Western Cottonoil Company Office Safe Is Damaged

The Western Cottonoil Company office was broken into and the dial on the safe knocked off, it was reported Monday morning by employees.

The safe was still locked, and the burglar was unable to get it open. A safe specialist had to be obtained to open the safe.

The burglar obtained entrance by forcing open a window, located on the south side of the building. Employees said nothing was taken from the office, and none of the desk drawers were ransacked.

The handle on the safe was also bent.

Lloyd Phillips, one of the employees, arrived to work Monday morning while it was still rather dark and found the door to the building open. He went to the safe and tried the handle, finding it still locked, he went on about his work without examining it.

Blackie Johnson noticed that the safe dial had been knocked off when he arrived, and notified local officers.

The time of the unlawful entry is not known, Sheriff W. P. Baten, Jr., said; however, footprints were found in the soft mud around the building. Since Sunday afternoon was the only time the ground had thawed enough to allow prints to be made, the burglary was probably committed Sunday afternoon or evening.

American Field Service Chapter Is Organized

A group of citizens, representing the school, various clubs and organizations of the city, met Thursday, March 3, to form the Memphis Chapter of the American Field Service.

Purpose of the American Field Service is to bring a foreign student to Memphis to attend the local high school for the 1960-61 school year and to send a Memphis student abroad in the summer of 1961. The Junior Class (Seniors 1960-61) voted to be the school sponsor for the student.

Representatives attending the meeting stated their respective organizations wholeheartedly endorsed the project. The Memphis AFS committee is made up of a representative from the clubs and organizations of the town, the principal of the high school and the two 1960-61 Senior class sponsors.

Officers were elected at the meeting, and included Mrs. D. H. Aronofsky, president; Mrs. O. M. Cosby, Jr., secretary; Bill Leslie,

MHS Organizes Spring Sports

With the coming of spring weather, Memphis High students have begun to organize for their spring sports.

Track coach John Howle said he had 14 boys out for track, with the team working out Tuesday and Wednesday for the first time in several weeks.

Listed on the track team are: Tommie Tucker, Jerry Burnett, Robert Gardner, Lacy and Jerry Montgomery, Swayne McCauley, Eddie Jones, Jackie Bridges, Ernest Wilson, Wayne Leslie, Dale Sexton, Lonnie Widener, Bunky Adecock, Don Watts and Thomas Snowdon.

Coach Howle said Snowdon is the newest addition to the squad, drawing his workout clothes Wednesday. Snowdon, a senior, decided to come out for track Tuesday. Coach Howle did not know exactly what events the boys will be competing in, since he has had very little chance of seeing the boys work out.

"We will have some weight men, and run two relays, the sprint and the mile," Howle said, "but I haven't picked out which men will run in which spot yet."

Coach Bob Martin, tennis coach, said that he felt the tennis team would have a better season than

Scouts Of Troop 35 To Collect Papers

It was decided Monday night at Scout Troop 35 meeting that members would begin collecting old newspapers.

The purpose of the collection is for the troop to raise funds for trips in the summer, scout leaders said.

"If anyone has any old newspapers they wish to dispose of, they can call me and I will help the scouts pick them up," Homer Tribble said.

it did last year. "We have the same members back again this year," he said.

The team breakdown follows: Betty Gidden and Trilby Townsend, girls doubles, (no girls singles as yet); boys doubles, Sam Goodnight and Reggie Curry (first team), and Perry Wright and Garland Moore (second team). The boys singles player will be decided with a playoff of the boys in the doubles teams.

Two men are back from last year's golf team. Coach Clinton Voyles said that the four boys out for the team are Dick Morgan, Jimmy Winters, Charles Massey, and Don Deaver. Deaver and Morgan were on the team last year.

'Don't Forget Our Agricultural Income' Representative Ehrle Warns Rotarians

State Representative Will Ehrle this week warned Memphis Rotarians to look first to our present major industry—Agriculture—in addition to attracting additional industries.

"Neither the State nor Federal governments can guarantee any small town an additional industry," Ehrle said.

Representative Ehrle spoke at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday at noon. Club president John Fowler announced to those present that there was only one member absent, which was one of the best attended meetings the organization has had.

Consequently, let's look to our great agricultural industry in this area for our survival," Ehrle said. "Don't be against a farm program just because it's called a 'subsidy.' An adequate farm program for the nation will mean thousands, perhaps millions of dollars in the pockets of Memphis business. In addition to helping the farmers, they in turn can buy more automobiles, more clothes, and spend more money.

"Thus, the present inadequate farm program is costing the merchants of Memphis money right out of their pockets," Ehrle concluded.

The above quotation was the conclusion of Ehrle's talk. He had discussed the importance of taking an active part in politics, and the things the state government has been doing to help obtain industry for the state. Also he discussed the establishment of the Texas Water Development Board and the fact that the state will underwrite one-third of the cost of building dams.

