The schedule calls for the band to leave Memphis at 7:30 a. m. and arrive in Canyon at 9:30 a. m.

The Memphis Band is scheduled to march onto the judging field at 10:49 a. m., right after the Stratford Band members complete their show.

The announcement of Class A ratings will be made at 11:37 a. m.

The twirling contest will be held on the area just south of the WTSU Stadium between gates 1 and 8 inside the stadium. The judge will be Pat Hooker, Wheat-ridge, Colo.

The band is scheduled to eat at 12:50 at the Trail, and will go back to the stadium at 1:30. After the announcement of AAAA ratings, the band will leave for Memphis at approximately 3:15 p. m.

Director Bill Bradley said this week that the band has been working hard for a first division in marching, and will do its contest show at the football game Friday night.

MHS Homecoming Set For Friday

School Board Hears Audit Report Mon.

The members of the Memphis Board of Trustees heard the annual report of audit at their regular monthly meeting Monday night. The report was given by Dwight Kinard of Abilene.

Lakeview To Have Homecoming Friday Night

Lakeview High School will have their Homecoming Friday night. The queen is expected to be crowned in pre-game ceremonies at 7:15 p. m., the school announced.

The naming of the queen will not be made until the crowning ceremony. Candidates are Sandy Verden, Joyce Baker, Jodina Pate and Tommie Lou Payne.

The Homecoming game will feature a contest between two long-standing rivals in Hall County, the Lakeview Eagles and the Estelline Bear Cubs.

The game promises to be a unique one since it will be the first time the Estelline Bear Cubs have tried to field an 8-man football team.

Dana Gibson, Lakeview's big fullback, injured a knee in the Mobeetie game last week, and is expected to see limited action if any. Also, the quarterback, Connie Mack Moore, has been on the injured list this week.

Lakeview Coach Teddy Bedwell said this week that if Estelline has very many fast boys, the Eagles are in for a rough time.

Naturally, Coach Jimmy Don Adams of Estelline is apprehensive about the game due to the fact that his team has had only one week to prepare for the 8-man contest.

listing the bills by voucher number in the minutes, when the bills are approved for payment.

The board also heard Warren Driver, who appeared before the members on behalf of an organization for the forming of a Band Booster Club.

Mr. Driver presented documents signed by 50 persons which stated:

"We, the undersigned, pledge to support a Band Booster Club should permission to organize such a club be granted. The aims and purposes of the Band Booster Club would be to assist with transportation, aid in chaperoning, provide ushering committee, be of general assistance in fund raising whenever necessary and to act as a group to promote public relations."

The board asked that a constitution and by-laws be drawn up and submitted so the organization could officially be formed.

The board handled other routine business before adjourning.

Highlights Include Cyclone-Skyrocket Game; Crowning Of Homecoming Queen

Friday is Homecoming at Memphis High School, and numerous activities are planned for the special event.

Highlighting the activities will be the Memphis Cyclone-Wellington Skyrocket football game at 7:30 p. m. Friday night at Cyclone Stadium, and the pre-game crowning of the MHS Homecoming Queen at 7:15 p. m.

The queen will be announced at the game. Candidates include: Velma Hutcherson, Mildred Magness and Pamela Lindsey.

All ex-students of the school are invited to be present at 3 p. m. on the square for a pep rally. The Cyclone Band, cheer leaders, and MHS student body will be downtown for the all-city rally.

About The Game
The Memphis Cyclone will host the Wellington Skyrockets in the first district conference game for both clubs.

Coach Charley Chambliss said Thursday morning that the Wellington coach said his team had no injuries and that the squad was ready for the game.

Wellington will be given the favorite honor due to their size and depth.

Coach Chambliss said, "the Skyrockets are the biggest team in physical size we have played this year."

About the Cyclone, the coach said that sickness and injuries have hit hard this week. Tuesday, five of Memphis' starters were out due to injuries or sickness.

On the injured list are Johnny Edwards, who received a broken rib in last Friday night's game with Shamrock, Jack Stargel, who has a back injury which keeps him from going "full speed," Donnie Bridges, who has an infection; Jerry Lowe, who is sick with the flu; and also Jimmy Don Sturdevant, who was sick Tuesday.

However, the coach said that the attitude of the Memphis team was real good and by Friday most of the boys will be in uniform and will see action.

According to reports, Wellington's best players are their team captains, No. 20, Bobby Hudson, a 181-lb. halfback; No. 44, Glen Thomas, 177-lb. fullback; and Jennings Wells, No. 75, a 195-lb. tackle.

