Our Abundance

By CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS

Confidence and strength mark the Nation's economic position. One year ago this week, prices on the New York Stock Exchange took their worst plunge since 1929, the Dow-Jones industrial average falling 34.95 points to 576.93 in the single May 28 trading session. Contrast that situation of one year ago with the market's present reflection of economic optimism. As of May 28 this year, the market had regained full health. The Dow-Jones industrial average closed last Tuesday at 717.95, within 20 points of the all-time record high. The Nation's business leaders foresee bright months ahead.

Supreme, sovereign, and mighty is our United States of America! Those whose pastime is down-mouthing their country and their countrymen can find things to be sour about, at the weak-hearted among us have been able to do throughout our history. Even the material triumphs of our country—putting aside consideration of our remarkable 187-year adventure in self-government and freedom—fail to arouse much enthusiasm among the perennially gloomy. They'd rather revile bad times than rejoice in good times.

What a bounty we do enjoy! Our agricultural problem is not one of providing enough food and fiber—it is one of finding a way to dispose of an unneeded surplus. Most of our working people enjoy such short weeks that their problem is to find a way to spend their leisure hours constructively. The livelihood of millions of Americans depends not upon the production of necessities but upon their producing luxury goods and services. Economists estimate that by the end of this year, our gross national product of goods and services will total about $590 billion—30 percent higher than only five years ago.

Nowhere is America's material strength more dramatically illustrated than in the welter of statistics affecting the automotive industry. One person of every seven employed in the United States is in some way connected with the automotive industry; one business in every six is in some way automotive.

Motor vehicle registrations totaled 75,876,449 in 1961, the last year for which figures are available, one vehicle for every 2.4 Americans. Contrast this staggering total with the number of vehicle registrations in the Soviet Union—3,983,000—one vehicle for every 54 Russians. The figure for the U.S.S.R. is vastly overshadowed by those from our Free World allies. The United Kingdom has 7,747,000 vehicles (one for every 6.6 persons), West Germany has 6,094,100 (one for every 9.1 persons). Fully 60 percent of the world's passenger cars are in the United States. With only 6.7 percent of the world's surface and 6.2 percent of its people, the United States has 42.4 percent of its trucks and 60.4 percent of its cars.

Interested in having more numbers? In 1962, automotive retail sales totaled more than $61 billion in this country. More than $18 billion was extended in automotive credit, but more than 38 percent of new cars sold in the U. S. two years ago were sold for cash. In 1961-62, 44 percent of U. S. new car buyers had owned their previous cars three years or less. Our automotive exports in 1961 totaled $1.3 billion. The auto industry buys 19 percent of all steel consumed in the United States. More than 200 million cars and trucks, valued at more than $241 billion, had been produced and sold in the U. S. between 1900 and 1962. And 74 percent of U.S. families now own automobiles.

Do we use our cars? Automobile riding leads in outdoor recreational activities in this country. We take pride in our 3,573,000 miles of roads and streets, 2,588,000 surfaced (including a total of 233,009 in Texas, the State with the greatest paved and unpaved mileage, of which 153,725 miles are surfaced highways). Of the 40,854 miles of highway designated in the national system of interstate and defense highways, 14,336 miles had been completed through 1962 and 15,296 miles are under construction. Americans compiled 767 billion miles of motor travel last year, a mileage record piled up by our 89 million licensed car, truck and bus drivers (of whom 39 percent are women). The automobile made possible these totals: 79 million visitors to national parks, 101 million to national forests, 273 million visitors to state parks, and more than 13 billion vehicle miles traveled by hunters and fishermen.

Texas, according to the Automobile Manufacturers Association, has 844,858 of its citizens engaged in employment allied with the automotive industry—6,754 Texans engaged in making vehicles or parts; 42,838 in crude and refined petroleum firms; 160,455 in automotive sales and servicing, 29,327 working on state, county and local roads; 592,000 employed by trucking firms and in delivery work; 13,484 in motor bus and taxi employment.

I say Hooray for America! The Communists envy us.

Tornado Precautions!

