The Furor Over The Supreme Court

In view of recent developments on a federal level and the requests of several people, I am reprinting the newsletter that I wrote in 1956.

Where did it all start? Few people have taken the trouble to find out the history of the doctrine which seems to be causing so much trouble today. That it, the doctrine that the Supreme Court has the power to declare an Act passed by the duly elected officials of the people, to wit, the Congress of the United States, repugnant to the Constitution and therefore unconstitutional and of no force and effect, thus vesting in the Supreme Court the final veto power concerning the rules, regulations and laws by which our daily lives are governed.

It all started in 1801 immediately after Thomas Jefferson was sworn in as President of the United States. At that time the political parties were the Federalists on the one side and the Democratic-Republicans on the other side. The general philosophies of these parties were in keeping with the general alignments of thought as between Jefferson and Hamilton. The Jeffersonian doctrine was based upon a distrust of centralized government and the advocacy of confidence in the people's capacity to govern. The Hamiltonian philosophy supported a strong national government by a sort of "royal purple" group who would have full control of the centralized powers and be able to govern without interference from the people.

At that time President Adams was leader of the Federalists, while Vice-President Jefferson was leader of the Democratic-Republicans. The Federalists had gotten bad favor with the public and realized that they would be turned out of office in the December 3, 1800, election. They were correct. Thomas Jefferson was elected President at that time and prepared to be inaugurated on March 4, 1801. The Federalists, in an effort to perpetuate their power, undertook between the date of the election, December 3, 1800, and the date of Jefferson's inauguration, March 4, 1801, to fill all open offices with Federalist followers. The number one appointment in this plan went to John Marshall, President Adams' Secretary of State and a loyal Federalist. He was appointed the third Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. There were a number of other appointments made by President Adams, among them being the appointment of a Justice of the Peace for the District of Columbia. The recipient of this appointment was Mr. William Marbury, who was appointed on March 2, 1801, just two days before Jefferson's inauguration.

In the confusion of the change of Administration, the then Secretary of State, John Marshall, signed and sealed the appointments, but apparently got busy on other matters and forgot to issue the commissions to several appointees, including William Marbury. Jefferson, upon inauguration, had instructed his Secretary of State, James Madison, to withhold the issuance of these commissions. Whereupon, Marbury filed suit against James Madison, the new Secretary of State, in the Supreme Court of the United States. Thus was born the famous case of Marbury vs Madison, with which all students of the law are familiar.

Since the Supreme Court's power to take original jurisdiction in cases is limited to a very narrowly defined class of cases, there was much discussion about Marbury having filed his suit in the Supreme Court rather than in a trial court. The filing of the case in the Supreme Court created a situation whereby John Marshall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was called upon to decide whether or not the Court could compel Madison, Secretary of State, to issue a commission that Chief Justice John Marshall, while serving as Secretary of State John Marshall, had neglected to issue. Since the Marbury case was clearly outside of the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, the normal procedure would have been for the Court to decline to hear the case and permit the complainant to file his suit in a proper court. However, for some reason Chief Justice Marshall brought into the picture the Judiciary Act of 1789, an Act to control the procedures in federal courts. He indicated that, although the Supreme Court could not hear the Marbury case under the Constitutional restrictions, there were provisions in the Judiciary Act, a statute passed by Congress, that would permit the Supreme Court to hear the case. He then proceeded to hold that, because according to his conclusions the Judiciary Act was in conflict with the Constitution, the Judiciary Act became unconstitutional and therefore void. This action on the part of the Chief Justice Marshall has been interpreted as a master stroke of a devoted advocate to centralized government. It created the doctrine that the Supreme Court had the power to declare Acts of Congress unconstitutional—power which was bitterly opposed by Jefferson's followers.

Had John Marshall held against Jefferson's followers on the Marbury case and had entered a judgement requiring Madison to issue Marbury a commission, there was a strong chance that Marshall might have been impeached. Many thought that Marshall realized this and there-upon conceived his idea of not endangering his position as Chief Justice, but at the same time, creating a strong weapon in the hands of advocates of centralized government. This approach left the Jefferson followers in the position of having won the Marbury case, for which they could not complain, but of having had to accept, as a thorn with the roses so to speak, the establishment of a doctrine that vested the Supreme Court with final veto powers on all legislative actions. It is interesting to note that in the 35 years that John Marshall served as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, he never again declared an Act of Congress unconstitutional.

