GOC Completes Work On Observation Post Here

Members of the local Ground Observer Corps post finished work this week on the lookout building situated on top of the court house, Hubert Dennis, supervisor announced. The building required a total of 732 man-hours to construct, all of which was donated by various members of the organization. The expense of building the structure, and the door leading onto the roof were borne by the City of Memphis and Hall County. The building is approximately six feet wide by ten feet long with the outside being covered with aluminum siding. The inside of the structure was insulated with spun glass and then lined with sheet rock and painted. From this high vantage point, observers can see as far west as the cap rock on a clear day, as well as several miles in the other directions. The post will be used by members of the corps during times when they are called on the alert to watch for low flying aircraft or for severe weather, Dennis said. The post here is still in need of more members in the adult age group, Dennis said. If they should ever be called on the alert on a 24-hour-a-day basis, it would be extremely difficult for the present members to maintain this schedule, he said. Members of the organization receive a silver lapel pin after they have completed six hours of study in identifying aircraft. They are also issued an identification card stating that they are

Water Sets Limits Of Economy, Judge Dent Warns City

Judge Otho Dent, West Texas serving on the State Board of Water Engineers, outlined for the Memphis Lions Club and other visiting businessmen, Thursday noon the procedures for securing a dam across Salt Fork River at the Donley County line, then underscored the necessity of West Texas conserving its water. "Water will set the limits of our economy," Judge Dent declared. "Take advantage of every drop that falls. Counties and towns are losing population because they do not have the water to keep the people here." Industry will come to where water is, he pointed out, warning the Memphis group to use their water rights before some one else does. "We are mining our water in West Texas," he warned. "We are taking it out and not replenishing it as fast as we take it out, and somewhere we're going to hit bottom."

Present at the meeting was Sen. Andy Rogers, who helped sponsor legislation to correct indefinite laws regarding the status of cities in the water authority. Dent pointed out that the next step would be the confirmation election to be held in the seven member towns, Memphis, Clarendon, Wellington, Hedley, Childress, Paducah and Quanah. The cities in the Greenbelt Water Authority would then examine the proposed program and make up their minds about remaining in the authority before any bonds are voted.

Deputy Neel Catches Claude Escapee Friday

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Neel and Highway Patrolman Bill Cornelius of Clarendon picked up a Negro soldier about 3 miles north of Memphis last Friday after the soldier has escaped from the Claude jail. Neel heard Armstrong County Sheriff John Burnson talking to Clarendon about the escapee about 2:30 p. m. Friday on the radio and decided to drive up that direction. Patrolman Bill Cornelius happened to be in the office and accompanied Neel. About three miles north of Memphis the officers met a truck with a Negro as a passenger. They turned around, stopped the truck and the driver came back to the police car to talk to the officers. "We asked the driver if he had picked up the man and the driver said 'Yes' in Claude," and we told the driver that was the man we were looking for," Neel said. When the officers approached the truck cab, the escapee was sitting sideways in the seat, Neel said. "As he started to get out, I saw a pistol in a holster in his (Continued on Page 12)

Voting Light Over County

Hall County wheat farmers approved wheat marketing quotas for 1958 by a vote of 80 for and 5 against in balloting last Thursday throughout the county, Lynn McKown, manager of the local Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Office, announced.

The 1958 support price for wheat has been set at $1.78 per bushel for the national average. This is 22 cents less than the support price last year of $2.00 per bushel.

The guaranteed national average price of $1.78 per bushel for next year's crop will be available for those who comply with farm allotments in all commercial wheat states.

Nothing definite has been received by the local office yet on the 1958 wheat soil bank acreage reserve rates, McKown said. The announcement concerning this phase of the program will probably be forthcoming in the near future he said.

One of the votes against the marketing quotas came from the Memphis box and four from the Turkey balloting. The 80 votes for the quotas were distributed as follows: Leslie 19, Lakeview 7, Plaska 6, Memphis 19, Esteline 2, and Turkey 16.

There were a total of 470 eligible voters in the county for the referendum and 85 of this number cast ballots, 10 less than last year.

The wheat allotment for 1957 was 14,937 acres. Farmers placed about half of this amount in the acreage reserve program.

The allotment for 1958 is slightly less, 14,869 acres. County farmers were notified of their individual allotments before the referendum.

Acreage Reserve Checks McKown also stated that the checks for payment of land placed in 1957 wheat acreage reserve program will probably be mailed this week. About 70 per cent of the checks will be included in this group.

Truck Accident Monday Night Injures Driver From Jacksboro

E. G. Williams, 40 of Jacksboro, is in a local hospital recovering this week from injuries received Monday night when his cattle truck struck the rear end of another such truck at the north edge of the city limits on Highway 287.

Williams had just pulled away from Cafe 287, as had the other truck, when the accident occurred. The other truck stopped after hearing a noise which the driver thought might be something wrong with a rear wheel. Williams' truck struck the rear of the other truck, investigation officers said.

The cab of the truck was crushed and Williams pinned in the wreckage. Rescuers had to use crowbars and other tools to free the man before he could be taken to the hospital.

Williams received a dislocation and fracture of the left ankle, a fractured right ankle, lacerations of the scalp, left hand, chin, and bruises about the arm, chest and left leg. There may also be possible internal chest injuries, hospital authorities stated. He will probably be retained here in the hospital for about a week. Both trucks were owned by the Mask Feed and Hatchery of Jacksboro and were returning to that city when the accident occurred.

Glynda Pat Lewis and Donald Clark Are Married in Pretty Church Service

In a double-ring ceremony performed at 6 p.m. Friday, June 21 in the First Baptist Church of Lakeview, Miss Glynda Pat Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Lewis of Lakeview, became the bride of Donald Gene Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Clark of Lesley.

H. K. Morris, pastor of the Lesley Baptist Church, read the marriage service before an arch of greenery flanked by baskets of white gladioli.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Miss Diana Fowler of Lesley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white street length dress of tulle and lace, accented with white accessories and she carried a white bible topped with white carnations tied with yellow and white satin streamers.

The traditional custom of something old, borrowed and blue was carried out. She also wore a good luck coin in her shoe.

Mrs. Doyle Dean Darby of Ropesville, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a white linen dress accented with white accessories. She carried an arrangement of yellow gladioli.

Robbie Clark of Lesley, brother of the groom, was best man.

Miss Carolyn Hall of Lesley registered the wedding guests.

After a short wedding trip Mr.

