Hall County Program Building Committee Meets, Approves Program

The Hall County Program Building Committee met last Thursday night in the district courtroom at Memphis, and approved the reports of various subcommittees, County Agent W. B. Hooser said this week.

The group also approved the overall program for the coming year and changed the by-laws to require that a ballot be sent to each member of the committee for the election of officers, in order that all members might have a chance to vote whether they were present or not.

Harold Hodges, chairman of the committee, presided over the meeting and Guy Smith served as secretary of the group.

During the past months and years the committee and the county agent have compiled a considerable amount of information concerning the county in general and farming and ranching in particular.

Beginning this week there will be a series of articles published which will make this information available to the general public.

Historical and Background Information

Hall County is located in the southeast Panhandle of Texas and the upper northwest Rolling Plains of West Texas, and was named for Warren D. C. Hall, Adjutant General, under President Burnett. The county was created from Bexar County in 1876 and was finally organized in 1890. During the days of the open range, the old JA, Mill Iron, and other pioneer ranches of the region controlled the area. One of the earliest of these was Mr. Schott for whom the present Schott Cap Drive is named. It was under his supervision that one of the first roads over the rough territory, descending from the Rolling Plains breaks to the lower country, was constructed. Much of the early settlement in the country centered around Deep Lake which is a natural lake of considerable size, and since earliest times, has been known as a dependable water source.

During 1886 and 1887, the Fort Worth and Denver City Railroad built through the country toward Denver, Colo. As in many other counties in the region, the arrival of the railroad caused a great influx of farmers.

All except a small area in the southern part of the county is in the Red River watershed. The southern portion drains into the North Fork of the Pease River.

The county is populated with stable native white population, with much migratory white, Latin-American and Negro population in the fall and during harvest season. The mechanical methods of harvesting cotton, grain sorghum and other crops has greatly increased, and as a result, the migratory movement of these laborers has been cut to about one-third.

(Next week more about the county.)

Patriotic Theme Used For Rotary Program Tuesday

A timely and picturesque program was presented at the regular noon luncheon meeting of the Memphis Rotary Club Tuesday when Don Hughes of Amarillo showed a collection of slides of the New England States.

Presiding at the meeting was Jim Beeson with R. C. Lemons serving as program chairman for the day. Mr. Lemons introduced Bill Rice, who in turn presented Mr. Hughes.

Woven around an historic and patriotic background of music by Fred Waring, and excerpts taken from speeches by American patriots such as Abraham Lincoln, Daniel Webster and George Washington, the slides told the story of much of the history of America to be found in the New England states.

The slide collection is entitled "This Is My Country," and was made by Mr. and Mrs. Hughes during a month's stay in that section of the country.

The program began with the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and concluded with the "Star-Spangled Banner" as scenes from Fort McHenry were flashed upon the screen. It was while Fort McHenry was under bombardment that Francis Scott Key wrote the words for the national anthem.

Background music included such songs as "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and others. Among guests Tuesday were Mrs. Mills Roberts, Mrs. Robert Saxatree, Mrs. M. Harrison, Mrs. Herschel Combs, Bill Rice, and Mr. Hughes.

Memphis Summer Home Economic Work Includes Various Projects

The Summer Homemaking program in Memphis High School included various activities, according to a report released this week.

Through the month of June the 33 girls enrolled in the program have met twice a week at school where they worked on various improvements for the Homemaking Department.

The classes made draperies and machine covers for the clothing laboratory, refinished three pieces of furniture for the Thespian Society, made cushions for chairs to be used in child development classes, and did a general house-cleaning of the department.

Some of the areas covered in individual projects were child care, home nursing, clothing construction and renovation, foods, including special diets, home management, redecoration, gardening, yard improvement.

It was pointed out that each girl must work at least 150 hours to complete the project for which she gets one-half credit toward graduation.

During the first week of classes, the girls enjoyed a covered dish salad luncheon. The second week, a covered dish casserole luncheon. Each girl brought a favorite dish that she had prepared. During the third week the class had a swimming party and picnic with the class from Estelline at the Memphis City Park.

To finish the June activities, the awards presentation was held Friday, June 29, in the Homemaking Department. Mothers and grandmothers of the girls were special guests.

