Nolan Salmon Is Recipient Of $500 Scholarship

Nolan Salmon has been awarded a $500 scholarship under the sponsorship of the Clayton Fund, a program of Anderson, Clayton & Co., it was announced this week. The announcement was made by B. L. Quattlebaum, Elk City-Memphis district manager for Western Cotton Oil Co. Salmon is a graduate of Lakeview High School, and is a junior agriculture student of Texas A and M College.

The fund was initiated by Will L. Clayton, founder of the firm. Quattlebaum stated that this scholarship was recommended by J. W. Hatley, Paymaster Gin manager at Brice and Lesley.

Salmon is studying in entomology and agronomy in the Texas A and M School of Agriculture. He was an outstanding student in Lakeview High, having accomplished the highest grade average for boys in his graduating class.

He was a standout in 4-H and FFA work, receiving over 50 awards during his high school participation in those projects. He was an all-around performer in athletics and in student representation at Lakeview.

Nolan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland L. Salmon, Route 1, Lakeview.

Area youngsters can make their lists as to what they want for Christmas, because word was received this week from the North Pole that Santa Claus will pay his annual visit to Memphis next Wednesday, Dec. 7.

The jolly little man is expected to arrive at the court house at 1 p. m. for the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development Christmas Party for all children of this area.

A special invitation is being extended to the younger children of neighboring communities, Clifford Farmer, Chamber of Commerce manager, said.

Santa will visit with pre-school age children from 1 until 1:45 p. m. Wednesday. Then, the first and second grade students will be transported by bus to visit Santa. They will be followed by the other grades until all the school students through the seventh grade have arrived at the court house.

Members of the Austin and Travis Parent-Teacher Associations will assist the Chamber of Commerce officials in preparing the 1400 packages of candy, nuts and fruit for the visiting children. The packages will be prepared shortly after noon Tuesday. Mrs. Bill Cosby, president of Austin PTA, and Mrs. D. H. Aronofsky, Travis PTA president, are in charge of the workers.

A mail box will be set up again this year on the court house lawn to accommodate those who desire the mailing of letters addressed special delivery to Santa Claus.

As soon as Santa has made note of the young writers' wishes, the letters will be turned over to The Democrat so they can be included in the Christmas edition of the paper, which will be published Thursday, Dec. 22.

Jay Ed Campbell Sends First Santa Letter To Democrat

The first "Letter to Santa" was received by The Democrat on Oct. 17.

It was written by Jay Ed Campbell, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Campbell of Amarillo, formerly of Memphis.

Jay Ed's letter will be published in the annual Christmas edition of The Democrat.

This is to show that many boys and girls are already writing their "Letters to Santa," and are mailing them to The Democrat.

1961 Cotton Referendum To Be Held December 13

The 1961 cotton marketing referendum will be held in all six ASC communities on Tuesday, Dec. 13, Joe C. Montgomery, chairman of the Hall County ASC committee, announced today.

The voting will be supervised at Lesley, Lakeview, Plaska, Memphis, Estelline and Turkey, by the elected community committeemen in the respective communities.

The choice which growers will make in the referendum is between marketing controls for the 1961 upland cotton crop and price supports at not less than 70 per cent of parity, or no marketing controls on the crop and supports at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. Whether or not marketing quotas are approved for the 1961 cotton crop, allotments will remain in effect as a

Quail Shooters Begin Harvest

Many county hunters are limbering up their shotguns today with the opening of quail season starting at sunrise this morning.

Reports from over the county are varied as to the number of quail there are. Some reports are that the large coveys have been thinned out by hawks and predatory animals, but that hunters should be able to find plenty of birds to shoot at.

means of determining eligibility for price support.

Unlike the last two years, Mr. Montgomery stated, there will be only one allotment price support program available to growers for their 1961 cotton crop. "Regular" farm allotments will be determined for all farms growing cotton, and price supports at one announced rate will be available to all growers who comply with their allotments.

All cotton allotments in Hall County will be increased for 1961. This increase was believed necessary in view of the comparatively low carryover stocks and the position this nation is seeking to maintain for cotton in world markets, Montgomery said.

All persons engaged in the programs will remain in effect as a

MINUTE MEDITATION

Each day, to be meaningful to us, must be more than quantity of time.

Each day must have an enriching quality of memorable experience.

Life is a matter of days and one lives fully only as he gets the most from each day.

May the Lord help us to give each passing day something to keep in store.

