Political Changes Seen On Filing Deadline Eve

County SCS Has Three New Men

Three new conservationists of the Hall County Soil Conservation Service are now on the job at the Memphis Office in the basement of the County Courthouse.

Henry D. Gregory, of Albany, has taken over the duties of Work Unit Conservationist, replacing Bob Gordon who has been transferred to Jacksboro.

Cyril D. Keith, a soil conservationist, has returned to Memphis after a two-year position with the SCS in Vernon. He replaces Henry Stoneham who has been transferred to Jayton.

The third new member of the staff is Howard Carleton, a range conservationist, who moves to Memphis from Knox City.

Rounding out the staff are Royce Frisbie, the conservation technician who has been with the County SCS for 16 years and George Williams, conservation aide, who has been here since 1957.

Mr. Gregory has served 21 years with the SCS and served six years with the service at Albany before coming to Memphis. Prior to that, he was at Comanche.

Gregory is a graduate of Tarleton State College where he majored in animal husbandry. He and his wife, Margaret, have three children, Gary 24, Ann, in junior high, and Charles, in the first grade.

Gregory's family, with the exception of his oldest son, Gary, will remain in Albany until a later date. Gary is working here with a construction crew. He said the family is in the process of looking for a three bedroom home here.

Cyril Keith, no stranger to this area, first began work with the county SCS in 1958, leaving here in 1964 to go to Vernon. He is a graduate of Texas Tech where

Rebellious Activities Are Dangerous

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a law enforcement bulletin this month stated that the American college student today is being subjected to a bewildering and dangerous conspiracy perhaps unlike any social challenge ever before encountered by our youth. On many campuses he faces a turbulence built on unrestrained individualism, repulsive dress and speech, outright obscenity, disdain for moral and spiritual values and disrespect for law and order. This movement, commonly referred to as the "New Left", is complex in its deceitful absurdity and characterized by its lack of common sense.

The FBI Director went on to say that fortunately, a high percentage of the more than three million full-time college students are dedicated, hardworking, and serious-minded young people; however, their good deeds and achievements are greatly overshadowed by those who are doing a tremendous amount of talking but very little thinking.

Many groups are creating turmoil with a feigned concern for the vital rights of free speech, dissent, and petition. However, millions of Americans, who know from experience that freedom and rights also mean duties and responsibilities, are becoming alarmed over the anarchists and seditious ring of these campus disturbances. They know liberty and justice are not possible without law and order.

