$135,000 Municipal Bond Issue Is Approved By 98 Vote Margin

Official Tally Lists 418 For, 320 Against

The Memphis City Council met Tuesday night for the regular monthly meeting, and the first order of business was the canvassing of the ballots in the bond election held last Saturday.

Following the canvass of ballots the Council set the official count at 418 For, 320 Against, the issuance of municipal bonds in the amount of $135,000 for the purpose of constructing a public building. The issue carried by a 98-vote margin.

A total of 738 persons went to the polls last Saturday and voted in the bond election. It was one of the largest turnouts of voters in a city election in many years.

Following the canvassing of the ballots in the bond election, the members of the Council listened to reports by two architects who were seeking employment to work on the project. After deliberation, the Council voted unanimously to hire the firm of Stiles, Roberts & Messersmith, Architects & Engineers, of Lubbock. Evan Roberts expressed his thanks to the Council. The firm is the county's architect working on the Hall County Hospital.

Following the hiring of the architect, the Council heard a report on the Fairview Cemetery, given by Alderman Gayle Greene, concerning the charges for digging graves, the cost of plots and the cost of maintenance. The Council took no action.

The Council accepted the reports and approved the payment of the regular monthly bills before adjourning. During the meeting, Mayor H. J. Howell discussed the possibility of appointing a citizen's committee to work with the Council on the proposed building. However, no action was taken at this meeting.

Present were Mayor Howell, City Secretary A. L. Gailey, Alderman, Coy Davis, Clint Srygley, E. E. Roberts, Pete Shankle, Gayle Greene, Elmont Branigan, M. E. McNally, Jr., and Ben Parks.

53rd Year Of Boy Scouts

Boy Scout Week, marking the 53rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, will be observed from Thursday, Feb. 7 through Wednesday Feb. 13. The Memphis, Establine and Irvin counties, along with the almost 4,000 Cubs, Scouts and Explorers, and the 2,000 adult Scouters of the Adult Walk Council, will join the rest of the Nation's Scouts and Scouters in emphasizing the theme of "Dedication, America, Be Prepared, Be Fit."

The theme of the 53rd Anniversary project of the Boy Scouts of America is based on President Kennedy's Council on Youth Physical Fitness report last year that about half of this nation's young people would probably fail a simple physical test. The Council asked that youth be given more opportunities to develop the kind of fitness they need.

A Scout's promise to "keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight" is said to be a good definition of personal fitness, and the Scouts of Memphis are placing great emphasis on this phase of their program during 1963. A "Fit for Tomorrow" program has recently been launched in all Cub Packs, Scout Troops, and Explorer Posts. This program recommends a medical check-up for every boy, physical testing based on live tests, individual exercises at home, and vigorous activities on hikes and in Scout meetings. The tests are sit-ups, pull-ups, standing broad jump, 50-yard dash, and the 800 yard run-walk.

Here in Memphis, Scout leaders are planning to have their units attend Church services Sunday morning. The Cub Scouts are planning a Pies Galore supper for Friday night at Towns Cafeteria. Troop 35 met last Wednesday with the Lions Club and presented a program. Their Court of Honor was held Monday night.

The scouting programs in America are very important in teaching young people the principles of leadership, teamwork, moral courage and integrity. The adult leaders in this area are to be commended for their efforts in the past in establishing a working scout program.

The newspaper joins with the American public in extending congratulations to the Boy Scouts of America on their 53rd Anniversary.

Texas Draws More Tourists!

The economy of the State of Texas received a substantial $20 million boost in 1962 it was announced by the Texas Highway Department. This boost was due to a seven per cent gain in the Texas Tourist Industry. The Department said tourists spent $471 million in Texas during 1962—a healthy $20 million increase over the previous year.

Texas also showed a vigorous gain in the total number of tourists with 9.8 million out-of-state visitors coming to Texas in 1962 which is 1.2 million more than the comparable total for 1961 showing an increase of 14 per cent.

The Texas Highway Department carries on a tourists attraction program, compiling and distributing numerous publications, films, posters and other material to fill needs for tourist information. In 1962, 200,000 travel brochures and 750,000 highway travel maps were given to tourists by the department.

Texas has long attracted tourists to it, and it is the duty of all citizens to aid any way they can to encourage tourists to come back, and help them find accommodations. Indications are that 1963 will be another growing year for the Texas Tourist Industry.

Tax Refund Savings

The new plan to give U. S. taxpayers the opportunity to make tax refunds in Savings Bonds is one that should prove a boon to individual citizens, as well as a constructive step in the direction of easing the Nation's debt management problem.

