Constitutional Amendments!

Texas voters will be going to the polls to vote pro or con on four constitutional amendments in a special election called for Tuesday, May 18. The amendments have been published in the past four issues of this newspaper.

Number One of the ballot is a controversial proposal to set up a State Ethics Commission as an agency of the state. This commission consists of nine members. Three members shall be appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas with the advice and consent of the Associate Justices serving on the Court, three members shall be appointed by the Presiding Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas with the advice and consent of the other Judges serving on the Court, and three members shall be appointed by the Chairman of the State Judicial Qualifications Commission with the advice and consent of the other members of the commission, of each group of three appointees no more than two shall be attorneys engaged in the active practice of law.

In addition, there shall be two ex officio members, one from the House of Representatives and one from the Senate to be elected on the first day of each Regular Session of the Legislature by a majority, with terms ending the first day of the next regular session.

The controversial part of this proposition is the power it gives to the commission to set the compensation, per diem and mileage allowances, of the Legislature and the power to recommend the salary of the Speaker of the House and the Lt. Governor.

The Commission is empowered to set these pay schedules by filing a certified copy of its proclamation with the Secretary of State before the convening of any session of the legislature.

Legislators are now paid $4,800 per year and the legislature meets for about five months every year. There is agitation to raise this to $15,000 per year per member, but the people of Texas voted such a pay raise down in the last general election.

Amendment Two would provide that amendments to the constitution may be submitted by the legislature to the voters of Texas at any special session as well as regular sessions. There appears to be little opposition to this amendment since it would merely aid in the legislative machinery to get proposals before the voters.

Amendment Three would remove the constitutional limit of $80 million on the aid to the aged, blind and disabled and fix a 55 million maximum on aid to families with dependent children. An $80 million ceiling now applies to all four categories and unless Texans approve the change in the May election, reduction in aid to dependent children will be necessary. It is this category which is skyrocketing, not only in Texas but across the nation. The ceiling was $60 million until raised in the last general election and immediately the demand for aid to dependent children rose to the new ceiling.

As an effort to limit this type of welfare and still take care of the aged, blind and disabled, the legislature came up with this compromise which would solve the problem.

Amendment four would authorize the issuance of $100,000,000 in state bonds to provide financial assistance to cities and other public agencies for water quality enhancement purposes. There is little opposition to this amendment except in those areas of the state with plenty of water where the need for water is not as great as in other parts, particularly West Texas.

Speak Up Mothers!

Mothers, here is your chance! you have until May 3 to write to the Federal Communications Commission in Washington what you think about present television commercial messages directed to children. If you're tired of your children refusing to eat any but a certain snack or soft drink, here's your chance to speak up. On the other hand, if it doesn't bother you that the kids are strongly influenced by commercial messages — you can still speak up.

Robert B. Choate, chairman of the Council on Children, Media and Merchandising says "a moderate watcher of children's television programs receives more than 5,000 messages per year, primarily advising the child to eat snacks, sweets and soda pops." To eliminate this type of messages, a new code to moderate advertising of foodstuffs to children over television was proposed Feb. 15 by Choate at a meeting evaluating hunger and malnutrition in the United States.

The proposed code would include these points: mandatory identification of ingredients and nutrients in foods advertised over the nation's airwaves; reduction in the advocacy of sugar elimination of toys, gimmicks and bonuses to make a child select one food over another; restriction in the number of ads per hour of children's programming; prohibition of ads for drugs, medicines or vitamin pills during certain hours; separation of ads from program content and establishment of a research center.

The Federal Communications Commission has invited the public to comment by May 3 on present television practices directed at children. Housewives, parents and children are invited to write to the FCC, stating their opinion of today's commercial messages.

We agree with Choate when he said, "We use the airway to fight drunk driving, inflation and forest fires—why not hunger? If we can recruit for the Army, why not recruit for healthier things?"

What Other Editors Say

Freedom . . . A Paradox

Freedom is a strange paradox. Freedom to a teenager may mean arrest, jail, reform school.

Freedom to a segment of modern college students means running the school, determining the curriculum, hiring and firing the faculty, living together without benefit of marriage ceremony.

Freedom to a corporation may mean price fixing, a fine, perhaps a jail sentence for its president.

Freedom from the restraints imposed by God is hell.

Yet freedom can also be our most cherished possession.

If we are to believe first hand reports of Americans who have visited Russia, we Americans complain much more about our "lack of freedom" than do the Russians.

