One Killed, Two Injured In Wrecks Near Estelline

One man was killed and two persons injured in two separate accidents last weekend in and near Estelline on Highway 287.

Clarence E. Henry was killed when the car which he was driving met head-on with a truck owned by Red Ball Motor Freight, Inc., 804 feet from the south end of the Red River bridge, at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Henry was killed almost instantly by the impact which completely demolished the 1949 model Chevrolet car, and did considerable damage to the truck. The truck driver, Thomas McCallum, was not injured.

In the second accident, which occurred about 1:45 p. m. Monday slightly north of the curve on the south side of Estelline, Mrs. Helen Wiggington, 33, and Samuel Richmond, 53, were injured when the car Mrs. Wiggington was driving met head-on with a construction truck, driven by Jimmy Dale Hartsell.

They were taken to General Hospital in Childress where they were treated for cuts. Mrs. Wiggington also suffered shock.

Another minor accident, accompanied the fatal accident on the bridge Saturday night. Traffic on the bridge was stopped while the wrecker was clearing the roadway. A truck, driven by S. M. Ziegler, came through the road block, hitting and damaging the wrecker, which belonged to Joe Faulkner, Deputy Sheriff Elmer Neel's car, and the Highway Patrol car which is based at Clarendon. The accident was attributed to brake failure.

The Monday accident occurred while the watering truck, driven by Hartsell, was wetting down the road on the west side traveling north. Mrs. Wiggington's car, a 1948 Ford, was traveling south on the same side of the road.

Mrs. Wiggington was en route to Dallas to visit her mother-in-law, and Richmond was en route to New York.

at 2 p. m. Monday at the Travis Baptist Church with the Rev. L. E. Barrett officiating.

Henry, 33 years, 3 months and 17 days of age, was born in Hall County. At the time of his death he was employed with the construction crew working on Highway 287.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry of Carey; five brothers, Dewey Rayborn of Wayside, Roy Lee of Lakeview, Fred J. of Memphis, Horace Ray of Carey, and Tony Edward of Carey; also three sisters, Mrs. Mitchell E. Moore of Plaska, Mrs. Willie J. Marshall of Whitesboro and Mrs. Kenneth G. Rich of Sandusky.

Pall bearers included: C. J. Wynn Jr., Robert Galloway, L. B. Snider, J. O. Dixon, James R. Jeffers, and W. D. Young.

Burial was in the Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Spicer Funeral Home.

Funeral Services For O. N. Saye Held in Savoy

O. N. Saye, father of O. R. (Doc) Saye of Memphis, and former resident here, died in a hospital at Big Sandy, Tex., Saturday, Jan. 29. Burial was in Sunnyside Cemetery Sunday at Savoy, Tex., with Masonic graveside rites.

He and Mrs. Saye moved to Memphis in 1949, and resided here until four years ago when they moved to Hawkins, Tex., where he was residing until he became ill.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. O. N. Saye of Hawkins, include two sons, O. R. Saye of Memphis, and Don N. Saye of Oklahoma City; one daughter, Mrs. Doyle D. Caffey of Hawkins; also five grandchildren.

Attending the funeral services from Memphis were Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Saye and daughters, Linda and Sandra; and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Harrell.

Services Held In Wellington For L. A. Dickey

Funeral services for Luther Alen Dickey, 70, father of Mrs. Herschel Combs, were held Monday afternoon at 3 p. m. from the Bowe Street Church of Christ in Wellington with Minister John Gay, officiating.

A retired farmer, Mr. Dickey was a pioneer resident of Collingsworth County. He was born in Franklin County, Tenn., June 6, 1889. At the age of three he moved to Arkansas, and in 1906 moved to Collingsworth County with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. James Dickey. On Dec. 26, 1911, he was married to Miss Callie Seder Wilson in Wellington.

He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors, other than his daughter, include his wife, Mrs. L. A. Dickey of Wellington; two daughters, Mrs. Paul Brewer of Wellington and Mrs. J. E. Norman Jr., of Enid, Okla.; seven grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. W. R. Adams of Wellington, and a host of other relatives.

Translator System Files Application

The Caprock TV Translator System has filed application recently to construct a TV re-broadcast system on a point approximately seven miles northwest of Memphis or five miles south of Hedley, Joyce Webster, secretary-treasurer of the system, announced this week.

The system will receive Amarillo channels 4, 7 and 10, and have requested to re-broadcast on channels, 71, 77 and 80 UHF, Webster said.

This system has been incorporated in the State of Texas as a non-profit organization to re-broadcast television to portions of Hall and Donley Counties including Memphis, Hedley, Estelline, and Lakeview areas, Webster said.

Funds for the cost of installation of the system have been obtained by volunteer solicitations. Webster said the Federal Com-

Heart Drive Will Begin Here Saturday

The annual Heart Fund Drive will begin Saturday with heart shaped coin receptacles being placed in most of the business houses in Memphis, Ted Myers announced this week.

Sunday, Feb. 28, has been set aside by the Heart Association as Heart Sunday, and most of the money for the drive will be collected on that date, Myers said.

"The Heart Association is still in need of money for the use of finding a cure for heart disease," Myers said.

Funeral Services For R. C. Ellis Are Held In Amarillo Thurs.

Funeral services for R. C. Ellis, 56, were held at 4 p. m. Thursday in Griggs Pioneer Chapel, Amarillo, with the Rev. Hal Upchurch, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, officiating.

He was a brother of Frank Ellis of Memphis and was a former resident of Lakeview.

Mr. Ellis, an inspector for the Amarillo city health department, died Tuesday after suffering a heart attack.

He had been a resident of Amarillo 17 years, moving from Lakeview. He had been an employee of the city for six years.

Mr. Ellis was a member of the Masonic Lodge of Lakeview. He (Continued on Page Twelve)

U. S. Department of Agriculture Releases 1960 Cotton Support Prices

The support prices for the 1960 cotton crop have been released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The new prices will be 28.97 cents for class A cotton and 23.18 cents for class B cotton, Lynn McKown, manager of the ASC office here, said this week.

Support prices are based on the 75% of parity for Class A cotton and 60% parity for Class B cotton. Last year the support prices were 30.40 cents per pound of cotton on Class A and 24.70 cents per pound on Class B cotton.

McKown explained that last year parity was set at 80 per cent and 65 per cent.

McKown also explained that his office mailed out letters this week to county farmers concerning the new public law regarding cotton allotments.

The letter refers to several changes which county farmers have shown interest. "Your cotton allotment for 1961 may be 50 per cent less than your 1960 allotment," the letter said.

"Your 1961 cotton allotment will be a per cent of your cotton base, not your cotton history."

"To maintain your cotton base you must plant 75 per cent of your 1960 cotton allotment or release 75 per cent or more in writing to the county committee by April 22. The only exceptions to this rule will be producers with acreage equal to 75 per cent of their combined allotments for all crops under a Conservation Re-

Troops Schedule Various Activities For Special Week

Boy Scouts of the three Memphis troops are planning a big week of activities beginning Sunday in honor of the 50th anniversary of Scouting, it was announced this week by local Scoutmasters.

This week, Scouts of Troop 131 presented the program to members of the local Rotary Club at their regular noon luncheon meeting Tuesday.

This troop, sponsored by the First Presbyterian and First Methodist Churches will assist in conducting worship services Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church and Sunday night at the First Methodist Church.

Scouts of Troop 35 and 34 will also attend Sunday services at local churches. Scout uniforms will be worn the whole week, Feb. 7 through Feb. 13.

Scouts of Troop 35 will be selling tickets all next week to a Scout dinner to be held at the American Legion Hall Friday, Feb. 19. Tickets will be $1 per plate and serving will be from 11:30 to 1 p. m.

