Guidelines Mailed To County Farmers

Production Guidelines for agricultural enterprises will be mailed to 782 Hall County farmers in the mail this week. The guidelines, prepared by the county Extension Service, cover production of cotton, sorghum, wheat, oats and barley, and other hay, for production of livestock enterprises. They also include information on range and swine production and are to be mailed to Hall County farmers by April 15, it was announced by the office of County Extension Director W. B. Hooser.

The guidelines represent a joint effort by local Extension Service and county Extension operators in the county to provide up-to-date information that will enable them to improve their level of production. The set of guidelines provides information for a single livestock enterprise. They include the latest information on research and local results and have been prepared with the assistance of Extension Service specialists at Texas A&M University.

The various agricultural subcommittees of the Hall County Extension Building Committee have had an active part in developing the guidelines. County Agent Hooser said, "Members of these subcommittees have been urging the farmers to study the guidelines that concern with specific crops and livestock enterprises."

The guidelines have been developed. (Continued on Page 10)

Farmers To Measure Own Crops In 1967

The familiar acreage reporter (measuring man) will be missing after 34 years from most Hall County farms in 1967. The measuring of crops with the extra employees used during the summer months has become an institution in farm program operations. As most farmers will be required to measure and report their seeded acreage in 1967, there will be changes in ASCS office operations for 1967. The only exception to the farmer measuring his own crops will be the farms continuing to have land under Soil Bank contracts. On the CR farms, the contract requires the farm to be measured each year by the ASCS. All farms, other than the farmer with part of his farm under CR contracts, will be mailed a photocopy of their cropland this week to assist them in measuring their 1967 crops. Assistance in this work can be obtained at the county office as additional personnel has been employed to assist producers in determining the areas to be seeded. The ASCS office also will have field personnel available to measure crop acreage before or after seeding on a fee basis. The final reporting date for wheat will be April 30, 1967, and all farms on which wheat is seeded should make plans to meet the closing date.

Occupational Survey To Be Conducted Here Next Week

Several Memphis business men and members of the local Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development will conduct a survey of Memphis business firms next week, it was announced today. The survey is in cooperation with a request of Supt. of Schools A. E. Greer on the need for additional vocational training in the Memphis School system. The Vocational Education Act of 1963 provides that before a program of vocational education may be implemented under the act, the need and opportunity for employment in the vocation will be established. The first step in establishing this need is the completion of a comprehensive survey to determine the availability of employment opportunity in the community concerned. An initial planning conference with the business men was held last week. Meeting with local school and business men was a representative of the Program Development Staff of the Texas Education Agency. Memphis business men are assured that the information obtained by the surveying team will be kept in confidence and will not leave Memphis. The total number and projected needs for new employees are the most important data collected during the survey. Occupations covered by the survey include: agricultural, distribution, health, home economics, industrial, office, technical and public service. Supt. Greer said that the results of the surveys will be consolidated into a single set of data sheets which will tabulate the total findings of the occupational survey. These will be delivered to Austin for final review and evaluation. The results of the staff analysis of the survey data will be published in bound form and an adequate supply of the publication will be provided for Memphis. Business men are asked to co-operate. Church Attendance Campaign Begins Sun.

The City-wide Church and Bible School Attendance Campaign gets underway this coming Sunday, March 5. The majority of the local churches are cooperating in this attendance program. Rev. Tom Posey, president of the local ministerial alliance and chairman of the attendance campaign, announced Wednesday that churches are planning a special city-wide emphasis for Saturday afternoon but declined to say what it was. The churches are planning other forms of promotion later in the month. The theme for the campaign is "All For Christ." Over 200 streamers and posters are presently displayed in the business houses of most local merchants. Present members of the cooperating churches are encouraged to wear lapel stickers which say: "I am committed." A large billboard has been erected on the southwest corner of the courthouse lawn which publicizes the theme of the campaign and will also register week by week the total attendance. The large line graph which appears on the billboard will show the increase or decrease week by week. The ministers will meet each Monday afternoon during the month to secure total attendance and to mark the billboard graph. The cooperating churches have set an overall goal of 1,200 average attendance for the entire month with a high attendance of 1,500 on March 26, which is Easter. The ministerial alliance is enlisting the support of all local business men. The Alliance is asking the business men to urge and invite all customers to attend their own churches during the campaign. The attendance campaign has grown out of concern over the failure of Memphis citizens to attend faithfully their respective churches. Rev. Posey announced that "only 35 to 40 per cent of the residents of Memphis attend Sunday School week after week." The campaign will attempt to arouse the interest and concern of the membership of the local churches as well as those who hold no local membership. It will also encourage those who have no local membership to identify themselves with one of the local churches.

