Record Ginning Boosts County Totals To 23,577 This Week

Local Group Appears Before Highway Comm.

Several citizens of Hall and Collingsworth counties were in Austin Tuesday and Wednesday to meet with the Texas State Highway Commission to see about a highway project in Collingsworth County.

Making the trip from Hall County were: County Judge Tracy Davis, Chamber of Commerce President A. L. Gailey, C. of C. Manager Clifford Farmer, Clyde Milam, Paul Montgomery, Ott Bevers and Eddie Foxhall.

Going from Collingsworth County were: County Judge C. C. Bishop, Commissioners Jack Brewer,

A. F. Knoll, Pat O'Hair, W. R. Breeding, Farm Bureau President Fred Bourland and Tom Craibtree of Quail.

The project is the building of a hard-surfaced 12-mile road in Collingsworth County closing the unpaved gap on Route 1056 south of Quail to connect with Route 2166 at the Hall County line.

This would make a continuous paved north-south road from Lela Lake on U. S. 66 (Interstate 40) to Memphis on U. S. 287 and Texas 256, comprising a total of approximately 41 miles.

The second part of the project is to obtain a one-number designation to this route from Lela to Memphis. It now bears route numbers 1547, 1035, 1056 and 2166.

Project Data

"There now exists a direct, short-cut route from Lela on U. S. 66 in Wheeler County to Memphis on U. S. 287 and Texas 256 in Hall County, a distance of 41.8 miles, all of which is presently hard-surfaced with the exception of 12 miles between Quail and Memphis," the report stated.

"All of this unfinished mileage is in Collingsworth County, but when completed this route will serve the travel needs of a large area. It will be an important cross-over from U. S. 66 at Lela to highways fanning out from Memphis to the south and southwest, providing a new and shorter route from Western Oklahoma to the South Plains of Texas, representing a saving of 27 miles from Oklahoma City to Lubbock."

The report also points out that this road would provide a better market outlet for many farmers and stockmen, provide school children with better access to the three schools which serve this area, and better rural mail service.

The Commissioners Court of Collingsworth County on Oct. 12, 1960, went on record pledging support and cooperation with any group promoting a state highway through Collingsworth County. Wheeler, Hall, Motley and Briscoe have joined with Collingsworth and concur in the submitting of this project's application.

Foreign Students Give Program Before B&PW, Lions, Rotary Clubs Thursday

Approximately 80 members and guests of the Business and Professional Womens Club, Rotary Club and Lions Club were in attendance at a special luncheon program last Thursday.

The occasion was a foreign student program presented by three Wayland Baptist College students. Dean of Students Maurice J. Sharp introduced the three foreign students: Emmins Wilson, Jamaica; Lucy Kayo, Kenya, Africa; and Nora Au, Hong Kong, China.

Chairman of the program committee which brought this international relations program was Miss Tops Gilreath. Other committee members were Miss Inez Mason and Miss Joan Edwards.

Dean Sharp stated before turning the program over to the foreign students that Wayland Baptist College had 18 such students attending from countries throughout the world.

Miss Au of Hong Kong, a senior English major, was the first speaker. She started her talk by giving a little history of her homeland. Then she stated that in China the men are the rulers of the home, and the women stay at home and do the work.

Then, Miss Kayo of Kenya spoke on her native land. She said that few women in her country are educated. It was only in 1948 that the first high school for girls was opened. In 1956 was the first time that women began to compete with men in the business world.

She explained that every family had a garden, which was the woman's duty to tend. She explained that now, the largest field for women in her country was in the teaching profession. Approximately two-thirds of the teachers are women, she said. She also stated that in her tribe, the parents will not allow a daughter to marry until she is at least 25 years old.

Miss Wilson of Jamaica was the last speaker. She explained the history and the geographic size and location of the island, pointing out that Jamaica is English. The people speak English as their native language. The women are equal to the men in the business field as well as in the educational field. Schooling is in primary, secondary and university, she added.