It is also well to remember in this connection that as matters now stand, the laws passed by the duly elected officials of this land are in a strange position. These laws can be knocked down by the Supreme Court of the United States as being unconstitutional. Yet, a treaty between this country and a foreign country, written and entered by the Executive Branch of the government and duly approved by the Senate, is on a party with, if not superior to, the Constitution. But in any event, as the law presently stands, the laws passed by the Congress are subservient to such treaties as well as the Constitution, so you can imagine how far down this puts the laws of the several states.

J. W. Noel, who has been residing in Weatherford, recently moved to Memphis to make his home with his two sisters, Mrs. Conley Ward and Miss Mary Noel.

Mrs. A. Anisman and Sheldon were Amarillo visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fields and Jimmy were in Lubbock Saturday to attend the Tech-Baylor football game and to visit with their daughter and sister, Linda, who is a freshman at Tech.

Soil Conservation News

By CHARLIE B. CAPE
Work Unit Conservationist

Wildlife conservation is a very important practice in the Hall County Soil Conservation District. Farmers and ranchers in the district hold the key to successful wildlife crops in the years that lie ahead.

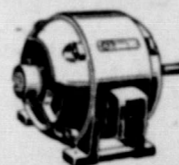

Food and cover are still the basic necessities for all types of wildlife. Many operators in the area can provide these necessities. Milo and other grains are still being harvested in the district. Leaving those last two or three rows of grain unharvested near creeks, windbreaks, or fence rows might help produce an abundance of wildlife next year. A scarcity of food and cover during the winter months could mean starvation and a small crop of wildlife.

All cooperators of the district are urged to help provide some type of food and shelter for our wildlife. The protection from burning of fence rows, shelter belts, and odd areas as well as leaving a little grain in the field will greatly influence wildlife production.

Soil Conservation Service technicians regard wildlife as an important product of the land. These technicians will be glad to discuss wildlife conservation with anyone that is interested in this great natural resource.

John Dennis and Dink Dennis visited in Lubbock over the weekend with relatives. Mrs. Dennis, who has been visiting there for the past week, accompanied them home as did Mrs. Ralph Howard and Dennis, who will visit here this week.

Louis Saied, owner of Saied's, is in Dallas this week attending market.

and our rural areas over certain provisions of the water bill.

I would hate to venture a guess as to whether or not the water bill will be finally passed by this special session. I do believe, however, that if one is passed it will not be until the last couple of days prior to adjournment.

Second Session Looms On Segregation

The segregation issue and Eisenhower's use of Federal troops in Little Rock is the subject of much discussion between the individual members of the Legislature. Governor Daniel has hinted quite strongly that there may be a second special session this fall to deal with segregation matters.

As yet it is only in the speculative stages but a second called session is certainly possible. It seems to me that something concerning our rapidly vanishing states' rights needs to be accomplished in the near future. More about that later.

New Books Are Added To Memphis School Library

The Memphis High School Library has received a large number of new books since the beginning of school. Among those recently received are "The Silent World" by Captain J. Y. Costeau, Edna Ferber's "Giant," and "Gift from the Sea," by Anne Morrow Lindberg. Also received were several classics and some of the ever-popular adventure and sports stories.

Besides books the school library has a fine assortment of current magazines for the students' instruction and entertainment.

Miss Ira Hammond is in charge of the library and a number of students assist her.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Jackson and Mrs. Richard Hale spent Sunday in Amarillo in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Horrell and children.

Reporter's Club Is Organized; Officers Elected

Last week, the Reporter's Club of Memphis High School was organized. The purpose of the organization is to collect all school news and turn it in to the Memphis Democrat.

Other members of the club are: Neal Foxhall, Joyce Hull, Priscilla Wright, Dorothy Copeland, Jackie Crawford, Jo Beth Barnes, Mary Crawford, Sondra Starbel, and Elaine Snowdon. Miss Ira Hammond is sponsor.

At a meeting held recently, David Davis was elected F. H. A. Ideal for 1957-58.

David is a popular member of the Senior class and plays quarterback for the Memphis Cyclones. He has been in "Who's Who" for two years and is now serving as Sports Editor of the Memphis High School Annual.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Blackmon visited in Amarillo Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Nelson. Their son Steve accompanied them home after spending the weekend in the Nelson home.

Local Youths To Collect Money for U. N. Halloween

Halloween will have an added meaning this year for the countless numbers of Memphis youngsters as they make their way from house to house for the annual "trick or treat."