300 Attend PCA Stockholders Meet

About 300 stockholders and guests attended the Memphis Production Credit Association stockholders' meeting here Saturday, March 5.

Twenty-five per cent of the Association's stockholders attended in spite of ice and snow on the roads over much of the nine-county territory.

Highlighting the meeting was a talk by Dr. Virgil T. Lee, noted economist and after dinner speaker from Houston. Dr. Lee commented on economic conditions and credit problems in the early days of the association.

Directors L. W. Bartlett of Loco and John E. Glover of Childress were elected to the Board. Other directors include J. C. Emmert of Wellington, W. C. McClendon of Paducah, and W. W. George of Turkey.

The stockholders voted to accept a new type of credit life insurance program which was explained at the meeting.

Local stockholders barbecued a beef for the occasion, and supervised the serving of the noon luncheon.

Mrs. Bertha Gore, Pioneer Estelline Resident, Dies Sat.

Mrs. Bertha V. Gore, 79, long-time county resident and well-known Estelline citizen, died Saturday, March 5, at her home in Estelline.

Mrs. Gore owned and operated the Estelline Insurance Agency, and for many years had served as tax collector for the City of Estelline and the Estelline School District.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday from the First Methodist Church with Rev. W. O. Rucker, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Hulver Cemetery under the direction of Spicer Funeral Home.

Mrs. Gore, the former Bertha V. Carwater, was born Sept. 27, 1880, in Knoxville, Tenn. She moved to Hall County with her parents in 1893 and the family located near Estelline.

She was married to S. Alfred (Continued on Page Ten)

Choice B Allotment Deadline Set For Next Wednesday

Minimum sales prices for Commodity Credit Corporation stocks of upland cotton have been determined for the 1960-61 marketing year, according to Joe C. Montgomery, chairman, Hall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The new sales prices are intended to emphasize farmers' marketings. The announcement at this time will provide farm operators with information on CCC's sales prices before the March 16 deadline for electing Choice (B) allotments and price support for the 1960 crop.

For 1959 and prior crops of upland cotton in CCC inventory, the new minimum sales price will be higher of (1) the market price as per cent of the 1960 Choice (B) determined by CCC, or (2) 115 loan rate. (This compares with the current 110 per cent of the loan rate.)

For 1960-crop cotton, the minimum sales price is as follows: When the cotton is sold by local sales agencies, the minimum sales price will be 110 per cent of the Choice (B) loan rate; when the cotton is sold by the New Orleans CSS Commodity office, the minimum sales price will be higher of (1) the market price as determined by CCC, or (2) 110 per cent of the Choice (B) loan rate.

Montgomery pointed out that carrying charges will be added to the sales price, beginning with 10 points in October 1960, and increasing 20 points per month for each month thereafter to a maximum of 190 points in July 1961. The current monthly increase for carrying charges is 15 points per month for each month after October 1959.

Phillip Duncan tied for 13th place out of a field of 114 boys in the beef cattle division of the contest.

In the Greenbelt District Contest which is held in connection with the contest the local team placed fourth.

In the beef cattle division of the contest on the District level, Duncan was the high individual. Jerry Montgomery was 6th high individual in Swine judging on the district level.

Plans Progress For Scout Jubilee Circus

It was announced this week that Scout Jubilee Circus plans are progressing nicely.

"If you have never seen a Scout Circus, you will have an opportunity March 24 when the three Memphis troops and the Hedley troop join forces to present a real 'spectacular' of color and performance," a spokesman said.

The Scout Jubilee Circus will have clowns and Indians, square dancing, pretty girls on parade, blackface comedy and Cub Scout capers.

Roy Currin, aided and abetted by the other Scout leaders, is busy with detail planning of the production. Ted Myers and Joe Williams, scoutmasters, will supervise the decorations and Scoutmaster Boaz Stotts with the Hedley boys will spice the show with blackface comedy and song.

Mrs. Ben Oliver is contributing her time and talent by coaching a bevy of beautiful girls who will parade as Calendar Girls.

Votes are being cast this week for the six candidates for Circus Queen. A penny vote is the rule. Pennies can be placed in jars located at Tarver-Stanford Drug, Fowlers Drug, Durham Pharmacy, Foster Food Market, Coleman's Grocery, Memphis Grocery, Tribble Cleaners and The Cyclone Cafe. Candidates are Celia Leslie, Sara Jo Foxhall, Neita Gayle Reed, Katie Phillips, Jone Ward and Teresa Beckham.

Tickets are on sale at 50 and 25 cents for the show, which will be held the night of March 24 in the High School Gymnasium.

The money made by the Circus will be divided equally between the Scout troops.

Poff Is Manager Of Vumore Co. Here

J. L. Poff, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Poff of Elk City, Okla., moved here recently to take over management of Vumore Co.

He is a graduate of Elk City High School and attended Wichita Technical Institute, Wichita Kan. Poff replaced Floyd Barton, who has been transferred to Oklahoma City.