The top award presented, the Crisco Trophy for Outstanding Student in Home Economics for 1962, was presented to Linda Snider. The qualifications for this award include outstanding ability in various fields of homemaking, Hall County Sheriff W. P. "Bill" Baten, Jr., was elected to the Board of Governors of the National Sheriffs' Association at the organization's 22nd Annual Informative Conference held at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, La., last week.

The Board of Governors is made up of 20 men, each from a different state. Four men were elected to the board this year. The only other man elected to the board is from Duncan, Okla.

More than 800 sheriffs and law enforcement officers from every state in the union registered in what proved to be the biggest conference in the history of the 18,000-member organization.

Among the guest speakers were U. S. Secret Service Chief James J. Rowley, Chief Justice J. Ed Livingston of the Alabama Supreme Court, and Jack Lamping, executive director of the New Jersey Association of Chosen Freeholders.

One of the highlights of the conference came Tuesday morning when a distinguished panel of state sheriffs' association directors discussed "What a State Association Can Do for the Office of Sheriff."

By a close vote, the delegates selected St. Paul, Minn., as the site for the 1964 conference. The meeting next year will be held in Portland, Oregon, July 15-17.

Picnic Precautions

Now, with the summer season in full bloom, it might be well to point one of the ways the bloom can be withered—staphylococci. This tiny, microscopic speck of bacterial life can wreck the favorite American pastime, the picnic.

Health authorities say that these "staph" are by far the most common cause of food poisoning. And if you are careless in preparing the food they will invade and multiply the items on the roll of fare. The ham, for instance, or the chicken salad, or the cream-filled layer cake, or the potato salad, can, once eaten, turn a strong man into a cramped, fermented weakling.

The poisonings aren't necessarily limited to picnics, but due to the fact that many times foods are not kept cold at such events, they are the most likely place this time of year. Prevention of this poisoning can be accomplished by keeping foods chilled between the time of preparation and service, and serve as soon as possible. Staph germs are so widely distributed in nature—in nose and throat secretions, in exudate of boils and caruncles, on skin and clothing, in the very air—that there is little chance of avoiding them completely. The best thing is to keep them from getting in food to begin with, by washing hands thoroughly before preparing food. Also, if you happen to have a boil, pimple, infected scratch, or a runny nose, it would be smart to leave the food preparation to someone else. Refrigeration is the key to stunting staph germs. They can't grow in cold temperatures, but thrive in bountiful profusion at room temperature. Therefore, refrigerate susceptible foods at 40 degree temperatures. Use shallow pans so the ingredients will chill through. Keep these facts in mind when you plan your next picnic, then your only worry will be ants and wasps.

Wondering What You Can Do? Buy Bonds!

The Treasury's Freedom Bond Drive is an opportunity and a challenge for all who sincerely wonder "what they can do for their country." The cold war and international tensions bring new frustration every day. Buying bonds, or volunteering your services as a bond volunteer—is one good way of working off that frustrated feeling.

Of course, investing in our government's bonds is more than a patriotic exercise. It's a positive way of building up our economic strength to sustain the burden of the cold war, and of strengthening your own financial future as well. Being citizen, and turning a handy profit in the process, is a pretty good deal for any of us.

The bond drive is using two slogans: "Underwrite your country's might" and "Keep freedom in your future." Both make a lot of sense. Winning cold wars doesn't come cheap, and the more bond dollars private citizens invest in the job, the more soundly and safely it will be financed.

Americans, generally haven't been asked for much up to now. Buying bonds surely isn't all that will be expected of us. The point is, this opportunity is here, it's now, and it doesn't really cost you a cent. Uncle Sam can justifiably ask us all to buy extra bonds during the Freedom Bond Drive.

No Parallel To Sabine Pass

A state is only as good as are its inhabitants. Considering the status and accomplishments of the State of Texas, this is a compliment to all Texans. Perhaps that's why Texans take such pride in the historical events that have occurred on Texas soil.

To quote Jefferson Davis of one such Texas event: "There is no parallel in ancient or modern warfare to the victory of Dowling and his men at Sabine Pass, considering the great odds against which they had to contend."

What happened at Sabine Pass?

Lt. Richard Dowling and 47 men in the Texas heavy artillery, Confederate states of America, fighting from a mud fort, repulsed an attack of four warships and 1200 men of the Federal Army.