Monday night, Troop 35 will have parents night with a Court of Honor as the program. Tuesday night they will have a skating party, and (Continued on Page Twelve)

Hall Grand Jury Returns Twelve Indictments Mon.

The Hall County Grand Jury of the 100th Judicial District Court met Monday, and indicted 12 persons to be tried before Judge Luther Gribble.

Nathan Thompson, colored, was indicted on five cases of forgery. Sheriff W. P. Baten Jr. received word Wednesday that Thompson was in custody of officers in Eu-faels, Okla., and is charged with forgery and endorsement there.

Johnnie S. Samora, Latin American, was indicted on four counts of forgery. He is out on bond at the present time.

Jimmie Saul Jones, colored, was indicted by the Grand Jury on one count of forgery. He is at present in the county jail and will be tried by Judge Gribble Friday morning. He waived the right of trial by jury, Sheriff Baten said.

General D. Garrett, colored, was indicted on a burglary charge and is at present out on bond.

C. L. Hamilton, colored, was indicted on one count of forgery and is at present being held in (Continued on Page Twelve)

Rains Of Over One Inch Fall Here This Week

According to the official rain gauge kept by J. J. McMickin, .80 of an inch of moisture has fallen in Memphis as of early this morning. It has been raining ever since.

Estimates of over an inch were received here by noon Thursday, and reports were that county dirt roads were almost impassable.

Highway 287 between Memphis and Childress has been closed during the wet spell due to construction underway on the highway.

Temperatures over the county have been mild for this time of year. Highest temperature was recorded Wednesday afternoon at 63 degrees. Last night's low was 31 degrees.

Wednesday's temperatures were 63-34, Tuesday 59-34, Monday 62-37, Sunday 62-46, Saturday 63-28, Friday 60-33, and Thursday's high was 55.

PTA To Hold Exchange Student Program Feb. 11

The Austin and Travis chapters of PTA will sponsor an International Relations program Thursday, Feb. 11, at 7:30 p. m. in the Travis Cafeteria, it was announced this week.

This program will be open to the public and will be of interest to all citizens of the community, a spokesman for the two organizations said.

Superintendent W. C. Davis will give the invocation and Mrs. Robert Sexauer will introduce the program.

Mrs. E. D. McKay of Amarillo, area representative of American Field Service, will bring three foreign exchange students, who will appear on the program. The students are currently attending high schools in Amarillo. Mrs. McKay will moderate a panel consisting of Ted Reiman of Germany (Palo Duro High), Andrew Rezapaulos of Greece (Amarillo High), and Martha Hasenholz of Argentina (Tascosa High).

The Memphis High School chorals during the program, and the Cyclone band will entertain during the social hour following the program.

Mrs. David Aronofsky and Mrs. Lynn McKown, program chairmen of the local PTA groups, have made arrangements for this program.

A nurse will be provided for children under 12 years of age during the program since they will not be admitted, the spokesman said.

Friday morning, Feb. 12, the foreign students will appear on a MHS assembly program. Benny Lawrence of Tascosa High School, who participated in Americans Abroad last summer and lived with a family in Germany, will be the master of ceremonies.

Mrs. McKay will meet with the presidents of the local civic clubs and local pastors at a luncheon meeting in the Masonic Hall dining room to present a familiarizing program of the foreign exchange student program. It is hoped by the members of the two PTA organizations that a foreign exchange student will be placed in Memphis High School in the near future.

Students who will host the foreign students while in Memphis are: Jan Mitchell, Betty Gidden, George Stanley and Don Deaver. Judy Lemons will entertain these exchange students with a party in her parents' home after the PTA meeting.

It was explained that the American Field Service is a private, non-profit, educational organization whose purpose it is to further the understanding and good will among the peoples of the world. It carries out this purpose by bringing teenage students from abroad to study in American high schools and to live in American homes and communities for a year, and vice versa, the spokesman said.

The American Field Service was founded in 1915 as a volunteer ambulance corps and served in both World War I and II. The AFS peacetime program of international exchange on the teenage level was founded in 1947, the summer program in 1950, and the school program in 1957.

After a school has received an AFS student from abroad, its students are eligible to apply for the AFS abroad programs—summer and school programs.

In addition to specified personal and academic requirements, a candidate (1) must be at least 16 years of age at the time of departure, (2) have completed two years foreign language, (3) be a member of the junior class.

A participating contribution of $650 from each community is given in order to take part in the foreign student program, it was pointed out.

There are 47 foreign countries presently participating in the American Field Service program.

Senator YARBOROUGH'S REPORT

The Senate has gotten off to a strong legislative start in the new session with passage of a far-reaching "clean elections" bill by a vote of 59 to 22.

So far as the Senate is concerned, the vote marked the successful conclusion of a seven-year effort to tighten campaign reporting requirements and set realistic limits on campaign spending in both general elections and primaries.

We Texans have long seen the need for a "clean elections" bill because certain large interests for years have exerted undue influence through unlimited money power in political campaigns.

Of course, large money concentrations also have had a disproportionately powerful voice in many national political campaigns.

For example, in the Congressional elections of 1958, the record shows that two of America's wealthiest families made campaign donations totaling the following—DuPonts, $71,537; Rockefeller, $56,000. These figures are not necessarily the entire amount donated, but only those that were reported under current law.

Some of the major provisions of the "clean elections" bill passed by the Senate include:

Extends federal campaign reporting requirements for the first time to cover primaries as well as general elections;

Extends federal campaign financial reporting requirements for the first time to state and local committees which spend over $2,500.00;

Requires more detailed financial statements to be filed with the Federal District Courts as well as with the Clerk of the House and Secretary of the Senate;

Places a $10,000 overall limit on the amount an individual can contribute within a year.

Although not a perfect bill, in my opinion it is a good bill. If it passes the House and is signed by the President, it will become effective January 1, 1961.

Wesley Breedlove SFM3 of Norfolk, Va., left Wednesday, Jan. 27, to resume duties on the USS Tidewater. He has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Breedlove, during a 20-day leave of absence from the U. S. Navy.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"I remember the man told us he'd make a wonderful lap dog."

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

The poor guy who can't wield a handgun with devastating effect is definitely out of the social swim in these days of the big Western revival. If you're one of the unfortunate few, cheer up! Follow along here and you will discover what it takes to make a pistol shooter and how you can get to be a hot handgunner in two easy lessons.

If you are going to make consistent hits, you must do two things. If you do these to perfection, you can do many other things wrong, and still be a good shot. But if you do everything else right and do either of these two things wrong, you'll be a dud, states Col. Jim Crossman, Contributing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

The first thing you must do if you're going to be even mediocre is to line up the sights properly and keep them lined up when the shot goes.

The rear sight has a flat top with a rectangular notch cut in it. The depth of the notch doesn't matter too much as long as it is deep enough, and depth probably should be half the width of the notch or more. You don't use the bottom of the notch for anything except to help you find the front sight. The top of the rear sight is critical, though, and it should be smooth and flat, at least near the notch. The sides of the notch must be at right angles to the top, with sharp corners at the top, and the notch sides should be parallel. The height of the rear sight has to be adjusted to fit the height of the front the range, ammunition and your method of shooting.

Let's take a last look through properly aligned sights. There's that big, high front sight, with the flat top just even with the flat top of the rear sight, and nicely centered in the rear notch, with a generous amount of light showing on each side of the blade. Be sure you've got this picture clearly in your mind. This is one of the two most important factors in pistol shooting, keeping the front and rear sights carefully lined up the "sight picture."