Public interest in this plan has been evident for a long time. A recent survey indicated that a significant number of taxpayers who received refunds last year might have taken them in Bonds if given the option. Individual taxpayers can benefit from the plan by making it a method of insuring that their refunds are not simply absorbed into household money, to wash in day-to-day spending. The plan will permit the setting aside of the nucleus of a special fund for educating their children, planning for retirement, and the like. And for all taxpayers it represents an opportunity to own a real share in America while earning a good return on their money.

The Treasury hopes to benefit from the plan, too. At present more than $5 billion dollars in Series E and H Savings Bonds are outstanding, nearly one-sixth of the national debt. The country's economy interested in increasing the amount of money in circulation, since every dollar in this type of security is a dollar less that the Treasury has to ease through the conventional banking system. The Treasury is also aware of the beneficial effect that Savings Bonds have in encouraging the habit of saving and in helping to maintain economic stability in our country throughout the country.

The Payroll Savings Plan has appealed to many people because in an automatic way of saving, it is expected that the refund plan will be popular for much the same reason. The Treasury hopes so.

The plan will be for all citizens who are expecting tax refunds. It is worth considering seriously taking them in Savings Bonds for themselves and their country. A check made in this place on the new tax forms can put you in a position of supporting the Nation, and furthering your own interests at the same time.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, 1809-1865

ACROSS THE DESK

What Other Editors Say

Secretary of Agriculture
Former Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butte Benson has lately been in the news as a featured speaker at mass rallies of the Lincoln-Bridge Into Rich Society. At the same time, our present Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has been receiving a certain amount of criticism.

It appears to us that there are only two superficial differences between the two men. Benson has had years' support legislation presently on the books to the fullest extent; Benson failed to use the power given to him by Congress to maintain prices, and even in one occasion attempted to extend the existence of funds available for the purchase of meat or a support action. Freeman has failed for newer and better instruments of farm policy in the attempt to meet our problems; Mr. Benson proposed only retreat from efforts to manage the abundance of food.

These superficial differences, however, stem from a profound difference in feeling about the people they are dealing with. Mr. Freeman has declared up and down the country that the American Consumer should be grateful to the American Farmer for the miracles of production which have given us all the best food at the lowest prices in history.

Mr. Benson became famous for his unbelieveably neat statements such as the remark that farmers were like dogs, in that once they get their mouths in the trough, it was very hard to get them out!

Taken with his dove and friendly feeling for the meat, grain, feed and fertilizer industries, this sort of thing finally convinced the average farmer that Mr. Benson was not for him. It was like having the dog eat your dog's food.

Finally we have a Secretary who is for us; one need only compare the maps Benson arranged in farmers' audiences with the unimpaired respect which Orville Freeman reserves to farm people of either party who bear him speak.

His first effort to write laws was a program that would control production and make farm income more definite through a heavily financed propaganda campaign by those interests which profit by low prices and confusion on the farm front.

In this case with Congress in the effort will be made to bring agriculture into balance. There are limits to what government can do for the people, and rather than wait for programs to be handed down to them, there is a great interest in stirring among farmers of ways in which they can act on their own initiative to assert some control over the marketing of their products.

Orville Freeman and the Kennedy Administration stand poised to move either way, either to form a program that will artificially restore the balance that has been artificially destroyed, or to encourage with a self-help venture by which farmers can stand together to price their own goods.

In the end, both may be necessary; a short-term legislative remedy, and a readiness on the part of government to respect the decisions of the producers once we have mobilized our strength with the people who buy our products.

We believe the Secretary understands this, and sincerely wishes to see a prosperous agriculture feeding a prosperous nation. We believe he will continue to stand up to the slanderous assaults by the enemies of the farmers. Best of all, we are convinced that Orville Freeman is for us.

Screwworms Must Go, Say Texas Stockmen

Overflow crowd of key Texas and ranch leaders, meeting in Austin on January 28, enthusiastically approved the continuation of the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program and readied to raise the remaining $1 million needed to insure the continuation of the project.

G. Scruggs, president, Southwestern Animal Health Research Association, got a thunderous response when he asked the group if they wanted the project continued.

Over 600 representatives from 175 Texas counties agreed to back the individual farm and ranchers who helped the program less than a year ago ask them to raise the balance of their $3 million goal. The group included the chairmen of county animal health committees, extension service workers, vocational agriculture teachers, and representatives of several agricultural and livestock associations.

The eradication program is in danger of being terminated because funds from livestockmen are nearly exhausted and at least 50% of the program's cost must come from non-federal sources.

Program officials told the group that the eradication effort has been enhanced by recent cold weather which has reduced the number of screwworm infestations. A good opportunity now exists to overwhelm screwworm flies that survived the cold weather by continued release of sexually sterile flies, they said.

