NWNS SERVICE

MEMPHIS, HALL COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY AFTERNOON, DECEMBER 6, 1962  TEN CENTS  NUMBER 28

There is a suggestion made once or twice recently: There is a group of lonely shut-ins—living alone—have and can provide themselves with everything they want and need—except visitors to break the monotony of just existing. This kind of thing is being done in other places: Clubs for either men and women, or both, for the purpose of setting aside one or two times a week when the lonely person makes a group, or singly, make it a point to visit the lonely person. Sometimes a group makes the visit, and engage for a time in furnishing some kind of entertainment. Can't you see the smiles of satisfaction coming over the countenances of those visited? There are many groups of women in Memphis who spend from one to two times a week, and in some cases twice a day each and every week in coffees, card games, plain gossip—all of which is their business, not mine. I suggest that a movement like the one suggested might bring satisfaction and a feeling of having done something for others?

A true friend knows when one needs a word of affection and encouragement and knows just how to say it. He is one of those wonderfully thoughtful people who is sensitive to the hearts and minds of others. He has a sense of timing which enables him to say the word of encouragement and strengthening just when needed.—Dr. Norman Peale.

The Claude News has moved into a new location, after three years in an old building near the depot. The editors have installed a "news drop" at their new location, and one that we hope to install after the season is over, since the crack under the door prevents the news from being pushed through. A good many people have suggested they sometimes come by to leave items of news for the office is closed, and have no place to leave them.

Johnson grass not far from the square has matured, and winter winds will soon be scattering the seed over town. The area doesn't add to the good looks of Memphis.

Homes for the aged will be provided when the hospital is built, it has been announced. In fact, one of the local hospitals is providing a home for a few, but the hospital has to be used as a hospital. This is fine, there are a number in the area who cannot be taken care of in private homes, and some do not have loved ones to look after them. Right now, several Memphis people are going to adjoining towns where there are nursing homes to get the attention and care needed. These folks would like to live in Memphis where they have friends and family who could visit them often than is done elsewhere. More rooms are needed here to take care of those needing nursing attention. Then, there are a lot of people who, with homes broken up and life-long gone to the Beyond, are financially able to afford quarters and not in need of nursing care. It seems to me that this is one of the musts in Memphis, and such an effort could be financed by a group of citizens. Think it over. Let us let those who helped build this great Panhandle not be forgotten, and left to fend for themselves?

Santa has made his first appearance, Christmas lights are strung all that Yuletide is just around the corner, and the trees are ready for customer to take home, and the kids are eagerly awaiting Santa's second coming. The first was made just to find out what the kids want for Christmas.

Doctors are spending their daylight hours, and some are not gabbing or playing games, but in seeing and treating patients with every ill in the category of diagnosis—the doctors cannot complain at not having something to do. Their jobs really are permanent. But here is a suggestion: Harold Hudson's column in the Ochiltree County News, if successful might relieve their having to treat patients. A friend of Hudson was having trouble with his arm, and later turned up able to use the afflicted arm. When asked "How kum," the answer from the doctor was, "You may think I'm silly or superstitious, but read back about a family that cured a boy's arthritis by wearing a bracelet of copper wire on the boy's arm. I wrapped a bracelet about my arm. Now, three weeks later I can use the arm better than in years." Harold says there is more to this sort of thing than we ever knew. But perhaps your doctor should be consulted.

Since the wet weather has ceased, for awhile at least, sunshine and wind should get cotton harvesting under way and keep it that way until sometime in 1963. The weather is hopeful that the present weather will continue for several weeks without letup.

November is now past history and December is in the air. And not a killing freeze up to this Wednesday. I remember Mac Tarver had qualified as Mr. Weather Predictor, and was all ready to get Mr. Weather Man McCarty to sign a certificate setting forth Mac's appointment as weather assistant—you know what—Mac says he is not the one so designated. That he had just quoted another weather forecaster that "If we do not have a killing freeze in early December, we won't have one until December. The quote is from L. C. Martin." Now, when one wants to know what the weather to expect tomorrow or next week, don't ask Mac Tarver.

A certain area in Hall County has evidently adopted the mountain hill-billy tactics of the mountainous areas of N. or S. Carolina. The finding of a still in the area comes as a surprise. I have been wondering why (Continued on Page Eight)

Farmers Resume Harvest Today

The harvest of the 1962 cotton crop began again yesterday in some areas of Hall County, while in other areas farmers went into their fields today, according to reports. Dry weather has prevailed the past four days.

A telephone survey of the 14 county gins Thursday morning revealed that the ginning total has now reached 22,869 bales for the season. At this time last season, 60,363 bales had been harvested.

If dry weather holds for another seven days, county giners are expecting one of the heaviest ginning weeks of the season, since all cotton fields are ready for harvest.

Increased Rates

The United States Department of Agriculture announced increases in fees for cotton classing services, according to K. E. Voelkel of the Memphis Cotton Classing Office. Among the charges affected will be Review Classification under the Smith-Doxey Act. Effective Dec. 1, a charge of 35 cents instead of 25 cents per sample will be made for the review, he said.

Voelkel said that as has been the case for the past several weeks, rains again delayed field operations. Sample receipts were stopped completely towards the latter part of last week. Slightly over 8,000 samples were classed for the week ending Nov. 30. For the season 72,323 samples were classed compared with 143,667 as of the same date last season.

The quality of cotton classed during the past week fell in the following categories: 20 per cent white, 74 per cent light spotted, and 6 per cent spotted. The predominant grade was middling light spotted with 39 per cent. Because of preparation and bark, some grades were reduced; however, the quantity amounted to only about two per cent and three per cent, respectively.

The predominant staple length was 15-16 inch with 54 per cent. Forty-five per cent was classed 31-32 inch and longer. About one per cent was called wasty. Under the U. S. Testing Act, micronaire readings were assigned to 5,695 samples during the week. Readings continue to hold up with the good readings of the past month or more. Only one per cent read 2.9 and lower. Other readings were as follows: 3.0 to 3.4, 10 per cent; 3.5 to 3.9, 33 per cent; 4.0 and higher, 56 per cent.

Dry Weather Is Welcomed By County Residents

After rains over the county Saturday and Sunday, fair weather the rest of this week has been a welcomed sight to county farmers and other residents.

Total rainfall in the Lesley area totaled one and one-half inches, while the Estelline area received from one to one and a half inches during the week.

Lakeview residents reported a total of over two inches of moisture, while the Turkey area received a little over one-half inch.

J. J. McMickin, official weather observer in Memphis, reported measuring .55 of an inch Sunday from the rains.

Temperatures this past week have been mild, McMickin reported. The high-low temperature spread included: Wednesday 34-54, Tuesday 42-55, Monday 42-54, Sunday 51-55, Saturday 48-58, Friday 44-48 and last Thursday 50-57.

One Injured, Two Killed In Wrecks

Two persons were killed and one was seriously injured in two separate car accidents in Hall County this week.

Mrs. L. A. Hart of Kingsville received a broken neck and a broken pelvis when her family car, being driven by her husband, overturned at the intersection of Highways 256 and 70 at Brice at 8 a. m. Monday.

Leslie Aubrey Hart was not injured in the accident. The Harts' 1957 Plymouth was heavily damaged.

