such a disaster as that which strikes an agricultural county like Hall, farmers are the worst sufferers. They have more than another year's worth of crops that will pay off, and meantime have to live on other vocations and businesses would give up in disgust. The farmers try to diversify over their losses, begin planning to try again. In secondary way, every man, woman and child in the county is affected. Businesses of all kinds, farmers, and dependents, are in a pinch. In this county it is a sad conclusion that Friday night's tentacles reached every home in the county.

He let him know that such are to be taken with a grain of salt, to which Bridges walked to a refrigerator and pulled out a fish—he had the proof—won an award for catching the largest fish that week.

(Hoot) Dennis tells of his most embarrassing moment. When he finished college night school several years in part of the state. When he returned back to Memphis, he remembered a lot of people who had been in school with him and a lot of older folks he remembered. One day he was talking with another man. A man in another part of the store was talking. He said, "Who is that loud-talking man?" "He is my father," the answer. Another time several youngsters came into the store and stood at the fountain, thinking they were his children, leaned over the counter and spoke to a girl thus: "How old are you?" "Just 18." "Since that time I have been not to talk before finding out whom I am talking," he

Heavy Rains, Hail, Winds Cause Damage To Hall Crops

Hall County farmers in the Lakeview area suffered heavy hail damage to crops Friday night when a heavy rain cloud dumped from 3.5 to 5 inches of rain on the area.

The golf ball size hail stones beat approximately 10,000 acres of crop land into the ground, leaving nothing but stubble. Estimates run from 50 to 100 per cent to cotton in an area three miles wide and five miles long surrounding Lakeview. The heavy hail extended north to the other side of Hedley in Donley County.

Accompanying the hail and heavy rains were high winds that caused considerable damage in the Hedley and Lelia Lake areas. Cottonwood trees were blown across Highway 287 near Lelia Lake.

The winds, estimated as being up to 100 miles per hour, damaged the Hedley Compress roof, blew down trees, damaged roofs and fences. Hedley reported receiving 4.9 inches of rain during the storm which began at 7 p. m. and lasted into the night.

The Marvin Dunn's home, car and pickup received heavy damages at Parnell when a twister hit their place during the heavy rain storm there.

Approximately 5,000 acres of crops surrounding the Lakeview area to the south, southwest and southeast received approximately 15 per cent hail damage in the storm Friday night.

Here in Memphis, winds did some damage to buildings, and 1.95 inches of rain was recorded Friday night by J. J. McMickin, official weather observer.

Commissioner of Precinct No. 2, W. H. Spear, reported that farm roads in his precinct were partially washed out, he said.

The Estelina area received approximately 3 inches of rain during the heavy rains.

McMickin reported the following temperatures for the week: Wednesday 98-69, Tuesday 98-70, Monday 99-70, Sunday 95-70 and .03 of an inch of rain, Saturday 90-65, Friday 94-68 and Thursday 89-68.

Wesleyan Guild Meets For Study Monday Evening

"God's Word and Our Words" was the subject of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church on Monday evening with Mildred Stephens as program leader. She introduced the program with, "God's Word and Our Words is to deepen awareness that Christians have received the Word of God, and are therefore responsible to speak to others and to make persons more conscious of the meaning of the words."

The scripture lesson was Galatians 1:22-23, 14 and John 1:1-17.

A prayer of consecration was led by Mrs. Stephens followed by the meditation on People of the Word by Mable Lavender. Mrs. Lavender said, "God is what God has to say to us, if you have an important message to deliver wrap it in a person. That is what God has done in Jesus, 'The Word made flesh'."

"This message is of fundamental importance to all men," she continued; for it tells them—wherever they are, wherever they may live, whatever they may have done, however much they may be depressed or despised by themselves, they are loved by God."

Mrs. Elsie Gidden gave a talk on "Let the Words of My Mouth be Acceptable". She said, "Words are powerful; they may convey meaning or obstruct it; we all need to guard our tongues and this has always been difficult. Sincere diplomacy is no more possible than dry water or wooden air."

Dorothy Gowan discussed Taboo Words—"One word we tend to use for peoples, for Africans for example, is 'natives.' We are all natives of some place but often the appearance of 'inferior' status is the impression given."

"Another tainted word is 'lepers' for person suffering from leprosy or Hansen's disease; 'Boy' as applied to the African male, regardless of age.

Words can speak Louder than Actions was Brunetta Morris' talk topic. "South Americans resent us saying 'we are Americans', the phrase 'you people' or 'your people is another barrier. She continued, "Minstrel shows are not very popular anymore, possibly when racial equality and justice are more real we can afford to laugh again about such matters, but not until more changes have been made."

The Changing Mind of Mission was the topic chosen by Lilly Meser. "Missionaries do not go out with a possession, but with a gift—to share. Mission literally means 'sent' and the whole Church is sent into the world to do God's will."

The program was concluded with the group praying in unison. Miss Ira Hammond presided over the business of the Guild. Members voted to have year books mimeographed, to send two delegates to Guild weekend, and to send Marlene Stephens to the School of Missions at Lubbock. Members present were Hester Bownds, Ruth Fowler, Lilly Mes-

Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

Wyatt Earp had a most pleasant visit with me on my day from Hugh O'Brian, the most of you as Wyatt Earp was accompanied by my friend, Ed Shelton, who originated in Austin, Texas, but who is well known in Washington for a number of years for his fine Texas friendships and his outstanding abilities. O'Brian is entitled to the name of the people of this country who are sincerely interested in youth. As I might say, as Hugh O'Brian, the outstanding professional of the entertainment industry, spearheaded a movement in this country to help provide inspirational and projects for delinquent youth. He established the O'Brian Youth Foundation, a nonprofit corporation designed to help out and provide opportunities for delinquent youth. He has potential leaders. He has in this in the following terms: Today in America there is a search for a diligent search for a neglected or disregarded potential. There is a neglected group, long neglected, whose delinquent nor development needs encouragement and attention. The purpose of this Foundation is to seek youth and provide opportunities for its leadership potential to come to life and grow. A discussion of this program with Hugh O'Brian would convince anyone that he was never serious, even when he undertakes to portray Wyatt Earp, which he does with such perfection. One of us in the Panhandle know the great work that can be done with youth because of our association with world famous Boys Ranch, headed by a human dynamo, Cal Farley. There are many areas in which we can bring about fine improvements for the betterment of this country. I salute all the dedicated men who have labored and are contributing to this cause.