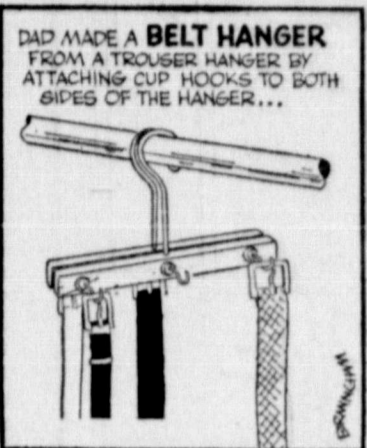

Appearing on the program with President Scruggs were Dr. F. J. Mulhern, Director of the United States Department of Agriculture's Animal Disease Eradication Division; Dr. R. G. Garrett, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission; Dr. M. F. Meadows who directs field operations at the Fly-Rearing Plant at Mission; and Mr. Jerry Puckett of Fort Stockton, Treasurer of the Foundation. Also, a panel was led by V. A. "Bill" Clements, foundation vice-president.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo briefly addressed the group, assuring them of the State's interest in the eradication program.

gram which began last February, State and Federal officials noted that release of hundreds of millions of sexually sterile screwworm flies during the past 10 months has retarded development of screwworms, confined infestations mainly to the 5-State eradication area and Arizona, and resulted in the lowest number of screwworms east of the Mississippi River in 30 years.

Tractor Engine Life Depends On Temperature

Light work and cold weather can take a heavy toll in the form of excessive engine wear on the farm tractor, says Henry O'Neal, extension agricultural engineer. Farm tractors are designed with a large cooling capacity to prevent overheating during hot weather and under heavy loads. This capacity will prevent the tractor from reaching an optimum operating temperature in cold weather under light loads unless shutters or curtains are used over the front of the radiator, he adds.

Cylinder wear at an operating temperature of 40 degrees F. can be as much as 27 times greater than at 180 degrees F., O'Neal explains. Carbon dioxide and water, as combustion products, combine to form a corrosive acid on cylinder walls which removes the protective oil film and corrodes the cylinder walls, he says. Minimum operating temperatures of 140 degrees F. under full load and 160 degrees F. under part load are required to maintain cylinder wall temperatures high enough to prevent the condensation of water in the cylinders. When operating temperatures are kept above these levels, the water remains in a gaseous state and is expelled with the exhaust.

O'Neal also states that fuel consumption and power are affected by operating temperature. Fuel consumption decreases and horsepower increases as the operating temperature nears 180 degrees F. The use of shutters or curtains can bring the tractor engine to its proper operating temperature quickly, and excessive wear and fuel consumption avoided, the engineer concludes.

Delay Pruning Of Frozen Shrubs, Plants

Don't cut back damaged shrubs that have been defoliated or had their leaves browned by the recent record-breaking low temperatures, advises J. J. Franklin, extension landscape horticulturist. Chances are good, he adds, that only the leaves were damaged. However, he doesn't rule out the possibility of damage to twigs, main branches or even the roots of the less hardy species or varieties.

An immediate examination of the trunks may reveal heavy damage for splitting often occurs. A finger-nail test on young twigs may reveal no fresh tissue beneath the bark and this indicates damage, he says. It is easier to evaluate winter damage in the spring, after new growth starts, but even the weakened branches often put on new growth which later dies.

Corrective pruning can begin as soon as it can be assumed that new growth is lacking or will remain very sparse. Cut out the dead or weak wood well below the damaged area, leaving only strong growth, Franklin advises. Do this, he adds, after growth has started in the spring.

The best treatment, in addition to proper pruning for winter-sick shrubs, is to keep them well-watered and fed moderately, he says. A mulch of leaf mold, peat-moss or other organic material will insure better plant health. Loosen the soil to a depth of half an inch and then apply a two-inch layer of mulch over the soil covering an area slightly beyond the branch spread of the shrub, Franklin advises.

spring growth starts can be considered completely dead and those which are extremely weak at the freeze damage should be replaced, he says.

When pruning broken limbs of trees or large shrubs, more care is required to promote healing and prevent decay, the specialist says. Shubs should not be left and all pruning cuts should be made flush with trunks. Wounds of more than two inches in diameter should be treated with wound dressing or tree paint, he says. The treated areas should be checked periodically and recoated once or twice a year.

Finally, he suggests that a copy of B-877, "Modern Pruning Methods" be obtained from the county extension office and studied before the pruning job is started.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM your State CAPITOL

Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont wants the voters of Texas to select the Speaker of the House. He has introduced a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to make the position of Speaker an elective office.

