Memphis Council Adopts 1967-68 Budget of $141,000 Wednesday

Bill Lindsey Is Memphis' New Chief of Police

The Memphis City Council last night hired acting Police Chief Bill Lindsey as Chief of Police. Two policemen were also hired at the same time by the Council. Chief Lindsey took over the City Police Dept. when Tomie Tucker resigned the position last month. The Council formally hired him last night.

Policeman Mike Nicholson, 23, formerly of McLean, began duty with the local department on June 24. He is living here with his wife and their three children. Nicholson has had two years experience in law enforcement. Chief Lindsey said.

The other new policeman, Richard Keller, will move to Memphis with his wife and one son, to begin work on July 20. Keller, formerly of Wellington and now of Garland, is 22 years old and has had six months experience in law enforcement.

Chief Lindsey said, "we will continue to enforce the laws and cooperate with citizens as the department has in the past."

Fowler's Pool To Have Swim Lessons Soon

A Red Cross swimming class will be held at the Fowler Swim Pool from 9:30 until 10:30 a. m. Monday through Friday, July 10 through 14.

Cost is 35 cents for the swimming lessons Doyle Fowler, instructor aid.

Two Break-Ins, One Attempt Reported Here

Two break-ins and one attempted break-in were reported to the City Police this week.

Memphis Glass & Tile and the ICX Warehouse were forcibly entered and items taken. A metal door on the Memphis Lumber Co. office was damaged in an attempted break-in last Monday night.

The City Police Dept. is investigating.

Two Candidates File Names For Memphis Mayor

Two candidates have filed their names for the position of mayor for the City of Memphis, according to A. L. Gailey, city secretary. They are Homer Tucker and Kenneth Dals. Both men are well known here, and have been active in civic affairs for many years.

The special election will be held Tuesday, Aug. 1.

The election was called by the City Council June 21 in a special session. The office was vacated by H. J. Howell who resigned recently to accept a position with a bank in Ennis, Tex.

Jim Beeson, mayor pro tem, is handling the duties of the office at the present time and will continue to serve in that capacity until the new mayor is elected.

In a budget hearing held Wednesday night, the City Council adopted the 1967-68 budget for the City of Memphis at $141,520.98, almost a $9,000 increase over last year's expenditure.

The budget calls for an estimated receipt of $149,527.00 to cover the estimated expenditures with a surplus for reserve of $2,006.02.

The council will not set the ad valorem tax rate for the city until the August meeting, but it was indicated at the budget hearing that the consensus of opinion held by the councilmen was that the rate would be $1.35 per one hundred valuation. The council has already set the percentage of valuation at 50 percent.

It was pointed out in the hearing that last year, the City of Memphis spent more than the budget called for as the estimated expenditure was $129,680.75 and the actual expenditure figure was $132,594.54.

In examining the new budget for the city, it is seen that $7,200 has been added to serve as reserves for replacement of equipment in the Fire Department, Police Department, Cemetery Department and in buildings. Most of the increase can be found in this addition.

It was the belief of the councilmen that this addition was necessary at this time if equipment being used by the city was ever to be replaced.

The new budget calls for the following expenditures:

Street dept. $22,897; Police Dept. $19,450; Fire Dept. $20,020; Health and Sanitation, $10,670; Carnegie Library, $1,968; City Park, $3,915; Fairview Cemetery, $5,770; Community Bldg., $5,105; General Administration, $20,645; and interest and sinking fund $27,300.98.

Additional funds to meet the budget are expected to come from additional tax money brought about by the increasing of the percentage of evaluation from 37 1/2 percent to 50 percent but the lowering of the tax rate from $1.50 per hundred to $1.35 per hundred of valuation.

Meeting with the members of the members of the council Wednesday were Homer Tucker and Kenneth Dale, candidates for Mayor. One of the two will be named in a special election August 1.

