County Farmers To Receive $260,000 Soon

Payments Include Wheat, Cotton Acreage Reserve

Hall County Agricultural Extension and Conservation Office drew checks for a quarter of a million dollars toward payments to farmers for wheat and cotton acreage reserve practices.

Lynn L. McKown, manager, stated that checks will be used to make payments on wheat and cotton acreage reserve practices. The total amount covered by the state was $260,000.00. The large portion of this amount, $200,000.00, will go to cotton farmers who have placed all of their acreage in the Acreage Reserve program.

CITY COUNCIL GRANTS INCREASE IN PHONE RATES TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN SEPTEMBER

Local Citizens To Receive Refunds On Tax Paid for Television Service

The community television industry was advised by the Internal Revenue Service early this week that Revenue Ruling 88-53 had been revoked, Bob Magness, co-owner of the Master Antenna Service here announced Wednesday.

This ruling applies to the eight per cent Federal Excise Tax on the monthly service charge and connection service charges made by community television services, Magness said.

The move came about following a decision handed down in the U. S. Court of Appeals.

The Master Antenna Service has been paying this tax under protest, Magness stated, and Memphis citizens will be eligible for refunds as soon as complete information and forms are available.

He stated that as soon as the forms for application for refund have been approved by the Revenue Service, it will be made available to Memphis residents by the Master Antenna Service.

Complete details will be announced as soon as they are available, Magness concluded.

Hedley Scouts Return Saturday From Week-Long Camp Near Canadian

Fourteen members of Boy Scout Troop No. 36 at Hedley returned home Saturday evening after spending a week at Camp Kiawah, near Canadian, according to an announcement this week by Boaz Stotts, scoutmaster.

A typical day in the camp included archery, nature, campcraft, swimming, hiking, rifling, instructional swimming, boating, canoeing, fishing and other scout skills, with a troop or council fire to end the day's activities, the scoutmaster reported.

Scouts receiving advancements at camp were as follows: Star awards—David Moreman, Roger Messer, Jack D. Doherty; First Class—Larry Ed Combest, Loyd Messer; merit badges—Roger Messer, nature; Don Cox, cooking, soil and water conservation, life saving and bird study; Larry Ed Combest, scholarship; David Moreman, public health; Lonnie Darnell, fishing.

David Moreman and Roger Messer were selected to take the Order and become members of the Order of the Arrow.

Scoutmaster Stotts served on the board of review Friday and also helped with the presentation of the awards at the Court of Honor Friday night.

Saturday morning all 14 troops in camp competed in various contests with the Hedley troop placing second in the scoring.

They won second in boating, first in canoeing, second in campcraft, second in archery, first in knot tying, first in 25-yard, backstroke swimming and first in the 50-yard, free-style swimming.

W. L. Mosley spent from Sunday until Wednesday at the camp with the group, assisting with the work.

Scouts attending the camp were David Moreman, Don Cox, Roger and Loyd Messer, Monte Rogers, Joe and Lonnie Darnell, Doyle Clendennen, Doyle Baggett, Jack Doherty, Larry Ed Combest, Carol Kennedy and Rusty Mosley.

Scoutmaster Stotts stayed at the camp until Sunday in order to attend a jamboree meeting of Scout leaders. Also staying with him were John David Rogers and Joe Darnell.

The Scouts extended their thanks to the following for furnishing transportation to and from camp: Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Cox, M. D. Shaw, L. D. Messer, Clifford Johnson, W. L. Mosley and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rogers.

Temperature Rises To 106 Degrees Sunday Afternoon

Weather during the past few days can be summed up in one word—HOT.

The highest temperature recorded was 106 degrees Sunday afternoon and the lowest was 72 degrees this morning (Wednesday), according to John McMickin, official weather observer.

No moisture has fallen during the last week and farmers report that crops over the county are in fine shape.

Complete temperatures for the past week were as follows: Tuesday 104-76, Monday 101-76, Sunday 106-86, Saturday 102-70, Friday 98-66.

Local Scouts To Hold Candy Sale Friday, Saturday

The Memphis Boy Scouts will sponsor a candy sale Friday and Saturday morning, Scoutmaster Ted Myers announced this week.

The sale, originally scheduled to be held some time ago, was postponed because of inclement weather.

Myers asked that all Scouts who could help with the sale to be at the Scout Hall at 8:30 a. m. on Friday and Saturday. He stated that the candy must be sold in order to pay the company from which it was purchased.

"Due to inclement weather and camping schedules, we were forced to postpone our sale several times," the scoutmaster said.

The candy is packed in pound, vacuum cans, and is the same type the Scouts have sold in past years.

Will Change To Dial Service Within 30 Months

The Memphis City Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to grant a rate increase to the General Telephone Company of the Southwest, Mayor O. L. Helm said Wednesday.

The increased rate will go into effect on the Sept. 16 billing date, the mayor stated, and dial service will be installed within the next 30 months.

One party business service charge was increased from $9.50 to $12.00, and two party business phones from $8.00 to $10.00. Extension rates for both businesses and homes remained the same.

Residence services will be increased as follows: one party, from $5.50 to $6.00; two party, from $4.50 to $5.00; and four party from $3.50 to $4.25.

The company had originally requested an increase to $13.50 for one party business service and to $6.50 for one party residential service, if they were to keep the present, manually operated system.

H. E. Craig, district manager, stated that he and Mills Roberts, division manager for the company, met with the city council Tuesday and explained that the company was willing to accept the $12.00, one party rate and the $6.00 one party residential rate. However, according to Craig, these rates are not adequate for the present operator type service being given in Memphis.

Craig continued by stating that the company has agreed to convert the Memphis exchange to a dial operation within 24 to 30 months. This move will cost the company nearly $200,000, he said.