Wellington has a good ground attack and they have thrown the ball with some success. Memphis will use a combination of running and passing, and Coach Chambliss said the team will "use whatever speed advantage they have."

The county's financial picture is brighter than in the past several years. At the time the banks' statements were issued, only a small fraction of this year's cotton crop had been harvested and sold. By the Dec. 31, 1963, financial statement, a large increase is expected over the fall figures.

EDITORIAL

A National Pastime Now, But?

For several years now, the national pastime has been to lambast agriculture. Many have even gone so far as to say the American farmer is the nation's biggest failure.

But, E. L. Tiner in an article recently took a more clear look at the situation and drew several interesting conclusions on a subject near and dear to the hearts of Hall County residents.

Tiner stated that production efficiency has gotten the farmer in trouble. Crops in this country are produced at a work output of two man days per acre while the worldwide average is 200 man hours per acre.

As farmers' production efficiency increased, surpluses piled up. Many have closed their eyes to the fact that the American Farmer has made us the best fed nation in the world and has provided food at relatively a small per cent of the family income.

Surplus problems coupled with a widely publicized scandal involving an "Ag Tycoon" helped crystalize sentiment against agriculture and kick off criticism of the American Farmer. Overnight just about every writer crawled on the critic's bandwagon; lambasting agriculture and everything associated with it has become a national pastime.

Critics say: "Few people make a living in agriculture anymore." "Agriculture income is peanuts." As Carroll P. Streeter, Editor of The Farm Journal, put it, "They look on agriculture as a shrinking apple." The truth of the matter is that agriculture is still the biggest business in the U. S. and it is getting bigger not smaller.

Here are the facts for critics to mull over:

1. There are 7,000,000 farmers and farm workers engaged in farming.

2. Over 6,000,000 workers are engaged in supplying and servicing farmers.

3. An additional 10,000,000 workers make a living handling and processing farm produce.

There are about six million farms operating in the U. S. today. These represent 3.6 million independent enterprises—98 per cent of them are family owned and operated. These represent 3.6 million solid blocks in the very foundation of our free enterprise system.

These, plus their equipment represent an investment of over 207 billion dollars. Investment per farm worker is over two and one-half times the investment per worker in industry.

Assets of the nation's farms are more than two-thirds the market value of all corporation stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

What does this mean to the city dweller?

Farm efficiency has provided the American worker with (compared on basis of what an hour's wage will buy) about twice as much steak, bread, butter, and eggs as only 30 years ago.

In other countries about 65 per cent of the family income goes to pay the grocery bill while in the U. S. only about 19 per cent of the income, after taxes, goes for groceries.

Farmers are big spenders.

Farmers use more petroleum than any other industry. They bought the equivalent of 15 billion of crude petroleum last year.

Farmers consume more electricity than Houston, Dallas, Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit combined.

In the field of farm machinery, farmers use a lot more horse power than all the U. S. Factories combined.

Farmers buy an average of 46 tires per year per farm.

The family, on the average, last year bought $4,050 in food, clothing, drugs, furniture, appliances and similar products and services.

But to bring the problem closer to home, there are 224,000 farms with 154 million acres in Texas. In other words, 85 per cent of the State's land is in farms and ranches. These farms have an estimated value of over 14.5 billion dollars.

Products from farms in Texas brought in over $2,500,000 in 1962.

What does this mean? Over 13 million people work directly in production of farm commodities and in supplying and servicing farmers. An additional 10 million make their living in handling and processing farm produce. With the population estimated to double within the next 40 years, the size of the agricultural industry is bound to grow by leaps and bounds. There are still lots of jobs in farming, and in related fields. A smaller per cent of the total population is now required to produce the food and fiber needed, but the total workers required in the tremendous agricultural complex will grow from year to year.

Agriculture is a big business, and is destined to grow bigger, as the increased population create more and more demands for food and fiber.

What Other Editors Say

Who's Furnishing What?

Having made a couple of short weekend treks recently in which I drove more than I should have for the time allotted, I came up with some rather unusual conclusions.

A dishonest signboard, the kind beside the road that keep you from seeing the scenery or that are stuck smack in the middle of a landscape you would like to have a picture of, is no more excusable than a crooked politician, a cheating businessman or a lying newspaper.

Signs — like politicians, businessmen or newspapers — should say what they mean and mean what they say.