Leo Mullin Lake Near Turkey Stocked With 7,000 Black Bass

Leo E. Mullin of the Turkey received 7,000 small black bass to stock his lake on his land 10 miles east of Turkey yesterday afternoon.

Joe Sanchez of the Game and Fish Commission's fish hatchery at Santa Rosa, N. M., arrived in Turkey promptly at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday to deliver the fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullin met Mr. Sanchez at Turkey and led him to the lake for the unloading of the fish.

On hand for the occasion were Glenn Thurman and Willis McPhaul of the Farmers Home Administration, the agency which provided funds for building the lake on the Mullin land.

Also on hand was Herb Evans, conservationist with the Hall County Work Unit of the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Thurman said that funds for the Mullin lake was the first (and only loan) to be made by Hall County for the purpose of building recreation facilities.

Built last year, the lake has already caught water from one foot of rain and has backed up about three-quarters of a mile behind the dam. When the lake is full, it will be 500-acre feet in size and one and a half miles long from the dam up the channel.

Mullin reported that since last year, approximately nine inches of rain has fallen in the watershed. "I feel this is below what we could normally expect but the lake has caught and held most of this and is already 25 to 30 feet deep in spots," Mullin said.

"If our plan works out, we hope to open the lake for fishing next spring. The fish have a lot to eat now and should grow real fast," he said.

Actually, this is the second time for the lake to be stocked, Mullin said as some game fish were put in last year.

The 7,000 bass put into the lake yesterday should be real prizes in two years. Last year, channel cat and bass were put into the lake.

"I'm going to keep a close watch on the lake and as soon as I feel the fish need to be fed, I will start feeding them," Mullin said. Ample brush and cover has also been placed in the lake.

Mullin, an ardent fisherman himself, said his lake will be for fishermen who like to catch fish.

"There is nothing that bothers me more than to go fishing and not catch all the fish I want," he said. He is partial to catching fish on artificial lures and just doesn't have the patience for bait fishing. Eating his catch is not nearly as much fun to him as catching them, he said.

The Mullin lake will give additional recreation facilities to this area when it is open. Mullin has additional plans for recreation but they have not been formed into a definite plan as yet.

The lake area is typical of the rolling plains around Turkey and is quite attractive.

Everything Ready For Golf Tourney

Everything is ready for the annual Memphis Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament. Dink Miller, tournament chairman, announced today. Golfers from a wide area surrounding Memphis, as well as local players, will play in the tournament Friday, Saturday and Sunday on the local course.

War Compared To Cotton Raising

We have read a lot about the war in Vietnam, the fighting in the Middle East, but nothing has brought the physical fact of war so near to home as a statement published in Ed Eakin's "The Chief Speaks" of the Quannah Tribune-Chief last week.

Eakin writes: "Sherman said 'war is hell' but Jimmy Crozier, an Eldorado farm boy who is fighting with the Marines in Vietnam claims it more like raising cotton.

"Jimmy, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Crozier, wrote a friend lately with this original description following 'Operation Arizona.'

"War is sort of like raising cotton: You take a short break then right back to the old grind. The irrigation is the artillery, cultivation is the infantry, hoeing is the air strikes and cutting the stalks is all of us together.

"I just have my fingers crossed that we don't get hailed out or have a crop failure," Jimmy wrote. He was raised on a cotton farm, having made a "plow hand" since before he was 12 years old.

Hall County has its share of "farm boys" in Vietnam right now and we would like to add that our fingers are crossed too and some prayers are being said that our boys will return without any hailing out or crop failure.

Farming Crisis

The farmers of this country are subsidizing food prices by the simple matter of having the market price of their products kept low for the benefit of consumers. Some experts estimate that farmers are subsidizing food prices up to 25 per cent of their value, which is a shocking thought, and an unfair practice against any group in this country.

There has to be some way to change this. Farm prices have to be boosted so that the farm producer will realize a fair margin or profit on the foodstuffs he raises.