The second basic principle is trigger control. You must gradually apply increasing pressure to the trigger so that the hammer is released without any gun movement. Trigger control doesn't mean that you can make the gun go off when you want it to. But it does mean that you can make the gun go off without any disturbance as a result of your pulling the trigger.

Since you are holding the pistol by only one hand, any slight movement of that hand will flip the muzzle far out of line and give you a wild shot. You have to make your trigger finger operate independently of the other four, and this isn't easy. When the sights look good, it's a natural reaction to promptly tighten the trigger finger. And it's easy to tighten up your whole hand. The usual result of such a yank is that the muzzle jumps low and left. Remember—your trigger finger must operate independently—this is achieved by practice.

No matter how much you want to monkey around changing the details, don't forget that you must have good sight alignment and good trigger control if you want to make hits on paper targets... or polar bears.

JOHN T. FORBIS

John T. Forbis Announces for Dist. Attorney

John T. Forbis of Childress, who is seeking the Democratic nomination to the office of District Attorney, has authorized the following announcement of his candidacy.

"One of the true privileges of my life has been that of serving as your District Attorney during the past term.

"It is with true humility that I again request of you the opportunity of serving in this office. May I use this public means of requesting your continued support in the coming primary.

"I feel that I have been unusually fortunate in the cooperation and assistance I have received from the peace officers and general public of the district, and this assistance has been of tremendous benefit to me in my efforts to perform the duties of this office.

"Law enforcement is the direct responsibility of every individual, and I honestly desire to hear the views of any interested person in every case I am called upon to prosecute. Please come forward with your suggestions, criticisms and assistance."

Cheese is made in some five hundred varieties.

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

Completion of the Interstate Highway System, including 3,033 miles of top-standard expressways, will save as many as 300 Texans from traffic deaths.

Highway Engineer Deane C. Greer says that accident statistics show that controlled access expressways are three times safer than ordinary roads.

Greer said, they move three times as much traffic. Greer estimates that the Interstate Highway System, when completed, will save one life a year for every 10 miles of road.

Greer said the state budget for getting Texas highways up to desired standards is $175 million, he said, the state will have 70,000 miles in the highway system compared to present 60,000. There will be 100 miles of multi-lane highways compared to 2,168 today.

SPEED?—Whether speeds of 60 miles per hour should be legalized for some of the state's top-notch highways is the subject of study being made by the Legislature.

Committees of the Texas Good Roads Association are to consider whether gasoline taxes should be upped to gain school money.

Governor Daniel has suggested the possibility for raising money for school improvement and teacher salaries through a higher gasoline tax. TGRA, made up of people interested in road building, has, in the past, opposed draining tax money from road users for non-highway purposes.

Higher speed limits have been proposed before for four-lane roads, but have failed to pass the Legislature.

DEFICIT GROWS—Deficit in the state's general revenue fund reached $78,674,301, an all-time high, says State Treasurer James.

Things should look better after 1961, when corporation franchise taxes will be paid, he adds.

APPOINTEES—Appointed by Governor Price Daniel to the Texas Commission on Educational Standards are Mrs. W. D. DeGrass, Amarillo, Horace K. Jackson, Gatesville, Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville, Cullum Greene of Fort Worth, and Mrs. E. P. Lamson of Dallas.

Also to the Educational Commission are Lt. Governor Ben Ramsey, James Everett Collier of Houston, Anderson of Lufkin, Senators William Fly of Victoria, Floyd Shaw of Weatherford, and Robert Roberts of McKinney.

House Speaker Waggoner Carr nominated Mrs. Harry Patterson of Houston, John McKee of Dallas, Representatives C. T. Matlock of Yoakum, Leon Thurman of Anson and Maurice Pipkin of Brownsville, as his appointees to the Educational Commission.

NEW GAME HEADS—Frank M. Wood of Wichita Falls has been elected chairman of the Game and Fish Commission to succeed Herb Frenseley of Houston.

New members of the Commission are Carl L. Dupuy of Lufkin, H. A. Welsh of El Paso, J. F. Corley of Houston and W. O. Reed of Dallas.

BUG DELAYS DECISION—"Flu bug," besides felling Texans by the thousands, contributed to a delay in deciding one of the state's most talked about issues, the new Safe Driving Insurance Plan.

With the other two State Insurance Board members ill, Chairman Penn Jackson said it would be at least several days before the board would announce changes, if any, in the plan.

Board Member Robert W. Strain was in bed with the flu, and Joe P. Biggs, other member, was convalescing from a heart attack.

Under the merit plan, the Board set auto insurance premiums lower for drivers with no record of accidents or traffic violations and proportionately higher for those who have accident and violation records.

Governor Daniel has said that he hoped the Board would make "some changes" in the plan, but declined to elaborate.

Some Legislators declare that, unless non-accident causing violations and the three-year retroactive features are taken from the plan, it will be so unpopular the Legislature will have to change it if the Board doesn't.

But most Texas insurance men declare that, given a fair chance, the plan will grow in favor with the public. They believe there will be an over-all drop in insurance costs as the driving public learns the relationship between bad driving habits and high insurance premiums.

ANTI-NARCOTICS AID PROMISED—Governor Daniel has promised El Paso every possible help in combatting its problem of being "a major distribution point of an international narcotics ring."

In response to a telegram in which El Paso Judge Woodrow Bean cited the city's "major" problem, the governor conferred with state and federal authorities.

Daniel said he was assured after talking with Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, that DPS men were and would continue to work with local law enforcement officials in El Paso in fighting narcotics traffic.

Also, said the governor, he has been told by the Federal Narcotics Commission that eight federal customs agents in El Paso also do anti-narcotics work.

Federal Commissioner H. J. Anlinger promised the governor to survey and consider the request for a special federal narcotics agent in El Paso.

"Captain R. B. Marcy discovered the Red River had two forks and the land in between became a center of dispute," Will Wilson points out.

"Battle Border"

Little known facts about Texas boundaries.

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE TEXAS ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE.

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of articles outlining the numerous boundary conflicts dating back to 1716, pointing up little known facts which shaped the Texas of today.)

Greer County, Oklahoma, lies at the base of the east side of the Texas Panhandle between the forks of Red River.

For many years people in that county did not know whether they were part of Texas or Oklahoma.

The trouble goes back to the treaty between the United States and Spain fixing Red River as a boundary at a time when Texas Panhandle area was unexplored wild Indian territory.

They did not even know Red River had two forks.

In 1852, Captain R. B. Marcy discovered two forks of the river and attempted to locate on the ground the 100 meridian fixed in the old treaty as the northern boundary of Spanish territory.

And his location caused the trouble.

Attorney General Will Wilson, currently fighting another boundary battle, that of the tidelands suit before the U. S. Supreme Court, pin-points the controversy.

"If the 100th meridian crossed below or downstream from the river's forking then the land belonged to Texas unquestionably.

In 1855 a treaty with the United States and the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians called for the ground location of the 100th meridian.

A. H. Jones and H. M. Brown, contract government surveyors, located their first boundary monument on the north bank of the south fork of Red River. They were convinced that the meridian crossed Red River 50 miles west of the junction of the forks.

The land in between seemed irrevocably headed for dispute.

The Texas legislature jumped into the middle of the issue and created a county out of the entire disputed area, Indians and all. That was in 1860.

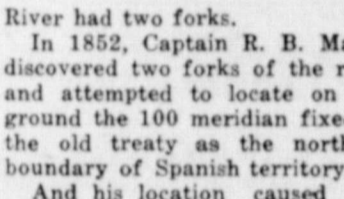

The same year saw the beginning of the war between the states. The boundary dispute took a back seat until 1885 when Congress officially recognized the controversy and appointed officers to join with Texas representatives in ascertaining the point.