Salesmanship
The prestige of the United States in world affairs has been a debated issue for the past several years. It has become more so since the November 1960 elections, primarily because of charges and countercharges made in preceding campaigns. Many men can cause loss of prestige, an indispensable item in promoting it and in rebuilding it is salesmanship. Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges recognizes and is advocating programs which would be most beneficial to the welfare and the economy of this country, both nationally and internationally.

A fine reporter for one of the Washington newspapers, desiring my help in the promotion of a good program, decided to ask myself just how salesmanship was being practiced in the commercial establishments in the Washington Metropolitan area. His adventure in quest of this material added up to a most interesting and humorous story. It pointed up with great clarity that there is a sad lack in the art of salesmanship in the metropolitan areas. In fact, his good story brought to mind a recent experience of myself and our 14 year old son, Robert. On the day before Easter Sunday, I got Robert corralled and into the car and we went to one of the leading department stores in this area. After searching on our own for about ten minutes we found the department where pants were located. We waited another ten minutes and concluded that our presence in the store had not been of great interest to anyone. Seeing two men casually conversing at a nearby counter, I hesitantly asked if they worked in the establishment. After continuing their conversation for several seconds, one of them inquired as to why I asked. I advised him that I was desirous of purchasing a pair of trousers for my son. He advised me in very clipped terms that I was standing by the pants counter and had been for several minutes. I suggested that it was my thought that perhaps he might be interested in whether the trousers fit the boy, but he quickly assured me that this was a false assumption. He stated the size was written the trousers and that I ought to be able to pick out what I wanted. I advised him that I was not compelled to buy the pants and that unless the service improved, I would let Robert go without them. The salesman (?) just smiled, probably realizing that both law and convention in our present-day civilization require this attire. Robert was probably thinking the same thing, because he didn't seem to approve of my threat to let him go without them. His chagrin undoubtedly convinced the salesman that he had me cornered, because he continued in the position that I found him when I interrupted his conversation. In an effort to recover some of the lost ground, I inquired of him how long it would take to put a pair of cuffs on the trousers so that the boy could wear them. He went into a deep study for about two minutes, and then in the tones of a judge pronouncing sentence on the accused, advised me that it would require at least two weeks. I expressed astonishment that such a long time would be required for a very simple operation. He advised me in most condescending tones that he could see that I had no understanding of the situation involved. He said, and I quote, "You must understand that you are required to take your turn." I didn't. What the salesman (?) didn't know was that I had a secret weapon. Robert has some older brothers, so we borrowed a pair of trousers from one of them to tide him over Easter until we could go to a store in one of the smaller communities around Washington where people have not forgotten real courtesy and salesmanship. This will undoubtedly seem like a strange story to the people of the Panhandle, where the clerks in the stores have always had the reputation of being most courteous and most helpful to the customers. I sincerely hope that the courtesy and helpfulness on the part of the people in the many small and medium-sized towns in this country will infiltrate the metropolitan areas rather than vice versa.

If we lose the art of salesmanship at home in our own business and our own daily operations, how can we expect to sell our way of life in other sections of the world?

Farm Facts

What kinds of homes do farmers and their families live in today? The answer is "little different from those of their city cousins."

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Balance Sheet for Agriculture, 1960, a large proportion of farm families now have many of the newer household appliances and home furnishings. Increasingly, expenditures are largely for replacements and improvements.

The value of furniture and appliances in farm homes was $13.5 billion at the beginning of 1960, an increase of almost 3% over the year earlier and an increase of 73% since 1950.

And this increase has not been accounted for by higher prices. In terms of 1940 prices, the value of home furnishings and equipment has risen significantly. In 1960, the level was 34% higher than in 1950. It was 66% higher than in 1940.

About 95% of our farm homes now have electricity and some 70% have television sets. As long ago as 1950, more than half the farm homes had telephones, 64% had running water, 60% had mechanical refrigerators, and 39% had home freezers. Percentages are higher now.

Value of furnishings in farm homes has increased 73% since 1950.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Pepper of Estelline visited Sunday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmont Branigan.

MINUTE MEDITATION

Holy Father, give us help in time of trouble for vain is the help of man.

Show me thy ways, O Lord, Teach me thy paths.

Now therefore, O God strengthen my hands and hold up my goings that my footsteps skip not.

Make haste to deliver us from evil, save us Lord lest we perish.

Jesus, Master, have mercy upon us, I stretch forth my hands unto thee, my soul thirsteth for thee.

Heal my soul for I have sinned against thee.

Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth and keep the door of my lips.

Forsake me not, O Lord, my God, and be not far from me.

Into thy hand I commit my spirit for thou hast redeemed me, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

WILL BERLIN BRING WAR?

If the Berlin crisis causes a third World War in this century, it will be a sad commentary on man's ability to handle his own problems. If will be definite and conclusive proof that wars have always created problems, not settled them. Some historians would probably write that the third World War in the 20th Century was caused by a fight between the two major victors of World War II over the spoils of that war. Such a statement would not be completely true unless Berlin could be called a spoil of a conflict. There is no question but that it was thor-ghly spoiled from a physical standpoint at the end of the war. There are scars still standing like grim specters throughout the city, but the physical spoil has been cured. West Berlin has been rebuilt into a modern city, primarily by the generosity and help of this country. The Eastern sector has also been rebuilt, but it is very crude in comparison with the modern look of the Western side. This physical difference actually reflects the difference between Communism and the free enterprise system. The difference is also reflected in the faces of the population, sadness in the Eastern sector, joy in the western sector. Whatever may be argued, it cannot be denied that Berlin was the center of the activities and conduct that brought about World War I. It was the center of activities and conduct that brought about World War II. In both instances the city and the country were in full control of the German people and a German government. Although it may be said that the same exists today insofar as West Berlin is concerned, it must be admitted that the influence of other countries on West Germany and West Berlin is much more pronounced under the present circumstances than it was before. The German people in the Eastern sector are dominated by the Soviet Union. Hence, if Berlin becomes the point where the spark that fires World War III comes into existence, it cannot be blamed on the Germans. It will be the fault of the outside powers.