Other employees at the office are Stanton Trimble, service man, a 1959 graduate of Wellington high school, and Mrs. Louise Crow, bookkeeper.

annual Red Cross campaign under way, and Roy Currin announces the quota for Hall County is $12,000. Only about $1,000 has been contributed so far. The work of the Red Cross is too well known for any special information to be needed to make up his mind on the worthiness of the cause. Part of the Hall County Cross funds will be kept in county to aid those who are in need of such services. "We have volunteers who will do what we can to contact people for donations, and we need many more. Whether you may be contacted or not, why not mail a card today? Let's put Hall County on top for the Red Cross," Currin urges.

Spring almost sprang here this morning. The sun came out, the moon glared at night, all but a touch of mildew. All of a sudden people feel that the winter has been a prolonged spell of winterish weather. However, it will not have sufficiently long for 10 days yet, and no one dare predict we will not have more freezing weather. Since it comes this year at a late date of April 17, we may expect weather after Spring has begun.

With plenty of moisture, flowers feel like doing a lot of folkering as warm days arrive, but old bear in mind only hardy seeds have a chance to sprout in face of more cold weather. It is a good time right to prepare seed beds, do a lot of cleaning up around the house, and have things ready at the time comes to plant.

Some civic clubs of Memphis are about 200 cups and saucers Travis Cafeteria just before annual banquet of the chamber of commerce. Even after that men had to go over town collect chairs, tables, etc. for affair, then had to take them to their respective owners. Also, last Saturday the Memphis Production Credit Association held the annual meeting at the school building, and served a buffet style in the gymnasium. Meal was well prepared, but diners had to do without tablecloths while eating. Since Memphis is the home office of the association, the officers decided to have meeting here this year. For years the meetings had been held in Wellington because the facilities offered at the county building. Well, Memphis is steadily growing in spite of the hold-backers. Is it out of our power to suggest that Memphis needs a community building? It thought we had forgotten it?

Mrs. Bertha Gore of Estelline, passed away Saturday, and Wells were roommates (a many years ago) when they attended Goodnight College.

Anyone should tell you that on Baldwin, president of the County Picnic Association, doing anything about making plans for this year's 70th anniversary of Hall County celebration. He walks, talks, dreams, eats, and at his job in the store with mind full of ideas for the celebration. So, Jett Fore, get that arm around up to wield the long sticks at the celebration.

This world does not have an unlimited amount of space for the limited amount of people. The nature have a statute of limitation. There are those who use to ignore them for which we have to pay.—So says a statement to The Democrat written by William R. Sullivan, 1116 Flower, Los Angeles 15, Calif.

The annual Azalea Trail of the Oaks Garden Club of Houston has been redated, due to the above-normal temperatures retarding the blooming of flowers that area. The new dates are Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20; and Saturday and Sunday, March 26 and 27. The Saturday tours will be held at 2 p. m. and the Sunday tours will be at 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. Several have made inquiries as to dates, and we cite the above time one may see beautiful Azaleas, and many other flowers in gardens, as well as some outstanding homes in the River Oaks section of Houston. The Azalea tour in Houston is well worth a long way to take.

About Your HEALTH

This year is already shaping up as a bad one for measles, but the state health officials aren't surprised.

This is stated to be the "big" year, since 1956 was comparatively mild with only 27,000 cases reported for the entire 12 month period.

Texas' first case of Hansen's disease (leprosy) for 1958 has been reported to the State Health Department.

Communicable disease specialists say Hansen's disease is only mildly communicable from person to person...

Most cases occur in the tropics and sub-tropics. China and India have about half the estimated world total of 3-4 million cases.

State Health Department radiation engineers this week began a survey of dental x-ray equipment in use by Rio Grande Valley dentists.

The project calls for a team of radiation specialists from the department's division of occupational health to make a systematic examination of x-ray machines...

Dr. Kenneth Tourmond, chairman TDA council on dental health, said the survey is "a service we feel will be encouraging to dentists and their patients."

Certificates of radiation safety will be given for office display when x-ray machines are found to be safe and under proper operation, survey sponsors said.

Other TDA areas scheduled for immediate study are the Guadalupe Valley, San Angelo, and Northeast Texas Districts.

Diseases in nature transmitted to humans will come under two days of intense technical scrutiny March 17-18 in the auditorium of the State Department of Health.

This is the tenth consecutive year the highly regarded scientific event has been held. It is sponsored by the department, the Texas Animal Disease Commission, the University of Texas, Texas A&M, and Baylor University School of Medicine.

Diet is one of the most important aspects of maintaining good health among aged persons, in the opinion of Dr. H. E. Smith, chief of preventative medicine at the State Department of Health.

In general older persons require more protein in their diets and many need to increase their vitamin intake — especially vitamin C, abundant in citrus fruits.

Dr. Smith observed that getting oldsters to eat enough at night is a major dietary problem. He said anyone caring for elderly persons should make sure their charges get a substantial evening meal.