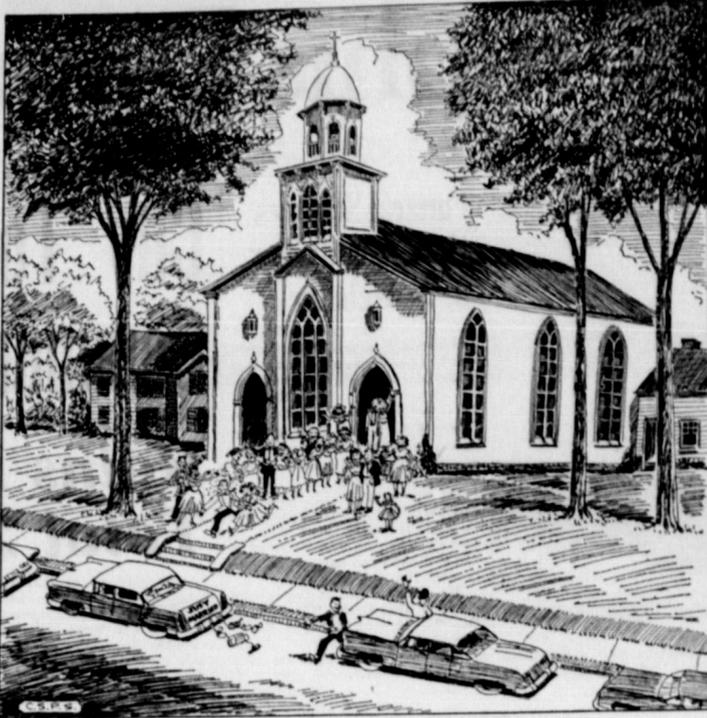

Residents in the Memphis and Hall County area have found themselves in storm warning areas this week and we feel it is time to refresh the memories of our readers on tornado precautions and the local organization and signals for tornado alerts!

Memphis has as modern and as effective a system for tornado alert as can be devised with existing facilities. Sheriff Elmer Neel and the Memphis Police Department are in direct communication with the Amarillo Office of the Texas Department of Public Safety, who in turn is in direct communication with the Weather Bureau.

Radar is playing a large part in the warning system for the Panhandle. Sheriff Neel stated Monday that Sunday night he was at Midway watching for any damaging weather. He said he was informed that the system approaching Memphis contained turbulent weather, possibly hail. When the system reached him it did have hail in it, he said.

Residents are reminded that the tornado alert signal is a long, long, long blast on the two sirens. This blast does not vary in pitch as does fire alerts. Instructions are to turn the

Poll Tax on Way Out

The late legislative session at Austin was the battleground of some fierce parliamentary fights—over the all-time high-spending budget, congressional redistricting, loan sharks, revised code of criminal procedure, and other major measures. But the one of which the people of Texas will be most keenly conscious, after the others are forgotten, is the constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax.

It marks a momentous turning point, a transition in the 20th century political history of Texas, and may well have a vital effect on future elections.

It took a two-thirds majority of the legislature's membership to submit the poll tax amendment, and a majority of voters must approve it in a special election next November 9 to make the abolition a reality. If the amendment is adopted, a 25-cent annual registration fee will replace the $1.50 state tax.

Past popularity tests presage decisive approval of the amendment. But regardless of such indications, who would expect the people, given their choice, to vote to keep paying a tax, especially when all the arguments but one are for its discard? That one is the fact that, if the poll tax is dropped, some other means must be found to make up the more than $2 million annually which the levy brings in. The receipts are allocated $1 to the available school fund and 50 cents to the general revenue fund.

When Texas adopted the poll tax in 1902, a major consideration was the proposition that anyone who couldn't contribute $1.50 toward the cost of government for the privilege of taking part in the election of government officials and the determination of elective issues was not fit to have that privilege. This issue has faded, however, as one Southern state after another has abandoned the poll tax. Texas is one of only four or five that still have it.

Even if the constitutional amendment should fail the adoption in November, Texans still probably could vote free in federal elections in a short time. An amendment to the federal constitution outlawing the poll tax as a requirement for voting on candidates for President, vice president and congressmen, has been ratified by 30 or more states, and it seems likely that the necessary 38 will get under the wire.

The poll tax is an artificial restriction on the franchise, not contemplated by the architects of our form of government. The accepted concept is that it is a government "of the people, by the people, and for the people"—not exclusively of, by, and for those who pay $1.50 a head tax.

Women At Work

The day of the housewife at home is just about gone, according to a new handbook put out by the Labor Department. This booklet shows that women make up a third of the nation's work force, and half of the working women are married.

To view it from a different angle, in one-third of all the nasiren on and leave it on. This is a very effective warning system, easily recognized.

The Texas Department of Public Safety, office of defense and disaster relief, encourages residents not to telephone civil defense, police or weather bureau during time of alert, but get information from newspapers, radio or television. The only reason a private citizen should call the Weather Bureau is to report a tornado. Other wise, an individual request may tie up telephone lines urgently needed to receive special reports or to relay advisories to radio and television stations for dissemination to thousands in the critical area.

Following is some safety rules to observe: 1. If you are near a tornado cellar—when time permits, go to a tornado cellar, cave or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure. It should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas or debris; and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.