In the original request filed with the city council at a special meeting on Monday, June 10, the telephone company presented a report of earnings showing that the local telephone operation was not making a sufficient return on the investment.

Mayor Helm stated that the council members were of the opinion that the conversion to the dial system was not only the best thing for the town but that it would entail a considerable amount of money being spent here.

The group passed the order Tuesday, making it effective in September, in order that the company could go ahead and place the requisition for the equipment needed for the conversion to dial, the mayor stated.

Other business taken up at the meeting was the usual approval of bills and reports.

Present for the session were Mayor O. L. Helm, Aldermen E. E. Roberts, L. W. Stanford, E. C. Rice, Grover Moss, O. M. Gunstream, Ed Foxhall and B. O. Shankle. Alderman Gene Lindsey was out of town.

Play continued in the Little League summer baseball program this week as most of the teams completed their tenth or eleventh game of the summer, Dave Corley, coordinator, reported.

The Yankees came back into the number one spot in the league with an average of .777 by winning seven games and losing two.

The Braves dropped to second place with seven wins and three losses for an average of .700. The Indians are third with seven wins and four losses, or .636 per cent.

The Giants have five wins and seven losses for .417 per cent and the Tigers have no wins and 10 losses.

No games will be played in the Little League Thursday since that is July 4, Independence Day, and many of the players will probably be out of town, Corley said.

Friday, July 12, a group of Memphis all-stars from the Teen-age League will play a Wellington team here.

The Little League schedule for the coming week is as follows:

- Friday, July 5

Estelline Annual Homecoming Set For Aug. 31

The annual homecoming for the Ex-Students' Association of Estelline High School will be held on August 31 at the school building in Estelline.

All interested persons are asked to notify relatives and friends who might not know about the change from Christmas, at which time this reunion has previously been held, according to President Don Leary. Also, Leary emphasized the fact that these ex-students are from all the districts which have been consolidated with Estelline. All exes from Newlin, Hulver and Parnell are urged to attend.

Registration will take place on the morning of August 31. Visiting and one arranged program, a business session and evening entertainment, will be enjoyed. The mothers of the 1958 seniors will have charge of the meal.

Officers of the Ex-Students' Association are Don Leary, president; Mrs. R. V. Wood, treasurer; and Mrs. Lester Phillips, secretary.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

Agency Law Explained
Suppose that you hire your neighbor's teen age son, Jimmy, to cut your grass, and he runs your new mower into another neighbor's hedge. The hedge is ruined. Are you responsible for the damages? Quite likely you are.

Or let us suppose that you find you need a loaf of bread for the evening meal. You ask a friend to take your car and run to the store it. On the way, he runs down old Mr. Peabody, seriously injuring him. Can you be held responsible. It is possible you can.

In both instances, an "agent" was acting for you. His acts while performing those duties are, in the eyes of the law, your acts. In legal terms, you are the "principal."

You may be liable despite the fact that you may have cautioned him to be extremely careful.

The average individual expects to answer for his own actions. He does not usually consider that he may be responsible for the actions of other persons. That, however, is frequently the case.

Suppose you ask another person to do something for you, that is, to act as your agent. You may pay him, or he may be doing it without compensation.

You may ask him to buy or sell property for you. Or, his responsibility may be to negotiate an agreement for you with a third person.

If representation or warranties are made by your agent in performing the task which you assigned him, you are responsible.

In a like manner, you are responsible for the contract made by him while he was acting for you.

You may be held responsible for the acts of a person who customarily represents you even though he entered into a contract for you without your consent or approval.

For example, you may have a partner in a business, and you and he have agreed that certain contracts shall be made only upon the signature of both of you.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"Do you wear the belt over or under the pot?"

Unknown to you and without your consent, your partner signs such a contract with a third person involving partnership business. If the person with whom this contract is made has no knowledge of the terms of your partnership agreement, you are responsible for the contract your partner has made.

You may have agreed between you that neither would buy, without the other's agreement, any items of merchandise costing more than $50. You did not give this information to salesmen who called on you. In your absence on a Thursday afternoon, your partner ordered merchandise for your store costing more than the $50 limitation.

As the actions of your agent are considered to be yours, you assume the responsibility of his doing them correctly.

slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

HEAT—With daytime temperatures consistently in the 90's, the prospects of going even further appear to be a complete overhaul of the summer clothing for men. Do you have the right idea? It comes to summer clothing—lightweight, sleeveless, open-necked shirts permit free circulation and encourage heat loss. A man with a tie around his neck and belt around his middle is at a disadvantage in trying to throw off heat. Reasons of body temperature rise inevitably in a man are because such clothing traps heat through conduction, radiation, and evaporation. And this much is true: The body is so constructed that it produces more heat than it can dissipate. It is a rise in temperature, sometimes fatal, is a result of exhaustion or inadequacy of the heat dissipation mechanism. It occurs as a result of exposure to a hot, humid atmosphere such as is common over Texas during summer. It is a form of heat stroke caused by an absorption of energy from the sun which raises the temperature of the body.

The wearing of loose clothing, which is airy, is known by physiologists to be among the best means of maintaining that balance. Open throat sport shirts and light trousers are of course more practical than heavy suits.

Excessive clothing causes excessive perspiration, and excessive perspiration means a loss of body fluids and salts. Unless the loss is compensated for by drinking additional quantities of water and consuming extra amounts of salt, painful stomach cramps can result. During periods of high humidity body perspiration doesn't evaporate. It clings and you feel constantly damp. Skin rash often develops at these times and the rash is liable to infection.

Since body temperature represents the balance struck between heat production and heat loss, a disturbance in the value of either will be followed by a temperature change. The most sensible ways of avoiding the effects of a rise are these: Eat lightly, avoid exertion, drink plenty of water and eat extra salt, and stay close to the fan. Above all, keep clothing loose and airy.