MRS. DONALD CLARK

Thespian Society Gives Recognition To Honor Group

Of major importance on the agenda of the Thespian Society at its last regular meeting of the fiscal year of 1956-1957 was the recognition of honor thespians. This award is achieved by a student having met the requirements of a rigid point system of credit for outstanding contributions in the field of dramatics in his high school. It is indicative of quality as well as quantity; the mere acquisition of points without superiority of performance is not sufficient for qualifying. When all records were checked, the local society listed six honor thespians: Beverly Crawford, Iola Robertson, Jean Foxhall, Eddie Piland and Truman Smith, seniors and Linda Leslie, a junior. Among their contributions to school advancement were roles in class and society plays, officers of various organizations participating in programs of various natures, and work in Interscholastic League activities.

This year for the first time the Thespian Society was permitted to elect an outstanding boy and girl whose speech histories will be submitted to the National Society for further recognition. Heretofore, only one student has been elected. Truman Smith was elected the Best Thespian boy and Linda Leslie was elected the Best Thespian girl.

Officers for the year have been Truman Smith, president; Eddie Piland, vice-president; Linda Leslie, secretary; Jan Goodnight, treasurer; and Beverly Crawford, Reporter.

In 1952 (When you became President) it averaged 3 3/4¢ an hour

In 1957 (Today) it averages ONLY . . . 3 1/4¢ an hour

Herminia Shagun and Phillip Ollinger Marry In Church Service in Amarillo

St. Joseph's Church in Amarillo was the scene Saturday morning for the marriage of Herminia Sahagun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Sahagun of Lakeview, to Phillip Richard Ollinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ollinger of Groom.

Father Norbert Kuehler read the double-ring service. Music for the nuptial high mass was played by Miss Nancy Braun, organist, and "Ave Maria" was played during the offertory. Rossini's "Processional" and "Recessional" were used.

Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar. As maid-of-honor, Miss Sue Ollinger, sister of the bridegroom, wore a light blue lace over taffeta dress, styled with a scalloped V neckline and cap sleeves. Her hat was of blue flowers and she carried a bouquet of blue and white chrysanthemums.

Misses Mary and Elvira Sahagun, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of light blue taffeta and their hats of white flowers. They also carried bouquets of blue and white chrysanthemums.

Raymond J. Ollinger was his brother's best man. Serving as ushers were Leon Bohr of Groom and Charles Holt of Lakeview.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white taffeta and lace, fashioned with a high neckline, standup collar and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt was covered with lace. Her chapel length veil was attached to a headpiece of taffeta and lace accented with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Sahagun, mother of the bride, wore a navy dress with navy and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a charcoal blue dress with black and white accessories. Both had corsages of white roses.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was feted at a reception in St. Joseph's School. Miss Shirley Bean served the wedding cake. Miss Loreta Mondragon presided at the punch bowl and guests were registered by Miss Helen Gutierrez.

For a wedding trip to Colorado, the bride travelled in a light green cotton and nylon dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The couple is to be at home at 727 N. Tyler.

Mrs. Ollinger graduated from Lakeview High School. She is a senior student at St. Anthony's School of Nursing. The bridegroom, a graduate of Groom High School, served in the Air Force. He is a civil service employee at Amarillo Air Force Base.

Light Money Market Penalizes Texas Veterans

Over 20,000 Texas veterans are being penalized by the light money market.

A statement was made by Commissioner Earl Rudder in answer to inquiries concerning the processing of applications for purchase land under the Veterans' Land Program.

"So far, we haven't been able to buy bonds," the commissioner said.

When a second $100,000,000 issue was passed by voters in November, many veterans assumed that loans would be made immediately. This has not been the case," Commissioner Rudder said.

From time necessary to the legislation putting the new program into effect, inability to buy bonds has prevented the program from developing as we had hoped. In addition, the maximum of three per cent that can be paid on bonds, which is prescribed by law, is a limiting factor."

Commissioner Rudder said he frequently asked:

"We are processing a few loans but they become available from revolving fund created by the sale during the first program. We are also watching the market very carefully and offering every possibility of getting the bonds as soon as we feel that is a possibility of selling."

In summing up the situation, Commissioner Rudder said he hopes that veterans who now have applications pending will understand the problems involved. He stated that applications are still being processed in the order in which they are received when they are or become available.

Little Number Down 2 Percent from Year Ago

For the first time in seven years, cattle numbers are down in the United States. A nation-wide drop of 2 per cent in total cattle numbers last year coupled with widespread rain creates a median-average chance for lower prices.

The long drought was largely responsible for this decline, and cattlemen have not yet turned around in either the South or West although Texas registered a 1 per cent reduction in 1956.

Usually, national numbers are at a point of balance and swing either way if moisture conditions keep on improving.

Extension Economist John McCreary says cattle prices will probably improve if rains continue to fall at the right time and in the right places. He figures this will cause many ranchers to hold back a good many calves from slaughter. He also might create a better market for steer and heifer beef.

McCreary says American cattlemen generally expect higher prices in a few years if the national economic activity and non-farm income remains high. He says this prediction on the decline in cattle to people ratio in recent years with the assumption that it will continue.

The economist advises cattlemen to finish animals out by June to avoid heavy July and August marketing. There were 4 percent more cattle on feed in May than a year earlier and cattlemen this year point to a long feeding period. Feeder cat prices won't increase greatly next fall, but they will probably be slightly higher. Increased demand for poultry supplies will come with beef.

Selected High School Scientists Attending Special College Courses

Texas' most promising high school scientists and mathematicians are getting a taste of college life this summer on five Texas campuses. Some 130 of the talented youngsters, all with IQ's above 120, are enrolled in experimental classes at the University of Texas, Texas A&M College, Rice Institute, Southern Methodist University and Texas Technological College.

Special courses in physics, mathematics, biology and chemistry are being offered June 10-July 12 at each of the colleges. During the five-week program the students participate in group discussions, lectures, problem and project sessions and field trips.

The youngsters enrolled in the program represent 82 high schools in 65 Texas cities and towns. The University of Texas conducted a pilot course last year for about 30 exceptionally talented high school chemists. The project was enthusiastically endorsed by the Fund for the Advancement of Education, which made a $25,000 grant to the University to coordinate the program in the other institutions.

The grant will cover expenses of the participating colleges, as well as cost of the students' books and field trips.

