Annual Cotton Guessing Contest To Begin Friday

The Memphis Democrat's annual Cotton Guessing Contest will get underway Friday morning, Oct. 1, at 8 a. m., and will continue through Saturday, Oct. 23, the publishers announced early this week.

This is the 19th consecutive year the contest has been held and a wide variety of readers have won free subscriptions to the paper during this time.

The contest is one in which the readers of The Democrat match their knowledge, their wits and their luck against the many elements of weather, insects, etc., in an effort to estimate the amount of cotton Hall County farmers will gin this season.

All readers are eligible to enter the contest. All a person has to do to enter is come by the office of this newspaper and make a prediction. Or, if more convenient, mail a card or letter to The Democrat, Box 192, Memphis, and list your name, address and your guess. No entries will be taken over the telephone.

Remember entries must be in by Saturday, Oct. 23.

The person guessing closest to the actual number of bales ginned will win a three-year subscription to The Democrat. Second place winner will receive a two-year subscription, and third place a one-year subscription.

This contest is not restricted to residents of this county only, or just residents of Texas. Any reader of the newspaper may enter. The total number of bales ginned in Hall County will be the figure used to determine the winner.

EDITORIAL

Is Starvation Coming?

Over the past ten years, research institutions, learned men, government experts and leaders, and many of the leading journalistic publications have been giving some serious consideration to a physical problem facing man's inhabitation of the world. The conclusions being drawn and published do not paint a very pretty picture of the future.

In fact, some have gone so far as to claim that the biggest problem facing mankind is not an atomic war but rather a problem of food to feed the ever-growing population of the world. In the next 35 years, the world's population, now about 3.3 billion, will skyrocket to about 6 billion, almost doubling by the year 2000.

Some experts think that the population growth of the world will climb faster than this. Naturally the problem is seen that, if the population of the world doubles during the next 35 years, will not the food supply also have to double during the same period?

The United Nations committee has reported that today, diets are inadequate in the huge underdeveloped areas of the world, which include almost all of Asia and Africa and most of Latin America. It was also explained that the vast increase in food production must be achieved at a time when nearly all of the virgin lands of the world already have been brought into production.

Dr. Earl L. Butz, dean of agriculture at Purdue University and onetime chairman of the U. S. delegation to the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, said:

"The world is on a collision course. When the massive force of an exploding world population meets the much more stable trend line of world food production, something must give. Unless we give increased attention now to the softening of the impending collision, many parts of the world within a decade will be skirting a disaster of such proportion as to threaten the peace and stability of the Western World."

The United States is expected to be one of the leading nations toward meeting this food shortage but it is foreseen that the population of the United States and Canada will increase by over 60 percent during this same period which will offset much of our own increased food production.

Also, the water shortage is expected to grow more and more complex as the population growth continues throughout the world.

The experts foresee the only workable solution to the problem is birth control on a world-wide scale, which would in itself create a tremendous problem of education and execution, and may take many years before it is ever worked out and becomes effective.

What does this all mean to our area. Memphis and Hall County is blessed with much fertile land, some of which is out of production due primarily to over production. Government leaders have been quoted as saying that the time is seen approaching when the U. S. farmer will be asked to spur food production, instead of curb it.

Starvation has brought about more wars and political purges than any other reason in the history of mankind. President Johnson has expressed his conviction that the U. S. cannot remain as an "island of abundance" in a world full of starving people."

Another Whack At Employers

Employers of this country are fair game for the bureaucrats and the liberal Congressmen who like to pass out "benefits" to voters who don't care how much they hammer business men on the head to get these things enacted.

The recent increase in Social Security benefits was paired with a dramatic boost in Social Security taxes—with the employer having to match the doubled tax from each of his employee's paychecks.

Nobody seems to question the logic of this type of law. We wonder where the philosophy first became established that called upon the employer to match employee Social Security contributions.

But an even more crippling piece of legislation is in the hopper now. This involves a change in the federal unemployment compensation tax, levied upon employers only, and in varying amounts.

This tax, which goes to finance unemployed people all over the nation, is paid by employers everywhere. The states also have an unemployment tax, and a separate unemployment program.

Thus far, the employers of Texas, for example, are under the control of the Texas Employment Commission which sets the rate at which taxes will be paid, for the employer gets credit on his federal tax for his state tax paid this way.