Dr. Smith's comments were

...adults by the thousands going back to school this year. Their object: to learn what nuclear warfare could mean to the country and what they can do to better their chances of surviving.

...Texas Education Agency and State Division of Defense and other Relief are co-sponsors of civil defense adult education program. Since the program got underway late last year, 2,816 persons over the state have taken free 12-hour course. Another 66 persons are attending 66 classes now in progress, and 150 classes are due to begin this month.

...classes are held at public schools and taught by public school and junior college teachers who have been trained and certified by TEA's civil defense division.

...new teacher training shops are scheduled within next few weeks. Eventual goal is to have civil defense classes in every Texas community.

...course material ranges from the effects of a nuclear attack to probable capabilities of nuclear powers to step-by-step instructions for personal survival.

...persons interested in having the use in their communities may contact their local school superintendent or write Civil Defense Education Director, Texas Education Agency, Austin.

SESSION BEFORE PRIMARY — Gov. Price Daniel said he will not call a special legislative session to raise teacher pay until May 7 — the first primary ...conferences with lawmakers convinced him, said the governor, that there is no hope of a successful session during the coming weeks.

...however, the governor said he will call a session after the May primary or submit the school improvement program as an emergency measure at the 1961 regular session. If he waits until 1961, he said he would recommend increased program to make up money lost by delay.

...many observers have noted that special session after the first election would pose many problems. As much as 25 to 30 percent of the House could be made up of "lame ducks"—per...sons retiring from office or defeated at the polls. Incumbent legislators with run-off races would not want to leave their home districts to come to Austin.

Teachers would prefer to have the matter submitted at a special session. Regular session rules require that the budget be provided for before a new spending can be considered. Last year approval of the budget was just about the last thing before adjournment.

ACCIDENT STUDY — A new study indicates that motor vehicles and heart attacks or similar difficulties were involved in more than half of Texas' fatal industrial accidents in the last fiscal year.

Industrial Accident Board reported on an analysis of 23,000 accident claims. In the group studied, it found that fatal accidents were most often connected with motor vehicles, 28 per cent; heart disease, 26 per cent; slips and falls, 10 per cent; striking or being struck by an object, 7 per cent.

Altogether, in the last fiscal year, the Board processed claims resulting from 195,000 non-fatal accidents and 497 deaths.

Annual cost of industrial accidents is estimated at $500,000,000 a year. Board plans to make accident analysis every year to gain information for planning improvement programs.

UTILITY PAYMENTS AVAILABLE — Cities and private utility companies can now get reimbursement for money spent moving utility lines to make way for new interstate highways.

State Highway Commission said it is now ready to begin making payments under a law that held constitutional by the State Supreme Court earlier this year.

Cost of the utility moving, as well as construction costs for the interstate system, comes 90 per cent from federal funds and 10 per cent from state funds.

"Battle Border"
Little known facts about Texas boundaries.

(Editor's Note: This is the 9th in a series of articles outlining the numerous boundary conflicts dating back to 1716, pointing up little known facts which shaped the Texas of today.)

That pink granite giant — the State Capitol Building — stands in Austin as an indirect, unplanned monument to another Texas-New Mexico boundary dispute.

The state swapped the capitol building contract for three million acres along the Texas-New Mexico boundary.

The logical starting place for the survey was the northwestern corner of Texas. But where was the northwest corner?

On paper, the Compromise of 1850 said the top of the Panhandle was the parallel line of 36 degrees, 30 minutes. To the west it was set at the 103rd meridian as it ran north and south. Ostensibly the northwest corner was where these lines met.

However, it wasn't easy to locate these things on the good earth.

...Texas' governor E. M. Pease appointed Commissioners William R. Scurry, representing Texas, and John H. Clark, U. S. Representative, to mark the boundary between Texas and the territory of the United States.

They were working east along the 32nd parallel, north latitude when they got into a political argument, the North vs. the South. The Texans got so mad they quit the camp.

Clark and party proceeded with the survey, going north along the 103rd meridian to a point he thought to be the northwest corner. He dug a circle in the ground, placing a large cedar post in the middle.

Then he turned southward to a point above the Canadian river where he had camped the winter before. Before he could finish that survey the Greer County controversy flared anew and he left the 103rd meridian for the troubled 100th meridian.

In the meantime a survey of over 5,000,000 acres of land in Dallas, Hartley, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Lamb, Bailey, Cochran and Hockley counties was made so the Capitol builders could pick up their three million acres.

The Capitol Company dispatched Col. A. C. Babcock to Texas to make an on-the-ground inspection. The colonel proved to be a real dude, traveling to Buffalo Spring in a four mule "ambulance," bringing his own canned food delicacies. He refused to eat anything fixed by the camp cook because he used cow chips for fuel.

"The colorful colonel left his mark on the country. Cow chips became known as 'Bobcock Coal' in the high plains country," Wilson said.

