115 Guesses Are Listed In Annual Cotton Contest

Sixty-six persons listed guesses in the 16th Annual Cotton Guessing Contest during the second week, making a total of 115 who have listed estimates.

The person guessing closest to the actual number of bales ginned will win a three-year subscription to The Democrat. Second place winner will receive a two-year subscription, and third place will receive a one-year sub-

Mr. Young, who farms near Lakeview, said the plant was not irrigated, and that he has a row of the greens about 60 feet long and they are all this size.

Cyclone, Fighting Irish To Tangle Here Friday

The Memphis Cyclone Friday night at 8 p. m. will host the Fighting Irish of Shamrock, at Cyclone Stadium for the local team's last non-conference tilt.

The Irishmen have been impressive in all their outings this season and have downed three of the Cyclone's district Class A teams, Wellington, Clarendon and McLean.

The Irishmen utilize an offense which is built around a hard-running fullback, no. 30, Benson, a 164-pounder, and No. 14, Reeves, their passing-running quarterback. The Irish have a good passing and running offense.

Weight-wise, the Cyclone may have a slight advantage at the guard and tackle slots, but the Irishmen make up for it at center and elsewhere. Both teams are fairly evenly matched weight-wise. Shamrock is expected to hold the advantage in the speed department.

Memphis has only one boy on the injury list this week. Starting Left Guard Jerry Lowe received a twisted ankle in the Memphis-Springlake game last Friday. He will be out of action from two to three weeks.

Possible lineup changes for the local team is the moving of End Richard Ellis to center, moving Donnie Bridges from center to left guard, and the addition of End Jim Odom to the lineup.

Bill Pounds will be back in the lineup at right halfback. Pounds played all the offensive downs at Springlake last week, and, despite his left shoulder brace, caught one long pass and averaged three yards per carry. Coach Don Lambert said after the game that he was well pleased with Pounds' showing.

For the first time this season, Coach Lambert will have a host of backs from which to choose. Injuries have plagued the Cyclone backfield in all other games this season except the game last Friday night.

EDITORIAL

What Is A Newspaper?

Newspapers throughout this country next week will take time out from their regular jobs to inform their readers of National Newspaper Week, set by the President of the United States for Oct. 14-20.

Each year, National Newspaper Week gives the largest news distributing media an opportunity to explain its purpose for being in existence. The best place to start understanding what a newspaper is in the newsroom of any daily or weekly paper. Ignore all the clutter and bustle and concentrate on one simple thing. Standing at a counter, or seated alongside the desk of the society editor is a very pretty girl. In all likelihood her mother is with her. The girl has brought her wedding picture for the newspaper.

No mere man will ever be able to understand what that picture in the paper means to the girl, her mother and all their relations. The visit to the newspaper office is as important as the choice of the wedding gown. The publication of the picture, with suitable prominence, means more to the family than fair weather on the wedding day. If you doubt this, ask any editor who has failed to give a bride her due.

Now glance at two or three items in the copy box. There is a list of the babies born, there are obits—the stories, long and short, about the men and women who have died. Births, deaths, marriages, graduations—these are events that have interested people since the days of Pithecanthropus Erectus. These are subjects that will interest the human race as long as it remains the human race. This is the kind of news that only a community newspaper can gather and tell in the way that it must be told for the people of that community.

But of course our community newspaper does more than this. It brings the reader the news he needs as an economic animal—the consumer information, (most importantly, the advertising), the news of business along Main Street, the square or what ever. And it brings him the news he needs as a citizen—the schools, the welfare institutions, the churches, ect. what is going on at city hall, in the courts, the police department.

There are today about 1,850 dailly papers in the United States and 9,300 weekly and semi-weekly newspapers. Even the smallest of the weekly papers has the capacity to give its readers the human news, the bread-and-butter news and the citizen news extent this kind of basic coverage to the much more complex, that are the lifeblood of the community. The larger dailies can extend this kind of basic coverage to the much more complex, but essentially simlitr, events of our human society in the world at large.

