Burglars Hit Two Stores Here; Use Roofs To Gain Entry

Perry's, Fowlers Drug Store Lose Cash, Merchandise

Burglars Monday night broke into two Memphis firms and stole over $2,000 worth of merchandise and money, Sheriff W. P. Bates said Tuesday.

Perry's reported a loss of $385 cash and Fowlers Drug Store was short $1,200 worth of cameras and approximately $400 cash.

The burglars gained entry to both buildings by cutting a hole in the roof, Sheriff Bates said. They used a large drill and cut a series of holes across the 1x5 boards composing the roof until they were able to lift a section out.

The thieves then crawled down into the hole and pushed the ceiling material away from the rafters. In both cases the holes were cut in a place where the burglars could climb down onto the floor. In Fowlers a shelf was used and in Perry's a large cooling unit.

At Perry's the burglars opened the safe and took all of the contents to a wash room. There they separated the money from the checks and other papers, taking only the $385 in bills and leaving behind $18 in change and over $100 in checks, Bill Hall, Manager of the store said.

At Fowlers Drug Store the burglars took between $400 and $500 from the safe and cameras from the show case valued at over $1200, John Fowler, stated. Included in the cameras taken were: 12 movie cameras, 5 roll film cameras of the folding type, one 35mm camera and several box type cameras.

Dick Fowler stated that the burglars left behind two 35mm cameras which were sitting in their boxes inside the case, and did not bother a small amount of money in the cash registers. They took all of the money out of the safe, however, except some pennies.

Sheriff Bates said that two persons probably did the burglary.

Mr. Spicer, general assn. director, will preside at the convention, held in the Hilton Hotel, Memphis, Tenn., on June 15.

Totals For Conservation Practices Listed

Recent statistical reports received from the local Soil Conservation Service office indicated that great progress has been made in getting conservation practices on the ground. The Hall County Soil Conservation District is proud of this record of accomplishments since its beginning.

As of December 31, 1956, the following quantity of practices have been completed and are now on the land: contour farming, 141,000 acres; cover cropping, 5,000 acres; crop residue utilization, 12,000 acres; brush control, 20,000 acres; proper use of range, 30,000 acres; Wildlife area improvement, 220 acres; pond construction, 172 acres; terracing, 7,900 miles.

These practices do not represent all that has been done in the district, but do give representative samples of the amount of work being accomplished by area farmers with the assistance of technicians of the S.C.S.

Erosion Control Dam Completed on Joe Ballard Farm

Joe Ballard, who owns a farm east of the Newlin community has completed an erosion control dam. This is the first of its kind to be completed in the Hall County Soil Conservation District.

The washing of heavy rains during the construction of the dam, caused considerable damage to the draw-down tube and the earth fill dam. However, it is believed that complications have been overcome.

Soil Conservation Service technicians, Royce Frisbie and Olman Sweet, report that the system worked well during the last heavy rain received at Newlin.

Erosion control dams are for the purpose of eliminating overfalls and the eroding of gullies in valuable cropland.

Organization of Soil Conservation District Explained

The Hall County Soil Conservation District was organized under the Soil Conservation District Law of Texas, as a governmental sub-division of the state for the purpose of helping advance soil conservation, Charlie Cape, work unit conservationist, explained this week.

A board of supervisors were elected by the people for the district. A program and plan of work was developed and completed in October of 1941. The board of supervisors applied to the Department of Agriculture for technical assistance. The request was granted and technicians with the Soil Conservation Service began assisting the district. This agency is one of the several agencies assisting the district.

These agencies include the Extension Service, Farm Home Administration, vocational agriculture teachers, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, Production Credit Association, Commissioners Court and others.

Falls are the home's greatest hazard, claiming a total of 14,000 lives annually in the nation, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. Burns are second, causing about 5,499 deaths annually while poison and carelessness with firearms each take about 1,000 lives yearly. Better keep the danger sign up around the house and see that accident hazards are removed, warns the council.