Any chance of this commission's accomplishing anything seemed doomed from the word go. Representing the United States were four army officers whose luggage consisted primarily of foregone conclusions, misconceptions of their function and a bag full of court martial tricks.

"They came to Texas with nothing to offer in the way of an agreement and they left the same way," Wilson observed.

In the next article will be related how the federal government took another bite out of Texas and Texas lost Greer County.

Wyley Whitley Undergoes Surgery In Amarillo

Wyley Whitley, well-known Memphis resident, underwent surgery in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo last week. He is expected to be released from the hospital the latter part of the week and will return home. For a number of years, Mr.

Whitley has been employed at Greene Dry Goods Co., but recently became associated with Branigan Jewelry.

THANKS

For Your Patronage for 37 Years

In all sincerity, we wish to express our thanks to the people of this community who have given us their patronage during the years we have operated the Lindsey Cleaners in Memphis. We have made many friends and business associates through all the years, and have received much pleasure from being able to serve your needs.

Effective Monday, Feb. 1, ownership of our dry cleaning plant went to Homer Tribble. In selling to him, we did so with the knowledge that he would serve our former customers in a manner which would meet with their approval. You may turn to him and the personnel of Tribble Cleaners with full confidence.

Thanks, again, for your business. It was our pleasure to have had the opportunity to serve you.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lindsey

Announcement

I Have Purchased LINDSEY CLEANERS

619 MAIN STREET

On Monday, Feb. 1st, I took charge of operating the dry cleaning establishment known as LINDSEY CLEANERS, after purchasing this 37-year-old business from H. H. Lindsey.

With this announcement, I want to invite the residents of this area to give me their patronage. With the help of several competent people, we can give you the quality of cleaning you deserve — and want, using modern equipment and latest approved scientific methods.

Personally, I believe I can qualify as being experienced in this type of business, as I started working here in Memphis 32 years ago. With this background, I shall do everything in my power to give you the kind of service you want.

Prior to purchasing Lindsey Cleaners and re-naming it TRIBBLE CLEANERS, I sold my interest in the Memphis Steam Laundry to my partner, Mrs. Ross Gentry.

Remember, when you need dry cleaning, bring it here . . . or call CL 9-2126

Get the quiet proof of Chevrolet's superior performance on the road—No other car in the low-priced three can match the borne-on-the-wind sensation you get from a ride in the 1960 Chevrolet. But that's not surprising when you consider to what lengths Chevy has gone to provide for your comfort at no extra cost to you. As you drive, count the ways Chevrolet has been thoughtful:

- Supple Full Coil suspension—Coil springs at all four wheels melt bumps as no other suspension can. Taking the punch out of rough roads is their only function—they don't have to anchor the rear axle.
- Butyl rubber body mounts—Thicker, newly designed body mounts

- further insulate you from the road.
- Body by Fisher—Only Chevy in its field offers the polish and craftsmanship of Body by Fisher.
- Foam cushioned seats—Chevy offers foam cushioned seats in both front and rear in all series but one.
- Safety-Girder frame—X-built and not merely X-braced, the Safety-Girder frame affords greater rigidity to minimize twisting and squeaks.
- Hydraulic valve lifters—Oil hushed hydraulic valve lifters reduce engine noise to a whisper.
- Cushioned steering shaft—A universal joint and cushioned coupling keep those annoying road tremors from the steering wheel.

- Precision balanced wheels and tires—Here again Chevy has shown concern for your comfort by eliminating vibration in this vital area—tire life is longer, too.
- Easy steering ratio—Chevy's high ratio Ball Race steering takes the work out of steering for you.
- Superior weight distribution—Chevy rides better, handles better and stops better because the car's weight is more equally divided between the front and rear wheels.
- Wide choice of power teams—Choose from 24 different power combinations to satisfy the itchiest driving foot—more than any other car.

Aminotriazole and Stilbestrol

These two words have been in the news in recent months almost as frequently as Castro and Khrushchev. Incidentally, they too are not a fear in the minds of the people. Aminotriazole is especially so. Aminotriazole is the name of a chemical which was used by the cranberry growers for spraying purposes as a weed killer. The evidence was in the hands of the food and drug administration that aminotriazole was a carcinogen and that it was a highly potent anti-thyroid drug. In other words, it was a chemical known to produce cancer in rats and to have caused abnormal growth of the thyroid gland, as well as thyroid tumors in rats. These facts also established by production of the chemical seeking to get it. The producers of the chemical had requested that its use be allowed so long as the tolerance was such as not to be dangerous. That is, a request was made that a tolerance of one part per billion of aminotriazole on cranberries, pears, and cranberries be established. However, this was not allowed, because the amount had been determined to be a carcinogen and the tumors resulted from its use on rats had been diagnosed as various types of adenoma and carcinoma. It was only after extended conferences between representatives of the National Cranberry Association and the Department of Health and the announcements concerning cranberries were made. There was of course a great furor because of business interruptions, and in all fairness it should be pointed out that all of the facts concerning this entire problem known to the National Cranberry Association and, according to the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, this organization fully advised of the decision of the factual situation should be withheld from the public. It should also be pointed out that the Food and Drug Administration tested and cleared a total of 3 million pounds of cranberries to be free of aminotriazole. It instituted seizure action against 30 lots totalling 325,800 pounds of January 26, 1960. Authorization has been given packers and distributors to show on approved lots that the same have been certified "safe" by the United States Government.

regulate such bodily processes as growth, rate of gain, and milk secretion. On January 30, 1947, after two years of study, the Food and Drug Administration authorized the use of stilbestrol pellets in poultry. It was known at that time that stilbestrol had been shown to produce cancer in test animals by oral administration. In treating poultry, the pellet was implanted immediately behind the skull of the bird with the thought in mind that the removal of the head would remove all traces of the stilbestrol. However, during investigations in 1950 and 1951 it was developed that minute amounts of stilbestrol remained in the liver of the treated birds. This residue was thought to be about 20 to 40 parts per billion, which was considered for all practical purposes the same as zero. Subsequently, stilbestrol was authorized for addition to the feed of beef cattle and later the Food and Drug Administration permitted the marketing of stilbestrol for implantation in the ears of beef cattle and sheep with directions that the ear not be used for food for man or animal. A subsequent development of assaying stilbestrol in animal tissue revealed that there was no residue in beef, but confirmed the presence of 20 to 30 parts per billion in the liver of chickens and 35 to 100 parts per billion in the skin fat of chicken. In 1958 Congress enacted a food additives amendment which in effect prohibited the Food and Drug Administration from approving new applications for the addition of stilbestrol to animal feed or drugs which leave residue in the edible part of treated animals. The Food and Drug Administration thereafter, working in coordination with poultry raisers, worked out a satisfactory policy whereby treated poultry, which was only about one per cent of all the chickens on the market, could be removed. Therefore, it was possible to assure the public that poultry on the market could be purchased with confidence and that it was safe and wholesome.

These revelations were a part of the testimony of Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming, before our Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. The hearings are in relation to bills designed to protect the public health. Other testimony will be taken with relation to color additives in lipsticks, as well as other additives to other foods, cosmetics, and drugs. The great ravages of cancer in recent years makes it most important that every safeguard be established to protect the health of Americans. The people should know all of the facts about the food that they consume and the cosmetics and drugs they use.

Soil Conservation News

Brush Control

Why let brush rob the moisture from your pasture land? This is a question that should be considered by every owner of grassland in the Hall County Soil Conservation District. It takes three to four times as much water a year to grow a pound of brush than it does to produce a pound of grass. So, why grow something stock won't eat, when you could be growing three to four times as much grass. This extra grass would come in mighty handy this time of the year. Now is the time to plan your brush control operations for the year.