They not only repulsed them, they captured approximately 350 prisoners and two gunboats mounting 13 guns of the heaviest caliber.

Indian Springs at the Crossing

In 1824 the Huaco Indians made a treaty with Stephen F. Austin. But in 1837 the Comanche Indians drove the Huacos out.

A city then grew up near the site of the Indian village and took the name of Waco. Now Waco is one of the leading cities in Central Texas.

Site of the Indian village also was the site of the first crossing of the Brazos River. In 1917 the Daughters of the American Revolution reclaimed the Indian Spring at the village site and memorialized it.

This spring still flows, near the west end of the old and renowned Suspension Bridge over the Brazos River in Waco.

In Tribute To Ben Ficklin

Ben Ficklin is the name. It's the name of a man... the man who was instrumental in establishing the Pony Express.

It was Ben Ficklin who also personally carried the first message from the first Governor of California to the Governor of Missouri. Ben Ficklin, the man, died in 1870.

Ben Ficklin also is the name of a stage stand, so named in his honor.

It's also the name of the first county seat of Tom Green County in West Texas. Location: four miles south of the present city of San Angelo. Ben Ficklin, the town, was destroyed by flood in 1882.

Exchange Students Provide Good Change for Better Understanding

This weekend, Hereford is host to 33 young people from 19 other countries. This is a repeat of a visit here by about the same number of exchange students and speaks well for Hereford.

One of the smallest towns to serve as host for students during their cross-country trek, Hereford has taken a leading role in developing better relations among young people from other countries.

What better way can a nation demonstrate its desire to get along than by providing an informative year of education, both in and out of school, for selected young people of other lands?

The Soviets realize this as well as we do. They have established their own program of exchange student work, with one important difference. They use this opportunity to indoctrinate future national leaders (they hope) with communist propaganda and beliefs.

Exchange students, it is felt, can help cement the cracks that occur between nations. Most of these rifts are caused by a lack of understanding. It is hard to feel sympathetic and friendly toward someone you don't know, but a lot easier to feel friendship for someone you have met.

Invariably, travelers to other countries come back with a better appreciation for the problems, goals and ambitions of the land they visited.

The American Field Service program operates throughout the country, acting as a central agency through which organizations and groups can get students from other countries to live in American communities for about ten months. It also has a limited program to send American students to other countries for a three-month period.

As one of the first small towns to take part in the AFS opportunities, Hereford has developed a strong feeling of affection for students from other countries. They come here from England, Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark and others to live in American homes, attend our schools, our churches.

They absorb many of our customs, beliefs and ideals while they are here. When they return home, they have a finer appreciation of America and what it stands for. But what they leave behind is equally important. Through talks and informal visits, they provide information about their homelands, its problems, its history and government and, most important, its people.

Our world today is shrinking in size, yet getting further apart in many ways. Oceans and land masses no longer insulate us from the rest of the world. But doctrines and beliefs often keep us poles apart.

There are other exchange programs that offer the same opportunity. The Rotary Foundation Fellowship plan is one. It offers college graduates from the United States and other countries a full year of graduate study in a foreign country and insists that each Rotary Fellow, upon his or her return, make a report to each of the clubs in the district which sponsors the year of study. That insures that information obtained during the year away from home will be disseminated as widely as possible.

What we would like to see is an even greater expansion of the program until each city and town in the United States has at least one exchange student each year. The Panhandle of Texas is among the regions taking a lead in this work.

We would also like to see the program expanded in such a manner that more American students could spend a year in another country. This is badly needed.

American students are isolated from other countries and other cultures. They have no concept of the living conditions in Italian, Swiss, German or Dutch towns. They don't know what a problem it is to travel from one country to another, changing customs and languages almost hourly.

We don't advocate a one-world plan. Each nation should cling to its history, its culture, its own heritage. What we do advocate is better understanding of conditions as they exist and as they are improved.

The AFS program is not the complete solution to world problems and would understand-

But it is a good start. Its main problem is in size and scope. We want to see it expanded to include far more students from all countries. We want to have enough students here in America to touch the lives of every citizen. We want to have enough American youngsters in other countries to touch the lives of those people. We want them to return with a finer appreciation for this country and its inherent advantages, but with a greater awareness of other nations: both good and bad points.