Stubble Mulching Will Conserve Water, Stop Blowing

Farmers that have oats and wheat should look into the possibility of doing some "stubble mulch" farming after they cut their small grain. Technicians of the SCS say, by having the stubble and residue on the surface of the soil, a lot of moisture is conserved. This moisture is conserved by the shading effect the stubble and trash have when left on the surface.

This type of farming will also save a lot of soil because it lets the water soak into the ground more before it starts to run off.

Most farmers use sweeps and chisels to do this type of farming and those that have tried it like it fine. Lee Scrivner of Parnell has been practicing this type of farming for several years and wouldn't change.

Guar Listed As Good Crop To Improve Soil

Many farmers are wondering what they can plant to help improve their soil. Soil Conservation Service technicians working with the Hall County SCD say that Guar is a very good crop of this kind to plant.

This soil improving crop is very easy to get up and can be planted with a maize plate. The seed should be covered about like maize. Four to six pounds to the acre is the planting rate, SCS technicians said.

The seed should be inoculated with peanut inoculate if the special kind is not available.

Cotton following Guar has made more than 50 per cent more than cotton following maize.

Guar can be planted any time from now until July 15, and can be combined with a regular combine set like you would for maize.

Hall County SCD Has Equipment To Rent Farmers

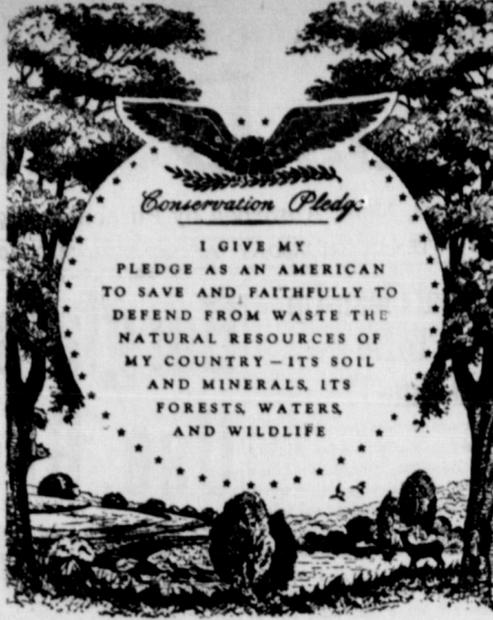

Equipment the Hall County Soil Conservation District has acquired over the years has been valuable in carrying out a sound conservation program in the district. This equipment is rented to cooperators at a normal fee.

Among the several pieces of equipment that are available to cooperators in the district is an inter-row seeder, land float, and a grass seed drill located at the Memphis FFA shop; a grass seed drill and rock picker located at the Turkey FFA shop and a scraper located with Mac Tarver at Memphis.

To help the district with its educational work, the supervisors have bought grass mounts, movie projectors, film strip projectors and cameras.

Ed Foxhall, cooperator with the Hall County Soil Conservation District, reports that the grass seed he planted on his farm southwest of Lakeview and North of Deep Lake School is coming up and probably will be a good stand. Foxhall planted Sand Love grass.

W. J. Lewis To Build Pond Soon

W. J. Lewis, northeast of Turkey, is planning to build a pond on his ranch. Lewis has been a cooperator with the Hall County Soil Conservation District for several years.

Technicians with the Soil Conservation Service will make the preliminary survey for the pond site at the earliest possible date. This pond will be used for livestock water.

Other cooperators recently completing ponds in the Turkey and Parnell area include J. D. House, Lee Scrivner, and Crump Ferrel.

"Thinking of Irrigation" is the title of a new Texas Agricultural Extension Service publication. Copies are now available through offices of local county agents. It was prepared especially for those contemplating an irrigation system for their farm.

ing pastures should be used for either hay or silage. E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, points out that adequate feed reserves supplement good pasture management.

Many people are interested in wildlife of the Hall County SCD and a few people are doing something about it. They are leaving odd areas in their fields along the edges for the use of wildlife.