She explained that normally it is the custom for a young woman to finish her college work before getting married. She said that they have a saying in Jamaica which states that the better educated, the better one can cook, sew, clean house, etc., the better husband the girl will be able to catch. She said that most girls get married when they are about 21 years old.

She concluded her talk by extending an invitation to visit her native island where everyone is treated the same.

According to a telephone survey of county gins Wednesday morning, ginning figures climbed to 23,577 bales this week. County gins, running around the clock, were able to turn out 7,557 bales in the six-day period since last week's report.

This is record-setting ginning for the county. At this six-day period last year, county gins were able to process 6,677 bales.

At this time last year, 36,373 bales had been ginned which was only 10,000 bales shy of the final figure of 46,171.

The 23,577 figure is slightly over one-third of what the county is expected to produce this year. Estimates to date are running in the neighborhood of 60,000 bales.

According to several gin managers, crews will work straight through the Thanksgiving holiday, to try and keep up with the harvest.

Farmers have begun to run strippers in their fields, which will speed up the harvesting of the crop. If the favorable weather holds, next week should prove to be one of the largest gathering weeks the county has seen.

According to A. E. Anthony, officer in charge of the USDA Cotton Classing office here, the seven classes are averaging about 4,300 samples per day, and are approximately three days behind.

Tuesday, the Classing Office had processed 74,212 samples so far this year. Anthony stated that the classers would work straight through Thanksgiving Thursday in order to try and keep up.

Anthony said that last year the office here processed 174,000 samples. It is expected that the 1960 figure will be higher.

During the week ending Nov. 18, the classing office processed 21,005.

Last week's results of classing are: white, 6 per cent middling; 1 per cent strict low middling; 13 per cent strict low middling; 4 per cent low middling; 3 per cent low middling; light spotted, 10 per cent strict (Continued on Page Ten) with comparable statistics for 1954. Many of these will be covered, however, for those desiring the complete report, it may be obtained for 10 cents from the Bureau of Census, Washington 25, D. C.

Explanation of Report
This report presents figures for the Census of Agriculture taken in the fall of 1959, together with comparable data for the 1954 census of agriculture. Figures for 1959 are preliminary and subject to revision.

Data for the number of farms and inventory of equipment and livestock relate to approximately November of each Census year, while production data relate to the entire crop year of 1959 or 1954. Data on sales of farm products and expenditures relate to the calendar year of 1959 or 1954.

Most of the data shown in the report was obtained by tabulating data for all farms in the county. However, for items marked with a star on the report, the data are estimates made for all farms upon the basis of tabulation of data for a sample of approximately one-fifth of all farms. These estimates are subject to sampling errors and will not agree exactly with totals obtained by the tabulation of data for all farms.

Farms, Acreage, and Value
The number of farms in 1959 were listed as 601 while in 1954 there were 747. Acres of land in farms for 1959 included 638,300 while in 1954 it was 489,735. Average size of farms in 1959 was 1,062.1 acres while in 1954 it was 655.6 acres.

Under "land in farms according to use," the report lists 142,210 acres in 1959 (172,919 in 1954) used for cropland harvested; Cropland used for pasture only, listed 23,597 in 1959 and 25,053 in 1954; Cropland not harvested and not pastured lists 56,308 in 1959 and 28,340 acres in 1954, a considerable increase in the 5-year period.

Irrigated land in farms listed 96 farms in 1959 having irrigation as compared to 10 in 1954. The report gives 10,366 acres under irrigation on the 96 farms, while on the 10 farms in 1954 only 774 acres were under irrigation.

Farm Operators
All of the farm operators are white according to the report. By tenure: 191 of the 601 operators have full ownership of their farms. In 1954 249 of the 747 farm operators had full ownership.

The report indicates that 189 farm operators have part ownership and three are managers. In 1954, 181 had part ownership and there was one manager. The 218 remaining farm operators are tenants. In 1954 the report shows that there were 316 tenants. The proportion of tenancy percentage-wise for the two years show that in 1959, 36.3 per cent were tenants, and in 1954, 42.3 per cent were tenants.