Will The Trend Away From The Land Be Reversed?

Melvin Young of The Hereford Brand, posed an interesting question recently when he asked the question, "Will the trend away from the land to cities be reversed during the next decade?"

"As drastic as the occasion would be, it is nevertheless predicted by quite a few national observers who feel that by 1970 food shortages will have become so critical that we will view a complete reversal in attitude regarding farms, farming and farm products," Young stated.

Young goes on to say that by 1970, they tell us that "Rural Boom" should be well underway, hand-in-hand with higher farm market prices and shortages which will bring higher prices as the years roll past. The prediction is based upon population estimates of the nation, which some believe will increase from today's 197 million to 209 million in 1970, and on up past 225 million by 1975.

Fewer farmers, many believe, but the vast difference will appear in a tremendous labor market somewhat similar to that seen in highly industrialized areas which have drawn heavily from America's rural population during the past 25 years. More mechanization is seen by many economists, but tractors are not practical without drivers and someone must push the buttons on new-fangled push-button equipment. Keeping the equipment in good condition and repaired is always a big problem, and one which requires community shops as well as farm labor.

The picture being painted of farming operations in the future seem to be what has been seen in the past few years in farming operations all over the Panhandle area. In highly developed irrigation areas, like Hereford, the experiments into vegetable producing have already won a place for that area in existing marketing networks and sales systems. Farmers all over the nation will be called upon to become efficient business men, progressive operators and intelligent citizens. Larger tracts, systematic experimental tests and calculated returns will definitely transform the average farm into a highly developed and competitive business institution.

What Young says about Deaf Smith County is true in many areas. What farmers cannot stand but benefit in a time of high prices and food shortages.

We have seen in our own area a steady increase in irrigation wells which help to carry the farming operations over periods of dry weather. What the future will hold for area farming may well lie in the hands of our farmers as they decide upon food and fiber crops. It has always been an economic fact: when demand exceeds the supply available, then the price paid for the raw product climbs.

Hall County has one project going on now which will go a long way toward improving and insuring the fertility of our soil for future years. This is the Lakeview Watershed project. Now being planned at a cost of from $3.5 to $4 million are some 16 flood water retention dams and many miles of channel improvements in the north central portion of Hall County. Survey work on this project, begun in the summer of 1966 is expected to be completed soon.

For years now, flood waters have destroyed and damaged crops in the Lakeview Watershed, hurting the economy of the area and taking valuable top soil to Red River. By controlling and channeling flood waters some of our most valuable land can be utilized to its maximum potential.

If predictions of stepped up farming operations within the next decade come to pass, we will be happy indeed to see the farmer once again elevated to a position which he well deserves. America's ability to produce farm commodities has long marked us as an outstanding nation in the world. Lack of ability has held Russia and numerous other countries down for many years. Consequently, it seems to us that the American farmer should also gain much in political and economic stature as the demand for his products continues to expand and grow.

Looks Can Be Deceiving

"But he didn't look like a crook," the lady who has been bled wails in disbelief, "he was so nice looking, so sincere and personable. I just can't believe it."

But you can, lady, yes you can. Because your money is gone and so is the nice looking, sincere and personable gentleman. And because he gave you such a snow job you are of little help in providing information that would aid in catching him.

Apparently the reason so many people get gypped by con artists is that they think a crook always look like those they see on television or in the movies. He's swarthy of complexion, shifty eyed eagle beaked, wears a hat with lid far down over the face and is as nervous as a cat on a hot tin roof.

We once knew an honorable and highly respected bank president who fit this description to a T, but we've never known a crook who did. Of course we haven't known many crooks in our time, but the few we have known or whose paths crossed ours, were usually nice looking, very personable, natty dressers and mighty glib of tongue.

Aside from the TV and movie image we have of crooks, some envision them as the old-fashioned panhandler with some physical handicap who sits on the sidewalk in dirty clothes and with dark glasses and a tin cup plays on the sympathy of innocent passersby.