In short, we want more opportunity to visit with students, such as those who are guests here this weekend, from other countries and a program to send more of our children to other countries.

Thursday, July 6, 1922

Feeling the urge of the spirit of freedom the prisoners in the Fall County jail made a successful break for liberty Monday night about 10 o'clock.

With the aid of the handle of a stove shovel, secreted since last winter, hinges from an inside cell door were broken and the door removed and used as a lever to pry the cell bars apart.

A hole was then made through the brick of the south wall, and the ground was reached by use of blankets from the beds.

Chief of police Harris, who is acting as jailor, was attending to duties up town and returned to the jail shortly after 10 o'clock and found the prison deserted, except for a negro woman prisoner confined in the front part of the jail.

A strike among local barbers which began Monday morning was settled by agreement and all were at work by 10 o'clock a. m.

Now why would Martha put laundry in the freezer?

Flameless electric living is a way of life, nowadays. Sometimes this wonderful way of life in the world of women brings about strange sights—sights that are incomprehensible to the mere man. Often, a man sees things more marvelous, even, than laundry in the freezer. That's because Martha . . . and all the Marthas served by West Texas Utilities Company . . . knows better than anyone (even us) the many ways to live better, electrically.

All right, Mister—why does she put laundry in the freezer? Ask the inventor, she will also show you other ways her family uses flameless electricity for a better life.

Rural Housing Loan Program Has Good Record

J. Cappelman, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, said today that the Rural Housing Loan Program has had a very good record. Up to December 31, 2,730 loans have been made and not one penny has been written off as uncollectible.

More than $20,440,000 has been advanced in Texas in Rural Housing Loans and the principal and interest payments made total $8,845,000. Over 24 per cent of these loans have been paid in full. Payments of principal and interest on the 2,064 loans outstanding total over $4,561,000, or 51 per cent of the amount that is due," Mr. Cappelman said.

This is a remarkable tribute to the financial integrity of rural borrowers and their ability to manage their financial affairs," the state director said. "Loans under this program are made only to those who cannot obtain financing from conventional sources. As a result, the 2,730 Texas families who obtained the loans have had to be extra diligent in meeting their repayment obligations."

"This repayment record of rural housing loan borrowers is also a tribute to the judgement of the 654 Texas FHA Texas County Committeemen who assisted in evaluating the soundness of these loans," the State Director said.

"This program provides benefits throughout the entire rural-based small town economy and the overall economy of these counties," he added. "Contractors, small businessmen supplying contractors, and building trades workers all benefit through increased business. Their stepped-up activity in turn stimulates the entire rural economy. The approximate $4,800,000 the Farmers Home Administration in Texas will make available this year is the equivalent of several new industries in terms of more jobs and greater purchasing power."

Texas Highway Department Prepared To Check Highways For Nuclear Fallout

Have you ever been on an "Easter egg hunt" where the object of search was not a source of dietetic energy — but atomic energy?

A serious variation of this childhood game — updated for the Nuclear Age — was part of the recent specialized training of 132 members of the Texas Highway Department.

These radiological monitoring trainees — also known as survey operators — were taught to determine which highways in the Texas travel after a nuclear blast or release of atomic radiation in an accident, thus protecting the traveling public from entering high-radiation areas containing dangerous radioactivity.

The trainees — drawn from the ranks of all 25 districts in the Texas Highway Department — were instructed by Chester D. Hudlow of Tyler, Safety Instructor in the Insurance Division. Just before class meetings, it was Hudlow who hid high-powered atomic sources for his students to hunt.

(A source is a radioactive element which emits gamma rays and is used for field training and for calibrating the survey instruments.)

Students on the search didn't carry Easter baskets. But they did move around the area with bright yellow instruments. These instruments, known as survey meters and operated by batteries, spat out static noises when one of the sources was approached.

The sources — when not in use — are stored in a lead block and fit neatly into holes that confine their radioactivity. This heavy block itself is stored in a specially built concrete block house recently erected for this purpose in the Maintenance Warehouse yard of the Highway Department's District 10 office in Tyler.