Some day a better way may be found of supplying homo Americanus with all the news he wants or needs to know. If that day comes, the American newspaper will go the way of the parlor melodeon. But as long as pretty girls put on bridal wreaths, and babies come and old folks go, no one need hurry to mourn the passing of the newspaper in America.

Some Men Never Die

'Tis said that two things are sure on this earth—death and taxes. Though death may be sure, it isn't so certain just how you'll be remembered after death.

But some men, like William "Bill" Goyens, will never die. They live on forever, in the hearts of other men.

Goyens' body now lies in a cemetery four miles west of Neogdoch-ec. His gravestone tells his story well:

"Born a slave in South Carolina, 1794, escaped to Texas in 1821, rendered valuable assistance to the Army of Texas, 1836, interpreter for the Houston-Forbes Treaty, with the Cherokees, 1836, acquired wealth and was noted for his charity, died at his home on Goyens'

What Other Editors Say

Unemployment Pay

As far as we are concerned, this unemployment compensation is nothing but a racket, and the employer who has to foot the bill may as well whistle Dixie as to try to stand up against the government bureaucrats who are determined that they will give away your money. We had an employee who quit our employ a while back, leaving a vacancy which we had to fill, and within a few days had filed for unemployment compensation.

In case you don't know how this works, the employer has to pay a per cent of his payroll for unemployment compensation and the rate he pays in is determined by how many people formerly in his employ have drawn unemployment checks. Our rate has been the minimum because we don't have any labor turnover and nobody who has left here up to now has put in for the government dole. But this one did put in for it, and it was approved. If approved, it means that the former employer is "charged back" with the amount received by the former employee during the 30 weeks or so that he draws the compensation.

We protested this and got nowhere. Our position was that the employee was not laid off, his position had to be filled by somebody else, and we couldn't see how he qualified. But he did. And we are paying for it. The Texas Employment Commission has the finest marble building on the Capitol grounds in Austin, built from funds that employers forked over to the bureaucrats. The building is infested with bureaucrats busily extracting other people's money from them and handing it out to those who claim it. And they brag about the TEC not costing the state anything. Of course not. The business man pays for everything.

Like other laws, the unemployment compensation law is basically right and is a protection to the employee. It was designed to cushion the shock of being out of work when a man is laid off by his company, through no fault of his own. The era of unemployment compensation is probably better than the era of yesterday when a jobless man tramped the streets looking for work and had nothing coming in to feed his family. The basic idea is all right. But it has been abused. It has actually become a racket for many people who work long enough to qualify for unemployment checks, then lay off.

Government of Law

This is a government of laws... not a government of men. This nation in general, and the State of Mississippi in particular, has just had a hard lesson in this fundamental truth. When the Governor of the State of Mississippi openly defied an order of a United States Court to implement a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States... a decision reached after thorough deliberation and after full recourse to all the privileges of law... then the Government of the United States had no further recourse but to use force to uphold its courts. This was a decision undoubtedly as painful to the President of courts, both the courts and the government will fall.

Whether we like the law or not, we must respect it.

And what is the law? In this nation, it is the Constitution of the United States... that great charter which outlines the broad principles under which we govern ourselves... plus that great body of specific ordinances and rules passed by the national congress, or by legislatures of our fifty states, within the framework of that national charter.

And what does the law mean? It means what the duly constituted courts of this nation declare that it means, in specific cases, and under specific circumstances, as determined by evidence presented to the courts and weighed by their justices.

This is the Constitutional process for self-government. The law means what the courts determine that it means. It does not mean what you or I, as individual citizens, may choose to decide that it means. It does not mean what the editor of the Amarillo Daily News, or the Governor of the State of Mississippi, or a Committee of the Congress, or even the Attorney General of the U. S. may decide that it means... but only what the courts, after due process and deliberation, have determined that it means.