The employer who has a stable payroll, who doesn't have people leaving and drawing unemployment pay, gets credit for this and pays less tax than the employer with a big turnover. This makes sense.

But the change in federal law would do away with this, and levy a payroll tax on all employers in whatever amount is necessary to finance a greatly expanded system of unemployment checks. An unemployed person could draw tax-free income for an entire year under the new law, with employers footing the bill.

This new law would make it more profitable for a man to quit his job and draw his unemployment check than to work at a 40 hour job in most states. We predict that we haven't seen anything yet in the way of drones sucking at the public teat if this law goes into effect.

This unemployment legislation, if passed, will knock the props out from under some small business men. If the figures we have read are accurate, the tax on a small business the size of this one will be a crippling blow.

The government experts are good at putting on new taxes on the business man. We wish they were helpful in figuring out how a small business can increase its income to meet the boost in federal taxes.

We are all for eradicating poverty in this country. And if this sort of stuff keeps on, we are going to have to get in line for some aid ourselves. — Ochiltree County Herald.

Devotion and Courage

All too often in the modern rush for the dollar devotion and courage are lost in the shuffle—even among families. That's why the recent example of devotion to his brother, and courage, by Donald Dawson, of Cosa Mesa, California, is inspirational.

Dawson's brother had been lost over Vietnam when piloting a plane which was forced down. It was not known whether he was dead or alive. His brother went to Vietnam to find out.

Unable to get accurate information any other way, he voluntarily walked into Viet Cong territory, where he was of course captured by the Viet Cong.

The Viet Cong at first doubted his story, and he was held captive for four months, much of the time his life hanging in the balance. In the end, perhaps partly because they admired the kind of courage he displayed, the Viet Cong proved to his satisfaction that his brother had been killed, and allowed him to go free.

To the relief of his own family (he had a wife and four children) he reached American and South Vietnamese lines. "I want to go home now, tell Dan's (his brother's) wife and the kids that I did all I could, and then pick up the threads of my life."

The 28-year-old fisherman is one of the brave Americans to emerge from the Vietnam war, in which his family, and his country, take pride.—Shamrock Texan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Morton, Sherry, Paula and Becky visited with Henry Ashford and Peggy and with Jimmie Ashford over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Adair of Los Angeles, Calif., visited here last week with Mrs. Lottie Kinard, Mrs. Lucille Wright and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Galley and Diane. Mrs. Adair will be remembered by friends here as the former Charlotte Fore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jett Fore.

Girl Scouts Urged To Make Applications Now

This is the annual announcement of national and international opportunities for Girl Scouts. All girls interested in this type of experience must possess a deep personal belief in the Girl Scout code expressed in the Girl Scout Promise and Laws. They must agree to continue in scouting for at least two years after the event and share the experience with others as widely as possible. Applications may be secured from the Quivira Girl Scout Council, P. O. Box 459 Pampa, Texas. The applications must be completed and returned to the Council by Sept. 27, 1965. Exciting opportunities are open to Senior Girl Scouts from Region IX, which includes Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. In August, 1966, a Campus Conference on Citizenship will be held in the new Kellogg Foundation complex. Girls will live on the Oklahoma University campus and have their meals in the central dining room. They will hear people of knowledge from all fields, speak on such topics as "Developing Responsibility", "The Role of Women: Today and Tomorrow", and other topics of broad interest. Workshops, general sessions, special events, and small group meetings all will focus on the theme of Citizenship. Each candidate must have completed the 10th grade in school by July, 1966, and be an active member of a Senior Girl Scout troop. An All-States Encampment will be held in the beautiful Nantahala National Forest in Western North Carolina. After an orientation at base camp, Seniors will backpack by patrols into the nearby forest for several days. Participants must be at least 16 years of age at the time of this event. A conference on the Home on the campus of Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, will be held in July, 1966. Girls 16 or 17, or who have completed the 10th grade by July, 1966, will participate in discussions, workshops, field trips, and plenary sessions. They will live in a college dormitory setting.