Hudlow, experienced in group leadership training and instruction, taught seven classes, each one lasting three days. Trainees received instruction in basic radiation physics, nuclear weapon characteristics, probability of fallout and the winds, calculations of dosage and dose rates — and description, calibration, and reading of instruments.

All this instruction — with precaution as the watchword — added up to one important thing: Preparedness in the event of an alarm being sounded for any emergency, where highway facilities might be endangered by radiation.

During any nuclear attack, the radiological monitoring trainees — just like other human beings — go into shelter too. Actually, their instructions are to not begin monitoring the highways until it is safe for everyone to come out.

When the All Clear is given, they come out of shelter, going out in teams of two to three men — with survey meters. These instruments measure the residual contamination present on the highways. They also use dosimeters which give readings (on an internal scale) of accumulated radiation dosage absorbed by the operator.

When readings show that the radiation in an area is such that prolonged exposure could cause physical damage, here's what might happen:

(1) Barricades might be set up to close off the highway to traffic. (2) Minimum speed signs may be posted so that traffic will not tarry in the area and possibly pick up dangerous accumulated dosage. (3) Detour signs may be set up ahead of contaminated areas to route traffic around these areas.

If atomic or accident strikes, the "monitor men" of the Texas Highway Department will ride the highways to protect the traveling public.

Orders For Texas Bird Book Should Be Sent In Soon

The present supply of Roger Tory Peterson's Field Guide to the Birds of Texas, is down to approximately one thousand. Twenty-five thousand of these books were printed about two years ago, and have been sold by the Game and Fish Commission at $3 each, plus the 2 per cent state sales tax.

This Field Guide to the Birds of Texas was prepared by Dr. Peterson after several years of study on the ground, in person and with the aid of other bird watchers in Texas, and is the most authentic work of its kind available. It deals with more than 500 species of birds in the state, and has numerous color plates.

It has been sold by the Game Commission at publication cost price. When the present supply is exhausted the printers then will have the right to re-publish the book, which will be sold at current market prices, approximately $4.95 each.

Orders should be sent to the Game and Fish Commission, Walton State Building, Austin, Texas.

Over 200 Pay Fines For Fishing Without Licenses

Game Wardens still get around. And they usually show up when you least expect them. A number of surprised fishermen found this out during the month of May when they came face to face with wardens who wanted to see their licenses. Undoubtedly, several thousand people over the state were visited by wardens during a day on the lake. However, 200 of them who didn't have licenses and had to pay fines probably will remember the occasion longer than the others.

Other than 58 arrests made for the sale of fish in retail outlets without the proper license, law violations remained at a lull in May.

Altogether 346 cases were filed. Of these, 31 were dismissed, 3 served time in jail, 2 appealed their cases, one was found not guilty and one was suspended. Fines and court costs amounted to $5,952.35.

"The people who have been fined for fishing without the proper licenses in the state this year cannot honestly say that they forgot to buy a license or that they had no reminders from the Commission," said Phillips. "We are constantly reminding sportsmen that they must have a license according to law. All I can suggest is that before leaving the house fishermen check to see if everyone in the party has a license."

Lemons-Davidson Nuptials Read in Church Service Sat.

Nuptial vows were solemnized at 7 p. m. Saturday, June 30, for Miss Judy Lemons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Lemons of Memphis and Rondel Van Davidson, son of Rev. and Mrs. Don R. Davidson of Lazbuddie.

Rev. Don R. Davidson, father of the groom and Pastor of the First Methodist Church in Lazbuddie, read the double-ring ceremony before the altar which was entwined with emerald foliage and white satin wedding rope. In the background were tall candelabra holding cathedral tapers before a background of emerald foliage. White satin bows marked the aisle seatings.

Pre-nuptial selections were rendered by Mrs. T. L. Rouse, organist, who accompanied Mrs. Ace Gailey, vocalist, as she sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Believe Me of All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "O Perfect Love." Mrs. Rouse also played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional.

Attendants

Mrs. Don R. Davis of Abilene was matron of honor while Miss Brenda Marie Duncan of Memphis served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bobbie Minette Lemons of Memphis, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Don Ray Davis of Amarillo.

