Key 73 Observance Has Good Reception

Those participating in the Prayer Life Mission sponsored by the First United Methodist Church and the First Christian Church, and the First Presbyterian Church this past week came away feeling that planning and effort was fully justified, according to religious leaders.

This unusual program designed to enrich the prayer life of Christian people enabled us to meet our neighbors of other churches around a common need and interest and to draw us together in very close Christian fellowship, it was reported.

A number of persons from the three sponsoring churches served on committees which did most of the planning for the mission which was led by Dr. Marshall Rhee of Seymour.

Attendance at most sessions was good it was reported. The most important part of the mission is the followup. Eighteen persons turned in decision cards stating their desire to put into practice some of the things learned during the week.

"One way we might strengthen the prayer life of our Churches and individual lives is to get together in a men's prayer breakfast, a ladies' prayer luncheon, or a youth supper once a month and pray specifically for Key 73 and other needs in the community and world."

If there are those interested in organizing and participating in an interdenominational prayer or interdenominational prayer they should contact their pastor or church office.

AN EDITORIAL A Concerned Citizenry We Appreciate!

This newspaper was published this week under trying circumstances, due to the death of the Publisher Herschel A. Combs.

Without the help, support and encouragement of many, many citizens who came to the quick assistance of the editorial staff, all immediate members of the Combs family, the publication deadline could not have possibly been met.

The editor appreciates so very much the offers of assistance from so many sources, and regrets whatever inconvenience some may have suffered during those periods when the front door had to be closed.

The concern shown for this publication was appreciated equally as well as the messages of sympathy.

Thank you,
The Editor

MHS Cagers To Go To Wellington Fri.

The Memphis Cyclone, with hopes still alive for a clean sweep of the District 2-A basketball championship, travels to Wellington Friday night for an important game.

The Cyclonettes dropped out of the district race this week with two losses.

The Cyclonettes made a determined offer against the Valley High girls last Friday night, pulling within three points early in the fourth period, only to have several girls foul out of play and the Valley High girls took command of the contest.

The Cyclone scored victories over Valley High and Wheeler this week.

Next Tuesday night, Memphis teams play hosts to teams from Silverton in Cyclone gym. Fans are encouraged to make the trip to Wellington Friday night to support the local teams.

The B team boys won a 60 to 45 victory over Valley High Friday night.

In the girls game Friday, Memphis fell behind 22 to 8 in the opening quarter of play, but came back in the second period to trail by four, 30 to 26. In the third period, Valley led by five, 45 to 40, and as the final period open-

Hall County farmers had six days of harvesting weather, and during that period gathered 13,574 bales of cotton, according to a telephone survey of the 12 Hall County ginning points.

This brings the season's total to 58,249. Wet weather today with more promised will again halt an already delayed harvest.

ton could easily represent more than two-thirds of the crop, however, there is a lot of gathering yet to be done in some areas.

Ginners reported the cotton came in at a record pace and the 13,500-plus total for the harvest week is one of the largest, if not the largest one-week record ever turned in. Actually, no survey had been made for the past two weeks, since Thursday morning, Jan. 4, so actually, cotton gathered two days before the snow is reported in this report.

One factor, brought to the attention of this editor by ginners and M. C. Allen, Jr., of the Memphis Compress Co., is that cotton bales this year, on the average, are larger than in past years, since farmers are paying for bagging and ties.

One ginners reported that farmers are paying close attention to having enough cotton on each trailer to make three large bales. By making the bales larger, it will naturally cut down some on the number of bales which will be harvested.

Classing Report
Cotton harvest resumed on a limited scale this week over the Memphis, Texas area as clear skies and good ground drying conditions continue, said W. E. Cain, in Charge of the USDA, AMS, Cotton Classing office in Memphis. "Farmers welcomed the good drying weather this past week as about 30 percent of this crop is yet to be harvested," said Cain.

The Memphis Cotton Classing Office graded 5,000 samples last week to bring the season total to 136,300. This compares to 102,750 on the same date a year ago.

