for the past few years entertained with open house in his honor. Sunday numerous friends and relatives called at the Baldwin home to wish Mr. Baldwin many more happy birthday anniversaries.

Two Bills For Better Government In Legislative Hopper in Austin

Two of the 15 "Better Government" bills, sponsored by the Texas Press Association have hit the legislative hopper in Austin.

Both are "public information" measures. They are specifically designed to correct existing evils in Texas laws by providing free information to the people of Texas on the activities of their public officials and agencies.

Senate Bill 47, introduced by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, relates to the Veterans Land Act. It provides for public notice in the hometown newspaper of any veteran applying for a loan to purchase land under benefits of the Veterans Land bill. His bill would name the veteran who has made application for a loan, specifically designate the land, and quote the purchase price. "By this method," Herring stated, "the public would know what is being done with our veterans land funds, and who is taking advantage of the state's generous offer to help our veterans obtain land." The public notice, in the form of a classified ad, would be prepared by the Veterans Land Board.

Herring's bill is scheduled for hearing before the Senate State Affairs Committee at 2:00 p. m. on Feb. 18. A companion measure is House Bill 104 introduced by Rep. Louis H. Anderson of Midland.

Second of the two measures is Senate Bill 55, introduced by Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock. It provides for removal from office of any public official refusing to print public notices required of him under existing laws. This bill does not create any new public notices. It merely puts teeth into laws already on the statutes. It will prevent intentional evasion of the law by elected officials who are responsible for publication of

Over 94 Per Cent of U. S. Farms Have Electricity, Dept. of Agriculture Says

Farm electrification in the United States is approaching 95 per cent, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced recently. Estimates made by the Rural Electrification Administration indicate that on last June 30 the percentage of farms and ranches with electrical power stood at 95.2. On June 30, 1955, the estimate was 93.4 per cent.

These figures compare with 10.9 per cent that were electrified in 1935, start of the REA program, and 54.3 per cent that had electricity 10 years ago.

In 1946, five states had 90 per cent or more of farm electrification; today there are 39 states where more than nine out of 10 farms have power. For some areas the increase has been swift. In North Dakota, for example, the 1946 figure was 10.4 per cent. Now it is 84.4. For South Dakota the comparable figures are 13.5 per cent and 86.7 per cent. In Mississippi the 10-year increase was from 24.8 to 87.2 per cent.

Nine states have reached or passed 98 per cent of farm electrification. They are: Connecticut, 98.8 per cent; Indiana, 98.4; Iowa, 98.1; Massachusetts, 98.6; Michigan, 98; New Hampshire, 98; New Jersey, 99.2; Vermont, 92.2, and Washington, 98.4.

As of January 1, 1955, only 2.3 per cent of Texas farms had electricity. By June 30, 1956, this figure had risen to 93.1 per cent.

Although having only a total length of 277 miles, the Clinchfield railroad extends into five states.

February Is Month to:

1. Check new federal laws which became effective the first day of this year, regulating the interstate movement of cattle and aimed at control of brucellosis (Bang's distage), before shipping cattle in interstate commerce.
2. Place stock with severe wounds under a veterinarian's care. He may want to give treatment for prevention of tetanus, and other medication and surgical procedures may be indicated.
3. Check arbor vitae for the presence of aphids.

4. Plant several common garden vegetables, such as English peas, spinach, lettuce, radishes, mustard, Irish potatoes, cabbage and onions.

5. Clean the brooder house thoroughly in preparing for the arrival of the chicks.

For the Farm Homemaker to: Include some protein in every meal. Specialists say that protein and the B vitamins actually delay aging, so a liberal amount of high quality protein from milk, cheese, eggs, fish and meat is essential in the diet.

2. Consider using cotton decorating fabrics when redecorating your home. A USDA report shows cotton's all-round washability and easy care have made it an overwhelming favorite.

Another February Birthday

During February, America observes the birthdays of several of its illustrious sons—Washington, Lincoln, and Thomas Edison. Another celebration of national proportions in which all America can properly join is that of the Boy Scouts of America.