The average of all farm operators in 1959 were 50.8 while in 1954 it was 48.1 years. There were 78 farm operators 65 or more years of age in 1959. In 1954 there were 84.

In 1959 there were 376 farm operators residing on their farms while in 1954 there were 592. This leaves 172 not residing on the farm they operated, while in 1954 there were 150.

Of the 232 farmers reporting they had jobs other than their farm work, 98 stated that these jobs were of longer than 100-day duration during the year 1959. In 1954, 246 farmers had jobs outside their farm work, and 127 reported jobs of greater than 100-day duration.

Fifty-eight farmers reported that the family had other income exceeding the value of their farm products sold. In 1954 there were 100 such farm families.

Atalantean Club Hears Review By Mrs. H. Howell

Members of the Atalantean Club met in the home of Mrs. J. A. Odom with Mrs. A. H. Norman as co-hostess on Nov. 16.

The invocation was given by Mrs. L. E. Barrett.

The business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. W. Coppedge.

The program was introduced by Mrs. Eddie Foxhall. The subject for study was "Treasures of Gold" portraying "Homelife". Mrs. J. H. Howell reviewed the book, "The Lovely Ambition", by Mary Ellen Chase. She used colored illustrations on a chart to make the story more vivid.

In the review, Mrs. Howell stated, "From the quiet English Methodist Parish where he found his vocation to the Maine seacoast village where it led him, John Tillard's life was ruled by the 'lovely ambition' to show God's mercy at work among men. His boundless charity and hospitality were sometimes almost more than his devoted, high-spirited wife could bear. There were even times when Mary, the oldest child, wondered what Father would ever find to do in Heaven. But for the twins, as they were transported from the Old World to the New, life was brimful of excitement and surprise."

Local PTA Leaders Attend Annual Convention in Austin Last Week

Mrs. D. H. Aronofsky, Mrs. Bob Douthit and Mrs. J. L. Bates returned Friday from Austin where they attended the 51st annual convention of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers. Approximately 4000 delegates and visitors were in Austin for the three-day meeting, which opened on Nov. 16 and continued through Nov. 18.

Mrs. T. W. Whaley of Kosse, state president, presided, assisted by Mrs. M. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, first state vice president, and Mrs. F. C. McConnell of Austin, second state vice president. Governor Price Daniel brought greetings seeking continued support of PTA and interest of the Hale-Aiken program. He stated Texas ranks 34th in positions and standards of teachers' salaries.

The theme "Homes Create Community Strength Through Character Development," was developed in pageant form by pupils of the Austin public schools, and was stressed in addresses, panels and workshops.

Dr. Calvin H. Reed of the University of Nevada at Reno, national chairman of parent and family life education, was the National Congress representative. In his talk, he pointed out living in the future will be more difficult and will require a higher degree of competency on the part of the children than living today.

A convention highlight was an address on "What's Right With Families Today" by Dr. Evelyn Millis DuVall of Chicago, noted author, lecturer and family life consultant.

Col. John A. Power of the Space Task Force, Langley Field, Va., was in charge of a program on "Challenge of the Space Age." He discussed this nation's accomplishments to date in the Space Age and emphasized the lack of money to advance fast enough.

Afterwards, a panel composed of Dr. Reed, Mrs. Danforth, Dr. Irby Carruth, superintendent of the Austin public schools, and Mrs. Lucile J. Martin of San Antonio, state chairman of education for family living, discussed "The Family in the Aero-Space Age."

One afternoon was taken up with "Ages and Stages" workshops, directed by Dr. C. H. Dent of the University of Texas and state chairman of workshops. Emphasis was upon basic human needs and characteristics of various groups with implications for the PTA.

Dr. John Keltner of St. Louis, Mo., was moderator of a panel titled, "Let's Listen," composed of pupils from five Austin schools. He also assisted with the workshops, with audience participation and in a summary of the convention with Drs. Dent and Reed.

Other features included organ music; assembly singing; reception for delegates; open house at the Governor's Mansion, state capitol, and state PTA office; a cultural arts program by the University of Texas; greetings from PTA and school officials; reports; luncheons recognition of special guests; presentation of membership, life membership and parent-teacher magazine awards and life membership breakfast.