Thursday morning, it was reported by personnel at Goodall Hospital that Mrs. Hart's condition was good and that she was being taken to Borger to stay with her daughter, Mrs. Brindley.

The Harts had been visiting in the Brindley home in Borger and were returning to Kingsville when the accident occurred.

Glenn Wayland Smoot of Childress and Claude Huffman, a negro from Dallas, were killed when the vehicles they were driving collided on the curve immediately south of Estelline at 2 a. m. Saturday.

The Dallas man was traveling toward Amarillo and Smoot was returning to Childress from the auto auction at Amarillo, and was pulling a pick-up.

Funeral services for Mr. Smoot, 29, were held at 10 a. m. Monday at the Childress Church of Christ, with Jack Hackworth, minister, in charge. Burial was in Childress Cemetery.

Smoot is survived by his wife, two sons and a baby daughter, his parents, and one brother, all of Childress.

All three vehicles were heavily damaged.

One of the largest crowds of area youngsters ever to assemble met Santa Claus in Memphis Wednesday afternoon. The over-all number was somewhere over 1,400. For the first time Santa's helpers passed out all of their bags of candy before all of the children had passed through the line.

Especially large this year was the number of pre-school children. A large crowd of pre-school children assembled at the County Courthouse before Santa arrived at 1:15 p. m. He was brought to the Courthouse in the "Big Mack" fire truck, and was met by Chamber of Commerce Manager Clifford Farmer and Les Sims.

The Memphis Democrat's mail box, set up to receive letters to Santa, was almost half-full after the children had left. These letters will be published in the Dec. 20 issue of The Democrat.

J. M. Ferrel, Jr., chairman of the retailers committee of the C. of C., stated that plans are being made to have Christmas music played over loud speakers within the next week. The speakers will be set up on the Courthouse. The program was very successful last season, he said.

Memphis To Host Silverton Fri. Night

The Memphis Cyclone Friday night will play host to the two boys teams of Silverton at the MHS gymnasium. The first game begins at 7 p. m., it was announced Wednesday.

Memphis so far is undefeated in three outings on the court this season. Next Tuesday night, Memphis will travel to Amarillo where the Cyclone will play Price College.

In one of the most exciting games of the season, the Cyclone defeated the Class AA Quannah Indians, 34-33, Tuesday night, before a good crowd of local supporters.

Memphis took a 11 to 7 lead in the first quarter, and saw it dwindle to a 16-13 halftime lead. However, beginning the third quarter, the Cyclone could not get started, and Quannah pulled ahead, 21-17, until the local lads got rolling to make a 21-21 third quarter score.

About midway in the fourth period, Quannah broke the game open by hitting three quick baskets to gain a 6-point advantage. As the game drew to a close, baskets by Bill Pounds and Dwight Gailey closed the gap to only one point, with the score 33-32 in Quannah's favor. The Indians came down the court, worked for a basket, missed their shot and Memphis took over the ball with 55 seconds left on the clock when they called a time out.

The Memphis team put the ball into play and worked it in for a shot. With 12 seconds left on the clock, Jacky Bridges, who had not hit a basket all night, found the hoop with a jump shot, and Memphis led 34-33. Quannah came down the court fast, made a bad pass, which Bill Pounds picked off. Pounds stalled the bill until the buzzer sounded.

Dwight Gailey was the game's high scorer with 17 points. Bill Braziel was Quannah's high point man with 11 points. Bill Pounds scored 10 points, Jacky Bridges (Continued on Page Eight)

The Memphis City Council Tuesday night deferred action on the petition requesting that a bond election be called authorizing the city to issue approximately $135,000 in bonds for the purpose of building a public building.

The decision to defer action was based on the legal technicality that the Council must set the date for an election not earlier than 15 days nor later than 30 days after the date they call the election.

It was the feeling of the Council that the holiday season would interfere with the election if they set the date this month. The Council voted to set the date of their next meeting for Jan. 8, instead of Jan. 1.

Meeting with the Council to discuss the proposed bond election were Joe W. Smith of the First Southwest Company of Lubbock; George B. Buescker, Jr., of the First of Texas Corp., Investment Securities, of Abilene. Evan Roberts, of Stiles, Roberts and Messersmith, Architects and Engineers of Lubbock, and representatives of the Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development.

Roy L. Brewer, district manager of the Southwest Telephone Company of the Southwest, appeared before the City Council and asked that the city make minor rate adjustments in the extension telephone charge to both business and residential extensions, and the charge for key set installation and service. The Council took no action on the request at their meeting Tuesday night.

Brewer said that the rate increase on the extension business telephone which the company is asking is from $1.50 a month to $1.75 a month, while the residential extension increase would be from $1.00 to $1.25 a month. Brewer stated that the proposed increase would not affect primary service. (Continued on Page Eight)

6 Polling Places Are Listed For Referendum

Six polling places where Hall County farmers may cast ballots in the referendum on marketing quotas for the 1963 upland cotton crop were announced today by Joe C. Montgomery, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

The referendum will be held Tuesday, Dec. 11.

The six polling places include: Lesley, Gin Office, J. W. Hatley, Jr., chairman; Lakeview, Rear First National Bank, C. R. (Pat) Lewis, chairman; Plaska, Gin Office, Herbert A. Holt, chairman; Memphis, ASCS Office, Roy L. Gresham, chairman; Estelline, Gin Office, Crump W. Ferrel, chairman; and Turkey, City Hall, Buster Hanna, chairman.

The polls will be open from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m.

The proposition before county farmers is that if at least two-thirds of producers approve quotas, the 1963 cotton crop will be supported at 65 to 90 per cent of parity. If quotas are disapproved, support will be at 50 per cent of parity to cooperators only.

Chairman Montgomery explained that every effort has been made to inform farmers fully about the allotment-quota program so that the outcome of the referendum may represent the considered opinion of all the voters. Farmers eligible to cast ballots are all those who engaged in the production of upland cotton in 1962. This includes those farmers whose 1962 cotton history acreage is protected by participation in the Soil Bank, released acreage or preservation.

"If the husband is eligible to vote, the wife is eligible," Chairman Montgomery said.

"It is the farmer's privilege and duty to vote his convictions in this referendum which is so vital to his interest," he said.

Quail Hunters Discover Distillery In Shelter-Belt South Of Lakeview

A negro was apprehended by Hall County officers Sunday night and charged with "manufacturing alcoholic beverages." He was brought to trial Tuesday, found guilty by Judge Tracy Davis, and fined $50 and court costs.

Edward Brown, a 30-year-old negro man, who lives west of Lakeview, was picked up by Sheriff W. P. Baten, Jr., and Deputy Sheriff Elmer Neel Sunday night at the house in which Brown was living. Brown had in his possession several bottles of the homemade "white lightning."

Brown's distillery was discovered by several quail hunters Sunday on one of R. D. Revell's farms, located three miles west and five miles south of Lakeview. The distillery was located in a shelterbelt.

The distillery was constructed out of a five-gallon milk can, and several feet of copper tubing, plus a cooling can filled with water.

The distillery was broken down by Deputy Neel Monday. Neel said the alcoholic content of the "white lightning" was high enough for it to burn, when lit by a match.

Christmas And The American Way

With fairer weather giving some hope to county cotton farmers of being able to get into their water-logged fields and harvest their crop, local merchants' spirits have lifted this week in hopes for a good Christmas buying season.