The feminine attendants wore identical dresses of yellow peminist trimmed in lace and complemented with yellow shoes and picture hats of yellow tulle. Short white gloves and a single strand of pearls completed their costume, and they carried bouquets of white daisies on ivory fans.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of stephanotis with rich satin ribbons surrounding a white orchid atop a white Bible belonging to Mrs. Jim Luker, sister of the groom.

The old-new tradition was carried out. An heirloom lace and linen handkerchief belonging to her mother and a penny in her shoe completed her wedding attire.

TCU Receives $10,000 Grant From Pan American Petroleum Foundation

For the "excellent work it continues to do in higher education," Texas Christian University has been awarded a $10,000 unrestricted grant by the Pan American Petroleum Foundation, it was announced this week.

The gift is one of 19 to "outstanding private colleges and universities" under a program of aid to education by three foundations financed by the Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

Rice University is the only other Texas institution included in the announcement. It will also receive $10,000 as will Notre Dame, Dartmouth, Illinois Institute of Technology and others.

Chancellor M. E. Sadler of TCU received word of the grant from A. L. Soliday, president of the Pan American Foundation with offices in Tulsa, Okla.

"The funds may be used for capital or any other purpose desired, except endowment," Soliday wrote. "Best wishes for continuing success of your outstanding educational program."

The check will be presented in December by a representative of the Foundation.

"We are deeply grateful to the Pan American Petroleum Foundation for this fine support of our program at TCU," Dr. Sadler said.

"We are especially pleased that it comes after a 'recent review by the Foundation of the excellent work TCU continues to do in higher education', as Mr. Soliday reports.

"Considering the serious complications our institutions face, especially those privately controlled and voluntarily supported, one of the most encouraging factors in the total picture is the increasing support of great organizations like this."

In discussing the overall program of aid, John E. Swearingen, president of Standard Oil Co. and the Standard Oil Foundation, pointed out that the substantial grants are being made "to leading universities noted for their general excellence, contributions to national life, significance in training students from nations of the Free World, and quality of their graduate education."

Memphis visitors who are departing for foreign lands over the weekend are Mrs. C. E. Askamit and her family, who will leave at 10 a. m. for Lahore, and to join their husbands in India. Mrs. Askamit, the mother of Dorothy Deaver, is enjoying her trip with her parents, Mrs. Temple Deaver, Sr., and her relatives and friends.

Paula Gentry will be returning to Memphis after a visit to the next few days. For the mail is most important. She made application for a passport and if it returns on time she will be going to Miami, Fla., to join Mrs. L. H. Boyd on a flight to Venezuela. After several weeks in Venezuela, she and Cynthia will return to Memphis. Cynthia will be a student at Stephens College in Missouri this fall.

Greene was left to keep some fires burning this week. Members of his family vacationed in the mountains of North Carolina. Charlene and Tommy, are visiting in their families, while daughter, Carol, is visiting in Cleburne. Her aunt, Mrs. Ingram Walker, family, Ginger is in New York attending Camp Cimarron. And, Mrs. R. S. Greene is a patient in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. However, she is doing nicely and is expected to be home within a few days.

Norman Vallance, who underwent eye surgery in Amarillo last week, returned home Wednesday. But it will probably be several days before he can return to his usual duties at Vallance Store.

Norman, who has been away from his desk at West Texas Utilities Company for several weeks, was back on the job Monday and was being welcomed by friends. It's nice to see Jack back at his desk again!

We learned this week that geese can be used for something besides eating and making feather pillows. Mrs. Paul Thompson has a flock of 60 geese that she is using to keep the grass and weeds out of her cotton and to eat insects. And, they are doing a good job, too. . . . not only have they cleaned her field, but are now loaned out to one of her neighbors. She bought the geese June 7 at the age of six weeks. This fall, the geese will make an appetizing dish for several tables!

And, then, there are ladybugs for agricultural insect control. At least two persons have tried this method of exterminating insects. We understand Bud Norman had some of the "Little Ladies" that he turned loose in his cotton last week.

And, speaking of cotton—the warm weather this week should be just right for the young plants . . . and with a few more warm, sunny days the re-planted cotton will be off to a good start.

THREE GATES

If you are tempted to reveal a tale to someone has told Before another, make it pass. Before you speak, three gates of gold. These narrow gates: First, "Is it true?" Then, "Is it needful?" In your mind Give truthful answer. And the next Is last and narrowest, "Is it kind?" And if to reach your lips at last It passes through these gateways three, Then you may tell the tale, nor fear What the result of speech may be.