Representative, 18th Congressional District Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS

The Dark Continent

No area on the face of the earth today presents more of a question mark than the burgeoning, teeming continent of Africa. To most of us, the territory has presented an impression for many years of a place where our missionaries work and endure untold hardships, and a place overrun with wild animals and primitive peoples. In a manner of speaking, it is difficult for some of us to realize the continent is assuming a position of such importance that its present and future determinations could spell the difference in the concepts of freedom or slavery in other parts of the world. This situation was brought about by the fact that the granting of independence and the privilege of self-determination for virtually all the countries of the continent, starting in 1957 when Britain granted independence to Ghana. From this point a great wave of nationalism has asserted itself in every political subdivision of Africa. Certainly no one who believes in the dignity of the individual in a democracy would deny this right to any country or group of countries. Their status of readiness and ability for self-government is what poses the tremendous question in the world today. Let us look at some of the factors which contribute to the riddle.

The continent is almost four times as large as the continental United States. Because it is impossible to traverse some parts of the continent, it is difficult to accurately assess the population, which is estimated to be something over 220,000,000 people. Literacy is also difficult to assess, but it is assumed that approximately 95 per cent of the people cannot read or write. There are more than 700 languages spoken on the continent, very few of which are written at all.

The continent is rich in abundant natural resources which are principally unexploited because of the lack of capital and of the lack of a qualified labor force. The natives generally eat adequately, although their diet is unbalanced and erratic. Although the countries of Ethiopia, Liberia, and the Union of South Africa, and the United Arab Republic have known independence for some time, most of the African countries did not experience it until the past decade, and the bulk of them in 1960. Despite the fact that each African country has an established boundary, the chief political divisions are tribal, and the tribe is the dominant factor in African life. Their food, shelter, and welfare are sought tribally. Food is obtained principally from hunting forays, although a few of the nomadic tribes do a small amount of cultivation and raise small herds.

In a sense, the prospect of independence is incomprehensible to the African mind, and there was considerable belief that independence would automatically solve the majority of their problems. It is difficult for the average native to understand the benefits and problems of working in a society and they cannot be employed for any length of time to become stable. Their transactions were once almost entirely by payment in kind, but have come to be principally cash, which they have little idea how to accumulate or earn. Employers have come to adopt a system they call "target employment", i.e., they hire a man to do a job where the payment will be not necessarily a certain wage or amount of cash, but whatever amount the native needs to purchase his current need. Presumably a man who wishes to buy a horse could hire out and end up chopping 40 acres of cotton in exchange, never knowing the value of his horse or of his work.

The most valuable commodity in Africa is education and one who possesses even a small amount of it is automatically set above his brothers and, in a manner of speaking, is marked for leadership. To me, this is a hopeful sign and I trust it points the way toward the future to the end that intelligent, enlightened leadership culminates in the prized right of self-assertion in democracy. Should these newborn nations hitch their wagons to the red star of communism, the tragic results would be obvious.

House and Katie of Turkey, Jackie Blum and my and Jackie Jr. of Lakeview, Mike and Ricky, Mr. and Mrs. Maddox and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore and Larry, Odell Gilchrist, Hooser and Vicky, Susan, Virginia, Virginia Brown, Mrs. Elmont Branigan and Betty and Lowell Houston and Sammy, all of Memphis.

MINUTE MEDITATION

O Lord, we thank thee for the good earth and for abundant prosperity.

We thank thee for our land and country where our faith fought, bled and died.

For the liberty of thought, the freedom of speech, the right to worship according to conscience, we are eternally grateful.

Let every Christian declare eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man.

Holy Father, we thank thee for the truth of Jesus Christ which has made us free.

May we speak it again and again with every variation of the theme, that our God given freedoms may never perish from the face of the earth. Through Christ the Lord.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Friends of Memphis and the County of Hall:

Two events in history—two events in life to meet all people that call for our sincere thanks to Almighty God are two days: Thanksgiving and Christmas day. Since they come so near each other in point of time—so near it seems wise to blend them together in our concept of real "Thanksgiving." "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name." (Psalms 103-1).