2. If you are in open country: Move at right angles to the tornado's path. They usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour; if there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

3. If in a city or town: Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. Stay away from windows! In homes, the corner of the basement toward the tornado usually offers greatest safety, particularly in frame houses. People in houses without basements can sometimes be protected by taking cover under heavy furniture against inside walls. Doors and windows on the sides of houses away from the tornado may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.

Keep calm! It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively only a few places in a warned area are directly affected.

Local Law Enforcement officers stated this week that the tornado signal will not be given in Memphis unless there is a known present danger and it is advised by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Citizens are well aware of the false sighting of tornado clouds which are reported each year. Citizens can rest assured that if the tornado signal is given, it is time for action.

Living Too Fast

Perhaps the least praiseworthy part of the American way of life, these days, is the conclusion of psychiatrists, doctors and health experts in all fields, that the fast pace of living in the United States is our most serious problem.

In the United States, heart attacks, nervous breakdowns and all sorts of nervous disorders are steadily on the increase, and the experts know the reason for this tragic trend is the terrific pace of life we are setting.

The number of mental disorders, nervous breakdowns and all sorts of other ailments has increased strikingly as a result of the tension of modern living. This tension is brought about by pressure, and the drive to out-produce, out-work and out-earn our neighbors.

Learn to relax and not to worry about the other man, and you will add years to your life and thereby increase the years in which you can earn money and thereby earn more money. Moreover, you will probably find that by relaxing and learning to live all over again, you will be better equipped for whatever you are doing.

Glynn Thompsons Enjoy Month's Vacation Tour

Editor's Note: Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Thompson have returned after enjoying a month's vacation in Texas and Mexico. The following is a brief account of their stay in Rio Grande and Ciudad Acuna as reported by Mrs. Thompson as follows:

My husband and I have had an interesting vacation. One of the most interesting cities in Texas that we visited was Del Rio, just a drive directly south of here. Del Rio is a Spanish phrase meaning "the River." It refers to the Rio Grande or Rio Bravo, one of the most colorful and controversial figures on the national scene in the 1930's. This mansion is for sale and can be bought for $250,000.00. This includes the house and developed acreage. You remember Dr. Brinkley built a very powerful radio station in Ciudad Acuna with a signal strong enough to be heard half way around the world. The owners still claim it to be the most powerful commercial voice broadcasting station in the English language today.

Just across the Rio Grande is Del Rio's sister city in Old Mexico, Ciudad Acuna. Priding itself as the birthplace of Mexico's democratic Revolution of 1910, Ciudad Acuna is named for the romantic Mexican revolutionary poet, Manuel Acuna. Don't be confused if one calls it Villa Acuna, that was the town's name before it was promoted to the status of a city in 1951. Ciudad Acuna is a community of some 20,000, which is striving to be modern Mexico's display window on the border. In the past few years millions of dollars have been poured into modern water and sewage systems, street paving and lighting, new schools, hospital facilities, a new operated by the Louis Qualia family. Excellent dry wine as well as sweet wine is pressed from grapes borne in vineyards encircling the winery. Cuttings for some of these vines were brought here by forebearers of Louis Qualia when they came from Italy, and go on producing abundantly, year after year.

Del Rio has many beautiful old and new homes, one of interest is directly across from the Sector headquarters of the U. S. Border Patrol. It is the mansion of the late Dr. John R. Brinkley, one of the most colorful and controversial figures on the national scene in the 1930's. This mansion is for sale and can be bought for $250,000.00. This includes the house and developed acreage. You remember Dr. Brinkley built a very powerful radio station in Ciudad Acuna with a signal strong enough to be heard half way around the world. The owners still claim it to be the most powerful commercial voice broadcasting station in the English language today.

Just across the Rio Grande is Del Rio's sister city in Old Mexico, Ciudad Acuna. Priding itself as the birthplace of Mexico's democratic Revolution of 1910, Ciudad Acuna is named for the romantic Mexican revolutionary poet, Manuel Acuna. Don't be confused if one calls it Villa Acuna, that was the town's name before it was promoted to the status of a city in 1951. Ciudad Acuna is a community of some 20,000, which is striving to be modern Mexico's display window on the border. In the past few years millions of dollars have been poured into modern water and sewage systems, street paving and lighting, new schools, hospital facilities, a new railroad has been built into the city, and placed in operation in 1961. Ciudad Acuna has a quaint charm all its own and one leading attraction are the bull fights where daring matadors, against a background of exotic trappings inherited from the bull rings of Old Spain, display their skills on the first Sunday of each month from June through October.