"Anyone who is interested in promoting good nutrition among people must also be interested in soil conservation."—Hedwig Poehler.

BEAUTY ON ICE... Screen actress Barbara Nichols tries to escape effects of Los Angeles' heat wave by cuddling up to several ice cakes.

The Navy has been conducting tests on preservation of food by nuclear power with amazing results. Recently, meat slices that had been packed in cans in 1953, then "irradiated" with high energy cathode rays and stored in ordinary refrigeration, were taken out and eaten. Other foods tested include pork sausage links, which were still edible after 120 days of storage, and ground beef proved edible after 3 months.

MRS. DON BULLOCH

Miss Bennie Earl DuVall, Don Bulloch Wed In Lakeview Service June 30

Choosing as the scene the Methodist Church in Lakeview where her parents were married, Miss Bennie Earle DuVall of Amarillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. DuVall of Lakeview, became the bride of Don Kenyon Bulloch, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Max Bulloch, Sr., of Amarillo at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 30.

Rev. Jim T. Pickens of Vega read the double-ring service before an arch entwined with greenery and decorated with wedding bells. Baskets of white gladioli and white cathedral tapers were used at each side of the arch. Fan-shaped arrangements of jade completed the stting.

Music was provided by Christine DuVall, sister-in-law of the bride, and Lee Bell, vocalist, who sang "Oh Promise Me," "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." As a prelude, Mrs. DuVall played "With This Ring," "Always," "Polpnaise," and "I Love You Truly." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mrs. L. V. Youngblood of Amarillo was matron-of-honor and bridesmaids were Martha Ann Montgomery of Canyon, Mrs. R. C. Manning of Amarillo, cousin of the groom; and Mrs. Don Hodges of Amarillo.

Mrs. Youngblood was attired in a frock of yellow taffeta fashioned with full skirt and fitted bodice with tulle trim. She wore tulle mits and matching tulle headband trimmed in pearls, and carried a nosegay of mint green carnations.

Bridesmaids wore identical styled dresses in mint green, and carried nosegays of yellow carnations.

Emily Montgomery of Amarillo was flower girl. She wore a yellow frock styled identical to that of the matron-of-honor. She scattered yellow rose petals from decorated basket.

Pat and Mike Hunter of Amarillo, twins, were ring bearers. They wore black trousers with white dinner jackets and carried heart-shaped satin pillows.

J. Max Bulloch of El Centro, Calif., served as his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Lawrence V. Youngblood, L. R. Burnett and David Horace DuVall, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Chester Frank Smith, cousin of the groom, and Jeter Dickson of Amarillo, who also lit the candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle styled with lace bodice pointed at the waist, bateau neckline outlined with iridescent sequins, and long sleeves which came to a point at the hand. The full skirt, tiered with lace and tulle, fell into a chapel train.

She carried a single white orchid showered with staphenotis and streamers of satin ribbons and pearls atop a white Bible.

Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried out the traditional bridal custom of wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." The something old, was a handkerchief belonging to the bridegroom's grandmother. She also wore a six pence in her shoe.

Mrs. DuVall, the bride's mother, wore a tie blue embroidered taffeta dress with pink and white accessories while the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Bulloch, wore a dress of peach lace over taffeta with black accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table was laid with a white satin cloth trimmed in mint green net and nosegays. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Max Bulloch, Jr., of El Centro, Calif., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served the wedding cake and Mrs. Eldon Simmons of Amarillo poured punch. Guests were registered by Miss Clella Wilkinson of Amarillo.

For the wedding trip to New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona, the bride traveled in an off-white silk two-piece suit accented with brown accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Lakeview High School and West Texas State College, Canyon. While in college, she was a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities; vice president of Alpha Chi; president of Phi Gamma Nu and treasurer of Wesley Foundation. She was named outstanding senior girl and was secretary-treasurer of the senior

Report From Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

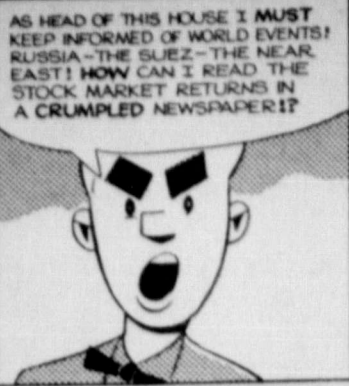

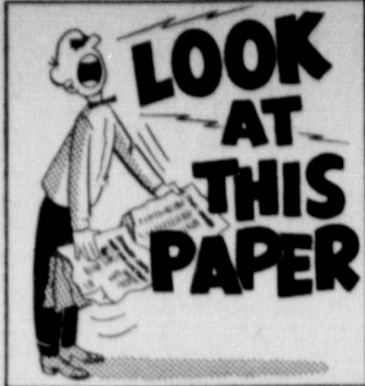

Possible Adjournment
Along about this time every year most Members of the House of Representatives and the Senate begin to make guesses as to the day on which congress will adjourn. It had been the opinion of most of the Members that adjournment would come sometime between the tenth and twentieth of August. This continues to be the estimate with those to whom I have talked, and also my own. However, a matter has arisen which necessitates a qualification of that estimate. I refer to the action of the United States Senate with relation to the Civil Rights bill. When the bill that had passed the House reached the Senate, it was generally understood it would be referred to the Committee on Judiciary for further hearings. However, a coalition in the Senate, made up of modern Republicans and Northern Democrats circumvented the ordinary procedure in the Senate and bypassed the judiciary Committee. They placed the bill on the Senate calendar to be debated and voted upon by the full Senate, without the benefit of Committee hearings. This caused quite a furor among those who have always adhered strictly to the rules of parliamentary procedure. However, the modern republican and northern democrat coalition was undismayed. They are bragging about their fancy footwork, and chuckling can be heard even from the White House.