Ol' Santa Claus came to Memphis yesterday and heard the wishes of the youngsters as to what they want for Christmas. The Christmas spirit is here along with the Christmas shopping days before that memorial date.

And, along with the Christmas season, throughout the nation, state and this county, comes an increase in advertising of Christmas goods.

But, ever so often, someone will cast a caustic remark about "the ads" as if they were almost sinful, or at best a useless waste of money.

A well-known national business analyst said, "newspaper advertising is to a great extent responsible for our having the highest wage rates and the best standard of living in the world. There could be no mass selling without newspaper advertising. Mass production would be impossible without mass selling. Without mass production, our standard of living could not conceivably have reached its present historic height."

What does advertising do to help you? That's easy to answer. It is helping you, for one thing, to hold your job 52 weeks out of the year. It is helping to up your "take home" pay. It is increasing employment, so that your children, too, can get a good education. Advertising is the genie that unlocks the material blessings of our free enterprise system.

We still like the poet's version:

"The constant flow of water wears away the hardest stone. The constant gnaw of Touser masticates the toughest bone; The constant coming lover packs away the blushing maid; And the Constant Advertiser is the one who gets the trade."

We ask residents in this area to do as much of their Christmas shopping at home as they can so that all may have a Merry Christmas this year!

Christmas Tree Fire Safety Tips

More than 50 million American families in the next few days will be buying Christmas trees and decorating them for the holiday season.

Unless care is taken, this happy symbol of the holiday season can bring tragedy, warns the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

These suggestions are offered by the Board to keep your Christmas tree firesafe:

- 1—When you buy a Christmas tree, choose one which appears fresh. Before you buy the tree, run your hand over the needles to make sure they are firmly attached. If needles fall when brushed, the tree is dry and you should select another one.
- 2—When you get the tree home, keep it outdoors until you are ready to decorate it. You can keep it fresh by standing it in a pail of water.
- 3—You should wait until just before Christmas before setting up the tree.
- 4—You should place the tree in the coolest part of the room, away from radiators, heaters and the fireplace. This will keep the tree from drying and reduce the chance of fire.
- 5—Your Christmas tree stand should be of the type equipped with a water container in which the trunk can rest. Fresh trees will "drink" a sizeable amount of water, and you should fill the water container daily.
- 6—Only flameproof decorations should be used on the tree—those made of glass, metal or fire-resistant material.
- 7—Use only electric lights to illuminate the tree and be sure to check light strings before placing them on the branches. Those with frayed wires should be thrown away. If you buy a new set, select a type that bears the Underwriters' Laboratories label.
- 8—The switch controlling the tree lights should be some distance from the tree.
- 9—Electric trains—part of Christmas in many homes—should be set up away from the tree. Sparks from toy trains could be fire hazards.
- 10—Lights on Christmas trees always should be turned off when everyone is away from home.
- 11—Check the tree frequently for dryness. In particular, check tree needles near lights. If they have started to turn brittle, change the position of the lights.
- 12—When needles become so dry they start falling, take the tree down at once and put it outdoors.
- 13—When Christmas presents are opened, the gift wrappings you intend to keep should be folded and put away. Other paper, ribbon and boxes should be gathered up and thrown away promptly.
- 14—Even if the tree still appears to be fresh, take it down the day after New Year's.

Start Christmas NOW!

Death Wish and Ban the Bomb

We talked the other day to a newspaper friend who had inspected an American poison gas factory, between the first and second wars. Thousands of men and women were working in the plant, making enough chemicals to poison the world.

Similar work was in progress, and still is, on bacteriological warfare, the breeding of germs designed to pollute the food and water of the enemy, crippling him with terrible disease epidemics.

Neither the chemical nor the bacteriological poisons were used by either side in the second World War, despite fearful predictions that civilization was going to be destroyed. They weren't used by Western Europe when it was overwhelmed by Nazi tanks and dive bombers; nor by the Russians when they were driven back to Moscow and Stalingrad; not even by Hitler in his last, desperate hours.

There were two main reasons in our opinion. There was an approximate balance of terror. Anyone using these weapons faced prompt, certain and terrible retaliation. And these weapons were self-defeating. Poison gases, carried on the winds, are as apt to kill friend as foe; and a disease epidemic knows no national boundaries.

In both these respects they resemble the nuclear bombs. The reasons for failure to use germs and gas are valid for the mushroom cloud. Short of the ultimate, earth-destroying, suicidal madness, none of these is going to be used—so long as there is superiority, or approximate balance, in them and in conventional armaments against any world power with predatory designs.

Our "peace marchers" and other disoriented propagandists would have us abandon the bomb—while the Soviets keep at it—on the theory they would destroy the balance which keeps the bomb from being used, just as it has held back the germs and the gas.

They are prompted, apparently, by a subconscious death wish, a phenomenon familiar to physicians who find some of their patients actually don't want to get well. This applies, of course, only to the sincerely misguided or mildly cracked. The whole movement is inspired by Soviet propaganda and Soviet agents are its guiding lights.

Going At It Backwards

The less a man works, the less he produces. With a nation, it's the same way. Cutting the workweek from 40 to 35 hours, as the AFL-CIO plans to ask Congress to do next session, could mean a one-eighth cut in production.

If this happens, we would have fewer products and less services. And holding wages at the same level, paying for 40 hours and working 35 hours, can only mean inflation, because the same number of dollars would be chasing fewer goods and services.

The unions may be outsmarting themselves. Union leaders say that cutting the workweek, and keeping the same pay, will force employers to put on more men and thus take up the slack in unemployment.

Quite the reverse is apt to take place. Workers will be replaced by machines at a faster pace than has been demonstrated in the past few years.

Automation has grown by leaps and bounds, simply because a machine, even with a high original cost, can do the work at less cost than a man can. Competition has demanded that companies reduce their costs and they have to seek better ways of getting production. Automation has taken over.

The unemployment will increase among those who make up the bulk of unemployment now—the unskilled laborers. The demand is high for well educated clerical and technical workers and more automation creates more jobs for trained people. It eliminates jobs for the unskilled and untrained.

Reducing the work week and increasing the costs of the employer is not the way to reduce unemployment and bring prosperity.

recommendations are adopted— would come from applying the state sales tax to motor vehicles sales in place of the selective excise tax now levied on vehicles.

Commission recommended repeal of the exemption of farm machinery and equipment, but suggested that feed for farm work animals, herbicides, defoliant and desiccants, and all fertilizer sales be exempt.

Some other recommendations were:

- 1. Apply sales tax to all clothing sales, which would up revenue $10,000,000 a year.
2. Exempt vending machine sales of less than 25 cents, and all sales of less than 25 cents for retailers who derive 50 per cent of receipts from such sales.
3. Exempt sales made to state banks, since sales to national banks are exempt.
4. Exempt all sales of alcoholic beverages.
5. Permit grocery stores to pay sales tax in proportion to purchases of taxable and non-taxable items.

Election Changes
The Election Law Study Committee released a 221-page report on proposed changes in Texas election laws.

Sen. Tom Craighton of Mineral Wells, chairman of the committee, said the main goal is to remove conflicts and deficiencies from the present code. The more palatable suggestions will be included in one bill for legislative consideration. More controversial items will be presented separately. Public will have a chance to challenge the proposals on Dec. 6 and 7 when an open hearing will be held in the Senate chamber. Committee also will hold hearings at that time on a voter registration law and a proposal to change the dates of primary elections.