The predominant grade classed was Strict Low Middling Light Spotted (42) with 43 percent followed by Strict Low Middling (41) with 23 percent, and Middling Light Spotted (32) with 12 percent.

The predominant staple classed was 32 with 64 percent followed by staples 33 with 32 percent.

Micronaire, or fineness and maturity, readings showed 76 percent miked in the desirable range of 3.5 to 4.9. The 3.3 to 3.4 range accounted for 12 percent and the 3.0 to 3.2 range accounted for 8 percent.

Pressure, or strength, tests showed 88 percent of the samples (Continued on Page 10)

One Agriculture Goal Already Reached!

This newspaper, like many publications throughout Texas has, in past issues, commented in news articles and editorials about a movement started by Texas A&M economists who advanced the slogan "$3.76 in '76"—meaning a farm and ranch income of $3.76 billion for Texas, in 1976.

Well, 1972 came along and this goal was reached, four years earlier than economists had thought possible. This means Texans of many different business affiliations got several billion dollars more in revenue in 1972 than had been expected. They stand a good chance of profiting even more in 1973 and the immediate future.

The windfall results from the state's agriculture overshooting its monetary goals. About five years ago, Texas A&M economists got together on what they considered to be a realistic objective for increasing crop and livestock income. They set 1976 as the target year, because it will be the 200th birthday of our country and the 100th anniversary of land-grant college agriculture programs.

As a catchy slogan, they came up with "$3.76 in '76" which would represent a $1-billion rise over the $2.7-billion income of farmers at that time.

Not four years later, this $3.76-billion goal was reached, according to the latest calculations of Director John C. Hutchison of Texas Agricultural Extension Service and others at College Station. So, Texas agricultural leaders have raised their sights by another $1 billion for the target year, and are sloganizing "$4.76 by 1976."

Leadership in past and present efforts to increase income centers in the Texas A&M extension and research staff. But Dr. Mutchison and his associates emphasize that much credit goes to the rank and file of producers and to cooperating agribusiness and educational agencies. Weather, inflation and other factors played a part.

It is certainly significant when agriculture makes substantial gains, for those involved in agricultural pursuits provide the original raw materials for much of Texas economy. The Dallas Morning News commented on this situation last Sunday and what this newspaper had to say is refreshing, considering the source.

"Most significant, though, is the fact that in this case goals were surpassed early. Many people who couldn't care less about farming are among the beneficiaries, as well as those in agribusiness. Off-farm revenues from crops and livestock multiply the producers' share by three, four or more times.

They make jobs for the shoe clerk in Dallas as well as in Denton or Dalhart. They send truckers with loads to the docks of Houston, just as they keep hands busy at the grain elevator in Hondo or the citrus shed at Harlingen.

The majority of Texans who live in cities today too often overlook the fundamentals that keep them busy and eating. Oil and agriculture—the lifeblood of more than 200 counties of the state—continue to be economic essentials for the other 54 counties which have more diversified economies.

"As the on-farm and off-farm agri-business of this state reaches or exceeds its future goals, all Texans will benefit. And all Texans should be aware of and grateful for the agricultural leaders who have demonstrated that they can do more, in less time, than they set out to do."

What Other Editors Say

Scientists continue to make progress toward a greatly needed goal—turning waste into wealth.

The potentials are enormous. Each American produces an average of about one ton of solid waste yearly, and this is increasing 5 per cent annually.

Livestock and poultry wastes total more than 1.5 billion tons yearly. They are a major cause of pollution around the livestock feedlots, such as the huge enterprises that have developed in recent years in Northwest Texas.

Millions of dollars must be spent each year by governments and private industries to dispose of these wastes. Reducing those costs and obtaining useful materials is the objective of many researchers today.

At Edmonston, Md., a federal recycling plant has eliminated the need for burying solid waste and processed it into products of value. Still in the experimental stage, this promises to become economically feasible, researchers say.

Similar encouraging progress has been made by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists at Peoria, Ill. Working with livestock and poultry refuse, researchers have produced feeds, cellulose, fiber, and pulp products and other useful products.