Soil Survey Of Hall County Is Now Underway

A survey to record the kind and quality of soils on all the farms of the nation is underway. This work has been going on for several months, and is being done by the Soil Conservation Service. The survey for the Hall County SCD began on the east side of Hall County and is to continue toward the west until completed. The Hall County portion of the Hall County SCD with about 1000 operating units, has over 500,000 acres to be surveyed in this manner.

When the soil conservation survey is ended, every cooperator will know the type soil, the slope, and the erosion of his land according to Soil Conservation technicians.

The SCS hopes to finish this survey in the District within 3 years. The surveying is at present, being done by Earl Blakely, a Soil Scientist who is stationed at Childress.

James Aduddell Completes Tour With U. S. Army

Cpl. James Aduddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Aduddell, returned home last week after spending two years with the U. S. Army.

He took his basic training at Fort Ord, Calif., and was later stationed at Fort Sam Houston. Following this, Aduddell served in Masswiler, Germany with the Military Police.

Irrigation Usage Increases in Area

Interest in irrigation has been widespread during the drouth years and this interest has in no way missed the Hall County Soil Conservation District. It is estimated that the area from Childress, Wellington Highway, south to the Red River and west to the county line of Hall County and from Parnell, west including the Turkey area, has over one hundred irrigation wells. It also is estimated that these wells irrigate approximately six thousand acres.

Soil Conservation Service personnel have given information to a lot of these well owners as to amount of water to apply, when to apply, how fast their soil will take water, helping them plan a complete irrigation system and in helping them to understandatory reports on the water.

GRASS — The Forgiveness of Nature

By JOHN J. INGALLS

Next in importance to the divine profusion of water, light, and air, those three physical facts which render existence possible, may be reckoned the universal beneficence of grass. Lying in the sunshine among the buttercups and dandelions of May, scarcely higher in intelligence than those minute tenants of that mimic wilderness, our earliest recollections are of grass; and when the fitful fever is ended, and the foolish wrangle of the market and the forum is closed, grass heals over the scar which our descent into the bosom of the earth had made, and the carpet of the infant becomes the blanket of the dead.

Grass is the forgiveness of nature—her constant benediction. Fields trampled with battle, saturated with blood, torn with ruts of cannon, grown green again with grass, and carnage is forgotten. Streets abandoned by traffic become grass-grown like rural lanes, and are obliterated; forests decay, harvests perish, flowers vanish, but grass is immortal. Belegued by the sullen hosts of winter, it withdraws into the impregnable fortress of its subterranean vitality and emerges upon solicitation of spring. Sown by the wind, by wandering birds, propagated by the subtle horticulture of the elements, which are its ministers and servants, it softens the rude outline of the world. Its tenacious fibers hold the earth in its place, and prevent its soluble components from washing into the sea. It invades the solitude of the deserts, climbs the inaccessible slopes and forbidden pinnacles of mountains, modifies climates and determines the history, character, and destiny of nations. Unobtrusive and patient, it has immortal vigor and aggression. Banished from the thoroughfare and fields, it bides its time to return, and when vigilance is relaxed, or the dynasty has perished, it silently resumes the throne from which it has been expelled but which it never abdicates. It bears no blazonry of bloom to charm the senses with fragrance or splendor, but its homely hue is more enchanting than the lily or the rose. It yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet should its harvest fail for a single year famine would depopulate the world.

Conservation Work Unit Staff Here Is Composed of Seven Technicians

The Memphis Work Unit Staff of the Soil Conservation Service, which assists the Hall County Soil Conservation District, has undergone some changes during the past year.

At present, the staff is composed of Charley Cape, William Swindle, Royce Frisbie, Roland Shackelford, and Olman Sweat. Calvin Jackson is also headquartered at Memphis, but works in three other units. Earl Blakely, headquartered in Childress, also assists the local work unit.