Mesquite, cedar, sand sage and shinnery oak infest thousands of acres of rangeland in the District. There are several ways to control this brush. Mesquite can be controlled by tree-doing, hand-grubbing, root plowing or spraying with chemicals. Shinnery oak and sand sage can be sprayed or shredded. Cedar is usually chained or grubbed.

Chemical control may be done by airplane spraying or ground unit spraying. Spraying should be done after the plants leaf out well in the spring.

Root plowing, grubbing or tree-doing can be done at most any time of the year. If the area controlled is to be reseeded, grubbing or root plowing should be done in the late winter or early spring.

Shredding of shinnery oak or sand sage should be done in May or June. For best results the area should be shredded again the following year.

After brush control operations, pastures should be deferred for the first growing season to allow the grasses to recover.

Assistance is available from the Agricultural Conservation Program and through the Great Plains Conservation Program to help farmers and ranchers carry out brush control and reseeded. Your local ASC office, County Agent, or Soil Conservation Service technicians can give you ad-

Local Resident Attends Jehova's Witnesses Meeting

Twenty congregations of Jehova's Witnesses from parts of three states, Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, climaxed their three-day training program Sunday in Lubbock at a meeting in Fair Park Coliseum.

Approximately 882 members were in attendance at the final meeting of the session. Attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lane and Miss Estelle Willingham.

During the training program, emphasis was given by the theme, "Do the Divine Will," according to Mr. Lane. R. L. Anderson, district minister from New York, spoke on the subject, "When Is God's Will To Be Done on the Earth?"

Raymond H. Smith, circuit minister for Texas Circuit No. 9, said the purpose of the assembly was to analyze the 20 reporting congregations, determine the existing weakness and lay plans for expanding the work at circuit and national levels.

John Coleman was a mid-term visitor here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Coleman. He is attending Draughon's Business College in Amarillo.

Want to catch big bass the year round? Want to catch them when other fellows are going home empty-handed? Here are some tips, relayed to us by experts, that may help you fill out your stringer with whoppers. The average black bass fisherman gets his greatest thrill out of snagging a big black on a top-water lure. Chances are he's going to catch some good bass on those surface plugs, all right. However, it will be mostly luck, rather than skill, unless he has made some kind of study of the bass and its feeding habits.

Fowler's Mobil Plans Welcome Week Feb. 6-13

Fowler's Mobil Service station will hold "Welcome Week" starting at 6:30 a. m. Saturday, Feb. 6, and ending at 10 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 13.

The new, modernistic station was opened recently. Owners are V. P. Fowler and Doyle Fowler.

V. P. Fowler started into the service station business in the 1930's operating the Hillcrest Service Station, located south of Memphis. After his release from the U. S. Army in 1944, Fowler purchased the Alamo Service Station which he operated until it was taken down, and the new station erected.

Doyle Fowler, his son, joined him in operating the Alamo station 13 years ago, following his release from the U. S. Navy.

All of the stations Fowler has operated have featured Magnolia products, which gives him almost 26 years with Magnolia (Mobil) company.

During the welcome week, gold copies of customers' ignition keys will be given away. Besides this, prizes of gasoline, oil, lubrication and filters will be given away the first day, Feb. 6. Also a special door prize will be awarded at the close of the Saturday, Feb. 6 day of trade, Fowler said.

The station is located at 321 Boykin Drive, and is open from 6:30 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Will Wilson Is Memphis Visitor

Attorney General Will Wilson visited in Memphis a short time Wednesday, Jan. 27, in the interest of his campaign for re-election.

At the informational meeting, held in the banquet room of the Cyclone Drive Inn, he outlined some of the functions of the attorney general's office. Touching upon the rackets of the state, Wilson stated that he was continuing to put a stop to them. Also reviewed by the attorney general was the state's efforts to control the practice of naturopathy by unscrupulous persons.

Wilson told the small group that he planned to conduct an active campaign for re-election, and would visit Hall County at a later date.

Accompanying Wilson was Byron Fullerton, Austin attorney.

Poll Tax Sales Total 1922 In County This Year

A total of 1922 poll taxes were sold in Hall County this year, Melissa Anderson, tax assessor-collector, announced today.

This is almost one hundred short of the 1956 election year sales, she said.

Mrs. Anderson said that there have been a larger number of poll tax exemptions issued to first time voters than in years past.

Glenn Carlos reported that 21 city poll taxes were sold this year which is slightly over the number sold last year.

There have been no figures released concerning the total voting strength of the county due to the large number of county residents over 60 years of age who are exempt from paying poll taxes.

Estelline F. H. A. Club Presents Style Show at Parent-Teacher Assn. Meeting

Members of the Estelline F. H. A. Club, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. W. O. Rucker, presented a style show of garments made during the first semester at the regular meeting of the Estelline P. T. A. on Monday evening, Jan. 1. The stage was attractively decorated to represent a picture frame.

Jo Beth Barnes presented the models and described the frocks. For evening wear, Sandra Wood modeled a beautiful white, full length evening dress.

In the sports wear division were Donna Eddins and Beatrice Cruz. Henrietta Ward, Carolyn Lambert, Sandra Rogers, Janie Buchanan, Paula Knox, Linda Bowman, Molly Williams, Elaine Seay, Linda Shields, Beatrice Cruz and Donna Eddins modeled in the school wear division.

Modeling in the special occasions division were Sandy Longbine, Laynette Seay, Sandra Wood, Rebecca Moore, Carolyn Hood and Rose Contreras. Jo Beth Barnes also modeled a suit.

Working on the decorations committee were Sandy Longbine, Bea Cruz and Laynette Seay.

The program committee consisted of Molly Williams, Linda Shields and Donna Eddins.

Refreshments were served following the program.

Girl Scouts of Troop 4 Meet in Smithee Home

The Girl Scouts of Troop No. 4 met in the home of Mrs. W. A. Smithee at 3:45 p. m. on Monday, January 18.

The leaders for the program were Mrs. W. A. Smithee and Mrs. C. Lemons.

The girls had a party and they were working on a merit badge for entertainment.

Punch and cookies were served the following members: Donna Eckham, Elizabeth Johnson, Annie Anthony, Suzette Smithee, Nettie Carter, Vicki Jones, Kathy Ann, Lucheryl Tucker, Phyllis Ann, Zee Yarbrough, Wynema Graham, and Mary Ann Lemons.

The next meeting was held on Monday, Jan. 25 at 3:45 p. m. in the home of Mrs. R. C. Lemons.

Friends Invited To Tea Honoring Mrs. W. Jameson

Mrs. Walter Jameson, known to her many friends as Mary, will be complimented with a tea Sunday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m. at the Memphis Country Club.

Hosts for the occasion will be employees of General Telephone Company. A special invitation has been extended all Mary's friends to call during the afternoon by the hosts group.

Mrs. Jameson has completed 37 years service with the local telephone company, and for many years has served as chief operator. She is planning to retire early this month and will establish residence in Amarillo.

Pathfinders Enjoy Program On Outer Space

The Pathfinders' Council met in the home of Mrs. Jesse Mitchell on Tuesday, Jan. 26, for their regular session.

The topic for the program was "Keys to a Small World on Space."

Mrs. J. J. McDaniel reported on "Challenge of Outer Space." Her chief point was to bring out what accomplishments or goals scientists can reach with the use of satellites and space mechanisms that are set into orbit. Three things that a satellite in orbit does, according to the speaker, are: (1) It samples the strange new environment through which it moves, (2) it looks down and sees the earth as it has never been seen before, and (3) a satellite looks out into the universe and records information that can never reach the earth's surface because of the intervening atmosphere.