The Congress may make the laws, and with the consent of the people, change the laws... but under our system of government, only the Courts may interpret the laws... and the Executive arm of the government, local, state or national, is charged with the duty and obligation of enforcing those court decisions.

Cyclones Battles Tough Springlake To 21-20

back but slipped down on the Memphis 7 yard line.

Running two dive plays, the Cyclone picked up 3 yards on James Waites' carry and 5 yards on a carry by Bill Pounds. Then, on the third down, a pass from QB Dwight Gailey to End Jacky Bridges was complete. Bridges found himself in the clear and raced 78 yards down the sideline to the Springlake 7 yard line before he was pulled down from behind.

After a first down carry by Bill Thompson, James Waites carried over for the score from the 6 yard line. A place-kick by Richard Ellis was wide so the score stood at 6-6.

The Wolverines took over the ball on their own 30 after the kickoff. Two plays netted them only 2 yards. On the third down, a jump pass was intercepted by linebacker Wayne Sweatt who scampered around right end, picked up some key blocks by teammates and carried over for the Cyclone's second score. A pass from Gailey to End Bridges added two more points to the board and Memphis was out front 14-6.

Memphis kicked off to Springlake and again the Wolverines had trouble keeping the ball. On a third and 8 situation the No. 2 ranked South Plains Class A club fumbled and Larry Wynn recovered for Memphis near the mid-field.

Two times the two teams started drives only to have them stopped by tough defenses. Midway in the second quarter, the Wolverines were able to mount an offensive, using running pass plays and moved the ball down the field to score.

The scoring punch was added by their hard running quarterback Cary Latham, who carried over from the 8 yard line. Latham carried for two points and the score was tied.

The remainder of the second quarter and all of the third quarter was taken up by a see-saw battle between the two teams.

Second Half Play

The two teams expanded all the time in the third quarter trying to penetrate the defensive lines of their opponents but neither team could find a weakness.

In the closing minutes of the fourth period, Springlake started a scoring drive which took them 70 yards in six plays. Fine carries by QB Latham moved the ball to the Cyclone 13. Then HB Been carried over for the score. Latham place kicked the extra point and the score was 21-14 with 1:56 seconds left on the clock.

Not to be denied, the Cyclone squad took over the ball after Larry Wynn, a lineman, caught the pig-skin on the kickoff giving Memphis the ball on their own 45.

The Cyclone threw two incomplete passes before QB Gailey connected with HB Bill Pounds giving Memphis a first and 10 on the Springlake 28. On the second down, Gailey passed to Pounds, who deflected the ball into the air, and End Bridges ran under it and crossed the goalline for the final Memphis score.

On the all important extra point try, a pass from Gailey intended for HB Waites was short. The game ended with the score 21-20.

HALF-PAST TEEN

By Vern Santford

People catch fish. But fishermen sometimes catch people.

If you've ever been "hooked" by a fisherman, you know what I mean.

Fortunately, more fish are caught than people.

Homer Circle, PR man for James Heddon's Sons of Dowagiac, Michigan — makers of the famous Heddon Fishing Tackle — sends us some interesting facts on this subject.

"Every year," says Homer, "doctors are called upon to extract barbed hooks from various parts of people's anatomies. It may be an eye or an ear, the face or a neck, hands, arms, legs back—or rump."

"Most of these painful injuries could have been avoided if a few simple safety rules had been followed," said Homer. "Experts have studied this needless injury problem for years and offer numerous suggestions to help fishermen derive pleasure instead of pain from America's greatest participant sport."

Homer has included these suggestions in Heddon's 1962 Fishing Tackle Catalogue. I'll pass them on to you later, after I tell you how you may obtain, free of charge, Heddon's new 64-page catalogue. It sells regularly for 25c. But Homer says he'll send you one free, if you'll mention it in your column.

Guess he's trying to find out if we have any readers

Anyway, it's a beautiful multi-colored printing job with as many tips on fishing as there are items listed in the catalogue.