Charley Cape, work unit conservationist, is in charge of the Memphis work unit. Cape began work for the Soil Conservation Service in May of 1939. He taught vocational agriculture in Cad-do, Oklahoma for one year before entering SCS. He gives technical assistance to farmers and ranchers in planning and applying soil conservation practices. He represents the Soil Conservation Service with the Hall County portion of the Hall County Soil Conservation District.

Cape graduated from Oklahoma A & M College in 1938 with a bachelor of Science degree in Agronomy. He worked at Bartlett, Coleman, Brownwood, Seymour and Knox City before coming to Memphis.

Frisbie and his wife, and a daughter Tamara, live in Memphis. Mrs. Frisbie is secretary to W. A. Legion, division plant superintendent of the General Telephone Company.

Roland H. Shackelford, engineering aid, went to work for the SCS in June of 1944. His job is to help farmers apply soil conservation practices. During World War I, he served in the 34th infantry Division in France. He served eight years with the civilian Conservation Corps. He also worked in the shipyards in Oakland California just prior to entering SCS.

Shackelford and his wife Bessie, and two daughters Helen and Sandra live on Bradford Street in Memphis. A third daughter, Barbra Ann is employed with a firm in Houston.

Olman Sweat, conservation aid, began working for the soil conservation Service in October 1945. His main job is to help farmers and ranchers apply conservation practices. Sweat worked in the research field for SCS for seven years while at Plainview. He graduated from West Texas State College in 1936 with a bachelor of Science degree in Government. In 1951 he completed courses for a technical degree in Agriculture. Sweat taught school for several years at Memphis, Hedley, and Whiteface. He served three years in the navy during World War II and was stationed in Alaska.

Sweat is a bachelor and lives in Clarendon.

William Swindle, Soil Conservationist, began work with the SCS June 1955. His main job is to give technical assistance to farmers and ranchers in applying soil conservation practices.

Swindle graduated from Texas A & M College in 1950. He has a bachelor of Science degree in Agricultural Education and a Master of Education degree.

He served three years with the navy during World War II and eighteen months with the U. S. Army during the Korean Conflict. He taught school for four years at Hawley, Anson, and Duncanville.

He and his wife Millie and a son Dale live on tenth Street in Memphis.

Calvin Jackson, engineer, started to work for the SCS in 1954. His job is to give engineering assistance to the Childress, Memphis, Clarendon, and Wellington work units. Jackson was graduated from Texas A & M College with a Bachelor of Science degree in Agricultural Engineering. He is a reserve army officer and served two years with the Ordnance Corps in France during 1955 and 1956. Jackson is single and lives at 202 North 10th Street in Memphis. A twin brother, John, also works as an engineer for SCS in Crosbyton.

Earl Blakely is a soil scientist, who started working early in 1956 for the SCS. He works in Hall, Childress, Collingsworth, and Donley Counties. His job is to make soil surveys. These surveys give the texture and depth of the soil, the slope and erosion damage. He graduated from Oklahoma A & M College with a Bachelor of Science degree in Agronomy. The SCS is a branch of the United States Department of Agriculture. It furnishes farmers and ranchers of the district with technical assistance. This assistance enables farmers to apply a more effective program of soil, water, and plant conservation to the land.

Technicians of the Memphis work unit directly assist farmers and ranchers in the district with this conservation work. The main job of these technicians is to help farmers and ranchers work out a conservation plan on their individual farms. This conservation plan is based on an inventory of the land. It includes the kind of soil, the slope, the amount of erosion; and in the case of range-land, the kinds and amount of plant cover. It includes the facts needed to determine what the land is capable of producing efficiently now, and also for generations to come.

The SCS keeps these men up to date on the latest in conservation by giving them training on their own centers. They are also informed on the latest discoveries arising from land, water, and plant research, conducted by both state and federal agencies, and new developments learned from the practical field of experience.

They are letting weeds and grass as well as shrubs and, in some cases, a few trees grow in these areas for food and cover for wildlife.