This year the costumed youngsters will be asking for pennies and nickels to be sent to the United Nations International Children's Fund. The program is being sponsored through the school under the direction of the 1913 Study Club.

W. C. Davis, superintendent of the schools here, stated each child would be given a mimeographed letter explaining the purpose of the drive. These letters will be carried by the youth as they make their annual tour of the homes.

"We feel this is an excellent opportunity to teach humanitarian service and at the same time will render aid to those needy children through the world," Mr. Davis said.

Money collected from the drive will be returned to the teachers and later turned over to members of the 1913 Study Club. The club will send it to the United Nations. Mrs. Frank Foxhall is chairman of the project.

Nationwide project, UNICEF funds are used to help needy children throughout most of the countries of the world. In his annual proclamation setting May 1 as Child Health Day, President Eisenhower cited UNICEF's work in building better health for children.

UNICEF funds are equipping 177 plants in 31 countries for pasteurizing or drying milk or producing milk substitutes. These will supply free or low-cost milk for more than 4,700,000 children.

In 1956 UNICEF's score against major diseases was 14 million children vaccinated against TB, 8 million protected against malaria, 2,300,000 mothers and children treated for trachoma. Approximately 3,300,000 children and mothers received milk in nutrition programs.

UNICEF's current emphasis is on the establishment of and training workers for rural maternal and child welfare clinics. It provides drugs, equipment, and diet supplements through 12,000 centers.

Cyclone To Meet McLean In First Conference Game

The Memphis Cyclone will take on the McLean Tigers in the first conference game of the season Friday night at 7:30 at Cyclone Stadium.

The Cyclone squad, weakened by flu this week, will be seeking their third win of the season. They lost to Tulia, Crowell, Wellington and Quannah, and downed Panhandle and Childress.

McLean lost to White Deer, Wellington, Wheeler and Stinnett, tied Panhandle and defeated the Shamrock team 7-6. Last week they cancelled their game with Clarendon due to the flu hitting most of their squad.

Memphis was hit severely by the flu before the Quannah game, and have had many boys out this week due to illness. Out because of flu Wednesday were David Davis, Butch Adcock, John Evans, Jerry Smith and Jimmy Dunn.

Billy Johnson is still sidelined with a knee injury and Don Townsend has a pulled back muscle. Bobby Scott also has a pulled back muscle, and Jerry Burnett is suffering from a shoulder injury. A pinched nerve in a shoulder has slowed down Don Deaver this week.

Coach John Jones said that he hoped most of the boys would be well enough to play by Friday.

"Unless something further develops, we expect to have all the boys ready to play Friday except Jimmy Dunn, Jerry Smith and Billy Johnson," he said.

"We had to workout in the gym Monday but were able to go to the field Tuesday," he continued. "However, many of the boys are still weak from having the flu. In the past two or three weeks, all of the squad except three or four have been out with it."

He stated that the B squad game for this week with Shamrock had been cancelled because some of the members were out with the flu. Three of the boys, Dick Morgan, QB; Robert Gardner, FB; and Swayne McCauley, E, will probably be moved up to the A squad Friday night, the coach said. "McLean has a good ball club and we have a hard game ahead of us Friday, especially since we are not up to full strength," the coach said. "They have one especially good boy, David Crockett, a 160-pound fullback," Jones added.

The McLean line averages about 158 pounds and their backfield a little lighter, about 150 pounds.

The starting lineup for Memphis will be about the same as it has in the past weeks, providing all of the boys are able to play.

Legislators Consider Lobbying, Water

Texas Legislators, now in special session in Austin, are working on two of the hardest problems ever to come before those bodies. The first one concerns the lobbying situation and will no doubt consume many hours of argument before a workable solution is reached. The greatest difficulty will be in actually defining which persons will be included under the law. In the strict sense of the word, every person who writes their representatives in an effort to influence him to come around to their way of thinking could be called a lobbyist.

Of course the persons the legislators are trying to regulate are those men, and women, who are professionals in the job of getting things passed. We have seen these men in action from time to time. Some of them operate on a fairly high moral plane but there are others who will resort to almost anything to get a bill passed. One example of the things they do might be related from an incident which took place during the last session. There was a bill which was opposed by many of the right-thinking Legislators and the lobbyists know that the bill would be defeated if these Legislators were present for the voting. The lobbyists put the word out that the bill was in committee and wouldn't be brought up before the body until the next week. They then chartered an airplane and extended invitations to Legislators opposed to the bill to go on a free trip to the horse races in Kentucky. As soon as the plane had left, the legislators in favor of the bill brought it out of committee and placed it on the agenda to be voted on soon. When the plane landed in Kentucky the opposition legislators found out what was going on and immediately boarded another plane to fly back to Austin. Luckily they arrived in time to defeat the bill when it came up for vote.