If passed by the people it would eliminate much bickering among House members, not only during sessions but between sessions. It would speed up work in the House by enabling the members to get down to business on the opening day of each session. And equally important it would save the State many thousands of dollars as a consequence of the man hours lost.

Frequently serious and bitter personal feuds have developed between members of the House prior to the House's selection of a Speaker as well as by disgruntled groups following the election. To add to the confusion, prospective candidates for Speaker start jockeying for position with the beginning of every new session.

In the end the taxpayer is the loser. It has been said that some special sessions have been necessary due to the long delays and the wrangling that has resulted in years past over the Speaker of the House.

The Senate does not have this power since the people elect the Lieutenant Governor to preside over the Upper Chamber. Both jobs are identical, but only in the Senate do the people have a voice.

Padre Project Bright
Prospects are brighter for passage of Padre Island National Seashore legislation by the House and Senate. An impressive parade of supporting witnesses went before State Affairs Committee in both chambers, and a surprising about-face occurred on the part of Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Several hundred Seashore boosters journeyed to Austin, largely from Nueces, Milroy and Cameron counties, to pack the mid-week hearings. A total of 27 witnesses testified in favor of Sen. Bruce Reagan's Padre proposal, with no one appearing in opposition.

Similar testimony was heard by the House State Affairs Committee. Opposition had all but vanished otherwise—principally because of Sadler's retreat from his previous stand. He told the legislators that if a Federal project was what they wanted, "then I want to see it happen, too."

Women's Rights
More than 200 women marched into a senate committee meeting on "equal rights for women" and cheered committee approval of a constitutional amendment they've battled for through several legislative sessions.

The "equal rights" bill—yet to be passed by the Senate—may run into trouble in the House of Representatives.

Governor Signs First Bill
First bill to be signed by Gov. John Connally was one he'd requested. It was the bill which appropriates $45,000 for his office; $60,000 for a study of higher education needs; and $82,000 for investigation and prosecution by the Attorney General's office.

Governor Connally also made two appointments. He named Austin attorney Robert D. Bullock to the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, and reappointed Mrs. J. S. Abercrombie of Houston to the State Board of Mansion Supervisors.

Sold on Screwworm Program
Governor Connally met with farm and ranch leaders and told them he's still a strong supporter of the Screwworm Eradication Program, but won't request the legislature to make emergency appropriations until he sees the results of the program's fund drive.

He said requirements for a state contribution to the eradication program will be considered after March 1. "I do not think we will have difficulty in securing state appropriations, if the producers can meet their commitment," the governor predicted.

"Made in U. S. A." Order Hit
The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals in Austin has contradicted the State Highway Commission by declaring that the commission has no authority to enforce a "made in the U. S. A. only" restriction on highway construction materials.

Commission had stated on Oct. 28, 1950, that highway contractors can't use foreign materials for highway construction. This order was challenged by the Texas Association of Steel Importers, Inc., in the 53rd District Court in Austin, which upheld the state order.

Importers appealed to the 3rd Court of Appeals. It ruled, "We believe an order disallowing all imported materials from the market available to highway construction contractors acts to restrict competitive bidding."

FENCE AND TREE... Youngsters are trying to figure out how the fence penetrated the tree at Monroe, Wis., while what happened was the huge tree grew up and swallowed the iron rail fence.

Industry Lure
A proposal to give new or expanded industry a five-year exemption of state property taxes has been advanced by Rep. C. Jim Segrest of San Antonio in a constitutional amendment he introduced in the House.

"tax lures" for new industries are considered attractive by the Texas Industrial Commission, but Rep. Segrest predicted a property tax exemption would speed up industrialization. His proposed exemption would apply to new industries coming into the state or to existing firms which increase both capital investment and employment by 10 per cent.

Life Begins at Forty
That old saying "life begins at forty" has been refuted by many workers who claim their troubles start at forty, when their jobs are endangered because of their advancing age.

Governor Connally included job security for people up to 65 in the program he laid before the 53rd Legislature, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles has made the matter its No. 1 Legislative project.

Bills stating that no state agency or political subdivision may refuse to employ a person solely on the basis of age have been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio and in the House by Rep. Will L. Smith of Beaumont.

Bills also provide that no agency of the state or any political subdivision may establish a maximum employment age of less than 65 years. If the bills pass, it also would be illegal for any individual, firm or association in Texas to refuse to hire, or attempt to fire, anyone up to 65 solely on the basis of age.

Stamps or Cash
Rep. Milton Schiller of Cameron is circulating a bill to require merchants to give customers a three per cent cash discount if they don't want to accept trading stamps as a shopping "bonus."