Some of the 120 proposed amendments concern:

- 1. Having voters check preferred candidates on paper ballots, instead of scratching those opposed.
2. Requiring write-in nominees and runoff candidates to pay the same fees as other candidates.
3. Fining voters who cast a ballot in one party's primary and then vote in the runoff of another party.
4. Requiring campaign expense reports by newspapers, magazines, billboards, printers, radio and TV stations, on all advertising contracts.
5. Requiring all voters over 60 years of age to get annual exemptions.

Debt Increased
State Treasurer Jesse James reports that the deficit in the General Revenue Fund increased by $6,000,000 between Nov. 11 and Nov. 23, when it was $34,146,666.

Hunting Deaths
Cecil Reid of the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas urges hunters to put a stop to a tragic string of hunting deaths and injuries by practicing caution in the field. He cites three recent deaths where hunters were mistaken for game and killed. Reid said no hunter should allow himself to shoot at anything which he has not identified fully as game.

He urges hunters to request passage of legislation such as the "careless and reckless hunting" laws in effect in some other states.

Court Overrules Commission
Texas Supreme Court has negated an order of the Railroad Commission and revoked a specialized motor carrier permit to transport road building materials granted Lively Trucking Contractors.

Decision to varate the commission's order was made on the basis that findings on which the permit was based were insufficient.

In a concurring opinion, Associate Justice Joe Greenhill criticized the Railroad Commission's use of a printed form of "standard" finding-of-facts on which an order is based; filling in date, names and authority.

He called this "a lack of procedural due process of law."

Bracero Calls Down
Texas cotton farmers reacted to a U. S. Department of Labor wage standard of 70 cents an hour, for braceros hired to chop cotton, by resorting to almost exclusive machine harvesting.

While 45,000 Mexican contract laborers were hired in August of 1961, only 16,000 were used in August this year, and they also harvested vegetables and grain.

Supporting that thesis, they quote such authorities as Governor-elect John Connally, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and Dr. John R. Stockton, director of the Bureau of Business Research, University of Texas.

Army Pfc. Donald B. Aaron of Memphis recently participated with other members of the 15th Evacuation Hospital in Exercise Tricolor Team, a NATO operation in Luxembourg.

The exercise was designed to test American, French, Luxembourg and German medical units in their ability to work together from the viewpoint of command and control, communications, and evacuation capabilities.

Aaron, regularly assigned as a medical aidman at the hospital in Munchweiler, Germany, entered the Army in March, 1961, and completed basic training at Fort Hood, Tex.

Mr., Mrs. M. E. Ellis Receive Letter From W. M. Smoot After 27 Years

A happy holiday surprise for Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Ellis was a letter from W. M. Smoot from whom they had not heard or had any contact with in 27 years.

In 1929 they took the six-day-old baby boy into their home after the death of his mother. At first they had planned to keep him for a few days, but later Mr. Smoot, father of the boy, asked them to keep the baby. When W. M. was six years of age his father returned and by law took the boy and placed him in an orphan's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis had not heard from W. M. from that time until recently when he wrote to the county clerk, Mrs. Ruby Goodnight, inquiring about the Ellis family.

Mrs. Goodnight called the Ellis family, and since that time they have received a long letter from Mr. Smoot, who is now living in Cupertino, Calif., where he is employed with the Credit Bureau.

Mrs. Ellis said he wrote that he stayed in the orphanage until he was 15 years of age, then went to live with his brother, Edgar.

Later, he joined the Marines, and served with the corps until 1950.

He is married and is the father of three children, Mrs. Ellis said.

Safety Assn. Advises Parents To Buy Safe Toys For Christmas Gifts

The Texas Safety Association this week advised Christmas shoppers to keep safety in mind when selecting toys for children.

J. O. Musick, general manager of TSA, advised selecting toys that are sturdy and well-made.

"Cheaply constructed or breakable toys may come apart or be broken under strenuous child play," Musick said. "Broken or jagged edges from toys can cause cuts and infection."

He advised testing the strength of a toy to see how much bending it will take and whether it will last past Christmas Day.

"Choose the toy which is suitable to the strength of the child. A toy which is too heavy for a youngster to handle easily could cause an accident to that child," Musick explained.

He further advised shoppers to beware of toys manufactured with sharp edges or pointed ends, and to check all playthings to make sure there are no parts which may become loose and find their way into the mouth.

"Babies and toddlers invariably follow the 'hand to mouth' rule for everything they touch. See that they do not play with small toys, marbles, coins, beads or other tiny objects," Musick said.

Other things such as stuffed animals with button eyes which may become loose, whistles with removable mouth pieces and pull-toys with small removable parts also are dangerous for small children.

The safety director reported that nearly 600 children under age five die each year in the U. S. as a result of suffocating from ingestion of small objects.

Last year in Texas, 16 children under age five died from ingestion of objects other than food.

He said shoppers should keep in mind the age, interest, and physical and mental abilities of children in selecting toys.

"An archery set, dart game or chemistry set may become dangerous if a child does not know how to use them or is too young for such games," he said. He said electrical toys are unsafe for young and that such toys children should be selected.

"Inspect electrical frayed cords or any other parts which may cause shock, and warn him not to touch electrical equipment hands or when wearing clothing," he added.

Musick reminded even if a toy is safe, stay that way.

"Inspection of toys equipment periodically. Check wooden splinters, wagons for sharp edges and baby's rattle which may free the inside. If satisfactory not be made, discard it."

He noted that toys are not only for children but also for adults.

"Serious falls may be caused by toys left on steps, stairs or in the yard. Have toys and teach children to play safely," he concluded.

Abstracts

While driving around a lake, John and Mary saw a "For Sale" sign on a piece of property which they thought they could afford to buy.

They made inquiry of the owner and agreed on a price. They inquired about title and the owner assured them that he would give them an "Abstract." They took the abstract, which was a fat book of papers, and the deed, filed the deed at the courthouse and thought no more about it, assuming, as many people do, that an "abstract" is an assurance of good title.

Some years later they went to sell to a buyer who was better informed. He insisted that either the abstract be examined and an opinion given by an attorney that the title was good or that the sellers must provide title insurance. When they sought an opin-

MEMPHIS TEXAS

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

Each winter brings its toll of deaths from carbon monoxide, the killer gas loosed wherever fuel is used to power cars, cook meals or to dull the chill edge of weather.

It claimed the lives of 42 Texans last year, and will undoubtedly strike again at the unwary this winter season, just as it did in the small North Texas garage one day last week.

The temperature was in the high 30's and a brisk north wind was blowing when the head mechanic reported for work that morning.

Chill had permeated every corner of the open shop, and had seeped into the concrete floor. No wonder the mechanic's helper pulled closed the sliding door when he came in a few minutes later.

That single act was the instrument of one death and one near-death from carbon monoxide (CO) that built up in the unventilated garage.

State Health Department industrial hygiene engineers report that CO is a very real occupational hazard this time of year. Why was not the North Texas garage equipped with a vent pipe leading to the outside to which the exhaust of idling cars could be attached? The question can't be answered. It is a fact that this very sensible practice is common in northern garages, but rare in Texas despite the extremes in weather.

Carbon monoxide does its damage with lightning speed. Industrial hygienists report that a car running for a mere five minutes in a garage 20x30x10 will release enough CO to cause serious physical effects.