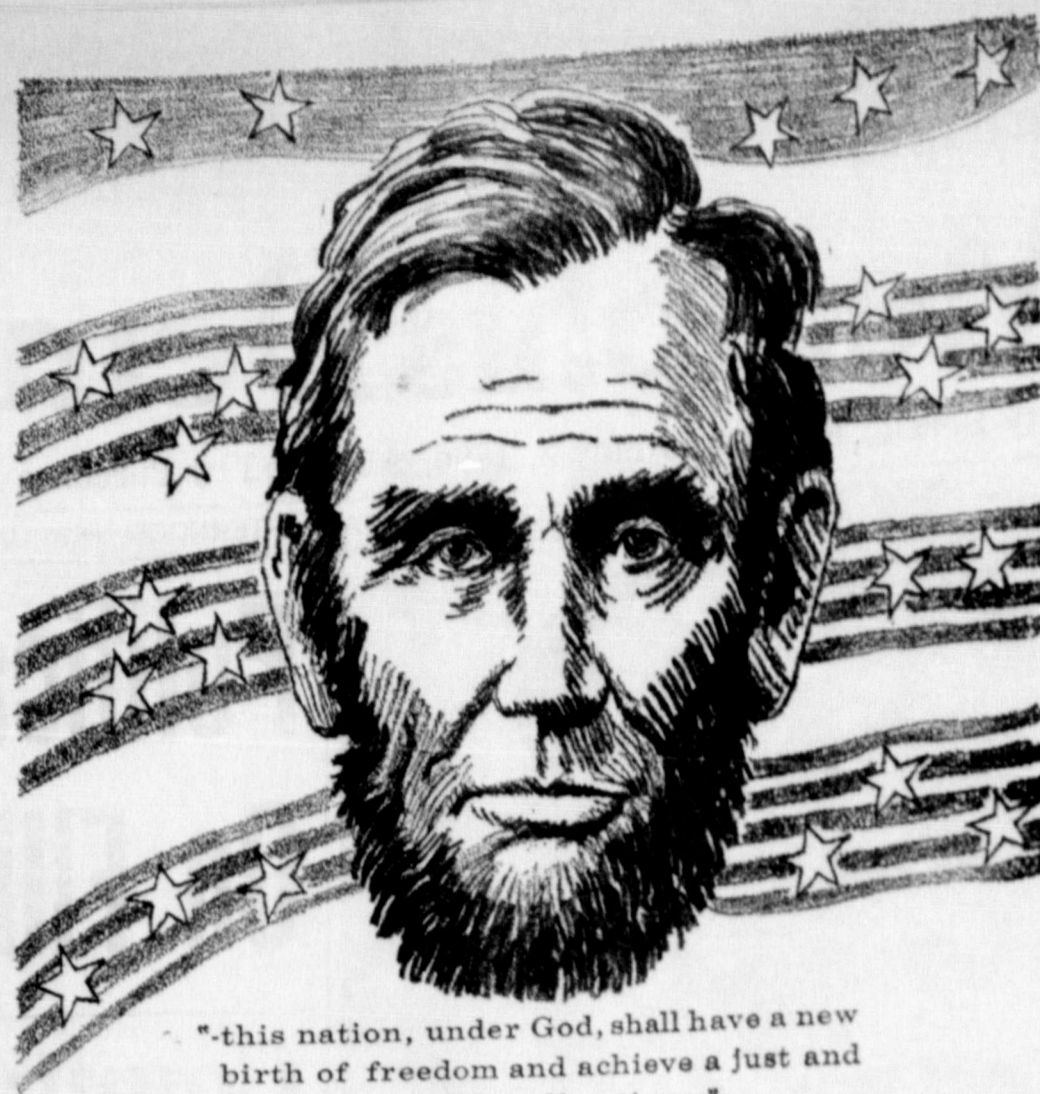

J. Edgar Hoover said The Communist Party, USA, as well as other subversive groups, is jubilant over these new rebellious activities. The unvarnished truth is that the communist conspiracy is seizing this insurrectionary climate to captivate the thinking of rebellious-minded youth and coax them into the communist movement itself or at least agitate them into serving the communist cause.

The communists, he explained, plan to take the New Left into the party to increase the party ranks. For the first time since 1959, the Party plans a national convention this spring. We can be sure that high on the agenda will be strategy and plans to win the New Left and other new members.

Hoover concluded with the following advice to loyal Americans: "We have already seen the effects of some of their stepped-up activities, and I firmly believe a vast majority of the American public is disgusted and sickened by such social orgies. One recourse is to support and encourage the millions of youth who refuse to swallow the communist bait. Another is to let it be known far and wide that we do not intend to stand idly by and let demagogues make a mockery of our laws and demolish the foundation of our Republic."

Mr. Hoover explained a basic concept when he listed the causes behind some of the college turbulence which has been reported. Students do not normally rebel against established law and order without being led to do so by subversive groups. College students, fresh from the control of their parents, sometimes face difficult times adjusting to their new found freedom, and are easy marks for any group promising a brighter future.

There are forces constantly at work trying to undermine the faith of our citizens in Democratic principles in our nation. We, as citizens, should continually teach our children to uphold these principles and be willing to take whatever action is necessary to preserve them. If we do not, there is no hope that our way of life will continue to be preserved for future generations as our forefathers have preserved it for us.

"this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and achieve a just and lasting peace with all nations."

Abraham Lincoln

ACROSS the DESK

What Other Editors Say

Gremlin!

A Harvard zoologist says he's discovered a mysterious something that lurks around a newspaper office that's capable of performing all sorts of crazy antics. The learned professor told a meeting of the American Chemical Society in Washington last week that a "mysterious hormone" found in newsprint makes an insect go berserk.

He theorized that most American newsprint is derived from the balsam fir tree and that millions of years ago the balsam, bedeviled by insects, developed some kind of an immunity in self-defense.

Any newspaper man or printer can testify to the fact that the back shop of a newspaper has been bedeviled as far back perhaps as Gutenberg, by a mysterious creature commonly known as the gremlin.