Babcock found two monuments — Clark's and the one made by U. S. surveyors Richard O. Chaney and William W. Smith when they were doing work in the territory north of the Panhandle.

In the event the Chaney-Smith location should be established as the correct 103rd meridian, the ownership of the strip of territory two miles wide and 310 miles long would jump from Texas to New Mexico.

However, to the vast relief of Texans, Clark's lines were confirmed by an Act of Congress in 1891.

Then other trouble jumped up. The line drawn by Clark was one-half mile west of the true 103rd meridian. Clark had first started his line on the south, stopped, and began anew from the north.

The two lines would never meet if projected from there to eternity. The New Mexico constitutional ...convention in 1910 raised a howl of protest and tried fast, sly footwork. They said the eastern boundary was not on the true 103rd meridian and laid claim to the land between the two lines.

In the act of admitting New Mexico to statehood there was buried in fine print a leeper clause that set New Mexico's eastern boundary at the true 103rd meridian.

The Capitol Company and the powerful XIT ranch mounted defense that proved disastrous to the claims of New Mexico. John V. Farwell was a college chum of U. S. President William Hartley Taft. He briefed Taft on the history of the boundary dispute and Taft decided "it was an outrage for New Mexico to attempt to get this land from Texas."

Congress passed a point resolution in 1911 making null and void this sleeper in the New Mexican constitution.

As writer J. Evette Haley says: "The old school tie had really helped."

This same resolution authorized the President to act in conjunction with Texas and set up the Scott-Cockrell commission to re-mark the boundary between the state and the territory on the line run by Clark for the 103rd meridian to the southeast corner of New Mexico, and then west with the 32nd parallel to the Rio Grande.

This was done. Texans figured that finally their border was pegged down with New Mexico. They were wrong.

Friendship Class Enjoys Coffee In Foxhall Home

A morning coffee was held in the home of Mrs. Frank W. Foxhall on Tuesday morning for the Friendship Class of the First Methodist Church with Mrs. W. W. Linville, Mary Lee Mabry, Mrs. Lee Brown, Mrs. L. G. DeBerry, Mrs. John Fowler, Mrs. N. A. Hightower, Mrs. Mildred Stephens, Mrs. M. G. Tarver, class members attending.

A brief program concerning a Christian's feelings toward Lent and preparation for Lent was presented.

Mrs. Brown spoke briefly on Lent as a proper time of anticipation for Easter, as Advent is the anticipation of Christmas. In the liturgical churches, the passion of Christ is not mentioned in the prayers until Palm Sunday. Many Christians find this a good time to re-read all of the old scriptures of the gospels in their entirety.

"In the fifth century a Methodist preacher said 'a time of resolution and search for inner purification and sanctification, a time to discard sinful habits (not just during Lent) and to emphasize the virtues of the Christian life, a time to give of our talents and our money in the service of God's work, a time for reconciliation with God and our fellow man,'" she concluded.

A Lenten Meditation by Louise Way Eggleston was presented by Mrs. Stephens. She said "Jesus was able to reveal to the world God's infinite love, power, wisdom, and other unlimited resources."

"Jesus teaches us that we, also, can live according to God's direction and guidance."

She went on to explain that proper thinking can have great effect on the health, happiness, love, helpfulness for a health-giving energy.

In closing she said, "God is calling us today to greater dedication and more disciplined living than we have ever known. Ours is the opportunity of proving Christ's power great enough to meet the crucial challenges before us. Are we ready to take the steps necessary to become more like him?"

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Currin of Amarillo visited here Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Currin and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Gibson.

Mrs. J. C. Rogers, who broke her hip in a fall, is now in Amarillo where she underwent surgery last Saturday. She is reported to be doing nicely.

Mrs. Lloyd Martin Crew Leader for 1960 Census

Mrs. Wilma L. Martin has been appointed crew leader for Hall County for the 1960 Census of Population and Housing, it was announced today by District Supervisor Clyde Cook of the Census Bureau's temporary district office in Amarillo.

Mrs. Martin will supervise about 100 enumerators in the big national census which begins April 1. Crew leader training began Tuesday for rural crew leaders and their city counterparts will be in training on March 14.

Topics to be covered in the training session include procedures for recruiting of census takers, training their census takers, and methods, preparation and submission of reports, and the revision of census takers to insure a complete and accurate count, Cook said.

Mrs. Martin is one of the people in the field operations of the 1960 Census of Population and Housing. It is his responsibility to recruit and train the census takers; plan and allocate work assignments; review the work of the census takers and take remedial action where necessary, and to solve problems of difficult enumeration, Cook concluded.

Take Time Out To Meet Your Game Warden

"It is unfortunate that some persons never meet a game warden until they are involved in some difficulty," writes H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, in an editorial entitled "His Work — Our Wealth," in the February issue of the agency's official publication. "It is just as unfortunate that so many persons never get to meet a game warden at all."

