more flowers—whole bouquet of them—to John J. McMickin who this week received an award for 50 years of service—it is the third such award to be presented to him in the past five years. The award presents this man for 50 years as weather observer for the Denver railroad. He had reported weather for more years than fifty. He has two awards for 50 years as a railroad station agent, 50 years as a Masonic Lodge member. A record very few people can claim, Mr. Weatherman!

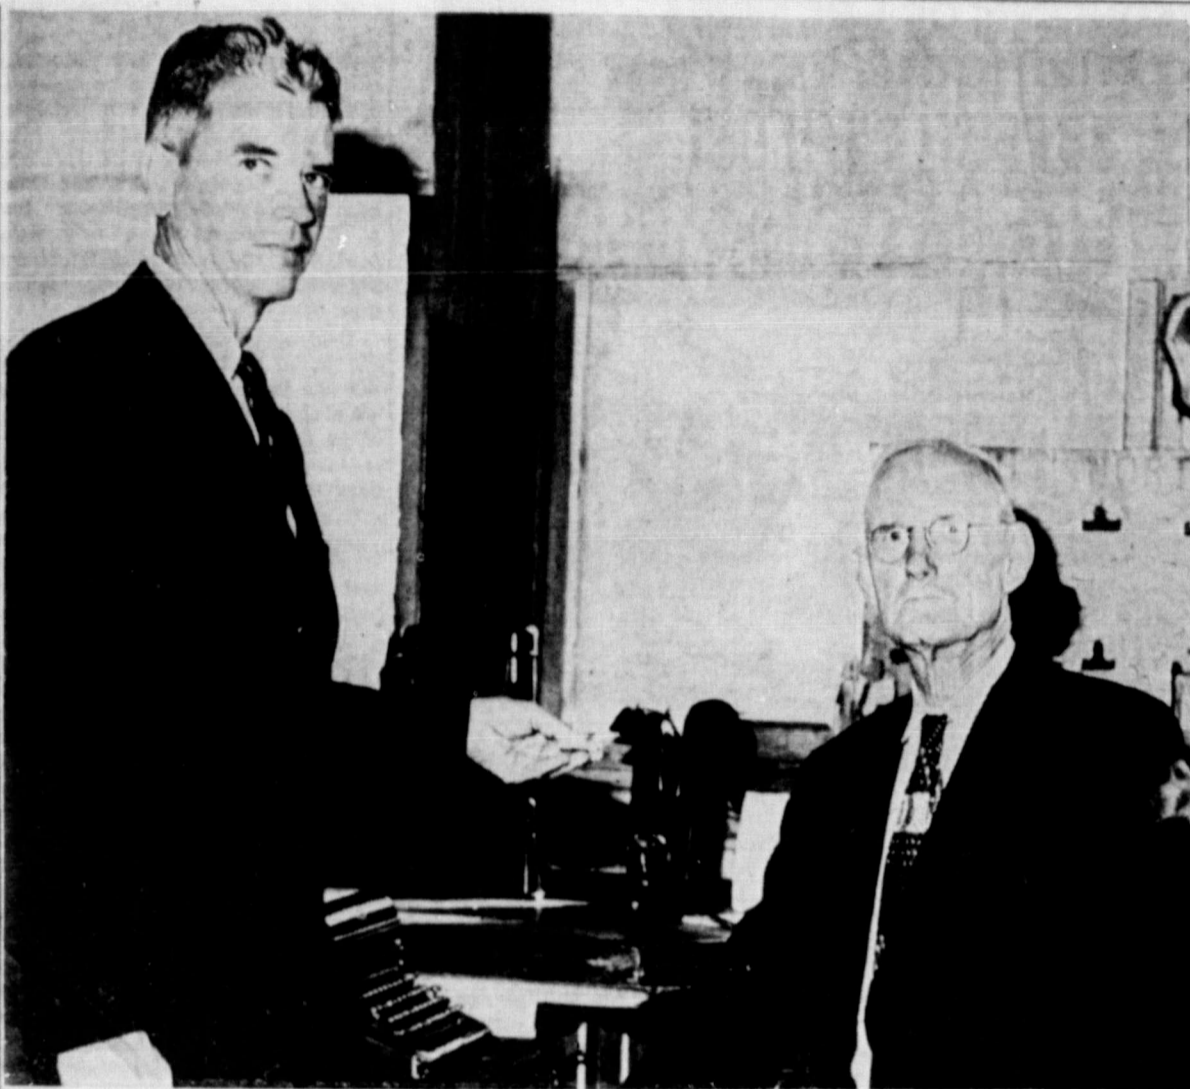

...over town will reveal a number of places where weeds are growing and trash has accumulated—this keeps Memphis from being an outstanding town of the West. How about joining a lot of other citizens in trying to beautify our fair city? Paul Morris said a number of people have called and indicated they would like to have a garden club, since such an organization would help to make Memphis a more attractive place to live and also induce others to make their home here.