"Look to this day, for it is life, the very life of life. In its brief course lies all the verities and realities of your existence.

The bliss of growth! The glory of action! The splendour of beauty!

For yesterday is but a dream, and tomorrow is only a vision.

But today, well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope. Look well, therefore, to this day."

Move To Cut Spending is Right

President Eisenhower has done well to order an economy program in spending abroad to guard the United States' gold and dollar resources.

He waited until a late date to act.

And he did not start the retrenchment program in foreign spending at the point where most could be saved—excessive foreign aid.

But so far as the seven-point program he announced Wednesday goes, it will narrow somewhat the gap between what the nation spends overseas and what it earns from foreign countries.

This gap, serious for two years, rose in the July-September quarter to a $4,300,000,000 rate.

The result has been that foreign claims on our gold supply have risen beyond the danger point. That fact was reflected in the recent flurries in the price of gold.

The time had come when something had to be done. The President has made a start. Whether the program will be sufficient to stop the weakening position of the dollar remains to be seen.

It is estimated that half the billion-dollar saving will come from slashing Defense Department spending. A big item in this will be the most spectacular move, the reduction of dependents of American personnel abroad by 284,000 persons. Part of the dependents reduction will be civilian rather than military, however.

Buying American instead of foreign goods for economic aid will cut the outgo by $330,000,000 and another $170,000,000 will be saved in cutting back operations of other agencies.

It would have been much better if the administration had taken these and other steps to reduce the balance of payments a long time ago, before the situation reached the critical stage. It would have been better even if the moves had been made several days ago, before Russia announced the coming creation of the new ruble which the Reds claim will be worth more than the dollar.

What the administration should do next is begin reducing wasteful foreign aid. This is the big hole, not leak, in the balance of payments. And it is to be hoped also that the time will come soon when we can safely bring home some of the armed forces we are maintaining abroad at tremendous cost.

For rich as Uncle Sam is, his purse is not bottomless.

Christmas Spirit!

Eleven months have passed by, and again it is time to start running down the shopping lists to make sure that everyone will have a Christmas present. There is always one thing to keep in mind, if you want to get what you want, shop early!

With 20 shopping days left until Christmas, it would be wise to do your deciding right away so that you will be satisfied with what you are able to get.

The Christmas season can be one of the most enjoyable times during the year, or it can be one of the most unhappy times. Sometimes, such everyday services as the mail can break down during the flood of Christmas mail and packages.

A tip from experience would be, if you are planning to mail a package to an out-of-town relative or friend, mail the package at least two weeks in advance of Christmas, or the recipient may not get to open your gift until after Christmas.

The U. S. Postal service pleads for early mailing of Christmas packages and Christmas cards every year. If all citizens would heed their plea, then everyone would receive their packages and cards on time.

Retail stores in Memphis are as well stocked as any, anywhere, with all kinds of Christmas gifts for children and adults. But the smart shopper goes down early, looks over the full stock, before someone else has already purchased the popular sizes, etc.

By getting your shopping done early, then you can spend the last days before Christmas, decorating, baking, and planning for that trip to those guests which are coming to make this day a memorable occasion.

The Christmas season is here again, by planning the purchases of gifts, mailing packages and cards early, and making plans before hand, Christmas, 1960, can be one of the truly memorable occasions of a lifetime for you and all those you come in contact with during this season.

What Other Editors Say

Be Careful At Christmas

Thanksgiving will be just barely upon us when the Christmas season begins its full blast, and from now until December 25 all of us will be tempted by all manner of methods to buy this and that for Christmas.

Since Christmas giving is concerned largely with the youngsters, it may be well to look at a bit of advice given out by the International Council for Children's Play, a newly formed group of educators and guidance counselors.

These experts have found that some toys may do the child psychological harm. These fall into three categories: 1. Poor quality playthings that fall apart in the child's hands, thus weakening his sense of security; 2. overly elaborate toys which afford him no opportunity to develop a sense of imagination; 3. toys bearing no relation to real life, because children are by nature practical creatures.

This is interesting information. This poses a problem for those of us that may have invested in a missile launcher or one of those toy cars that fly to pieces upon impact. As a matter of fact, if we consider that most toys nowadays seem to fall in the (1) category above, that is of poor construction that fall apart in the child's hands, we are amazed that our youngsters are not a bundle of frustrations.

We can't remember buying a toy within the past ten years that had much stamina to it — at least not built like those we used to have.