Russians, and Germans, to a certain extent, consider freedom not an asset in itself. Rather they consider only its ability to give them a better way of life. If freedom means more food, better clothing, more comforts, then it is good. If being deprived of it means more food, better clothing, more comforts, then it is bad.

The ultimate in freedom is being marooned on an uninhabited island in the middle of the Pacific Ocean . . . or on the moon.

Freedom does not guarantee happiness.

The farmer was quite free during the first few years of the Great Depression . . . but he was far from happy.

One of our readers remembers when anyone could get in the dairy business and sell milk. There were no rules or regulations, no tuberculosis tests for cows, no concrete milk parlors, no hot water for scalding milking equipment, no refrigeration, no bacteria counts.

"Some of us boys who were watching in our college days ought a quart of milk one time that had a good quarter inch of accumulation in the bottom of the bottle and it wasn't cream!" the reader recalls. "Now where did these restrictions on the dairymen come from? Some perhaps from the efforts of good dairymen, mostly from mothers of babies who wanted to protect the health of their children. While down in South America, I found I could not drink most of the milk or water. A Colombian said 'you Americans have sterilized stomachs,' and I suppose this is true."

Americans have an average life expectancy of over 70 years. The Colombians, not over 40!

Freedom is a tool which may be used to build a house or to crush a man's skull. Like a rifle, it can be used to provide food for a starving man or to murder his neighbor.

Desirable freedom is dependent upon regulations and restrictions.

I am free because I am protected on the highway by the requirements that drivers be licensed, that they not be allowed to drink, that their speed be controlled. To the speed demon, to the alcoholic, to the person ignorant of the rules of the road, these restrictions are destroyers of their freedom. But they are the protector of my freedom.

Recently we read where the parents of a child were arrested for refusing to permit their child to receive a public school education. Cruel? In a way. Yet, shall even parents have the right to maim their child's future?

Most rules and restrictions are the results of our own demands.

As a society gets more complex, it must increase its rules and regulations.

The opposite of freedom is slavery. And slavery can sometimes be desirable. The Apostle Paul enjoyed being a slave to his Lord.

And, as our reader says, "The cost of sending a son to college, of dressing a daughter . . . these are restrictions . . . but I won't want to be free from them because I could be the unhappiest of men if I didn't have them."

So it is that we are unmoved by people who have no particular objective except to have their freedom! They're like the 13-year-old girl who wants to throw off the restrictions of her parents.

We're mighty glad the airlines are patronized by our safety and protection.

Consumers shop more carefully today. Here's why they buy Fords.

Ford LTD, quiet and strong, is the luxury car without the luxury car price.

Torino is sized and priced right in the middle. Room for six, small car handling.

Maverick, the simple compact car, offers 2 doors or 4; 6 or V-8 power.

Ford LTD is the car that can match the luxury of cars costing hundreds of dollars more. And LTD's quiet ride is the standard that those same more expensive cars have to match themselves. That quiet strength is one reason for consumers choosing LTD over all other luxury cars in its class.

Consumers know the mid-size Torino gives them the roominess of a big car plus the easy handling of a small car. For a price that's right in the middle. As a result, Torino has become the most popular 4-door in its class. Your Ford Dealer has thirteen other models to choose from.

Take Maverick. Consumers know that the simple machine is simple to own and simple to run. And they learned recently that a leading independent survey found Maverick has the best frequency of repair record of any American car. That might explain why it's America's best-selling compact.

Woman's Culture Club Enjoys Program On Texas

Mrs. L. G. Rasco was hostess to the Woman's Culture Club at her home March 3 at 4 p. m.

After the invocation by Mrs. Rasco, the business session was led by the president, Mrs. May.

The program, "A Texan Speaks," was introduced by Mrs. Jim Lange, chairman. "Texas, Our Texas" was sung by the group, with Mrs. Rasco accompanying at the piano. Mrs. Clifford Farmer played two selections on the violin, "Home on the Range" and "Have You Ever Been To Texas in the Spring," and was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Rasco.

A two-piano number, "Concerto in C Major," was given by Mrs. Rasco and Venita Tooke. They also played "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers."

Mrs. David May then discussed "Music of Texas." She stated the music of Texas is an outgrowth of a fusion of races and nations, probably because six flags have flown over Texas.