The gremlin, let the learned professor note, is the mysterious creature that has caused the old-time country editor to pack up his shirt-tail full of type and skip town.

It has frequently caused Linotype operators to their contracts, irate subscribers to stop their paper and numerous publishers to seek psychiatric advice.

There isn't much evidence to support this theory, but it is generally known in the newspaper business that gremlins are apt to apply their exasperating havoc just before press time, or when the article pertains to the local social dictator or some of her friends.

Gremlins usually start working on the man who operates the typesetting machine. He can set two galleys of the cleanest type imaginable in a single hour, with nary a semblance of an error.

But let him start on Mrs. Whoo-sis's silver tea and the gremlins take over. The proof reader may catch a few of the errors and send the galley proof back for correction.

From this time, mistakes multiply. The man who corrects proof discards a correct line of type and inserts an incorrect one.

The man who makes up the pages picks up the wrong head and places it over an unrelated story that's sure to cause guffaws when the paper comes out.

It doesn't happen anywhere except in a newspaper or print shop. If the Harvard professor can isolate and control these unseen hormones, he deserves more esteem than Ben Franklin. — The Raymondville Chronicle.

About Our Ancestors

When we look at the savage of the African jungle, the primitive peasant of India and Asia, the jungle Indians of the Amazon Valley of South America living only a step above the animals, it is difficult not to feel we belong to a superior race. How hard it is to look upon these dirty, ignorant people as our brothers.

Yet, when we look back at history we find that when the Apostle Paul sail on his first missionary journey out of Jerusalem, there lived on a group of islands off the western coast of Europe white savages eating the flesh of each other, worshipping the sun and moon.

But, as the years passed, missionaries came to these islands and today we call these islands the British Isles and these once white savages are your forefathers and mine.—The Kay Co-Operator (Blackwell, Okla.)

We'd much rather listen to an echo than a gossip, because an echo repeats what you say.

PARALLEL TERRACES—Aerial view of parallel terraces shown above was constructed for farming ease thus saving point rows and for water conservation. Parallel terraces go well with our modern farming operations today and are being used by all County Soil Conservation District.

Parallel Terraces Are Becoming More And More Popular In County

Farmers and ranchers in the Hall County Soil Conservation District are showing a growing interest in converting regular terraces to parallel terraces, according to Keith of the Soil Conservation Service.

During the first six months of the current fiscal year, 64,000 acres of parallel terraces have been completed on the farms of O. Egan of Turkey, Homer Smith of Memphis, and Jay and Sam Eudy of Turkey.

Parallel terraces are designed and constructed for farming ease. The main advantage of parallel terraces over regular type terraces: Parallel terraces are the same distance apart, thus eliminating point rows in the farming operation.

Converting regular terrace systems to parallel terraces can be cost shared by The Great Plains Conservation Program.

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Precinct No. 4, and from this date will actively campaign for the office I seek. I want to serve my precinct as County Commissioner, and will appreciate all the help and support which will be given to me in the months to come.

I am no stranger to the people of Turkey and the surrounding area as I was born six and one-half miles southeast of Turkey and have spent all my life in this precinct with the two years while I served in the U. S. Navy during World War II. I am up-to-date on the immediate problems which we all face, especially those of our precinct, as far as county affairs are concerned. You all know me and realize the kind of man I am, which means that if you decide to elect me your Commissioner that I will do my level best to carry out your wishes.

There are many things which I will be discussing with you in the months to come before the first primary. Meanwhile, I take this means of letting you know I am in the race, and want you to realize that I will appreciate all the help I can get and will try to repay my debt, if you decide you want me to serve you, by doing everything I can as your voice on the Commissioners Court of our county.

Sincerely,
Bill Lane

Methodist Women Meet To Begin New Study Mon.

The Alpha and Oliver circles of the Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the church annex February 7 at 9:30 a. m. in initial study of 'Mission: The Christian's Calling.'

Mrs. M. G. Tarver, secretary of missionary education, is the leader for the study, which will continue each Monday morning through the month of February.

A worship setting depicted the challenge as set forth in Exodus 4:2 and the goal for the study.