Many of the leading matadors of Mexico have appeared in Acuna's La Macarena arena. Especially fighters like the American girls, Patricia McCormick, Betty Ford and Patricia Hayes, have drawn crowds from thousands of miles.

A center of much activity in any Mexican town is its traditional Plaza. Acuna has its Plaza Benjamin Canales, named for a Revolutionary hero. Fronting the Plaza is the Municipal Palace. From the balcony of this Mexican-style building, President Eisenhower and Lopez Mateos addressed the throngs gathered to greet them for the dedication of Falcon Dam.

As for shopping, prices are listed in U. S. currency on all merchandise and there is no bargaining; however, an expert haggler may get a good deal. Mexican glassware in many shapes and colors, Mexican pottery in bold and vibrant colors are on display in all the stores. Lacy mantillas, full skirted hand painted cotton shirts and traditional low-cut ruffled and lace trimmed peasant blouses are available in all sizes. Of course all kinds of Mexican silver and adornments to fit any taste can be purchased. Here, again, the buyer may rest assured that his purchase is a bargain and need have no fear that the price marked "sterling" will turn out to be a shabby job of silver plating such as those for sale from street vendors at bargain prices on the street. One can not resist buying some fine imported perfume at a real bargain price and may also select from an assortment of alcoholic beverages. Therefore, a shopping spree is a lark in Ciudad Acuna.

The best flavor of Old Mexico color and charm is found by dining by candlelight at the La Macarena Restaurant in Acuna. La Macarena is a modern, air conditioned restaurant that has a courtyard, sheltered by palm trees and surrounded by tropical plants and flowers where one may listen to soft music or dance to combinations of American favorites or Mexican cha-chas-chas. One is treated to two floor shows an evening with popular dancers and singers from all over Mexico performing. The menu is varied from Mexican dinners to an American steak cooked to order. Because the tempo of living is slow and there is time for music and a margarita, a drink made with tequila, salt and lime pieces, before dinner is served an order of nachos—crisp bite-size pieces of tortilla with melted cheese and just a small slice of the delicious but very hot jalapeno pepper.

In all Mexican towns when you are leaving, their word of parting is not "adios" but "hasta manana" because they know that some day you will return to Old Mexico.

The United States and Mexico are building a new dam called Amistad across the Rio Grande 12 miles upstream from Del Rio and Ciudad Acuna. It was first called Diablo Dam because of its site on the Devil's river area. Then some one decided it would be a shame to name such a wonderful project in honor of the devil. So a new name, "Amistad," meaning "friendship" was selected to symbolize the long-standing friendship between the two good nations.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors for your kindness to us in our loss of our husband and daddy.

We are indeed grateful for the beautiful floral offerings, and for the food that was served. May God's blessing be upon you, is our prayer.

The E. H. Saunders Family

Amistad, to be completed in 1967 will create the largest lake in or bordering on Texas. The dam will be 253 feet high and more than six miles long. It will back water 85 miles up the Rio Grande as well as up Devil's and Pecos Rivers in the U. S. and the Conchos River in Mexico. The lake will cover 135 square miles.

Del Rio is a ranching country where the spirit of the Old West still lives. It is the "Wool and Mohair Capital of the World" and Val Verde is the leading sheep producing county in the nation with the largest marketing of wool. It also ranks well up in Angora goats which provide mohair. The average size ranch in Val Verde County is 12,000 acres. In addition to fame for sheep and goats the county is known as one of the major breeding areas for fine quarter horses, which the real cowboys developed from the mustangs of old.

If you should go to Del Rio you must visit Alamo Village that was built (or I should say rebuilt) a few years ago. It is in nearby Brackettville, and you may see a recreation of Old San Antonio the way it was in 1836. There you can take a ride in an old stagecoach and enjoy the staging of an Old West shoot-out.

For the outdoor sportsman the area around Del Rio is a paradise. One may fish in Devil's Lake, Lake Walk or in Lake Centernio a few miles out of Acuna in Old Mexico. Deer in season is the most popular game, while dove, quail and wild turkey provide good hunting, when in season. The season is open the year around on javelinas. These wild hogs are the source of many an interesting hunt. Del Rio is proud of its municipal Moore Park on the rushing waters of the San Felipe Creek where one may enjoy a good swim or picnic under the shade of huge pecan and Chinaberry trees. From the early days and through history, Del Rio has a strong and colorful military history. Back in the 1850's a string of cavalry posts were constructed to guard the frontier and its transportation lifelines from hostile Comanche raiders. Fort Clark, built in 1952, still stands at Brackettville. It continued in use through World War II and was then converted into a unique guest ranch resort. Here served such famous generals as Robert E. Lee, Patton and Wainwright. Fort Clark was headquarters of the immortal McKenzie Raiders of current television series fame. In 1857, an outpost of Fort Clark was built along San Felipe Creek in the present day Del Rio. It came to be known as Camp Del Rio and for a number of years was a flourishing cavalry establishment.