The experimental classes are not designed to take the place of the usual high school and college offerings, but to increase the student's enthusiasm for science and develop a greater understanding of the scientific careers available.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson and family visited over the weekend in Borger with relatives.

Mrs. Ann Hillion of Amarillo visited in Memphis on Friday with friends.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

AUSTIN — The big three in America today are reserpine, chlorpromazine, and meprobrate. They are tranquilizing drugs — so-called "happy pills." And as more and more people take them for real and imagined reasons, they are fast becoming household words.

Americans last year spent well over $150 million for various types. A single drug company reported the sale of 30 billion tablets during the first 10 months of 1956, and indicated that sales were expected to double in 1957.

Scientific studies indicate that the drugs have great value in the treatment of some types of mental illness, but when healthy people, for no other reason than that they had a bad day at the office or that the children have been unusually noisy, begin eating them like popcorn, an insidious danger is in the making.

Like other valuable drugs, tranquilizers can be harmful physically and mentally. Medical researchers have reported that in some cases there is a tendency toward habit formation. In a few cases unpleasant side reactions have occurred. Some users have been depressed rather than calmed. Calm users have become excited. Some reactions have been severe enough to require hospitalization and extensive treatment. And only time can tell whether or not prolonged use will permanently damage the nervous system.

Last September, some 700 of the nations foremost authorities on mental illness met to discuss tranquilizers and some of the problems their wide usage had raised. The conference concluded that the drugs do evidently relieve tensions in mentally disturbed persons, but for every research team reporting positive results, another reported failure in trying to duplicate those results.

Certain tranquilizers influence the release of a body chemical called serotonin — a hormone found mostly concentrated in the brain. What the chemical does is not yet fully understood, but present belief is that it acts as a switch to turn moods on and off by sending impulses of good or bad feeling along the pathways of the central nervous system. Enough serotonin in the brain might actually be a factor in sanity. When the role of this hormone is fully known we may have the final answer as to how certain tranquilizers produce their effects.

More than a dozen tranquilizers are already on the market. Some are used very beneficially in hospitals; others by private physicians in their practice. All are potentially powerful medical tools. But it will take time — perhaps years — to test them thorughly. Until that day comes, all of us would do well to remember that a certain amount of tension and anxiety is a part of normal life. Peace of mind and zestful living do not yet come in pills. It comes from facing our problems and working to solve them. In any event the so-called tranquilizers should under the direction of a physician.

Sen. Yarborough Introduces Bill To Pay Famers

A bill to provide cash compensation for flood and other natural disaster-destroyed farm crops has been introduced in the Senate by Democratic Senators Ralph Yarborough of Texas, and Mike Montgomery and Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

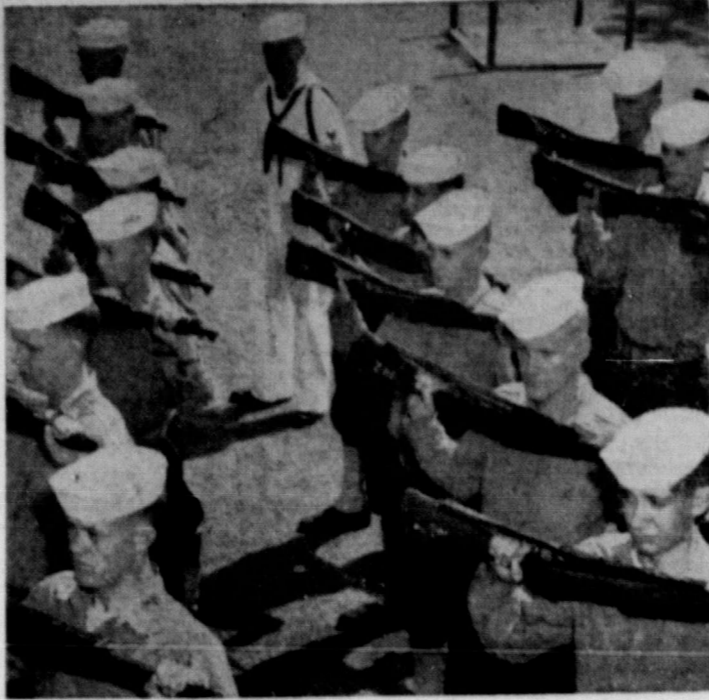

Both states have been hit hard by an unpredicted series of spring floods and tornadoes. Sen. Yarborough has twice asked the U. S. Department of Agriculture to extend the deadline for including acreage in the 1957 soil bank, and also to allow planting allotments to be transferred from flooded fields to non-flooded ones. The Agriculture Department turned down both requests.

The bill, now before the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee, would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to "formulate and carry out an emergency acreage reserve program with respect to the 1957 crop of soil bank commodities planted in areas affected by major disaster determined by the President" under the terms of public law 875. Both Texas and Oklahoma have been designated disaster areas under this law.

The program would provide for compensating each producer whose acreage of a soil bank commodity was reduced below his farm acreage allotment for that commodity because his crop of the commodity was destroyed or damaged by a major disaster. Compensation under the bill's provisions would be at the rate applying to the affected farm under the original Soil Bank Act's acreage reserve program.

Compensation would be paid in cash "as soon as practicable after the enactment" of the Kerr-Montgomery-Yarborough bill.

Worms Affecting 1957 Deer Crop

Although range conditions are the best in years the Texas deer crop season may be badly affected by screw worms, according to the Director of Law Enforcement of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"Many fawns and does are dying," Director E. M. Sprott said. "These worms also are hitting the bucks when their new horns become irritated or injured. There is just nothing to be done about it."

The director said ranchmen also are concerned with their cattle, sheep and goats. Pine trees are less likely to be struck by lightning because their resin interferes with their conducting of electricity.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

It is a fact that many owners of outboard motorboats are not getting the performance they should from their modern out-fits. Even at sub-par, new out-board boats may perform so much better than the outboards of yesterday that a don't-know and don't-care situation has developed not only among new owners but with many dealers, says Sports Afield Magazine's Boating Editor Willard Crandall.

Performance is simply speed and handling on turns and in rough water. Comfort enters into the picture, too. It is important to remember, says Crandall, that under-par performance can easily become poor or unsafe for those who can't recognize it.