The earliest music was that of the Indian, ever so harsh and monotonous. The first European music came by way of the Catholic Church. Spanish folk music and guitars came with the soldiers and settlers about the missions. French songs came from Louisiana during the 18th century, the speaker said.

After 1820 songs of the English, Scottish and Irish were introduced into Texas from the United States. About 1845 the greatest contribution to musical development were the Germans. Later local bands sprang up and by 1900 most towns had bands.

The first powerful radio station was WFAA in Dallas, and many programs were dedicated to the music of Texas.

The most popular musical program in the Panhandle is Paul Greene's "Texas." At last season's end the Pioneer Amphitheater near Canyon had recorded 341,567 visitors, making "Texas" one of the most attended outdoor musicals in the nation. Mrs. May concluded by playing the theme song of the musical drama, "Texas Forever."

Mrs. Jeanette Irons ended the program by reading some very amusing excerpts from two books by Ben K. Greene, "Horse Tradin'" and "Wild Cow Tales."

The hostess served refreshments to the guest, Venita Tooke and the following members: Mmes. R. E. Clark, Clifford Farmer, Ward Gurley, A. W. Howard, Theodore Swift, Jeanette Irons, David May, Jim Lange, L. A. Stilwell, Robert Moss, Ted Lewis and Misses Alma Bruce and Esta McElrath.

Jacob, "By Faith She Hid the Baby" was presented by Mrs. W. V. Coursey.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Neville Wrenn and Myrtis Phelan, to Mmes. G. M. Smith, A. Gidden, D. M. Jarrell, George Payne, O. M. Gunstream.

The Agnes Bailey School Class of First Baptist Church, Estelline, met in the home of Mr. Roy Sneed, on Main Street, Memphis, on Thursday afternoon, March 3, with Sneed's sister, Mrs. Edna Power, who is a member of the class, acting as hostess.

The class song, "We Have in Jesus," was sung with Mrs. Power leading. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Power.

The report was brought by Mrs. Effie Lawrence who is a member of the class for two years and who now resides in a daughter in Lawton, Okla. made a substantial contribution to the class flower fund. Lawrence is now carrying an extension list.

The devotional was brought by Agnes Bailey who used scriptures from the Psalms bringing the thought of class members could do in this year of 1971 a "Year."

Wall County Delegates Attend Dist. Farm Bureau Conference In Amarillo

Several Farm Bureau programs and activities, including plans for constructing a new headquarters building, were discussed in a District 1 conference March 9 in Amarillo.

Dwain Ellerd and Jerry Montgomery represented the local county organization at the conference.

Construction of the four-story, temporary design building of approximately 100,000 square feet is expected to start in the near future, County President Leon Ellerd reports. The new headquarters for the TFB will be located on a beautiful suburban site overlooking Lake Waco in north-west Waco.

"Front burner" matters discussed at the meeting included: state and national legislative issues, program expansion activities, coordination of county and state Farm Bureau programs, responsibilities of county and state Farm Bureau leaders, and financial report from the TFB.

Farm Bureau members in Texas have been contributing toward the cost of a new building, through membership dues, for the past 19 years. The membership at that time foresaw the need for a future home for the state Farm Bureau.

Total cost of constructing the new edifice, including 59 acres of land on which the building will be located, is $3.1 million. Low bidder on the building was Smith Building Co. of Waco. The architectural firm of Bush & Dudley of Waco, in association with the firm of Harrell-Hamilton of Dallas, designed and planned the building.

When the Texas Farm Bureau moved its headquarters to Waco from Brownwood in 1938, it moved into a rent-free, two-room office over the Waco Chamber of Commerce. The Farm Bureau had a membership of only a few thousand farmers and ranchers at that time.

As the TFB grew, it changed locations in Waco three times, moving to its present location in the Citizens National Motor Ramp Bank Building in June, 1958. The organization has outgrown its present office quarters.

The state's largest general farm organization has 121,158 member families in 204 organized county Farm Bureaus.

Foster-Magri Nuptials Read In Pretty Church Ceremony

The First Baptist Church was the setting at 7:30 p. m. on Friday, Feb. 27, for nuptials uniting in marriage Miss Cheryl Ann Foster and Michael Barton Magri.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Foster of 603 South 8th Street, Memphis. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Magri, Jr., 3408 Wilson Avenue, Lynchburg, Va.

Minister Marshall Walker, director of religious activities at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, officiated the double-ring ceremony before a golden bronze candelabra holding cathedral tapers. This was flanked by golden spiral candle trees. The floral standards of white princess gladiolas and snowball mums against a background of emerald palm branches completed the setting.