Following the first discussion on "Outer Space," Mrs. A. O. Gidden discussed the topic, "There Are No Short Cuts to Peace." She stated, "the crying need of the world today is peace; not peace by the sword, but a peace based upon reason and mutual understanding and a recognition of the facts of a national and international life."

"The billions we are spending in exploration of outer space and guided missile development would not be available even now were it not for fear that a potential enemy might get ahead of us in this field and threaten our lives and the free world's security. The price we may have to give for worldwide peace shall likely be of a paramount figure, yet it is everyone's responsibility. It is each one's duty to examine this inter-relationship between War and peace and to try to see the true nature of the crisis that confronts our world. We must come to a better understanding of what is involved and then to draw whatever lessons we can from our experiences. The task of preventing World War III will engage us through our whole lives and the lives of our children. To reach viable agreements with other nations it will take (1) infinite patience, (2) unremitting effort, and (3) genuine understanding by all nations that peace is imperative, that war is catastrophic, both for the victor and the vanquished, but it has taken the American public valuable time to learn that "There Are No Short Cuts To Peace," she concluded.

The meditation was given by Mrs. Robert Spicer. The scripture selected was Luke 10:27. Her topic was "Brotherhood in Christ."

A lovely salad plate, coffee and nuts were served to the following members: Mmes. J. J. McDaniel, Robert Spicer, A. O. Gidden, Gene Chamberlain, W. F. McElreath, D. C. Messick, John Smith, Anna Dickson and the hostess, Jesse Mitchell.

Local Cagers Drop Two Games To White Deer

The local cager squads suffered two defeats at the hands of the White Deer squads Tuesday night at White Deer.

The Cyclonette lost a high scoring, offensive game to the White Deer squad 66-59. Trilby Townsend was the high scorer of the game with a total of 30 points, and Charlotte Clayton was next with 27.

Coach Bob Martin said the local girls trailed all the way, with the White Deer girls moving to a 23-18 lead in the first quarter, and keeping the lead the rest of the game.

The Cyclonette squad lost a defensive match 46-36. The boys are scheduled to play White Deer at 7 p. m. in the MHS gymnasium Saturday, Feb. 13. The girls will play their re-match at 7 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 23, here.

In the district race, the White Deer girls are first, with Memphis and Clarendon tied for second place. The Lefors boys are undefeated so far and are in undisputed first place.

Friday night, the local squads will go to McLean to seek revenge on the two games lost down here. Next Tuesday, the squads have an open date, and then next Friday, both teams will play Lefors there. Coach Martin said that the Lefors game is the last game the two squads will play away from the local gym. Besides the two re-match games with White Deer, the local squads will play Clarendon Tuesday night, Feb. 16, and Panhandle Friday, Feb. 19.

THE BAFFLES By Mahoney

Sober Look at Steel Settlement Leaves Grave Doubts for Future

Settlement of the 116-day steel strike under the terms we are given to believe were reached may prove to be of dubious benefit to the country. Certainly it is an immediate advantage that 500,000 men in an industry which is crucial in our economy will not again be thrown out of their jobs. However, there are signs that the settlement could have a long-range harmful effect on the nation as a whole.

To begin with, anyone who believes the settlement will not touch upon inflation is unrealistic. Roger M. Blough, board chairman of United States Steel Corp., said the settlement would cost industry $1,000,000,000 and then blandly added it "could hardly be regarded as noninflationary." The great danger is that this compromise — if it be compromise — could set the pattern for negotiations with other industries, the railroads, the coal miners, the auto workers, and in the upswing of prices that would follow where would be the advantage to the workers in their forced increase of wages and fringe benefits?

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell are being hailed as the heroes in negotiating the settlement. It is quite natural that Nixon should wish to be identified with an agreement which satisfies both sides, particularly in this election year which means so much for him. But it will prove a boomerang because, in spite of an announcement that there will be no immediate boost in the price of steel, it is difficult to see how any industry could absorb a $1,000,000,000 increase in its costs without the guaranteed increase in proportionate productivity which labor has not made in lifting its strike.

The American people are frequently being told by our generals that Soviet Russia is rapidly overtaking us in military armament. We should not forget that in our two world wars we entered combat against vastly superior military machines and were able to win in the end because of the adaptability and the efficiency of our industry. Industry is a part of armament and cannot be allowed to deteriorate and be priced out of existence by costs too much above the world level, and short-sighted tariff policies as we have done to such industries as watch and optical manufacturing in our country.

For the present and the near future we can expect to see an increase in steel imports simply because foreign mills are not loaded down with the heavy labor costs nor are they dominated by labor-controlled work rules. In foreign mills, management or the government — but never organized labor — has the sole right to set labor rules. The best we can hope now is that the steel industry in the United States has not been coerced into a pact it cannot sustain without greatly increased costs. Otherwise there has been no victory for labor and a massive defeat for the American people as a whole.

Who Wants To Walk?

It has long been a standard joke in American families that the head of the house berates his sons because they are getting soft. A couple of generations ago school children walked several miles through the weather to the one-room school each day, carrying their lunch in a syrup bucket.

Later this walking decreased to a number of blocks, but still it was walking, and fathers of present day students are fond of reminding their offspring how far they walked.

We suppose it is the same all over. D. Hodson Lewis, the Chamber of Commerce banquet speaker, said the high school kids in Highland Park at Dallas have crowded the school grounds with automobiles so that a committee of mothers has asked the school board to buy up property around the school to make a parking lot.

The comic strip "Gasoline Alley" has characters who age and it so happens that Skueezix is just the age of the Herald editor. His problems are about the same, too, and recently he has been concerned over the inability of his son, Chipper, to do any walking.

This habit of riding everywhere has really taken hold. At McLean they have a court case because the parents of a girl in high school insist that she can get in her car and drive away during the noon hour and the school insists they have control over student parking during all school hours.

Football coaches blame the high rate of knee injuries on the fact that today's youngsters don't walk enough to develop strong knee joints. Dr. White, the heart specialist who treated President Eisenhower, says many of our modern day ills would be eliminated by a brisk walk of a mile or so every day.

We all know it is good to walk. Adults are fond of stating how much they walked when they were young. But nobody wants to do it today. If we did, there would be no need of parking meters in Perryton because everybody in Perryton actually lives within walking distance of town.

What Other Editors Say

Everybody Gets A Pay Cut

Don't look now, but your pocket has just been picked.

If you are an Average American working for salary or wages, you took a pay cut this week.

Simultaneously, your employer upped your pay-check a little . . . but you'll never see the money.

Your labor, or your time, is costing your employer more . . . and you're getting less for it.

It doesn't make sense, does it? But that's precisely what happened at the stroke of New Year's Eve when Social Security rates were increased by one per cent.

Six per cent of your paycheck is now going into Social Security funds . . . last year it was five . . . four years ago it was only four . . . in another year or two it will be seven . . . and under present law it can go as high as 9 per cent.

And don't be too complacent about it . . . there's no guarantee that 9 per cent will be the limit.

As a matter of fact, as each succeeding Congress broadens Social Security benefits and more and more people become eligible for payments, the cost of the Social Security program is increasing by leaps and bounds . . . and the only place for the money to come from is out of the paychecks of employees and from the bank accounts of their employers.

Of course "workers" pay only half of the Social Security "bite" . . . your employers must shell out the other half to match your contribution . . . but it's your earnings just the same. Each now pays 3 per cent of each individual pay check up to $4,800 a year. That means that if you earn as much as $4,800 this year, you'll pay $288 in Social Security taxes . . . $48 more than you paid last year.