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

Budget Pressure

The battle of the budget continues. Big guns were brought in to play by the Administration to pressure Congress into restoring many of the cuts already made and to stop several cuts in appropriation bills not yet voted on. Cabinet officers have reversed their earlier positions that the record-high, peacetime budget could and should be measurably reduced. It now appears these cabinet officers were not clearly understood. What they meant to convey was that expenditures in all departments except their own should be cut. Hence, their advice is not of much value. To follow it would be to spare each division of the government separately from the economic paring knife with the result that there would be no reductions.

The No. 1 big gun has been fired twice in this battle by the President of the United States. His first appearance did not generate much feeling among the people to underwrite the expenditure of 72 billion dollars to run the country. (The lack of response to this first appeal no doubt prompted the powers that be to insist upon a repeat performance by the President.) His second try is producing much better results.

Mr. Eisenhower is in a rather unpleasant situation. He is thoroughly convinced that the expenditures listed in his budget request are absolutely essential for the preservation of this government. He is deeply and devotedly sincere in his appeals to the American people to support his expenditure program, especially foreign aid. However, there are many others in high government circles who are as sincere in their feelings that the foreign aid program has not been as effective as it has been advertised. When one looks at the expenditures over the years in this particular program, many questions arise. For instance, the foreign aid records reflect that between July 1, 1940 and June 30, 1945, net grant foreign aid amounted to 40 billion 255 million 660 thousand dollars. In 1945 the population was 139 million 928 thousand. This meant that foreign aid amounted to $287.69 for each person in this country. From July 1, 1955 to June 30, 1956, net grant foreign aid amounted to 47 billion 488 million 997 thousand dollars. In 1956 the population had increased to 168 million 174 thousand. This meant the net grant foreign aid on the 1956 population base amounted to $282.14 for each person in this country.

In addition to this type of aid, there was the loan aid which amounted to a net figure of 12 billion 710 million 946 thousand dollars between July 1, 1940 and June 30, 1956, or a per capita figure of $75.58. For the fiscal year 1956, that is, from July 1, 1955 through June 30, 1956, net aid under the program amounted to 4 billion 648 million 358 thousand dollars.

On July 1, 1956, authorized and appropriated aid available amounted to 13 billion 800 million dollars.

A recapitulation of all of these figures reflects that from 1950 through July, 1956, the foreign aid program, in expenditures and available funds, had cost this country 116 billion, 485 million, 564 thousand dollars, or $692.65 per person on the basis of the 1956 population. I know that all of these figures are most confusing, so we will try to apply them to one or two of the counties in the 18th Congressional District and see what we come up with, using the 1956 population census and the pro rata share per citizen on a nation wide basis. The records reflect that my home county of Gray has spent 21 million, 389 thousand, 225 dollars in foreign aid between 1940 and 1957. The people in the City of Pampa, my home town, have spent 14 million, 343 thousand, 963 dollars during that time. In 1956 foreign aid cost Gray County 859 thousand, 51 dollars. The people of Pampa were charged with 576 thousand, 93 dollars.

Applying these figures to Childress County we find the people of that county have spent 10 million, 586 thousand, 153 dollars between 1940 and 1957 on the foreign aid program. In 1956, 421 thousand, 153 dollars was the pro rata share of the foreign aid program for Childress County. The part chargeable to the City of Childress would be 6 million, 590 thousand, 283 dollars for the entire foreign aid program, or 264 thousand, 684 dollars for the year 1956. Potter County, on a population basis of 1950, shows to have contributed 63 million, 460 thousand, 123 dollars since 1940.

If any of you would like the figures for your own county, please write me and I will try to get them for you.

The staunch proponents of foreign aid argue that these expendi-

The Press Battles for its Freedom

John Peter Zenger was arrested "for printing and publishing several seditious libels dispersed through his journals of newspapers..."

Zenger was a New York printer in the days when Governor Cosby ruled the colony. Governor Cosby ruled in such an autocratic, overbearing manner that several indignant citizens started a newspaper to arouse the public against his tyranny. Zenger undertook to publish the newspaper.