He's changed too. The modern day panhandler is slicked up and probably has his air conditioned pink Cadillac parked just around the corner.

The man with a hot check to cash isn't the shifty, furtive glancing con artist of the past. He has a practiced air of self assurance and simply oozes with self confidence. So much that it is unthinkable that anyone would question his integrity. He likely blows smoke from an expensive cigar in your face while you're exchanging your money for a worthless slip of paper.

Or he's a new customer who puts on a big front and wins you over, or awes you, with his glib tongue and affable manner.

One thing that these gyp artists have in common is that they never look the part. At least they never look the part that coincides with what you think crooks look like. You'll never see them on television because they don't fit the characteristic of a crook. —The Lewisville Leader

The Man with a Big Shirt
A boy needs a shirt tail to hang onto.

That was Cal Farley's favorite prescription for boys in trouble, and Cal spent a big part of his life providing that shirt.

Before he was finished, it had become a very big shirt indeed . . . big enough for a whole lot of boys to hang onto . . . and it's known far and wide as Boys Ranch.

In the beginning it was Cal Farley's shirt . . . and almost literally, sometimes, the shirt off his back.

But perhaps Cal Farley's greatest contribution was his unexcelled ability to persuade other men . . . by the hundreds and ment . . . Boys Ranch at Old Tascosa. Many people contributed generously to Boys Ranch, but it was Cal Farley, the great showman and master salesman who persuaded them to do it and provided the boundless energy and limitless love for boys which got the project off the ground and kept it rolling.

Cal Farley died Sunday morning . . . and he couldn't have planned it better himself. For Cal died, as he had lived in recent years, with his boys . . . as he was preparing to attend Sunday School with the youngsters at Boys Ranch.

Cal Farley leaves a mighty big vacancy . . . in the hearts of his boys, and in the hearts of his friends all over the Panhandle and all over the nation.

But he also leaves a mighty big shirt tail . . . big enough for a lot of boys to hang onto . . . and this will be his monument. Cal wouldn't have asked for a finer one. —The Canadian Record

Once nematodes get at your cotton, yields go down and so do profits. But with FUMAZONE® 86 soil fumigant applied at only 1 to 2 gallons overall an acre, you can take care of root-knot, sting, meadow and other nematodes—those microscopic, worm-like soil pests that attack plant roots, suck away profits. FUMAZONE 86 soil fumigant increases yields up to 1/2 bale an acre. Many High Plains farmers just like yourself tell us that's exactly what happened to their yields after their soils were treated with FUMAZONE 86. It can be applied right from the drum. No mixing, no diluting, no nozzles clogged with foreign material. You can use the chisel method, the plowsole method or inject FUMAZONE 86 into your irrigation water. Could you ask for greater flexibility? Sure you could. So here it is. Apply FUMAZONE 86 before planting, at planting or after planting. It's the only type of soil fumigant that can be used on living plants. Ask your Dow farm chemicals supplier about it. L. H. Blum Has Three Sets Of Twin Calves

The L. H. Blum cattle stocks of Floydada are going up in a hurry... he's developing a type of cow that gives birth to twins... in fact he has three sets of twins on his farm five miles north of Dougherty at the present time, according to relatives here.

Mr. Blum, who is a former resident of Memphis, is the uncle of Melvin and Jackie Blum and Mrs. Clifton Neeley of Memphis and brother-in-law of Mrs. Henry Blum.

It seems Blum's "twin good fortune" began back in 1952 when he bought a cow over at Lubbock that gave birth to twins and since then it seems to continue in this cross strain of cattle.

The cow that gave birth to the heifer twins last week is a repeater as she gave birth to twin black heifers about two years ago.

Blum has another cow with a couple of yearling black twin calves... so he has three sets of twin calves, all healthy and growing.

Blum moved to the Dougherty area in 1928 and moved into Floydada in 1961. He said he had always kept a few cows on the place and found cattle raising profitable even before the "twin calves era."

Estelline PTA To Enjoy Operetta March 7

Highlighting Public School Week, an operetta, "Season of Happiness", will be presented at the regular meeting of the Estelline PTA on Tuesday, March 7, at 7:00 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Estelline High School auditorium.