These are the kind of operators which the Legislators are trying to regulate. The majority of them seem to want to require the professional lobbyists to register in such a manner that the Legislators will know who they represent and how much money they are spending in support of different causes. This is of course being fought by the large companies, associations and organizations who have money to devote to such activities. We hope that the Legislators are able to pass a Lobbying law which will cut these activities to a minimum.

The second great problem facing Austin lawmakers is the water problem. It has been proven time and time again that water is the key to the economic progress of an area or state. Many of the other states have water laws which have proven successful and it is time that a move in that direction is taken by Texas. However, there will probably be more difficulty arriving at a water solution acceptable to all parts of the state than any other proposal. The big cities have a different water problem from the rural areas. Also in this field are many special interest groups who would like to see a water program whereby they could profit. Reports from Austin this week seem to indicate that there will probably be much discussion before any solution is reached.

You May Be Next!

During the last two weeks there have been three automobile wrecks within the area around Memphis. Two people are dead and five others hospitalized as a result of these mishaps. This should be a reminder enough for all of us to drive carefully, especially during the bad weather months ahead.

Drivers always have a habit of saying "It'll never happen to me," but it happened to 40,000 somebodies last year. Enough people to make 10 towns the size of Memphis are now residents of cemeteries somewhere. How many of this number do you suppose thought it would never happen to them?

We could be the next ones as well as you; so drive carefully, the life you save may be your own. And don't forget that next week there will be many ghosts and goblins out spooking. Don't make them real dead ghosts.

Unusual Happenings Around the State

Horsing Around Fatal
 SAN ANTONIO—A horse lost in an encounter with an automobile. It happened like this: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kohler were driving on Palo-Alto Road about 5:30 a. m. when they saw a horse galloping toward them.

Mrs. Kohler, who was driving, slowed down, but the horse hit the car and straddled the hood. The impact drove the horse's head through the windshield.

The horse died, and Kohler's dentures were damaged, but neither he nor his wife was injured.

One For The Books

BAYTOWN—A man in a foul temper was hauled into jail in his "birthday suit." Deputy Sheriff J. C. Bickerstaff said he found the man wandering around without his clothes, on Highway 73.

He seemed to be more mad than drunk, Bickerstaff said, but he never could discover the reason for his anger, nor where his clothes were. As a result he was charged with drunkenness and given a cell to hide in.

"It's one for the books," Bickerstaff said, "and it went into mine!"

Another Victim

FORT WORTH—Police were called to a Southside intersection where an elderly man was annoying motorists by stopping them and asking for cigarettes.

The car given the call radioed headquarters: "I've talked to this man before, after receiving complaints. What can I do? He's 85 years old... and he mooched me for two cigarettes before I could get away."

'LOOK, LADY!'

Press Paragraphs— QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

The Country Editor
 United Press carried the following story last Thursday under a Waco dateline.

"Baylor Vice President W. J. Wimpee has invited Senator Ralph Yarborough to speak to the entire student body at Chapel next Monday. The invitation was extended after an invitation to Yarborough to speak to a Baylor business was withdrawn yesterday.

"A spokesman for Delta Sigma Pi fraternity said it had withdrawn its invitation to the Texas Junior senator on the advice of Dr. Aldon Lang, dean of the school of business. Dr. Lang said he had suggested the move because it had not been cleared through proper channels."

Sometimes there may be bigger news stories between the lines of such releases than what appears on the surface. On the surface this is not an important story. Most papers must have agreed on this because we never saw it in any of the papers that come to our desk.

Under normal circumstances, why would a university withdraw an invitation extended to a U. S. Senator to speak to a college fraternity for no reason except that "it had not gone through the proper channels"? Had someone for some reason failed to go through proper channels, it seems that the normal thing would be to clear quickly through proper channels so that the distinguished speaker would not be embarrassed by being told that his invitation to speak had been withdrawn.

But we live in a day when "normal circumstances" do not exist around many institutions such as Baylor University and Haley's Academy at Lubbock. Could it be that Dr. Lang of Baylor sensed a danger in permitting a speaker to appear on the Baylor campus who might not be acceptable to the White-Daniel political group? Could it be that Dr. Lang remembered what happened at Tech when a college teacher didn't agree with the powers that be?