And the angel said unto them, "Fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2-10-11).

Now to all the pastors of Memphis, even tho I do not know you personally, and to all churches—I find the spirit of thanksgiving and the spirit of Him who came to give us love in our hearts, to call us to the house of the Lord "Thanksgiving day" and on Christmas morning to sing—to pray—to think together of the immeasurable kindness—the everlasting love of God in the gift of His dear Son, who went all the way to Calvary for us. Whose supreme sacrifice this day and always fills our hearts with love for each other, and for all mankind across the world.

Years ago I walked your streets, years ago I was one of the pastors of Memphis, years ago I knew many many people of Hall County, years ago at different times I stood by open graves of dear friends who had gone home to be with their Lord. So today even before Thanksgiving day and Christmas morning, precious memories inspire me once again to ask my good friend Mr. Well for space to say we do not forget you. We recall your kindness in your homes, in your stores, in your church life, in vital friend-

EDITORIAL

National Farm - City Week

This is National Farm - City Week. It means relatively little to cities like Memphis, where an understanding of the farmer's problems is taken more or less for granted.

This year it is more important than ever that agriculture's friends tell the story. This has been brought about during the past seven-plus years under Secretary Benson.

A better understanding is vitally needed among city dwellers of what farmers and ranchers are up against in this era of rising costs and declining profits.

Many local chambers of commerce and service clubs have set up observances and meetings for a mutual exchange of information and opinion on this matter.

Food prices are not high as a result of farm programs. The facts show that prices paid for food, in terms of man hours, is the lowest in history.

Farmers do not receive large government handouts, as some columnists would have the masses believe.

Farmers are not paid for soil conservation practices which are unnecessary. They are, in fact, being helped to preserve the productivity of the soil for future generations.

Contrary to the impression widely held by our city cousins, agriculture is more important today than ever before in history.

It is our hope that the facts and figures which will be issued during this week will prove to be beneficial in dispelling all the misinformation which is rampant in this nation.

Overall welfare of the U. S. is dependent, primarily, upon agriculture. It must be charted into a course which will prove effective for the common good, and at the same time prove profitable for those who are engaged in raising our food and fiber.

Last Visit - We Hope

Nikita Khrushchev, having lived up fully to his billink as the skunk at the UN lawn party, finally won a point before taking off by Soviet jet for whatever sort of welcome awaits him at home.

But his first and only success in 24 outlandish days in Manhattan - in securing unanimous agreement from the 99-nation General Assembly to debate his plan for an immediate end to colonialism - may well turn out to be a Pyrrhic victory.

In approving Khrush's idea of discussing freedom for all dependent peoples, the US and Britain, and perhaps others, are obviously looking forward to a thorough airing of the conditions of terror and oppression under which the peoples of the Iron Curtain satellites - Poland, East Germany and the others - eke out their miserable existence.

US Representative Francis O. Wilcox was about to make this unmistakably clear to the Assembly and had mentioned that all present were "fully aware of the sad fact that there are a number of states in Eastern Europe which do not have their complete independence" when Roumanian delegate Eduard Mezinescu rose and started the Donnybrook that caused Irish Assembly President Boland to smash his gavel in attempting to restore order and calling for immediate adjournment.

Mr. Wilcox's text indicated he intended to add that: "The governments there are captive governments, propped up by Soviet power. Mr. President, that is colonialism if ever I saw it. And so far as my government is concerned, you may be sure we shall have plenty to say about this kind of colonialism when the time comes to consider this problem."

"One final word," the text concluded, "the United States is against colonialism - and we are against it wherever it occurs."

Had Mr. Wilcox been allowed to finish, Nikita would doubtless have been beating on his desk with both shoes. And before the debate for which he asked is finished, former Premier Khrushchev may himself be on his way to a fairly remote colony - such as Outer Mongolia.