Secretary of War Jefferson Davis had camels brought by ship from North Africa to Indianola, Tex. He wanted to see if they would provide the U. S. Cavalry with suitable mounts for maneuvering in the Great American Deserts of Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico and West Texas. His "ships of the desert" were marched to Camp Verde in the Texas Hill Country. Records from this period indicate the U. S. Cavalry el Corps watered its animals on San Felipe Creek on its expeditions to the west from Camp Verde during the late 1850's.

Del Rio's history carried on into World War I when Camp Michie, an army camp, was established. Only the Old Officer's Club of the post remains. It now serves as the Del Rio Country Club, one of two country clubs. When World War II broke out, Del Rio was once again called upon to provide a training site. In 1942, the Army opened Laughlin Field, named for Lt. Jack Laughlin, a Del Rio boy who was lost flying his B-17 on a mission over Java in the early days of the war.

Laughlin Field was used as a Martin B-26 transition training base and deactivated in October, 1945. Then, as the Cold War flared hot, Laughlin Air Force Base was rebuilt and reactivated in May, 1952. It served as a training base until April 1, 1957, when it was transferred to the Strategic Air Command as a specially selected home for the then highly secret U-2 program.

SAC retained control of the base until April of this year when Laughlin was transferred to the Air Training Command to serve as an undergraduate pilot training base. Laughlin also continues as the home of the U-2, SAC, as a tenant on the base, headquarters its U-2 flying 4080th Strategic Wing at Laughlin. I have only given the highlights of the sights to see around Del Rio and as we drove toward home we made a tour of Judge Roy Bean's "Law West of the Pecos" and on to the Big Bend National Park, for a few days' stay. I would like for every Texan to visit the colossal Big Bend National Park. I'll tell you about it at another time. But, if anyone is planning a vacation this summer, you would not regret a visit to South Texas. After all, Texas is a mighty great state to see.

Memphis Seniors Enjoy Week's Trip To Interesting Sites In Colorado

By MARCENE STEPHENS
Senior Class Reporter

Some 33 seniors and five sponsors boarded a bus on Saturday morning, May 25, about 12:15, bound for cool Colorado.

The trip to Colorado Springs was uneventful but once there and "settled-in" is another story. The seniors stayed at the 4 U Motel, and it is an ideal place to "herd" an energetic group.

The class had planned a full itinerary for each day and evening, subject to change, with the exception of Saturday afternoon and evening.

There was a pool at the 4 U Motel and it was usually in use. If you did not go in of your own accord, some energetic senior, or two, saw that you did. Most everyone got tossed in at least once, fully clothed, be it day or night.

Saturday evening was spent either swimming, at a picture show or amusement park or writing cards to those left behind.

Everywhere we went the food was delicious and the coffee, too. There were good cafes, smorgasboards and drive-ins near.

Several persons went to church Sunday morning, others golfed, rode horseback and bought curios.

Monday morning all enjoyed a tour of the United States Air Academy and the Planetarium. The Planetarium was truly magnificent. One felt almost as if he were making a planetary excursion. We saw the cadet formation and heard the Air Force Band. We were fortunate to have luncheon at Harmon Hall Cafeteria where only Air Force personnel and employees are supposed to eat.

Monday evening found everyone anxious to go to Seven Falls and South Cheyenne Canyon. This is the only lighted falls in the world and is truly magnificent. Those brave enough to make the ascent at night, visited Helen Hunt's grave. You remember she was a poet and is the author of the book, "Ramona."

A gala day, Tuesday was spent by most of us visiting Cheyenne Mountain Zoo. This is rated as one of the best zoos in America. Some went horseback riding at the Broadmoor Hotel Stables and several had luncheon in the main dining room of the Broadmoor Hotel. In the evening, ice skating was enjoyed at the Broadmoor rink. The spectators nearly froze.

Many made a tour on Wednesday of the Garden of the Gods, a place almost as famous as Pike's Peak and rated as one of the "Seven Wonders." The Cave of the Winds with its delicate-hued, many-splendored masterpieces of nature's handiwork was part of this day's sightseeing. Stalactites and stalagmites decorate these underground chambers; and with imagination, you see many forms. The stalactites are calcium carbonate deposits resembling icicles hanging from the roof and the stalagmites are similar deposits rising from the floor. These were formed by water action on limestone when the region lay at the bottom of an inland sea.