Scouting in the United States reaches its 47th anniversary Juring Boy Scout Week, February 6 to 12. It is difficult to recall when our nation did not have this character-building, leisure time program for its boys and young men.

Since February 8, 1910, more than 26,000,000 American boys and men have been influenced by the Scout Oath and Law. They have had the benefits of Scouting training, fellowship, handicraft skills, and high adventure.

America is all the richer for it. Many men in high places in American affairs today proudly credit Scouting's influence in their lives.

Today over 4,500,000 boys and men are actively enrolled in 540 local councils with a membership of 111,000 units. Fortunate indeed are communities where Scouting flourishes.

American adults of good character give generously of their time in giving leadership. Others help by raising funds, or in serving as members of local Boy Scout councils which in turn provide: training for leaders, camp facilities, worthwhile year-round activities, personal advancement, and opportunities for Scouts to render community service.

We are indeed fortunate that we have a community where Scouting is encouraged to such a large extent. Here in Memphis the Scouts have always been ready to do more than their share in helping the community with any project. A recent example of this is the March of Dimes drive now underway. Scouts and leaders have given literally hundreds of hours to collecting funds, selling peanuts, and doing the many thousands of things necessary to make the drive a success.

We would like to take this occasion to thank the Scouts for the many projects they have helped with in the past and to rededicate ourselves to the progress of our community.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:

The Internal Revenue Service offices have "Tax Information Days" every Monday morning during the income tax filing period. The best way to figure your tax is to study the instructions and find out for yourself what you owe. The income tax folks won't do your figuring for you but they will be glad to answer your questions and show you where to put your figures. Don't go to the Internal Revenue Service office with a shoe box full of receipts and say, "Here it is, Mr. Tax Man, how much do I owe?"

LINCOLN SPEAKS TO EISENHOWER

Press Paragraphs — QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Scouting
I wonder how many people have really examined the Boy Scout Oath? It is an unusual promise that each scout makes to himself, his fellow scouts and his scout leaders. It simply says: "On my honor I will do my best, to do my duty to God and my country and obey the scout laws; to help other people at all times and to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

In Russia, at the age of nine, a boy enters the Pioneers. Compare the Pioneer Oath with the Scout Oath. It goes:

"I, a young Pioneer of the Soviet Union, in the presence of my comrades solemnly promise to be true to the teachings of Lenin, steadily struggling for the cause of our Communist Party and for the conquest of communism. I promise so to live and study that I may be an honorable member of my Soviet motherland."

"The United States is in the big middle of 'no one knows what!' We're playing with a hot atom and anything can happen."

"The very fact that the international Communist block is going through hard times increases its danger to the world."

"The architects of Western policy have always realized that a great danger of war would arise if the Communist leaders ever were brought face to face with probable failure of their expansionist campaign."

"They could strike out in a Samson-like rage which would leave the world a shambles."

"That's what Cardinal Spellman meant when he said that if war came the United States might have only 60 minutes warning. That would be desperately premeditated war, such as the Japanese started at Pearl Harbor."—Claude News

Hungarian Airlift

The only excuse we can find for the Hungarian refugee airlift, ordered by the President and to be paid for out of money the congress has already appropriated, does not have to be asked for—the only excuse for it that we can think of is to flex the arm of the nation's air armada, either commercially or militarily. The practice might come in handy in the same manner the Berlin airlift helped a short time ago. Otherwise the use of our many seagoing vessels to transport refugees would be simpler and much more economical. But since when did we decide a governmental problem with cost in mind?—Eloyd County Hesperian

Late Shivers Appoints Legal, But Show Poor Taste

The large number of late appointments by Gov. Allan Shivers a few days before the end of his administration undoubtedly are legal, but they show poor taste and are a discourtesy to the new governor, Price Daniel.

As Shivers had 7 1-2 years to make appointments, it would seem that would be sufficient time for a retiring governor to carry his influence into future years in the State of Texas.—Panhandle Herald

Women

A sarcastic woman in her own inimitable way can take the wind out of a feller faster than nearly anything.