First and foremost in any consideration of performance is not only how much weight is carried aboard, but just where it is placed. This is obvious in the case of most small-motor boats that cut through the water instead of planing. Too much weight forward, and the bow may cut in dangerously, and the propeller may even come out of water. Shift the weight aft, and the stern will sink way down. Move toward one side and the boat leans. Weight distribution is every bit as important with slow moving boats as with fast, big motor craft.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for your kindness to us in our sad hour. We are indeed grateful for the beautiful floral offerings, and for the food that was served. May God's blessing be upon you, is our prayer. C. E. and Karen Jean Maddox and the Scott Family being introduced that have been designed to carry weight amid-ship or forward. Most of these handle as well with the passengers toward the bow, but some don't. Most of them still go a little faster with the weight aft. An exception is the boat with only just enough power to plane. For increased speed, the weight may then have to be moved forward. A lean with a slow boat makes it handle badly. A planing boat leaning to one side loses speed even though the amount of tilt never looks like much. Even if the weight is exactly centered a boat will lean because of the torque of the engine propeller. This is one good reason to have the steering wheel located on the proper side. Generally this is the right-hand side; but the propellers of some outboard motors rotate in the opposite direction. Fertile soils produce prosperous county, state or nation.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

Revises you will every year or so to see if it meets the new things that have come up, or arrange with your lawyer to write in "contingent beneficiaries" — those who will receive your property if your first beneficiaries should die before you do.

You may long ago have had you, son provided for in your will, but what about those lovely grandchildren he and his wife have presented to you since you wrote the will? What would happen to them if things go wrong and your son should die before you?

Or take your widowed sister and her children now. Suppose you and your immediate family should be wiped out: Would you want your property to go equally to her and to your well-heeled bachelor brother? Or would you prefer to leave your brother some token of your affection, and then really take care of your sister?

You may be impatient with the law's long memory. Such things never happen, you think, but the court records are full of plans which failed. And so the law has ways in which you can provide for "what happens—if." One way is the device of contingent beneficiaries in your will and insurance policies.

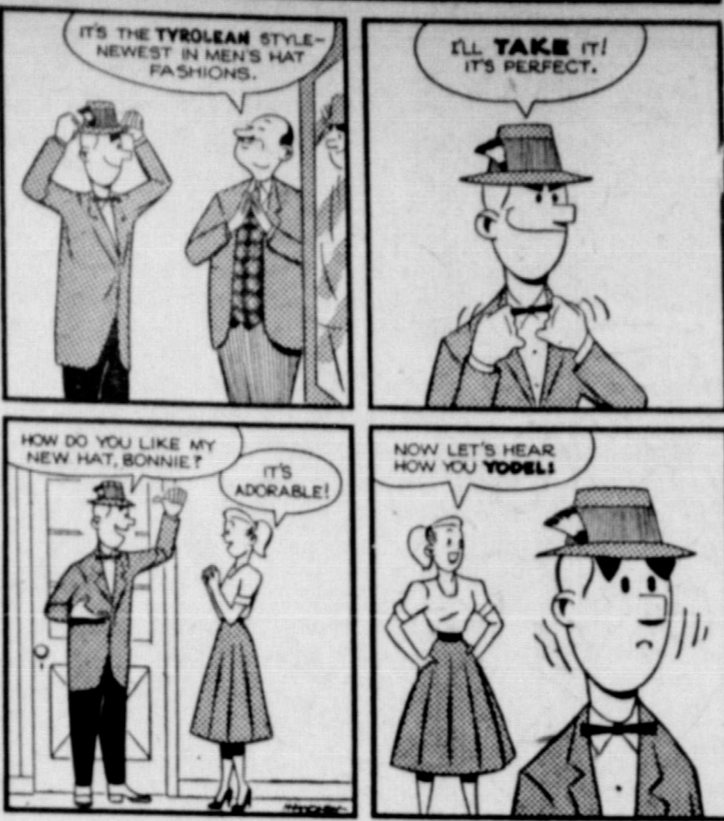

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Should you do business as a sole proprietor, a partnership or corporation? Do your contracts.

TAX TIPS

from the office of James Z. Pearce, Amarillo, Texas

Maids and other household workers working here in private homes and earning as much as $50 in cash wages in a calendar quarter were reminded today that they are protected by social security.

According to John R. Sanderson, Social Security Administration, District manager, Amarillo, and James Z. Pearce, Administrative Officer-In-Charge, Amarillo Internal Revenue Office, housewives employing such workers earning the $50 minimum figure are required to withhold 2 and one fourth per cent as social security tax. The employer then matches this amount and forwards the total to this District Director of Internal Revenue using the greatly simplified Form 942. Previous to January 1957 the tax was two per cent.

"Revenue's easy-to-use Form 942 must be filed with us within one month after the end of a calendar quarter. For example, April 30 is the final date to pay tax for the January-March quarter," Mr. Pearce said.

Mr. Sanderson of Social Security explained that "women household employees can now choose to retire at any time after reaching age 62. Like other insured women workers, their old-age benefit payments will be permanently reduced if they elect to apply for them before reaching 65."

"Household employees," he concluded, "include maids, cooks, waiters, butlers, housekeepers, governesses, valets, baby sitters, janitors, laundresses, furnace men, gardeners and chauffeurs of private cars."

Nurses Needed At VA Hospitals

Plans for expansion of services at the Dallas, Texas Veterans Administration Hospital are being seriously hampered by a shortage of graduate nurses, VA reported today.

Many openings for trained nurses with pay ranging from $4,025 to $6,390 per year are available at the Dallas hospital. Professional qualifications determine salary. Other benefits include 30 days annual vacation, sick leave and retirement pay.

Non-housekeeping quarters for nurses at the hospital are available. Nurses interested in employment should contact or write the Chief of nursing Service, Veterans Hospital, Dallas, Texas.

Grain Sorghums Vary in Days Needed To Mature

Grain sorghums, as most farmers know, vary greatly in the number of days required for maturing. County Agent W. B. Hooser reminded farmers this week as the deadline for planting grains draws near.

Hegari takes the longest, about 125 days, while DD Yellow Sooner requires the shortest period, only 100 days, he explained.

Even Martin milo, planted extensively here until a few years ago, has time to make if planted soon after July 1, and if the first freeze comes at the normal time, Nov. 2-4, he continued.

Listed below are the average number of days from planting to blooms for different varieties of grain sorghums. "It takes about 40 to 45 days from blooms to maturity," Hooser said, adding that weather will not make over two weeks variation on maturity of grain sorghums.

