Land Development Contracts Are Being Used To Apply Conservation Measures

The Great Plains Conservation Program (GPCP) is a program administered by the Soil Conservation Service, to help local land users prevent wind and water erosion and reduce and control agricultural pollution.

According to David Seitz, the program also will enhance fish, wildlife and recreational uses of land. Seitz stated that there have been 150 land users develop contracts in Hall County. The individual farm contracts last for a period of three to 10 years, and assist the land user in the application of all needed conservation measures to his land.

According to Seitz, there will be 10 GPCP contracts expire this year in Hall County on the following land users: James Fuston, Linton Gardenhire, George Colvin, Mack Richards, U. F. Coker, Neil Davis, Bride Bit Grazing Association, Hubert Price, J. T. & I. D. Mullin, and Allen Danbar.

Seitz stated that, although there is a shortage of federal funds for the program, the local SCS personnel are taking applications from farmers and ranchers who desire to do conservation work in the next few years.

News About Insurance And ...

Notes on the Cyclone—our coaching staff has done an outstanding job in developing a program that should make us all proud. Our kids are not only playing with enthusiasm... they now have the physical qualities to play with authority. I've known and watched them through the past few years, and their development has been remarkable.

What I have to say about Jay Campbell would apply to most of the boys on the team. I've watched Jay for years. He has always been courteous, a good student, and just an ideal youngster. But frankly, I had doubts about his ability to play football. Thru hard work, he has consistently improved, and suddenly blossomed into a gem of consistency on the gridiron. With still another year to go, keep your eye on him. I know you will be proud of him.

The "doc" is now giving me a couple of hours in the morning and afternoon at the office - for which I'm grateful. While convalescing, it has come home to me that the warmth of friendship flows and permeates, and there isn't any physical frailty that can impede its progress.

Harold Smith is associated with two fine old timers, and probably has available more farming and ranching experience than anyone in the County. With his father, Henderson Smith, four score plus years, he rents and farms land owned by Frank Ogden. And the landlord has passed the century mark and is still going strong. Blessings to these two outstanding pioneers.

When the smoke clears in the insurance political arena, we will try to separate the wheat from the chaff. Right now, this is impossible.

Expert Analyzes Texas Cotton Prices Situation

(Editor's Note: The following article was written by Kermit Voelkel, former officer in charge of the Memphis Cotton Classing Office, who is now with the Natural Fibers Economic Research Bureau at the University of Texas in Austin. It appeared last week in the weekly report from Austin under the title, "The Texas Cotton Price Situation.")

The Texas farmer has again fulfilled the goals, which were stressed to him by many interested people.

Various segments of the cotton industry, agricultural and government leaders and promotional groups late last year and early in 1972 (before planting) got on the "soap box" and encouraged farmers to increase their cotton acreage. They reasoned that there was a need for a larger supply of cotton and cotton of a good quality in order to create a larger domestic and foreign consumption of United States cotton.

With this encouragement and the attractive price situation during the first half of the year, Texas cotton farmers planted 220,000 acres or 4 per cent more upland cotton than in the previous year (1971), expecting the price of cotton to be at such a level that they would want to stay in the cotton production business, and to receive a fair return for their efforts.

But, what did they find when they started harvesting their crop this year? No demand and no active market.

The harvest is completed in the Rio Grande Valley and Corpus Christi areas, and at the peak of harvest and beyond in the Austin and Dallas territories.

Through Friday, Sept. 15, the four USDA classing offices of Harlingen, Corpus Christi, Austin and Dallas had classed a total of almost 640,000 samples, representing a like number of bales of cotton.

The quality statistics representing Corpus Christi, Austin and Dallas offices reflected a higher average grade and a longer average staple length than the previous year. The Valley crop also reflected a longer average staple length, but a slightly lower average grade. So the farmers came through with increased acreages and better quality of cotton than in 1971.

It was estimated that 95 per cent of the Valley crop was "field contracted" for prices that ranged from 30 cents to 36 cents per pound. In the Corpus Christi section, about 90 per cent of the cotton in Nueces and San Patricio counties was "field contracted," and about 50 per cent was sold in like manner in the Upper Coastal counties for prices ranging from 30 cents to 33 cents per pound.

There was "field contracting" of cotton in the Austin and Dallas territories, but the percentage was not as large as in the two above mentioned sections. The largest percentage of contracting in this part of the state was in the Brazos River Bottom, where the larger farmers operate. Generally, the price paid was around 30 cents per pound in the Blacklands.