The propaganda machine of the Reds is at work again to try to split the West on this issue. The recent remarks of Walter Ulbricht, the Communist leader in East Germany, that Western Germany was rebuilding itself for the purpose of renewing its traditional military activities, are a good example. This is undoubtedly being done for the purpose of creating suspicions among the Western powers. If there is any reason to suspect the activities of Western Germany, the several governments which comprise the NATO organizations could control the situation without too much difficulty, and should. On the other hand, the Red propaganda machine is slyly suggesting that there is a rift between Red China and the USSR. The Free World should recognize this for what it is—a move to lull us into a false sense of security. It must be realized that if a controversy existed between these two powers it could hardly rebound to the benefit of the Free World. We are not dealing with a bunch of naive people. We are dealing with a shrewd, ruthless and tough opponent. The worst mistake we could make would be to again underestimate this bunch. The people in this country were led to believe that a great revolution was about to take place inside Russia and that much internal unrest was on the move. There is very little evidence of that being the case. There is less evidence that if such a revolution were to start it would have the most remote chance of the least possible success. The complete failure of the countryside to rise up in support of such a move occurred in the recent Cuban invasion. Had the countryside arisen to the challenge, the invasion probably would not have failed. We in this country must face the cold, hard facts of reality and understand that whistling in the dark is not going to scare off the attempts of the Communists to try to take all they can get. We must let them understand without question of doubt that we intend to fully support our commitments and the protection of our rights, whether it be Berlin or any place else. To negotiate fairly and hon-extended for last week.) Experience thus far shows that this pilot program is a real step forward in helping local communities secure the financing they need to help strengthen local job opportunities and the general economy.

When we consider that 144 of our 254 Texas counties lost population from 1950 to 1960, and when we remember that a large number of our towns need additional manufacturing and other plants, we realize the real need for expanding the local Development Company Loan Program or establishing other similar programs.

This helps towns help themselves. This helps young people develop their business and technological capacities right in the counties in which they grew up, and it would slow up the modern trend which drives young people into the cities and makes our nation just a group of cities.

When this year opened, one out of every six construction workers was unemployed, including thousands of Texans in this trade. Last year, residential construction was 18 per cent below 1959, despite the growing need for new homes to house our growing population.

The last official census disclosed that one out of every five in Texas, a total of over 630,000 houses in our state, were either dilapidated or lacked proper plumbing facilities.

With 14-million Americans living in slum-condition homes and with the nation having a high rate of unemployment, it was vitally important that this Congress take strong legislative action.

Our first goal is to help put a decent home within the reach of all Americans. Our second objective is to start a housing program that would allow men to go to work and encourage a prosperous construction industry.

Residential construction alone accounts for 30 per cent of the total private investment annually. Texas merchants and other businessmen know that full employment and strong home construction programs usually mean that their cash registers are ringing.

To meet this nationwide lag in home construction and building trades employment, the Congress passed the most far-reaching and forward-looking housing bill in the last ten years. Time will not permit me to discuss all of its features here, but I would like to list some major points.

First, the new housing bill provides that homes costing up to $15,000 each can be purchased under FHA mortgage insurance with only a 3 per cent down payment and that down payment will include the closing costs. You remember if you go to buy a home and you pay a certain per cent and then the closing costs come along—hundreds of dollars for the abstract and the opinion, the insurance, the taxes and the other things. Now this 3 per cent that you pay down under FHA mortgage under this new housing bill that we've passed will include all of these closing costs. In addition the loan period is extended to 35 years, and in some cases up to 40 years.

One of the most important and badly needed programs contained in this bill is the $125-million fund for direct loans for building housing for elderly citizens. Sixteen million Americans, including 700,000 Texans, are 65 years of age or older. Four-fifths of all these in this age group who live alone have incomes of less than $2,000 a year. This fund to build for the elderly will help church organizations and other non-profit groups to construct clean and suitable homes for many aged people who need such homes at this time.

Another important provision is a $300-million annual increase in college housing loan funds for college dormitories for each of the next four years. This has already proven to be a sound program that has helped Texas colleges finance the construction of many dormitories. This program is being greatly expanded to help meet the logjam of new students who will enroll in our colleges in the next few years. And those students are needed in our colleges for the safety of this country.

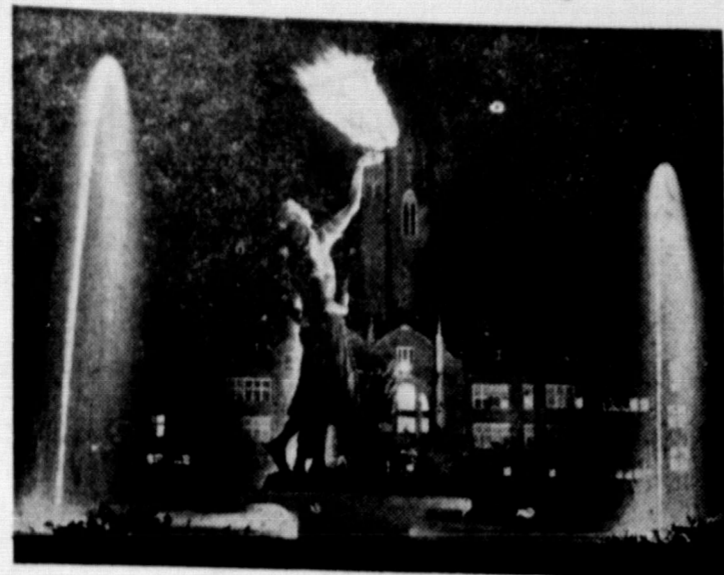

These are only a few of the main features of the most important housing bill the United States Congress has passed in more than ten years.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wilks and daughter Janice, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellerd and C. L. Ellerd and children of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Ellerd and Dwayne, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Ellerd and Diane Ammidown and Wayland Fronterhouse were dinner guests Sunday in the home of Mrs. B. J. Ellerd.

