Veterinarian Explains Regulations On Hog Cholera Eradication Program

Effective July 1, 1969, the interstate shipment of all hog cholera vaccine into Phase III and IV States including Texas, was prohibited by Federal Regulations. There is no producer of MLV hog cholera vaccine in the State of Texas, but vaccine already on hand can be used and hogs so treated will be allowed interstate movement until Dec. 31, 1969.

Dr. Jack Fowler, Memphis Veterinarian, announced last week. Texas was scheduled to enter Phase III of the Hog Cholera Eradication Program on August 1, 1969. After this date, indemnity will be paid on Hog Cholera infected swine; however, payment will be made only on those swine that are alive when a regulatory veterinarian arrives on the premises, he said.

Hogs in an infected herd will either be sent directly to a federally inspected plant or killed on the premises. This depopulation of an infested herd will be conducted as soon as a positive diagnosis of hog cholera is made. To depopulate these infected herds, indemnity will be paid. Swine will be appraised at market value and the owner will receive this payment on all swine that are alive when a regulatory veterinarian arrives on the premises.

The animals that are killed on the premises will be either buried, burned or rendered, Dr. Fowler reported.

It is very important for swine owners to report unhealthy swine to their local veterinarian and for the veterinarian to report all suspected cases of hog cholera at once.

After August 1, 1969, indemnity will be paid on hog cholera infected swine; however, payment will be made only on those swine that are alive when a regulatory veterinarian arrives on the premises, swine owners were reminded.

U. S. HIGHWAY 287 BRIDGE — Pictured above is the largest prestressed bridge in the Texas Panhandle being constructed across the Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River north of Estelline on U. S. Hwy. 287. The bridge is now 65 percent completed, and if all goes well should be finished by November, it was learned at the site Wednesday. The hot, dry weather of the past weeks is ideal for bridge construction even if it is much less desirable for crops in the area. The contract was let in February to the Austin Bridge Company of Dallas for $958,223.77 to build the bridge and approach way and Highway Department engineer in charge of the project, Arville Coyle of Childress, reported that the contractor was ahead of schedule at this time. Work started last week on pouring the bridge deck. Engineer Coyle reported that skilled laborers are still needed, especially concrete finishers. The bridge, Coyle reports, is the largest pre-stressed bridge to be built in the Texas Panhandle.

EMPHASIS MEMPHIS

... and County Comments —By HAC

I was pleased to find out Monday night that the proposed scenic highway a strip north of Red River into Palo Duro Canyon will have the support of Governor Preston Smith. The announcement came following a dinner I attended at the Governor's Mansion in Austin. A group of publisher of smaller newspapers representing various sections of the state, and a few other individuals, had been invited to meet with Gov. Smith that evening for a dinner and to discuss current problems facing the state government.

During the course of a conversation with the Governor following the dinner, he stated he planned to visit Memphis Oct. 30. From here he will inspect the proposed location of the scenic highway by air. Plans call for his arrival at the local airport at 10:30 a. m.; address a joint meeting of the Rotary and Lions clubs at noon, then leave for the inspection journey with other state officials at 1:30 p. m.

The proposed road will connect State Highway 256 near (Continued on Page 8)

Taxes! Taxes Up . . . Down . . . All Around!

Taxation is at the root of all governments created by man on this world, and the advantage that democracy has over other forms of government is basically the right of the governed to decide the amount of taxes to be collected and on what this money will be spent.

Democracies are not new as this form of government was used by the early Greeks many centuries ago. The taxation problem arising today was also experienced in those early days, and Plato knew what he was talking about when he wrote, "When there is an income tax, the just man will pay more and the unjust men less on the same amount of income."

United States citizens have seen expenditures of government rise steadily. Many feel that the cost of government today is our biggest problem. But it appears that benefits each citizen receives from government money spent, far too numerous to mention minimize this "problem" somewhat. It's a possibility that the inequity in assessment and collection of taxes are what people are complaining about more than taxation itself. Here lies one of our biggest problems.

In Washington, D. C., Congress is wrestling with the 10 per cent surtax which appears now to be extended for another six months or possibly a year. Also the House Ways and Means Committee has completed work on a bill to give tax relief amounting ultimately to $6.9 billion mainly for low and moderate income persons, wrapped into a big revenue reform bill. This bill also would tighten certain tax loopholes, touching oil depletions, real estate depreciation, large charitable contributions and many other features which critics have termed, loopholes.