Now—back to the safety tips we promised. Here's how to keep from latching onto a fishing buddy or getting yourself seriously involved in a hook:

(1) Learn the simple overhead cast . . . never toss a plug side-arm with your fishing companion nearby. And, always know where your partner is located.

(2) If your lure hangs on a surface snag don't try to jerk it loose with your rod. That bent rod can propel the lure so suddenly and so fast you won't have time to duck! Instead try to shake it loose gently or row in and remove it by hand.

(3) While playing a fish, always keep the bend of your rod away from your head and your companion. Again, a suddenly released lure with an assist from a bent rod could propel its hooks into the skin or your partner love so much!

(4) It's safer to land a fish with net or gaff. Don't grab a fish with your hand unless you are experienced in the right technique. Always play the fish until he turns belly up . . . if large, beach it. And never reach into the mouth of a toothed fish. A pair of long-nosed pliers can save you lots of trouble.

(5) Remember . . . the only lure that should be out of your closed tackle box is the one at the end of your rod. Too often loose lures in the boat end up in a fisherman's seat!

Finally — remember that a good fishing partner is an invaluable asset. Study him, watch him carefully, and if he proves cautious, courteous and thoughtful of you he is a rare companion.

Let him know your appreciation by trying to outdo his admirable characteristics.

Mr., Mrs. John Molloy To Observe 50th Anniversary Sun.

50 YEARS AGO — Mr. and Mrs. John W. Molloy, who are shown above in their wedding picture made following their marriage in Childress in 1912, will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary at their home here Sunday. A cordial invitation is extended all their friends to call at the family home between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. Hosts for the occasion will be their children.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Molloy, 221 North Ninth St., will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday, Oct. 14, with open house. They extend an invitation to all their friends to call at their home between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. Sunday.

The affair will be hosted by their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Molloy were married in Childress in 1912, moving to Hall County in 1914. They lived on the same farm in the Pleasant Valley community south of Lakeview for approximately 40 years. They moved to their present home at 221 N. Ninth in January, 1957, following Mr. Molloy's retirement from farming.

The Molloys have one son, Alvin W. of Lakeview and three daughters, Mrs. J. B. Lowe of Amarillo, Mrs. Frank Q. Ward of Borger and Mrs. Carl R. Kulp of West Chester, Pa.

The guest speaker, Dr. D. H. Aronofsky, Dr. Aronofsky gave a most interesting talk using two subjects. The first subject, "To Strengthen the Arm of Liberty." Briefly Dr. Aronofsky began by saying "We all know the Statue of Liberty was a gift from France to the United States many years ago. The lady was placed at the entrance to New York harbor to welcome the millions who would follow her to the new world. She represents the dream of Freedom, by that we mean freedom to worship, write and say what is on our minds and in our hearts. To strengthen the arm of liberty, we must think and talk to reinforce the spirit of freedom, so that we may live in an atmosphere of faith, not fear, have moral courage and a new concern for spiritual values and the sanctities of life that our Godless adversaries can never destroy." Dr. Aronofsky elaborated on our American Freedoms and said, "We should always strive to strengthen the arm of liberty with new programs of progress."

Dr. Aronofsky's second subject was, "I Speak for Democracy." He said, "We must keep our Democratic way of life ever before the people of our country. We must go to the poles and vote for our Government officials and forget that we are a Democrat, Republican or Socialist and vote for the person with the best American policy that would build our government up, instead of using force to promote a staid political policy." Dr. Aronofsky's talk was informative and he brought out many thoughts that all Americans should heed.

During the social hour, the refreshment table in the dining room was laid with a brown linen cloth covered with brown net and centered with an attractive arrangement of yellow mums. Mrs. Aronofsky poured tea or coffee from a silver tea service and the hostesses served creamed chicken on a patti shell, small tomatoes stuffed with cream cheese, tea sandwiches, cake and mints.