Celebrate July 4th by Staying Alive

Next Thursday, July 4, motorists all over America will again go dashing madly down the highways of this country and some will end up celebrating Independence Day with a funeral—their own.
More Americans have died in traffic accidents during the past 50 years than in all of our wars put together. Some 40,000 new tombstones are forecast this year as a result of man's lawlessness and carelessness on wheels. Some persons may be prone to say that "accidents will happen," but here are the cold brutal facts. Speeds too fast for conditions were involved in 58 percent of the fatal highway accidents. Driving while drinking took care of another 39 percent, leaving only 3 percent to be divided between improper passing, following too closely, crossing prohibited lines and unavoidable accidents.
The newly-created Texas Traffic Safety Council, an official state agency, has launched a statewide educational and law enforcement campaign against human destruction on the streets and highways. A safer Fourth of July is their first goal.
911 organizations—state and local, church, school, civic and otherwise—have been urged to cooperate by passing the word to their memberships. Governor Price Daniel has made a special appeal to ministers, Sunday school teachers and church workers by designating June 30 as "Safety Sunday" and urging them to devote part of their lesson to traffic safety.
The Texas Department of Public Safety will add the facilities of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Division and License and Weight Division to bolster the force of the Highway Patrol on July 4 in an effort to reduce the number of accidents. Col.
Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the department, announced this week. Their mission will be that of patrolling our highways July 4 to remove dangerous drivers from the road before accidents occur, he said.
But these men can not do the job alone. It will take the concerted effort of every citizen to reduce this great death toll.
The Department of Public Safety has predicted that 10 persons will die on the state highways during the forth-coming holiday.
Will you be one of these 10 who become statistics?

Girard and The Japanese Courts

The battle continued this week over whether Specialist William S. Girard should be turned over to a Japanese court for the slaying of a Japanese woman on the Camp Weir firing range while she was picking up scrap metal. Girard's attorney's won in a Federal District Court where the judge ruled that it would be a violation of the boy's constitutional rights to turn him over to the Japanese courts. The case will go to the U. S.
Supreme Court for a final decision in July.
If the court rules that he must be tried by an American court, it will no doubt hurt relations between this country and Japan. But, if we are going to throw our constitutional rights out the window in one case, what assurance have other citizens that they will be afforded their rights as outlined in the constitution.
It might be well to note here what an American lawyer practicing in Japan thinks of the Japanese justice. Raymond N.
Bushell, first American lawyer ever admitted to the Japan Bar Association, has had a highly successful law practice in Tokyo for the past eight years.
When questioned about the case he stated that Girard
"cannot possibly get a fair trial in a Japanese court." Bushell explained that Japanese justice is "a joke," stating that they were "back in the 19th Century when Charles Dickens castigated the English judicial system for its inhuman methods."
Bushell said he had not been "legally briefed" on the Girard case but as a "practical matter" it is basic in Japanese law that if the prosecuting attorney tells the court the defendant is guilty then the Japanese judge is convinced he's guilty.
They don't even comprehend the reasoning of American law which, as a matter of public policy, would suffer to see 10 guilty persons go free rather than to risk the conviction of one innocent man," he said. Japanese lawyers continually advise their clients to plead guilty, regardless of guilt or innocence, he stated. The idea is that if a man pleads guilty, tells a "sob sister story" to the judge, he will probably get a suspended sentence. Bushell said it was not necessarily true that Girard would receive a light sentence "unless you want" to consider 20 years a light sentence.
Strange how in a short 12 years things have progressed to a point where it is hard to tell who won World War II. It also makes us wonder if the Japanese people understood our kind occupation policy. It seems now that they may have mistaken kindness for weakness, and we didn't help any by agreeing with every whim.

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Nine Old Socialists
The United States Supreme Court has been busy the past few weeks, handing down decisions which have blasted the foundations of American democracy quite as effectively as any Russian Atom bomb.
They shook the business world
when they ordered the DuPont corporation to sell its General Motors stock, reversing a lower court decision which had held there was no restraint of trade in this stock ownership. At least a dozen prior cases had been decided the same way. Now the Supreme Court would re-mold the corporate structure into something else, under the guise of paternalism by Uncle Sam.
The Supreme Court shook the legal world when it ordered a new trial for a traitor and upset all precedent by ordering the FBI to turn over its record of interviews to the defense counsel in the preparation of the new trial.
The Supreme Court surprised no one when it ordered new trials for five top communists convicted in California last year.
The Supreme Court dealt a body blow to property ownership when it ruled that the trustees of Girard School for Boys in Philadelphia could not limit attendance to "white, orphan boys," as set out in the terms of the will of the late Stephen Girard. The court held that a man no longer has the right to dispose of his property in any manner he sees fit, and that limiting the applicants to his school to the white race was somehow in violation of the law.
The Supreme Court has slipped miserably from its once-proud

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

What To Do With Surpluses

Monday the House of Representatives was considering the proposal to extend the Agricultural Development and Assistance Act of 1954. This is the act which was approved on June 18, 1954, as an emergency measure for disposing of surplus agricultural commodities through means calculated to realize permanent benefits to the United States. The method of disposal included (1) sale for foreign currency (2) barter (3) sale for domestic and foreign currencies. It was proposed to extend the present authorities in the act until June 30, 1958. The law provides for the President to enter into agreements with friendly nations and organizations of friendly nations for the sale of surplus agricultural commodities for foreign currencies to be used for market development, foreign assistance, and certain other purposes. The foreign currencies acquired from these sales have been used for market development, including marketing studies, trade fairs, advertising, and industrial representation of the United States in foreign countries from which the foreign currencies are also used for economic development, assistance to American sponsored libraries and community centers, and for economic development. In general it can be said that the foreign currencies acquired are being used in the most effective manner possible and it might be pointed out that this is not the case in all instances. In fact, if you would find that these dollars are given to a particular foreign country by the United States under the foreign aid program. The country receiving the dollars exchange them into their own currency, then uses their own currency to purchase agricultural surpluses from the United States. The United States then uses this foreign currency in economic or other development of the foreign country. The end result being that the U. S. gives the foreign country some money with which to pay for surplus commodities from the U. S. so that the money received in payment for the surplus commodities, which was given to the foreign country in the first place, can be used to develop the foreign country. This is quite an economic merry-go-round, as you can see. It enables the foreign country to use the American dollars for trade with other countries, yet at the same time, insures the expenditure of an equivalent amount of money for the purchase of foodstuffs to be used in the country and, also, the expenditure of the amount of money representing the value of the foodstuffs in development purposes for that country.