Mrs. Harley Gordon and daughters, Janet and Kay and son Gary of Dallas arrived here Wednesday for a visit with their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Goffinet.

Miss Mary Crawford of Lubbock visited here last week with relatives and friends.

AMERICANA College Notebook Oklahoma City University

Oklahoma City University traces its official origin to Epworth University, established October 26, 1901 by the Oklahoma Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Oklahoma Territory in Shawnee and the Indian Mission Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South of Chickasha. First meeting of the Joint Commission was held December 3, 1901, and organized the University Development Company which subsequently accepted an offer from Oklahoma City of $100,000 and 40 acres of land in the northwest part of Oklahoma City.

Epworth University opened in September, 1904 and operated until 1911 when financial difficulties made it necessary to move to Guthrie and unite with Fort Worth University to form the Methodist University of Oklahoma. They occupied the territorial capital building for eight years.

In 1919 the Methodist University of Oklahoma moved to Oklahoma and the name was changed to Oklahoma City College. The present campus was acquired in 1921 when twenty acres of land were purchased and subsequently 30 acres were added. The first building, now OCU's Administration building, was occupied in November, 1922, the same year the University Downtown was established. The gymnasium was built in 1926. The third building to be erected was the School of Music, in 1928.

Many modern buildings have been added in the succeeding years. The University now operates through five different units: The College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Music, the School of Business, the School of Law, and the School of Engineering and Industrial Technology.

Since the merger of the three main branches of Methodism, Oklahoma City University has been owned and controlled by the Methodist Church. The University is rendering an increasingly valuable service to the cause of Christian Education in the state of Oklahoma and the Southwest.

With the assistance of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Oklahoma City University began, in September, 1960, a five-year program to raise its academic standards.

Johnny Fuston Is Delegate To Texas 4-H Council

Johnny Fuston of the Turkey 4-H Club has been selected as one of the two delegates to represent the District on the Texas 4-H Council, W. B. Hooser, county agent, announced this week.

Johnny will be one of the two delegates from the District to attend the State 4-H Council Workshop. Each district is allowed one boy and one girl to represent it on the council, Hooser explained. The Texas 4-H Council Workshop will be held from Tuesday, Aug. 1 through Saturday, Aug. 5.

at Sam Houston State Teachers College, Huntsville.

The Texas 4-H Council Standing Rules state: "The Council membership shall consist of a boy and a girl elected by each District 4-H Council or District Committee in the state, the officers of the Texas 4-H Council and information chairman. Council members shall be at least 14 years of age on Jan. 1 of the current year and not over 20 at the time of the election with at least three years of club membership including the current year. They shall serve not less than one year and shall be eligible for membership as district representative for one year only."

County Agent Hooser stated that it is an honor and a mark of achievement that Johnny has been selected as a member of the Texas 4-H Council.

"This privilege is extended to few 4-H Club members, and he is fortunate to have this opportunity," Hooser added.

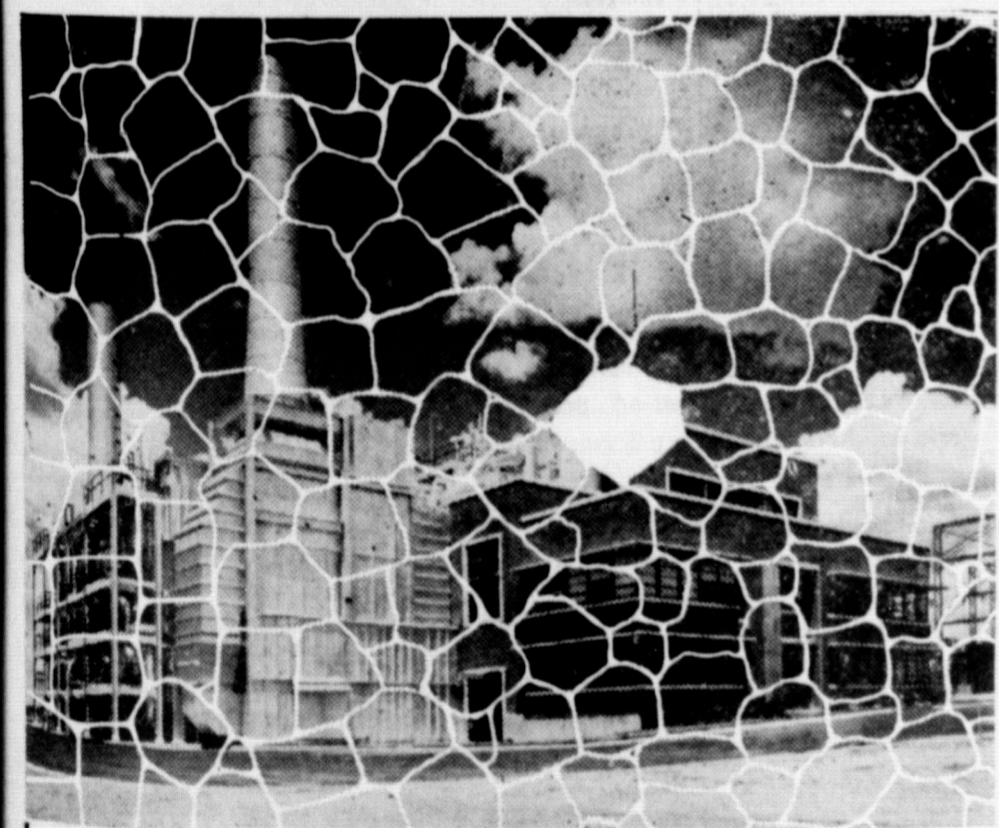

As a member of the Council, Johnny's first obligation will be to attend and participate in the 1961 Council Workshop to be held at Sam Houston State Teachers College in Huntsville, Aug. 1-5.