Two guests, Mrs. Laura Kakara and Dr. D. H. Aronofsky and the following members were present: Mrs. L. C. Martin, Mrs. Ralph Williams, Mrs. D. H. Aronofsky, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. Robert Hanvey, Jr., Mrs. Robert Philpot, Mrs. Eddie Foxhall, Mrs. Robert Sexauer, Mrs. Myrtis Phelan, Mrs. Glynn Thompson, Mrs. Roy Jewell, Mrs. Bill Boren, Mrs. J. O. Odom, Mrs. W. R. Scott, Mrs. N. A. Hightower, Mrs. Herbert Curry, Mrs. Bill Cosby, Mrs. H. B. Estes, Mrs. K. B. Chick, Mrs. J. W. Coppedge, Miss Imogene King and the hostesses, Mrs. Milton Beasley and Mrs. W. C. Dickey.

For the next club meeting, members will gather on October 17, at the home of Mrs. Eddie Foxhall and depart at 8 a. m. for an all day visit to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, near Amarillo.

Two floor baskets of white gladioli and mums with emerald fern, flanked by tall white tapers in seven branch candelabra were used in the foreground.

Helium Conservation
An Ideal Program
H.R. 10548 (Rogers of Texas)

House of Representatives on the subject recently, and I reprint here a condensation of the speech that I made on the subject.

The long-range program in which industry and government are working together to save helium now lost when natural gases are burned as fuel is one of the most forward-looking and commendable efforts ever made in the field of conservation. When the government acts to curb waste of a limited, irreplaceable resource essential to progress, such action surely is worthwhile. When it attracts private capital at private risk, creates many new jobs for industry, stimulates the economy and brings rapid technical advances, it can be termed praiseworthy. When this same program pays for itself, it must be rated close to ideal. The helium conservation program will accomplish this, and more. It provides an outstanding example of industry and government cooperating in an enterprise beneficial to both and to the entire nation as well. Consider the accomplishments. On Aug. 15, 1961 (12 days after Congress approved funds) the first long-term helium purchase contract was announced. Within 90 days, three more had been negotiated. Now, little over a year from the date of the first contract, helium from a new plant at Bushton, Kansas, is about to start to the Cliffside gasfield at Amarillo, some 350 miles away, where it will be stored to meet future demands. Four other plants

Laugh Of The Week

It was clear that it would take higher prices to make the program self-liquidating. Accordingly, the Interior Department raised the price from $18 to $35 per thousand cubic feet. This will permit repayment within 25 years, with interest, of all government funds used to buy helium during early years of the program. Thus, the users will pay the costs of guaranteeing the supply. This program is a clear case of acting before an emergency arises. Uses for helium in electronics, nuclear energy, missiles, space and refrigeration have tremendously increased the demand. Requirements were expected to exceed supply by 1985. Hence we took immediate steps to obtain necessary legislation. The entire matter was heard by the Mines and Mining Subcommittee of the House Interior Committee, of which I was a member. We made it clear to the Congress that action was essential. But one strong faction advocated the take-over of all helium, wherever found, by the government under the right of eminent domain. Those of us who have long supported the basic free enterprise theory waged a vigorous battle against this idea and won. The oil and gas business reached its present world leadership position through private initiative; it is logical to assume that proper development of helium resources can come through the same route.

This experience has refuted irrevocably those who malign the natural gas industry as self-interested and profit-hungry. The program has been started more rapidly, more efficiently and at less cost than if the government had tried to go it alone. The dynamic capabilities of a free industry in a free economy have come into full play. Five plants are nearing completion in less time than the government would have taken to build one. And, technical advances are marvelous. Plants built less than 20 years ago could process only 2.5 million cubic feet of gas daily; the new plants can handle 400-500 million cubic feet a day. And, any risk inherent in new methods is borne by the companies; the government agrees only to pay the negotiated price for the helium it receives. Current agreements give private companies maximum incentive to reach their greatest helium-producing capability, thus encouraging the fullest possible conservation.