Of course you're not going to miss the money, because you've never seen it. It's one of the best-hidden taxes we've got.

But it's coming out of your pocket, just the same . . . and we think you ought to be aware of it.

Anti-Trust Laws for Unions

Don Robinson, publisher of the weekly newspaper trade magazine The American Press said something about the American strike situation recently that bears repeating. From here on the words are his:

During the next few months there will undoubtedly be a flood of suggestions for dealing with management-labor relations. The tremendous losses to workers, manufacturers, government and the public resulting from the steel strike cannot help but lead to fervent demands for legislation to prevent repetition.

In the editorials of the newspapers of the country, we have read many proposals for dealing with the situation. But we have read none that make more sense than the seemingly simple answer of making anti-trust laws applicable to labor as well as management.

The anti-trust laws were enacted in the first place to prevent industry from ganging up on labor and the public from taking unfair disadvantage of the power which could be wielded by building monopolies.

Now the shoe has to be on the other foot. Business and the public now need similar protection against labor. For it seems just as dangerous for labor to form tremendous, industry-wide unions, which are in a position to break the back of industry and inflict hardship on the public, as it would be to permit industries to form monopolies.

When bigness reaches monopoly proportions, history has taught us that it must be broken down.

In this hypothetical case, you would probably want to designate some friend as executor, to take care of all necessary arrangements and then distribute the estate according to our wishes.

On the other hand, if you have plenty of possible heirs a will could be used to designate which of them shall participate in the division of the estate. And even if you wish your property to be distributed entirely in accordance with our statutes of descent and distribution as explained in previous columns, a will can perform useful functions. Among other uses, a will could provide for an orderly and economical partition of your property, preventing any waste of the assets by

1959-60 Cotton Supply Is 23.7 Million Bales

The cotton supply in the United States during the current season, August 1, 1959 to July 1, 1960, is estimated at 23.7 million bales, about 3.4 million over that of the 1958-59 season.

One reason for the increase in supply, said John McHaney extension economist, is that the 1959 crop was about 3.3 million bales over 1958 because of larger acreage and a record yield of 474 pounds per acre. The larger acreage was due to the ending of the acreage reserve program which took five million acres of cotton land out of production in 1958. The Choice B support program also increased the supply in that it added about one million acres to 1959 allotments.

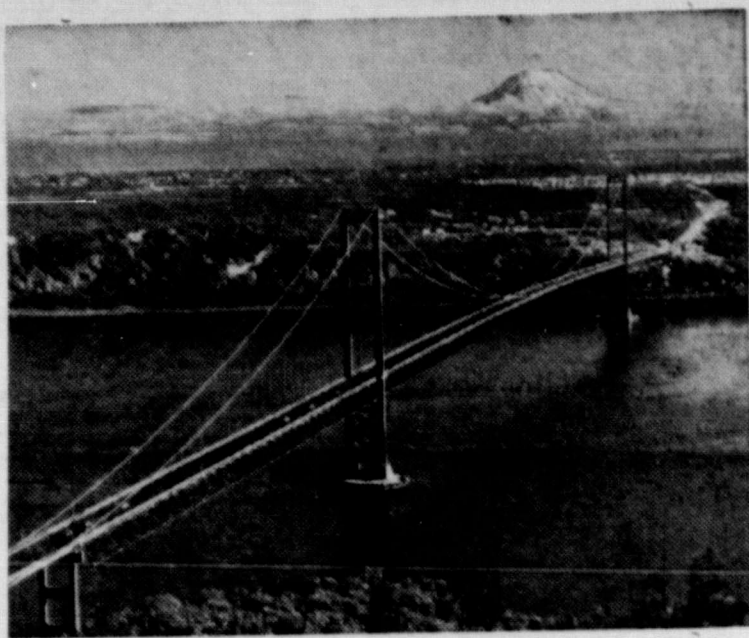

Of the 15 million bale disappearance expected during 1959-60, exports are expected to be about 5.6 million bales, double that of last season. One reason for this increase in exports is a decline in foreign free world production. The economist said even though the foreign production decline is estimated to be only two per cent of 1958-59 production, such a decline alone could mean an increase in U. S. exports of about 14 per cent over last year. This, he emphasized, illustrates what can happen in the long run if U. S. prices are maintained at relatively low levels. Other reasons for the export increase are an increase in cotton consumption and relatively low cotton stocks in the foreign free world.

Domestic consumption of cotton during 1959-60 is expected to be about 9 million bales compared to 3.7 million a year earlier due to a higher level of economic activity and the replenishment of the low level stock of textiles. The economist pointed out that the lower cotton prices may have also stimulated consumption to some extent. However, the effect of prices on cotton consumption is usually a long-term factor. He noted also that the minimum prices stipulated by the current price support program should help the future competitive position of cotton. Research and promotion, however, will have to continue their part in the future, along with lower prices at domestic mills for cotton. McHaney added that competition from man-made fibers continues strong and could be stronger if cotton prices were higher.

How Well Do You Know Your America?

The new Tacoma Narrows Bridge, fourth longest suspension bridge in the world, spans a mile-wide channel of Puget Sound between Tacoma and the Kitsap and Olympic Peninsula areas of western Washington. Nicknamed "Sturdy Gertie," the new structure replaces its ill-fated predecessor, "Galloping Gertie," which failed in a wind storm in November, 1940, a few months after it was opened to traffic. The new four-lane 5,979-foot long structure was designed after engineers had conducted exhaustive wind-tunnel tests with scale models. Traffic on the new bridge, dedicated in October, 1950, is fulfilling expectations. Some forty air-miles distant is 14,408-foot Mount Rainier, snow-clad sentinel of the Evergreen Playground. Since Tacoma is the nearest metropolitan city to all five entrances of Rainier National Park, the Narrows Bridge provides the most convenient route between Rainier and Olympic National Park, "America's last frontier." The bridge also links Fort Lewis, the nation's largest permanent Army post, and McChord Air Force Base, both near Tacoma, with the Puget Sound Navy Yard at Bremerton.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, M. D., Commissioner of Health.

During a recent conference devoted to orientation and experience for the people in the field of heart disease, some interesting facts were discussed.

The Division of Cancer and Heart Diseases of the Texas State Department of Health revealed figures on the prevalence of the nation's number one killer.

In 1958 there were 25,042 deaths from heart disease per se in Texas.

Adding the 11,158 fatalities from vascular lesions (primarily strokes) equals a total of 36,200 deaths attributed to cardiovascular disease.

Last year there were 73,443 deaths in Texas from all causes. This means that 49 persons who died did so as a direct result of some cardiovascular condition.

To further dramatize the effect of this condition, subtract from the total deaths the number killed by accidents (5,214.)

This leaves us with the cold fact that 52 per cent (well over half) of the persons who died from natural causes did so from cardiovascular disease. Accurate information concerning the occurrence of the different types of heart disease in the population is not readily available.

It varies in different parts of the world and even in different parts of the United States and in different peoples or ethnic groups.

However, Dr. Paul Dudley White's estimate is perhaps as good as any.

He found the occurrence of the different types of heart disease in 3,000 organic cases to be as follows:

Coronary heart disease accompanied 48 per cent; hypertensive heart disease (high blood pressure) claimed 26 per cent; rheumatic heart disease took 23 per cent; congenital heart disease made up six per cent; and all the other types caused seven per cent of the deaths from cardiovascular disease.

The State Health Department's role centers around aid to heart disease clinics or centers, a rheumatic heart disease program, clin-

"Free Silver", the national political issue in 1896, also was of course an issue in lesser races. For example, in Tennessee, the brilliant Edward Ward Carmack was the editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. According to the story which old-timers on the staff told, years later, when this chronicler was cub reporter, Carmack was called in by the publisher, who directed him to quit writing editorials in favor of a free silver and start writing editorials supporting the gold standard.