...with a beautiful city are highways leading into and out of Memphis. Litterbugs continue to make highways ugly by tossing out beer cans and bottles, etc. Litterbugs cost the taxpayers of Texas almost two million dollars—funds that could build 72 miles of farm-to-market roads, or miles of two-lane highways. The Canadian Record, also known as "this litter-bugging business" much like a man throwing trash in his own yard and then trying to pick it up, for motorists are covering the highways of their state with trash and then "footing" it to have it cleaned up. It is nice if all drivers employ safe-driving habits and do not litter-bug.

...Park Opener Tuesday night will be an event from all standpoints and now that the park is open, we may see a lot of visitors using same for the remainder of the summer.

Memphis Seniors Will Graduate Friday Night

...graduation exercises for Memphis seniors will begin at 8:15 p. m. Friday in the High School auditorium. 50-YEARS WEATHER SERVICE — Robert Orton, left, climatologist for the U. S. Weather Bureau, is pictured above presenting John J. McMickin of Memphis with a 50-year service pin. McMickin is agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railway here and the award was made in his office Saturday.

J. J. McMickin Honored For 50-Years Service

John J. McMickin, Memphis weather observer, was honored Saturday as having served the U. S. Weather Bureau in that capacity longer than any other man in Texas.

The fact was made known Saturday when Robert B. Orton, state climatologist, for the U. S. Weather Bureau, was in Memphis and presented McMickin with a 50-year service pin. The weather observers, of which there are about 12,000 in the nation and 800 in Texas, serve for no pay on a seven-day a week basis.

They record the high and low temperatures, rainfall, and other important weather information, and mail it in, in the form of a monthly report.

The Weather Bureau set up an office in Memphis in July, 1905, at the Fort Worth and Denver Railway station. The first observers were simply listed as FW&DRy., and then in April of 1907 J. J. McMickin began signing the reports.

McMickin began work for the railroad when he was 16 years of age as a section hand, working part-time for three years. "That was back in the days when we used the old Armstrong hand cars," McMickin said.

Then on Dec. 29, 1906, he went to work in the office at the railroad, having been helping his father farm before that. After he had worked in the office several months, the agent gave him the job of keeping the weather records, which he has kept ever since for a total of 55 years. McMickin is agent for the railroad here and in charge of its local operations. He is 78 years old and still works full-time. "I might retire one of these days," he commented. "However, I'm feeling better now than I did several days ago."

McMickin stated that he planned to continue with the weather work as long as he could.

tear it apart, scatter its ingredients, and quickly reverse the age-long process through which the soil was made.

Soil Conservation simply means using the land so that it remains productive and gets better. When we do soil and water conservation we store up our natural resources.

Conservation has still another value — it preserves the beauty of our surroundings. Overrun, eroded land is ugly — healthy, productive land is a beautiful sight to see. The Soil Conservation Service will be glad to assist any farmer or rancher of the Hall County Soil Conservation District with the development and carrying out of a soil and water conservation program for his farm or ranch needs.

There are thousands of acres of mesquite infested land in the Hall County Soil Conservation District. Many farmers and ranchers in the District are controlling this "pest" of the rangeland.

Brush control can be carried out by various methods.

Grubbing or tree dozing is a common method. This is done with heavy equipment, using a stinger or tree blade. Grubbing can be done anytime during the year.

There is also some hand grubbing being done.

Another method of controlling mesquite is by aerial spraying with chemicals. The time to aerial spray mesquite, with chemicals, is 40 to 90 days after the first leaves appear, in the spring. This year the first leaves were observed on April 20. This places the earliest date for spraying on May 29.

Aerial spraying is done with a solution of 1-2 pound of 2, 4,5-T in one gallon of diesel fuel and enough water to make four gallons of total liquids, per acre.

After the brush has been controlled in a pasture, the pasture should be deferred for the first growing season. This gives the grasses a chance to make a good recovery after the mesquite is removed.