Hundreds of new jobs have been created, in participating companies and supplies industries. Technical advances will greatly benefit the entire natural gas industry. Removal of helium from gas automatically increases pipeline capacity for transporting burnable hydrocarbons. And, consumers will no longer pay for a substance with no fuel value. Had the government conducted this program alone, the Bureau of Mines would have had to expand its staff enormously, far more time would have elapsed, far more helium would have been lost.

Through cooperation with industry, it has been possible to conserve even more helium than first considered possible, at extremely low cost. There is work still to be done, but we have achieved our objective — maximum conservation at minimum cost to the taxpayer.

M. Baggarly, Tulia Auditor, Speaks At Rotary

Baggarly, publisher of the Herald, was guest speaker at the luncheon of the Memphis Rotary Club Tuesday night.

Baggarly spoke to the Rotary members concerning many of the problems that public speakers are using as their subject.

every boy and girl. "The post office system as we know it is socialism. All have heard such remarks as: it should be turned over to private enterprise. It should operate in the black, and if it is necessary to charge 25 cents to mail a letter from Memphis to Lakeview, that is what should be charged.

"The Canadian Riven dam project is another example," he said. Baggarly then quoted the following figures: the top 5 per cent of U. S. families receive 20 per cent of the national income; the bottom 20 per cent receive only 5 per cent of the income; the top 9 per cent own 46 per cent of the nation's private assets.

"Does this look like socialism?" he asked his listeners.

"The disgruntled say, 'our federal government is growing too big.' Sure it is, but our nation is growing by leaps and bounds. Take our road system as an example. During the horse and buggy days dirt roads were all that were needed. But today, everyone wants fine modern highways, and they turn to the state and federal governments to build them," the speaker stated.

He then discussed what happened during the depression, when citizens who were out of work turned to the city, the county, then state government for assistance, only to be passed on to the federal government.

"Other disgruntled persons say, 'we have lost our freedom!' For example, in looking at this matter of 'freedom,' today you cannot call a person a communist unless you are willing to be hauled into court. You also cannot violate a Federal Court order, which is the law of the land. In spite of the changes of the last 20 to 40 years, we are still the freest people in the world," he said.

Publisher Baggarly then discussed the per cent of which each tax dollar which goes to what the disgruntled call the "welfare state." He said that in 1939, 41 cents out of each $1.00 went into welfare funds, and today, in 1962, only 7 cents out of each dollar goes into that portion of the federal expenditure.

"Regardless of what our government is, it is all we have. We still have the greatest government on the face of this earth. The communist are not over-running Washington.

"We do have problems in this great nation, but these problems will not be solved by hate societies or extremists on the far left or the far right," Baggarly concluded.

County Sports

By BILL COMBS

The Memphis Cyclone returns home Friday night to host the Fighting Irish of Shamrock. The Irish has proved to be a strong team in all of their outings this season. The game will give the Cyclone their last change to sharpen their offense and defense before district play begins next week.

Last Friday night, Turkey was the only Hall County Team in the winning circle. The Turks won a 32-22 decision over Lorenzo. It was Turkey's fullback, David Hutton, who crossed the goal line for times for most of his team's tallies. Terry Smith turned in a fine 90-yard punt return for a score. The only extra points were scored on a pass from Don Guest to Darrell Fuston. Turkey has an open date this Friday.

The Lakeview Eagles and the Estelline Bear Cubs were overpowered by their opponents Friday night in home games. The Eagles lost their district opener to Miami 46-0. The Bear Cubs were downed by the Wheeler Mustangs 38-0.

The Eagles will travel to Mobeetie for their second conference game. They defeated the Mobeetie squad in their first contest. Game time will be 7:30 p. m. The Bear Cubs are open this week. They have two more home games before district play begins on Nov. 2 when they host Matador.