At the workshop, Fuston will learn more about how a Council is a part of 4-H Club work; he will live as the kind of democratic citizen described in the 4-H pledge; and will serve as a democratic representative.

Fuston is scheduled to arrive at Huntsville on Tuesday, Aug. 1, and will return home after noon Saturday, Aug. 5.

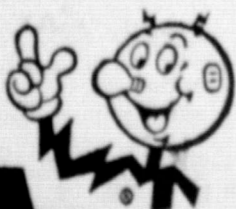

Mrs. Ray Martin of Pampa is visiting here this week with her sisters, Miss Imogene King and Mrs. Alla Boswell and daughter Helen.

EDITORIAL

The time for the 18th Annual Farm Safety Week, proclaimed by the President of the United States, J. F. Kennedy, is drawing near, and farmers all over the nation are being asked to follow the theme, "Safety Is A Family Affair." The purpose of the week is to promote a year 'round program of farm and farm home accident prevention.

The week is an opportunity to help reduce the great toll of lives, suffering and expense caused by needless accidents. The effectiveness of the campaign will depend upon the co-operation it receives.

President John F. Kennedy in proclaiming the special week stated: "Whereas more than a million farm residents are injured accidents bring sorrow and suffering to our farm families and inflict heavy economic losses upon both the farm community and the Nation; and whereas the safety of those people who produce our food is of vital concern to all of our citizens: I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, do hereby call upon the people of the Nation to observe the week beginning July 23, 1961, as National Farm Safety Week, and I urge all farm residents to remember that 'Safety Is A Family Affair.' I also urge all persons and organizations interested in the safety of farm people to support and participate in this special endeavor to help reduce the number of farm accidents."

According to the National Safety Council Accidents Facts, 1960, during 1959, 11,700 deaths and 1,000,000 disabling injuries occurred to Farm residents. Of this, 5,300 deaths and 200,000 injuries were attributed to motor-vehicle accidents, 2,700 deaths and 400,000 injuries due to home accidents, 3,400 deaths and 300,000 injuries due to work accidents, and public non-motor-vehicle accidents accounted for 900 deaths and 120,000 injuries.

The program as planned is set up with a different observance each day of the week. These are: Sunday—Reverence for life, Monday—Safety begins at home, Tuesday—Agricultural chemicals, Wednesday—Prevent falls, Thursday—Highway safety, Friday—Farm machinery, and Saturday—Recreation safety.

Farming is one of the most hazardous occupations in America today. This does not mean that it is getting worse, but it is improving at a very slow rate. More people are killed on the farm than in any other industry; however, in deaths per 100,000 workers it ranks third, only behind mining and construction.

In Texas, plans are going forward for the observance of the Week, reports the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. In many counties extensive programs will be carried out, emphasizing that safety is a family affair. County Extension agents, 4-H Club members and their leaders, farm and community organization leaders and others with a deep interest in the promotion will contribute to the overall plans.

Here in Hall County, W. B. Hooser, County Agent said that special safety meetings have been held by the six 4-H Clubs recently to create a safety consciousness among the farmers of Hall County. Hooser said, "The program cannot be valued in terms of money."

In the past, Hall County 4-H members have won national and state awards in Farm Safety. A description of the County 4-H Farm Safety program is given a news story this week.

The National Farm Safety Week is a good time to re-examine our daily practices and make our farms and homes a safer place to raise our families. Remember, "Safety Is A Family Affair."

What Other Editors Say

A Large Chunk of Ideas

One of the most dangerous ideas loose in the world today is the one which Communism bases its future—is understood by almost nobody, including most college graduates.

You need not feel bad, therefore, if "dialectal materialism" has no clear meaning to you.

By itself the word "dialectal" has a very simple meaning: the art of examining ideas logically. Dialectal materialism, as used by the Communists, means the logical examination of two ideas supposedly hostile to each other (i. e., property rights and human rights) and what happens when they collide.

During the collision both the original ideas are supposed to lose their identity and form a new one. In scholarly language, a "thesis" meets head-on with an "antithesis" and the two form a "synthesis."

A very simple physical illustration: of you were to force, under great pressure, a tube of red paint (thesis) into the same space occupied by blue paint (antithesis) there would be no red or blue—there would be only purple (synthesis).

So you can see there is nothing complicated about the basic process.

Marxian dialectal materialism applies this idea of "collision and change" to the area of economics and government, and calls it an "iron law."

This "law" assumes the private property rights (thesis) protected by the police power of the "reactionary" state, will come into violent collision with human rights (antithesis) driven onward by the "grinding poverty of the masses."

The synthesis that will supposedly result is a society in which all property will be publicly owned, there will be no social classes, no economic disputes, jealousy or distress.

Under this happy condition, the "law" says, the state need no longer be an "oppressive tool of the dominate class" and will, therefore, "wither away."

Karl Marx believed that the ingredients of this revolution had been building up slowly throughout history, and that the introduction of power tools would finally concentrate the capitalistic ownership of property to the point where the collision would have to take place.

Most socialists who are non-Communist no longer believe this; they have seen an enormous widening of the ownership of property and wealth, which is the direct opposite of what was predicted.

They have witnessed the "withering away" of poverty where it was supposed to be growing. But the Socialists who are Communists still believe, or at least profess to believe, that the working of the "iron law" is an historical certainty.

Moreover, they are trying to help it along continuously stirring up class hatred in every corner of the globe.

Where no hatred is present, they strive to create it.