Schiller is trying to see what sort of support he'd get if he decides to introduce the bill.

Not for JP Court
Violators of game and fish laws cannot be tried in justice of the peace courts.

Attorney General Carr issued the opinion in response to a request by Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline, chairman of the House Investigating Committee.

Hollowell said his committee has received reports that such violators were being tried in justice courts contrary to at least two decisions by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Do-Nothing Officials Hit
Do-nothing public officials will get small paychecks if Rep. Maurice Ball of Dallas has his way.

Ball, a Republican, has introduced a House measure which would allow deductions from salaries of public officials who neglect their duties.

Texasans unhappy with officials from the governor down to city department heads could present their complaints, along with $100, to the appropriate person or agency which authorizes the payment of salaries.

Touchy Proposal
The Texas Legislature has been confronted with the politically touchy proposal of replacing justice of the peace courts with county courts of record.

Rep. Ben Barnes of DeLeon of

Grass Fires Keep Deputies Busy This Week

With dry warm weather in order of the week, the Volunteer Fire Department has been getting calls for several grass fires.

Thursday morning the lots at 13th and 14th streets were smoldering. However, the fire was extinguished before it could blaze out.

Wednesday afternoon this grass fire fighting team took to the Lakeview farm southwest of Lakeview. A fire on the farm put out a fire on the south of Memphis, and to a house fire one on Lakeview. The house and the fire department show it belongs to Kirklund.

Eligibles For Social Security Must Report

Many people lose money because they don't check on their social security when they reach retirement age, according to Hal Geldon, Amarillo Social Security District manager. In many cases, these people are still working and believe they cannot get any benefit payments unless they are completely retired.

Geldon stated that workers who earn over $1200 yearly may still get some social security payments depending on the amount of their earnings. He cited as an example, a 65-year-old worker eligible for $100 a month from social security. In this case, the worker could

Report From Washington

By WALTER ROGERS
Representative, 18th
Congressional District

Our Strength Is Great
This country is not going to be disarmed. No government agency has the authority under any law to strip away our defenses. The Congress of the United States has neither proposed nor approved any plan for the disarmament of this country. No responsible voice in Congress or the Administration has proposed unilateral — "go it alone" — disarmament, or indeed disarmament in any form unless there are ironclad guarantees that the Soviet Union will reduce its armaments in a similar measure. Our sovereignty is not going to be turned over to the United Nations or any other organization or nation. Our defenses are stronger today than ever in history.

These are the facts. My mail recently has been full of concern expressed by good citizens over a bill passed into law 17 months ago — passed with bipartisan support in both houses of Congress after its provisions were strongly endorsed by President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower and the leading figures of their administrations. By a vote of 290 to 84 in the House (including 194 Democrats and 90 Republicans voting in favor) and 73 to 14 in the Senate, the Congress established the U. S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency — not an agency to trade away our arms, as some would tell you, but an agency to coordinate and improve upon activities that have been pursued by departments of our government virtually since the end of World War II. We have taken part in more than 70 international conferences touching on questions of arms reduction since the war; we are engaged in another such conference as I write this. By setting up the agency, Congress saw to it that our security position was enhanced as these negotiations continue. The agency brings together in one department diverse activities that had been pursued independently by several branches of the government, usually without coordination, sometimes to our great risk.

In the meantime, we are continuing to spend more for defense purposes than ever before in our history. The President's budget proposal for the next fiscal year calls for defense expenditures of $55.4 billion. By the end of this year, it is estimated, members of the Armed Forces on active duty are to number 2.7 million. We are proud of our strength and well aware of the cost — more than $300 billion since World War II, more than half of each tax dollar now earmarked for defense purposes. The cost is great, but Communism's spear is blunted.

In his State of the Union Address, delivered to the Congress on January 14, 1963, President Kennedy said, "Finally, what can we do to move from the present pause toward enduring peace? Again I would counsel caution. I foresee no spectacular reversal in Communist methods or goals. But if all these trends and developments can persuade the Soviet Union to walk the path of peace, then let her know that all free nations will join with her. But until that choice is made, and until the world can develop a reliable system of international security, the free peoples have no choice but to keep their arms near."

Laff Of The Week

"Your wife thinks you deserve a raise—my wife doesn't."