It was an exciting game that fans saw at Springlake Friday night. The local boys lost, but no one can explain the action-packed last quarter of the game. The score, 21-20, tells only a portion of the action. The game looked like it was destined to end in a 14-14 tie until the last three minutes of the fourth quarter when the Springlake team pushed over a score and place-kicked an extra point. Then Memphis came back and completed two passes for a touchdown, but the extra point try was missed. It was a hard-played game with a lot of excitement.

Memphis has only one boy on the injured list this week. Guard Jerry Lowe twisted his ankle on the muddy field at Springlake Friday night, and will be out of action for two or three weeks. Coach Don Lambert is looking at some lineup changes this week. The Cyclone is facing a tough district this year, and the game Friday night against Shamrock will give a yardstick as to how strong the Cyclone is. Shamrock has downed Clarendon and Wellington by impressive scores, as well as defeating McLean, 18-0. Shamrock will be favored by several touchdowns over the Cyclone. Memphis will have to stop their hard-running fullback, and contain their end sweeps and pitch-outs. Also, the Irishmen like to throw. Memphis will try to move the ball by passing and running, much the same way they did at Springlake. This is the Cyclone's first time to play Shamrock's in several seasons and the contest promises to be a hard-fought one.

Program To Ease Screwworm Menace Begun

More than 62 million screwworm flies were released in Texas and New Mexico during the week of Sept. 16-22, County Agent W. B. Hooser has announced. Production of the flies at the plant near Mission, Tex., has increased steadily since it started operation in June.

Livestock producers and sportsmen apparently are receiving the Screwworm Eradication Program with widespread satisfaction, according to the county agent. Many Hall County producers have reported a marked decrease in the number of screwworm cases this year as compared to other years.

Paul Montgomery, who operates a ranch near Memphis, expresses a typical reaction, "I have found only a fraction of the cases that I usually experience. Since the weather conditions this summer have been much the same as in previous years, I am convinced that the release of sterile flies has helped reduce the number of cases."

Individual inspection and treatment will continue to play an important role in the eradication program, Hooser said. He urges producers to inspect their animals at least twice a week and treat wounds with approved screwworm remedies such as Korlan Smear, Co-ral Powder, EQ 335 or Smear 62. He also recommends systematic spraying every 10 to 14 days with a .25 per cent Co-ral or .5 per cent Korlan solution.

special condition cotton, instruments used, and problems encountered in classing.)

If and when to defoliate is more than likely one of the problems cotton farmers are considering at this time. Defoliation to the cotton farmer is a very important step in harvesting, but it can also be very costly and damaging if used too early.

Maturity of the cotton boll is the prime factor to be considered, cautions K. E. Voelkel, who is in charge of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Cotton Classing Office, Memphis.

An Extension Service bulletin suggests that at least 60 per cent of the bolls on a cotton stalk should be open before applying defoliant. The bulletin gives detailed instructions on defoliating, types of materials available, and conditions under which they are recommended.

Maturity is of prime importance because when the defoliant is applied and becomes effective,

SCREWORM ERADICATION WEEK

OCTOBER 14-20

SCREWORM ERADICATION WEEK—The week of October 14-20 has been designated Screwworm Eradication Week by Governor Price Daniel. This week climaxes the efforts of Southwestern livestock producers and sportsmen to raise $1.3 million to be used to rid Texas and the Southwest of this costly livestock pest that does an estimated annual damage of $100 million. The program entails the production and release of sterile screwworm flies over infested areas, which results in infertile eggs and eventual eradication. Paul Montgomery is the Hall County chairman of the animal health committee, which is spearheading the local drive.

the maturity processes are stopped. Then when the cotton is harvested, which in most cases includes mature and immature bolls, chances are that the classification assigned to the staple length will be Wasty. Wasty cotton is defined as cotton which has a fiber that is weak, irregular and immature, and such cotton carries a price penalty. If too many bolls are immature, the lint turnout is usually reduced, so the farmer that defoliates too early loses in two ways—a reduced price and less cotton.

Your county agent has a bulletin which gives specific and detailed information as to when, how and what of defoliants. It would be wise to study all information available before defoliating your cotton.