Hawaii, in Honolulu. The Juliette Low World Friendship Fund will pay transportation between California and Hawaii. The purpose of this event is to promote mutual appreciation of Eastern and Western cultural values. Girls must be 16, and not yet 18 years of age, and have completed the 11th grade in school by June, 1966. The approximate dates for this conference are July 28-August 23, 1966. Juliette Low Session at Our Chalet in Adelboden, Switzerland, will be from June 25-August 10, 1966. To provide opportunities for the exchange of Girl Scout Guide experiences and skills, for sharing information about the countries represented, and for building friendships and understanding through community living is the purpose of this event. The experiment in International Living from July to September, 1966, is to give Senior Scouts of the U. S. A., with and adult, the opportunity to learn about living in Sweden by living with Guide families and by touring parts of the country with their Swedish "sisters." It is important that girls wishing to participate in any of these events mails their applications to the Council before the September 27, 1965, deadline.

The Director Says:

'Sagebrush Saga' Packs Them In

By VIRGINIA BROWDER
Judging from the profusion of compliments coming in from all directions, the cast of "Sagebrush Saga" gave an excellent, if hilarious, performance in the City Park amphitheater last Saturday evening.

The weatherman smiled and the audience laughed out loud as the cowboys, storekeepers, barmaids, loafers, busybodies, and town-belles danced, sang, and cavorted through 45 minutes of comical melodrama depicting county history sugar-coated with fun and foolishness.

Try as she would, the "saloon soubrette" (Letha Springer) was never able to lure the preacher (Tom Posey) into her lair nor was the preacher able to induce the wild cowboys to mend their ways. The busybodies recovered from the fright by the Indians, and Blackie Johnson did a superior job of falling dead when shot by Doyle Morris, and Sam Goodnight's clowning was a riot.

The narrator (John Binkley) kept his two small listeners (Sissy and Tom Johnson) and the audience interested with his splendid reading of the story; and, from viewers' accounts, the players had "a ball" adding bits of nonsense to the pantomime on stage.

Despite physical calamities (the director's broken thumb and tooth, and Sissy Johnson's hard fall onto the concrete stage) and anxiety because of the inclement weather and the threatened damage to the scenery, "Sagebrush Saga" seems to have been a howling success.

May I say how proud and pleased I was with the performance, how flattered by the many compliments, and how grateful I am to the players, the scenery builders, the show card artists, the boys who camped out with the set, the Crutchfields who helped save the scenery from weather destruction, the McCauleys for Tobe's (the mule) part in the show, the horses, the ticket sales girls, to The Democrat for all the publicity, and all others who helped make the show a success.

More than $400 was received from ticket sales; and, from a hurried calculation by the treasurer of the Woman's Forum, Helen Boswell, it now looks like (after expenses are paid) that organization will be able to pay off the note incurred two years ago this month for added improvements to the Community Center with the First National Bank. Only one regret might accompany this payment, the entertainment in this area may lag when the women no longer have to rack their brains for money-making schemes to defray a $6,000.00 indebtedness.

Delphian Club Holds Annual Gentlemen's Evening Social

The Delphian Club honored husbands and other guests Tuesday, Sept. 21, with a dinner at the Community Building.

Guests were greeted by the president, Mrs. Joe Bob Browning, after which minister Tom Anderson brought the invocation.

A delicious dinner was served from tables decorated with stage coaches and missiles, carrying out the club theme for the year, "From Stage Coach to Space Walk." A beautiful arrangement of yellow pom-pom mums and autumn leaves centered the speaker's table.

Mrs. A. Anisman read the Women's Club Collect which was written by Mary Stuart in Longmont, Colorado in 1904, as a personal prayer and without any organization in mind. Miss Stuart felt that "Women working together was a new thing under the sun and that perhaps they had a need for a special petition of their own." It was first printed as an obscure paragraph in the old "Deliceneator" magazine, but has found its way into the world wherever English speaking women work together. The first organization to print it in yearbooks was The General Federation of Women's Clubs. Since then it has been reprinted in many forms in many lands, and in many yearbooks. Mary Stuart died in 1943, but her collect lives on in the hearts of women throughout the world.

Mrs. Henry Hays introduced the program and the guest speaker, Senator Jack Hightower of Vernon. The General Federation Departments, Status Of Women, was the theme for the evening. Mrs. Hays stated that the status of women has changed greatly since the days when Napoleon wrote the quotation for the evening, "Women is given to man to bear children. She is, therefore, his property, as a tree is a gardener's." For years, women have been battling against this conception of their status in life; hence the topic of the evening, "From

Chattle Age To Battle Age."