When the U. S. Treasury Department released information on 1,100 persons in our country with a total income of $658,000,000 in 1964, but by using loopholes have taxable income of $210,000,000, the American people began demanding that something be done. The little income fellow was paying 10 to 15 per cent of his income in taxes, and the $5,000 to $20,000 year bracket was paying 15 per cent or more. The Treasury Dept. cited an example in which a man made a total of $2,142,000 in income in this way: Capital gains, $672,000; oil and gas operations, $1,469,000. Loopholes exclusions: capital gains, $337,000; oil depletion, $886,000; farm loss, $829,000, totaling $2,032,000. The balance was $110,000. This balance and additional income were offset by more than $178,000 in personal deductions, so this tax payer paid no taxes at all.

Congress has taken one more step in its threat to close some of these loopholes in our federal income tax law structure. The big rich of this nation, however, like things as they are and will use every bit of power and influence they can to prevent the loopholes from being closed. But if the people's will prevails, and the loopholes are closed, then the rich owners of big business and oil companies will just pass the added expense on the consumer by simply upping prices.

Sixteen large petroleum refining corporations paid only 1.9c in federal taxes per dollar of sales during 1964-65, compared to a 5.4c figure for 117 large manufacturing corporations. The oil industry paid for the year Sept. 30, 1968, only 13 per cent of its profits in federal taxes while all other manufacturing industries paid 45 per cent. In 1967 the oil industry's profit per dollar of sales (10.9 per cent) was more than twice that of manufacturing corporations (5.0 per cent).

The little man sees his withholding tax go up, his social security payments increased, state sales tax increased, and many other state, county or local taxes increased, plus he is caught in the inflationary bit where they raise rates on money he needs. What you have is a very upset little man who feels that he is a victim of injustice.

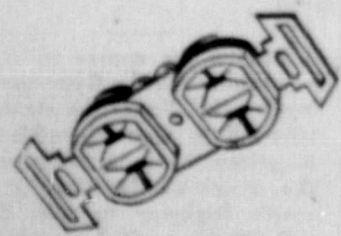

Congressmen in Washington are between a rock and a hard place. The masses are clamoring for tax reforms, and the rich and powerful who pay the bulk of the campaign contributions have tax loopholes and high interest rates and want to keep things like they are.

Even if tax reform legislation is passed, this nation will have

What Other Editors Say

My Mean Mother

I had the meanest mother in the whole world! While other kids ate candy for breakfast, I had to have cereal, eggs or toast! When others had cans or candy for lunch, I had to eat a sandwich, and, as you can guess, my supper was different from the other kids, too! My sister and two brothers had the same mean mother as I did!

My mother insisted upon knowing where we kids were at all times. You'd think we were on a chain gang. She had to know who our friends were, and what we were doing. She insisted if we said we'd be gone an hour that we be gone not one hour and one minute. I am ashamed to admit it, but she actually struck us; not once, but each time we did as we pleased. Can you imagine someone actually hitting a child just because he disobeyed? Now you can begin to see how mean she really was.

The worst is yet to come! We had to be in bed by nine each night, and up early the next morning. We couldn't sleep till noon like our friends. So, while they slept, my mother actually had the nerve to break the child labor law. She made us work. We had to wash dishes, make beds, learn to cook, and all sorts of cruel things. I believe she laid awake at night thinking up mean things to do to us. She always insisted upon our telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, even if it killed us—and it nearly did.

By the time we were teenagers, she was much wiser, and our life became even more unbearable.

None of this tooting of the horn of a car in front of the house for us to come running. She embarrassed us to no end by making our dates and friends come to the door to get us.

I forgot to mention, while our friends were dating at the "mature" age of 12 and 13, my old fashioned mother refused to let us date until the age of 15 and

Another summer

"Texas" opened for its fourth season in the beautiful amphitheatre in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park on the 27th of June. This musical spectacular by the Pulitzer prize winner, Paul Green, has already been seen by more than 190,000 visitors. Opening this year was a GALA INTERNATIONAL NIGHT, honoring the sixty-three countries represented in the audiences last summer. Decorations will be the flags of seventy nations in the Rotary International collection which have been obtained for this occasion.

As special guests, the Foundation which produces "TEXAS" entertained the travelers on several American Field Service buses of foreign exchange students who were in the area that night and the foreign-born residents of the Panhandle. They had an opportunity to visit at an informal reception at the theatre at 7:45 p. m. and then saw the production an hour later.

Look for another constitutional amendment to be proposed. The one is to spend $20 billion to port glaciers from the Arctic to cool Texas during the summer months.

Those who do not believe that foreign aid programs win hands over the world ought to see the Swiss bank accounts they have created.

There are reports that the Legislature may appropriate artifacts, gold and silver from sunken Spanish galleons until they can make up a popular tax measure. News reports say that S. L. The only way for Texas to keep insurance rates down is for the state to have more wreckless drivers.