There are several ways to look at the problem. The farmer can boost his production to boost income. He can reduce production and wait for rising prices. Either way has its disadvantages.

The world is short of food and the fact that up until this year this country has had a food surplus has led many people to think that there will always be an abundance in this country. Not so.

Modern farming methods, which demand large investments of capital in machinery, fertilizer and pesticides, has boosted farm income here. Let a farmer go without profits for a few years and he is unable to provide the capital required for this type farming.

The United States has spread its foodstuff around the world during the past 20 years or so, and has stepped up exports of free food during the past two years.

We now have nine months supply of wheat on hand and a short crop coming in. Give us another year or so of this generous shipping out of grain and then let a crop failure come. Somebody will have to decide who gets fed and who doesn't.

The nation's farmers need to have a strong market for their products and not just because they are entitled to a living wage. The rest of the country depends upon them. A healthy farm economy is a must and should have the undivided attention of the powers in Washington who now seem bent on starving out farmers instead of making them stronger.

What Other Editors Say

Fed Ed Aid

Nearly all of us think of federal aid to education as a new trend in the United States. Just the opposite is true. The fact is that nearly all of us think of federal aid to education as a new trend in the United States. Just the local and state education is older than the Constitution.

Before the Constitution was written and adopted, Continental Congress in 1875 adopted a law which required that one section of public land be set aside in each township in the nation for the endowment of education within the towns.

Since the initial action by the Continental Congress, the Constitution was adopted and 200 additional aid-to-education laws have been passed by Congress and signed by presidents. The surprising fact is that 30 of those 200 education aid laws have been adopted since 1930. The others were passed previously, many of them during the 1800's.

The earlier laws include the which started the endowment of public institutions of higher education and set the foundation for land grant colleges.

During the early part of the 19th century a series of similar laws was passed, and the United States thus became the first nation in the world to create a real system of free public schools. In all of these cases the authority of the direct control of the schools remained in state or local hands.

Since near the end of World War II a series of special education laws has been passed, including the various proposals related to the GI Bill.

These also include legislation to assist in the care of exceptional or handicapped children the National Defense Education Act to help areas where a large number of federal workers live military and civilian.

Under current legislation we are seeing merely an extension of that first law passed by the Continental Congress in 1785. The aid may seem more massive in terms of dollars, but it is no more important than the good sense of that early Congress to start the nation on the route toward proper public education system.

International pill-tics

A man with a problem that add international headaches with each newborn head is Philander P. Clayton.

Approximated in the spring of 1966, Mr. Clayton's official title is an impressively long one: Special Assistant to the Secretary of State for Population Matters.

And how population matters! The concern over the present dizzying speed of the population explosion extends beyond our national responsibility. It has involved our foreign policy in a matter which President Johnson has described (Aug. 30, 1965) as "Man's greatest challenge. . . second only to man search for peace.

The world's present population is being increased daily by 200,000 more people. Projected to the year 2000, the figures are described by forecasters as "calamitous."

Threatening humanity with inevitable famine, illiteracy, disease and distraction, the population explosion now "east up" two-thirds of the economic growth.

It is defeating the efforts of our Agency for International Development to raise the living standard in many of the poorer countries, according to Eugene B. Black, presidential adviser on development.

As a result, the United States government is going all out to help out nations with birth-control programs of their own. AID loans are being arranged to help finance the manufacture of birth control pills and to provide birth-control devices of all types in countries in need of such financial aid.

Twenty-eight persons will staff quested U. S. help. The $20 million which Washington budgeted to the spread of birth-control information in fiscal 1968 was a big increase over the $3.6 million allocated in fiscal 1966.

Twenty-eight persons will staff AID's population service which is a technical distribution center for missions overseas.

AID is reported prepared "to grant requests for the pills themselves and for any other types of devices" to help curb the world's population explosion.

All a country needs to do, it appears to say Pill-ease!