In the February issue of Texas Game and Fish Magazine, a picture of the local game warden, Walter D. Hicks, appears on page 19, along with all the other game warden supervisors.

"Basically," writes Dodgen, "the warden's job was created to enforce game laws passed by your legislature. This still is a very important part of their daily chores. Now, however, he has another part of the job which he likes. He has become a disciple of the great outdoors. He is a walking encyclopedia of information on how to hunt and fish, and where. He must know the multiplicity of laws that govern the ownership, control, and harvest of wildlife."

"Your game warden is your neighbor. He wants to take part in your civic club activities; he will pass the collection plate in your church, or serve as a scout master, or provide motion pictures and talks for the garden club and the P. T. A. on the subject of conservation or wildlife appreciation. "He will be one of the first on hand to fight a forest fire or to search for the lost or drowned," he continues.

"Your game warden is not perfect nor is he a saint," concluded the executive. "But he is a dedicated man who is doing his best at his job, and with your help he'll do it better. Get acquainted with him."

Soil Conservation News

Soil and Water Conservation

Many farmers and ranchers who live in the Hall County Soil Conservation District have developed and are applying complete soil and water conservation plans to their farm or ranch. Recently completing new plans are James R. Irby, Turkey; Lee Scrivner, Turkey; John Bass, Memphis; and Robert L. Clark, west of Memphis.

A complete farm and ranch plan is the way that a farmer or rancher, truly wanting to do a conservation job, will go about it. It is a plan laid out by him for future years of the conservation jobs that need to be applied to the land. It sets up a time table of projects so as to get the most out of the time and materials spent (and of course any money spent).

It gives the operator a goal to work toward, knowing that when he has reached it he will have accomplished something worthwhile and something worthy of his best as an owner of agricultural land. Also a soil and water plan brings the reasons behind each step that is taken.

Then when you, as a farmer or rancher, have the finished product together with all of the parts fitted together for the best in land protection and efficiency that are known today — both from a scientific and experience standpoint — you have a complete soil and water conservation plan.

If you are interested in developing a soil and water conservation plan for your farm or ranch or revising your old plan the Soil Conservation employee will be glad to assist you in any way possible.

Vehicle Inspection Is 50% Complete; Deadline April 15

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that more than two million motor vehicles remain to be inspected before the April 15 deadline. He urged all Texas motorists to obtain their new inspection stickers at an early date.

Garrison reported that more than 4,300,000 will be inspected in Texas this year. To date only about half that number have gone through inspection lines at some 4,400 inspection stations located throughout the state.

The DPS director pointed out that inspection stations cannot inspect vehicles during wet, rainy weather, a condition normally prevailing during late winter and early spring. To make sure every vehicle owner is able to obtain his 1960 inspection sticker in time, Garrison suggested that plans be made now to visit an inspection station, before inspection lines grow long.

A single large steel mill may require as much as 500 million gallons of water a day, enough to supply all normal daily requirements of a city of several million people.

Editorial

Higher Education: Is It Worth The Price?

The sentence above is the title of a pamphlet recently published by the Committee of Governing Boards of Texas State Colleges and Universities. It deals with the needs and increasing costs of higher education, and places the facts before the state's citizens.

Of primary interest to local people are the local schools and their facilities for instruction. During the past week, interest was focused upon education for boys and girls until they finish high school. The interest manifested by local patrons is commendable, and progress should be noted in the future.

Since all Texans have a stake in their 18 institutions of higher learning, they must recognize the need for paying an even greater amount into this particular category.

"We Texans are short-changing ourselves on higher education. At a time when the quality of our educational institutions is vital to our industrial growth and future prosperity, we are being penny-wise and million-dollar foolish." This is the opening paragraph of the charge made by The Committee. They go on to state that we have only a few colleges and universities rated "excellent" and none "superior." They base their argument for better higher education upon the change in the state's economy from agriculture and oil, to industry, and place emphasis upon the "growth factor."

The state's institutions are wholly owned by the people and subject directly to our decisions as taxpayers and citizens. We must decide what quality of education we expect them to provide and pay the necessary costs.

The report adds: "Basically our problem is one of money. We are trying to buy a top-quality product at bargain prices. We have steadfastly refused to face the economic facts of life in higher education. The only hope for improvement in the financial support for higher education lies in an informed citizenship and Legislature."

The committee recommends an increased appropriation of $12,000,000 a year will be required from the General Revenue for our 18 academic institutions. About $4,000,000 of this will be required to finance enrollment increases, leaving $8,000,000 for improved quality.

The following concludes the report to Texas citizens: "This will cost every taxpayer money — for each Texan less than the price of three packs of cigarettes or one movie admission in a year. All of us who believe this extra cost of quality is a sound investment, must see to it that other Texans are acquainted with the facts — and be willing to pay our part."

"Most Texans recognize that you get about what you pay for in education, just as you do in business. Once they know the actual cost of quality — and the price we are paying for the lack of it — there is no question as to the decision Texans will reach on this most important matter."