Solutions of many of the increasing pollution problems will depend largely upon being able to be adequately funded and expanded to the benefits of all Americans.

Good Old Income Tax Waste Into Wealth

It is that time of year again, and from now until April, millions of American taxpayers are going to fume and complain about filing familiar 1940, the federal income tax return.

And it is a nuisance. And it is an unpleasant chore. None of us like to pay income taxes, but there are some things to be said in favor of the income tax.

The income tax is fair in that it is paid only if you have an income. You can't say that about other taxes.

You pay sales taxes on every item you buy, and your ability to pay the tax has nothing to do with it.

You pay property taxes every year on the value of the property you own, and whether or not it brings you anything has nothing to do with it!

If you are an employer, you send Uncle Sam a sizeable payroll tax every month, and he demands this on every dollar of your payroll. Whether or not you or your company is making any money has nothing to do with it.

The income tax is progressive, the rates get higher as the taxpayer makes more money. The high income tax person gets some tax breaks such as contributing some of his money to church and charity. But in general the bulk of the income taxes are paid by those most able to pay.

The state of Texas collects a variety of taxes, including a franchise tax on corporations that is levied every year whether or not the corporation makes a dime or not. This tax is levied against its assets, year after year.

The income tax system has come under attack because it is an unpopular method of financing our federal government. But let's be fair about it—short of paying no taxes at all, what would you suggest that would beat it in fairness?

1913 Study Club Members Enjoy Unique Program

"From Adam's Rib to Women's Lib" was the topic of a panel discussion considered by members of the 1913 Study Club when they met in the home of Mrs. Herschel Combs the afternoon of Jan., 17.

Mrs. Byron Baldwin acted as moderator for the discussion; Mr. Tommy Nelson, substituting for his wife, directed the thinking of the audience toward "Eve and The Bible Women". In the absence of Mrs. A. D. Britt who is recuperating from a fractured hip, Mrs. Joe Allen Ballard read her paper entitled "Victorian Women", and Virginia Browder discussed "New Women", including Women's Lib, of course.

The program was begun with a meditation including a poem about a pioneer by Mrs. Bob Hutcherson enjoyed in its entirety by the listeners.

A brief business session, conducted by the president, Mrs. F. W. Foxhall, preceded the main program. The minutes of the previous meeting were read; the treasurer's report given; and a few departmental counselors reported.

Fourteen members including the hostess and one guest, Mrs. Hayes from Tyler were present.

After listening to the panel members, all were convinced that, as George Bernard Shaw opined, "Woman is the female of the human species and not a different kind of animal".

Delicious refreshments of coffee and "Sesame pie" were served.

Big Tires Increase Speed
Switching to tires with a larger circumference, such as snow tires, may cause you to get a false speed reading, on the low side. A car with fatter tires travels farther with each revolution of the wheels. If your speedometer indicates you are doing just the legal limit and you're still passing everyone on the road, have it checked-before the police check it for you.

I DON'T CARE TO BE 'FILTHY RICH'—JUST COMFORTABLY SOILED WILL DO.

Check Tire Regularly

Air is free and proper inflation is a cheap price to pay for safe driving, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Under or over-inflation can cause steering problems and possible damage to tires which may lead to an accident. Check air pressure regularly.

The Lonely Heart

YOUR COUNTY AGENT SAYS

Have Reason For Pruning Trees

Have a good reason before pruning shade trees, advises County Extension Agent W. B. Hooser.

Pruning is justified to remove limbs that are too low and obstructing traffic and to improve the tree's shape. Two other reasons are to remove dying or diseased limbs and to raise the shade level enough to grow additional grass or flowers underneath the tree.

Seldom is pruning encouraged to increase the vigor of established trees. Such topping or excessive branch removal may actually reduce the vigor, contends Hooser. Topping can have a permanent, adverse effect on the shape of many trees.

Branches are the support for the leaves needed to manufacture food for the growth. However, pruning does not always have to be done during the dormant season. Bleeding may follow pruning but usually this does not harm a tree. The county agent advises waiting until the dormant season to do major pruning of deciduous trees.