"I think it is a matter of our national security just as much as our national defense is," said President Eisenhower's former Defense Secretary, Thomas S. Gates, in advocating passage of bills to set up the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. "Even if no progress is made on disarmament, it is still essential for the U. S. to appear before the world as a country which can evolve constructive ideas in this crucial field," said Henry Cabot Lodge, Ambassador to the U. N. in the Eisenhower Administration and Republican candidate for vice president in 1960. "I think this agency will enhance our national security interests. . . . To deal with this problem most effectively, a permanent organization that can attract and hold top talent is needed," said General Lyman Lemnitzer, then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, now NATO commander. "I heartily concur in your purpose," wrote General Eisenhower, in support of the bill. "This agency can get the security that we are trying to achieve with our Military Establishment in other agencies, if it is understood and not misrepresented," said Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, keynote speaker at the 1960 Republican National Convention. I was among Southern States Congressmen who authored an amendment to the House bill, an amendment introduced by Rep. L. H. Fountain of North Carolina, to make certain this country enters into no disarmament agreement except in accordance with the Constitution. The act establishing the agency thus requires two-thirds ratification by the Senate of any arms reduction treaty. Last year, I proposed a constitutional amendment that would require majority approval of the House, in addition to the two-thirds approval by the Senate, before any treaty could become law. I've re-introduced the resolution in this session.

ALL BIG THINGS

DON'T HAPPEN IN BIG CITIES

Proud cities of small and medium size are scattered throughout the West Texas Utilities service area, plus some small towns and villages.

But collectively they compose the vital and fast-growing Center of the Southwest, where major business and industrial development is taking place.

For example: a nationally-known packing company has established a lamb processing plant here . . . an existing manufacturer has developed machinery for a new process which is the life of the footwear industry . . . one of America's great business complexes has constructed a major textile-producing factory . . . a wool scouring plant has been built and expanded . . . a leading surgical supply company will soon start plant construction . . . and dozens of other operations are bursting out all over the area.

Yes, it is very true. All BIG things don't happen in the big cities. Our service area faces GROWTH UNLIMITED, and our own expansion plans are geared to measure and meet the electric service needs of this dynamic area, the CENTER OF THE SOUTHWEST.

Memphis fans who make the trip to McLean Friday—and there will be a large crowd—may get a chance to congratulate the district champion team after the game, if the local squad defeats the second place Tigers on Friday night.

Monday night was a night of excitement for the fans who were out to see the district ball game, soundly defeating the Wellington Skyrockets. The McLean team got revenge over the home team by downing them two to one.

When McLean then Memphis can win the last game and still be district champion. If Memphis wins, then the local team will need to win their last game to represent the dis-

Mrs. John Blanks, Mrs. J. W. Chappell Enjoy Vacation

Mrs. John Blanks and Mrs. J. W. Chappell have returned home after enjoying a visit down-state with relatives. They went from here to Plano where they visited Mrs. Blanks' sister, Mrs. D. E. McMahan.

Accompanied by Mrs. McMahan they went to McAllen where they visited S. C. (Bert) Chappell, a brother of Mrs. Blanks and Mrs. McMahan.

They also visited relatives in Elgin, San Antonio and Stockdale.

Mrs. Blanks and Mrs. Chappell reported a wonderful trip in spite of the extreme cold weather. Mrs. Blanks said the orchards and vegetables were ruined and are being cleared out and cotton, vegetables and other crops will be planted on the land.

Mrs. Blanks, Mrs. McMahan and Mr. Chappell are early residents of Hall County. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chappell, moved to Hall County in 1909 from Hill County. They bought and established their home 4 miles west of Lakeview on a part of the Shoe B Ranch where they resided until their death.

Mrs. Blanks and her husband, the late John H. Blanks, and family lived in Lakeview and vicinity until Mr. Blanks' death in 1952 when Mrs. Blanks moved to Memphis where she now resides.

"Mr. Chappell (known to his friends as Bert) sends his best regards to all the Hall County friends," Mrs. Blanks said. "And Mrs. Chappell and I are glad to be back to West Texas where the weather is not so severe," she concluded.

Huntsville Says 1963 Car Plates Ready For Buyers

Due to the continuous efforts of a number of Texas Department of Corrections officials and the hard work of 220 specially-assigned inmates of the Huntsville unit, car owners of Texas will be able to purchase their license plates on time in 1963.

Benjamin Smith, license plate plant superintendent at Huntsville, announced recently that the last of more than 11,000,000 individual vehicle plates were shipped to the distributing centers on Jan. 15, one full month ahead of the deadline established by the Texas Highway Department.

Since July 1962 when the plant started producing 1963 license plates, inmates and employees have worked a day-and-night shift. Reuben Blagrove, 17-year veteran employee of the Department of Corrections, said, "This was our busiest year. We got started late due to installing new equipment, and we had one million more plates to produce, but we caught up and finished well ahead of time."