It has been argued that a much simpler process could be devised; that the foodstuffs could be delivered to these nations free of charge. However, if this was done, it would tend to do away with all the administrative machinery to maintain the economic merry-go-round above referred to. Many people would lose their government jobs in both this country and the foreign country. It would make bookkeeping operations so simple that everyone could understand them, which is an abhorrent thought to an average bureaucrat. In fact, a simple direct program could result in an excellent possibility of a measurable reduction in the budget. Such a proposal would bring immediate opposition from the Administration, with warning cries about inflation.

TWO FOR SHOW—A couple of outfits to set the bongos beating and the Islands jumping. Cotton skirt is full, has applied Calypso design and a wide, wide cummerbund. White blouse, which has tails in front to tie for a bare midriff effect, is hand painted with a banana boot motif . . . economical, too, the blouse is under two dollars, the skirt under four. Two piece outfit on the left has a blouse (also complete with tails) in harlequin print. Swatches of the same fabric made mock patches on the pants. Under nine dollars.

But be that as it may, there is a distinct controversy in this country as to the good or bad of the foreign aid program. By observation it is that would be most difficult to reconcile the clear-cut differences of opinion concerning the foreign aid programs, both direct and indirect. Nevertheless, the debate concerning Public Law 480 furnished the basis for a most interesting development. The Congresswoman from Missouri, Mrs. Leonor Sullivan, offered an amendment that would authorize the Commodity Credit Corporation, which holds all of these surplus agricultural commodities, to donate to charitable organizations and certain needy persons in the United States, surplus food commodities. An amendment had been adopted authorizing the donation of raw cotton and cotton products to these people in the United States. However, the discussion on Mrs. Sullivan's amendment became very heated, and Congress, sitting as a Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, became deeply involved in all of the complexities concerned with providing foodstuffs to needy foreign nations but denying them to our own people. After the oratorical smoke had cleared, a vote was taken on Mrs. Sullivan's amendment and the result was 89 yeas and 128 nays. In simple words this meant that the amendment had failed; that this country could and would provide surplus food commodities to be used in foreign nations and would go so far as to ship these commodities to those foreign nations and pay the freight on them, but would not make them available to a needy grandpa or grandma in this country, even if they came to the storehouse for them.

Visitors

The weather was "unseasonably" warm in Washington this week, but it did not hamper our enjoyment of visitors from home. They included Mr. and Mrs. Lynn L. McKown, Lowell and Kenneth McKown of Memphis; and Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Griffith and Keith Griffith of Pampa.

New Boyce House Book Includes J. Claude Wells

Among the newspaper people, past and present, on the "roll of friends" in Boyce House's newest book is the name of J. Claude Wells, editor and co-publisher of the Memphis Democrat.

House states in "As I Was Saying" that the book is intended as a tribute to newspaper folk everywhere, and especially to the many personal friends who have brightened his life.

The volume contains several hundred anecdotes—humorous, serious, and even a few with a touch of pathos. House, himself a veteran newspaperman, formerly was connected with papers in Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Olney, Brady, and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. He is the author of 14 books, and is noted for his skill in telling human interest stories.

The "World Premier" of "As I Was Saying"—published by the Naylor Company of San Antonio, will take place in that city on June 28, which coincides with the date of the Texas Press Association Convention to be held at the Gunter Hotel.

Frances Wright, Guyula Cawfield Attend Girls State

Frances Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wright, and Guyula Cawfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cawfield, attended the Bluebonnet Girls State in Austin, June 10-19. Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, the girls were guests of the Texas School for the Blind.

The purpose of the annual meeting is to give high school students a better chance to study government in action. Two party organizations, the Nationalists and the Federalists, picked candidates for city, county and state governmental posts. After an election held on Sat. afternoon, June 15, elected girls were sworn in for their particular job. The girls divided into a Senate and a House of Representatives and were allowed to meet in the Texas Senate and House chambers since the legislature is now in recess. Both girls served in the House.

Following the Sunday installation service, parents and friends of the girls were invited to be present for an open house in order to view the work being done.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanks to each and everyone for the lovely flowers, get well messages and gifts that were sent during Gerry's recent illness. They were deeply appreciated and it is nice to know we have such wonderful friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Knight and Gerry.

Seed Tags Are Valuable Sources Of Information

Farmers were urged this week to examine the tag that is attached to each sack of seed they buy for planting by County Agricultural Agent W. B. Hooser. He stated that getting the best seed possible is especially important now that planting time is drawing to a close.

Seed that has been tested for mechanical purity and germination will be tagged and the percentage for each item will be given. Hooser says the assurance that the seed being purchased is free from all noxious weeds is worth considerable to the farmer who has worked to keep his farm free from noxious weed infestation.

He says that planting seed with a high germination test is also a big aid in fighting weeds. A thick stand of strong, vigorous seedlings can compete with weed seedlings if necessary. Strong seedlings help keep the weeds in check until cultivating equipment can be used.