The chuckles may be short-lived, because the Senate action on another matter is almost as explosive and controversial as any issue before the Congress. It is called the issue of public power vs. private power. The bill on which the Senate voted was an act authorizing construction of the high Hell's Canyon Dam on the Snake River. A private power company is already building three small dams at this particular site. The argument has been that the three small dams are not sufficient to properly utilize the potentialities of the river; that a high dam at this site will provide many more benefits than the three small dams and will make it possible to recover the greatest power-producing potentialities. This is stating the problem simply. It is much more complex, but it would be most difficult to go into it fully in such short space. The point is that the two groups in the Senate, who got together to place the political Civil Rights bill on the calendar, are in direct conflict on the Hell's Canyon Dam issue. The northern Democrats are for the high Hell's Canyon Dam to be built by the government. The modern Republicans are against the high dam, and for the private power company building three low dams. The result is that the happy marriage between these forces on the Civil Rights bill ended up in a divorce when the vote on the Hell's Canyon bill occurred. Now these two groups are feeling around over in the House of Representatives trying to find out what will happen to the Hell's Canyon bill. It has been indicated that, if this bill is passed, it will be vetoed by the President. If the Civil Rights bill passes the Senate, it will be signed by the president. You can see there is going to be quite a bit of maneuvering in the last few days. I might say I expect to be extremely occupied within the next few days, because I am on the Committee presently considering the highly controversial Natural Gas bill. I am also a member of the Committee that will determine whether or not the high Hell's Canyon Dam bill is recommended for floor debate. My office is on the third floor of the New House Office Building. The Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, which is considering the gas bill, is located at one end of the hall, while the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, which will consider the Hell's Canyon bill, is located at the other end of the hall. Both of these Committees

THE BAFFLES

will be in session at the same time and the presence of a quorum in both will be of tremendous importance every minute. This means that I will use up a lot of shoe leather during these committee hearings, both of which will probably be concluded not later than July 10.

When he asked an attendant what all this meant, he was briskly told, "Broom closet."

Dumps Water in Waterfowl Areas
The limited charms packed by devilish Hurricane Audrey, which raked the southeast corner of Texas, may pay dividends to short-changed Lone Star State waterfowl hunters.
This is because the ten-inch rains deposited by the devastating storm has thoroughly soaked countless thousands of acres of wild marshland in Jefferson, Chambers and Orange counties and left a moisture surplus to insure a damp welcome mat when the ducks and geese begin migrating come October.
The magnitude of the potential benefits was indicated by Bob Singleton, senior Game and Fish Commission biologist specializing in waterfowl, who explained that "the upper end of the Texas coastal area is saturated for the first time since 1950."
This is the part of the Texas coast where the southbound waterfowl first touch down. Heretofore, during the sickening drought, the ducks and geese found parched dusty barrenland instead of muddy, verdant marshes. And most of them kept on going on into Mexico and farther south.
"This looks like the year when Texas regains its high rating among the waterfowl wintering grounds," said Cecil Reid, Executive Secretary of Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas. "This is big news for the hunters as well as for conservationists generally because the abnormally dry years threw the entire waterfowl picture out of focus."
Singleton said the heavy rains have retarded rice planting over large coastal areas and may inadvertently work to the further advantage of ducks and geese. He said if the crops are delayed to any great extent, the harvest will lag and might create some "degradations problems." In duck and goose language, he added, that means some square meals of hard working farmers' crops.
The senior biologist added that the good water conditions to date have stimulated growth of natural waterfowl foods such as millet, smart weed and duck potatoes.
The southeast Texas corner comprises vast wet marshes which are commercially handled primarily for cattle grazing, muskrat farming and for waterfowl leases. Singleton said the area, during normal moisture periods, is capable of housing hundreds of thousands of ducks and geese since food then is adequate and particularly since hunting is comparatively light.

Countrymen Urged To Aid Flocks Non-Layers

Ratio between the price of feed and the cost of feed for the several weeks has been roughly equal, but especially for countrymen, but especially for non-layer producers. The way to cut feed costs, says W. B. Hooser, county agent, is to improve from the laying flock.

Weather usually ushers in the beginning of a slump in egg production and with it a rising price. Low production per hen in the summer season may mean a difference between a profit year or a loss on the year, according to Hooser. The non-producers to be culled, says Hooser, "just as they are noticed in the flock." These are the hens which will not lay back into production for months and feeding them is an expense. That show a shrunken, yellow comb, yellow peak, new yellow shanks and yellow feet should be culled and sold. That lack vigor and spend more time loafing should also be culled from the flock. A good hen must eat good feed and get lots of clean, cool water. She must do this unless they rush her, adds Hooser, the farmer must do his part by feeding the feed and water. A poultryman who does a job of culling continuously will be paid for his trouble. Farm management can be most efficient unless the cullers are sent to market means culling, according to county agent.

Water for Increased Economy

Memphis citizens will probably go to the polls sometime in August to vote on one of the most important issues to come before them in this history of this area. This will be the election to confirm membership in the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority. Several years ago the State Legislature passed a bill setting up this organization and then last year approved another bill clarifying some of the provisions in the original bill.

In recent years the Board of Water Engineers gave water rights to this organization for the Salt Fork River in order that area towns could construct a dam near the Nonley-Collingsworth County line. This dam would provide industrial and municipal water for member towns. In the original bill there were some provisions which were considered indefinite by persons in the area and these were clarified by the last session of the legislature.

The Board of Water Engineers gave the organization an extension of the water rights until May, 1958. If by this time, there has been some definite action toward the approval of the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority by the member towns, then the water rights may be lost.