For proof, we take the following squib from the current issue of The Rotarian magazine:

Wife, reading her husband's fortune on a weight card: "You are dynamic, a leader of men and admired by women for your good looks and strength of character. It's got your weight wrong, too."—The Hamlin Herald

Important Discovery
The great scientist scanned the heavens through the giant telescope. Intensely absorbed in what he was studying, he remarked rather absently to his colleague: "It's going to rain tonight."

"What makes you say that?" his colleague asked excitedly.

"Corns hurt," said the scientist. —Claude News

German Property Here Safe:
State department officials reiterated today that sailings of American ships to the war zone still were questions for private individuals and that the American government had taken on action, although some statement of its attitude may be issued soon for their guidance. It is also reiterated that there was no change in status of the war-bound German ships in American ports. Although the authorities here have taken possession of them to prevent destruction or danger to navigation, they still are German private property and will be so respected. . . . Here's the bomb THAT BROKE THE "low-price" lineup!

This big high-stepping Chieftain started a revolution with a carload of "firsts" and an eye-popping price tag!

The low-price field never looked like this before! The handsome husky you see right here has the boat still rocking . . . with more power, more wheelbase, more room—and more sheer pride of ownership—than ever before possible on a well-trained budget! Just look at what they're making room for now in the low-price lineup: a strapping 347 cu. in., 10 to 1 compression ratio Strato-Streak V-8 . . . a whopping, road-hugging 122 inches of wheelbase and an all-new suspension system for a Level-Line Ride that's next best thing to a magic carpet! And this streamlined beauty takes on the field with more than six dozen "firsts", all proved by 100,000 of the roughest, toughest test miles a group of facts-minded engineers could devise! If this sounds like a wonderful buy—it certainly is! Our advice is to stop dreaming and price it! At a cost less than a lot of the low-price jobs, this newcomer is making big-time buyers out of former "all-three" owners!

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

Aid For Grasslands

The bill that was recently introduced by a large number of the Texas Delegation in Congress, designed to establish a deferred grazing program and a protein feed program to supplement the relief available to drought-stricken areas, was reported favorably by the Committee on Agriculture yesterday morning. However, the provision requiring the Secretary of Agriculture to include protein feed concentrates in the drought feed program was stricken from the bill. This means that the bill is now confined to the deferred grazing program which is, in effect, a soil conservation soil bank. Grazing lands can be laid out for a period of not less than 12 consecutive months, and the rancher or farmer will receive payment at a rate not less than the average grazing rental value of the land. We had hoped that both the grazing program and the inclusion of protein feed concentrates in the drought feed program could be included in the same bill when it was acted on by the Committee, but the Committee decided to separate these items and approve only the deferred grazing program at the present time.

It can be expected that separate legislation will be introduced concerning the inclusion of protein feed concentrates in the drought feed for livestock program, and every effort will be made by those of us whose districts have been stricken by the drought for early action on such legislation. In the meantime, we shall, of course, push forward for passage of the deferred grazing program and will probably have it through the House of Representatives before this letter reaches you.

Agricultural Labor Problems

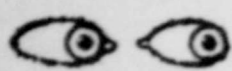

Trouble is again brewing on the use of Mexican Nationals as agricultural workers in this country. Certain numbers of Mexican Nationals are allowed to work in this country under an agreement between this Government and the Government of Mexico. Each year, controversies seem to arise with reference to this program. The need of these workers in agriculture in this country is readily admitted by all who are familiar with the circumstances involved. However, the Department of Labor, each year, seems to want to engrave additional rules, requirements and regulations on American farmers using this type of labor. The unreasonableness of some of these proposed rules and regulations in past years certainly emphasizes the lack of understanding on the part of some of the Labor Department officials charged with administration of the program.