So, it's time the wording is changed on those signs throughout the nation that try to tell us the federal government is giving us most of the money to build our new highways. These signs, to be found especially along or at the beginning of the new Interstate systems are the ones in reference.

The plain truth is that the federal government is not giving anybody anything. The United States Treasury doesn't contribute one nickel towards the nation's federal-state highway programs. Every dollar placed in the highway trust fund is collected through special taxes levied directly on highway users and not on anybody else — chiefly the 4-cent federal tax on gasoline.

Looking at the truth closer, not only are motor vehicle owners and operators paying the bill — but the same old story crops up here — they are overpaying it almost 50 per cent. Of the approximately $5 billion collected through federal highway user taxes each year, only $3.3 billion goes into the highway trust fund. The remaining $1.7 billion goes into the Treasury Department's general fund and is spent for a variety of projects having no connection with roads.

So instead of signs talking about federal aid which we do not get, why not give the motorist the credit he deserves as the source for all this money?

Maybe the sign should read, "You as a motorist have paid — dearly — for this highway system. Enjoy it and don't let anyone tell you differently."

Evaluation

The newspaper trade magazine "Editor and Publisher" this week quotes comments of three business executives, made in speeches to large groups, on the value of newspaper advertising in major merchandising fields. Excerpts from these comments were:

David L. Yunich, president of Macy's New York: "Retailers must invite — they must attract people to their stores. The most powerful way of doing this . . . is through advertising in strong, interesting and widely read newspapers . . . The newspaper is the backbone of the retail advertising structure."

Orville W. Johler, vice president for advertising of the Independent Grocers' Alliance: "Nothing the well-known fact that presenting a diversity of advertising of many products each day is one of the very real and continuing services of a newspaper to the public.

The Sadness of Super Highways

John Steinbeck, in his book "Travels with Charley" points out a sad turn of events in our time called "progress." He wrote concerning our super-highways:

"These great roads are wonderful for moving goods, but not for inspection of a countryside. You are bound to the wheel and your eyes to the car ahead and to the rear-view mirror for the car behind and the sidemirror for the car or truck about to pass, and at the same time you must read all the signs for fear you may miss some instructions or orders. No roadside stands selling squash juice, no antique stores, no farm products or factory outlets. When we get these thruways across the whole country, as we will and must, it will be possible to drive from New York to California without seeing a single thing."

This Gin Is Only Five Years Old

And Is Completely Paid For

We invite you to take advantage of the services offered by this farmer-owned gin . . . which is modern in every respect. The plant has been completely overhauled and every piece of equipment is in first-class shape. Last year we installed a complete new all-electric power system, which proved its efficiency during the 1962 season.

When the rush comes, this gin will be able to handle your cotton faster, without sacrificing quality ginning. Everything was planned to give you the most from every bale processed.

Another addition to our plant during the past few months has been a modern rock and boll catcher. This will mean an improved grade in the bales which go through our plant.

HERE'S OUR POLICY REGARDING BUR HAULING

It has been proven that the most equitable manner in handling your burs, is the following policy which will again be effective this year:

1. Cotton burs will be hauled to individual customers, and will be scattered for $3.00 per ton.
2. Allocation of burs will be handled by the gin on the basis of the order in which applications are received from customers.
3. Individual customers will be allocated burs in proportion to the amount of cotton they gin as long as there is a waiting list of applicants.

THIS CO-OP GIN WILL BUY YOUR COTTON!

The Lakeview Farmers Co-Op Gin will again offer a COTTON BUYING program as a service to our customers. Arrangements have been made through the Plains Cotton Cooperative. Prices will be posted in the office each day. Checks will be handed to sellers immediately. Ask us for full details of this program.

When cotton has been sold by the association profits made will be returned directly to each individual farmer.

THANKS FOR GIVING THIS GIN YOUR PATRONAGE

To everyone who has ginned with us, we extend our sincere thanks. Due to your past patronage, all indebtedness against the gin plant has been paid . . . and all profits from this season's operation will be distributed to our patrons next spring. The more ginning we do, the bigger the profits will be. Anyway you look at it, you can help yourself by ginning your cotton here.

REMEMBER: We will do all in our power to work with you. Let us know how we can serve. Keep in mind the fact that profits will be returned to those who gin here.

Cyclone Is Downed by Irish 24-6 Friday

Memphis Cyclone put up a valiant defensive effort of the Friday night against the Shamrock Irish, only to lose the game by a loss of 24-6.