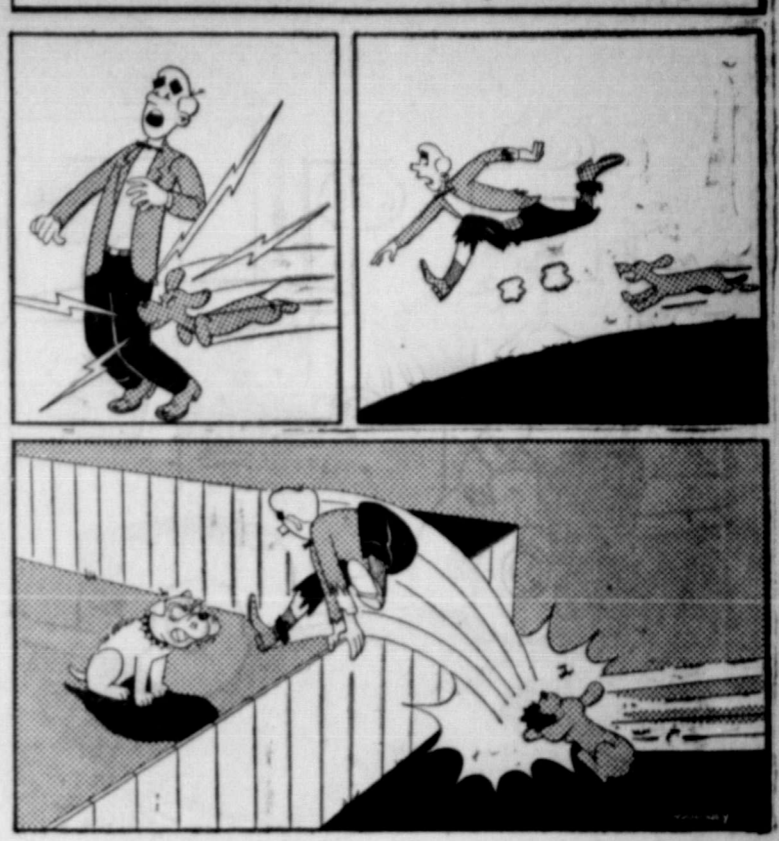

Hooser recommends that farmers use certified seed if possible. It usually is the best seed of a particular variety available and it comes from fields that have been inspected during the growing season. Too, the seed has been handled properly at harvest time, has been cleaned, tested for purity and germination and properly stored.

When certified seed is used, farmers know that they are getting what they pay for and can expect to get a crop that will measure up to the claims made of the seed.

That little tag, points out Hooser, is a mighty fine source of valuable information for the farmers when they buy planting seed.

Mrs. Dutch Vallance has returned home after visiting in Fort Worth, Dallas and Mineral Wells for the past two weeks.

Fishing Good On Gulf Coast

Fishing on the entire Texas Gulf Coast this year is producing some very good catches, according to Howard T. Lee, Director of Coastal Fisheries. Reports of fishermen from Port Arthur to Port Isabel indicate trout, reds, mackerel and snapper have been caught in great numbers. Some good line catches are also being reported.

The tarpon season is just now beginning and within the next thirty days some huge game fish should be boated, the director says.

The bays have been affected by flood waters from Texas inland streams, he says. This alone hasn't slowed fishing too much, but high winds have. On days when there isn't too much wind some record catches have been reported.

The bay waters have been filled with many small shrimp, which means good feeding for trout.

Camp operators along the coast are reporting good business. Persons planning trips to the coast should be sure to make reservations well in advance if they want accommodations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spicer and son, Donny, were in Austin last week.

Mrs. C. W. Kinslow returned last week from a two weeks visit with her son Bill Kinslow and family in Eldorado, Ark.

Men Are Really the Weaker Sex
Texas Health Department Reports

It may come as a blow to the male ego, but the facts are inescapable: men belong to the weaker sex — outnumbered, outwitted, and outlived by the sturdier female, the Texas State Department of Health reports this week.

Are women biologically more resistant to disease than men? Is the male animal shortening his life by greater aggressiveness, greater exposure to stress and disease or by ignoring the laws of health? Can anything be done to reduce male mortality?

Male birth rates — 106 boys for each 100 girls — as well as death rates have always been higher than the female rate. It has long been assumed that women are biologically more resistant to disease, tolerating pain and illness better than men.

There are also striking sex differences in causes of death. Lung cancer kills six times more men than women. The male peptic ulcer rate is four times as high, and tuberculosis and syphilis are twice as high. Three times more men than women commit suicide or are murdered. The odd thing is that higher male mortality, compared with females, extend to most animal species as well as to humans.

If differences in longevity of men and women were due solely to female biological superiority, the difference in death rate should remain constant. But instead, the female death rate has actually decline more rapidly than the male death rate. In 1900 the white American female averaged 1.9 more years of life than the male. In 1953, she was living 7.2 years longer than the male.

Men are helping shorten their own lives. They have insisted in carrying the greater responsibility. Result: more worries, more stress, more contact with disease and physical dangers.

Women, on the other hand, are more likely to release pressure through tears, rest when they feel poorly, consult their doctor early when ill, and follow medical instructions better than men.

Much can be done to reduce excessive male mortality. One investigator has suggested a nationwide inventory of the physical, mental, and emotional assets and liabilities of men in preparation for intensifying the attack on accidents and occupational diseases and the research into cardiovascular diseases and cancer.

Alleviating the stress of competitive living in a materialistic age requires that the fragile male be continuously instructed in the laws of health and encouraged to follow them.

Soil Conservation News

By CHARLIE CAPE
Work Unit Conservationist

Conservation Irrigation, the use of soils and irrigation water in a way that will insure high production without the waste of either, is each year becoming increasingly more important. Upward trends in population are increasing production needs and will require the most careful use of soil and water resources.

Irrigation, be it sprinkler or surface, has rarely been as efficient as it should be. Frequently, low efficiencies are caused by inadequate designs that do not provide for the application of water in accordance with soil conditions and crop needs. On the other hand, adequately designed systems, improperly operated, also may waste water, damage land, and result in lowered production.

No matter how sound the planning or how good the design, an irrigation system will not give desired results unless it is operated correctly. To do this the irrigator must know the capabilities of his system, of his soils, and the water requirements of his crops. With this knowledge he can apply the principals of conservation irrigation to his own farm.

The specifications of a system to fit a particular farm is a complicated problem, and the irrigator needs the services of a specialist in irrigation design. In Hall County Soil Conservation District, technicians of the Soil Conservation Service are available for this work.

Hill, Montgomery Terraces Completed

Carl Hill of the Parnell community and J. P. Montgomery of the Lesley community have just completed some terrace work this week.

New terraces were constructed on the Montgomery place, while reconstruction of an old terrace system took place on the Hill place. Hill said that he had received about 20 inches of rain after he had enlarged his terraces with no apparent damage to the system. Hill has been a cooperater with the Hall County Soil Conservation District for several years.

Olmon Sweat and William Swindle, technicians of the Soil Conservation Service made the final checks on the terrace systems.

Bill Bradley Plans To Harvest Sideoats Gamma Seed

Bill Bradley, a cooperater in the Hall County Soil Conservation District, is planning to harvest some sideoats grama seed this year. According to Soil Conservation Service technicians, Bradley has several small patches of the grass that is now needing to be ready for the harvest.

He is the first rancher in the district to report his interest in this type of grama. Sideoats grama will produce one of the grasses in great next year as well as other grass seed.

NO MANY FISH DIED FOR PONDS
EXPERTS WARN

Owners of farm and ranch ponds do themselves more harm than good in overstocking their ponds with fish, is the warning of the hatchery superintendent of the Texas Game and Fish Commission. A dozen of these men, meeting to work out plans for an overflow of requests, say they will do everything possible to restock as many ponds as they can this year.

