CREDIT RECORD:
second to none!

Supplying plenty of low cost electricity to rural Americans is just one of our big jobs. Another equally important function, we believe, is paying our own way in the nation's economy. We think we've done this mighty well, and here's why:

Even though we serve widely scattered consumers, America's Rural Electric Systems—1,000 strong, across the land—have already paid over $1 billion in principal and interest on their $3 1/2 billion in REA loans.

Best of all, every penny of this billion dollars—paid into the U. S. Treasury—came from the light bills of the consumer-owners of these rural electrics! This, we submit, is a credit record second to none—another reason why we say that rural electrification is good for all Americans!

Why We Support Tower

Government today is not what it was yesterday or the day before. Government is a vast organization, the vehicle so to speak, which controls and is responsible for our collective well being.

Government, in other words, is the most complex and intricate business in our nation.

To run this business we need not only young and energetic human beings, but also a person educated, trained and experienced in the business of government.

William Blakley is an able and successful businessman. He has almost reached retirement age in the field of business. Does this make him the best qualified for the post he and John Tower seek?

John Tower is, on the other hand, young, energetic and what is infinitely more important than being a successful businessman, a student of Government. His education has been in the field of Government. He therefore is better equipped to understand the functioning of the vast complex field known as Government, making him therefore a better candidate for the office of U. S. Senator from Texas.

These are John Tower's qualifications for the post he is seeking. What interests will he serve primarily if elected, we ask ourselves?

Certainly because of his background, Tower will be more desirous of representing the people directly. He will be fighting for the mass of voters that do not have special interests to defend or uphold, but who need active and positive representation in Washington.

These voters do not represent special interests but rather their own personalized interests such as the right to work, to better living conditions and fuller education, to receive equal treatment and to be full citizens of this great community known as Texas.

Because Tower stands for these cardinal principles which are the very pillars on which our great Union was founded and has become great, La Prensa, an Independent Voice of the people of Texas, tenders its unqualified support to Tower for the office of U. S. Senator from Texas.

Tuckers Cleaners To Have New Home In June

Homer Tucker, owner of Tuckers' Cleaners of Memphis, this week announced the purchase of lots at the corner of 10th and Main Streets and plans to build a new, modernistic drive-in dry cleaning plant.

Crews began working on the foundation for the 30 by 70-foot building two weeks ago, he said.

The building will be a brick structure, and will contain one drive-in window on the southeast side.

George Tucker and Bill Lane of Clarendon are the contractors for the new building.

Tucker said they hope to have the building ready for occupancy by the third week in June.

"I have confidence in the future of Memphis," Tucker said. "A drive-in, dry cleaning plant is a new concept in dry cleaners. This will be one of the very few establishments of this type in the Panhandle area."

Tucker has toured most of West Texas looking for and at this type of establishment.

Also on Friday, according to the coach, the Austin Elementary School held an intersquad game, playing 32 minutes. One of the squads won 6-0.

Coach Lambert said that both of the games were very good, and that on the whole, this was one of the best spring training sessions he has coached.

State Highway Needs

With National Highway Week only a few days away, May 21-27, the state's highway officials feel an apprehension rather than elation over the week. For at this time of the year, highway traffic will "snow under" most of the State's highways.

Texas has been undergoing a fantastic growth in motor vehicles and if the statistics continue the trend established in the past, the State may suddenly be faced with the most terrific traffic jam in history. Texas reached the one million mark in motor vehicles in 1926. It took 21 years to reach the second million, in 1947. During the next decade the number jumped to four million and from 1957 to date Texas added almost another million.

The statistical growth rate reveals the chilling fact that instead of needing 21 years to gain a million vehicles, fast-expanding Texas can now do it in three years.

Under present financing, the Texas highway network cannot begin to keep pace with the "motor vehicle explosion." More than one-third of the total State-maintained highway mileage in Texas is already obsolete — or about to become so — by modern traffic standards. This dilemma faced by highway officials caused State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer to term Highway Week "not an occasion to brag on what we have done, but to focus attention on the tremendous task we must face in the future."

Foremost among Texas Highway problems, Greer said, is the fact that more than one-third of the total state-maintained highway mileage in Texas is obsolete, or about to become so. This is Texas' 25,000-mile network of U. S. and State-numbered highways. The system has been "almost totally antiquated," Greer said, by an enormous increase in traffic.

This system of "trunk" highways is literally the lifeline of the development of Texas. These highways serve more than a thousand Texas cities and towns. Many were built in the early days and are now out of date and completely inadequate for the 18 billion vehicle miles traveled on them in a year.