The Cyclone scored in each of the quarters of the game, while Shamrock's lone came late in the fourth quarter on a pass from QB Sturdevant.

Shamrock's defense was predicted, Gray Benson, fullback, was the Memphis team's biggest threat with his powerful running and his good blocking. Behind good blocking, Benson scored only one of the Cyclone's four touchdowns, he rolled up yardage for a first down to the 48. Two six-yard carries, one by Jack Stargel and one by Toby Crooks, moved to the Shamrock 36 yard line.

From here, carries by Sturdevant, Crooks and Sturdevant moved to the 26 and another first.

At this point, the Irish stopped the drive and took over after four downs. The Irish marched down the field and scored. They used 10 plays to reach the goal. Halfback Louis Davis carried over for the score.

The half ended a few plays later.

Memphis kicked off to Shamrock on their 34. Two long carries set the Irish up on the 8 yard line, and the Cyclone had its back to the goal line.

Again the Memphis defense dug in. Although the big hard-running fullback, Gary Benson, carried the ball on four consecutive downs, no score was made, and Memphis took over on their 1-yard line.

Through the aid of a penalty, the Cyclone moved for one first down and then Odom punted to the Shamrock 39.

The ball changed hands twice before Shamrock scored again. It came on a 46-yard carry by Davis. The third period ended with the Irish attempting to make a point-the goal line. Odom caught the ball, was tackled from behind and fell into the end zone. The ball was knocked out of his hands, but the officials ruled he had possession when he crossed the goal line, and the Cyclone scored. The extra-point attempt was no good. The game ended two plays later.

Hall County 4-H Clubs Are Organized, Elect New Officers

Six Hall County 4-H Clubs recently re-organized and elected new officers for the year. The clubs, approximately 60 boys and girls are organized according to W. B. Hooser, county agent.

The officers of clubs are as follows: Estelline: president, Davy Longbine; vice president, Lynn Longbine; secretary, Marsha Angell; reporter, Carolyn Knox; adult leader, Jack Longbine and Lynn Longbine.

Ward: president, Bobby Hill; vice president, Kay House; secretary, Claude House; reporter, Claude House; adult leaders, Jack Longbine and J. R. Adamson.

Ward: president, J. E. Vick; vice president, Lewis Richburg; secretary, Letta Thomas; reporter, Letta Thomas; adult leaders, Ray Martin and A. C. Sams.

Ward: Austin — president, Richards; vice president, Whitten; secretary, Elaine Whitten; reporter, Tommy Lock; adult leaders, Mack Richards, E. B. Phillips, Travis; Ben Edd Hillhouse; Gary Sims; secretary, Tom Tuck; reporter, Keaton; adult leaders, R. L. Taylor and Y. Z. Taylor.

The project which the members include one or more of the following: beef cattle, dairy, cotton, poultry, garb, safety, electrification, tractor, livestock judging, range, grass judging, poultry, dairy judging, range, citizenship, leadership, personal development, citizenship, illustrated talks, and wise use of leisure.

The 4-H Club has regular meetings, according to the county agent, one may see these meetings in action," he added.

"The club meetings teach parliamentary procedure, how to make individual and group discussions, how to use elected officers effectively, and how to plan and carry out group activities. It teaches the duties of citizenship in democracy. Here boys and girls learn to practice the fundamentals of our form of government."

The educational part of the club meeting centers around individual projects and activities that interest the group. Demonstrations, judging practice, shows, illustrated talks and group discussions in theory and then field trips and tours are made to see the different theories in operation, Hooser said.

"The youngster enjoys his 4-H Club. Here boys and girls elect their own officers, plan and conduct their own programs and hold regular meetings. Both project work and club activities help develop desirable personal traits. Greater personal development is one of the finest opportunities boys and girls have as 4-H Club members. It is a family affair. Much 4-H Club work is centered around the home and family. Many parents were once 4-H members themselves, and want the children to have the same opportunities. Some projects call for work similar to that being done on a larger scale by the parents. This lets club members work hand-in-hand with their parents, so that these youngsters start early learning the duties involved in operation of a farm, a business or a home," he stated.

The success of a boy or girl in 4-H depends a great deal on his or her parents. They help the youngsters decide on projects that will best suit the family, farm or home situations, and usually they finance the project.

The 4-H member "learns to do

MEMPHIS TWIRLERS—Above is pictured the Memphis Cyclone Band twirlers who will enter twirling competition at Canyon next Tuesday. From left to right are: Rosemary Harrison, Head Twirler Lynn Foxhall, and Minka Sims. by doing." The success of this program depends on the public spirited men and women who serve as local volunteer leaders. The adult leaders are selected by the boys, girls and parents with suggestions from the county agent.