If you have gotten the impression that the Communists are far more interested in setting up a world-wide dictatorship than in "emancipating the masses," you have hit upon the truth.

At least this is borne out in Russia where, after 43 years of absolute power to reform the society, the people are still dominated by the police state.—Southwest General News.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

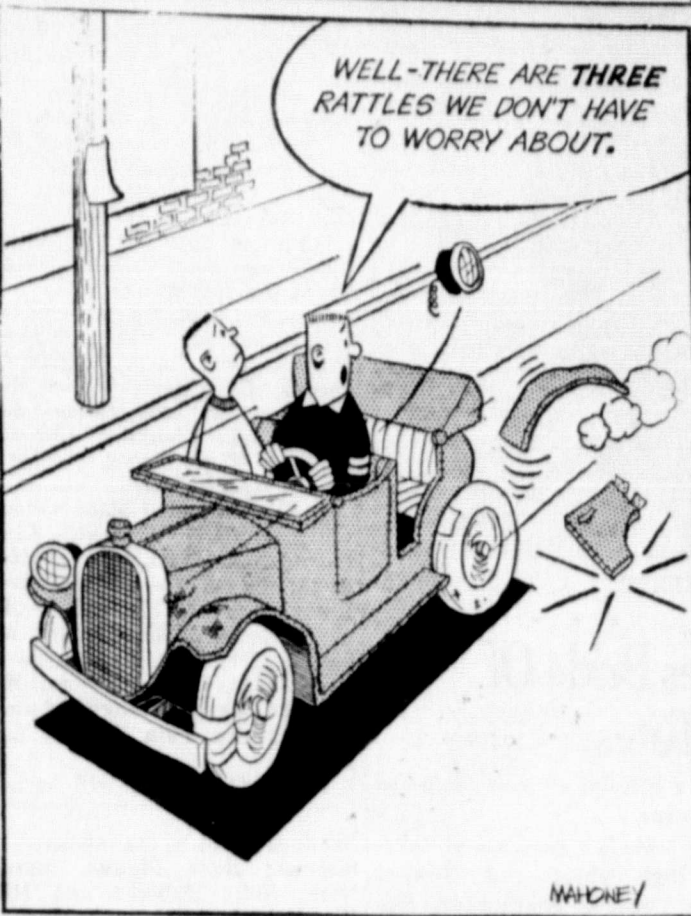

The American farmer has consistently shown the greatest increase in output per man hour of any major segment of the American economy in the last 20 years. The secret of his success is based upon many factors, but chief among those is his ability to use his land, labor, and capital in a more efficient manner. Soil and Water Conservation, or as some think of it, proper land use, has been a major factor in his ability to produce. This combined with better machinery, higher yielding varieties of crops, and increased use of fertilizers and insecticides has resulted in the farmer being able to produce half again as much as he did 20 years ago.

Normally increased efficiency in any American business would mean two things—a cheaper product for the consumer, and increased profits for the producer. But this is not true for the farmer. Immediately following World War II, the family grocery bill took just a little over 25 per cent of the family budget. Today less than 25 per cent of the take-home pay is spent for food in spite of the fact that Americans are eating better than ever before.

In the meantime, the cost of services to those who prepare and market food products have gone up and up. Wages, freight rates, fuel costs, supplies, equipment, etc., have risen. Processing, transportation, and distributing foods take 61 cents of the food dollar—the farmer gets 39 cents, which activities was to assist with the horses; such as saddling, currying the animals and assisting beginning riders.

HALF-PAST TEEN

is 10 cents less than he got 10 years ago. The "real cost" of food is the amount of hours of work it takes to finance the weekly food basket. The next time a friend complains about the high cost of food, it might not hurt to show him these figures. Ten years ago, an hour's work purchased 2.3 pounds of chuck roast, or 1.8 dozen eggs, or 6.5 quarts of milk, or 9.6 loaves of bread, or 24 pounds of potatoes. Today, an hour's work will purchase 3.3 pounds of chuck roast, or 3.6 dozen eggs, or 8.1 quarts of milk, or 10.1 loaves of bread, or 29 pounds of potatoes. Food is a bargain. The Hall County Soil Conservation District was organized by local farmers and ranchers to promote and establish better soil and water conservation measures. The Soil Conservation Service is proud to assist the Hall County Soil Conservation District and farmers and ranchers within the District in all soil and water conservation problems. The personnel of the Service hope that within the next 20 years that they will have made even greater strides in the field of Ag-

Memorial Fund Is Part Of Cancer Research Project

More than 11,000 persons died in Texas during 1960 from Cancer, according to figures released recently by the American Cancer Society. In this immediate area, 58 deaths were attributed to the disease.

Hall County lost nine persons from cancer, Ben Parks, chairman of the local unit of the American Cancer Society, said. Deaths from cancer in surrounding counties were as follows: Motley, 6; Collingsworth, 2; Briscoe, 7; Childress, 15; and Donley, 9.

"It is hoped through liberal contributions made each year by Americans during the annual Cancer Crusade and through contributions to the Memorial Fund that a cure for the disease can soon be found," Mr. Parks said.

Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society may be made to the county chairman and persons seeking more information on the program may secure pamphlets at the First National Bank or at the local funeral chapel.

When a Memorial Gift is made, the family of the deceased is notified with a Memorial Card. This card carries the name of the person in whose memory the funds have been given and the name of the person who made the gift, Mr. Parks explained. The names of all persons in whose name a Memorial has been given will be entered in a permanent Memorial Book of the Texas Division, he said.

Funds from Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society are used to support cancer research hospitals, laboratories and clinics; to provide fellowships for doctors and scientists and to help train the manpower needed to carry out future research.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

There is a swinging pendulum in Texas. It is descending like Poe's weapon in the pit to alter the picture of rabies in Texas.

At the end of June the Texas State Health Department announced a total of 359 rabies cases in Texas reported to health authorities. Sixty-nine of these cases occurred in June.