Trouble with the crime rate is the fact that too many hijackers ask they have the constitutional right to pull the trigger.

The Legislature should at least pass a law requiring car thieves fasten the seat belts—around their necks.

Out in West Texas where the slope play, the does (pronounced doughs, not dux) outnumber bucks by 4,706 to 2,817. This states that the does don't play.

At cities like Berkeley, Calif., they want to stop the hippie tents, they should arm police with soapbuds instead of tear gas.

Members of the Legislature ask hard between sessions. They sit down and read the bills that they voted into law.

If vehicle operators learned to drive with the intense interest played by golfers, the traffic accident score would be much lower.

Be sure to vote Aug. 5 for annual legislative sessions. Otherwise, Texas cannot keep pace with federal control of state governments.

Dennis Wards Return Home From Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Ward and daughter, Juli, have returned home after visiting for about 10 days in the Washington, D. C. area with relatives.

The Wards visited in Fredericksburg, Va., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, and in Norfolk, Va., with relatives.

While in Washington, D. C., they stopped in at the office of Rep. Bob Price of Pampa. In chatting with the four girls and one young man who worked there, Mrs. Ward reported that they told her most enthusiastically of their recent visit to Memphis with the House Agricultural Committee tour. They said that they had never been in Texas before but were most impressed with the town and people and were delighted with the cordial welcome they received.

Before returning to Memphis the Wards also visited in Goldsboro, N. C., with Mr. and Mrs. Y. Z. Foss. Mr. Foss is a Chevrolet dealer whom the Wards had met on a previous trip to Bermuda. While there, Mr. Ward enjoyed an interesting tour of Mr. Foss's brother's tobacco farm.

 PRESIDENT

Dear Friends:
 It has occurred to me that you might like a closer look at Frank Phillips College, and how I see the college and its place in American Higher Education.

College education today in many institutions of higher education is becoming more and more impersonal. It is standardized, mass produced, efficient and cold. The emphasis is on knowledge itself, with little relation to human values. The student does not experience the personality of the teacher because they are strangers.

On the campus of Frank Phillips College, education begins with a deep interest and respect for each individual student. Those qualities which make each of us unique, and, therefore ourselves, may be our outstanding talent. To develop the talents of our students has always been the primary reason for our being.

Frank Phillips College stresses the pursuit of sound values as well as the pursuit of knowledge. Frank Phillips College upholds sound moral standards as well as academic standards. Frank Phillips College expects responsibility from every student.

We oppose those who want neutrality on values and morals, and who want a student life in which responsibility is not asked. We have no place for this philosophy in our halls and on our campus.

The atmosphere of responsibility on the campus can only be sensed, of course, but it is as real as the buildings themselves. We are all influenced by it. It is an important factor in our planning. It is the kind of atmosphere that encourages balance and order in the lives of the students.

This atmosphere speaks softly in brick and cement, and I will preserve it for every student who walks the campus in all the years to come.

Sincerely,
J. W. Dillard

Denver Indian Hobbyist Pow-Wow Attracts Local, Lubbock Citizens

Mrs. Ralph Howard and sons, Mrs. Kelly and Brian, and Mrs. Guthrie, all of Lubbock, and Dink Denis of Memphis returned last weekend from a vacation in Denver and Colorado Springs, Colo.

While in Denver, they attended the first National Indian Hobbyist Pow-Wow ever held, a three-day affair, at the Arapahoe County Fairgrounds. The Howards are members of the Una-li-yi Indian Hobbyist Club in Lubbock. "Una-li-yi" is an Indian word chosen for the club because it means "a gathering of friendly people".

Present at the gathering were 34 states; many Indian people from over the country were invited to participate. Many close friendships between the two groups have formed in local and statewide pow-wows which have been held in the past. About 400 Hobbyists attended the National Pow-Wow, at least 75 Indians from different tribes and areas came to participate in the events.

Two sessions of dancing were held each day — one in the afternoon, another at night. The dances were performed in the arena at the Fairgrounds in front of many spectators in the stands.

Anyone in the arena was dressed in an authentic Indian costume, one kind or another — old style, or the more modern "fancy" style. As the braves did war dances or specialty dances, the women and girls did "slow dance" on the outside of the circle. The throbbing beat of the drum and the rhythmic intonation of the singers combining to the excitement of the dance created a highly colorful and fascinating scene, casting a "spell" on all witnesses.

Two groups of drummers and dancers alternated at the drum. Southern Drum group was composed of seven Indian men and women, the "Ponca Singers" from Oklahoma; the Northern group of seven men and a woman singer, the "Sioux Singers" from South Dakota. The Howards decided the "Ponca Singers" out-performed the other group with more spirited and exciting music.