Senator Hightower was born in Memphis and is an honor graduate of Memphis High School. He served in the U. S. Navy during World War II. He is a graduate of Baylor University Law School, and a member of the law firm of Storey-Donaghy of Vernon, Texas. He served one term in the Texas House of Representatives, after which he returned to private practice, later serving as District Attorney of Vernon District. He is now in his first term in the Texas Senate, and is serving as chairman of the Labor Committee.

Senator Hightower's subject for the evening was "Women In Legislation, in which he dealt primarily with property rights as they apply to married women. There are two kinds of property, Community, that accumulated by husband and wife after marriage, and separate, that acquired by either before marriage or by gift. Texas property laws affecting married women are in many instances archaic, designed by another generation, and further changes are expected in the near future. Sev-

1913 Study Club Opens Club Season With Brunch At DeVille Restaurant

The 1913 Study Club met at the DeVille Restaurant Sept. 22 at 9:30 a. m.

Brunch was served from a lovely buffet table decorated with "Mr. Pepper", who sat in a wagon laden with grapes and pulled by two squash "horses." Autumn flower arrangements were an added attraction to the dining area.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. M. C. Tarver, president. Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard gave the invocation.

The club voted to undertake a program of Eye Screening for pre-school age children. Dr. Jack Rose has been enlisted to aid in the program. Larger cities with a Society for the Prevention of Blindness have already instigated this program and the club feels Memphis should not have to do without this advantage.

The program will involve volunteer workers to detect possible eye problems in young children and referring them to an eye doctor if any trouble is suspected. Some eye problems, if not found before school age, are almost untreatable, including amblyopia. However, it will detect danger of many types and eye malfunctions.

The club feels that helping one child's eyes will make the program most worthwhile.

Mrs. R. E. Roark introduced the pearbook and read the third chapter of Ecclesiastes from which the theme of this year's studies is taken: "A Time to Every Purpose."

The president's message by Mrs. Tarver was in keeping with this theme as she spoke on "A Time to Build."

The meeting ended with each member sharing some of the highlights of her summer with the club.

Those present were Mmes. Gus Montgomery, Paul Montgomery, Virginia Browder, L. G. DeBerry, Bray Cook, D. L. C. Kinard, R. S. Greene, Byron Baldwin, T. M. Harrison, M. C. Tarver, O. L. Freedom . . .

"For you were called to freedom, brethren; only do not use your freedom as an opportunity for the flesh, but through love be servants of one another." — Galatians 1:13

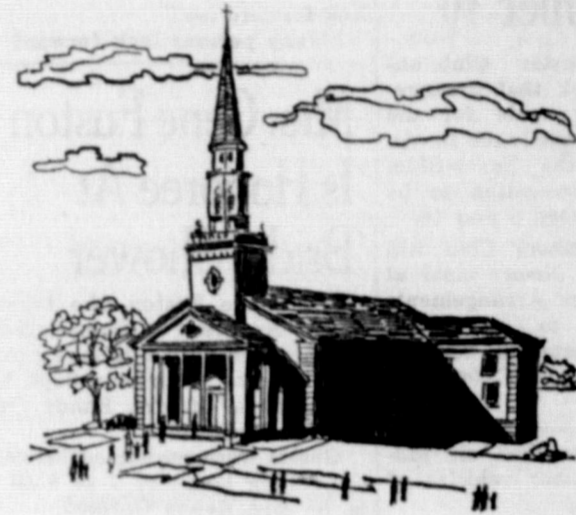

We hear an awful lot about freedom these days. Maybe we should give some thought to what it means to be free.

Because we live in a free nation, we have the right of choice. We can go to church as we please; we can join the political party that suits us; we can choose our life's work.

But we cannot use freedom as an "excuse". We are not "free" to do anything we choose. We cannot disregard laws and resist proper authority. We cannot do things which in some way violate the rights of our fellowman.

Freedom carries with it a certain amount of responsibility.