Any fuel containing carbon can produce CO. This is true of solid fuels such as coal or charcoal or wood. It is true of liquid fuels such as oil, gasoline, and kerosene. It is true of gaseous fuels such as natural or manufactured gas.

Unvented space heaters in homes are particularly hazardous. They work well when the room is properly ventilated, but in closed rooms they quickly burn up the oxygen which in turn permits a

It's the Law in TEXAS

Water Attracts Children

Owning a swimming pool is becoming rather common in Texas and it places some legal duties on the owner. Your main duty hinges on the "doctrine of attractive nuisance" under which you can be legally responsible to young children who trespass on your land.

As a rule you owe no duty to trespassers. They must take your property as they find it: if dangerous, that is their tough luck. Not so for children who wander on your land. The attractive nuisance doctrine says that if you have some man-made things on your land which entice youngsters you have a legal duty to make your land safe for them.

A high tension line, an old mineshaft, a railroad turntable, a pool of clear acid may be irresistible to children. If they are likely to be attracted and unable to grasp the dangers, you have an must make your premises safe.

Recently a court held that a swimming pool may be an attractive nuisance. In this case a toddler drowned in Jones' pool. Jones and the boy's parents lived across the street from each other. About 30 feet from the street, the pool was fenced but with openings through which children could enter. On weekends the Jones were not home, only the Jones' children. Animals often played near the pool.

The pool and the animals could attract a youngster; he could not grasp the water's danger. The Joneses could have had a locked gate. A jury properly held Jones responsible for the drowning.

How young is the child? Can he appreciate the dangers? How easy is it for the owner to make the place safe for the children?

There are times when an older child should appreciate dangers. An older child playing on a scaffold should appreciate the dangers of height. In another case a twelve-year old boy tried to jump on a train which was moving along a public street. When he fell he could not get damages for his injury. He would have seen his danger. Besides how could one put up a barrier along a public street which could keep out twelve year old boys.

A landowner may have other duties to trespassers. He cannot set a "trap" on his land, create hazards on his land on purpose; he cannot put a pit on his land where people frequently trespass, put in spring guns, or other traps to harm trespassers.

Sometimes a condition on your land may be a trap to children but not one for adults. The adult may grasp the danger of slippery algae growing in a partially drained pool, but not. But even a trap on your attractive nuisance doctrine not apply without some element or enticement to children to trespass on your land. Such attractions are, in an implied invitation to check your place for such conditions, and in any event measures, such as insurance cover harm that may come things on your land. And all, keep your place. For money may not undo harm.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is to inform—not to advise. A person should ever apply or rely on any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised of the facts involved, a slight variance in fact change the application of the law.)

License A Must For Hunting Deer Or Turkey

"If you intend to hunt turkey or deer during the remainder of this season, you will need a license of one kind or another," said J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator for the Texas Game and Fish Commission this week. "You must have the required deer tags to put on your deer and these are found only on the hunting license."

All persons 65 or over, or under 17, or residing on the property on which they plan to hunt, still need a license, but in these instances must get an exempt license. When a person hunts in the county of residence, a hunting license is not needed unless he hunts deer or turkey.

"The law is very plain," Phillips said. "It requires that a person must actually reside on a piece of property before he can hunt deer or turkey on it legally without a purchased license."

There are two things all hunters should understand clearly, according to Phillips: anyone hunting deer or turkey must have a hunting license, either purchased or exempt and all hunters must

Texas Draft Quota Set At 163 Men For January 1963

The state quota for Texas draft boards in January calls for 163 men, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, announced Tuesday.

The state's January call of 163 compares with a quota of 235 for December and 153 for November. The January call is the share of a national of 4,000 men, all for the Army.

Colonel Schwartz also announced that local boards would send no men for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in January.

Local board quotas for the January call already have been figured and sent to the state's 137 local boards.

The January quota will be filled with men who are at least 22 years old on January 1, except volunteers and those legally termed delinquent under the draft law, who may be younger.

have a valid hunting license and a special antlerless deer permit if they plan to kill a doe or antlerless deer. He reminded hunters that the bonus tag is the single one at the left of the license, and this tag is good for antlerless deer only. The two tags together at the right side are the only ones which can be used on bucks. All three tags can be used on antlerless deer if the hunter has permits to go with them.

Federal Expenditures

The highly controversial subject of Federal expenditures has received much attention this election year. It occurred to me that the people of our District might be interested in the extent of Federal money flowing into the District, and the direct expenditures and under the Federal Loan and Insurance Programs. Our office made a complete breakdown of the subject matter as applied to the 18th Congressional District. It was interesting to note that had all of the Congressional Districts received the same Federal money, loans and insurance, as our own 18th, the Federal Budget would have been some 40 billion dollars in arrears. In other words, the Federal deficit would have been some 40 billion dollars more than 7 billion dollars.

TOTAL FEDERAL EMPLOYEES	4,167

Last year U. S. fishermen spent a total of $52,851,224 for licenses. Hunters planked down $64,026,782

These are figures just released by the United States Department of Interior. For the first time the total figures include all 50 states.

In toto 19,394,177 sports fishermen and 11,798,890 hunters bought licenses.

Actually, even these staggering figures do not include all who hunt and fish. Many sportsmen need no licenses because of age, legislative exemptions, or methods of fishing. Also, there are a great many hunters and fishermen who fail to pay their cost of wildlife conservation by going without licenses.

Texas ranked eighth in the sale of fishing licenses. Receipts totaled $1,875,308 for 872,236 licenses.

It must be remembered, however, that Texas has a universal license of $2.15 for all fishermen, including non-resident. As such it is the lowest-priced license in the U. S.

All other states issue non-resident licenses for just a few days of fishing, at a much higher price than Texas for a whole year.

Texas ranks tenth in the sale of hunting licenses. A total of $1,652,631 was paid in Texas for 592,805 licenses. Of this total 3,971 were non-resident buyers. The non-resident license sells for $25, except in the case of the migratory bird license which sells for $5.

New York ranked first in hunting licenses purchased, with a total of $5,783,999 received for 972,635 licenses issued, of which 38,614 were non-resident.

California topped all other states in fishing licenses with $6,218,457 received from 3,466,989 licenses, of which 326,469 were non-resident.

It is also generally recognized that Texans make up the bulk of the hunters and fishermen who go to Colorado, and even a greater portion of those who go to Wyoming.

With Texas wildlife population on the increase, more landowners making their property available to hunters and more dams being constructed which will impound good fishing waters, these figures in Texas are likely to increase heavily within the next few years. This will provide more funds for the development of the wildlife resources in more limited areas. And areas are becoming more limited every year with the increase in population and the expansion of our urban areas.

For instance, one interstate highway across Texas built to present day standards will require something like 100,000 acres of land. Since much of this area is rural, highway construction alone is knocking out a lot of good hunting territory.