The Indian Hobbyist Club members are dedicated to their aim of preserving and perpetuating the cultures of all Indian tribes and clans. They collect and study information about Indian lore, customs, history, literature, etc., and travel to places where they can visit with the Indians, cross-bridges of friendship to the descendants of the first Americans.

The Hobbyists do most of the work on their costumes; only occasionally are they guilty of buying, especially difficult to come by items from their Indian friends in Oklahoma or New Mexico (such as deerskin boots or porcupine roaches). The Howards have become experts in the art of heading, making headbands, belts, armbands copied from the genuine traditional art designs of the Indian people.

At the Denver Pow-Wow, the Howards were costumed in the Plains Indian style, specifically the Kiowa "fancy dance" type. Mrs. Howard wore a bright blue dress trimmed in colored ribbons, a white apron and shawl, a beaded headband and belt, and a "jingle set" around her waist. Beaded pouches trimmed with German silver in which are carried sinews, bone needles, wampum, etc. She wore moccasin boots and carried a feather fan made of feathers from a red-tail hawk. (Since 1960, it is against the law to possess eagle feathers.)

Dennis Howard wore a feather bustle of orange, yellow and white with a matching neck bustle, a "porkey" (porcupine) roach on his head, and a complete set of beaded accessories, a breech cloth, moccasins, and leg bells. The beaded set consisted of angora anklets with beaded tops, a headband, choker, gulluses, armbands and belt.

An interesting Northern custom not seen before by the Texas Hobbyists at any pow-wow was the ceremony of "dancing the drum out" (of the arena) at the conclusion of a session. The drum and the drummers moved slowly out of the arena as the dancers followed, dancing it out until it disappeared from sight.

Another feature of the affair was the presence of the Indian "traders" who had set up their wares for sale in the exhibit buildings, offering skins, blankets, jewelry, everything.

The climax of the Pow-Wow came for the Howards at an Indian "give-away" ceremony. This ceremony is a beautiful, solemn occasion where the Indians honor their friends by "giving" them something. Sometimes it is an exchange of material gifts or possessions. At other times, it is an exchange of honors or recognition or merely an offer of friendship — to a group or to an individual. In this case, the "give-away" to the Howards was dedicated to the memory of Ralph Howard, and the drummers responded by drumming and chanting the Indian "Korean Veterans Song" in their own language. This was a touching and precious "gift" always to be remembered and cherished by Mrs. Howard and the boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cosper of Lubbock visited in Memphis over the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Widener.

Mrs. Gene Lindsey and Mitzie visited last week in Dallas with Mrs. Lindsey's mother, Mrs. H. B. Gilmore, and brothers, H. B. and Jerry Gilmore, and families. Mrs. Gilmore accompanied Mrs. Lindsey home for a visit and Mitzie remained in Dallas for a longer visit. They returned by Brownwood and Mrs. Gilmore's sister, Mrs. Scott Sigler, accompanied them to Memphis.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Combs visited from Sunday until Tuesday in Austin with their daughter and family, the A. J. Welches.

Mrs. H. B. Gilmore and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lindsey were in Lubbock Saturday where they visited with their daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Noel Clifton, and Mr. Clifton.

Think Young Is Advise Given To The Aging

(Editor's Note: Following is some thoughts Minnie Bell, specialist for aging, of Texas A&M University, gives on the mental attitude problem of growing old.)

What part of the paper do you read first—the sports, the funnies or the front page? "Men are old if they read the obituaries before they turn to the sports pages, or if they check the menu, and then the waitresses," Health Insurance News says.

An Iowa physician giving advice on staying youthful said: "Stay neat, skinny and cantankerous.

Keep a youthful mind and thoughts.

Listen to the new generation.

Exercise within the limits of your capability.

Do something."

He also said you are old if you are complacent, if you think you are too old to do something or that the future holds no promise for you.

Pretty good advice—How old are you? Really!

Air Conditioner Dirty Filters Can hinder Operation

College Station — Dirty filters hinder performance of air conditioners. Most new air conditioners have permanent filters which do not need to be replaced, but do need to be kept clean.

Mrs. Jane Berry, Extension agent, tells how to clean a unit at top-performance.

Remove the filter out, shake off the dust, then dip it up and down in hot sudsy water. The water loosens and removes the dirt soot which the filter has stored.

Wash, dry and apply a coat of metal filter oil to help "trap" and hold additional soil, lint and some grime.

Disposable filters should be changed in the same manner, but they will take only a couple of cleanings a season, it is necessary to replace them occasionally.