The problem is compounded by lack of money. The trunk highway system is not only obsolete but underfinanced, so that Texas is getting farther behind each year. The trunk system is in effect, a highway stepchild—it is caught in a squeeze on the highway dollar, between demands for matching funds so that Texas can participate in Federal-aid programs, and demands for funds for year-to-year maintenance of the State's vast highway network.

The obsolescence of our trunk highway system will continue and will rapidly increase, warns Highway Engineer Freer, "to the point where we may strangle in our own traffic if we are unable to make desperately needed improvements."

Birch Versus Churches

Most of the furor over the John Birch Society has died down somewhat but we still read about charges and counter charges made by the John Birch Society against the National Council of Churches, the U. S. Supreme Court, and others in the country.

When the Birch Society took in after the churches, however, they bit off a mouthful. Churches whether composed of denominations belonging to the National Council of Churches or not, are not prone to take such bitter criticism without reply.

Robert Welch, leader of the Birch Society, has made the charge that there are about 7,000 protestant ministers out of 200,000 in America who are either communist or communist sympathizers.

In fact, Welch has said "the largest single proportionate body of communists in America is in the Protestant clergy."

This is an alarming statement and you can guess that it didn't go unchallenged.

Among others who challenged Mr. Welch on this statement was Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles who told Welch to put up or shup up. "I think it is about time that you get specific or else admit that you really do not know what you are talking about," Bishop Kennedy told Welch.

Welch was invited to come before the Board of Ministerial Training and Qualifications of the Southern California-Arizona Conference and tell who the communist sympathizers were, by name.

"The Methodist Church provides that any man who has anything against one of our preachers may make his accusation before this committee," Bishop Kennedy said. "The Methodist Church will act at once and if evidence is forthcoming, the accused will be brought to trial. If he is guilty, he will be dismissed from our ministry. I think it is about time that you get specific or else admit that you really do not know what you are talking about. Believe me, I am most anxious to have you come forth with any information you may have as I believe you will do if you are sincere."

To date, Mr. Welch has not come forward with a single name.

The Herald editor is on the mailing list of a great many publications, ranging from the extreme right wing magazine of Gerald F. Smith, "The Flag and the Cross" to the liberal Texas Observer and even including the Teamsters Union magazine. We try to read most of this material in order to be informed.

There seems to be some truth in all of it. Only when this truth is embellished to suit a particular purpose does it become an untruth.

Atalantean Club Gives Summary Luncheon-Style Show Project

summary of one of the long-range projects being promoted by the Atalantean Club was given as the special club meeting. The special meeting was as follows:

Three years ago, the Atalantean Club, Memphis, Texas, decided to sponsor a Luncheon-Style Show to raise money for the Club. The year's work generated a lot of interest and enthusiasm, but the next year the project was moved to a larger place and the time to the dinner was so that more people, including the men of the town, could attend.

The club is considered to be one of the leading social events of the season; there is no place available with sufficient seating capacity to accommodate the number of people who want to attend.

The club members feel that the money made from this project should be spent in part for the improvement and in the interest of the community. Most generous contributions have been made to the Little League Program of Hall County; also the Boy and Girl Scouts.

In the Spring of 1959, the people of Memphis had the privilege of hearing a group of Foreign Exchange Students who were going to school in Amarillo. The question was asked "Why couldn't Memphis have such a student?"

To bring such a student to our community through the American Field Service involved many things, including raising $650.00 and finding a home in which the student could live for a school year. If Memphis had such a student, she would then be eligible to send a student to a foreign country under the American Abroad Program, which would require an additional $350.00. To our way of thinking, there is no better way to promote peace in the world than through the Understanding and Love of our youth.

Two members of the Atalantean

Club called together representatives of each of Study Clubs, Civic Clubs and interested friends and organized the Memphis Chapter of the American Field Service.

In September 1960, Heiner Ludemann from Germany, came to live with the A. L. Galleys. The $650.00 had been raised, the tailor shops and barbers donated their services, Dry Goods Stores donated needed items of clothing, the school and interested individuals are taking care of incidental expenses not otherwise provided for. The life of the whole community is being enriched by Heiner's presence, and it is an established fact that he will take back to his homeland much good will and a better understanding of our American way of life.

Word has been received that Leslie Helm, a Memphis High School Junior, is a semi-finalist in Americans Abroad Program. Out of 2,500 semi-finalists, 1,500 will spend three months in a foreign country this summer. The Atalantean Club is using the proceeds of the 1960 Fashion Show ($350) to sponsor this student.

What better way can we influence the destiny of the world than by helping to shape the lives of our youth!

The Atalantean Club has voted on the condition that Memphis has the privilege of another Foreign Student in our city for the next school term (1961-62). The Club will again use the proceeds of its 1961 Fashion Show to sponsor another Memphis Youth to a foreign country in the continuation of this program.