Members who are doing the most outstanding work are selected by the adult leaders to attend the 4-H encampment, 4-H roundup and go on other trips, Hooser said.

The 4-H Council, Program Building Committee, supports and enriches the program of local clubs. Countywide events such as demonstration days, tours, judging schools, safety and public speaking, support the educational programs. The advisory council or group leaders and members work under the guidance of the Extension Service to determine the over-all county program, it was explained.

At the shows, boys and girls can exhibit what they have accomplished in their projects. The 4-H demonstrations, judging, safety, electrification and tractor driving have become an accepted part. These activities provide practice in getting along with people, training in leadership skills, the making of friends, appreciation and understanding of nature and new skills.

Hall County holds an Achievement Day to recognize those who have done a good job and inspire others to "make the best better" each year. Both members and leaders get recognition this way, according to the county agent.

More projects are available now, and enrollment of urban youth in club work has expanded some project areas such as: home beautification, photography and electronic projects. A very small per cent of youths living on farms today will be able to remain in farming. But these are many jobs for youths with rural background in agri-business. Extension's program for youth is helping them explore new career opportunities.

Citizenship programs appeal to the teen-age member. A citizen's responsibility is to himself, to the group, and to international affairs. 4-H trains young people to assume responsibilities in a free society, Hooser said.

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

Conservation farming requires good planning. A farmer must decide on what crops to grow, what type of tillage to use, how often to rotate the crops and many other items. Once the plan is developed it should provide for maximum protection of the soil.

Proper use of crop residue is one of the best ways a farmer has to protect the land. Residue left on top of the soil helps control both wind and water erosion. Surface residue protects the land without using any of the soil moisture. A good cover of residue actually helps to get more of the rain into the soil. This makes good residue management one of the most valuable conservation practices in this area.

The proper way to manage crop residue varies from one field to another. If the main problem is wind erosion then the crop residue should be left standing through the wind erosion season or until about the first of April. Residue such as sorghum stalks will give the best protection from soil blowing when left standing. The height of the stalks help reduce the speed of the wind on the ground. Any early tillage on sorghum land should be done with equipment that will leave the stalks standing.

er items. Once the plan is developed it should provide for maximum protection of the soil.

Proper use of crop residue is one of the best ways a farmer has to protect the land. Residue left on top of the soil helps control both wind and water erosion. Surface residue protects the land without using any of the soil moisture. A good cover of residue actually helps to get more of the rain into the soil. This makes good residue management one of the most valuable conservation practices in this area.

The proper way to manage crop residue varies from one field to another. If the main problem is wind erosion then the crop residue should be left standing through the wind erosion season or until about the first of April. mended reduction, the Appropriations Committee had done its work well. It had heard 450 witnesses and compiled 4,000 pages of testimony in subcommittee hearings stretching over four months.

The committee cuts sustained by the full House amounted to an overall reduction of 10.6 per cent in the budget requests. This is in line with the kind of substantial reductions Congress must make if we are to attain the goal I've long pursued of balanced budgets and a reduced public debt.

The $5.1 billion budget approved for space activities (the budget for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration) had been cut by $600 million in committee and that cut was sustained by the House. Also approved by a House majority was an amendment to forbid the use of any funds in this year's space budget on any joint venture with the Soviet Union in an effort to send a man to the moon. Other amendments adopted to the bill bar the use of any funds to pay salaries of a study group for creation of a domestic peace corps or national service corps (a legislative proposal that appears to be dead, at least for this Session of Congress), and to reduce by $100,000 funds requested for salaries and expenses by the Federal Power Commission.

Three other regular appropriations bills remain to be reported to the House before this Session can end. They are the military construction bill, the foreign aid bill, and the public works bill. Action on these appropriations must await the disposition of the authorization bills which provide for the programs.

So far this year the House has cut $4.7 billion from budget requests considered in the nine regular appropriations bills for the fiscal year which began July 1. Four regular bills have been cleared by both the House and Senate and sent to the President, those providing money for the Interior, Treasury, Post Office, Labor, Health Education and Welfare, and Defense departments. The defense appropriation, at $47.2 billion, is the largest of all appropriations and represents well over half of all Federal money to be expended.