The changing aspects of the Texas rabies picture stems from the fact that prevalence of wild-life rabies has shifted significantly from foxes to skunks during the past few years.

Whereas 10 years ago, most involved domestic animals, today the majority of cases are among wildlife animals. Out of the 69 cases reported in June, nearly half were skunks.

In all of 1951, there were only 54 cases of rabies among skunks spread over 30 different counties. During the same year, most wild-life rabies cases were reported in foxes.

A dramatic swing to Texas rabies in another direction is also apparent. During the peak fox-wildlife outbreaks the major area of occurrence was in a chain of counties running in a rough horizontal line stretching from mid-east Texas through Central Texas. Today the skunk wildlife picture spreads across a north-to-south belt involving the eastern portion of Central Texas, and has now involved South Texas, West Texas, North-Central Texas, and the Texas Panhandle.

At the end of June, a total of 179 cases of skunk rabies had been reported since January 1st—32 in June alone. The number of cases that come to the State Health Department laboratory for diagnosis represents only a small of the number of cases that actually occur.

It is this that portrays the descending nature of the pendulum. One state already assumes that any submitted skunk head is rabid, and human and animal exposure to a skunk bite is dealt with as an exposure to rabies.

Escape from the immediate danger of rabies exposure can be avoided with proper vaccination of dogs and cats periodically as recommended by a veterinarian.

Your Bank Is Concerned With Farm Safety, Too

ONLY AS OUR FARMER CUSTOMERS THRIVE AND PROSPER CAN THIS BANK AND COMMUNITY PROGRESS

Farm safety should be practiced by every farmer for the sake of his life, his health, and his family's happiness.

And now may we point to a part of the Farm Safety to which this bank is closely concerned.

- We urge you to practice FARM SAFETY for the sake of your finances. One farm accident can cost an entire year's profit, or more. It can take the money you planned to use for farm improvements, for capital investments, for new machinery or for your children's education.
- It is a heartbreaking loss to you that may mean hardships for several years to come. It is a loss to the community in the money you would have spent here, the participation you would have given community affairs.
- Habits of alertness to accidents encourage other habits of alertness, too. An orderly and accident-free farm indicates an operator who has developed orderly ways of conducting his business, of conducting his life.

THIS IS NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK. THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK URGES YOU TO PRACTICE FARM SAFETY EVERY WEEK OF THE YEAR.

Hall County 4-H Clubs Prepare For National Farm Safety Week, July 23-29

Annual safety meetings have been held by the six 4-H Clubs in Hall County to create a safety awareness among the farmers. W. B. Hooser, County Agent, said this week is a very important program in operation in Hall County for the last ten years. "The program cannot be evaluated in terms of money," he said. "Safety surveys were made on 100 members' farms and 100 sheets were filled out by members in order to stamp out the plague of farm accidents. July 23-29 has been designated as National Farm Safety Week, and the 4-H members are making an appeal to every farmer in the county to join in a clean-up program. Every member of the family will have a part in this program. Working with farm houses, the club members asked every farmer to:

- 1. Collect old papers and magazines, rags and old clothing and old furniture from attics, basements and turn them in for salvage. Such materials are often the sources of spontaneous ignition and provide a spark for any spark or help clean the heating plant top to chimney top. An effective chimney sweep can be made by wrapping a brick or two in a rope and pulling it up and down the chimney. Dirty chimneys are apt to spark and reduce the efficiency of the heat plant. If the roof is not protected by a fire resistant material, such as asphalt shingles or a similar material, it may burst into flames. A dirty and defective heating system, plus a flammable roof, accounts for almost one-third of all home fires.

- 3. Make sure gasoline and kerosene are not stored in the home. If any is found, suggest storing it elsewhere, preferably underground, and not in or near main buildings. Look at labels on containers of cleaning fluids. If marked "flammable" or "inflammable" get rid of them. Good, non-explosive cleaning fluids are available which are safe to use.
- 4. Check all electrical equipment. Don't use it if it is not operating properly. Replace frayed extension cords. Clean dust and cobwebs away from fuse boxes, and check the insulation on wires which may rub against any substance.

When the house is in order, the club members urge similar treatment of the barn and other buildings. Make sure they are clean. Then, look at fields and fence rows. Will dead plant growth roar into flames if a match is carelessly dropped or a farm machine backfires? Cut down dead weeds and rake up dry leaves. Burn them on days when there is no wind.

Every 4-H Club member will be the leader in the clean-up campaign at home, and collectively will be an important factor in ridding the county of similar hazards to life and property, he said. Every club member is urged to remind his parents of the important fire-resistant construction when remodeling or planning new buildings. The principal safeguard which should be included in remodeling and repair plans are: fire-resistant roofing, properly installed wiring, and a good chimney soundly constructed. All defective electrical equipment should be repaired and rags, papers, and boxes cleaned out of every building on the farm.

GOODNIGHT COLLEGE REUNION AUGUST 6

The ex-students of Goodnight College will hold their annual reunion in Goodnight Sunday, August 6, and according to Homer Owens, president of the organization, a good program has been planned and a nice luncheon will be served.

All ex-students are urged to attend and enjoy meeting many whom they have not seen in a good many years. "It will be a day of enjoyment for all who attend," Owens stated.

Visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vandiver over the weekend were their daughter, Mrs. Helene Pittman of Dallas and her four children, Mrs. Doris King of Lynn, Mass., whom they had not seen for 15 years, and Mrs. Bobbie Rice, Mrs. Patsy Butler and Jerry Pitman, all of Dallas and Mrs. Vandiver's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Proffitt of Sherman. The group visited in Amarillo Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vandiver.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

How do you go about writing a book?

The first step—and much the most important—in the gathering of the material, assuming that you are not going to write on a subject which you know at first hand—your recollections of a famous friend, or a winter you spent in the Antarctic.