The operetta will be presented by grades one through six and is under the direction of Mrs. Charles Floyd and Mrs. Patty Nivens.

Mrs. Jimmy Gibson, president of the organization, stated that much effort has been put into the musical production by Mrs. Floyd and Mrs. Nivens, as well as all of the elementary teachers. Many elaborate costumes will add to the entertainment. Mrs. Gibson extends a cordial invitation to anyone who would like to attend. There will be no admission and refreshments will be served in the school cafeteria after the meeting.

Voyles invited the audience on a tour of the new high school facilities following the close of the meeting. He also urged the group to invite others in the community to the official open house, slated for March 12.

Mrs. C. D. Morris, Austin principal, then introduced members of her faculty and one retired teacher, Miss Maud Milam, who was present for the occasion. Members of the Travis faculty also were introduced.

Mrs. Clark presented the guest speaker, R. B. Phillips, who discussed the Memphis school budget for 1966-67. He distributed copies of the budget to each person present and carefully explained each item. Phillips said that Supt. A. E. Greer and the school board worked closely together to see that the taxpayers' dollars were invested wisely for the best results possible in school operation.

The speaker itemized revenue available from local, county, state and federal sources. He explained that the 1966 tax rate is figured on the basis of $1.40. Ninety cents of this is put into the maintenance fund and fifty cents is used for debt service rate, interest and sinking fund.

Phillips then explained estimated expenditures, including administration, instruction, health services, food service and student body activities. Including capital outlay and debt services, Phillips noted that the total estimated expenditures for the year are $912,192.00.

In conclusion the speaker expressed his thanks to the interested citizens and taxpayers who made the building of the new high school possible through their support of the school board's proposals.

Following adjournment, Principal Voyles conducted members of the audience on a guided tour of the beautiful new facilities. Beginning in the auditorium, he demonstrated that the large room's address system is engineered to be heard equally well anywhere, front or back. The group inspected the large stage and extensive lighting system, as well as the basement storage room.

Typical classrooms were visited next. Of special interest were the glass partitioned areas at the backs of the rooms which can be used for teacher-student conferences, extra help, etc. without disturbing class.

The spacious library and adjoining study hall were shown to be highly appreciated by the students, who are reading more all the time, according to principal Voyles.

One of the outstanding features of the school is the ultra-modern science laboratory and adjoining lecture room. The laboratory tables can also be converted to desks for regular classroom work, and the teacher has a special lab demonstration desk. A similar desk is in the lecture room. Mrs. Robert Clark, Austin PTA president, called the meeting to order and introduced Clinton Voyles, high school principal, who welcomed the group. He expressed his thanks to the mothers for creating good study habits in their children while in grade school, and stated that this foundation resulted in a successful high school student.

Another unique feature of the lab is an exhaust system which takes out experiment fumes.

Another department especially appreciated by the women in the group was the homemaking section. The modern sewing machines and kitchen equipment were the objects of much attention, as well as the beautiful woodwork in the kitchen area.

The hand rooms are also well equipped and spacious enough for a large group of music students. The gymnasium was the final stop on the tour, and equally as well received by the PTA group. Permanent and rollaway bleachers can accommodate 800 people. The ultra-modern scoreboard was also noted.

As the group went through the halls, Voyles pointed out other features, such as the use of color to create beauty and practicality; screen barricades which can be let down during events such as basketball games to control hall traffic; different color chalkboards; clocks in the hallways, and many other innovations which must be seen to be appreciated.

The tour was enjoyed by all present, and Mrs. Clark expressed her appreciation to the principal for his hospitality and helpfulness.

Mrs. C. C. Hodges Is Hosess To Delphians Feb. 21

Mrs. C. C. Hodges entertained the Delphian Club in her home Tuesday, Feb. 21. Mrs. Billy Lockhart assisted with hostess duties.

Mrs. Sim Reeves, president, presided during the business session.

Mrs. R. C. Clements introduced the program "Cultural Heritage". Mrs. Clyde Smith gave the meditation. She stated that culture is to know the best that has been said and thought in the world. It is the habit of being pleased with the best and knowing why. Culture implies good manners. A man cannot lay claim to culture if he is a phoney—if he pretends—if he lies, she concluded.