Blagrove gives credit to the inmates who operated the presses, cutters, ovens, and other machinery in the plant.

"They are the boys who turned out the work," he said.

The Huntsville plant produces 29 varieties of license plates for the vehicles of Texas. The 1963 order called for 7.8 million individual plates for automobiles. The smallest single order was for the special plates used by members of the United States Senate from Texas. The Huntsville inmates produced six sets of license plates for the senators.

The Texas Department of Corrections manufactures the license plates for the Texas Highway Department on a contract basis. Proceeds from the contract go into the General Revenue Fund of the state.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

At the annual meeting of The Texas Association of Soil Conservation Districts held at Lubbock in January, Lee Scrivner, Jr. of Turkey was elected Director in Area I. Lee is also Chairman of the Hall County Soil Conservation District Board.

Other soil Conservation district directors of area I include J. E. Lane, Hale Center; A. L. Black, Friona; Jack Buchanan, Big Spring; and Sam Singleton, Dalhart.

Within the state of Texas there are 182 soil conservation districts and 910 soil conservation district supervisors. Soil Conservation Districts have stressed in recent years that the rate of progress with conservation work is influenced in an important and favorable way by the cost-sharing assistance available through the Agricultural Conservation Program and the Great Plains Conservation Program. Conservation credit through the Farmers' Home Administration and through Private Banking sources is almost certain to take on increasing importance.

Also districts are provided technical assistance by the Soil Conservation Service. Other agencies and organizations, both public and private are also making essential contributions.

There is no let up in the evidence that the nation's growing economy and increasing population will make larger and larger demands on natural resources. Even though we have an unparalleled productive capacity, the fact is we are going to consume more and more products of our farms and ranches year after year. We should realize that we need our best land, and conservation measures applied, if we are going to produce more per acre and hold down the cost of production per unit. You don't get high yields or low cost production from either poor land or eroded land.

Screwworm Project May Be Stopped

The Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program will be stopped on March 31 unless by that time livestock producers and sportsmen have raised the remaining one million dollars of their three million dollar goal, the board of trustees of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation announced at its meeting in Austin.

Foundation President Charlie Scruggs said the move could be necessary because the Federal Appropriation Bill specifies that federal funds cannot continue whenever non-federal funds are no longer available on at least a fifty-fifty basis. All of the non-federal funds will have been expended by March 31, and state funds, if appropriated, will not be available until after that date.

The trustees immediately issued an emergency appeal to livestock producers and sportsmen from all five Southwestern States to raise the required one million dollars. They voided their original policy of not asking producers to contribute more than once in an attempt to save the program.

In making the announcement, Scruggs remarked it would be a shame to have to terminate the program at just the crucial time when the screwworm menace is being brought under control. Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico experienced only a fraction of the normally-expected number of screwworm infestations in 1962, while Arkansas had none and Louisiana reported only two cases all year (both of them shipped in from infested states). States east of the Mississippi River, which normally experience considerable screwworm fly movement from Southwestern States, reported only one case in 1962, Scruggs said.

The trustees pointed out that contributions from the livestock industry moved the three-year eradication program underway a full year ahead of schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lakeview and son, Jr. and daughter, Mrs. Davis were visitors in the home of another brother, Robert L. family, this past year.

Taxpayers Asked For Identifying Numbers On Returns

Taxpayers were reminded today by Dallas District Internal Revenue Director Ellis Campbell that under a recent law they are required to enter their identifying "tax account" numbers in 1963 income tax returns filed in 1963.

For the individual, this is his social security number, or similar number issued for tax reporting purposes if he has never had employment under social security coverage.

Use of identifying numbers is essential to electronic processing of returns, now being installed nationwide by Internal Revenue, Mr. Campbell said. He added that failure to show account number may delay any refund due.

Taxpayers still needing an account number should apply at once to the District Director's office, or to the District Office of the Social Security Administration, or by writing to Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 211, Baltimore, Maryland.

Director Campbell pointed out also that payers of dividends and interest are required to obtain the account numbers of their shareholders and depositors and to use them on information documents submitted to Internal Revenue.

He said receivers of income from these sources should comply promptly when they get requests for their account numbers from the paying organization. This also is required by law, he added.

Most bass fishermen spend too much time changing baits. Drawbacks to the try-one-now, a different one-later, system are many. But the primary objection is that the lure do esn't get a fair enough test to actually tell whether or not it will produce.

It is much better to stick with one or two lures, letting them have the time to make a true test. But what lures? That's the perplexing problem. Today there are so many artificial baits indifferent sizes, shapes and types that it confuses the average fisherman.

Most of the better anglers have one thing in common. They concentrate their efforts either on the top, or at the opposite extreme, right on the bottom.