Overpopulation on the part of property owners, however, can do the job a great deal more quickly, one of the superintendents said. "Nearly everyone is heavier planting than is necessary in their impoundments."

They have learned through years of experience that ponds can be overstocked and as a result the fish do not grow as rapidly as they should. Then the owner comes to realize that more fish put into an overcrowded pond.

Hatchery men pointed out that some owners will misrepresent the size of their tanks or ponds to get many more fish than they can handle. This year, with so many impoundments refilled by continuous rains, it will be impossible to meet all demands unless requests are within reason, hatchery men say.

When making application for a permit, the owner should attempt to get accurate information as to the size of the tank covers. They said the tank covers 40 feet in diameter only covers 10 acres, but some owners have done themselves and others else harm."

Grain Sorghum, Aphid Tests Now Underway

Work continued this week on the experiment-demonstration program underway in the county through the assistance of the Extension Service and the state experiment farm system, County Agent W. B. Hooser, said Tuesday.

Grain Sorghum

The grain sorghum hybrid experiments were well underway with seven different varieties being planted and all up and growing well, he said.

These included plantings on five dry land farms and another three on irrigated land.

Part of the plants will be cut to check for forage yield and other types will be used for grain yield, Hooser said.

Dry land farms included within the program include those of J. R. Mitchell of Memphis, F. R. Gentry of Memphis, W. W. George of Turkey, Bruce Gibson of Turkey and H. A. Hodges of Plaska. Irrigation farms included in the program are Brown Smith of Plaska, S. D. Pooey of Memphis and Clyde Fowler of Brice.

This type of experiments on the individual farms is being carried out under a new program approved by the Legislature recently for Hall and Collingsworth Counties.

These are the only two counties where a program of this type is being tried, Hooser said.

Aphid Control

Another phase of the program now underway is an experiment to determine the proper insecticide for the control of alfalfa aphids.

These, and other type insects, do hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of damage each year to the alfalfa fields, Hooser stated.

This experiment is being carried out on the Brown Smith farm at Plaska. The land has been divided into different plots and each area will be treated with a different insecticide.

Cotton Measuring To Get Underway Here Monday

Crews from the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office will begin work Monday measuring the cotton land throughout the county, office manager Lynn McKown said Tuesday.

There will be 16 men in the field working on the measuring of cotton fields to see if they are in compliance with allotments for each farm.

"We will try to get to each farm as soon as possible," McKown said, adding that most of the crew is composed of experienced personnel, and should be able to do the work rapidly.

"We hope to finish the work by August 1st," the manager stated. Cotton acreage reserve land has already been measured and there remains only that land actually planted to cotton.

The allotment this year was 98,000 acres in all and county farmers placed 16,000 acres for the crews to measure during the month of July.

Youths Present Plaque Saturday To Matthew Allen

Matthew C. Allen was presented last week with a plaque given by the youth of Memphis, 1957.

The presentation was made Saturday night, June 23, by John Lemmon, president of the Memphis Youth Center, and other Youth Center officers, who acted as representatives for the entire group. Presented to John, the plaque was given in sincere appreciation for Mr. Allen's many gestures of kindness in aiding youth projects throughout the year.

Fire Damages Jackson Laundry

Fire last Friday afternoon about 4:45 p. m. did approximately $250.00 worth of damage to the Jackson Laundry located at 1020 Bradford St.

Fireman answered the call but the blaze was almost extinguished by the time they arrived.

The blaze was caused when the gas hose on one of the dryers worked loose, letting gas escape. The gas was ignited by another dryer near by and did about $200 worth of damage to the dryer and $50 to the building by burning part of the wall, ceiling and window, Sam Jackson reported.

He used a broom to batter a hole in the ceiling of his cell in the Armstrong County jail. He then dropped down in the hall next to the cell and escaped after ransacking the sheriff's home below the jail.

"He smeared black shoe polish all over our house," Brunson said. In ransacking the home the Negro took a .22 caliber revolver and holster from the bedroom as well as a set of the sheriff's clothes.

Brunson picked up the escapee Friday afternoon to return him to Claude.

Clean-Up Drive Wednesday Termed Success By All Who Participated

The clean-up drive Wednesday afternoon went off smoother than ever before. H. J. Howell, coordinator of the trucking operation reported Thursday morning.

Over 32 trucks and pick-ups, with three or four men to each vehicle, joined in touring the alleys, picking up trash, and taking it to the dump grounds.

Crews reported that the city was in better condition than in the past years and work went smoother. Many workers attributed this to the fact that each year crews are learning better how to handle the job.

This is the fifth straight year that such a project has been undertaken here. The Lions Club first started the drive and then two years ago all other city organizations were asked to join in the clean-up campaign.

The crews covered most of the town with the exception of a few blocks by 5 p. m. yesterday afternoon. In addition to hauling off trash the workers also had two mowers going and cleaned up all lots which persons called about.

The Business and Professional Women's Club, under the leadership of Tops Gilreath, president, kept the men supplied with ice water, lemonade and sandwiches all during the afternoon.

Local Officers, Citizens Help With Search At Baylor Lake for Bodies

Local law enforcement officers boats entering in the search for bodies were also on hand to assist with the operations. Frank Brow of Houston person who finally located bodies with his dragging ment.

A partial list of the from Memphis who participated in the search with their includes Johnny Brewer, Les and Johnny Hancock.

Game Warden Walter Hicks received a call from officers at Childress about 1:30 a. m. Sunday morning and immediately left for the lake accompanied by Highway Patrolman Presley Thompson.

Shortly later Deputy Sheriff Elmer Neel and Highway Patrolman Don Collins also left to assist with operations there.

During Sunday Sheriff W. P. Baten and many other citizens assisted with the search for the bodies of the couple.

When the bodies were finally recovered about 1 a. m. Monday, it was the first break that most of the searchers had taken in the 24-hour period.

High winds and waves hampered the operations and kept searchers wet for almost the entire period.

Miss Eudey 19, and Hudson, 24, were drowned sometime Saturday night when their home-made boat capsized near the south end of the lake. Their deaths were the first to occur as a result of an accident on Baylor Lake since it was built in 1949.

Searchers found the couple's boat overturned about 6:30 Sunday morning with the throttle on the motor in the open position, Patrolman Thompson said.

Dragging equipment was secured from Amarillo, Borger and Wichita Falls for the over 40