Miss Maud Milam concluded the program with "Washington's National Cathedral". She said, "Washington National Cathedral, a house of prayer, thrusts heavenward from a 57-acre area, atop the capitol's Mount St. Alban. Although the magnificent cathedral is only 2/3 finished, its 301 ft. bell tower has already made the church one of the three great landmarks of the Washington skyline. When work on the vast Gothic Cathedral is completed around 1985, it will be the sixth largest cathedral in the world."

"Last year a half million people visited the church, either to attend one of its 1800 services or to observe the progress of construction. The building is intimately tied to history. It has been raised stone upon stone by individual contributions alone. People give their talents, too. The massive iron hinges that support and decorate the great oak doors at the south entrance are the work of a Philadelphia craftsman. One thousand women have volunteered their fingers to tell the Christian story in thread. Once complete the cathedral will last two thousand years without major repairs," she concluded.

Delicious refreshments were served to: Mmes. Clyde Smith, J. L. Barnes, Cyril Keith, J. S. McMurry, Gaylen Ariola, W. C. Dickey, Abe Anisman, Neal Hindman, Mildred Stephens, C. C. Hodges, R. H. Wherry, F. A. Finch, R. C. Clements, Sim Reeves, Henry Hays, Roddy Bice, Joe Bob Browning, Jack B. Boone, Jack Boone and Miss Maud Milam.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Stilwell attended the Boys Basketball Tournament at the Municipal Coliseum in Lubbock Saturday. Their grandson, Kent Lindsey, is a guard on the Dimmitt Bobcat team which won the Regional I Class AA Championship at the tournament. Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell then visited in Dimmitt Saturday night in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lindsey and family.

Wesleyan Guild Meets Feb. 27

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church met Monday night, Feb. 27, in the church annex.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. A. O. Gidden. Mrs. Mabel Lavender gave the opening prayer.

Mrs. Robert Spicer was the program leader using as her topic for discussion "The Christian and Space". She stated that the purposes of this program were to encourage personal reflection on the meaning a modern man and scientist can give his life in this ever-changing world and to consider what the relationship between science and Christian faith can and should be.

Mrs. Barney Burnett and Mrs. Hester Bownds presented a panel discussion concerning some of the beliefs of Dr. Hugh L. Dryden who was a scientist of great vision and integrity. He was a humanist with deep insight and a Methodist with firm faith. The church must be concerned with the ethical use of the products of science and technology, and its views must be based on the intelligent assessment of all facts, they pointed out. But, as in the past, the church's primary task is the salvation of man from himself. The problem before the church is that of awakening men and women to a sense of personal responsibility and to inspire the highest sense of devotion to human welfare, they concluded. Mrs. John Fowler gave the closing meditation.

The hostesses, Mrs. Ruby Compton and Mrs. A. Gidden, served delicious refreshments to the following: Mmes. Phaeton

Alexander, Rhupert Wynne, Morris, Mable Lavender, Bownds, Barney Burnett, A. Gidden, Lillie Messer, Ola John Fowler, Robert Spicer, Misses Ophelia Haynes and D. Gowan.

Save Your Vision Week Is March 5-11; Tips On Eyes Given By Dr. Jack Rose

The senior citizen, concerned or alarmed about his changing vision and fearing that his eyes might be "wearing out," will be relieved to know that — assuming they are healthy and free of disease — his eyes can continue to serve him efficiently throughout his life.

Dr. Jack L. Rose, Memphis Optometrist of the Texas Optometric Association, reports, "there is no scientific evidence whatsoever to support the belief that the use of healthy eyes under proper conditions will damage them in any way. With proper care and regular vision examinations, a senior citizen can continue using his eyes almost exactly as he has all of his life."

Dr. Rose made the statement in conjunction with the annual observance of Save Your Vision Week, March 5-11. Purpose of the event is to urge all citizens to give special attention to their vision and ways to preserve and protect it.

One thing the optometrist recommends is that senior citizens take an "eye break" as they would a coffee break. "There is no need to cut down on tv viewing, reading, or sewing," he said, "providing you let your eyes relax from time to time."

"There are 18½ million men and women over 65 in the United States," Dr. Rose said, "and these people are understandably concerned with every phase of their health. It is true that as we increase in years many changes take place in our vision. Optical science has done much to help us adjust to these changes."