An Oklahoma organization has already applied for the water rights to the river according to latest information. If we in this area do not start developing the organization then there is a possibility that the Oklahoma group will be allowed to capture the water for their use. Once they have the water rights, we would never be able to regain them.

Judge Otto Dent, West Texan serving on the State Board of Water Engineers, appeared before the Memphis Lions Club and other interested business men last Thursday and explained the above situation. He stated that this is the last site available in West Texas for retention of surface water in quantities which could be used by cities and industries. All of us know only too well the history of this area as far as water is concerned. There has been a depletion of the underground water and this will no doubt continue as the increased use of irrigation continues.

The first step to be taken toward the construction of this proposed dam would be a confirmation election in the towns who are prospective members of the authority. This election would not obligate any town financially but would only indicate if the town wanted to be a member of the organization. By holding this election the member towns can be assured of holding on to the water rights for another couple of years. During this time engineers can survey the situation and decide what the cost would be to each town.

After it has been decided what share of the cost each town would bear, then another election would be called to see if the towns wanted to finance their share and remain in the organization. Any town which did not want to stay in the organization could drop out at that time.

It would be difficult for us to see how anyone could be opposed to joining the organization at the first election and then waiting and seeing what develops before the second election. It has been proven that industry will locate where water exists and if we don't take advantage of every drop that falls, we will be faced with a constantly declining economy.

Proposed members of the authority are Memphis, Clarendon, Wellington, Hedley, Childress, Paducah and Quanah.

Where Discipline Is Needed

Puppies invariably make a mess of homes—until they are sternly disciplined and taught to be clean and decent members of the family.

One wishes that a similar discipline could be imposed on the "litterbugs" who strow discarded paper, beer cans, empty bottles and all manner of other rubbish and dirt along the highways, in recreation areas, and in beauty spots throughout the nation.

The litterbugs have the crude manners of untrained puppies—without any of the puppies' excuses.

Foreign Aid

In all the talking about foreign aid, have you ever wondered just how much the United States has given away to other countries?

Some months ago, Rep. Ralph Gwinn, a Republican from New York asked the Library of Congress Legislative Reference Service to prepare a comprehensive report on American foreign aid programs. The service finished the report on May 29, and the figures were astounding.

From July 1, 1940, through June 30, 1957, the total of American gifts to foreign nations will be $130,350,032,000. As you know, the national debt is $275 billion, and the foreign aid total represents 48 1/2 per cent of the national debt.

During the war period—July 1, 1940 to June 30, 1945—the giveaway total was $49,224,297,000, and very few of us would begrudge a cent of it because the expenditure was necessary to help win the war.

Since that time, up until June 30, 1956, the give away total was $63,940,735,000. An additional $3.4 billion was put into the International Bank and is supposed to be reclaimable.

The Dan Smoot Report for June 10 discussed the total and broke it down to figures that human mind can comprehend.

"The estimated population of the United States at present is 170 million. Let's say that this 170 million averages out to be about 43 million American families.

"One hundred and thirty billion, three hundred and fifty million, thirty-two thousand dollars represents more than $3,000 for every family in America."

Who got the foreign aid? The report given Gwinn shows that the greatest total went to "Unspecified Areas in Europe." That amount was $11.3 billion dollars. The Library of Congress was unable to trace down just where that money went—just to "Unspecified Areas."

The list of "unspecified" places where foreign aid money went is amazing. There was that to Europe, plus aid to "Unspecified Areas" in Asia and the Pacific, the Near East and Africa, American Republics, Indochina, Portuguese Africa, British Africa, French Africa, and an item of $402 million to "Other Unspecified Areas."

All in all, $17 billion went to "unspecified" places around the world. Maybe no one knows where all of it went, and if it did any good at all.

Our foreign aid program since the war ended has been designed to "save the world from communism." Yet the Soviet Union ranks No. 20 on the list of countries which have been given aid. Since June 30, 1945, the Soviet Union has been given $465,434,000 by the United States.

In all, the United States has given $1.7 billion to communist nations since the end of the war. The list of communist nations who have shared in Uncle Sam's pie includes Albania, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Poland, Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

Any number of conclusions can be drawn from the figures in the report given Rep. Gwinn by the Library of Congress. One of the most obvious is that we don't know what we're doing when we try to save the world from com-munistism by giving money to the communists.

Incidentally, Rhodesia and Nyasaland, two small countries in Africa, were given $1,000 to spend. Now that's a figure even I can comprehend. I wonder what they did with it. If I had a thousand dollars, I'd apply it on my debts as far as it would go.—Canyon News.

We're Used To It

After blundering that banner headline last week we're ready to take tap dancing. Incidentally, Mr. Farmer, the referendum is today, not July 20th. From herein and hereafter we absolutely refuse to be responsible for anything we print, so help me.

These slips that pass in the night but glare in broad day drives one to pull his already thinning hair. But it was comforting to read another editor's plight the same day our mistaken banner was pointed out to us.

Stanton Hudson in the Sedalia (Mo.) Times Record, reveals the following in his column.

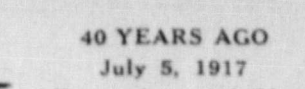

"Just to show you what awful things weekly papers are, we give you one this week which, although only four pages, has a page numbered five, but no page three. That's the way we do things—but we printed the inside of the paper upside down. I took a good bit of a good natured ribbing about that. But it was nothing to what we have done and doubtless will do. All that amounted to was that at the time we printed the inside pages I just happened to be standing on my head. Not a bit unusual as those who know me well will readily agree." — Claude News

Because Chevrolet's sleek good looks, its advanced features, are only part of the story. The big bonus is its remarkable roadability, the crisp precision handling that has posted an entirely new standard for cars in every price class. There are reasons for this, of course: Chevrolet's balanced weight distribution that takes excessive loads off the front wheels, the wide stance of outrigger rear springs, Ball-Race steering, spherical-joint front suspension. Experience Is Hard Way To Learn Safety, County Agent Hooser Says

Experience, as it relates to farm and home accidents is an expensive teacher. The cost of an arm, leg or life itself is a high price to pay for a lesson in safety and can never be justified by the returns.