Immediately after pruning, treat the wound in order to keep insects, rot and disease organisms out of the wound. Hooser recommends painting the wound with an oil or asphalt base paint or a tree wound paint. Any of these should provide adequate protection.

A good rule-of-thumb for the gardener to remember and follow is to limit pruning the live branches to those with a diameter of two inches or less. Pruning also should be done before the heart wood has begun to form in the limbs, the county agent says.

For correct pruning, make the cut flush with the trunk or the larger limbs. The best tool for doing this is a saw. Hooser points out that axes, hatchets or other swinging tools should not be used. The reasoning behind this is that it is not possible to prune with them without leaving a stub. These stubs or projections prevent fast healing. Also, unless, careful and somewhat skilled in their use, a mislick with those tools could result in an injury to both the tree and the person doing the pruning.

One way to cut down or eliminate pruning is to select plants having natural form and ultimate size appropriate for their landscape location. "It is done, little pruning will be necessary," he adds.

Considerable shaping and removal of dead wood are required of the so-called "fast growing" trees. Thus, a wiser choice usually would be a somewhat slower growing but more permanent and sturdy tree. Also, many of these slow growers can be induced to grow much faster if properly watered, fertilized, staked and mulched.

So, whether working with your present landscape or developing a new one, keep in mind the ultimate size shape of the plants used. If developing a new landscape, you may want to use the slower growing sturdy varieties instead of the fast growing ones.

JUDGEMENT

- Deuteronomy 32:36

"The Lord shall judge His People."

Every responsible individual is aware that judgment is certain. In any given situation, faced with a particular challenge or an inviting temptation, our actions will be open to the judgment of our contemporaries and to the stirrings of our own conscience. A word or deed can bring about social ostracism. A crime against the state may result in imprisonment, even death. But, most important of all, there is the judgment of God.

With all of this, fear of judgment should not dictate our every act and deed. Instead we should strive to lead a life that is pleasing to God—not because we fear a day of reckoning, but because we seek to please God through a life which is "according to His will." We cannot be perfect; it is not expected. Yet we can turn away from that which is wrong and, with conscience as a guide, strive always to do that which is right. If we do this, the day of judgment will be a day of reward.

THE INTELLIGENT INVESTOR

By J. Y. MONK, III

person who holds income tax investments should be concerned with the amount of income tax that he pays on the investment income he receives. If one is in a high income tax bracket, he will have to pay out a high percentage of his investment income each year in federal and state income taxes.

The investment vehicle which helps to alleviate the tax burden on investment income is the municipal bond. Municipal bonds are issued by cities, counties, and states in order to raise money for various public projects such as building of a college dormitory. These bonds offer the investor a tax free income which is usually paid on a semi-annual basis.

in which he resides, the interest paid to him is free of both state and federal income taxes. If he buys bonds issued outside of his home state, the interest is free of federal income taxes, but is subject to be taxed by the state.

Assume that a person in the 25 per cent income tax bracket holds an investment worth $1,000 which is paying him interest of 6 per cent per year. He is receiving $60.00 per year on his investment, but, after paying federal income taxes (he actually has only $45.00 of spendable income.

If, however, the same person invests $1,000 in a municipal bond yielding only 5 per cent, he will receive interest of $50.00 per year. Since he does not have to pay any income tax on this interest, he will actually have $50.00 of spendable income. In effect, the municipal bond, yielding only 5 per cent, gives him a higher net return than his taxable investment which yields 6 per cent.

Municipal bonds, which are usually issued in $1,000 denominations, can be purchased from any reputable brokerage firm or through most banks. They are backed by the full taxing power of the city, county, or state which issues them and are suitable investments for anyone seeking tax free income.

If one does not wish to hold a particular municipal bond until it matures, he can also sell it through a brokerage firm or through his bank. Municipal bonds will fluctuate in price according to the direction in which interest rates are moving, but, if one holds them to maturity, he can be fairly well assured of having his principle returned to him on the maturity date.