American Medical Assn. Gives Tips On Sunburn

Had your first case of sunburn yet this summer? If so, read on and find out how it happened. If not, read on and possibly pick up some pointers on how to avoid or minimize your first sunburn.

Actually, a good suntan has little or no physiological value. But there is a therapeutic result in the sense of relaxation and well-being gained from basking in the warm sunshine, if it isn't overdone. An over-exposure to hot sun can cause burns, as almost everyone knows. Less known is the fact that continued over-exposure over a period of years can cause the skin to look weather-beaten, wrinkled, leathery and coarse in texture.

Human skins vary a great deal in the amount of sun they can stand. Redheads, blondes, brown-ettes, blue-eyed, fair-skinned (and literally thin-skinned) people need to be especially wary of direct hot sunlight. Dark-skinned, dark-eyed, dark-haired persons have more immunity — but not complete immunity — from sunburn.

The time of day of exposure is important. The burning ultraviolet is most intense from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. No sunburn is likely before 8 a. m. and after 4 p. m. High noon is the hottest time of the day for sunburn. Rays reflected from sand or water can burn, even though you may not be directly exposed.

As individual sensitivities differ, you must to some extent learn for yourself how much sun you can tolerate. A general guide for most persons, assuming that previously untanned white skin is exposed about noon, is:

First day, expose skin to sun for 15 to 20 minutes. This means 15 or 20 minutes on face and back. Second day, increase exposure by one third, to a little less than half an hour. Third day, again increase exposure by one-third, to from 30 to 40 minutes. And so on.

By the fourth day, a new pigment should begin to darken your skin. In a week you should have enough skin thickening and pigmentation to give considerable protection against burning sunshine.

Most of the suntan lotions contain chemicals called sunscreens, which absorb various wave lengths of burning ultraviolet rays to various degrees. The better lotions allow you to stay in the sun longer with less risk of burning. They do not shut out all radiation, or else you would never tan at all. There's no really good way of telling which of the suntan lotions is most effective for you until you try them.

The suntan pills, used under medical supervision and obtained by prescription, can help "easy burners" be better protected against painful burn while acquiring a tan. They are not for self-dosage.

If you do get sunburned, treat it as you would any other burn. Use soothing lotions to ease the pain. If the burn is unusually intense, see a doctor.

CARD OF THANKS

To those who came to us in our time of need and sorrow, we will always love and appreciate. The flowers, the food, and the comforting words were all expressions of your thoughtfulness which will always be remembered and cherished by us. We pray that God will bless each of you for trying to help us bear our burden at the time of our great loss for this one who was so dear to us.

Dear Editor:

I have just finished reading, "Masters of Deceit"; the story of communism in America and how to fight it, by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The book was donated to the library by Mrs. St. John Garwood of Austin, Texas; and has been described as one of the most informative books of our time, a warning of the clear and present danger to our way of life.

Mr. Hoover has been repeatedly balked by executive agencies in his attempts to expose the operation of an enemy which seeks to overthrow the government. However, he still insists that we are at war with the Communist and the sooner every red blooded American realizes this fact, the safer we will be.

It is a shame that such an informative book had only three check-in dates in 1961. I think the people would appreciate it if the local press would make public any such donations as well as new books being purchased for our Carnegie Library.

I wish to thank Mrs. St. John Garwood for her donation and hope it will be more widely read by the local citizens in 1962.

I also think it would be well worth anyone's time to read "Nine Men Against America," by Rosalie M. Gordon. In the last few years the Supreme Court has decided thirty out of thirty-nine cases in favor of the communist position. I suppose now they will rule against prayer in public schools, and that should be enough to shake any dedicated American from their complacency.

Too, I thoroughly agree with the person who said the U. S. should get out of the U.N. and the U.N. should get out of the U. S. The truth is indeed shameful. That the U. S. is actively helping the U.N. to invade Tshombe's Anti-Communist, pro-Western rule, Katanga.

The U.N. troops are bombing schools and hospitals, killing men, women and children with the aid of money and supplies from the U. S.