In introducing the theme, Mrs. Tarver pointed out a new direction in mission study in that, for the first time in the modern missionary movement, not only the professional Christian but the every day layman is seen as a "missionary" for the church.

Assisting in the first session of study were Mrs. David Hamblin, pianist and secretary, Mmes. L. G. DeBerry and W. M. McMaster bringing topics of case history from the study booklet "Mission as Decision" and Mrs. Lee Brown concluding the session with a meditation "Life as Summons and Commitment" from the writing of Dr. Harvey Pothoff, professor of Christian Theology, Iliff School of Theology, Denver, Colorado.

Attending the first study session other than above mentioned were Mmes. Bill Coursey, Sarah Hill, W. F. McElreath, J. C. Nix, Myrtis Phelan, Lloyd Becker, Bob Fowler, Cyril Keith, Bob Hutcherson and Carl Morris.

Mrs. Wherry Is Hostess Mon. To Reapers SS Class

Mrs. R. H. Wherry was hostess to the Reapers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church which met in her home February 7 at 3 p. m.

The meeting was called to order by the first vice president, Mrs. Emma Baskerville. The opening prayer was then led by Mrs. Fitzjarrald. After the devotional taken from Proverbs 4:14-27 was given by Mrs. Margaret Holcomb, the class song, "Bringing in the Sheaves" was sung.

During the business session, the secretary, treasurer, courtesy chairman, and groups captains gave their reports. The president,

LVN Club Meets For Regular Meeting Monday

The LVN Club met at the Big O Restaurant Monday night in regular session.

Mrs. Crabb, resigned because of health, and Mrs. Baskerville was elected to take her place. Mrs. Grace Diggs was elected first vice president.

Mrs. Baskerville then introduced Mrs. Grace Foxhall, who gave a very interesting story, "Decision Beyond Common Sense" by Grace Ousler. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Nettie Adams.

Delicious refreshments were served to one guest, Mrs. Grace Foxhall, and the following members: Mmes. Emma Calhoun, Maude Fitzjarrald, Sachie Watson, Grace Duke, Emma Baskerville, Edna Gilreath, Alla Boswell, Nettie Adams, Margaret Holcomb, Hulda Wilson, and the hostess, Mrs. Wherry.

The next meeting will be March 7 at 3 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Grace Duke.

During the business meeting, it was announced that the president of the Texas LVN Association, Marquita Galley of San Angelo had been invited to meet with the club about Feb. 24. She will be in Amarillo then to address graduate nurses.

Any registered nurse who may be interested in attending this luncheon to hear her speak are asked to contact Mable Lavendar for reservations.

The purpose of the meeting will be to form a district LVN association in Memphis. Mrs. Bernie McIntush said. The nearest associations are now in Amarillo and Vernon.

"We want to stress the fact that no one will be obligated to join the club," she said. "This is strictly for anyone who is interested in the nursing profession."

Those attending the meeting Monday night were Alma Hemphill, Grace Wise, Emma Wright, Mabel Lavendar, Genevieve Lynn and Bernie McIntush.

The annual value of shipments from primary timber manufacturing plants in Texas is $211,700,000 in addition to $114,800,000 value in shipments annually from secondary manufacturers.

Big O Is Scene For Meeting Of Culture Club

The Woman's Culture Club met February 2 at the Big "O" Restaurant with Mrs. L. A. Stilwell as hostess.

A short business session was conducted by the president, Miss Sybil Gurley.

Mrs. Frank Ellis, program chairman, introduced the program, "Southwest Issues." The quotation by Shenstone, "Variety is the principal ingredient in beauty; and simplicity is essential to grandeur," was read by Mrs. Ellis.

"Land and Politics" was discussed by Mrs. Jeanette Irons. She told the story of Chrystal Collins, who became rich buying and selling land in Arizona. The land was covered with sagebrush, cacti, and sand. This land was sold by letter. Chrystal Collins said that she was selling beauty, not land.

In politics, Mrs. Irons told the amount of tax return to Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arizona from the Federal Government, Federal Government in education, and the interest college students are taking in politics.

Mrs. Theodore Swift discussed "Indian Culture." She said that no one knows where the Indians who are living in the Southwest came from. They were here when Columbus came. There are two million acres of land in the reservation, but these Indians have always lived in this part of the country and have always stayed in this dry land.