The public pays literally millions of dollars each year to accountants and lawyers trying to discover new ways to avoid paying income taxes. Municipal bonds provide one with a readily available, legally acceptable method to avoid paying taxes on investment income.

Says COUNTY AGENT

Your Winter Hints For Transporting Livestock

Transporting livestock calls for numerous safety precautions at all times but even more so in the winter when low temperatures and adverse weather conditions present additional hazards.

County Extension Agent W. B. Hooser lists some pointers to consider in transporting livestock safely to reduce losses and injuries:

1. First of all, allow animals time to recover from the stress of sorting and driving before loading them. Nervous, excited animals are hard to load. 2. Be sure to give the vehicle a thorough check. Ventilation is especially important and should be adjusted to the weather. In cold weather, drafts should be eliminated.

3. A non-skid floor in the vehicle cuts down livestock bruises and other injuries. It also eliminates the need for bedding although shavings, straw, sawdust or similar materials may be added to absorb moisture.

4. Partitions are important in longer vehicles or with mixed species and sizes of animals. They help prevent piling of the animals in case of a sudden stop and also discourage pigs and lambs from instinctive hops and jumps to keep warm.

5. The loading chute should be solid and sturdy. This is important in reducing the loading stress of animals. Poor loading conditions increase the chance of "downers" and subsequent bruising, crippling or even death.

6. Use the right kind of persuaders and use them properly. Improper persuasion creates excitement (emotional stress) and results in excessive shrinkage, loss of market bloom and increased physical damage.

7. Avoid overloading the vehicle. 8. If the animals are to be hauled a considerable distance, stop at regular intervals and check the load.

By paying particular attention to the safety of your livestock during the loading and hauling process, they will reach their destination in better physical condition and hopefully you will be able to reap additional profits, points out Hooser.

More Wives Work County Than National Average

(Special to The Democrat) NEW YORK, Jan. 20—Likelihood of finding a woman at home during any time is slimmer than ever.

Chances are that she is occupied somewhere else, working down in an office, in a factory, or engaged in professional activity.

The growing number, local workers finding it possible to take their household responsibilities and still have enough free time to permit them to take outside jobs.

Statistics, 37.3 percent of the women in Hall County are in the labor force. This compares with 19.3 percent in 1960, throughout the United States whole, in more than 1 out of 3 husband-wife families, if the wife is employed, either part-time or full-time. Twenty years ago, only 1 out of 5 had outside jobs.

On this female surge in the labor market, as it affects local area and other parts of the country, come from the Department of Commerce, the Labor Department and others.

Too many years ago, the topic debated was whether it was proper for a married woman to take a job, notes Sales Manager.

Today, it adds, the topic is liberation-minded women whether the wages they are getting are fair.

During the past decade, marriage and single women pour out of their homes and into the world of business to such an extent that they accounted for 10.8 percent of the labor force. This was equal to 35.2 percent of the working age population. Now, it has now reached 35.2 percent with 847 of them in the labor force.

Most of you enjoyed the live television of the 37th presidential inauguration which was very interesting and colorful. There was quite a contrast in this inaugural oath to some of the other inauguration occasions. Geo. Washington was land poor when elected and had to borrow money to finance the trip to his inauguration even though it was a horseback trip. His speech consisted of 5 words and was over in short order. The conveyance was quite different this time with the president flying from Florida to Washington, D. C., by jet. Then riding in a super glass-enclosed limousine from the White House to the speaker's stand with security officers all around him. I did not see a place where the inaugural committee had spent about a million dollars for the extra seats were carpeted and heated after all of the expense, the committee expected to make a clear profit. Some of the seats were carpeted and heated the higher-ups in our nation's government. They seemed to have a lot of family reunions in President Nixon on down the line of office holders. The former president's wives were represented by Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower who was very attractively dressed in red. Some of the people on the sidelines that could get in the top-brass seats their blankets and spent the night to be sure they could see the parade. Geo. Wallace was in his wheelchair watching the ceremony and parades. I was the only one that had been in the race a part of time for president and is now invalid for life. He made a nice office for his try Anyway. I hope they did say that this was the second time in history that the president's wife helped with the inauguration of her husband, King the Bible. It was noticeable that they used people from different religions and colors in prayers that were given. I believe I heard one commentator say that McGovern was shopping in London for the day. Our president seemed to be well protected by security officers and I think they caught the oranges and apples that were tossed at the president's limousine. One security officer came to the rescue of the president by letting him wear his raincoat. My personal opinion is that a president and his wife have to be strong, healthy people to put in a day like they did, making five of the inaugural balls and getting in at 1:30 a. m. the next morning. I would think they would have to have face bandages or splints after all of the waving and shaking hands all that long day. The parade was so long that it made me think of the Rose Bowl Parade. My memory now is that they had 121 entries in the parade with every state represented except three with a lot of pretty horses, girls, floats and good bands.