There's a good reason for this thinking. Much of the bass' food supply is concentrated in these regions.

Probably the one big exception is small bait fish like minnows and sunfish. But a hungry bass usually will come to the top to take a frog-looking popper or a worm crawled along the bottom, as readily as he will a perch-type lure.

A lure that operates either right on top or right on the bottom has an advantage over the other lures in that it can be worked at the ultra-slow speed needed to tempt big bass.

Most lures which show up in sporting goods stores have a definite place in fishing. But they are specialized tools and work only in certain situations.

Knowing how to recognize these situations requires much experience.

Most weekend anglers simply haven't encountered enough situations to pinpoint clues which will tell them which lures to use.

In this respect water depth is very important. Lures with metal lips are designed to run at certain depths. A lure built to run 10 feet beneath the surface will, for example, be half-way down in 20-foot water, near bottom in 12-foot water, but close to the surface in 40-foot water.

Unless the angler knows the depth of water he's fishing, this type lure will be practically useless.

But if he sticks with the top-water bait or the bottom-bumper, the water depth is not as important. He'll still have his bait in the vicinity where bass hang out.

Only within the past few years have fishermen been able to apply this formula successfully.

It used to be that the only baits which dug deep down, where the big bass are most apt to be found, were those with long metal lips. These baits require a fast retrieve to make them dig deep, too fast to make them really effective on a lazy old bass.

Also they are not too effective at depths exceeding 30 feet, and often the truly big bass are found at extreme depths of 40 to 50 feet.

Lifelike lures made of limp plastic can be worked very slowly, crawled right along the bottom, yet they have enough action to tempt bass.

Many anglers carry two rigged outfits in their boats, one equipped with a top-water lure, the other with a bottom-bumping bait. They try one for 25 to 30 casts, and if by then they haven't inveigled a strike, they switch to the other outfit.

Often it pays off to try the top-water baits for the first couple of hours after daybreak when bass migrate into the shallows to feed on things found along the surface; then use the bottom-bumping baits during the remainder of the day when the fish have drifted back into deeper water.

As to the color of a lure it has been proven that the color shading is more important than the actual color itself. If a person stays with two basic type lures—top-water and bottom-bumping—and two basic colors, light and dark, he'll be right 99 times out of 100.

And in the unpredictable sport of bass fishing, those are pretty good odds, indeed.

Winter Traffic Accidents Can Be Avoided

During the past four weeks, hundreds of Texas drivers have been involved in needless accidents, the Texas Safety Association reported this week.

J. O. Musick, general manager of TSA, said accident experience during the recent bad weather shows that drivers are getting into trouble mainly because they don't know, or ignore the basic rules of safe winter driving.

"Skidding, always a hazard on ice or snow if vehicles are not handled properly, is causing most of the trouble," he said.

The safety director cited improper stopping on ice and snow as the major driver error.

"One of the basic rules in stopping under these conditions is to keep wheels rolling in order to maintain steering control. The inexperienced driver slams on his brakes and locks his wheels. Then he starts skidding instead of rolling," Musick explained.

"When that happens, something else has got to stop him, and that is usually an accident."

He advised motorists to "pump" their brakes, lightly and quickly to let the front wheels roll naturally between brake applications.

"Skidding on slick snow and even glare ice can be prevented. Countless cars, buses and trucks travel annually over snow and ice-covered roads without experiencing too much difficulty or delay," he said.

"The average motorist can drive safely on ice or snow if he will learn to anticipate steering movements and slow down in advance of making them."

Musick also gave motorists some suggestions on getting started on ice or snow.

"To start out feed the gas very gently, holding the accelerator steady just as soon as the car moves," he said. "Increase the gas only when it can be done without spinning the wheels."

"Keep the car pulling steadily because you need moderate power, not speed. Don't falter or hesitate because this may cause a stall or throw you into a skid," he added.

Among other specific causes of skidding listed by Musick were: 1) driving too fast on curves, 2) swerving suddenly, 3) applying brakes too suddenly or too hard, 4) accelerating or decelerating suddenly, 5) driving too fast on a bumpy road or when crossing railroad tracks or icy ruts, 6) changing to lower gear ratio on icy surfaces or at too fast speed, 7) failing to anticipate ice patches and 8) failure to use reinforced tire chains when severe snow and ice conditions prevail.

In concluding, Musick reminded motorists that even if bad weather seems to be over, don't count on it and your luck to keep you out of trouble.

"In Texas, it doesn't take a meteorologist to know there may still be wintry driving conditions giving us trouble for some weeks to come. Any old timer can verify this."