Voice Of Pitchman

Anastas Mikoyan, the Soviet Union's traveling pitchman, told Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro the other day that he's on the right track. He complimented him on having learned so quickly, in his first year in office, how to steal other people's property.

Whatever it is — farmland, factory, commercial enterprise—you seize it from the rightful owners without offering compensation. When the owners demand payment, you brand them as "enemies of the state." If foreign investments are involved, any call for a fair settlement can be labeled "interference by a foreign power."

Moscow has even carried the game further. On a spirit of phony goodwill, it opens "negotiations" for payment on things it seized or borrowed. Then, in return for such payment, it bargains for something more.

It's the old "two tens for a five" routine the Russians know so well.

Communism is a cloak for thievery. Mikoyan obviously hopes that Castro, having learned that game, may pick up other features of the "doctrine" almost as readily. Fidel has some pretty good Red tutors right at home.

Demand for Sales Tax?

The need for more taxes to support state government and have it operate all the matters of common welfare that we want the state to carry out will result in an increased demand for $65 million or so every year for the foreseeable future. So say those who are in touch with affairs political and economic. Indeed at this moment the state's need for more money is at the $85 million mark. To many people the only solution to the greater demand is the sales tax. Recently Fred Husbands, executive vice president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, told a Floydada audience that his organization sees no other solution, if the state's business climate is to be kept inviting to the people we want to help develop the state.

We can't see it. But you get out around the small business people and they'll tell you the cost of a sales tax, in addition to the tax itself, will add fantastically to the overall cost of doing business. One of the big costs of operating a business already is the time and energy consumed in keeping out of jail for failure to fill out the forms and remit to state or federal government. And in the states where a sales tax is in effect, what do they do about increasing costs of state government? The answer is, like in Arizona, the legislature meets and tacks on some more to the sales tax. Better stay away from that apparently easy way out to the tax problem. There ought to be a way and doubtless there is. The fact that "all the others" are doing it doesn't necessarily mean that a sales tax is wise.

About the Secretary of Agriculture

Doug Poe, the former Littlefield Press publisher, writes from Normal, Ill.:

"You made an interesting point the other day about Secretary Benson's new support price costing cotton farmers $7 a bale. But it appears that you may have let the old skintint off a lot easier than you might have.

"For instance, if the parity price idea represents justice at all, it would seem that 100 per cent of parity would be the just price. Yet Benson has continually requested Congress to give him authority to cut the percentage of parity which the government guarantees.

"If instead he had asked for 100 per cent supports, and if the Congress has agreed, then next year's support price would be 43.25 cents, or 10.82 cents more than the announced price. Looked at this way he is costing Lamb County farmers $54.10 a bale, or $9,467,500 on a 175,000 bale crop.

"But that is only half the story. His price is also costing tax payers and cotton consumers a lot of money too. If the rascal had asked for authority to discontinue the price support and acreage allotment altogether and if Congress had gone along, most everyone is agreed that the price consumers would pay for cotton would be substantially below 32.45 cents. Nobody knows how much lower. A frequently heard guess is "somewhere between 20 and 25 cents after the dust had settled." Now if it dropped only to 25 cents, it would represent a saving of 7.45 cents per pound for consumers and taxpayers. That's $36.25 a bale, or $6,343,750 a year for the Lamb County crop alone.

"What gives with this Benson character anyhow? The cotton price he has announced for this year will cost Lamb County farmers $9,466,500 and their customers $6,343,750 at the same time. And if he tries to reduce either of these figures, he will only raise the other.

"Man, this cat has gotta go! How did we ever let him get us into this mess anyway?"

Right there Doug makes a point that most everybody will go along with.

Benson's been in office seven years, and if he's a cat, then he must have used about seven of his nine lives.

He's working on his eighth now, so maybe he'll get out before somebody skins him.

The Shrinking Dollar

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports that the American dollar is worth less today than at any time in history.

During the current century alone, now just started on its sixtieth year, the purchasing power of that dollar has dropped from 100 cents to 29 cents — a loss of almost three quarters. And the value of savings, pensions and insurance has dropped accordingly — as great numbers of people who must live in whole or in part on fixed incomes have learned the hard way.

We can't change what has happened in the past. But we can learn from it, and make an honest effort to keep the dollar's worth from sliding still further down the hill. For instance, the Chamber calls upon Congress, in the current session, to keep the highway program on a pay-as-you-go basis; to oppose inflationary increases in the minimum wage; to remove artificial restrictions on the interest rate of government bonds; to avoid wasteful defense spending; and to eliminate unnecessary spending for public works, depressed areas, community facilities, veterans' benefits, and airport construction. This call is based on the inescapable fact that the greatest single force back of inflation is drunken-sailor federal spending. The Chamber also seeks to reduce monopolistic labor power, which is another important source of inflationary pressure.