Some of the local club members who sponsor UNICEF each year may be interested to know that the UNICEF recently "loaned" ten million dollars to this project. Money that was donated to help the orphans has been used against them to kill and conquer for the communist.

Comment By Law, Not Man
There has been much disturbance throughout the land about the decision of the Supreme Court in the New York School Case. I think it would be well for all people in this country to read the decision very carefully. Many take the decision as a sign that it was for the purpose of complete separation of church and State. Others argue that it was anti-religious, and that the decision was unconstitutional than the law and practice in-familiar cry of "impeach the Supreme Court" has come from many quarters. Of course, the impeachment of the Supreme Court is not the Court's business and not the Court's suggestion was followed on the occasion that a decision is down that was probably be a impeachment proceeding which would accomplish nothing as correcting any defect in the government's structure of this country. The fact is that our forefathers recognized the shortcomings of men and established a government of law, as opposed to a government by man. They envisioned a representative form of government in which the will of the governed would be adhered to in accordance with laws adopted under rules of parliamentary procedure designed to protect the rights of all. The Constitution has withstood many onslaughts through the ages, and in my humble opinion, will continue to support a government of free men in this great country. I have said before, and I here repeat, that if there is any one major defect in the structure which could be the Achilles' heel, it is the unlimited power of the Supreme Court on the question of constitutionality of statutes adopted by the legislative branch of the government. Several years ago, I wrote a newsletter on this subject in which I related the story that occurred early in our Republic that brought into focus the problem that could prove to be the major difficulty in our philosophy of political science.

The decision in the case of

HALF-PAST TEEN

Marbury vs. Madison, which was rendered by Chief Justice John Marshall at the time Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States, set the precedent that the Supreme Court had the power to declare the Acts of Congress unconstitutional. John Marshall was President Adams' Secretary of State. President Adams was defeated by Thomas Jefferson in the December 3, 1800 election. As a lame duck Administration, attempts were made to fill all open offices with followers of Adams and Marshall before Jefferson took over. President Adams appointed John Marshall to the No 1 post, that is, the Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. He appointed many others, including a man named Marbury to the office of Justice of the Peace. Marshall, in the confusion of closing out the Administration, failed to issue a commission to Marbury. Hence, Marbury filed suit against James Madison, who had been appointed Secretary of State by Jefferson. The suit was filed in the Supreme Court, although there was serious question about the jurisdiction of the Court. The usual procedure would have been to dismiss the case for want of jurisdiction, however, John Marshall resorted to the Judiciary Act of 1789, which was an Act to control the procedures in Federal Courts. He indicated that, although the Supreme Court could not hear the Marbury case under constitutional restrictions, there were provisions in the Judiciary Act, a statute passed by Congress, that would permit the Supreme Court to hear the case. He then proceeded to hold that because the Judiciary Act was in conflict with the Constitution, such Act was unconstitutional and void. This action on the part of John Marshall has been interpreted as a master stroke of a devoted advocate to centralized government. It created the doctrine that the Supreme Court had the power to declare Acts of Congress unconstitutional, a power which was bitterly opposed by Jefferson's followers. It is interesting to note that John Marshall served on the Court for 35 years yet never again declared an Act of Congress unconstitutional.

All of this simply means that whatever Act is passed by the Congress, or a State Legislature, the Supreme Court has the power to declare unconstitutional. Should a corrective Act be passed, the Supreme Court has the power to declare that Act unconstitutional. The question is not as to the probability of a Supreme Court ever doing this, but we must admit the presence of the possibility. Under the circumstances, I have long supported the contention that the Constitution should be amended so that the elected representatives of the people might have the same power to overrule a decision of the Supreme Court declaring a statute unconstitutional as the legislative branch has to override a veto of the President.

An January 2, 1961, I introduced H. J. Res. 70 proposing an amendment to the Constitution, the pertinent part of which reads as follows: "Section 1. The Congress shall have power, by statute passed by two-thirds of each House of Congress, to limit the authority of courts of the United States to determine that statutes of the United States or of any State are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States."

Should the time come that this amendment is approved, any controversy as to a situation such as the decision in the New York Prayer Case, should be promptly argued and debated on the Floor of Congress, and such action taken as may be warranted by the true facts. It has been my feeling that this would provide a proper means of true representative government.