Carmack's reply, in effect, was, "I am the editor of this newspaper and I will write only that in which I believe." So he resigned, ran for Congress and defeated the incumbent, who campaigned as a "gold-bug." The loser contested the election. Since the Republicans were in control of Congress and since the loser's position on the money questions was in accord with theirs, Carmack stood an excellent chance of being unseated.

"Private John" Allen, of Tupelo, Mississippi, was a member of Congress at that time and he addressed the committee on behalf of Carmack. Allen expressed considerable doubt as to whether the contesting candidate's stand in favor of gold was sincere and then told of a speech he had heard the man make in a previous campaign. On that occasion, the statesman had (Allen said) discussed the repeal by the Republicans of the silver purchase act; then, holding up a silver dollar, had exclaimed:

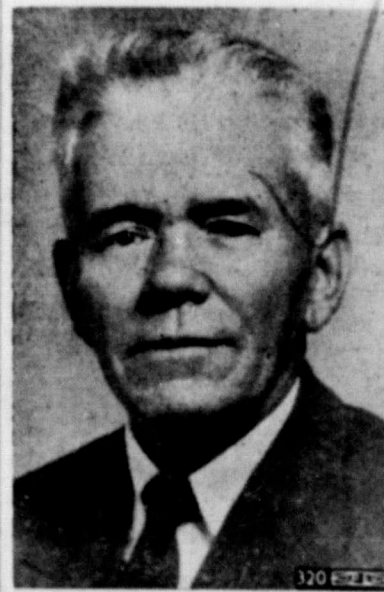

"Silver! Only twice disgraced! Once by Judas Iscariot and the other time by the Republican Party!" (The committee voted to seat Carmack.)

Not only did "the money question" play a major part in the Congressional campaigns of 1896 and thereabouts, but it was even brought up in county races where the winners could not have possibly, in the performance of their duties, done anything about it. The beloved Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee, governor and United States Senator, was fond of relating in his lectures a story about a man who was running for county clerk in the mountains of East Tennessee. While this candidate was speaking, someone called out, "How do you stand on the money question?"

The speaker replied, "I am in favor of the gold standard; also I am in favor of an unlimited coinage of silver in the ratio of 16 to 1; also I am for greenbacks—" and he paused, then concluded, "and I'm for a little more counterfeiting." (He was elected by a landslide.)

ical and public health nursing consultation, and lay and professional education.

There are 23 cardiac clinics serving 7,000 patients in Texas, each operating with a full staff providing both diagnostic services and treatment.

County Teacher's Assn. Meets In Estelline Thurs.

The Hall County Teachers Association met Thursday evening, Jan. 28, at the Estelline High School.

The invocation was given by Loran Denton, superintendent of the Turkey schools. A delicious meal was then served by the mothers of the Estelline seniors buffet style to the teachers and their guests.

The group was entertained by Donna Eddins and Linda Bowman who rendered "The Sunny Side of the Street" and "High Hopes" was given by Larry Braidfoot, Mike Cope, Carolyn Hood, Patty Sue Mabry, Archie Mahan, Rebecca Moore, Kenneth Sweat, Catherine Walker and James Thomas, members of the Estelline senior class.

At the business session, JoEd Cupell, president, presided. The following were elected as delegates to the District TSTA House of Delegates in Amarillo on Mar. 10, 1960: JoEd Cupell of Estelline, Mrs. Gordon Dain of Turkey and Miss Tops Gilreath of Memphis. Miss Ethel Hillhouse of Memphis was elected as alternate.

President Cupell appointed the following nominating committee to select officers for the coming year: B. J. Thomson, principal of Austin Elementary School, Memphis, chairman; Mrs. L. A. Tucker of Estelline, Mrs. Bert Degan of Turkey and Barney Joe Bevers of Lakeview.

Mrs. Roy Guthrie, Memphis High School English teacher, chairman of the Teacher-Public Relations, made a report for the group.

The next meeting of the Association will be held at Lakeview on April 12.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. H. B. Estes, Mrs. Carrie Belle Industrial foundation, and sums of money were pledged. A number of industries have been contacted since that time. We would suggest that some of the pledged money be spent in personally contacting heads of industries rather than by correspondence. Sure, it takes money. Such things are not handed out on a platter by just asking. It takes real selling, and a united front.

Many young people would like to live here, but have to go elsewhere to make a name and place for themselves, as many of them are doing. We need their youthful outlook and ambition here.

According to this week's Wellington Leader, the chamber of commerce there has set a goal of 300 members for the organization. The membership drive will emphasize membership of rural residents of the county, the news item stated. All success to you Wellington folks. No town in an agricultural area can hope to grow and prosper if it does not have the support and co-operation of urban and rural citizens. And when citizens of towns fail to include the whole area in all plans for development, it is the same as a slap in the face of friends. From the standpoint of trying to secure industries, agriculture in this area is tops—industrially speaking.

Wednesday at noon they will present the program at Lions Club for their sixteenth annual Scout week birthday party.

During the later part of Scout Week, the Scouts of Troop 35 will go on hiking trips and are planning a cook-out. They will have a window display at J. C. Penney Co., featuring the 50 years of Scouting. Besides the church activities of Troop 131 Sunday, this troop will have their regular Tuesday night meeting. Their banquet and Court of Honor has been scheduled for Monday night, Feb. 22. They are also planning a patrol outing for Saturday.

Scout Troop 34, the youngest troop in Memphis, organized around the first of December, 1959, are planning to put Scouting window cards up the first of the week. They are also making plans for flag raising ceremonies at the local schools for next week.

Plans are also in the planning stage for an "all day program down town". This will possibly be held next Saturday, Feb. 13, scoutleaders said.

Also, a presentation ceremony for Troop 34 is in the planning stages. Scoutmaster Charles Johnson said.

On the Troop Scouter roster for Troop 35 is: Roy Brewer, Homer Tribble, Les Sims, Henry Crow, Robert Galloway, Gene Lindsey, Bill Baten, Joyce Webster, and Scoutmaster Ted Myers.

Troop 131 Scouter roster includes J. D. Tuck, scoutmaster, B. B. Gibson, assistant scoutmaster, Lynn McKown, Bill Cosby and Buster Helm.

Troop 34 Scouter roster includes Joyce Webster, Charles Johnson, scoutmaster, Melvin Jennings, Gene Hughs, Dick Cole, Don Moore, Roy Currin and Ben Parks.

On another page of this issue are the names of several other members of the Comanche District, and Adobe Walls Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Two men, Dr. David Aronofsky and Hubert Dennis, are not listed on this page.

Eagles-Bear Cubs To Tangle Friday Night At Lakeview

The Lakeview Eagles will be hosts to the Estelline Bear Cubs at Lakeview Friday night. Both teams are expected to be in good condition for the conference contest.

The Eagles will crown their Basketball Sweethearts for the 1959-60 season. The Sweethearts are Betty Floyd, a junior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Floyd of Lakeview; also Jerry Clements, sophomore, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Clements of Lakeview.

The coronation will take place between the two games. An invitation was extended by school officials to all residents to come and see the games.

Council Postpones Action Following Ginners Discussion

Managers of the gins located within the city limits of Memphis met with the City Council Tuesday night and discussed the fire hazard created by burning cotton burs.

Following an hour and a half discussion, the Council decided to postpone action until next month's meeting, at which time the gin managers will again meet with the aldermen.

Following the discussion, the Council, with all members present, approved the paying of the regular monthly bills and approved the reports.

The City Council will meet again Tuesday night, March 1.