Could it be that the decision of the vice president to issue an invitation to Yarborough, an obvious after thought, was an attempt to head off criticism of Baylor by a segment of the press of Texas which raised somewhat of an uproar over the Lubbock incident?

Benson On Farm Program

One of the things Secretary of Agriculture Benson is reported to have told the Chief Executive is that farmers are happier with their plight now than they have been in four years. We do not think this is saying much, nor do we think that farmers are happy with their plight at present.

We think Secretary of Agriculture Benson is an unusual man and an accomplished one in one particular, at least. He has been able to retain the support of President Eisenhower and to remain in office when his farm program was a failure, and he admitted as much, for about five years. This is certainly a feat in itself.

Benson is reported to have told President Eisenhower recently at Newport, Rhode Island, that farm unrest was only a minor factor in the loss of a Republican Senate seat in Wisconsin recently. He also said there were some ten encouraging facts about the present farm situation. While there may be ten factors which show that the farm situation is improving, there are several factors which show that the farmer is still getting a rather poor share of the national income.

First, his share of the national income is low. Second, his costs are rising faster than his income. Third, prices remain low and the Soil Bank program gives little hope of increasing the farmer's share of the national income. Fourth, the Republican Administration has spent more on its farm program in the five years since President Eisenhower was elected than the Democratic Administrations in the preceding twenty years spent on their farm program. Moreover, the Democrats obtained higher prices for the farmers and greater profits.

Now, after looking over the facts we would like to know what ten improving factors Secretary Benson thinks outweigh these blunt truths.

Fire Losses

"Every hour of the day and night $5,800 worth of property goes up in flames, due to the misuse of electricity. This is the estimate of the Committee on Statistics and Origin of Fires of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which reports further that this $51 million annual loss is going up, not down."

Amarillo Street Car Service Suspended: Amarillo had no street car service yesterday. Instructions were received from G. G. Brownell of New York, who purchased the Amarillo Street Railway Company at auction, to indefinitely suspend operation of the cars. Immediate action to resume the service will be taken by the city commission. The system has been under Federal receivership since 1916. . . . Memphis High School News: The grammar school has introduced center ball. Mrs. Bird's seventh grade girls are the participants. . . . New fountains installed at the Crocket Building have relieved congested conditions in watering the children.

Davenport, N. P. Dickson, T. H. Deaver, and M. J. Draper directors, at the annual banquet held last Thursday night at the Memphis Hotel. . . . The retiring president E. P. Wreched Engine Puts Lodge Gin Out Of Running: The Lodge Gin was out of commission Monday night about 9:30 when the large fly wheel of the steam engine went to pieces, badly damaging the engine and engine house. The accident was said to have been caused by the governor going "haywire", letting the engine spin so rapidly that it could not stand the terrific strain brought to bear upon it. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Wells of Wellington visited here Sunday with her aunt Mrs. Sid Baker. . . . Bill Jo Boren, M. Etes, Bob Moore, Jr., Tom Harrison and G. W. Smith, students at Texas A & M, from Friday until Sunday in Memphis visiting with home of Mrs. Thos. E. Noel.

Fire Department Answers Calls: Two calls were answered Tuesday by the Memphis Fire Department. The first was to Wooten Wholesale Grocery where a carton of matches had caught fire in the rear of the store room. Twenty-six cartons of matches were burned. The second was to the negro quarters at oil mill. . . . Here is a believe-not story: Mrs. J. W. Stokes, owns a ranch northeast of Memphis, says a trap was set under barn, hoping to catch a rat was doing damage to feed barn. Later they found the rat had caught a rattlesnake instead of a rat. Did the trap rattle rat, or did it rattle snake? . . . and Mrs. O. B. Rampey, Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Ben visited in Lubbock Sunday James and Patricia Montgomery and Harold Rampey, who are attending Texas Tech.

Net value of Texas index production increased 900 per cent in the 14 years after 1920.

minor cuts and bruises. The Epplers were returning from Borger where they had been visiting relatives. Mr. Eppler is an employee of the Oklahoma Highway Department and Mr. Bean is a county commissioner.

The second accident, occurring about 3 p. m. on Highway 256 about six miles east of Memphis involved only one car. Joe Henry Conway, 35, of Altus, Okla., was driving his sports car around a curve when the car left the road and rolled over several times. He was released from a local hospital with only minor injuries.