Indian art is remarkable in vigor and diversity. The blankets, baskets, dolls, and jewelry are all designed beautifully. The dolls are used in worship ceremonies.

Mrs. Swift also told about the best educated town, Los Alamos. This is a town of 13,500 people, over 5,000 children, no slums, and few old people. This town exists solely for the Atomic Energy Commission. For recreation, the people can go fishing, mountain climbing, and enjoy the Indian Culture.

During the social, refreshments were served to Mmes. Nat Bradley, R. E. Clark, Frank Ellis, Clifford Farmer, Bert Glascock, Ward Gurley, Jeanette Irons, Robert Mosa, L. G. Rasco, Theodore Swift, Misses Sybil Gurley and Alma Bruce and the hostess, Mrs. L. A. Stilwell.

Julius Stevens Is Training For Game Warden

Julius H. Stevens, of 700 South 8th St., Memphis, is one of 20 men training now for a position with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department as a Texas Game Warden.

The men were first briefed at a series of headquarters meetings. They then began a 17-week course at Texas A&M University covering everything from law enforcement, public relations, trial procedures and wildlife management to first aid and boating safety, all under the general supervision of the veteran Department staffer, Bob Evins.

Richard Avery Attends Meet In Washington, D. C.

Rev. Richard Avery, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was in Washington, D. C., last week to attend a study seminar on the Christian Farmer and His Government.

The seminar was held on February 1 through the 3 with headquarters at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Approximately 33 people from 15 states representing 8 denominations attended the session. Over half of those in attendance were farmers.

The study was roughly divided into four sessions, Rev. Avery stated. There were: 1. Policies of the major national farm organizations; 2. Policies related to the Department of Agriculture; 3. Meetings with the Senate and House Agriculture committees, and 4. International issues on food and agriculture.

Texans Will Vote On 16 Amendments

Texans will have a heavier general election ballot next November than usual with the appearance of 16 proposed Constitutional Amendments on the voting agenda.

In a public drawing in Austin, Secretary of State Crawford C. Martin drew numbers from a hat to determine the sequence in which the amendments will appear on the November 8 ballot.

At the top of the ballot, getting the Number One designation, is the amendment "to provide that all land owned by natural persons designated for agricultural use shall be assessed for all tax purposes on the consideration of only factors relative to such agricultural use."

Other proposed amendments are less confusing in their text. Some of the others, and their number on the ballot, are:

Abolishment of the poll tax (Number 7), allowing members of the Armed Forces who are residents of Texas to vote (Number 14) and $200,000,000 in water developments (Number 11).

All together, the proposed amendments contain about 14,300 words.

Q. And A. Column Income Tax

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q.—What kind of records should I keep for my income tax return, that I might have to produce if I'm audited.

A.—Keep whatever you need to substantiate the income and deductions on your return. Cancelled checks, paid bills, Forms W-2 and 1099, bank books and similar records will be helpful.

Q.—Why is my wife's Social Security number so important on a joint tax return. Most of the income comes from my salary.

A.—According to the law your wife should show her account number on your joint return if she had: (1) separate gross income of $600 or more, or $1200 or more if she was 65 or more before the end of the taxable year, or (2) self-employment income, or (3) separate income, such as wages, dividends, or interest, paid to her which the payer is required to report on a return or statement of information.

If the necessary account numbers are not on a return the matching can not be done, necessitating correspondence with the taxpayer. Failure to include your wife's number will delay the processing of your return and any refund due.

Q.—I am retired and have no taxable income. Can I still file a joint return with my wife who is still working?

A.—Yes. The fact that either the husband or the wife had no income does not prevent them from filing a joint return.

Q.—I paid up the mortgage on my home early but was charged a pre-payment penalty. Is that deductible?

A.—Yes, it is deductible as interest if you itemize your deductions.

Q.—When can I start excluding sick pay?

A.—There are two rules governing when and how much sick pay may be excluded from income for federal tax purposes.

First, if the amount you receive as sick pay is more than 75 per cent of your weekly rate of pay, there is a 30 day waiting period before you are entitled to a sick-pay exclusion.