"In later maturity," Dr. Rose continued, "the most common change noticed is an inability to focus on close work. This is technically known as presbyopia, and practically no one passes 50 without exhibiting some evidence of it. The condition occurs when, with age, the lens inside the eye becomes less elastic and is unable to change shape as it did in youth. The result is a difficulty in focusing. Some people confuse the condition with being 'far-sighted', but the two are not the same."

"Happily, we now have optometric assistance available even for advanced forms of presbyopia when almost no ability to change focus exists," the optometrist continued. "The most common relief provided for presbyopia at its onset is bifocals or reading glasses. Trifocals too have been a great boon in alleviating the symptoms of this condition."

Dr. Rose stressed the need for regular professional vision examinations as one grows older. "Changes of vision take place so slowly at this age that we scarcely realize it," he said. "A minor discomfort or nervousness when reading, an inability to keep at close work, a gradual dislike of reading or a lack of enjoyment which one used to have, or even an inability to concentrate on written material may all be subtle symptoms of the need of a small lens change. These vague symptoms are many times just blamed on 'old age.' They should, however be thoroughly discussed with a vision specialist."

Another reason for periodic eye examinations is the higher incidence of eye disease — cataracts, glaucoma, and retinal diseases — with increasing age, Dr. Rose, said. Also, valuable indications of general systemic diseases can often be gained by an internal eye examination.

Dr. Rose offered these tips to senior citizens: 1. If necessary, step up your glasses from bifocals to trifocals for more comfortable vision. Discuss your vision problems thoroughly with your vision specialist.

2. Use larger wattage electric light bulbs. They improve your ability to see and provide greater seeing comfort.

3. Stop an hour earlier on long automobile trips, so that you won't be driving at dusk or night.

4. Be particularly careful in low lighted area. Carry a small flash-light; it may serve as well as a cane to keep you from falling over objects at night.

5. Give yourself an "eye break" like you would a coffee break.

6. No one is too old to learn, and maturity makes all learning more meaningful. Attention to small visual problems can greatly help in this process.

7. Have a regular professional vision examination once a year.

Advisors Meet With Rep. Price On Agriculture

Rep. Bob Price of the 18th Congressional District was in Memphis Friday afternoon and met with the advisory committee on agriculture. He had appointed the committee to represent the southeastern segment of the district. Price is a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

The major concern of the advisory committee is to help Rep. Price informed on any problems that may arise concerning agriculture in this eight-county area," a spokesman for the group stated.

Among the many things discussed at this meeting was the low price of cotton and the loss of cotton exports, it was reported. Price expressed the opinion that farmers should be able to plant beans or cane on diverted lands and not be penalized for harvesting. He requested that the committee should consider recommendations of the following: (1) A Bill, (2) Mechanical grading of cotton, (3) Mike readings of cotton, (4) Imports of cotton and beef, (5) Feed grain program.

The committee elected Wayne Anderson of Hall County as chairman, and O. R. Stark, of Briscoe County as secretary. Other members of the southeastern committee are J. McDaniel and Lee Scrivner, of County; J. C. Hartman, Jr., of Collingsworth; Kenneth Ellis, of Childress; Loyd Mayes, of Cottle.

Sale Of Personal Residence Tax Regulations Given

If you sold your home, the tax on any gain realized from this sale is postponed if certain tests are met, said Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for northern Texas.

Further if you are 65 years of age or older, you may be able to sell your home tax-free.

Mr. Campbell added that if within the 2-year period commencing one year before and ending one year after the sale, you buy and occupy another residence, the gain is not taxed at the time of sale if the cost of the new residence equals or exceeds the adjusted sale price of the old residence. You are allowed additional time if you construct a new residence or if you were on active duty in the U. S. armed forces after you sold the residence.

For those 65 years of age or older, if you sold or exchanged your principal residence you may generally elect to exclude from your gross income part or all of the gain on the sale or exchange if (1) you were 65 years of age or older before the date of the sale or exchange and (2) you owned and used the property sold or exchanged as your principal residence for a period, whether continuous or interrupted, of time totaling at least 5 years within the 8-year period ending on the date of such sale or exchange.