This means that the conservation program must make provisions for this wildlife in wider

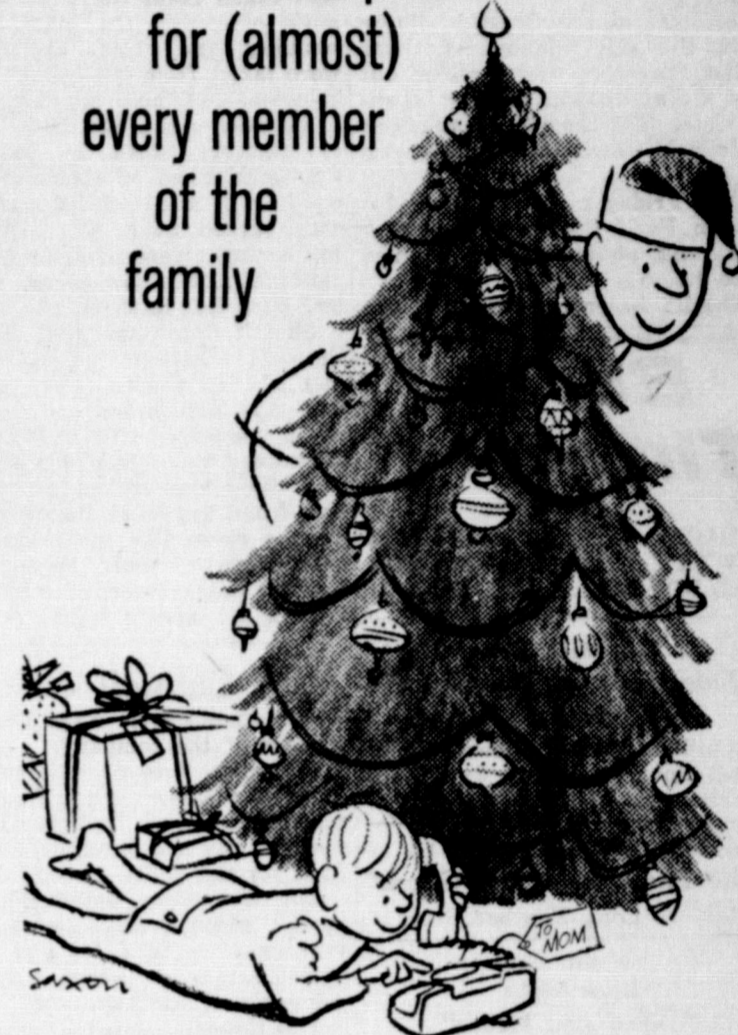

Texas has 18.6 billion barrels of oil reserve — 14.8 billion in crude oil; 3.8 billion from natural gas liquids (47.9 per cent of U. S.).

Tips For Outdoorsmen

Use the Right Lure Gamefish, such as bass, are predators who live by eating smaller fish.

Small fish are quicker in movement than the predator bass, so the big bass hide around stumps, lily pads, etc., to surprise them.

Your lures must imitate these small fish if you are to fool the big bass. And they must be presented just right.

Here are a few suggestions: work the shoreline with surface lures such as chuggars. If you get no strike at surface, or near the surface, try one of the sinking baits like a river runt.

Should you still have zero luck, chances are the fish are somewhere else. So experiment with jig and eel, or similar bait, among the lily pads and moss pockets.

Try This Top Water Trick Try adding a sinker ahead of your floating lures and run them slowly over the deepest. This gives the lurking chance at an attractive down where they are hidden. One undetected case of TB can infect dozens of people. No one is safe from tuberculosis. It attacks people of all walks of life. Christians fight TB and other diseases. "To cover with the veil of secrecy the common routine of life is an abomination to the eyes of every intelligent person." - Patrick Henry

Srygley-Goldston Wedding Vows Solemnized Thursday

In an impressive candlelight ceremony Thursday, Nov. 22, at 6 o'clock in the evening, Miss Frankye Lynn Srygley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clenton F. Srygley, became the bride of Jimmy Don Goldston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavern T. Goldston of McLean.

The double ring vows were read by Rev. J. B. Thompson in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church before an altar arrangement of pale yellow tapers in white wrought iron candelabra. Baskets of jade palms enhanced the setting which was highlighted with baskets of bronze chrysanthemums. Pale yellow tapers in circlets of greenery decorated the chancel rail.

Mrs. Ben Wilson, Jr., organist, played a medley of pre-nuptial selections and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Bob Fowler who sang

"O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candles were lighted by Sharon Goldston of McLean, sister of the bridegroom, and Beverly Srygley of Borger, cousin of the bride. They wore identical dresses of beige taffeta designed with fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. Their headpieces were large bows of matching taffeta with long streamers and their wrist corsages were of tiny bronze mums.

Little Miss Lee Ann Hamill of Lubbock was flower girl. Her dress was of mint green taffeta designed similarly to the other feminine attendants and she carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered along the bridal aisle.

Terry Lynn Hamill also of Lubbock was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a white satin pillow highlighted with gold ribbons.

Mrs. Gene Hamill of Lubbock was matron of honor and Mrs. Fred Molesworth of Amarillo was the bride's other attendant. Their identical dresses of gold taffeta were designed with bouffant skirts and fitted bodices closed at the back with tiny self-covered buttons. Their headpieces were of matching taffeta in a petal design highlighted with rhinestones and they carried colonial nosegays of pale green spider mums.

Roy Allard of Clarendon was best man and Bill Goldston, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsmen. Ushers were Gilbert Srygley of Borger, brother of the bride, and Fred Goldston of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a formal gown of white chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice of tulle over taffeta was appliqued with lace encrusted with iridescents and featured a scalloped neckline. The bouffant skirt which swept to a chapel train was designed with an overskirt of lace atop tiers of tulle edged with lace. Her tiara, borrowed from Mrs. Ray Powell of Canyon, secured her elbow length veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white rosebuds centered with a gardenia.

She observed the tradition of wearing something old, new, borrowed and blue. Her blue garter and lucky penny were given her by Mrs. Ben Parks and the something borrowed was her tiara.

Mrs. Srygley chose for her daughter's wedding a mint green suit of silk linen with matching

Black streamers also were appliqued with the French lace. Culture Club Hears Program on 'Texas Indians'

The Woman's Culture Club met Wednesday, Nov. 21, in the home of Mrs. R. E. Clark for a regular meeting.

Mrs. Robert Moss, president, presided during a short business session. The members were reminded to bring gifts for the Wichita Falls Hospital to the next club meeting.

The devotion, "Thanks—Giving," was given by Miss Alma Bruce.

The program was introduced by Mrs. Ward Gurley, program chairwoman.

A symposium, "Indians in Texas," was the program for the afternoon. Mrs. Jeanette Irons was the leader. Mrs. Robert Moss told about the "Indian Tribes in Texas." She gave a short history of each of these tribes, Comanches, Apaches, Caddo and Tejas.

Mrs. R. E. Clark discussed "Indian Rhythms." She reported that the Indian uses music more than any other race. Music is used in worship, prayer, victory, war and to express sorrow. Their songs are short, simple and are taught from generation to generation. The Indians use drums, rattles, whizzers, whistles, fiddles with one string, and flutes for instruments. The flute is the dearest and most valuable instrument of the Indian.

"Indians and Their Customs" was given by Mrs. Nat Bradley.

She told about the Navajos, Hopis, and Havasupais. The Navajos are the most prosperous of the Southwest Indians.

They carry the patterns for their rugs in their heads. Rugs and silver are the bank account of the Navajos. The Hopi Indians are the most peaceful and the most successful in agriculture.

The program was closed with each member giving the name of a town in Texas with an Indian name.