Based on the average percentage of field contracted cotton in the four territories, it was conservatively estimated that of the total classed, 400,000 bales were "field contracted," leaving about 250,000 bales of "free" cotton from the opening of the season until Sept. 15. Of the total "free" cotton, about 30,000 bales of Texas cotton had been placed in the CCC loan as of Sept. 15, and all but 500 bales were under Form G (Coop) loan.

Some leaders indicated that the forecast of a 1972 crop in excess of 13,500,000 bales was the reason for the declining prices. We cannot fully agree with this reason. It is still a long time until February 1 when the last bale is usually tied out, and the weather has not made its move as to how good or how bad it will be come November and December. (We are commenting on the Texas harvest.)

Could the reason for this stalemate of "no demand and no price" be the early "field contracting" of the crop for such prices as 30 to 36 cents per pound? It seems like there existed "greediness" on the part of the purchasers early in the season and thereby caused competitive bidding and high prices. It was a race of getting there first with the most. Many industry people think that the farmers would have contracted for less than the 30 and 36 cents, and that they would sell for around 25 cents, but not for 18 and 20 cents.

Current cotton prices averaged about 8 cents per pound less than a year ago. It is doubtful that anyone can recall a situation in cotton marketing as exists now. It has been 8 weeks that the farmer has heard the same tune—"the mills and large shippers are not in the market, consequently, I have no outlet and have no price." According to the Weekly Cotton Market Review of the USDA, the 12-market average for Mid. 1 inch cotton has declined without interruption for 22 consecutive trading days.

Practically all cotton growers that we have been in contact with, expressed disappointment at the continued decline in cotton prices. And they feel that the cotton industry is again on the "sick list." Look for farmers to place more of their cotton in the CCC loan, and never to believe those "soap box" orators again. And, this also could cause a cotton acreage reduction next season, and no doubt some farmers will turn to other industries.

Could it be that the "field contracting" method of marketing cotton is on the way "out"? We hope so. We have never felt that this system was conducive to the production of quality cotton. And, in our opinion, the paying of such

Democrat News Story Brings Old Friends Together After 65 Years

Mrs. Rhodie Davis, a resident of the Housing Authority units here, brought to The Democrat the following story concerning a party held there for Mother's Day and the events brought about by it.

She states, "All the children and grandchildren of the women that live in these wonderful homes that were built here in Memphis gave us all a lovely get-together party on Saturday before Mother's Day. There were 18 of us. All had a wonderful time and the greatest of all to me brought me in touch with one of my girl friends whom I had not seen or heard from in 65 years.

"Mrs. Combs, from The Democrat office, came to the party and took pictures of us all. My girl friend was at their ranch, the Bradley Ranch down east Estelline, but she lives in Missouri. Her name is Mrs. Bradley.

"It was back in 1909, we in Archer County. She got married to Mr. Jack Bradley moved away. I married in December of 1909 and also moved to Hall County and then to Rado for 10 years and then back in Hall County and lived on the Galloway farm, half mile west of Plaska. I have seen Rado, I have to know that she has friends cousins here that I've known long. My oldest son married cousin's brother's daughter, ma Dennis, who lived at Plaska.

"When Rado was at the ranch she saw my picture in The Democrat, recognized me and gave me over the phone. We had long talk getting acquainted again. Finally the 20th of September, she came to see me, was so good to see each other again.

"On Sept. 27, my daughter Hazel Hall, my granddaughters Flora Phillips, and I went to Rado at Seymour and we all enjoyed a wonderful dinner she prepared. In the afternoon we went to our old home place Archer County at Dundee, Tex. but as it had been so long things changed so much, no longer looked natural. We went to old home and the house was nothing but mesquite trees some oil wells pumping. Wichita River which ran by land was all made into a big named Conchas with lots of houses around it and out in the lake.

"It's such a great thrill to and know my friend again, has been up here to see her in lots of times but just to know where I lived."

Motorcycles and cars with "hot" mufflers can produce excessive noise levels.

By 1990, it is estimated, more than 162 million motor vehicles will be registered in the U.S.

Ellis County to Hall County in 1906. There were five boys and four girls in this family and there are only two survivors in this family of children, Minnie Davis of Fresno, Calif., and Roy of Corpus Christi.

C. Edwards was visiting in Hall and gave me this family who were early residents of Hall County: A. (Jimmy) Edwards and moved from Waco, Me... County, Texas, to Hall County in October, 1907.

the get-together while attending the picnic, was so glad to see so many of old friends. Of course, they had aged the same as I had. She was a contributor this year to our picnic fund and also to Heritage Hall, for which, we are very thankful. There is only one other survivor of the Gist family and that one is Alice who lives in Amarillo.