Nehru's Astonishing Viewpoint: United States, Russia are Alike

India's neutralism, which has baffled Americans ever since that huge populous country achieved independence, makes more sense in the light of recent utterances by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

The Indian leader finds that the United States and the Soviet Union are more alike than any other two countries and he predicts that this country and Russia will become more similar in the future as "machine civilizations."

Now Nehru is a highly educated man. He speaks English eloquently with the Oxford accent. He is the flower of one of the world's oldest civilizations and one which prides himself upon its spiritual motivation.

Yet when he looks at this country he apparently can see nothing

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

As the Thanksgiving season approaches once again this year in the Hall County Soil Conservation District — we should stop and look around us for the many things that we have to be thankful for and for the richness and productivity of our farm and ranch lands.

This should remind us that we should practice the wise use of our resources and to look back and see the mistakes that we have made. The word Conservation means the wise use of our farm and ranch lands. The idea of conservation means that resources should be used — but used for the benefit of man both now and in the future.

Frequently we are hasty to overemphasize quick returns and use of the land to the extreme. This often leads to poor, run down, worn out farms and the income in later years greatly reduced. Landowners and tenants find their ability to succeed as farmers and to rent farms that produce good crops — depends on their acceptance of good farming systems and good soil and water conservation measures.

In a study of a ten year average of farms with conservation plans the earnings were 6 dollars an acre higher each year than those matched farms not having conservation plans. The difference was about one thousand dollars a year for a 160 acre farm.

Most all of the land that is suitable for cultivation has been broken out in the Hall County SCD. So we are faced now as to which road we are going to take — to conserve our soil and water or do nothing about it.

At this time of the year — let us stop and take inventory of ourselves and of the land that we have — should we practice good soil and water conservation — do we have anything to be thankful for.

OIL FLOW UPPEd—Texas Railroad commission has set the December oil allowable at 2,819,379 barrels a day on a nine-day producing pattern.

For the past seven months the state has been limited to eight producing days.

Independent producers, most of whom have been strong for holding production to eight days in previous months, recommended nine for December.

Earlier, TIRPO (Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners) had asked the Commission to consider whether the sharp cut-back in Texas production during the past two years actually had improved the supply situation or enabled other producing areas to grab some of Texas' share of the market.

'CONTROVERSIAL' BOOKS ADOPTED — In the enormous and often touchy job of adopting textbooks for public schools, the State Board of Education rejected one and accepted two of three books against which protests had been raised.

Board asked the publishers of the history text, "Texas and our Spanish Southwest," to correct errors before it reconsiders the book in January. Two other books criticized by J. Evetts Haley and a committee known as Texans for America were accepted by the Board.

These are "Language for Daily Use" for grades 7 and 8 and "The Stockmen's Handbook". Haley's committee said the language book was based on too limited a vocabulary and the stockmen's book was too welfare state-ish in its discussion of farm issues.

Seven books opposed by Texans for America already had been eliminated by a teacher-composed advisory committee which screens textbook offerings before they are considered by the Board of Education.

LOCAL HELP TO AGED, ILL—A plan that would divide part of the responsibility for care of the aged and mentally ill, between state and local government, may be proposed in the next Legislature.

It would take a constitutional amendment approved by the people to put the plan into effect.

Legislative Budget Board has tentatively approved a recommendation whereby the state would split with a city, county or district the cost of such programs as out-patient care for mental patients and nursing home care for elderly patients.

It is felt that this approach might be more economical and effective for some patients. Nearly-recovered mental patients, for example, could be released from bed space at expensive state institutions and get treatment at needed from a nearby clinic.

PERJURY RULING REAFFIRMED — Court of Criminal Appeals refused to reconsider its 2-to-1 decision that former Insurance Commissioner J. Byron Saunders could not be convicted for perjury as a result of a testimony before a Legislative committee.

But it did not make the opinion final. Travis County District Attorney Les Proctor is filing a second motion for re-hearing in hopes of keeping the issue alive until after the first of the year.