Naturally enough, there will be wide differences of opinion over the details of such a program. But, those aside, something drastic must be done and done soon, if the dollar's worth does not become 15 cents, 10 cents, 5 cents and, ultimately, zero.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

is the best time to go fishing. The answer to that question is "anytime you can!"

However, many anglers get the idea that this fishing business is about the "solunar tables." They go by the "solunar tables" for example.

The name implies, the solunar tables into consideration relative positions of the sun and moon at the various hours of the day, and thereby "selects" the best time of the day for fishing.

The outdoorsmen will agree that the positions of the sun and moon will have some effect on the behavior of wildlife. But that's as much as they will agree on. They say that the waning moon is better for hunting—as well as for fishing. Others declare that the moon is true.

However, anyone who has spent time in the open knows that birds and fish are prompted to certain periods of the day or to move around and seek exercise or amusement.

The "scientific" fisherman watches such activity. When he sees a cow get up from her nap in a shady tree and start walking; or when a flight of birds suddenly comes wheeling when the clear air is at length filled with insects—he infers that fish are active too.

If you'd like to experiment, take the solunar table with you next time you go fishing, and observe whether, at the specified time, you see birds barking or see sheep and munch grass, or note mule kicking.

On the outdoor creatures behave, at one of the solunar periods, you ought to be in luck if you are in good fishing water and using the right method. There's bound to be something to it, or so many newspapers wouldn't be publishing solunar tables.

Actually, the solunar table is one of many guides to good fishing. You don't have to rely on it alone.

For example, some of the tackle manufacturers will supply you with a calendar which shows the days of the month when fishing is likely to be at its best. These calendars also are based on the moon's phases.

The solunar table and the fisherman's calendar are two indicators. But there are more.

One is the "rumor gauge." That is when you inquire of others as to whether or not the fish are biting. Rumors are worthwhile if reliable and timely.

Some fishing camps and tackle shop operators will tell you the fishing is fine when it isn't. They want to sell you equipment. Fortunately, most of these businessmen will give you factual information.

The rumor gauge is good only if you can evaluate the rumor accurately.

If you are at the lake and one of your buddies comes in with his limit of fish and he tells you exactly where and how he caught them—go to that spot as fast as possible.

What about barometric pressure? General consensus is that the barometer should be high or rising. Here's another place where you can get as technical as you like.

For example, let's assume that our fish are ten feet deep and the barometer is very low at 29.50. This means that the pressure on the fish is about 18.80 pounds per square inch. All of a sudden (which never happens) the barometer reading jumps to a very high 30.50. If the fish remain at ten feet, the pressure on them will increase half a pound per square inch. But if they rise to nine feet, the pressure will remain the same, because the fish compensate for the increased air pressure by reducing the water pressure, the latter being lower at higher water levels. See?

That's just to indicate how studious some of the sharpies can be.

Actually, a steady high, or rising barometer simply means that we can expect fair weather for awhile. If there is a weather reporter on your local radio or television station, check him for good indications about what weather to expect for the next couple of days.

A bright sky is considered best for fishing, generally. One that is beginning to be overcast ranks next. But there are so many variants here that it would take a week to cover all of them.

In case of doubt, settle for a clear, bright day. You've got at least half of the factors in your favor. Besides, it's more pleasant for you.

Air temperature should be mild for an optimum. But the water temperature is more important, because that's where the fish are. They go where its neither too hot nor too cold.

A black bass likes the same temperature you do: 60 to 70 degrees suits him just fine. If you want to be precise, test the temperature at various levels by lowering a thermometer into the water. It could very well pay you for the trouble.

Baptists To Show 'Captive Schools' Film Monday Nite

The Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church is sponsoring the showing of a widely-discussed movie on "captive schools" next Monday evening at 7 p. m. at the First Baptist Church, T. J. Bridges, president of the Brotherhood group, said.

Titled "Captured", the film, first ever to be made on the subject, tells of a family which moves to a town and finds the public school there run by a religious body.

Bridges said the movie is a semi-documentary based on court records in Missouri, New Mexico and other states where "captive schools" have existed. According to a recent survey made of 48 state boards of education, there are numerous public schools in 21 states, he said, employing at least 2,000 sectarian teachers dressed in the distinctive garb of their religion.

The film was produced by Protestants and other Americans united for separation of Church and State, a national organization headquartered in Washington, D. C.

The public is invited to see this film. There is no admission charge and no offering will be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur Anthony of Albuquerque, N. M. are visiting here this week with Mrs. Anthony's father, J. P. Montgomery at Lesley and in Memphis with friends.

Positive about being negative

Occasionally a customer asks us for some medication he's read about. And we must refuse him. The reason is that the particular medicine must be taken under a physician's supervision and is available only on prescription. This is a safeguard to your health. As your pharmacist, we suggest you see a physician if you feel you need potent medication. We'll be happy to fill his prescription. Till then, perhaps our greatest service is saying "No."