A passenger in the car, Jim Lightfoot of Altus Air Force Base, received a broken vertebra in the mishap. Both men were thrown from the vehicle.

Slow rain had been falling before both accidents.

practices on the local level. The first one recommended that a deadline be established for measurement of cotton for compliance and the second one is for ground measurements to supercede aerial maps when maps do not show areas correctly.

State resolutions included the following: Water—A complete study by areas be made of sources of water and its uses. That title and rights to all underground water remain with deeded title land holder. That "we continue to oppose ad valorem or other state tax to finance water program. And water legislation should not unduly penalize agriculture."

Minimum Wage and Hour Law—The Hall County Farm Bureau is opposed to any further increase in minimum wage and hour laws. "We recommend that exemption be made of all persons employed in connection with any occupation that may reflect an increase in cost to the farmer."

Commissioner of Agriculture—Recommend that the present method of electing the Commissioner of Agriculture by popular vote be continued.

Taxes—Any effort to place a road users tax on motor fuel for non-highway purposes should be opposed; that should new funds be needed for highway construction, they be provided by a road users tax.

spent only as provided for in the State Constitution of 1876. Road Tax—Oppose Texas Research League recommendation concerning use of farm-to-market road funds for maintenance instead of new farm-to-market road building.

Insurance—Recommend compulsory liability insurance before registration or transfer of title on motor vehicles.

Road Weight Limit—The present truck load limit should not be increased.

Cotton Classing—That the government classing offices be required to discard the one-half of sample next to the bagging before classing.

Cotton—That the government standards on cotton be set to establish a standard for light spot cotton grade. That a government loan rate be established on light spot cotton reflecting its true value instead of having to carry the same value as heavy spot cotton. Also that basis for establishing loan value on cotton be midling seven-eighths staple instead of fifteen-sixteenths, one inch or average grade and staple.

Parity Formula—That no change be made in the parity formula that would result in lower prices or buying power for government supported commodities.

Field Crop-Grain Sorghum—That grain sorghum be continued as a non-basic commodity. That the support price be 90 per cent of parity. That farmers be permitted to plant grain sorghum as a catch crop when losing a planting of basic commodities.

Two Rows In and Two Out—That A. S. C. instructions for determining acreage seeded to cotton should be amended to read "If the strip of idle or fallow land or other crops are less than two normal rows width, the entire area shall be considered as planted to the allotment crop." This provision should apply only to the counties declared in disaster wind erosion counties in any one year of 1953, 1954, 1955 or 1956. This resolution should apply only to dry land.

90 Per Cent of Parity for Basic Commodities—"Whereas, under the present system of flexible price supports for farm commodities, the national economy has become so unbalanced as to seriously threaten the very existence of agricultural industry by the continual price spread between what the farmer has to buy and what he has to sell. Therefore, be it resolved that the Farm Bureau go on record as being in favor of 90 per cent of parity for all basic kinds of grass have been seeded. The group will also visit an irrigation and fertilizer demonstration of the Brown Smith farm and a hybrid grain sorghum demonstration on the Harold Hodges farm.

On the Alvin Molloy farm, the farmers will view another hybrid grain sorghum demonstration and a Johnson grass eradication experiment where many different kinds of chemicals have been used to determine which will kill the grass best in this area.

An irrigation hybrid grain sorghum demonstration located on the Clyde Fowler farm will be visited as well as a mesquite eradication test on the W. W. George ranch. Another mesquite eradication demonstration will be viewed on Mrs. John Fuston's ranch, and another hybrid grain demonstration on the Bruce Gibson farm.

"In addition to these, we will visit several other demonstrations over the county," Hooser said.

Outstanding agricultural representatives from the Experiment Stations and other persons will be on hand to explain the different demonstrations, he continued.

"This will be one of the most educational field days we have had the pleasure to present in many years," the county agent said, and urged every Hall County farmer to attend.

A committee, consisting of T. R. Fuston, W. W. George, Bruce Gibson and Shine Stephens, will be in charge of the noon meal at Turkey.

The establishment of experiments in the county is being carried out as a part of a new program of the state to find out exactly how new plants and methods perform under actual field conditions, he explained.

This year only two counties in the state, Hall and Collingsworth, are under the program. If it proves successful, it probably will be expanded to other areas, the county agent added.

The program consists of actual experiments being carried out on land tilled by county farmers. In addition to experimenting with new plant varieties and methods, the program includes experiments to improve on existing methods of farming, controlling mesquite, and other phases, he explained.