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

MANY EVERGREENS WERE DAMAGED BY LATE FREEZE AND DROUGHT
"Dead needles and limbs now showing up in evergreens may be the result of winter and/or drought injury," says County Agent W. B. Hooser.

A common damage observed this spring has been from freeze injury to new growth. Periods of warm weather followed by cold weather and late freeze has caused browning and death of new growth. This will set plant growth back some but will not permanently harm established evergreens, advises the county agent.

Though evergreens are dormant during the winter months, they are still alive and continue to lose water from the foliage. Rapid changes in temperature plus drying winds and full sunlight can result in water loss from plants faster than it can be replaced by the roots. This is especially likely under drought conditions and it was dry last winter, reminds Hooser.

Dead wood should be pruned out as soon as possible and the plantings supplied with adequate moisture.

"Though it is a bit early to be thinking about next winter," Hooser says, "should the fall and winter months ahead be dry, evergreens should be given a soaking ahead of expected weather. Could save trouble next year."

Changes In New Texas Drivers Licensing Law Are Explained

Editor's Note: Thanks to the Chief of Safety Officer Chesley E. Fant, Texas Department of Public Safety, The Department as a public service, is publishing this article concerning the changes in present driver license law which has passed both legislative houses, and has been signed into law by Governor John Connally.)

The recently passed law outlines several major changes in present driver license law. These changes will affect each family in Texas in the near future, and the Department has been showing great interest in how these changes will affect citizens of the state.

Section 4 of the law, entitled "Persons who may not be licensed" includes the following changes:

1. Raises age for licensing as operator from 16 to 18 years.
2. Raises from 14 to 16 years minimum age for licensing as operator upon satisfactory completion of an approved course of driver education and training.
3. Before June 1, 1969, persons 16 years of age may qualify for an operator license upon presentation of a certificate from the local school superintendent that a driver education and training course is now taught at the school regularly attended by the applicant.

4. Upon completion of the classroom phase of an approved DEC, persons 15 years of age may be issued an instruction permit which will authorize them to drive while accompanied by an adult licensed driver who is at least 21.

5. Raises from 14 to 15 years the minimum age at which a person may be licensed under the emergency and hardship provision of the statute.

6. Raises from 14 to 15 years the minimum age at which persons may be licensed to operate a five-brake horsepower motor scooter.

7. Raises minimum age of licensing as chauffeurs and commercial operators from 16 to 18 years.

8. Persons addicted to the use of "other drugs that render a person incapable of driving" shall be denied a license.

New Licenses

Several of the sections of the law are concerned with licensing and renewal of licenses.

One of the provisions is that all original applications shall contain the additional information of place and date of birth with such information to be verified by presentation of a certified copy of applicant's birth certificate or other documentary evidence deemed satisfactory by the Department. Thumb prints are also required on all original applications.

Examinations shall be given in the type vehicle that the applicant will be licensed to operate.

All licenses issued shall contain a color photograph of the licensee. The Department may issue a temporary license without such photograph under specified limited conditions.

All licenses issued to persons under age of 21 years shall be clearly marked as a "Provisional License."

Persons convicted on the charge of driving without a license will be subject to the following penalties: a. first offense, a fine of not more than $200; b. a second offense within one year, a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200; c. a third offense within one year after the second offense, a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500 or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than 72 hours nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Licenses Expiration

All original licenses issued on and after Jan. 1, 1968 will expire as follows: operator—on the next birthday of the licensee occurring four years after the date of application; commercial or chauffeur—on the next birthday of the licensee occurring two years after the date of application.

The law sets up an initial renewal period under the conversion to birthdate plan where holders of present licenses will have program as a condition to the reinstatement of a suspended license or the issuance of a new license to a person whose prior privilege has been revoked.