During the time some were visiting the above named places, two visited Van Briggle's Pottery House, founded in 1889. A "throwing on the Potter's wheel" was very interesting to watch from beginning to finished vase. One could not visit this old place and come away empty handed.

Much shopping, inquiring and discussing was done to select a night club patterned that minors might attend. Roaring Twenties was chosen as the right one and a fine dinner was enjoyed by the entire group. A floor show composed of The Diamonds was most interesting. The Diamonds are four men quite talented and entertaining. Many seniors were familiar with this group as they are very popular recording artists.

No mixed drinks were served in the main club room but are served "downstairs." However, no one under 21 is permitted downstairs.

Colorado laws are really enforced when it comes to minors and strong drink.

Many had been to Pike's Peak on previous occasions to Colorado and did not care to return, where others eagerly boarded the bus for the 14,110-foot climb, that is, above sea level. The temperature at the summit was 36 degrees on SENIOR TRIP — Shown above are some of the members of the MHS 1963 Graduating class and their sponsors. The picture was made on the summit of Pikes Peak, elevation 14,110. Thursday.

Miniature golf and a visit to Miracle House was part of this day's entertainment.

On Thursday evening a Twist Jamboree was held at the Municipal Auditorium featuring "The Cascades." Again the seniors were familiar with their recordings.

Friday morning came bright and clear with students feeling the same as this was the day for starting toward home.

A complete inspection and tour was made of Colorado State Prison at Canon City. Souvenirs were purchased in the gift shop. These articles are made and all profits received go directly to the inmates for the making.

On to the Royal Gorge to see the world's highest suspension bridge spanning the Arkansas River. Some took the Incline Railway to the bottom of the Canyon, some rode a train at the bottom of the Gorge, while others stayed at the rim to make pictures, to collect rock and to cut a few pine boughs.

This trip was full of fun, good fellowship, congeniality, rest and education. However, everyone was anxious to be home but saddened at the thought of never being together again as seniors.

Seniors making the trip were: Carolene Kennon, Johnnie Lemons, Kattie Phillips, Mary Murdock, Nancy Mothershed, Barbara Hayden, Sara Jo Foxhall, Jone Ward, Marcene Stephens, Marilyn Driver, Neva Koeninger, Sandra Hansard, Carol Smith, Suz Beth Stinson, Paula Gentry, George Miller, Betty Ann Young, Roy Graham, J. N. Jeffers, Montie Hartwell, Keith Graham, Dean Yarbrough, Hurschel Wolf, Jimmy Reynolds, Dwight Gailey, Rex Grahman, Dan Goffinett, Randy Robertson, Wayne Sweett, John Robert Miller, Dale Kilgore, Jacky Bridges and Dale Sexton.

The sponsors were: Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bradshaw, Mrs. Warren Driver, Mrs. Mildred Stephens, and Melvin Blum.

Rotarians Hear Program On National Defense

Air Force Lieut. Joseph Riley, information officer of Amarillo Air Force Base, presented a program entitled "Defense of the North American Continent" at the Tuesday meeting of the Memphis Rotary Club. Temple Deaver, Sr., was the program chairman.

Lt. Riley spoke to the group concerning the complex set-up of NORAD defense center. He said to adequately defend this continent from air attack the aggressor must be detected, identified, intercepted and destroyed if necessary.

The information officer said that the North American continent was guarded by three surveillance systems which cover from ground or sea level into outer space.

In concluding his remarks, Lt. Riley said, "I am confident the United States is well defended against any potential aggressors."

"Be especially observant of all new livestock brought onto the farm or ranch," Hooser said.

Livestock Wounds Must Be Treated For Screwworms

Ground control, the immediate treatment of all wounds regardless of cause, is of major importance in the screwworm eradication program at this time. County Agent W. B. Hooser said this week that it's that time of year when screwworm cases normally begin a rapid increase and cautioned all livestock producers to be even more alert in their checking for possible worm cases.

The screwworm will be eradicated by constant vigilance, Hooser said. He advised livestock producers to treat every wound regardless of cause, including those from castration, sheep and goat shearing, dehorning, wire cuts, docking, or others, with approved materials. These include EQ-335 or 5 per cent Korlan as smears

Boy Scout Troop No. 35 Leaves Sunday For Week's Stay At Camp Kiowa

It took more than a little rain to dampen the spirits of members of Boy Scout Troop No. 35 who left Sunday morning for their annual week's stay at Camp Kiowa, located near Canadian.

Twenty-eight members of the troop packed up and left early Sunday morning by cars for the camp, accompanied by several adult leaders and parents.