MHS Class Holds
50 Year Reunion

Editor's Note: An interested member who attended the reunion Saturday night of the 1915 graduating class of Memphis High School held at Odum's Restaurant had these comments to make:

The class we note that out of 28 members of the 1915 graduating class an unusual fact was that only four of the group have lived in the 50 years since graduation. Out of the class of 1915 of the 28 students, there is only one that has never married. Overheard someone tell her she had changed less than any members of the class since getting out of high school. The approximate total of the seventeen present was 2,800 years; total years lived was 764 years. They were parents of 45 children and grandparents of about 95, making a total of approximately 1,000 lives. The increase in the population of the United States, and being responsible for a part of the population explosion. Of the 17 pupils here, three from California. Three former teachers of the class were present and I believe Dr. C. Q. Smith had more degrees after his name than we have cattle brands in Tall County. Dr. Smith reported that this particular class ranked high in college attendance and many are taking college courses

now. Financially, they all seem to have been very successful. There was a question with me as to why until I heard that this was the first class in Texas to have a course in Economics in high school. At that time the state department tried to throw it out, but today it is a required course in high school.

At the conclusion of the program, the following poem was read by Miss Bess Norwood of Fort Worth . . . in my opinion the most fit-most of the crowd:

"The Golden Years"
How do I know my youth is all spent?
Well, "My get up and go" has got-up and went.
But in spite of it all I am able to grin
When I think of where my "get up" has been.

Old age is golden, so I've heard it said,
But sometimes I wonder when I go back to bed
With my ears in the drawer, my teeth in a cup
My eyes on the table . . . until I wake up.

Ere sleep dims my eyes, and I say to myself
Is there anything else I should lay on the shelf
But I am happy to say as I close my door,
My friends are the same, perhaps even more.

When I was younger my slippers were red
I could kick my heels right over my head.
Now I am old and my slippers are black
I walk to the store and puff my way back.

The reason I know my youth is all spent,
My "get up and go" has got up and went.

Cyclone Blast Eagles 2-6 Friday At S-F

Memphis Cyclone chalked another victory for the season when they turned out to be a rip-roaring second half football game on Friday last.

The Cyclone came from behind to defeat the Eagles 32-6 by the end of the fourth quarter.

The Cyclone's defense was the star of the game, stopping the Eagles' offense at every turn.

The Cyclone's offense was led by QB Pounds, who passed for 112 yards and two touchdowns.

The Cyclone's defense was led by LB Devoce, who had a total of 278 yards in pick-off plays.

The Cyclone's offense was led by RB Pounds, who had 92 yards and one touchdown.

The Cyclone's defense was led by DE Devoce, who had 166 yards in pick-off plays.

QB Pounds made four yards on the option play and the HB Gilbert Devoce took a hand-off from Pounds and knifed through the left side of the Eagles defense and scampered 24 yards for the Cyclone's second TD.

The extra points attempt was no good and the score was 14-0.

It became apparent to spectators that the Cyclone had broken the game open and the Eagles would be going to the pass to try and get back into the game.

The S-F boys had the ball on their own 27 with a third and 9 needed after two running attempts were unsuccessful, when their quarterback dropped back and tried to hit an end up the middle with a pass.

The Cyclone scored five plays later. Running from the 17 yard-line, Devoce made four yards, Pounds picked up two more, and William McFall circled right end for five more and a first down to the seven.

Devoce carried on the next play and was hit one yard shy of the line of scrimmage by an Eagle wall. On the next play, McFall carried and cut up field and raced 8 yards to the goal line for the Cyclone's third TD.

The extra points attempt was no good and the score was 20-6.

The closing minutes of the fourth period of play was highlighted by two TD's for Memphis. The first one came on a 58-yard pass play from QB Pounds to End Lorenzo Graves.

The second TD was made on a 61-yard pass play from Pounds to End Clyde Wilson.

The tries for extra points after both of these touchdowns were no good and the final score was 32-6.

Coach's Discussion
In discussing the game, Coach Chambliss pointed out several interesting aspects, pro and con.

"We didn't control the ball enough and gave it away too many times by fumbling it," he said.

"We had a fine night passing hitting about 50 percent of our passes and three of five passed were completed for touchdowns," he said.

"I feel we have had a good passing game but in the past we haven't been able to get our signals straight like we did last Friday night," he explained.

Devoce had a good running night with a per-carry average of 8.2. Mike Pounds carried 7 times and made 13 yards. McFall carried five times for 20 yards while QB Tony Pounds carried twice for 7 yards.

Memphis made 112 yards rushing and 166 yards passing for a total offense of 278 yards, picking up 10 first downs.

Sanford-Fritch made 7 first downs and 92 yards rushing and 47 yards passing, for a total offense of 139 yards.