The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Honorable Clarence Cannon of Missouri, estimates that an earlier outlook remains valid for final congressional budget reductions of approximately $5.4 billion. In my newsletter of August 10, I predicted that the budget will have been cut by $5 or $6 billion when all appropriations matters have been disposed of.

A reduction of at least another $1 billion may be expected in the foreign aid appropriation, a cut that added to past actions would bring reductions approved by the House to $5.7 billion. I will continue my efforts to eliminate the foreign aid program entirely. If this could be accomplished, and

From and About People

Lelia Lake, Texas

The Memphis Democrat: I spent a couple of hours at the Hedley Cotton Festival Saturday afternoon. My idea was to see the parade, for I cling to that old saying—"Lives there a man, woman or child that isn't thrilled by a parade". The large senior Memphis band led the parade into downtown Hedley and during a seven or eight minute halt thrilled the cheering audience by executing fancy and intricate steps. In fact, each band contributed their quota of maneuvers which thrilled the cheering multitude.

It always brings to mind the cotton festival that Memphis staged twelve or thirteen years ago, which undoubtedly was the grandfather of cotton festivals ever pulled in the cotton community of the southwest and set a pattern for future festivals to shoot at or duplicate.

The long wagon that was hauling twelve or fifteen bales of cotton end to end or tilted, each bale adorned by a Hall County beauty and bathing beach attire. The vehicle made all the corners of the court house square with ease. Ole Tack of Amarillo had mechanics to construct a lengthy vehicle to be used in his mother-in-law parade some years ago.

The parade marshal of the Memphis parade knew his parades—not a hitch in the mile or more parade.

Governor Beauford Jester and Senator W. L. O'Daniel were speakers of the day.

I don't recall whether the half dozen gins, more or less, in Memphis were in operation on that day—if so that would emphasize the fact that Memphis was surely a "Cotton Center" to visitors and natives.

Halloween Booths Are Available For Carnival

Various clubs and organizations will feature booths at the Halloween Carnival, being sponsored by the Memphis Jaycees, it was announced this week by Phil Wooten.

The Carnival will be held in the Boren Building, located on Noel Street, west of J. C. Penney Company.

A few spaces for booths are still available, Wooten said. He requested that those who are interested in having a booth at the Carnival should contact a member of the Jaycees within the next few days.

A variety of entertaining booths are being planned for this year's carnival. The bingo table will be operated by the Women's City Forum; the Girl Scouts will have a spook house and fortune telling booth; the cake walk will be sponsored by the Jaycees, and there will be various other booths, which will be announced later.

Plenty of food will be available for those who attend. The Austin PTA will sell sandwiches, cup cakes, etc.; the Jaycees will sell drinks and the Boy Scouts will have a hot dog stand.

"With the combined cooperation of the many organizations, we hope to have an outstanding Carnival this year," Wooten said.

Circuit Supervisor, Jehovah's Witness Visits Memphis

Stephen E. Lane, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in Memphis, announced the regular visit of their circuit supervisor, L. D. Bell, and his wife, Edwina, beginning Oct. 15 and concluding Oct. 20. Bell is presiding over 16 congregations in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

The program for his week's visit began Tuesday at 8 p. m. with a study of the Bible concerning the divine name, followed by a discourse by Mr. Bell.

Wednesday through Sunday some time will be devoted to field missionary service each day. Mr. and Mrs. Bell will accompany members of the local group in making calls on the residents in the community. This is part of the regular door-to-door ministry of Jehovah's Witnesses all over the world. Commenting on this feature of the activity of Jehovah's Witnesses, Mr. Lane said, "Knowledge of God is meant to be shared. It is the divine purpose that Christians teach persons of good will concerning the will of God."

Highlight of the week's visit will be the public talk given by Mr. Bell, "Building a Happy Human Family."

The public is invited to attend all meetings.

How To Hold A Shotgun

Nearly every novice—and many an old-timer—has trouble hitting a target with regularity.

Many misses can be avoided if the shotgun is properly held. Watch a novice next time he shoots. Does he hold his gun with his left hand behind the slide grip and the magazine (pumps and autos) and with his left elbow bent? If he does, he's wrong.

The left arm should be extended straight from the shoulder with hand gripping slide (if pump). This gives a firm support and better control of the gun.

Practice this hold until it is done subconsciously and your shooting will vastly improve.

Incoming Shots

For many shotguns the incoming is the toughest shot of all. The trick is to blot out the bird with the gun muzzle as you shoot.

If you can see your target when you press the trigger, you can be sure you are not leading enough.