Some farmers and ranchers in the district who have controlled brush in the past are Sam Vest, Bill Bradley, Nels Helm, Otis Cobb, Crump Ferrel, Jack House, Ed House, Lee Scrivner, and Mrs. Ab Vineyard. These are only a few of the cooperators who have controlled brush in the past.

The Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Hall County Soil Conservation District are available to work with farmers and ranchers in planning brush control and the management of the rangeland after the brush is controlled.

Working for Texas

Meet a fellow Texan: Preston Smith.

Preston Smith's story is in the best Texas and American tradition—a farm boy who worked his own way to an education and a place of honor in his business and community life.

Born in the heart of Texas, at Georgetown, he moved with his family to Dawson County in 1923 when he was 10 years old. He went to school at Sunset, Lamesa, and Texas Tech. In his adopted home town of Lubbock, with his wife Ima and their two children, he now carries out the full responsibilities of a typical Texas business and civic leader.

A steward at St. John's Methodist Church—member of the Salvation Army Board, the Kiwanis Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Farm Bureau—these are some of the activities close to the heart of Preston Smith, citizen.

He did not stop there. In his daily pursuits Preston Smith came to realize that business and government are closely related in the American system—and that without good government we cannot have a favorable climate for good business. A man of direct action, Preston Smith went into the business of government. He served six years in the Texas House of Representatives and six in the Senate.

Senator Smith has supported sound statewide legislation for better schools, roads, welfare and conservation. He took the lead in establishing a permanent building program for state colleges. He had the integrity to support necessary state spending and the courage to oppose extravagance and waste. In government, as in business and at home, Preston Smith believes in meeting our obligations and paying our bills.

Having proved himself as one of the best-rounded, best-equipped, best-informed and most highly respected Texans in both his private and public careers, Preston Smith was a logical candidate to succeed Ben Ramsey as Lieutenant Governor of Texas.

Voters in 102 counties gave Preston the lead over four opponents in the First Democratic Primary. Now he is in the runoff. He got there without the support of any self-serving group or power bloc. His opponent has the endorsement of labor leaders and other special interests who want to dominate our state government.

Preston Smith asks only for the votes of individual Texans who want a Lieutenant Governor without any strings attached. He is depending on independent-minded Texans everywhere to vote for him on June 2.

Elect your independent candidate for Lieutenant Governor—

Report From Washington

War Against Crime

The Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives is presently engaged in final action on a bill which will contribute measurably to breaking the back of crime. Several measures have been passed in the last year directed at the very route from which crime proceeds. These have been aimed at the shutting down of gambling services furnishing information which the bookies, sports pool operators, and lay-off operators must have to operate on a big scale. Cutting off this information is in effect cutting off the very source upon which gambling depends. Without gambling and the enormous profits reaped therefrom, criminals are unable to finance big time crime. It has been pointed out that the crime syndicate which is a small, local syndicate, or a national syndicate, or an international group. In recent years some of these associations have become so rich and powerful that they have completely outgrown local authority. There has been evidence of collusion between public officials and the syndicates that effectively blocked law enforcement. There has been evidence of arrogant flouting of local authority and enforcement of officers, due to flaws and loopholes in the present laws.

Big time criminals are dealing with millions, if not billions, of dollars. By the use of these funds they can employ the best brains available to circumvent statutory prohibitions. An excellent example of this has been the manner in which the Johnson Act, which is sometimes referred to as the "slot machine law," has been conveniently avoided. The requirement of the certainty with which a crime must be spelled out in a criminal law makes it possible for these criminals to work out methods of obtaining a result without actually violating the law. The Johnson Act which was passed in 1951 outlawed the interstate transportation of slot machines. In that Act, gambling devices referred to had to be defined. It was this definition which afforded the loophole for the gamblers. They simply shifted their operations from the slot machine defined in the Johnson Act to the "pinball" machine, which had been used primarily for amusement only. By making some intricate changes in the operations of these machines, they were able to perfect a method of continuing their gambling operations, and in fact increase their take in many areas.