Check Your Speed

Speeding should not be confused with driving too fast for conditions, says "Texans for Traffic Safety." If road conditions are such that 20 miles per hour is the maximum safe speed, then a person driving 25 miles per hour is driving too fast for conditions, even though the posted limit may be 30, 45 or even 60 mph.

and County Comments
—By HAC

We are going through the annual first of March trend and reaction in Memphis with the lack of moisture. If I remember, Rayford Hutcherson reported last week that we had received a total of only one-half inch of precipitation since Jan. 1, 1967. This is according to the record. Gene Corley reminded me that we had about 13 inches of snow in February last year, which meant over an inch of water. Now that gardeners are looking at onion plants and are making plans for growing the things which we will eat and enjoy as they bloom, the hoses are beginning to run. The newcomers are worried, but those who have lived here for a long time are taking everything in stride. Even the springtime temperatures are causing no comments.

It is recognized that Hall County's wheat crop will be a disappointment at harvest time. The only gain from it will be the grazing by those who have cattle. They have been disappointed, but admit that the market is holding steady.

In our issue of Jan. 5, my son, Bill Combs, who is editor of this newspaper, wrote a feature story entitled "Population Estimates," which used a recognized formula for estimating the population of our city. Since this was published, a few individuals have accused me and have argued with Bill's estimate. I referred each individual to the original story, and asked that they refute his observation in writing—and that I would publish it. To date no one has handed in any manuscript. Monday, a pessimist (name withheld) sang the blues. I am responsive; so came back to the office and looked up the latest report of the Bureau of Business Research, The University of Texas. The report only lists population of counties, and the formulas used are similar to the ones Bill used in his "Estimate" feature. Here is what I found: Hall County gained 385 persons since the 1960 census. I looked to our neighbor, Childress County. They lost 537 people; then Collingsworth — a loss of 558; Hardeman, lost 341; slight gain in Donley of 72, and on goes the record. These figures, and others, were reported by Byron Baldwin at the last meeting of the C. of C. board meeting. Caused a few grins on the faces of the directors who like good news. In passing, it is not amiss to remind the new administration that the name of our county-wide organization is Memphis Chamber of Commerce and Hall County Board of Development. It is my hope that emphasis will be continued to the county-wide scope of our operation.

And now has arrived in my household, giver unknown, a bird-feeder. My wife tells me that it is supposed to be hung in a tree, bird seed poured into it, and that the hungry birds will light upon the bottom rim, eat—and fly away well stuffed. I surveyed my trees (after digging up 14 of them in past years — mostly Chinese elm) and found only one which met her recommendation. But the limbs are too short and too high. So; the birds may not be fed. Anyway, I don't like English sparrows.

The Lakeview Watershed development is progressing, and will be a "march to the future" as a friend told me this week. As one of the original advocates of what was offered in Public Law 566, way back in 1958, it was my privilege to receive firsthand information along with Lyman Davenport, Oren Jones and others who visioned the future when we visited Sandstone Creek watershed development over in Oklahoma. The Oklahomans have one which has proven its benefits. No one argues with it, as can be attested by the bankers of the area. Here in Hall County, with the slight drainage from the hill country in Donley, is the most perfect example of what Congress recognized when the original law was passed. Hall County has the fertile soil which has been ravaged by the flood waters. The draw-down retention dams above will eliminate the damage which is a matter of record. Engineering is the key to the benefits which will accrue. Those who own land from the Oak Creek watershed on over into Brushy will benefit tremendously as this development progresses.

The annual Future Farmers Week has passed. We are sorry that the last week's edition of this newspaper did not have room to carry the publicity which we had on our desks relating to this occasion. Barney Bevers and Neal Hindman were most cooperative but the lack of space curtailed the publicity. Anyway, when you think of the FFA, think of those who will be growing the food and fiber to feed and clothe a future generation. Give them a "pat on the back."

Sunday, March 5, marks the beginning of the "All For Christ" campaign in Memphis. This is a program, sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance in cooperation with all churches of the city, to increase Sunday School and Bible School attendance. At the present time, only about 1,000 persons in Memphis are attending these schools on Sunday morning. It is hoped by Easter Sunday that a marked increase is recorded. Make plans now to cooperate in this campaign by being present at your church next Sunday morning.

J. Howell Is Named President Of Friends Of Library Chapter Thurs.

A local chapter of Friends of the Library was organized in Memphis Thursday night when H. J. Howell was named as first president of the organization. Approximately 40 interested residents attended the organizational meeting which was held in the Community Center.