Morning News Features Girl In College Story

Miss Jean Foxhall, an outstanding feature with a three column story in the Dallas Morning News of last week. She is a student at Southern University, Jean is editor of the college yearbook, Rotunda. She was written by Ann Foxhall and said in part: "I am a senior at SMU and a girl from West Texas who made something of a record of honors across the country. I hail from a small town in West Texas where I was editor of the Rotunda yearbook which hit the newsstands in a day or two. I am proud that there are more people in my town who did not in the least mind me from undertaking the task. It was just one of the many important extras. I am a brunette, Jean is a blonde, though a town girl. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foxhall live in Memphis, around 3,500 population and other Foxhalls live around the area. Nothing unusual in that a small town girl goes to a big city campus and attends SMU. Recently, SMU President presented her with the "M" Award. The award is given to outstanding students who have served the community beyond the call of duty. My service was largely made up of my work with small women from small towns with a pleasing amount of money. Jean shyly admits she is right in her studies. She graduated last semester, she will graduate May 29 in the top of her class."

Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

Commencement
This month over 3,000 young Americans will be graduated from High Schools in the 18th Congressional District. Some of them will begin careers immediately, while others will continue their education at colleges and universities all over the nation. But whatever their future plans and ambitions, the day when these young men and women are handed their diplomas is a proud one not only for the students themselves, but for the parents and teachers who have done so much to insure that an education means understanding as well as knowledge.

Here in Washington, I am always reminded of our High School graduations as thousands of students from across the United States arrive for class visits. As they walk through the Capitol building and see the Congress in session, it will be only a few months until they begin to accept the responsibility for furthering the heritage which was in considerable part forged in that very building.

I trust that none of them ever ignores that fact that this heritage, which has made America strong and free, is not something which was completed before their time. It is true that the basic groundwork was laid almost 200 years ago and that many significant advances have been made since. Nevertheless, the opportunities and even the necessities for building the American ideal are just as demanding in 1961 as they were in 1776.

After receiving their High School diplomas, our young people will confront a world which demands the utmost in precise thinking and resolute action. While our forefathers began a nation with the powderhorn, plow, and axe, people of today and tomorrow will continue the process with tools a thousand times more complex. This complexity should not frighten these young people, for within it lies the potential for great good. They should be aware that the potential for great harm is also there, and that their efforts can be directed against that harm.

In addition to this, I hope that the prospective graduates will remember that democracy is the most difficult of all forms of government. There is a trend in our nation to leisure and comfort, and it makes us all happy that more and more are reaping the benefits of our phenomenal advances. But the process of our government can never become as simple and as carefree as many other facets of life. The leadership in the United States cannot summarily carry out this or that measure without taking into account the interests of millions.

This usually requires time, and even the revolution which has occurred in our communications system has not overcome the lengthy consideration which must be applied to most of our decisions. Many of us become impatient with the delays which surround governmental action.

A smoother-running and more responsive government depends to a great extent upon a well-informed people, and I think the students who are about to graduate from High Schools all over the Panhandle will play a major role in this regard. With twelve years of a fine education behind them, these youngsters are well prepared to grapple with the far-reaching and often confusing problems of an adult democratic society and sound government.

The graduation exercises will mean a fine reward to those who have worked and studied for what to them seems so long a time. To me, however, commencement always symbolizes the constant striving of people for a better understanding of our world — a striving which is the hallmark of a democratic government.

Hall Farmers Are Using More Com. Fertilizer

Farmers in Hall County are using large amounts of commercial fertilizer this year as a result of last year's fertilizer test plots and of having their soil tested, County Agent W. B. Hooser announced this week.

Where the soil tests show very low in organic matter, the fertilizer will not pay the expenses incurred, he said.

Hooser reports that some farmers who had been using 100 pounds are now using 400 pounds of commercial fertilizer per acre, where the organic matter shows to be high in the test.

For good grain sorghum and sweet sorghum under normal rainfall conditions, approximately 150 pounds of nitrogen, 60 pounds of phosphoric acid, 150 pounds of potash and 800 pounds of calcium oxide are needed per acre, according to the county agent.

"After we test a sample of soil, we can predict with a reasonable degree of certainty what the limiting nutrient will be in crop production under normal rainfall," he said.

The agricultural agent pointed out that fertilizer recommendations are affected by other conditions in addition to the amount of plant nutrients present. Some of these conditions are soil type and soil characteristics, amount of leaching, soil structure, the preceding crop on the land, and crop to be grown, previous soil treatment and seed-bed treatment.

Hooser offered this idea as a means of making money for any farmer. He said that using the proper combination of fertilizers in the right amounts at the proper time can increase the crop production and net income. There are other factors, of course, such as good seed, good seedbed and the weather conditions. But the key to the situation is balanced fertilizer.

The way to start on a program of balanced fertility, he said, is with a soil test.