If the amount you receive is 75 per cent or less, the waiting period is 7 days unless you are hospitalized for at least one day during your absence from work. In that event, there is no waiting period. The exclusion is limited to $75.00 per week fare the part of the first 30-day period in which you are entitled to the exclusion. After that, it becomes $100.00 per week.

Q.—My husband and I have separated. Who is entitled to claim the children as dependents?

A.—The children may be claimed as dependents by the person who provides more than half their support during the taxable year. Whether this person is you or your husband depends on the financial arrangements worked out between you.

Q.—I have inherited $2,000 from my father's estate. Will I have to report this on my return?

A.—No, inheritances are not taxable income.

Q.—How much can I deduct for state gas tax this year?

A.—On page 9 of the 1040 instruction booklet you will find the amount that may be deducted for gasoline tax on a state-by-state basis.

Q.—What's the law on estimated tax? Who has to file a declaration?

A.—In general terms, taxpayers are required to file a Declaration of Estimated Income Tax, Form 1040ES, and make quarterly payments of estimated tax when their tax liability is expected to exceed their withholding by $40 or more. See page 6 of the 1040 instructions for further information.

Q.—My income last year was just over $6,000 with about $200 of it coming from dividends and interest. My wife earned nearly $1,000 doing survey work and a little commission selling. What would be best for us—a joint return or separate ones?

A.—This sort of question usually can't be answered on the basis of income information alone. The amount of your deductible expenses has to be considered.

Generally, a joint return is most advantageous for married couples. However, you should figure your tax both ways and then file the way that results in the lower tax.

Q.—Are Social Security taxes deductible?

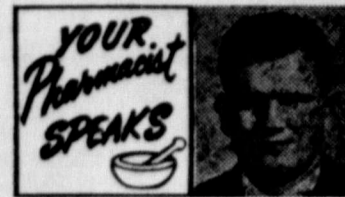

A.—No, they are not deductible by the employee. The employer may deduct his share as a business expense, however.

Q.—I am entitled to alimony.

Do I have to pay tax on it?

A.—Yes, you do. Alimony is taxable income to the recipient and a deductible item for the payer. Child support payments, however, are neither taxable nor deductible.

Are you an insomniac? If you are regularly cold-shouldered when wooing Morpheus, here are a few hints which may make sleep come more easily.

Try a long walk before bedtime and, time and weather permitting, engage in mild sports or other activities which will cultivate a pleasant but physical tiredness. Warm baths sometimes turn the trick, if not, try a cool tub or shower. Simple ear plugs may help if you are unduly sensitive to noise, but if you are light-sensitive an eye-mask is worth a try.

The important thing, however is not to fight insomnia. Accept it; philosophically, if you must, but don't let it prey on you. Don't just lie there... do something about it. Get up. Read. Watch the late-late shows. Perform a few simple tasks.

If it's any consolation, you'll find plenty of wide-awake service in our filling of prescriptions. BOOKS NEEDED—An appeal was made this week by the librarian of Memphis High School, Ann Cox, for donation of books or money to purchase new books for the school library. Many of the books formerly in the library have completely worn out and have had to be discarded. Miss Cox looks on, above, as two student library assistants, Elmonette Branigan and Lynn Philpot, work repairing some of the old books in order that they may be used as long as possible by the students. Those who would like to help with the project of replenishing the library should contact Miss Cox at the High School.

Memphis High School and Junior High School Libraries would be grateful to you if you would gather them up and donate them to the Libraries.

At the present time, the school libraries, especially the Junior High School, are very badly in need of new books, according to Ann Cox, librarian.

In recent weeks many books in both the high school and junior high school have had to be discarded because they were simply worn out, Miss Cox stated.

When we visited the high school library Tuesday evening, two senior girls were busily engaged in repairing old books. But, books can only be patched and mended to a certain point and they are no longer usable.

Recently when students in the junior high school were given assignments of reading a book and making a report on it there was not enough books to go around. Books had to be carried from the high school library in order for the students to do their class room assignment.

Miss Cox said they could use most any type book in the library. We need books of fiction, histories, poetry, career books, travel books, foreign language books, especially Spanish, and biographies.

We would also appreciate any donations of money that individuals, clubs or organizations might like to make, she said.