Don't forget, cautions W. B. Hooser, county agent, that accidents can happen to you. Faulty equipment or hidden obstructions can and do cause accidents but carelessness, not thinking and fatigue take the heaviest toll. These causes are all man made under the direct control of the individual concerned.

Hooser believes if farmers and their families would answer simple questions before beginning each job many accidents would never happen. The question is: "Can I possibly get hurt doing the job this way?"

culture is now rated as the nation's most hazardous industry," says Hooser. "This rating will continue until rural residents, individually and collectively, really make it their business to see that life in the country is as safe as in any other industry. It can be done," says Hooser. "If farm and ranch families become and remain safety conscious every day in the year."

Mrs. N. L. Benson and daughter Carol of Lamarque visited here over the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lindsey.

Rains Improve Agricultural Outlook For Texas, University Report Shows

The Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas released a round-up of the agricultural situation in Texas this week which can be summed up in five words—delayed, but not rained out.

In general, the wet, cool spring has delayed crop planting but provided lush forage for livestock. Conditions have been ripe for insects, weeds, and plant diseases, but the extent of damage will not be clear until later in the summer.

Fields too wet to work and the wash-out plantings have also caused concern. But there is an overall spirit of optimism in Texas agriculture this year—worry about fleahoppers reducing the yields are not nearly so serious as worries about no crop at all for lack of germinating moisture.

During the first five months of this year, nine of the twelve crop-reporting districts had already received as much as or more rain than in all of 1956. And throughout the state, Weather Bureau stations averaged 18.13 inches for January-May, which was 2.52 inches over the average total for last year (15.61 inches).

What have been the effects of this downpour on Texas agriculture? Here is a crop-by-crop summary of conditions in the Lone Star State at the end of one of the wettest springs on record:

Livestock

To this segment of the state's agricultural economy, the spring rains have been an almost unmixed blessing. Late last fall, 222 of Texas' 254 counties were classified as "drouth disaster zones" in the federal livestock aid program. Cattle were being fed throughout the state as pasture conditions reached all-time lows. Experts felt that even if rain were to come, the barren ranges would take a long time to recover.

But they were wrong. As the rains that began in January continued during the following months, rescue grass and clovers appeared as if by magic to turn the fields to green. Supposedly dead roots soaked in the moisture and produced rank forage for hungry cattle. Weeds gave some trouble, but grasses came on steadily to crowd them out. The eastern half of the state recovered most rapidly, but steady improvement was also made in the hard-hit western areas (with the exception of the region west of the Pecos.)

By June 1 the U. S. Department of Agriculture could report that Texas pasture conditions were at 83 per cent of normal. This was the best showing for that date since 1950, when the drouth report. Last year the June 1 report placed pasture conditions at 53 per cent of normal. All over the state, livestock are now getting fat and sleek on the abundant green feed. The flood of livestock to market, caused by the high cost of feeding, has stopped. Ranchers are restocking conservatively, to give their land the time needed to repair the ravages of the drouth.

Cotton

As the rains continued through May, impeding planting and washing out fields that were already seeded, the state's cotton farmers became more and more worried about the delay. Extensions on the federal price support planting deadline had to be made in most areas.

But in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and the Coastal Bend, where the fields stayed dry enough to work earlier in the spring, prospects looked promising. There the crop was being cultivated and chopped in early June.

In the rest of the state, however, the picture was not as bright. While Valley farmers were thinking about picking, cottonmen from Waco northward were still worrying about getting their seed into the ground.

And in the High Plains the situation was the same; considerable acreage had to be replanted because of the heavy May rains. Nevertheless, the benefits of the rains still far outweigh the harms. During the drouth, only the irrigated areas were able to sustain production. Adequate moisture means that dryland farmers over the state will be back in the cotton picture.

Wheat

This winter, High Plains dryland wheat farmers dusted their seed into the parched ground and hoped that this would be the year. Intermittent rains nursed the seed along, but the outlook was not favorable, and at the beginning of the year the USDA estimated production at a very low 18.9 million bushels. But frequent rains and cool weather brought the crop along better than had seemed possible. June estimates of the USDA placed the crop at 33.9 million bushels.

Small Grains

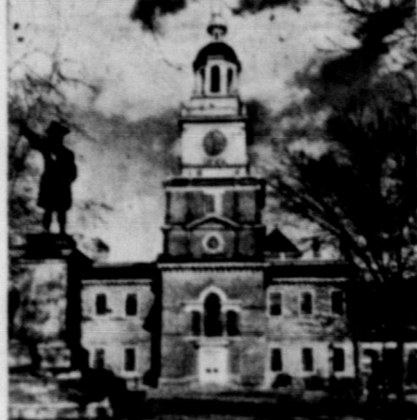

The USDA's June survey of the condition of small grains in the state pointed to good yields. Rye was estimated at 79 per cent of normal conditions, as compared to 55 per cent last June. Oats were 73 per cent, compared with 42 per cent.

Fruits and Vegetables

Excessive rains have hurt vegetable and melon production, and as a result, Texas production this

Instead, the Act by which the original 13 states broke colonial allegiance to Great Britain was approved by Congress July 2, proclaimed on July 4th, and signed at various times up to Nov. 4.

The capitol dome, sprawling office buildings, monuments, memorials, and 7,000 acres of public parks including the Mall shown here, are familiar sights to countless Washington visitors.

Guar Planting Can Continue Until July 15

Farmers can plant guar until about July 15, supervisors of the Hall County Soil Conservation District say.