Christmas shopping is getting to be a real challenge. After days of trying to figure out what junior wants and what the pocketbook will allow, of fighting traffic and parking places, of trying to find the selected item amid crowded aisles, the average Santa Clause to the family, a nervous wreck adds to that a dozen brain-wrecking decisions: as to whether each toy is psychologically suited for the offspring and you've got a frustrated male on your hands. The psychologists can go to work on him next.

More Relief Secrets

A professional do-good element was distressed, in 1951, when Congress opened the federal aid books for inspection to expose chiselers. It was feared families in legitimate need of aid would be publicly embarrassed.

Nothing of the sort happened, but the fear of exposure frightened away the thieves.

Now it has been revealed that an obscure clause in the new medical aid legislation restored the secrecy clause for this form of aid. This is an open invitation to the unscrupulous to cut in on funds appropriated for the actualy unfortunate.

The American Newspaper Publishers Assn., in a letter to Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee protests the new secrecy clause.

Repeal of secrecy, in 1951, it points out, has resulted in no publication of names to humiliate or embarrass. But it has permitted investigations which "resulted in the needy being assured of aid to the exclusion of chiselers and has also served as a check on maladministration of the act."

This secrecy clause is but another evidence of bureaucratic tendency to keep every possible expenditure secret from the taxpayers who put up the money. Congress should repeal it promptly.

End To The Religious Test

THE AMERICAN people chose a man, a policy and an end to the religious test to the Presidency. The man they chose brought to them a sense of national dedication, even of national concentration. John F. Kennedy succeeded in conveying a feeling of faith and zeal that the more ponderous Nixon could not either by nature or the restrictive necessities of his relationship with the Eisenhower Administration.

Thanksgiving Program Enjoyed By Pathfinders

The Pathfinder's Council met Nov. 22 at 3 p.m. in the Victory Class room for their regular meeting. Following a brief business session conducted by the president, Mrs. W. F. McElreath, the program was turned over to Mrs. John Smith, program chairman. The members enjoyed a most impressive and enlightening Thanksgiving Day program. The introduction brought out the fact that Thanksgiving is based on an inner attitude toward life. This holiday is distinctly an American celebration. There is nothing like it in the world. The American Thanksgiving Day is the expression of a deep feeling of gratitude by the people for the rich productivity of the land, a memorial of the dangers and hardships through which all have safely passed, and a fitting recognition of all that God in His goodness had bestowed upon all the people.

Mrs. Mary Lou Erwin gave a most interesting talk on the early customs and ways of celebrating Thanksgiving in America. She said that in early New England it was the custom at Thanksgiving time to place five grains of corn at every plate as a reminder of those stern days in the first winter when the food of the Pilgrims was so depleted that only five grains of corn were rationed to each individual at a time. The Pilgrim Fathers wanted their children to remember the sacrifice, suffering, and the hardships which made possible the settlement of a free people in a free land. Another highlight of Mrs. Erwin's talk was the vividly painted picture in words of the sailing of the Mayflower ship, and the full account of its 63-day journey to the New England coast.

Mrs. W. F. McElreath read "The Pilgrim's Prayer" at the close of Mrs. Erwin's talk.

After this reading the group sang a collection of Thanksgiving songs. Mrs. John W. Smith furnished the instrumental accompaniment.

The second talk was given by Mrs. A. Gidden. She spoke on the "Ministry of Thanksgiving" and the "Witness of the Harvest." Mrs. Gidden stated that gratitude links the past with the future, and that this nation should greatly feel indebted to the Pilgrim Fathers and also to God because of the great bounty.

Highlights of this talk dealt with the (1) physical endeavors of the nation's forefathers and their endless labors, (2) and of the beauty of nature itself placed here by the creator of all good and perfect gifts, and (3) of the witness of the harvest, of which each living creature is a stockholder. In closing, Mrs. Gidden asked this question: "Is not this abundance, this variety which is represented by the fruits of the earth, a witness to the almighty Lover and Giver who would make life happy for His children?"

The meditation was given by Mrs. J. J. McDaniel. She chose to read a most fitting poem entitled, "Thankful Hearts," by M. Claudius.

Thanksgiving games were played following the main program. The winner of the games was Mrs. John Smith who was presented a gift.

A beautiful table center piece was arranged depicting the abundance of Thanksgiving. A large turkey with her flock of little ones were in the background; with a cornucopia filled with all kinds of fruits and vegetables in the foreground. On the piano was a gorgeous arrangement of real autumn flowers and leaves.