The American Bar Association

took a leading role in instituting action to stem this tide. Out of their activities and the activities of the lawmakers who have long fought the gambling syndicates, a bill referred to as S. 1658 came into being. As could be expected, much pressure has been brought to bear on Members of Congress, from many directions. The gambling syndicates themselves do not lobby directly, but do their best to obtain help from every segment of the economy to which they can appeal. Usually, this help in innocent provided by those who do not suspect what is behind the scenes. For instance, I have received quite a number of communications opposing this legislation on the ground that it is designed to concentrate power in Washington, and to infringe upon the rights of American citizens. No one abhors centralization of power any more than I do. No one abhors infringement upon the rights of individual American citizens any more than I do. However, I would point out that these arguments against S. 1658 are fraudulent in every detail. Unless legislation like S. 1658 is passed, there will certainly be a concentration of power. This concentration will not be in Washington, but will be in the hands of the vicious criminals throughout this land and the world who have no inhibitions about preying upon American citizens, whether they be business people, teenagers, or little children. Unless this type of legislation is passed, the rights of American citizens will be infringed upon; but this infringement will not be by a division or agency of the government. It will be by those same criminals who have no regard for human rights and who contribute to the destruction of the very inner character of human beings, and whose activities have throughout history destroyed homes and churches and entire nations.

Highway Dept. Using New System Of Photogrammetry to Save Money, Time

The air - age process which is being used by the Highway Department to save time, money, and manpower. Photogrammetry is the Science of making maps from aerial photographs.

The process is so advanced that sometimes do in two days what used to take field forces two weeks, and it is accurate it can be used for every garbage can, parking lot, and window air conditioner. An aerial photo taken from 300 feet above the earth. Photogrammetry is proving effective in all phases of the Department's highway design program. It is being utilized from the time a contractor is paid. It is used for route selection and design, design, deed, right of way, drainage, and cross-section.

For instance, aerial photographs, taken at high altitudes, are used in selecting the route for a proposed road. The route is selected, and the altitude photos are shot for design purposes. If necessary, section maps can be produced from these pictures to show amount of earth removed (cut) or added (called fill) to level the roadbed. In case, planimetric (two-dimensional) or topographic (three-dimensional) maps can be made from these photographs.

Because mapping from aerial photographs eliminates the need for field forces to spend countless hours and sometimes months -- surveying sites when changes desired, flexibility prevails. Flexibility, equated with economy, minimizes supplementary relations with contractors and adjustments.

It shows just how flexible -- and fast -- the new engineering method is, the Department reveals that its photogrammetry section recently whipped out a project in two days. The project, which involved enlarging coverage on a map some 200 feet, would have taken field forces almost two months.

The section itself, located at Camp Hubbard in Austin, has only been in operation for a year. Actually, though, the Department first started using the scientific principle of photogrammetry about 30 years ago. Its development has been gradual. As techniques and machinery became more and more refined, photogrammetry gained impetus. Full realization of its benefits came with development several years ago of the stereoplotter -- the machine which actually transforms the pictures into maps. One was purchased by the Department in 1958 for accuracy checks on maps compiled by contractors.

Three years later, when the Department saw that small but needed projects had to be passed up, the section was established. Two more stereoplotters were ordered and the section began compiling maps as well.

Photogrammetry had come into its own.

How are photographs made into maps?

After the pictures are taken, the contractor submits two prints of each negative -- one goes to the District which requested mapping and the other to Camp Hubbard.

At Camp Hubbard, positives are reproduced on nine - inch glass plates. Each plate is slipped into a holder (a cone) at the plotter. Shining through the two cones, which have lens similar to a camera's, are red and blue rays. Light from the overlapping rays is filtered out through red and blue - lensed goggles worn by the operator, adding the dimension of depth to the picture as the special glasses did to three-D movies some years back.

In following this projected image, the operator can accurately see -- and scale -- in three dimension the most minute objects, including garbage cans, window air conditioners, and parking meters.

The lines, penciled lightly on a special plastic-film manuscript, is later scribed (scratched) and the original negative compiled. From this negative, any number of prints can be made.

At present, the section is working on 175 miles with a like amount let to contractors.

Every phase of highway design stands to benefit from photogrammetry, which offers economical, accurate mapping to the Texas Highway Department's 25 districts.

The man who succeeds may take his hat off to the past, but he takes his coat off to the future.

SENATOR ★ ★ ★ Yarborough's Report

The oldtime ideas of peace and war based on formal declarations of war, tell us that today, our country is at peace.

Our daily newspapers tell us a far different story. In bold, black type, the headlines tell us:

That this is an age where defense spending soars to amounts no one would have guessed a few years ago.

That this is an age where American servicemen are found around the world, in combat areas in Vietnam, and in an area of a virtual bayonet, pistol and grenade standoff in Berlin. This is an age of Instant War, and of a strange, uneasy, uncertain peace.