The boys carried a sack lunch along with plans to eat the noon meal at the park after attending church services in Wheeler. Plans were altered somewhat when they came out of church to find a down-pour of rain.

Lunch was eaten in the cars and the journey continued. The rain continued also and after arriving at the camp site tents were erected in a downpour of rain.

But the Scouts were ably assisted in their tent pitching activities by Scoutmaster Les Sims, Assistant Scoutmaster Bob Douthit and Melvin Jennings, who will spend the week at Camp; and the following parents, Bill Hall, Homer Tribble, Elmont Branigan, J. L. Rea and Mrs. Lois Taylor, who took their cars to take the boys and equipment.

STUDY CLUB OFFICERS — In keeping with the theme for the day officers of the Study Club were installed in a unique manner at the Zodiac Luncheon held May 29 in the home of Mrs. Bob Hutcherson. Shown to the right is Mrs. Mack Tarver, installing officer. As she gazed into the heavens, she called the various officers, represented as stars, and explained the duties of each. From left to right are, front row, Mrs. Clyde Milam, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. M. Harrison, vice president; Virginia Browder, president. Back row, left to right, are Mrs. Herschel Combs, press reporter; Mrs. Richard Avery, press secretary; and Mrs. Paul Montgomery, recording secretary. Not shown is Mrs. Bray Hutcherson, treasurer. Mrs. Tarver is parliamentarian-critic.

Zodiac Luncheon Is Topping For 1913 Study Club Year

The 1913 Study Club ended its year on a high note of festivity with a "Zodiac Luncheon" in the home of Mrs. Bob Hutcherson, Tuesday, May 29, with Mrs. Hutcherson and Walter J. Dunbar assisting the guests.

The luncheon was held at the four-square tables, decorated with centerpieces of white ceramic plates with the zodiac sign of the month and tiny bottles of perfume by Lanvin adorning the tables. Pretty white zodiac napkins and silver and gold ornaments adorned the mantel.

Mrs. J. Dunbar gave the invocation. The luncheon, consisting of fish casserole, salads, aspic, strawberries, home-made strawberry ice box and coffee was a delightful affair.

The only audience member who did not eat was Mrs. Mack Tarver, who presided over the luncheon.

The brief business session followed the luncheon. Mrs. Lewis Foxhall was re-elected as active member, and Mrs. Lacey Montague welcomed a new member, Mrs. F. W. Foxhall, president.

Mrs. F. W. Foxhall, president, introduced Mrs. Richard Avery, who, draped in a beautiful Indian sari, impersonated Rama Rai as she unveiled the history of astrology to the guests.

The story related by Mrs. Avery was also a student of the two sciences, which she pointed out were not only connected, but also a student of the two sciences.

tradamus, the French astrologer who alarmed and excited both courtiers and commoners, added a new element to European astrology. He wrote his famous prophecies in quatrains. Orthodox Indian astrologers still prefer to write their predictions in rhyming couplets, indicating their belief that art, science and more mundane matters are all inter-related. All of which proves that man's concern with the power of the stars is not without dignity.

Following Mrs. Harrison's most enlightening talk, she appeared a second time on the program to report as delegate to the TFWC State Convention, in Dallas, May 12-15. Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard reported on the Santa Rosa District Convention in Vernon.

The installation of officers for the club year to begin in September, was conducted by Mrs. M. G. Tarver as Swami Tavera. Costumed for the part with telescope in hand, the Swami studied the "Bright Stars in Ascendency" commenting sagely on the potentialities and capabilities of each incoming officer as she appeared framed by blue cardboard with a star-shape cut-out in the center.

This festive occasion, enjoyed by all, concluded one of the most interesting and busy club years yet recorded by the 1913 Study Club. As out-of-town artists, they have had Mrs. Harold Bugbee of Clarendon and her exhibit of beautiful paintings in easels; Mrs. Charles Chinn of Borger, author of three outstanding novels; Robert T. Lockard and Jim Houze, art instructors from Texas Tech with their pictures; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheeler from Edmondson to show a colored film strip of their safari to Africa.

An original Christmas play by Mrs. R. S. Greene, a fascinating program on "Reading Dynamics" conducted by an instructor from Amarillo, and the fiftieth anniversary "Jubilee Tea" party also deserved special mention as highlights of the programs during the 1962-63 club year.

Places were laid for Meses. Richard Avery, Virginia Browder, Herschel Combs, Bray Cook, W. C. Davis, L. G. DeBerry, T. J. Dunbar, F. W. Foxhall, R. S. Greene, T. M. Harrison, Ed Hutcherson, D. L. C. Kinard, C. F. Milam, Paul Montgomery, R. E. Roark, Mills Roberts, M. G. Tarver, R. C. Lemons, Carl Yancey, Lewis Foxhall, A. L. Gailley, Walter Jameson of Amarillo and hostess, Mrs. Hutcherson.