Delicious refreshments of tidbits, fresh pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, and coffee were served by the hostess, Mrs. W. F. Ritchie, to the following members: Mmes. Mary Lou Erwin, A. Gidden, O. M. Gunstream, J. J. McDaniel, W. F. McElreath, J. R. Mitchell, and John W. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. George Payne of Salt Flat visited in Memphis and Lakeview over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Toppin of Marion, Indiana, visited with Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Stevens this past week.

Morgan Baker returned Wednesday from Houston after a ten day stay in the clinic there.

Eulaine Ellis of Dallas spent the holidays in the home of her aunt, Mrs. H. B. Bennett.

Jean Foxhall Named To College Who's Who

Jean Foxhall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Foxhall, of Memphis, was one of thirty-three SMU seniors named to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Nominees were chosen by a committee of faculty and students, with selection being based on scholarship, activities and service to the university.

Miss Foxhall, a graduate of Memphis High School, is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is the editor this year of the Rotunda, SMU yearbook, and is majoring in English. Her other activities include membership in Mortar Board, Kirkos and the Wesley Foundation.

field. Soil moisture is the most important factor in selecting the implement and operation that will control or retard wind erosion for the longest period of time.

Chiseling operations should be carried out at right angles to the land, this will help conserve moisture as well as providing some protection from wind erosion.

On fields that now have adequate growing cover, sorghum stubble, or other crop residues, we must exercise the greatest of care in our management to maintain an effective cover throughout the blowing season.

Your Soil Conservation Service technicians are available to give you information on soils, conservation measures, and adapted protective measures against wind erosion.

Cyclone Cagers Lose Games At Wellington Tues.

The Memphis Cyclone and Cyclonette began their scheduled season Tuesday night at Wellington. Both local squads were defeated by their AA hosts.

In the girls game, Wellington took an early lead of 12 points in the first quarter, and were able to keep it until the end of the game. The final score was 53 to 38.

Then, in the boys game which followed, the Skyrocket team was able to gain a substantial lead before the Cyclone squad could break through a full court press, which Wellington used all night.

On those occasions when the Cyclone was able to cross the mid-court line, they were able to score. Ronnie Ables and Jackie Bridges were able to come up with many rebounds from both backboards; however, the local cagers were not able to capitalize on their superior height. The final score was 55-34.

When Ables fouled out of the game in the third period, Dale Sexton went in to replace him. Sexton was able to chalk up several free shots and baskets while in the game.

The five starters were Perry Wright, Don Gailey, Dwight Gailey, Ronnie Ables and Jackie Bridges. Sexton, Bill J. Pounds and Bennie Spears substituted during the game.

In the girls game, Sondra Stargel and Jo Ann Widener scored most of the points for the local team.

R. C. Lemons Speaks Tues. At Methodist Meet

R. C. Lemons, furniture dealer and prominent layman of the Methodist Church, spoke at the district conference of the Childress District of the church at Paducah Tuesday.

He spoke about 10 minutes on the progress being made at McMurry College and about the needs of the college. Lemons was introduced by Roy B. Shilling Jr., director of public relations for McMurry.

Lemons was serving as one of nine laymen of the Methodist Church speaking at district conference over the Northwest Texas Conference area during this week. Five of these laymen are members of the McMurry board of trustees.

Jack Holden, director of publicity of the college, said, "Since McMurry is owned and operated by the Northwest Texas Conference and draws its support from the conference churches, it is important, we feel, that the McMurry story is told to Methodists. It is, after all, their church and their college."

The Bloomer News

Florists and other merchants in the big cities have had their Christmas merchandise on display for over a month now but for country people like us, we feel like December 1st is the beginning of the Christmas season so we now have most of our stock on display. As usual, we have some most unusual Christmas decorations including a complete line of very attractive candles, ornamental lights and even a musical turntable Christmas tree stand.

Last Christmas we sold a number of the popular "Do It Yourself" SnoFlock kits. We have some more of these this year. Also extra flock in white, pink and blue and a special glitter to add lustre to a flocked tree or arrangement.

Have you heard about FLORACHEQUES? This is the latest and most novel gift certificate idea yet invented. If you have a difficult Christmas gift problem, then this is the perfect solution. They are redeemable at any of the 24,000 FTD florists all over the world. We have them. Ask us about them.

Better reserve the night of December 9th for the Junior play. They say it's going to be good and it should be from the amount of practice they're putting in to it or maybe we just THINK our kids are at play practice all that time.

We'll tell you about our Christmas plants next week.