Zenger was thrown into prison, and his bail was fixed at 800 pounds, a large sum for those days and quite beyond his ability to furnish. He stayed in jail for months, and his situation appeared hopeless.

The case finally was called to the attention of Andrew Hamilton, a distinguished Pennsylvania lawyer, who took up Zenger's cause as a public service. Hamilton forced the case to trial, and his speech to the jury, which led to Zenger's acquittal, is a ringing statement of what the press in America must still vigilantly fight for.

All men have the right, Hamilton maintained, "publicly to remonstrate the abuses of power... and to assert with courage the sense they have of the blessing of liberty... and their resolution at all hazards to preserve it."

Today in our country encroachments by governments and private interests alike upon freedom of the press are counter to law. Nevertheless, even today the press must battle constantly to keep that freedom intact.

Three Memphis Ladies Complete Tour of South

Pauline Knight, Mary Smith and Joan Edwards returned home Sunday after a two week vacation to the southeastern states.

One of the interesting places visited was The Hermitage, home of Pres. Andrew Jackson, near Nashville. They also attended the Jamestown Festival which commemorates the establishment of America's first permanent English settlement in 1607.

Among the exciting features of the festival were the James Fort, Jamestown Island and the International Exhibition Pavilions which depicts the Old World and the New World. A number of items were on display including a violin belonging to Queen Elizabeth, loaned by the Queen of England for the festival.

The Mayflower used in the re-enactment of the landing of the settlers was also on display. A free concert was given by the United States Navy Band from Washington, D. C.

They also visited Colonial Williamsburg, which turns back the clock to the eighteenth century, and walked down Duke of Gloucester Street, described as the most historic avenue of all America.

Today, restored for the visitor through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Williamsburg mirrors not only the lives of British Governors and American patriots, but the way of life of a whole society.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Building Your Home
When you are ready to build, you will find that the law helps in many ways to make your home enjoyable and secure.

Have you decided on the type house you want and the amount you want to spend? If so, then let's go into details!

1. Your lot: Junior's school or your church may be nearby, but find out —

(a) Whether they are planning to run a highway through the area or nearby, or make any improvements for which you can be assessed.

(b) What "covenants" or restrictions run with the land? To protect residents, the plots or basic deeds of some neighborhoods call on you to build a certain size or type of house. Do you want to and can you afford to?

(c) Easements. Either you or your neighbors may need to run pipelines, or string wires over each other's land or to share a driveway. Have the abstract checked carefully to disclose any easements.

2. Zoning Ordinances: For your protection the local government and dined in the Blue Room of the Roosevelt Hotel and were entertained by Tex Beneke and his orchestra, Julius La Rosa, Jay Lawrence and the Holly Twins.

frequently zones some areas, for example, for single houses only, for multiple dwellings; for retail stores, for manufacturing, etc.

Unless the local governing body changes its zoning ordinances, no filling station, for instance, can go up next to you in a residential ordinance usually impose strict requirements for the building, location and structure. Municipal area. Neither could you turn your standards for the building, the plumbing and the electrical wiring. In many cases only licensed building tradesmen are permitted to make installations.

3. Building Codes: Be certain that the plans and construction will meet the requirements of the local building code as to size, location and structure. Municipal area. Neither could you turn your standards for the building, the plumbing and the electrical wiring. In many cases only licensed building tradesmen are permitted to make installations.

4. Financing: Financing contracts protect both you and the lender who is fully advised to use credit to pay for your house, most likely a deed of trust or a land contract. Your installments often include principal, interest, insurance and taxes. Under a land contract the lender holds the title to your house until you pay for it. If you fall behind, the holder can take the house back. With a deed of trust, the lender has a lien which he can foreclose if you default. You may get some of your money back on the principal; but you may also have to make up any loss the lender makes in re-selling the house.

Well worked-out contracts can help make your dream house come true. A construction contract or a so-called "earnest-money" agreement or receipt is no job for an amateur. Too many legal details are involved. Your lawyer is trained by education and experience to protect your best interests in contracting and closing the real estate deals.