Members present were Mmes. Robert Moss, R. L. Madden, Grover Moss, Theodore Swift, Clifford Farmer, Ward Gurley, Jeanette Irons, L. A. Stilwell, Frank Ellis, Nat Bradley, Misses Sybil Gurley and Alma Bruce, and hostess, Mrs. R. E. Clark and a visitor, Cindy Bell.

E-A-X Is New Telephone System

An electronic telephone exchange, which will provide many unique customer services, will be field tested next year by Automatic Electric Company, subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation.

Called E-A-X (Electronic Automatic Exchange), the new system will first be installed in Portage, Indiana, an exchange of General Telephone Company of Indiana. The test installation will be an addition to existing step-by-step facilities and will, according to Herbert F. Lello, president of Automatic Electric, permit a thorough test of the capabilities of the equipment under actual operating conditions.

Customer services which will be provided with an E-A-X equipment include:

1. Customer Selective Call Forwarding- A person temporarily leaving his telephone may have incoming calls automatically forwarded to the telephone at his new destination.

2. Conference Calls- As many as five persons may be connected for a telephone conference without the assistance of an operator.

3. Call-Waiting Tone- A signal may be introduced into a telephone conversation to indicate to the participants that a caller is trying to reach one of them.

4. Abbreviated Dialing- A person may reach frequently called numbers by dialing only two digits.

5. Authorization codes for "DDD"- A person may dial a unique code which will prohibit the placement of Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) calls from his telephone. A dialed code may also erase this command.

Because the E-A-X system represents the adaption of the techniques of electronic computers to telephone switching, it promises operating economies heretofore unattainable, Lello said. Changes in customer service which previously called for re-wiring operations may be accomplished easily through modification of instructions in the E-A-X memory unit.

The system continually monitors its own performance, automatically locates faults when they occur, and indicates whatever necessary corrective action is required. The use of solid-state circuitry provides high reliability, extremely long life, reduced operating space, and substantially reduced operating and maintenance costs.

"New types of equipment must constantly be developed to meet the rapidly expanding demand for telephone services and other types of communications," Lello said, "and it is imperative that the new equipment be compatible with the extensive existing facilities to permit orderly expansion at the lowest possible cost."

Mrs. Michael Pelfrey will here Saturday from St. Louis, Mo., to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Lemons for an indefinite stay. Mr. Pelfrey is entering the Armed Forces and will be taking basic training at San Antonio for the next few weeks.

Fellows, she married you life... and she expects you show some.

County Sports

By BILL COMBS

Bill Pounds and the lads worked the ball down the court, stalling for time. With 12 seconds left on the clock, Jacky Bridges, who hadn't made a goal all night, made his first basket, sending Memphis to a 34 to 33 victory over Class AA Quanah. This was Quanah's third defeat and Memphis' third victory. Dwight Gailey scored 17 points to become the team's leading scorer for the season.

I enjoyed talking to Billy West, basketball coach of Quanah, for a short minute after the game Tuesday. He graduated from MHS in 1949, the year that Memphis won state. Although the score was a little high Tuesday night to compare with the scores of the 1949 team, I still got the feeling of tension that was always associated with the State Championships in 1949. Today, sports editors over the state still refer to that contest as the most pressure-packed performance in the history of the state event. Memphians will remember that the Cyclone defeated Coleman 25-23, Gaston 29-27 and Beaumont French 27-25. All of these final goals were scored in the closing seconds of the games.

The Estelline boys basketball team came from behind Tuesday night to defeat Paducah 52-47. Teddy Barnes scored better than 50 per cent of the Bear Cubs tallies. He was accredited with 34 points in the game. The Paducah girls were too much for the Estelline girls the 54-26 score shows. Linda Bowman was Estelline's high scorer with 10 points. The Estelline Junior High girls defeated Quitaque girls 22-14. Cheri Rapp was high scorer with 15 points. The boys lost to Quitaque last Thursday by two points.

In the Lakeview-Dodson boys game Tuesday night, Dodson's Tommy Hunt racked up 23 of his team's 62 to lead his quintet to a 67-30 victory. Jimmy Neighbors scored nine points to be Lakeview's high scorer. However, in the girls game, Lakeview exploded to a 31-5 lead over Dodson in the first quarter, and went on to win by a score of 65-39. Sandy Verden was the high scorer's with 25 points.

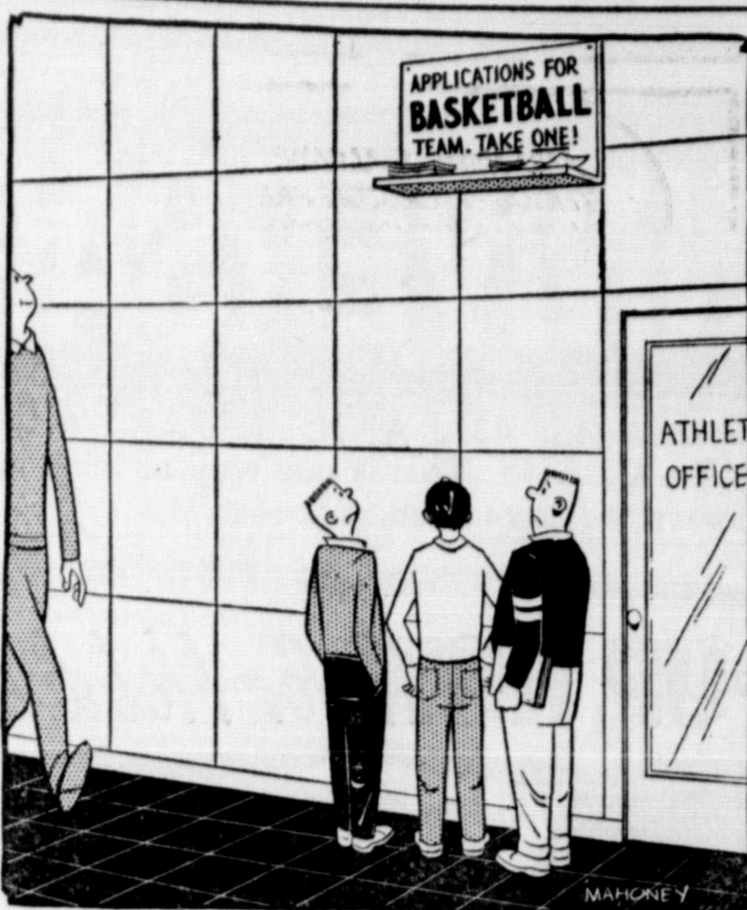

Hunters this week reported that quail are plentiful in areas where spring hail storms did not kill the young birds. However, in areas where the hail was heavy, there are few quail to be found.

Lee Brown and Swayne McCauley brought two bucks back Sunday night from the Kerrville-Junction area. They were hunting guests of Roger Sherry, brother-in-law of Swayne. Lee brought back the largest of the bucks, an eight-pointer, and Swayne, who was on his first deer hunting trip, killed a six-pointer. The boys reported finding plenty of deer in the area in which they hunted, between Kerrville and Junction.

Basketball games scheduled include: Estelline at Matador Tournament this weekend and Estelline vs. Paducah at Paducah next Tuesday; Lakeview and Quail tangle at Quail Friday night, then Lakeview will be open until the Silverton Tournament Dec. 13-15; Memphis hosts Silverton Friday night, and next Tuesday they go to Amarillo to play Price College.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Smith of Pampa visited here over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Gardenhire. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Mrs. Gardenhire.