At that time one of the members holding in Saunders' favor, Judge Lloyd Davidson, goes out of office. If incoming Judge W. T. McDonald took the other side, the scales would be tilted and Saunders' conviction upheld.

OUT-OF-STATE TAX DENIED—Texas cannot collect a tax on the premiums of an insurance policy sold to a company in Texas by an out-of-state firm not licensed to do business in Texas.

Third Court of Civil Appeals ruled that this would conflict with U. S. Supreme Court decisions now in effect. A Texas law requires purchasers of insurance from companies not licensed in Texas to pay a tax equal to 5 per cent of the premiums. This is higher than the tax on companies licensed in the state.

Appeals Court suggested hopefully that the Supreme Court might reconsider its position so that the Texas law would become valid.

SHORT SNORTS — Secretary of State Zolie Steakley has issued a charter for Houston Baptist College to be built by Texas Baptists on a 200-acre site in Harris County. College is to open its doors by September, 1962. It already has a $3,000,000 endowment for buildings . . . Department of Public Safety reports a 7 per cent decrease in Texas traffic fatalities this year as compared with the same period last year. Number of death-causing accidents dropped 9 per cent . . . Some parts of Texas had the wettest October on record, and all part of the state except the southwest portion received above-average rainfall last month. State Board of Water Engineers reported that Corpus Christi and Victoria had the wettest October ever. Amarillo had rainfall 16.42 inches above normal by the first of October . . . Unusually heavy moisture is blamed by Texas A & M experts for the state's generally poor pecan crop this year. Horticulture Professor Dr. Benton J. Store says why wet weather makes bad pecans is not fully understood. Most growers just call it "blight" . . . For ranchers, however, the rainy weather is mostly good news. U. S. Department of Agriculture says Texas ranges are going into the winter in "above average" condition.

Mrs. Carl Lee and children of Lockney visited here from Thursday until Tuesday with their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Shankle.

It was reported Sunday that the Ned Garrison No. 1, Atlantic Refining Co. wildcat, located southwest of Tell in Hall County, is expected to be plugged and abandoned.

The test drilled into the Canyon Reef sand at 4,950 feet, and no oil was found.

Drillers announced last Saturday that a log of the well was being taken to Midland to be studied and the test probably would be abandoned as a dry hole.

The test was drilled by the Boline Oil Company of Wichita Falls.

I Give You Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

This is the mystery of the disappearing body.

When I began newspaper work, I was assigned to the police run. This was in Memphis many years ago.

The most remarkable member of the police department and one of the grandest men I ever knew was Capt. Mike Kehoe. A big, ruddy-complexioned man he was, with graying hair, kindly and considerate but firm as iron when a serious situation arose, and absolutely void of fear.

One night, a patrolman called in to report that he had seen a man going down an alley, with a sack on his back. At the officer's call to halt, the man began to run and the officer fired low. But the bullet must have ricocheted from the cobblestones for the man fell and when the policeman reached him, he was dead.

As the story was being related, we were walking up the alley and, still looking up, the officer stopped, pointed down and said, "There's the body."

Our gaze followed the direction indicated by his finger — and there was no body there.

The policeman exclaimed, "It was here, I tell you!" Captain Kehoe looked at me and I looked at him, then we both looked at the patrolman who, we now strongly suspected, had been drinking and had imagined the occurrence. Suddenly, I had a hunch and said, "Follow me," with the brushness of a cub reporter. They did. We walked around to the street and, guessing which was the building that was in line with the spot where the body was supposed to have been, I stopped. The front was in darkness. I pointed to the sign, "Undertaking Parlor."

I pointed on the door and a light appeared, then the door opened.

"We're from headquarters and want to see that body that you took from the alley," I said. "Certainly, come in," he replied. The patrolman mopped his brow in relief. —Elementary, my dear Watson.

Mrs. Lucy Phillips spent the weekend in Turkey visiting her brother and sister-in-law. Mrs. D. W. Jones. Sunday noon the group drove to Canyon and took pictures of natural red rock cathedrals with high peaks which are very interesting. Mrs. Phillips returned