W. C. Dickey served as temporary chairman for the meeting which was sponsored by the Atalantean Club of Memphis. Other officers named to serve were: Mr. Howell, president; Mrs. C. Dickey, first vice president; Henry Foster, secretary; Mrs. Greene, treasurer; and Mrs. Rachel Combs, reporter.

Mrs. Peggy Stack of Amarillo was named as the first vice president. Mrs. Green, Amarillo, was named as the first secretary. Some of the functions of the Friends of Libraries to local residents.

Dickey introduced the chairman, Mrs. Beasley, Jr., who in turn introduced Miss Stack and Mrs. Stack who has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Amarillo Chapter of the Friends of the Library, for a number of years explained some of the services being performed by the Amarillo organization.

Miss Stack said that not only is our country undergoing a population explosion, but we are also going as well as a knowledge explosion. That all recorded knowledge doubled from the beginning of time to 1912 and from that date to 1950 it doubled again. But from 1950 to 1960, it had doubled again. . . . so one can see the need for trying to keep abreast of the times.

One of the major money raising projects of the Amarillo Chapter is the sale each year of books. The price ranges from $1.00 to 75 cents and last year the chapter sold over 3,000 books in four hours.

With this money the chapter has microfilmed newspapers for the library, purchased a book return box which has proved to be a big help and assisted the City library in many other ways. One of the advantages for a chapter of Friends of the Library is to acquaint the community of the needs of maintaining a good and up-to-date library, Miss Stack pointed out.

The Chapter also sponsors an adult education group which meets every two weeks to discuss great books. A dinner meeting is held annually.

Mrs. Green explained of the services offered by the Amarillo Library during the question and answer period of the program. Through the state Library service, a new program is being extended smaller libraries from larger cities in an effort to meet the needs of the people. This is in the form of a book loan program.

The next meeting of the Friends of the Library was set for March 30 in the community center. All persons who are interested in the organization are cordially invited to attend, President Howell stated.

Swine Production Is Untapped Source Of Wealth For Area

Swine production is an almost untapped source of better returns for Panhandle agriculture, according to the recently issued Panhandle Economic Program report.

The PEP study indicates increased feeding of cattle, sheep and hogs could increase income from livestock sales $20-million each year.

Texas A&M University Extension livestock specialists say the Golden Spread has a number of advantages over other hog producing areas.

One major problem is that few farmers have the experience and desire to perform the top management job for a successful hog operation.

Advantages listed by the livestock men include a moderate climate that reduces cost of buildings and temperature control, a good market potential because Texas imports more than 70 percent of its pork needs, and an abundance of grain sorghum for feed.

Liquor By The Drink' Is Subject Of Lions Club Program Given By Hindman

Neil Hindman, a delegate from Hall County to the School on Alcohol Studies, sponsored by the Texas Alcohol Narcotic Education, at Baylor University last weekend, presented much of the information he received at the school at the noon meeting of the Memphis Lions Club Wednesday.

The program, entitled "Liquor by the Drink," was informative and well presented, as Hindman used an overhead projector to show appropriate illustrations on the subject matter.

Hindman's expenses to the school were paid by the First Baptist Church, the Association of Baptist Churches and the Women's Missionary Society of the Association.

Hindman pointed out that "if you drove 15,000 miles a year averaging 15 miles per gallon on gasoline (1,000 gallons per year) you would pay $50 in road tax. To pay the same in beer tax, a citizen would have to drink 359.6 gallons of beer in a year (almost one gallon a day) to pay $50 in beer tax to the state.

Alcohol accounts for approximately 50 per cent of all accidents and about 75 per cent of all crimes, Hindman said.

Talking about "Liquor by the Drink," a controversy which developed after Governor Connally introduced the program to the State Legislature, speaker pointed out that there was a definite relationship between traffic accidents and drinking drivers. He said that at least 50 per cent of traffic accidents involve drivers with a positive alcohol content in their blood stream.

Statistics show that in having liquor by the drink that there is a 40 per cent increase in sales.

Hindman said that for $1.00 in liquor taxes collected in Texas today, it cost the state in tax money spent to handle problems created by liquor, as traffic control, crime, homes and alcoholics.