This legume crop has all the indications of being a good cash crop this year. With improved moisture conditions, this crop, which is a hot weather plant, will grow rapidly and have a good crop of beans early in November if planted early in July.

This tap-rooted crop does very well following small grains, if moisture is available after the grain has been harvested. The plant will open the soil to allow more water penetration as well as increase organic matter. These items are essential to good soil management.

Guar seed can be planted with grain sorghum plates at the rate of 5 to 6 pounds per acre. Seed should be inoculated before planting.

year is estimated to be 4 per cent under last year. South Texas cantaloupes, North Texas onions, and East Texas tomatoes were particularly hard hit by the May downpours. Spring cantaloupe production is estimated at 698,000 boxes (100 pounds each), as compared with 1.2 million boxes last year.

The same story holds for tomatoes, with estimated production at 407,000 boxes—up from last year when 357,000 boxes were recorded, but down from the average of 717,000 boxes.

The early summer onion crop has escaped rain damage, and with greatly increased acreage over the state the outlook is for a bumper crop of 1.4 million boxes. Last year's production was 696,000, compared with an average of 271,000 boxes.

Watermelon prospects are also good, with a production of 5.4 million boxes predicted. The watermelon harvest is expected to extend later into the summer this year than is usual because of slowed vine growth from the cool weather.

The favorable moisture situation has substantially improved prospects for the Valley citrus crop, and there is now sufficient water behind Falcon Dam to see the trees through the critical July-August period. At the peak of the drouth last summer, citrusmen claimed that they were "watering their trees by the glassful." The USDA estimates in June placed the crop at 65 per cent of normal for grapefruit, 75 per cent for oranges. This was much above the 43 and 52 per cent shown for the 1946-55 average June condition.

Exporters See For Fourth Straight Year

United States farm exports for current fiscal year are soaring to a record level. Four straight years of export increase find 1956-57 values approaching a one-half billion dollars—a billion ahead of last year.

Several factors help this favorable situation. Competitive prices of CCC-owned cotton and other products has done a lot for our market and a generally favorable financial position is now being enjoyed by most of our best customers. Texas A&M Extension Economist Alvin Wooten says there is a growing desire abroad for high quality products in U.S.

He stresses the fact that considerable progress has been made toward easing barriers to imports from this country. The "hold out" sign has gone over several commodities, Wooten says, including cottonseed oil, soybeans, rice, barley, buttermilk and CCC wool stocks are being sold at a fast clip.

Exports for dollars are now being emphasized more and more. Sales now total about two-thirds of all CCC disposals. Wooten says the 31 friendly nations buying from America with dollars will probably soon step into dollar markets. A billion dollars in farm surpluses are being bartered for strategic materials and vital defense goods, he says.

Wooten attributes much of the success to better export techniques. We now have top agricultural attaches, marketing specialists, special export fairs and trade fairs to facilitate movement.

Flying Wardens Help Control Netting

Menhaden fishermen in closed waters right now are giving game wardens a hard time along the Texas coast, according to E. M. Sprott, director of Law Enforcement of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

"They are reported slipping into closed waters with their nets and our wardens have been having trouble catching them," the director said.

"However, we have moved the Commission plane into the area and perhaps we can stop their activity."

Sen. Ralph Yarborough Explains Economy of Flood Control Dams

Senator Ralph Yarborough last week hammered away again at a theme he has sounded almost daily since he took his oath of office April 29.

The theme: "Flood control, and water and soil conservation pays and pays."

The Texas Democrat, who has described himself as "a water, soil, people man," today cited the experience of a single Texas watershed — the Trinity — to prove his contention. This was his statement:

"The 138 upstream small retention dams on the upper Trinity, combined with the soil and water conservation practices on the land, prevented damage in the recent spring floods to crops, pastures, livestock, wildlife, fences, homes, buildings, roads, bridges and utilities totaling to $1 million. These small dams also trapped 122,000 acre feet of water and about 3,000 acre feet of sediment that otherwise would have jammed stream channels and downstream reservoirs."

"But if all the 1,116 small retention dams planned by the Soil Conservation Service for the watershed had been in operation, $8.8 million in flood damage could have been prevented, 990,000 acre-feet of water captured and 40,000 acre feet of sediment trapped."

Sen. Yarborough said similarly beneficial experiences had occurred on other watersheds where upstream dams have been constructed.

He cited: "Honey Creek, a tributary draining some 30,000 acres of the Trinity's East Fork, where 14 retention dams prevented an estimated $47,000 in flood damage."

"East lateral of the Trinity, southwest of Athens, Texas, where four small dams and two diversion structures prevented estimated damage of $143,000."

"Gray's Creek, northwest of Corsicana, where 11 retention dams prevented estimated damage of $36,000."

"Green's Creek at Dublin, Texas, where a Soil Conservation Service pilot watershed project of 13 retention dams prevented damage estimated at $37,000."

One of the most spectacular examples of how dams can prevent flood damage is in the experience of Lampasas, Texas, Senator Yarborough said:

"Flood damage to that Central Texas community is estimated at $4 million. But damage would have totaled only about $75,000 if five retention dams (with an estimated cost of $1.3 million) on the Sulphur Creek watershed had been in operation."

Senator Yarborough noted that an estimated two-thirds of flood damage in Texas occurs on upstream watersheds. He added:

"I will work for appropriations for these dams, both to prevent floods and to save water for beneficial use."

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

AUSTIN.—State Highway patrolmen are on the lookout for careless drivers.

Ten Texans are scheduled to die on the highways during the holidays, according to Homer Garrison, Jr., Department of Public Safety Director. Twelve died on July 4 last year.

DPS fatality predictions usually are frighteningly accurate. However, state law enforcement officers are doing their best to cut the traffic toll and thereby prove themselves wrong in their estimates.