Floral arrangements for the family pews and white silk ribbons decorated the double aisle.

Mrs. George Ferris, organist, played appropriate prenuptial music. She also played the traditional wedding processional and recessional.

The Bride

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of candlelight peau de soie with candlelight Venise lace heavily accenting high neckline, empire bodice and long Victorian sleeves. Their gowns were of silk antique gold with raised waist, high collars, and orange, yellow and gold embroidered trim at the waist. Head pieces were of matching trim with yellow tulle and antique gold streamers. They wore matching antique gold shoes.

Carl Roberts of Dallas served as best man. Captain Henry S. Foster, Jr., of Big Spring, brother of the bride, and Grady Stevens of Abilene served as groomsmen.

Ushers were Ben Qualls, Jim La Salandra and John Seiff.

Magri, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mourning of Arlington, Va., aunt and uncle of the groom, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner honoring their son and nephew, and his fiancée, held at the Big O Restaurant in Memphis. A low pyramid arrangement of tangerine carnations and yellow daffodils graced the center of the head table. The bride and groom presented their attendants with gifts of appreciation.

Bridesmaid Luncheon

Miss Imogene King, Mrs. Herbert Estes and Mrs. John Fowler were co-hostesses for the lovely bridesmaid luncheon given in honor of Cheryl Ann Foster at noon on Feb. 27 at the home of Miss King, 523 South 8th Street.

The guests were seated at four-some tables, laid with lovely white cloths, and centered with two white wedding bells entwined with white tulle. Place cards were white, edged in gold, with two golden wedding rings and "Best Wishes on your wedding" written in gold.

God has been generous in offering these men in offering wealth and they are present on where it will serve in this and other general come, as Mr. and Mrs. Wells did in the case of the County Hospital.

Had a short visit with Robert Miller, son of the pastor of First Baptist Church here, Fern Miller. Soberly a short time ago they went to Memphis and John Robert a little eight-year-old boy he is a man, 26 years old, wife and two children, lived his time in Vietnam, a mortuary school and is now in Ft. I noticed in the daily where MGM in Hollywood movie prop auction. Seems that the younger generation wants part in what their generations had.

I do want to compliment Thomas Clayton on his good Rotary program last week that he gave on "Cotton". Some of the points he made about cotton were that this fiber from the history of cotton is about seven thousand years old which was a long time before the birth of Christ, cot- ton is colder and warmer than othe fibers. Cotton was first harvested by pulling it out of the burr, Then pulling burr and lint together by hand and next the go-devil sled and now we have the strippers and pullers. Eli Whitney invented the first mechanical gin and put it in use about 1793. I can remember when my grand- father had a gin with a screw press that a mule went around and around until the bale was tight and they hand tied the bales. Cotton is now grown in 19 states of the U.S. and Texas is the number one in production. Texas' average production per acre in 1945 was one half bale. Today the average per acre is one bale. Production has been doubled in that short time. When a standard bale of cotton is ginned and pressed, it contains 12 pounds per cubic foot. But when compressed for shipping, it has 28 to 32 pounds per cubic foot. Shows what a two hundred ton pressure will do to a bale of cotton. There have been a lot of backaches, heartaches, a lot of money made and a lot lost in cotton. But I hope we can get the mortgage-lifter seed and make a good crop this year.

I found out how Thomas knew so much about cotton. He has been in the cotton business since 1936 and has been with the local com- press since 1937. He has pressed a good many bales of cotton. They can now press 100 to 140 bales per hour.

Mr. Hubert Dennis, teacher of history, had as his guests in Hall County Heritage Hall, the 7th grade in Junior High School. They had been studying about the early days in Texas and were looking forward to seeing the things on display that were used by early day Texans. There were about 75 pupils in the three classes that made this tour. They seemed to be very interested in the early day modes of travel and the home appliances that were used in the early days as they were so dif- ferent from the modern home appliances.

Others visiting Heritage Hall were Den 4 Cub Scouts. Mrs. Roddy Bice is Den Mother of this group of 8 Cub Scouts. Mrs. Campbell Morris is assistant Den Mother and was also with the group. They enjoyed all of the trip through Heritage Hall and especially the pictures in the school room, finding the pictures of their parents and some of their grandparents.