Section 44A covers forging or counterfeiting Driver Licenses and other instruments. The law reads: any person who shall print, engrave, copy, photograph, make, issue, sell or circulate, or who shall possess or have in his possession with intent to use any counterfeit driver license, driver license form, stamp, permit, official signature, certificate, or any other instrument which is not officially produced by an officially designated agency shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished by confinement in the State Penitentiary for a term of not less than two years nor more than five years.

The new law covers other aspects of licensing such as revoking licenses of needy blind, outlining charges for license replacement when operator has lost his license. The major changes in the driver license law is outlined in this article.

Most of the provisions of the new law take effect on Jan. 1, 1968, with the exception of the minimum age for licensing drivers which takes effect in August.

them renewed for either two years or four years, depending on whether the last digit of their license number ends with either even number or an odd number. Odd numbers are renewed for two years and even numbers are renewed for four years. Commercial and chauffeur licenses are renewable every two years.

After the initial renewal under the conversion, all operator licenses shall be valid for four years while the commercial and chauffeur licenses shall be valid for a period of two years. Provisional licenses will all be dated to expire on the 21st birthday of the licensee.

The Department may in its discretion require an examination for the renewal of type license and may prescribe the procedure for arranging and conducting examinations for renewal of expired licenses.

Fees for license shall be $3 for two years and $6 for four years on operator licenses; commercial are $4.50 for one year and $9 for a two year license; provisional and instruction permits are computed on basis of annual prorated cost of type of license obtained multiplied by number of full years of validity.

Suspended Licenses

The Department is required to keep records of conviction of traffic violations and involvement in traffic accidents.

Before issuing any original or renewal of license, the Department shall examine the applicant's record for information concerning conviction of traffic violations and involvement in traffic accidents.

The Department shall not issue or renew a license when, in its opinion, the applicant's record indicates that issuance of a renewal of his license would be inimical to the public safety.

A failure or refusal to submit a report of any accident in which he was involved as a driver provides a grounds for hearing and possible suspension of license. Two convictions on traffic law violations occurring within a 12 months period constitute grounds for hearing and possible suspension of a provisional license.

Automatic Suspension

The first suspension based on a DWI or similar-type conviction shall be for a period of 12 months. Any subsequent suspension on the basis of a DWI or similar-type conviction will be for a period of 18 months.

The Department is required to establish and develop a program of rehabilitation for those drivers whose licenses have been suspended or revoked or are subject to suspension or revocation.

A license may be required to attend an education and training

LIBRARY LORE

By Jim Roark

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epic of incredulity, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going direct the other way—in short the period was so far like the present period, that some of its noisiest authorities insisted on its being received, for good or for evil, in the superlative degree of comparison only."

This timeless paragraph begins "A tale of two cities" by Charles Dickens. No doubt you had to study this book in school but have you ever read it for the pleasure of doing so? Dickens was a great story teller, and in this tale he almost surpasses himself. It is being said that the classics are no longer being read. What a pity for young and old alike to deprive themselves of the most exciting, and never-to-be-forgotten stories ever written. Browse through the classic shelf at your library in Memphis and there are the remarkable stories.

Mrs. H. McMurry Completes Housing Tour of Far East

Mrs. Helen McMurry of Abilene, daughter of Mrs. L. W. Stanford of Memphis, arrived by plane Tuesday, July 4, in Los Angeles, Calif., completing a 26-day housing study tour of the Far East.

Mrs. McMurry was one of a group of 48 members of the Texas Association of Home Builders from throughout Texas who left June 9 for Japan.

On Sunday, June 11, the group arrived in Tokyo, now the largest city in the world. They visited various parts of Japan through Saturday and were treated to seeing many outstanding places of interest including Nikko, Kamakura, Osaka and Kyoto and Nara. They viewed many shrines, gardens and interesting buildings of Japan. Also, they were given a briefing on the cultural and economic aspects of Japan, as they pertain to the housing industry at the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo.