The three-day program, which will be held in the Plainview High School Auditorium, will include a variety of talks on Bible subjects. Approximately 600 delegates from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma are expected to attend.

Monza Spyder Convertible

Monza Spyder Club Coupe

Come hill... or high water
Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvaire

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty when you've got Corvaire's gummy six and rear-engine traction working on them.

You scurry up the meanest grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, gravel and other would-be miseries.

And with most of Corvaire's weight on the rear wheels, you have easy steering, too. Fact is, the handling's so light and responsive we don't even offer power steering for the car.

And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvaire's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having.

Like to do that in a sporty bucket-seated Monza Club Coupe or Convertible? Like to spring into summer with a 4-speed stick shift* and Spyder package* with its 150-hp Turbocharged engine? Your dealer's got just the Corvaire and the Trade 'N' Travel deal on it to put you in a holiday mood.

With the planting season just now at hand, and as the push for increased guar bean production continues in the drive for expanded acreage in more widespread areas, new interest is being evidenced based on planting intent.

Guar, while no miracle crop, offers farmers in the Hall County Soil Conservation District double-barreled benefits with its cash crop returns from bean production along with substantial soil-conditioning benefits for increased yields of cotton or grain that follow in rotation on guar-land. Such rotations in many areas are the answer to dry-land farming success.

"Guar's soil conditioning qualities and its high resistance to drought are only two of several reasons for renewed interest in the crop," explains John W. Stewart, General Mill's field representative.

"Guar also is relatively easy to plant and harvest, and it fills a long-felt need for an annual legume that will readily fit into a cotton-grain rotation," he added. "More and more farmers are turning to the sturdy plant to breathe new life into land wearied of successive crops of cotton or grain."

"It seems to be our best answer to the fertility problem of the dry land farmers. Its roots dig deep for moisture, and they keep soils loose and pliable to absorb and hold what little rainfall that might come."

"You can't make a complete failure with guar. Even if it does not make you a seed crop, you get your planting costs back in soil improvement. That's an important item to any farmer especially the dryland operator."

Beginning at 7 p. m., the program is open to the public. Those interested are cordially invited to attend.

It was announced that a hayride and picnic are being planned for 11 o'clock Friday, June 7, following the morning's lesson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesley Slay and sons of Big Lake visited here this week with Mr. and Mrs. Mack Coffey and family.

Eighth Annual -

in by the picnickers, made for a wonderful meal.

After dinner, there was more hymn singing. Mrs. Will Raines of Hedley was awarded a corsage as the oldest woman present, aged 83; and S. A. Pierce was presented a boutonniere as the oldest man, aged 91. Also, Mrs. Lowell Houston as official hostess was given a corsage, and Mrs. Marcus Gist from Odessa as a courtesy to one attending the Giles Picnic for the first time was given a corsage.

Later in the afternoon Marcus Gist presented trophies to Mrs. Hogard of Hedley as an old-timer and to Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Ayers for enduring their respective husbands, Bob and Lowell, for all these years. The old time cowboys, numbering 10 in all, Charlie Crow, Frank Finch, Charlie Williams, Albert Sanders, Sim Reeves, Will Noel, Arthur Eddleman, T. J. Cope, Lloyd Shelton and Buddie Lemmon, were duly recognized.

The law officers, at the insistence of the Giles residents, would have hanged Walter Johnson as a no-good, ornery sheriff when they wanted to be rid of, but Lowell Houston interceded in his behalf when no one else would volunteer for the office. Dave Browder joined the Giles law force this year as the new deputy with Gerald Knight.

All in all, the fun and foolishness ran riot into the evening hours as many went home about 4 o'clock to have a bite of supper and return for the dancing that night.

The Square Dancers were greatly missed this year, as were all those who for one reason or another, were unable to attend this gala celebration.

Before signing "30," may we say that "the steering committee" is grateful to all who so generously contributed of their time, talents, and substance to make this Giles Picnic a huge success. Especially do we wish to thank KGNC and the Amarillo News-Globe for sending such nice fellows as Jerry Langdon and John Benosis to cover the happenings for news television and radio reporting.

Begin early next year to make plans to attend the Giles picnic on Buck Creek on Memorial Day, 1964.

Jimmy B. West left this week after visiting here for two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack West. He will attend summer school at West Texas State before returning to his teaching position in Sanford-Fritch High School.