Douglas Jones of Snyder visited Heritage Hall. He was a former resident of Hall County, son of A. A. Jones who moved to Hall County in 1947, left here in 1953 and lives in East Texas at present.

Senior Chief Petty Officer Keith McWhorter was born at Plaska, The son of Mr. and Mrs. John McWhorter, he attended schools in Memphis, joined the Navy in 1955 where he has served for 14 years and traveled all over the western Pacific. He is on leave of absence now and will be station- ed out of California on the U. S. S. Horne. He still speaks the Texas language and says this has always been his home town. His wife is the former Barbara Hen- son, daughter of former Hall County residents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Henson, who now live in Childress. I asked this chief petty officer what he thought of our Heritage Hall and he replied, "It is great and a lot better than I expected to find here."

Others visiting in Heritage Hall were Mrs. Kermit Evans of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Evans and daughters, Carla and Sheila, of Euless; Mrs. Jerry McQueen and daughter, Shari, of Midland; Kermit Copeland of An- ton; Kyle Hardin of Matador;

Mrs. Leland Jones of Dallas, guest of Mrs. Earl Thomas; Josh Smith of Turkey. Mrs. Harry Aspgrren had as her guest Mrs. Cliff Ericson of Aurora, Ill. Mrs. Ericson is a cousin of Harry and they were on vacation to Arizona. She is an antique dealer and was very complimentary of Hall County Heritage Hall.

I was in Dallas a few days ago and find they are still demolishing good buildings, (but ancient) and most of these buildings are re- placed by parking lots. It seems that down-town is going to be filled with parking lots to accom- modate the ones who are working in the skyscrapers. It made you have some kind of empty feelings when passing the blank lot where the historic St. Paul's hospital used to be where thousands of Texans were born and died. Many nurses and doctors were trained here. In place of this blank lot on Hall Street, they have now con- structed a new and modern St. Paul's Hospital in another loca- tion. Another landmark that is being demolished is the old South- land Hotel with which many of you are familiar. So popular 50 years ago.

Another place I passed was the empty stockyards of north Fort Worth where millions of cattle sales had been made over the past half century, where much money was made and lost. This made me think of the stockyards in Chicago that were closed down after a hundred years of opera- tion. With feed lots and modern methods, things have changed. Packing plants, transportation of cattle, hogs and feed have made the difference.

On this last trip to Dallas, I spent a couple of days in and out of Baylor Hospital where my brother, Bill, was a patient fol- lowing an operation. I can re- member 40 or 50 years ago when this was not a very large hospital with the dark brick buildings which were a little dismal when I visited Mrs. S. E. Myers and Rayford Hutcherson years ago. While visiting in my brother's room, I renewed acquaintance with Dr. Boone Powell, who is ad- ministrator of this hospital and has been here the last 26 years. He has also trained other hospital administrators. This hospital has enlarged so much the last sev- eral years, I was anxious to know more about the operation with the new wing just finished and another under construction. I asked few questions and got the fol- lowing answers. The cost of op- eration is over $40 million a year which would be one hundred and fifteen thousand a day. With 3400 employees, the telephone bill is $800 a day. There are 1,300 pa- tient beds. The air conditioning system is ample to cool 1300 av- erage size homes. There are 28 X-ray rooms and one of these rooms contains $200,000 worth of equipment. There are 100 doc- tors in training in this hospital. There are 13 acres of floor space. Dr. Powell has had many honors bestowed on him including the (Continued on Page 8)

Mr. Cotton Farmer
Cotton Lane
Cotton Belt, U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Farmer:

In the cotton section of the Agricultural Act of 1970 there is a unique feature which allows a cot- ton farmer to protect his paying yield against be- ing lowered. This feature will allow you to plant as much cotton as you feel necessary in order to harvest at least as much cotton as the amount on which you receive payment. For example:

If you have a 500 pound yield on a 100 acre allot- ment, your total poundage for payment is 50,000 pounds. To protect your 500 pound paying yield all you have to do is make 50,000 pounds—regard- less of how many acres you plant. If you feel you cannot maintain your paying yield of 500 pounds, you can plant a few more acres in order to assure production of your 50,000 pounds.

What we have said in the previous paragraph is some- what over-simplified. We suggest that you contact your local ASCS office to be sure you understand how this so-called "Frick Amendment" applies to your own particular situation. We bring this to your attention in order to be sure that you are aware of the potential ad- vantage to your farm's paying yield.

Sincerely,
W. R. MOORE COTTON CO.