The group left Sunday, June 18, for Formosa and Taipei. They also enjoyed a reception in honor of Taiwan builders and representatives of the U. S. Embassy there. In Southern Taipei they witnessed the tribal dances of the Wulai aborigine and went boating aboard a Chinese junk. The next day they enjoyed a round trip hydrofoil cruise to historic Corrigidor. There they viewed the abandoned mile long barracks, giant coastal guns and mortars, concrete emplacements invulnerable against direct fire and the tunnels dug into the solid rock of Malinta Hill; all reminders of the once mighty "Gibraltar of the East."

In Manila they again studied the housing including Forbes Park, the newest and most exclusive housing development in the Philippines, and viewed the highlights of Manila.

After a non-stop flight to Singapore, they were privileged to view the orchid collection of the Botanical Gardens and the jade collection of the late An Boon Haw.

Next stop for the group was Thailand where they departed by motor launch up the Chao Phya River and passed through the world famous floating markets and boat houses with their picturesque scenes of native canal life and also saw other of Thailand's most famous landmarks as well as being given a complete picture of the housing situation of this country.

The great city of Hong Kong British Crown Colony, was next viewed by the group. They proceeded by ferry to Victoria Island and on to the village of Aberdeen to study housing conditions. The next day they viewed the Skek Kip Mei resettlement area, necessitated as a great housing program due to the influx of thousands and thousands of refugees from China.

Free time was given to the group in each of the countries visited so that they might shop and engage in other independent activities.

On Saturday, July 1, the group flew to Honolulu where they were free to take a Pearl Harbor cruise or visit the new residential area in the vicinity of Diamond Head.

The next day ended the memorable and exciting tour with the return flight to Los Angeles.

Nancy Cleavinger Attends Home Ec Meeting In Dallas

Joining more than 6,000 other home economists, Miss Nancy Cleavinger, Memphis High School Home Economics teacher, attended the 58th annual meeting of the American Home Economics Assn. in Dallas recently.

Miss Cleavinger participated in workshops and seminars on the subject matter field during the June 26-30 session. The convention theme, "Focus in Interaction," describes various types of cooperative efforts with other groups.

Dr. Louise Gauthier, professor of home economics education, University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, was announced as president-elect for the 1967-68 year. She will be installed as AHEA president at the 59th Annual Meeting in Minneapolis June 24-28, 1968.

Accompanying the business and discussion meetings was the largest exhibition in AHEA history, featuring over 450 exhibit booths with new products and services for home economists and consumers. Included were a new instant high protein drink, pre-sweetened cereals, new fibers, a soil releasing fabric finisher, teaching guides and visual aids.

Keynote speaker was Dr. Helen LeBaron, dean of the College of Home Economics at Iowa State University, Ames. Speaking on "Professional Interaction—Key to the Future," Dr. LeBaron said home economists must become involved with public policy and in cooperative efforts with other professors.

Presiding over the convention was Mrs. Helen Mandigo, home service director of the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, who is president of the 28,000-member association—AHEA headquarters in Washington.

College chapters, alumni groups, committees, and the governing Assembly of Delegates met during the convention which also featured subject matter sessions for art, family economics-home management, family relations and child development, food and nutrition, home economics teacher education, institution administration, textiles and clothing and housing, furnishings and equipment.

Tigers Honor Managers With Ice Cream Supper

The Tigers' Little League baseball team entertained with an ice cream supper at the City Park on Friday night.

The social was to honor their managers, Tomie Tucker and Presley Thompson, who were presented with gifts.

The group enjoyed homemade ice cream and cake.

Hunting and fishing are becoming "bigger" businesses every year.

During 1966 licenses alone cost 42,000,000 outdoorsmen $139,000,000. This was for the period between July 1, 1965, and June 30, 1966.

Although Texas has more inland fishing waters than any of the 48 adjacent states, it ranked 11th in the total gross cost to fishermen for licenses and tags. The state sold just over 1,000,000 licenses and tags for a total of $2,035,154.