You know what you want. You should be careful to get what you want by planning and a properly prepared and executed contract.

Soil Stewardship Week

"And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden . . . and . . . took the man . . . and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and keep it."—Gen. 2:8, 15. This week, May 26 through June 2 has been designated as National Soil Stewardship Week by the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts. It began this week with the observance of Rural Life Sunday as leaders of church organizations all over the nation joined in special recognition of man's responsibility as a steward of our God-given heritage—the productive soil.

Much has been accomplished during the past years in this county through the Hall County Soil Conservation District, but there is also a great need for more work toward conserving our soil. We, in this area, are fortunate that our land is relatively young and has not been "worn out" as so much land has in the eastern part of the United States. There are many persons still living here today who can remember when most of this county was still in grass. As this grass was turned under and the land seeded to crops, the gradual process of tearing down the land began. The minerals and organic matter which nature had placed in the soil over the many thousands of years began to be drawn into growing plants as food, started washing away with each rain and blowing away with each sand-storm.

Many of us have heard a farmer comment, "My land washes a lot more now than it did in the past." The reason for this is simple—a lot of the organic matter has been lost from the soil. This organic matter is that part of the soil made up of decayed plants. It is soft and porous, soaking up water like a sponge when it rains and then holding the earth particles together when the wind blows. Another important function of organic matter is that it keeps soil from packing too tightly.

The conservation of our organic matter is probably the practice most needed, if one phase of conservation work were to be called more important than the others. All our terraces will avail us nothing if our land is like the bottom of Red River, wet only when it rains and then dry in a few days. Without the organic matter to hold the moisture in the soil, our plants would die within a few days after the spring rains stop.

It is indeed gratifying to see the interest that has been taken in soil conservation here during the past years. Most area farmers have come to realize that they must farm their land carefully or soon they will have no land to farm. Throughout the history of the world civilizations have always begun and ended with the plow. Those nations which have used their land wisely have grown to be great powers, only falling when their land was ruined by improper cultivation. This problem of soil conservation is as important to everyone in this area, businessmen and farmers alike. Businesses here will feel it just as much as the farmer every time a ton of top soil is washed down the river.

We are happy to cooperate in every way with local farmers and Soil Conservation Service technicians in any effort to build a greater agricultural future for this area. It would indeed be difficult to see how any person could not support conservation of our soil to the fullest extent.

Press Paragraphs—
QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

TOWARD BUMPER CROPS

After two to three weeks under clouds Texas broke out with sunshine all over Sunday, and this happy boon was repeated Monday. What's cooking when this sees print we have no faintest idea, but we wouldn't be surprised, period. There are plenty of those mare's-tail clouds hanging overhead, like cowbells on the rafters of a barn, and y'all know what that sign adds up to.

Grateful as Texans were for the rains after so long a time the return of the sun was hailed with ill-concealed glee. After all, West Texas in particular is a sun-shiny sort of place, and two or three weeks of continuous cloud is apt to give our people the mulligrubs. One gets hungry for the sun. We heard dark talk about giving the country back to the Indians, but the return of old Sol quickly put a stop to such rash subversion.

As to whether the great drouth has been smashed completely is a moot point. It has been dealt a severe blow, but the depth of moisture penetration is variable, and the earth was dry for a long way down. Where the seedbeds were will prepared, as they were throughout most of West Texas, we have a very fine season indeed.

In the barren rangelands it is different. Where there was nothing to hold the moisture until it soaked in—and in some areas even the grassroots seemed to have gone—the story is not so happy. But in spite of the tragic loss of life and the heavy damage to property, crops and soil conservation works, the rains were the best thing that has happened to Texas in a long time. It was something we just had to have, and we got it.

Plans long deferred will now spring into life, and if timely rains fall during the growing season we can look forward to bumper crops.—Abilene Reporter-News

Printer's Ink

Our sympathy goes to W. H. Graham's State Line Tribune over at Farwell where someone overturned a barrel of ink in the back shop last week.