USDA Announces Guidelines For Pilot Recreation Enterprises On Farms

A number of farmers in the country may be eligible for assistance in establishing recreation enterprises on their farms, according to a report released in 1963, according to the USDA.

Practices aimed at developing fishing, swimming, boating, hunting preserves, picnicking, camping, and other recreational use of land will be considered in developing the pilot developments in addition to wildlife conservation practices with soil and water benefits. Individual farmers or small groups of farmers who are interested in participating in the pilot program should contact the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office as soon as possible to discuss their proposals, Montgomery urged.

Causes Of Color In Cotton Are Listed By Voelkel

This is the sixth of a series of articles on cotton classing and problems encountered by cotton producers prepared by K. E. Voelkel of the U. S. D. A.'s Cotton Classing Office in Memphis.

Weather is the chief factor affecting the color in cotton. Only white is the normal color for cotton. There are many factors that cause lint cotton to be other than white in color.

In addition to white, cotton can be light spotted, spotted, tinged, yellow stained, light gray and gray. Adverse weather conditions can produce any of these color variations. Most of these colors are very common in the Memphis area, especially after a killing frost and towards the latter part of the harvesting season.

Freezing, such as a frost or below freezing temperatures, produces severe damage to immature cotton. Freezing of young, immature bolls causes the lint to be discolored. The stage of maturity the bolls are in at the time of the freeze usually determines the degree of discoloration to the lint. This cotton may be light spotted, spotted, tinged, or yellow stained. When cotton from such bolls is harvested and ginned with cotton from other bolls that have opened normally before a freeze, spotted cotton may result. This practice of combining such harvesting is not economical, and should be avoided at all times.

Open cotton that is left in the field exposed to the weather may become dark and dull in color, and therefore lower in grade. White cotton that is exposed to the weather loses its "bloom" or new crop color. A slight discoloration or dullness may result in a grade or more reduction in quality. As the color becomes more dull and darker, the cotton may then fall into the light gray and gray grade categories.

Wet leaves that hang touching open bolls may result in stained cotton. Stains or spots may also be caused by green leaves or other foreign matter being crushed in the ginning process.

Larry Braidfoot Attends Chicago Ag Convention

Larry Braidfoot, a junior at Texas A & M College, was elected to represent A & M at an Agricultural Convention which was held in Chicago over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Leaving College Station Saturday, Nov. 17, he returned Monday, Nov. 25. Two other students from A & M also attended the convention, one of whom is from Chicago and is the national president, and the other from Iowa.

Larry was elected to the office of secretary-treasurer of the association for next year.

While there, he visited Iowa State University and the University of Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., where he toured the chemistry departments. Larry is majoring in bio-chemistry.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Braidfoot of Parnell.

may also be caused by fallen or low hanging bolls touching the ground. Other soils will produce similar effect reflecting the soil color.

Besides the weather, insects and disease contribute largely to discoloration in cotton. Each year enormous losses are experienced by farmers in production yields and quality due to insects and diseases. Lower quality due to discoloration always means lower grades and a lower price on the market.

Many Persons Need Social Security Cards

Many persons will need social security cards this Holiday season, according to Hal Geldon, Manager of the Amarillo Social Security Office. This concerns any person who applies for part-time or full-time employment during the holidays and who does not already have a social security card.

It will be necessary for such a person to obtain a social security number, so that he can receive credit for his earnings for Holiday work. Even if he is working for the first time, and only for a week or two, he needs a number to present to his employer. The employer needs the number so that he can properly report the wages involved.

Social security retirement, disability, and survivor's benefits are paid on the basis of how long a person works and how much he receives in covered wages during his working years. This includes earnings for part-time Holiday work.

Applications for social security cards are available at the local Post Office, Geldon said. The completed application should be mailed to: Social Security Office, 1006 Adams Street, Amarillo, Texas. A card will be returned in a short time.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

The Great Plains Conservation Program County Committee of Hall County met Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Soil Conservation Office in Memphis. Those attending were W. B. Hooser, county agent; Claude Moore, FHA county supervisor; Neal Hindman, vocational agricultural teacher of Memphis, and Charley B. Cape of the Soil Conservation Service in Memphis.

The purpose of the meeting was to establish the cost of the practices that the Great Plains Conservation Program offers cost share help on for the 1963 program year. Some of the costs were changed from last year. These changes were made due to the fluctuation of prices charged for doing these practices in 1962 and also of bids that were received for them from contractors in the surrounding area. Average costs for establishing practices under the Great Plains Conservation Program can be changed from time to time if prices justify such a change.

The Great Plains Conservation Program offers cost share help on 24 different practices ranging from grass seeding to constructing cross fences on rangeland. Any farmer or rancher interested in information concerning the program can contact their local Soil Conservation Service personnel, county agent or ASC County office.

Every time your neighborhood gin burns cotton burs it is costing you money says Charley B. Cape of the Soil Conservation Service. That is, unless you are one of the increasing number of farmers who have found the real value of returning these burs to your land. Not many years ago bur burning was a common practice — but in the last few years the trend has turned the other way. The reason for this is simple — putting cotton burs back on the land pays off.

At the Lubbock and Spur Experiment Stations both dryland and irrigated test results show it's good, sound, economical sense to use cotton burs. In the Lubbock test, every ton of cotton burs put on the land increased lint yields an average of 36 pounds on irrigated land and on dryland 27 pounds per acre. The carryover effect increased yields 28 pounds per acre for 5 years. Burs were applied at the rate of 6 tons per acre. The fertilizer content of burs alone is worth nearly $8.00 per ton — not counting the extra benefits.

Here is what burs can do for your land — increase water efficiency by about one-third; cut down on land and water erosion; give better water penetration and water storage, and offer more food for soil micro-organisms.

Should you use nitrogen fertilizer with burs? Based on results it's good business. Burs are high in carbon and low in nitrogen and the rotting process temporarily uses up much available nitrogen in the soil. You can avoid this by adding nitrogen fertilizer at the rate of 12-15 pounds of nitrogen per ton of burs. At the same time you avoid tying up nitrogen the crop needs for growth. As a general rule the soils in The Hall County Soil Conservation District need additional organic matter. Fertilizer content of a ton of burs alone is worth nearly $8. Add that to the other advantages burs offer your land. Can you afford to watch those dollars go up in smoke.

Interest Rates Are Reduced By Land Bank

The Federal Land Bank of Houston has announced that effective on January 1, 1963, it will reduce temporarily to 5 per cent the interest rate on all outstanding loans which presently bear a rate in excess of 5 per cent. The contract rate on new loans will continue to be 5 1/2 per cent but interest on loans closed on and after December 1, 1962, will be billed temporarily at 5 per cent until further notice by the bank.

In making the announcement, Hale Watherford, President of the bank, said that of its $250 million of loans outstanding, more than $100 million bear contract rates in excess of 5 per cent and that the savings to Texas farmers and ranchers by this action will be more than half-million dollars in the 1963 year alone. Watherford said this is the fourth time the Bank has voluntarily reduced the interest on its outstanding loans.

The Houston bank makes long-term farm and ranch loans through its 73 Federal Bank Associations located throughout Texas. The one serving this area is the Federal Land Bank Association of Memphis.