It must be remembered that Texas has a $2.15 universal license which is available to resident and non-resident alike. Other states with higher non-resident licenses had considerably more gross income from fishermen.

California topped the list with $5,565,750 from slightly under 2,000,000 license buyers. Wisconsin sold only a few thousand more licenses than Texas. But it wound up with $4,500,000 in license sales, for second place.

Hawaii was lowest, with a reported 3,743 licenses sold including only two non-resident, for total income of $11,932. Evidently visitors to Hawaii prefer hula girls and pineapples to fishing.

Texas ranked 10th in hunting license sales with a total of 759,308 sold for $1,951,022. This included 6,542 non-resident licenses.

Pennsylvania topped all other states with its total hunting license sales of $5,824,248 to 956,169 hunters, including 56,868 non-residents. Other states going over $5,000,000 were Michigan and Colorado. Nearly half of the Colorado hunters were non-residents.

As in fishing, Hawaii was low with a total of 6,903 hunters including 130 non-residents paying $50,275.

Alaska, which now boasts of being the largest state, had 42,881 hunters and collected $600,610.

Texas has far more deer than any other state and with a much more liberal bag limit. It is possible for a hunter to harvest three legal deer in Texas each year, by utilizing doe permits issued in over-populated areas.

It is interesting to note that Texas sold only 6,542 non-resident licenses during this 12-month period. Wyoming sold more than half its 60,696 total to non-residents. Many Texans were among that group.

Colorado, as another example, sold 116,875 non-resident permits, or approximately 40 per cent of its total sales. Colorado deer are larger, but deer there are not as numerous as they are in Texas.

California sold a total of 700,084 licenses and tags, and only had 1,157 non-resident hunters. Yet the state took in $2,634,413. That's considerably more than Texas receipts.

On the other hand, California sold 1,922,820 fishing licenses, including 36,756 non-resident, for $5,565,880.

It is impossible to account for the number of visitors who fish in Texas, or along the Gulf Coast since Texas' $2.15 license is the same to everyone—Texans and visitors alike.

Some states, however, make big business of their short-term licenses for fishermen. For instance, Arizona sold 236,366 resident and 145,337 non-resident, more than half the total. Colorado figures were just about the same and many of those were Texans.

Many of these states, particularly in the Rocky Mountain area, cannot be criticized for their higher non-resident fees, in view of their fishing conditions. All these states plant catchable-size fish in their lakes and streams at the beginning of each fishing season. And have to!

Each, of course, has some warm water fishing, such as bass and catfish. However, their fishing is largely for hatchery produced trout. And most of them are raised for the benefit of tourists, many of whom never catch a fish at home.

Mrs. Estelle Barber spent weekend in Aspermont and joyed attending the Ward family reunion.

Mrs. Margaret Holcomb has turned home after visiting for past week with Mr. and Mrs. Mer Milton on their ranch near Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Noble Bakersfield, Calif., are visiting here this week with Mrs. Noble's mother, Mrs. Lavilla Hodner, and Mrs. Noble are former students of Memphis.

Hazel Brewer and Ted Dink both of Lubbock, were visiting the Herschel Combs home Monday afternoon.

Rain, Lightning, High Winds Cause Some Damage During Monday's Storm

The 4th of July holiday got off to an exciting start Monday night when high winds, lightning and rain swept across Memphis leaving good rainfall amounts. Memphis citizens took refuge when the siren went off. Lightning knocked down power lines. Memphis was without electrical power for a short time due to a condenser being hit by lightning at Childress, WTU reported.

Two business establishments were damaged by the winds. Cashway Foods, located 1419 W. Noel, had the north roof lifted and the ceiling fell in during the windstorm. Damage to the building was heavy and some merchandise was damaged by the water.

"Red" Lowe's Big Burger awning was blown away and some windows in his trailer house were broken.