The incident caused Graham to recall the story about the mother who took her 4-year-old son on a tour of a newspaper plant. The lad climbed atop a barrel of ink, lost his balance, and plunged in—headfirst!

The mother dashed to the floundering boy's rescue, and pulled him up from the inky morass about four inches. Then she heaved a deep sigh and let him back down in the ink.

"Why didn't you pull him out while you had hold of him?" asked a printer in amazement.

"Well," she said, "I took just one look at that boy and decided it would be less trouble to have another one than to clean him up!" —Tulsa Herald

Accidents

Drowsy drivers are becoming the No. 1 accident cause on the fast arteries of traffic, it is claimed by a safety writer, who says the drowsy man is about to take over from the drunk. The sleepyhead who dozes at the wheel, is driving out of control just as much as is the drunken driver. It had not occurred to us that the statistics would bear out such statements about sleepy people at the wheel but perhaps so. In these days of speed a split second of inattention is enough. —Floyd County Hesperian.

Simon Lake Said To Have Invented Non-Sinkable Merchant Submarine: The Philadelphia Press will publish a story tomorrow to the effect that "America has found the perfect answer to the German submarine threat." It is said to be a merchant submarine standardized at about 7,500 tons or 8,000 tons dead weight, of such speed that it can, even when submerged, easily elude any surface pursuer and is non-sinkable. The craft, the invention of Simon Lake, according to the Press, is capable of submerging within half a minute and has been so standardized, simplified that the first one may be turned out in four months and others after that at the rate of three or four a week. . . . Coffee and frozen strawberry pie completed the tasty and clever non-day feast.

Styrofoam ladies in miniature with glitter trim served as plate favors and large figurines flanked by styrofoam tophats filled with iris added the gaiety of springtime to the party.

Pathfinders Meet In Gidden Home

"Time and tide waits for no man" and so the time for a year's work with the Pathfinders' Council came to a close Tuesday, May 28, with a salad plate luncheon in the home of Mrs. A. O. Gidden.

Mrs. Anna Dickson opened the business meeting with the invocation. Mrs. A. O. Gidden read a card from Mrs. Bob Lindsey, District President, urging the club or members to donate to the Silverton Relief Fund. After the business Mrs. J. J. McDaniel presented the program by reading "So, now with purpose full and clear, we leave to meet another year."

Mrs. W. F. McElreath gave "Looking Back," which was a report on the club's work for the year. Some of the outstanding club projects were: contributing a book, "Mountain of Minds," to the Carnegie Library, donating magazines to colored school, sending Christmas box to Wichita Falls State Hospital, citizenship award to two eight grade students, contributing newspapers to help finance a college student, and many cash contributions to various other projects.

As time and tide takes its toll, it was the club's sorrow to lose a beloved member, Mrs. Mary Williams. Mrs. W. F. Ritchie wrote a poem in her memory and Mrs. O. M. Gunstream read it. With all members standing Mrs. Gidden closed the memorial dedication with "Rock of Ages."

Mrs. Hester Bownds conducted a very impressive installation service. The officers installed for the coming year were Mrs. A. O. Gidden, pres., Mrs. Robert Spicer, vice pres., Mrs. J. J. McDaniel, rec. sec'y., Mrs. A. Gidden, corresponding sec'y., Mrs. W. W. Linville, treas., Mrs. E. L. Kilgore, parliamentarian, Mrs. E. Lee, reporter, Mrs. E. L. McQueen, librarian, and Mrs. W. F. McElreath, critic.

A scrap book of the year's work and reports, which had been prepared by Mrs. Anna Dickson, was exhibited at the meeting. The club adjourned until September. Those enjoying the luncheon were: Meses. Anna son, J. R. Mitchell, Barney nett, E. L. Kilgore, E. Lee, Gunstream, Hester Bownds, Ritchie, E. L. McQueen, A. den, W. F. McElreath, W. W. ville, J. J. McDaniel, A. O. Gidden and two guests, Bettye and Gidden.