Other former residents visiting in Heritage Hall were Mr. and Dub Bragg of Amarillo and his mother, Mrs. W. J. Bragg of Houston.

The other letter was from Ida Mae Long of 704 Hall St., Kingsville. She says she is still interested in Hall County and looks forward each week to get the news from her hometown. She reports that her brother-in-law, Leck Moreman, is enjoying his fishing with good luck. That her sister, Ruby (Long) Moreman, is enjoying her bridge, and Ida Mae says she is enjoying her TV along with fresh lemons, oranges and grapefruit plucked from the trees in their yard. We owe thanks to her as a contributor to Heritage Hall. Ida Mae will be remembered by many of you as being the "Hello" girl at the telephone office for a number of years. When she first worked at the switchboard, we could take down the receiver and say "Hello, Myrt, where was the fire last night? How much did Mrs. Jones' baby weigh and what time it it?"

Visited with Roy McQueen of Corpus Christi a few days ago. He reported to me that his father, L. M. McQueen, moved from Lou is now working for Skyways, Inc., which delivers airplanes world-wide by civilians. In her free time, she is working with a non-profit organization that has telephone pals of older people that live by themselves and also afflicted children that need transportation and care along with the elderly people. Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland for their contribution to Hall County Heritage Hall.

A quote from Earl Wilson: "If you ever wondered what kind of people your ancestors were, try running for an election and your opponent will tell you."

Totie Fields' gag book says she is going on a diet and says she weighs 240 pounds and asks the question, "What should I give up?" And the answer from Earl Wilson was that she give up driving a Volkswagen.

We received a photograph a few days ago of Chas. Oren in his jewelry store with him at the work bench repairing watches. The picture was made about 1912 which makes it 60 years old. This was sent to us by Anna Katherine (Oren) Wilkinson of Pacoima, Calif. We also received from her the fittings for her father's engraving machine which he used in 1909. This makes the engraving machine complete as the family left the other part some time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wheeler of Amarillo were visitors in Heritage Hall. Bob will be remembered at the son of the late Frank Wheeler who passed away in 1952. Bob left here in 1942, served four years in the army and then back to college where he married his wife, Ruth, who now teaches in the Amarillo schools. Bob taught at Hardin-Simmons in Abilene and has been teaching English at Amarillo College for the past three years. His brother, Jack, is now living in Lincoln, Neb., where he is a mission pastor. The sister, Dorothy, has been living in Dallas for the past number of years.

Others visiting in Heritage Hall were J. H. Powell of Amarillo, Elmo Powell of Wichita Falls, and Frank Smith of Borger.

In glancing about in a coffee break booth of a local drug store, I discovered talent for "Hee-Haw" if these four young grandmothers could keep that talent going. It was the heartiest and happiest laugh that I had heard in years when the tears rolled from their eyes which was caused by this hearty laugh. I guess they could take Lulu's place.

Kate (Miller) Jones had as her guest in Heritage Hall, her sister, Emmie (Miller) Shamblin of Wichita, Kans. Her husband, Olin, recently passed away. Kate and Emmie are daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller who moved to Hall County in 1905. Mrs. Miller passed away in 1943 and W. A. passed away in 1946. There were five children in this family, Joe of Hedley, Loftus of Graham, Emmie of Wichita, Kans., Bill and Kate of Memphis. Kate married the late Jessie James and they lived in Tyler for several years before she moved back to Memphis. There are 11 grandchildren in this family. Mrs. Olin Shamblin graduated from MHS in 1930. She and Olin left here in 1934 moving to Oklahoma and lived in Kingfisher for 16 years before moving to Wichita. They have one son and one daughter and four grandchildren. Olin worked for Boeing Airplanes for the past 21 years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Wichita Falls were visitors in Hall

County Heritage Hall. Mrs. Davis will be remembered as Myrtle Boone, daughter of Bert Boone and granddaughter of the late Sam Boone, who moved to Hall County in 1896 to the Plaska area. There were seven children in the Boone family and only two now survive, Peril Beckam of Houston and Bert Boone of Haskell. Mrs. Davis brought a nice collection of early day pictures in for display.

M. W. Paschall of Leudy was a visitor in Heritage Hall. He is the son of the late Mack Paschall and Mrs. Paschall of Memphis. M. W. was born and reared in Hall County. He served four years in the Army driving a tank and he was on the committee that named the tank at Fort Hood, "Henry the 3rd." His foreign service was spent most of the time in Italy and Africa. In August, he attended the reunion of the 1st Armored Division in Louisville, Ky. He is now on the nominating committee and director of organization representing Texas. They are now working on a three million dollar tank museum at Fort Knox, Ky. This is being financed by donations. There were 700 at