Cashway Foods is back in operation this morning, Jim Lamberson reported after repairs and cleaning was done at a frantic pace since the storm.

Rayford Hutcherson, official weather observer, reported .85 of an inch of moisture from the rain.

All around Memphis the one-inch report was given with the Brice area reporting one and a half inches or more.

Turkey and Estelline also received good rains during the week. Estelline reported from 1.6 to one inch.

ORVILLE GOODPASTURE 120 NORTH 110TH

HERB CURRY PHONE 259-3581

By VERN SANFORD
 Size of the shot to use for duck shooting long has been the subject of arguments wherever hunters get together.

For many years the No. 4 shot was considered the ideal one for duck hunting. Most of the old timers used the No. 4.

Also, back in the early days, there was a distinction between "drop" shot and "chilled" shot.

Soft shot definitely was not considered best for duck hunting. It seemed to flatten out too quickly among the heavy feathers and failed to gain penetration.

With greater velocity, due to the advent of improved powder the No. 6 shot became a favorite of duck hunters. Many found that the No. 6 load was the best all-around cartridge. It could be used on either ducks or doves.

For geese, that was something else. Most hunters went to BBs or No. 2 shot, with the heaviest loads. Then along came another breed of hunters and currently established that the No. 6 load was ideal for geese, too. Provided you lead them enough!

L. A. Wilke, a hunting and fishing buddy of mine, recalls his first geese, a half-century ago. He was a 20 gauge enthusiast even back in those days.

One foggy morning Wilke was jumping mallards in some potholes among the wild cranberries along the flats on the Nueces River out of Corpus Christi.

He was moving along quietly, with his gun ready for any mallard he might kick up, when he heard geese approaching. He dropped down into the high grass. Two honkers were coming directly toward him. He wished for his double 12 gauge, but that was out of the question.

Then suddenly Wilke remembered the comment of an old hunter who said a goose's head is almost as big as a quail. That was the answer. He added a little more lead, and both geese came tumbling down.

Wilke has shot geese under every condition since then. He still likes the 20, with No. 6 shot. But he also agrees that since you can't always pick your situation when shooting these fine birds, it is best to get all the gun you can. In other words, a good 12 gauge with magnum loads, at whatever shot you decide to use.

Some of the experts of Winchester-Western have done considerable survey work in studying the crippling losses of waterfowl. Part of this report is based on evaluation of the effectiveness of different shot sizes.

One survey reveals that at 35 yards there is no obvious difference in No. 4 and No. 6 shot.

However, as the range increases it is apparent that the heavier shot is more effective.

Furthermore, with ducks centered in a pattern of No. 4 shot, crippling isn't an important factor until the range exceeds 50 yards. With No. 6 shot it is a factor beyond 40 yards.

At four ranges tested (35, 40, 50, and 60 yards) the ducks were hit with a substantially larger number of 6s than 4s. However, penetration by the 4s into the body cavities of the ducks was greatly superior to the 6s.

For example, the 40-yard average for hits was 5.7 No. 4 pellets, as compared with 8.8 for No. 6. Of these, however, 68 per cent of the 4s penetrated into the body cavities of the mallards, as compared with only 41 per cent of the 6s.

This, of course, is because the heavier No. 4 shot pellets have much greater striking force.

Such tests as these by Winchester-Western are a part of the continuous programs of the manufacturers today to provide shooters with the very best possible guns, loads and information.

This improves shooting qualities, making kills more certain and crippling less prevalent.

Don't wait too long to give guns a good wipe down. Frequently they sweat during the winter months when exposed to sudden temperature changes. This can turn to rust. Just go over them with a silicon cloth.

Ever watch a butterfly? It does its tasting with its feet as it flits about from flower to flower.

If you toss a beverage the water, either crush it with water so that it will not float around the boat, or be hit by a speeding boat.

A good way to protect the tip when loaded in a station on is to use a rubber band to fasten it to the little clothes over the back door.