"It's pretty hard to tell what your soil needs for maximum production until you know what is in it. That is where the soil test comes in. The money you spend for a soil test will be the best fertilizer money you spend," he explained.

Hooser added that perhaps a farmer is already using fertilizer and it is not living up to expectations. In this case, he may be using the wrong kind of fertilizer, or he may not be putting it where the crop can use it to best advantage. Another common fault is simply not applying enough fertilizer, he said.

Most farmers know the three primary plant foods—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium—but how many know what each of these does for his crop, was a question put forth by Hooser.

"Nitrogen gives plants a dark green color. It makes the crop grow off fast and it increased the yield of lint and seed," he said. "Phosphorus, in addition to stimulating early root growth, stimulates blooming, aids in seed formation and hastens maturity. Potassium gives plants more vigor, aids in disease resistance and stiffens the stalks."

The county agent went on to say, "all this talk about cotton fertilizer may seem strange to farmers at this time of year. Fall has come to mean fertilizing time to an increasing number of growers on loam, clay loam, and clay soils. When fertilizer is put out early it does not slow down planting when moisture situation may be critical, and it insures that the nutrients will be where they are needed when they are needed."

JUST SUPPOSE—we had an election, say for County Commissioners and say the incumbent lost the election by a dozen or so votes and contested the election and lost by a few more votes after everything about the election was found to be legal and proper. And suppose the elected officials were legally qualified and capable of assuming the offices BUT the incumbents refused to get out of office and otherwise postponed putting into effect the results of the election. What would we do about this? What is the difference between this situation and the present situation on the Hall County Hospital? It is my understanding that three of our commissioners have employed an out of town attorney, for what? ? ? I sincerely hope these questions will be answered at the commissioners' meeting next week and that necessary steps will be taken to carry forward the County Hospital project the way it should be carried forward. After all, this is not Duval County and we are a little too far inland to join up with Castro and Cuba.

And besides all this, I need to tell you more about my tomato plants, rose bushes, tuberous begonias (about the prettiest blooming pot plant you will ever see — we have several in bloom now at $3.50), Morgan Express Service and a few other things that will bring me in a little money so I can pay for the printing of this column. Next week when the hospital controversy is out of the way, I hope, I am going to tell you about something else I think our county needs. Something that should be less controversial, highly beneficial to all the county and a project where we can all help each other.

I continue to receive nothing but favorable reactions to my position on the Hospital question, including a long letter from a Hall County boy who is in college and who married a Lakeview girl. You should come by and read this letter. We know one of the great deficiencies in our county is the fact that so few of our young people remain in the county after they grow up. This letter will give you their viewpoint.

Leslies

P. S. To set the record straight—the letter I published in this column last week was typewritten, so it would be impossible for me to "have the handwriting analyzed" even if I wanted to and besides, who wrote it does not concern or bother me in the least and the person who mailed a note to a friend of mine (he is my friend whether he feels the same way or not—even if he is on the other side of the fence from me) saying that I had done this, simply did not know what they were talking about.

Booster Club To Meet Next Thurs. May 25

The Memphis Booster Club will meet next Thursday, May 25, in the Cyclone Drive Inn at 7:30, it was announced this week by President T. O. Pounds.

The meeting will be held to further aid in the selling of membership cards and the planning of future projects by the organization.

"We are seeking a larger turnout at this meeting," Pounds said. "More members are needed to help us carry out our program."

He reported the membership drive has been progressing exceptionally well and that the officers of the organization were pleased with the reception they have been receiving.

Giles Picnic Plans Progressing For May 30 Event

Plans for the Annual Giles Picnic, planned for May 30, are progressing nicely, Virginia Browder announced this week.

Barbecued beef and beans with all the trimmings will be served at the noon and evening meals to those attending. Flip Breedlove of Clarendon will be in charge of preparing the barbecued beef.

Fiddle music, both round and square dancing, and group singing will be on the agenda.

An additional attraction will be the Foreign Officers from Amarillo Air Force Base, she said.

MINUTE MEDITATION

Man is a responsible being on earth and he is constantly under surveillance of the all seeing eye of the Living God.

Sin and disobedience is rebellion and therefore a crime against the great white throne of heaven.

All of God's spiritual blessings are conditional upon man doing the will of the Father (Matt. 7:21).

God's book is filled with warnings to man telling him not to neglect the salvation of the Lord (Heb. 2:1).

The Bible is the book of truth and tells us just what we must do in order to receive the crown (Rev. 2:10).

The Bible also tells us who will not enter into the kingdom of God (Gal. 5:19-21).

Unless men heed the instruction of God to refrain from evil and do good, it shall be as impossible for them to enter heaven as it is for a camel to go through the eye of a needle.