However, the new rules on housing and other matters which the Labor Department is now advocating are so unreasonable that they make the former unreasonable proposals seem sound. The requirements for housing of these people who come from Mexico to do work in this country, are nothing short of making American farmers provide hotel facilities including maid and yard service. It is the opinion of many that these unreasonable requirements that have been increasing each year are designed to be so rigid as to render completely impractical the use of Mexican Nationals for agricultural labor purposes in this country. If this is the underlying design of anyone connected with this government it should be brought out into the open. The truth is that American labor is not injured by the importation of these workers to do seasonal agricultural work. The workers are paid a wage agreed upon between

Hunters Fined $18,525.27 During Jan. Game and Fish Commission Reports

Night hunters' penalties comprised more than one fourth of the more than eighteen thousand dollars in fines and court costs contained in the monthly report issued by the Game and Fish Commission.

The Director of Law Enforcement said the bulk of the violations occurred during the recent statewide hunting season.

Two men alone contributed upwards of $500 each to the $18,525.27 overall total, with fines of $400 each plus court costs. Fines for the after-hour shooting approximated $5,000 and involved a most 100 cases.

A Kingsville hunter, caught after an all-night vigil, paid a $200 fine for each of two deer he bagged—one was a fawn and the other a doe.

A San Antonio man intercepted after a nocturnal foray that netted him a spike buck and a doe, paid $100 each in fines for the game and got an additional levy of $200 all plus costs, for doing his hunting at night. In each case the illegal game was confiscated.

The Director said no particular drive was made against the extra-hour gunning and credited the substantial showing to the fact that the field force is becoming "increasingly efficient with two-way radio."

"Some of the cheaters get away," he explained, "but we find that the radio network greatly enhances law enforcement activity. It certainly is a great improvement over the old single-car patrol where fast cars oftentimes were used to run away from our men. Now we can pass the word along and do pretty well at heading them off."

The Director called attention to the five cases listed in the report covering possession of wild fawn deer. "It seems that no matter how much we counsel people about picking up fawns and keeping them, some will do it anyway," he said. This is definitely against a state law and we have no other choice when a fawn is this Government and Mexico, and are not in any manner cheated or defrauded. Actually it provides, or should provide, if the workers take the money home, a stimulation to the very poor general economy of these workers. This work provides a source of revenue for these workers that they could not obtain in any other place.

The farmers, in most instances, require their services because the crops are seasonal and must be harvested when they are ripe. For some strange reason, Nature has never seemed willing to submit to man-made laws or regulations of the Department of Labor.

No one should want to be unfair in the operations of these programs. With a sound, sensible approach, this program can be worked out to the benefit of all concerned. However, it could hardly be expected for the farmers, who have been the tragic victims of cost-price squeezes, to provide better living facilities for foreign nationals than they themselves will be able to enjoy if something isn't done about the agriculture picture in this country.

reported in captivity without a permit."

The Director pointed out that the Commission, as a matter of good conservation policy, discourages issuance of permits to try to domesticate fawn deer.

"People are mistaken when they feel they are befriending wild fawn deer," he said. These fawns in most cases would be reclaimed by their mothers. Even if the fawns grow to maturity, they become a nuisance as a general rule and oftentimes the males actually become dangerous.

The Director called attention to the stern attitudes of the Justices of the Peace have been taking toward persons trying to fish or hunt on another's license. In one case two Woodson men were fined a total of $150 plus costs. One was fined $100 for hunting on another man's license and the original possessor of the license was nicked $50 plus costs for permitting the violation.

Texas Papers Draw Praise From Comm. Earl Rudder

AUSTIN — Texas newspapers and radio and television stations drew praise Wednesday from the state land commissioner, Earl Rudder.

Commissioner Rudder said that interest in the Feb. 5th Veteran's Land Board land sale was at an all-time high, and he attributed this fact to stories about the sale published and broadcast throughout the state.

"In the San Antonio area, for example," Commissioner Rudder said, "a third more veterans than ever before are looking at VLB property. And one piece of land near Dallas had been shown to 142 veterans."

Commissioner Rudder noted that his office has been swamped with