Gov. Price Daniel has made a personal appeal to Texans to join together to "curb the senseless slaughter on our streets and highways."

Colonel Garrison reports 120 extra units will be added to the patrol for the holiday "Operation Deathwatch." Their job will be to spot the speeders, drunk and reckless drivers and take them off the roads before accidents occur.

Texas Association has joined in the push for better citizenship on the highways. TSA says last year's traffic accidents in Texas cost $275,000,000 took 2,611 lives and injured another 115,000 persons.

Grand Jury Digs In

Travis County grand jury touched off a rash of speculation by issuing summons to a new group of witnesses.

What they found out about the affairs of the bankrupt ITC Insurance Co. of Dallas and former Ins. Comm. Chm. J. Byron Saunders will not be known until later in the summer when the jury reports.

Colorful ex-Ranger Manuel T. (Lone Wolf) Gonzaulas was the headliner witness. Gonzaulas once was vice president of a Ben Jack Cage enterprise, making purse-size alarms for women to summon help. He said he had nothing to do with ITC, also managed by Cage.

Others called to testify were Mrs. Mae Swaidner of Dallas, longtime secretary of Saunders; Paul

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"Hanson, I have something to present to you today, that I'm sure will make you very happy . . ."

B. Kelly of Austin, personal friend of Saunders; and Dick Mallard, Tyler CPA who was asked to bring Saunders' financial records.

Cage Promises to Return

Meanwhile, Ben Jack Cage, kingpin of the controversy, announced from Brazil that he'll come back to Texas "in about a month" and straighten everything out.

Cage, former manager of ITC, is under indictment in Dallas for embezzlement of the firm's funds. Governor Daniel had tried to get Cage forcibly returned to Texas for trial, but found the U. S. has no extradition treaty with Brazil.

Cage terms the Texas talk "hysteria," blames his successors at ITC for the company's collapse. But, he said, he plans to set up a corporation under which 75 per cent of his earnings for the rest of his life will go to repay ITC shareholders.

"New Look" Launched

Texas' long-heralded "clean slate" Insurance Commission is finally a reality.

The "New Look" was officially launched with the appointment of Assistant State Auditor William A. Harrison as Commissioner of Insurance. Under the reorganization law passed by the last legislature, the commissioner is to be a $20,000-a-year executive who will run the department.

Although it will be one of the highest-paid posts in state government, Harrison is serving without pay. Through oversight of the legislature neglected to make the commissioner's salary effective until Sept. 1.

Harrison, who was named "temporarily" until September, is reportedly serving "on faith" that the Legislature will make some adjustment when it next meets.

Teacher Money Assured

Teachers, who've had state officials scraping and scrambling for months, are now apparently assured of receiving their $399 a year raise beginning next fall.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that $4,000,000 can be made available for this purpose on Aug. 22. A bill authorizing transfer of this amount from the permanent school endowment fund becomes effective 90 days after adjournment, said Wilson.

Earlier, doubts had been raised whether wording of the bill would permit the transfer before the end of this fiscal year, Aug. 31.

First With the Worst

Cost of Texas' severe weather damage in 1957 will probably top $100,000,000, says William L. McGill. Official total is already more than $91,000,000.

McGill, director of Texas Civil Defense and Disaster Relief Headquarters, said this year has brought the "most far-reaching and widespread destruction the state ever has known."

Texas always has had the "dubious distinction" of leading the nation in catastrophes he said, recalling the Galveston flood, New London school explosion, and the Texas City disaster.

But 1957, he recounted, in just four months, 120 tornados hit the ground; major floods in 13 river basins; and, for good measure, the worst blizzard in history in the Panhandle.

As McGill spoke at a statewide Civil Defense Advisory Council conference in Austin, hurricane warnings were posted on the Gulf Coast. "That," said McGill, "is all we needed."

Jim King Honored In Congressional Publication

The Congressional Record, official publication of the proceedings and debates of the 85th Congress, carried in its issue of June 25 an extension of the remarks of Congressman Walter Rogers concerning the death of James Edward King.

The message, in part, as printed in the Record is as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, it is my sad duty to advise this body of the passing of a great man and my dear friend. It is my firm conviction that the greatness of our country lies in the devotion to service of the community leaders throughout the land. I have always contended there are no finer examples of unselfish public service than can be found in the small communities all over our country, when men develop their fullest capacities in discharge of duty to their neighbors with no thought of reward except their own satisfaction.

Such a man was James Edward (Jim) King of Memphis, Tex., an eternal servant to everyone with whom he came in contact. His list of accomplishments would fill the page. Suffice it to say that he gave fully of himself in Hall County for 65 years as teacher, sheriff, businessman, and friend. There are countless monuments to his life in almost every facet of the community and area where he lived and served. His presence will be sorely missed, but his influence will be felt and realized in the Texas Panhandle for generations to come."

City Sprayed Tues. Night to Kill Insects

The city spraying machine made the rounds of the town Tuesday night as officials continued their drive against flies, mosquitoes and other insects, Mayor O. L. Helm said today.

This is the second time this year that the machine has been used to cover the entire town. The last spraying was about three weeks ago when a good kill of insects was reported, the mayor said.

"However, since that time, the insect population had increased to a point where we felt that they should be sprayed again," he concluded.

She was born in Greensboro, S. C., Oct. 31, 1864, and came to Hollis in 1907 from Indian Territory near Sulphur. Mrs. Morrow was a frequent visitor in Memphis.

Fire Destroys House On East Noel St.

Fire Sunday morning, June 23, destroyed a small house and the contents on East Noel Street near the city limits.

Chief of Police Guy Wright said that the fire apparently started from a stove in the kitchen. The blaze completely destroyed the structure and household furnishings.

Total loss was valued at about $1,000.