KEEPING SMALL BUSINESSES HEARD

All Business Administration for destruction upon to place it within both bureaucracy of the Department of Commerce. I have that there are too many bureaus, and agencies in Government—and I have been critical of the Small Business Administration for its powers and for its heavy on big city. But the fact remains of the Federal Government. The Small Business Administration speaks for the small man. I believe the SBA is preserved as an independent and not buried in the Department. It needs to be improving, it needs to do better what it is to do, but it should be as part of the concentration of Government.

All businessman is too overlooked victim of ineffectiveness in Government economy. The danger of Government, Big Business, is a subject of great concern. It is a very real danger which is a ruinous business competition. Government has had to cover and over as the general recognition that entrepreneur is—all our history—a basic strength in our economic system. I'm opposed to submerging the Small Business Administration in the vast bureaucracy of the Commerce Department. Although I've been frequently critical of SBA policies as not being fully responsive to small businessmen's problems, the agency has maintained its independence and does report directly to the President.

As of now, it is not susceptible to policy misdirection by a large Department where big fish might seek to devour the small.

Centralization is a danger at all levels of Government. We have witnessed—to the deep regret of many of us—the diminution of the Constitutional doctrine of separation of powers. States and cities have lost their influence as power has shifted to Washington, and our efforts to reverse the trend meet with little success. Now a very dangerous new power axis is forming—that between the big Federal Government and the biggest U. S. cities. This is a form of centralization with which we're familiar. Another kind takes place within the Federal Government structure. This is the kind that resulted in putting together unrelated departments during the Eisenhower Administration to form the cabinet-rank Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. HEW, as it called, is a roodge-podge of activities and only the most far-fetched argument would support the idea that the U. S. Public Health Service, the Office of Education, and the Social Security Administration (not to mention other functions under the HEW wing) have any business being included under the same centralized administration. This error, despite my objections and those of others, was repeated last year when separate and independent agencies of the Government were lumped together to create the new cabinet-rank Department of Housing and Urban Development. Although its activities are more closely allied in purpose than those of Health, Education, and Welfare, the new department (called "HUD," for short) is going to pose problems common to any organization with a centralized administration and set of policies. For example, HUD in my view threatens to concentrate so heavily on urban matters that its responsibilities in rural and semi-rural areas may suffer. Voices speaking for small interests must be preserved in this Government. The Department of Agriculture, originally the voice of the farmer, is now concerned with its "image" to the extent that its 1965 Yearbook of Agriculture, "Consumers All," is not aimed any more at farmers than it is to city dwellers. In its own way, every Department is concerned about city support—and it is a continuing fight to see that large urban interests and bigness generally don't prove overwhelming.

C. C. Yates Is Candidate For Commissioner

C. C. (Nubbin) Yates of Turkey authorized The Memphis Democrat to announce that he was a candidate for the office of Commissioner, Precinct No. 4 of Hall County. His candidacy is subject to the outcome of the polls of the Democratic primaries.

In making his intention known, Mr. Yates issued the following statement: "To the Citizens of Precinct 4, Hall County:

"After giving the matter much thought for several weeks, and at the suggestion and urging on a large number of my friends in and around Turkey, I have decided to enter the race for Commissioner and read.

Plans and specifications including minimum wage rates as provided by Law are available at the office of William Collier, Resident Engineer, Childress, Texas, and Texas Highway Department, Austin. Usual rights reserved. 39-2c of Prec. No. 4.

"I am a long-time resident of Turkey, and know our problems. It has been my privilege to have worked 10 years for Hall County under three former Commissioners and the present incumbent. This practical experience, in my opinion, qualified me for the office I seek.

I urge every voter in my precinct to give me careful consideration in the months to come as you decide who you want to be your next Commissioner.

"If I am elected, I have only one promise to make, and that is: To devote my full time to the job. Also, I will try to work with other officials of my county and cooperate with them in handling and solving the overall problems, not only in my precinct but over the county as a whole.

"Before the First Democratic Primary on May 7, 1966, I shall make an effort to see as many of you as I can, and will welcome the opportunity to discuss my candidacy. I will carefully consider any and all suggestions which are offered.

"Meantime, I will certainly appreciate your support in this race; and, if elected, will do my best to make you a good Commissioner. Respectfully submitted, C. C. (Nubbin) Yates"