This material must be grouped, so as to be easily handled. If it is a biography, the groupings would be the boyhood and early schooling, college days, beginning of career, etc. After the grouping, material must be given time to assume shape and significance in the writer's mind.

Last of all comes the writing—which often takes the least time of all.

Research is fascinating. A while back I became interested in the subject of William Jennings Bryan, so all of the biographies—five or six—were read.

When Bryan ran first time for president, his opponent was William McKinley—and so the biographies of McKinley and of Mark Hanna, the mastermind of McKinley's campaign, were examined. The next race, the Republican candidate for vice president was Theodore Roosevelt and he and Bryan were rivals thereafter—hence the biographies of "T. R." were read; similarly, with William Howard Taft, Bryan's opponent in his third campaign.

Then, since Bryan had much to do with the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, came the reading of chapters in Wilson biographies.

Also there were contemporaries who had contacts with Bryan, such men as Bourke Cockran, Grover Cleveland and John Peter Altgeld. Then there were journalists who wrote their recollections of "the great and near great."

Besides, there are the writings of professors on government, who have analyzed the methods and influence of various political leaders. And sometimes in an autobiography of someone, you find a recollection of Bryan.

Besides books, there are contemporary magazines which give accounts of the various conventions and campaigns, and the old newspapers, too.

The search for facts, incidents and color becomes intriguing, indeed.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and kindly ministrations to us at the tragic loss of our loved one. We deeply appreciated the beautiful floral offering and the food that was served as well as the many other kindnesses shown us. It is our wish that when this same sadness comes to your home you will have God's richest blessings and the same kindness at the hands of our friends and neighbors.

SAFETY

Is Common Sense

Observe Farm Safety Week

July 23-29. Observe Its Rules Every Week.

We urge our farmer friends to take every precaution against accidents on your farms . . . it will save you money, save you pain and perhaps save your life.

ADEQUATE INSURANCE

... is one form of Farm Safety

One farm accident not only costs you time and loss of property. Replacements come out of future earnings and that is loss of money, too . . . money you had planned to invest, or use for improvement, or for pleasure.

There are many forms of farm insurance that you may not know are available. The cost is low, and in case of a farm accident, you will be protected against costly loss. Let us explain a common-sense insurance program planned to cover your needs.

These Facts Make Farm Safety Week Important!

- ➔ Farm work accidents claim about 3,500 lives each year, more than any other major industry.
- ➔ About 12,000 farm residents lose their lives each year in all types of accidents.
- ➔ A million or more farm people suffer accidental injuries and the accompanying disabilities, miseries, and financial troubles each year . . . because of accidents.

Safety Makes Sense . . .

- ➔ ● Fewer Deaths
- ➔ ● Fewer Injuries
- ➔ ● Less Expense
- ➔ ● Less Grief and Suffering

Who Loses After an Accident?

Everyone in the nation is affected, directly or indirectly, by the annual farm accident toll. Business in general loses economically and socially, after a farm accident. The victims and their families, however, suffer the greatest loss.

Human Failure . . .

➔ Human failure, not motor vehicles, farm implements or animals, is the basic cause of accidents. In nearly every case, human failure to recognize and correct a hazard is the real cause of accidental death and injury. Human failures include:

- Hurry
- Procrastination
- False Confidence
- Improper care and use of equipment
- Lack of common sense

The West Texas Utilities Company's new office on the west side of the square is one of the nicest of such quarters in Memphis. New equipment is used throughout, and in keeping with the surroundings. The ceiling of the building was lowered and indirect lighting installed, with heating and cooling units to make the office comfortable in all kinds of weather; walls and partitions finished in subdued tones; private office, powder room, safety vault, new desks, typewriters and computing machines, display floor space, all combine to lend dignity and taste in keeping with the kind of business the company conducts.

A great deal of interest is manifested at Canyon and the entire Panhandle in a project that concerns the Palo Duro Canyon. A group under the direction of Dr. Pies Harper, a former Memphis boy, left last week by chartered bus to visit Williamsburg, Va. and Cherokee, N. C. to see the historic plays of those regions. This is done with a view of an ambitious program for Palo Duro Canyon—a theatre in the Canyon's natural setting, with a play that gives a lot of history for this section of the great southwest. The play to be written by Paul Green, a Pulitzer Prize winning Broadway playwright who has written plays for such historical places. Such a theater would bring thousands of visitors to one of Texas' places of grandeur.

Have bb gun—will travel... ambitious youngsters have been roaming streets and alleys and invading the privacy of back yards of Memphis lately, shooting at all kinds of things and especially at birds that war on insects and he's to make life more pleasant. Our attention has been called to the absence of mocking birds lately, and the belief is that they have been scared away and some

Ever since early in the spring, Mrs. Wells and I, while eating breakfast, could watch a mocking bird as it burst its throat in song, then fly straight up several feet, and then back to the light pole to resume its singing. Now, no bird and no sweet song. Have pity, Palladan.

International conditions are becoming more serious by the hour. It looks like a showdown with Russia over Berlin is in the offing. If America backs up in this crisis, it will mean the whole world will be taken over by Communists, and the America we all know and love will be a puppet country. Reservists in The Democrat office are waiting until next Tuesday to know whether they will be called back into service. It looks very much like a repeater of the '40s—only hundreds of times worse. War is dreaded and feared by all—from those too young and too old—those within service age—those with sons, husbands and fathers—those who have no children of their own—those who have to stay at home and keep things going—and all hope that Khrushchev will realize that it is suicide for his country and all other countries involved to force the issue. He should know that the West has appeased and backed off to the point that now their backs are to the wall and retreat further is impossible. War is awful—slavery is worse!

We, personally, would hate to go through another war-period like that in the '40s. Five printers and reporters were in... son, printer (lately deceased) Owen Gilmore (now Mrs. Lindsey), we kept the going by working day and of nights, when it would be much easier to close down war, and opening when returned home, because we ed our partner, Herstad gometry, and the five sh have jobs when they retu Please, Dear Lord, seourge not come to us again.