Today's serviceman has an uneasy, uncertain future. A recent Veteran's Administration survey shows that the average post-Korean conflict or Cold War veteran served just over two years, which is about two weeks longer than the average Korean Conflict veteran served. The survey also points out a tragic set of facts about today's veteran.

At the time of separation from military service, four per cent of the veterans had not even finished elementary school; eight per cent had completed grade school, with no high school education; a shocking 28 per cent had at least a little bit of high school, but did not graduate; 42 per cent had completed high school, but had no college training. Eight per cent had completed out or more years of college work, and only ten per cent had completed four or more years of college.

And these young men who serve are above the American average in health, strength and mental capacity.

At a time when all that we hold dear to our hearts depends on advancement in all fields of knowledge, we are doing absolutely nothing to help these young veterans get an education. In fact, we build barricades in their road to school.

I have introduced a GI Bill, which is co-sponsored by 36 other senators, to help these young men break through the financial and draft law barricades of high cost and delay, and get back into school where they can do themselves, their families and their country the most good.

The compulsory draft and the constant danger of recall to active duty in the Reserves make it hard for the 45 per cent of young men today who perform military service to get the education they so urgently need.

But with a GI Bill to help, they can raise their earning power, contribute more to their country in a time of war, or in a time like we live in today -- a time of waiting and preparing for a war that may or may not come.

The Cold War veteran was called

New Peanut

A true peanut variety, Starr, developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is the subject of much discussion among Texas peanut growers. The performance of the new variety in statewide research and farm demonstration tests last year have put it in orbit, reports Ben Spears, extension agronomist. Enough planting seed are not available to take care of the demand. Spears points out that certified seed of other varieties are available and suggests the planting of Spantex, Argentine or Dixie Spanish.

Control Of Screwworms Will Help In Program

Periodic spraying of livestock every two to three weeks with Co-Ral or ronnel (Korlan) will aid greatly in the prevention of screwworm infestations, County Agent W. B. Hooser of Hall County, emphasized this week.

Stockmen are urged to spray their livestock regularly to prevent as many screwworm cases as possible. Every screwworm case which is prevented or controlled by chemical treatment will also aid greatly the effectiveness of the overall screwworm eradication program.

Although several insecticides will effectively control screwworms, Hooser said that sprays of Co-Ral or ronnel (Korlan) will give better protection from screwworm attack. These sprays also will give good control of most other external parasites such as horn flies, lice and ticks.

Stockmen also are urged to inspect all livestock regularly and treat all wounds promptly. Ten or more screwworms should be collected from deep in each wound and taken to the county agent or mailed to Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program, Box 969, Mission, Texas.

THE Memphis Democrat

DON YARBOROUGH

Candidate for

GOVERNOR

A Texan for All Texas!

Don Yarborough

The time has come for the people of Texas to go to the polls June 2nd and put an end to state government controlled by out-of-state political machinery representing the Eastern and Northern monopolies and their money bags.

DON YARBOROUGH is an independent and dedicated Texan who has nobody's ring in his nose.

DON YARBOROUGH has never had the Eastern and Northern political connections to be appointed to a high political office. His opponent for Governor in the run-off received an appointment which is a high honor in itself. WHY DID HE QUIT BEFORE HIS TERM EXPIRED? If elected Governor of Texas HOW SOON WILL IT BE BEFORE THIS SAME NORTHERN AND EASTERN INFLUENCE DECIDE HE SHOULD RESIGN as GOVERNOR?

Ask yourself this question before you vote June 2nd. Control of a man is a bad thing!

When it comes time to cast our ballots for Governor June 2nd it will be up to the people to make up their minds as to who is the best qualified. Let's confine the business of Texas to Texans. Not to a man who has Eastern and Northern power — who ordered him back to Texas to run for Governor.

GET ALL THE FACTS IN THIS IMPORTANT RACE AND VOTE FOR

DON YARBOROUGH

For Governor

Why won't Don Yarborough's opponent meet him face-to-face and debate the major issues which the voters of Texas are vitally interested in?

She lives by the light of Faith

Is the light strong enough?

The lamp an old one, but the light of Faith will always brighten her way.

She has learned the calm and serenity that come from a strong Belief. She has lived by the light of Faith and has built a strong spiritual reserve.

Can you count on this much? Can you face life squarely—tackle whatever obstacles you meet and overcome them?

You can—and will, if you have Faith. Find the strength for your life. Worship in your church this week.

Find the strength for your life...