The president's speech was a little longer with words than our first president's, as I think he had about 2,000 words. A part that I remembered that he said in this speech was "Government must learn to take less from people, so people can do more for themselves."

I hope the Washington drug stores had plenty of pain relieving tablets and pills for the crowd of people that watched the complete program last Saturday. I bet the rest rooms had a rushing business!

We received a delayed New Year's card the past week which was very outstanding with the pictures in color of Frank and Katherine Frances Toner with their two daughters, Suzanne and Sandra. This photography was very outstanding. Katherine Frances will be remembered as the daughter of the late Clyde Milam and Katherine (Stokes) Milam. Along with the New Year's card, they mailed us a book entitled, "A Garden Grows in Eden." This is the centennial story of San Leandro, Calif. and has 233 pages and 68 illustrations. This book was promoted by the San Leandro Historical Centennial Committee. The Toner family did a lot of work helping get the information in this very interesting book. We are very proud of the book and will try to give some of the facts that are quoted in this book. The part I have read shows that everything was not roses all of the years. They had their ups and downs and challenges that made the people stronger in making a better place to live.

of Cheyenne, Wyo. Stephen was born and reared in Hawaii and has been in the Army the past three and a half years with about half of this time spent in Vietnam. Mrs. Piper is the former Tinka Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Williams of Johnstown, Colo. She is the granddaughter of Chas. Williams of Memphis. Mr. and Mrs. Piper were very much interested in Heritage Hall.

I had a short visit with Senator Jack Hightower the past Saturday and he seems to be doing fine. I do not see how these public officials hold up so good, trying to take care of all the appointments they have. They must have good vitamins to take.

The past week Donald Hansen, 3423 Vromal Rr., Jackson, Mich. 49201, was a visitor in Hall County Heritage Hall. This was Donald's first trip back to Memphis since graduating in the 1946 class. After graduating here from High School, he lived on the Philippine Islands for one year, came back to the States and graduated from the University of Wisconsin at Madison, Wisc. He had a sister, Daisy, who attended school here and is now living in Milwaukee, Wisc. Their parents are Wallace and Ellen Hansen who lived in Memphis from 1943 to 1946 in the T. R. Garrott home at 10th and Brice Streets. At that time, Wallace was a major in the Air Force, stationed at Childress. He is now retired and living in Milwaukee. Donald is spending two weeks in Dallas as Com. U. S. N. R-R and took advantage of the weekend to pay a visit to some of his high school friends. Some of his schoolmates he remembered were Larry McQueen, Bill Ballew, Sue Ann Roberts and Frances Pyeatt. Two of his former teachers he visited with while here were Miss Ira Hammond and Mrs. Homer Tribble. Donald married a Milwaukee girl and they now have one son, age 16, and one daughter, age 18. Don is now covering 15 states contracting for running tracks and tennis courts.

Don was surprised that we had so many items on display in Heritage Hall.

Other visitors in Heritage Hall were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foster and daughter, Karen, of Dallas, Regina Stone of Amarillo and Laurie Misfeldt of Amarillo.

I had a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Tony Craig of Guymon, Okla., the past Saturday. They were former residents of Memphis where Mr. Craig was with General Telephone Co. They were the kind of people that wanted to do their part in helping Hall County to be a better place to live. They gave me a report on another Hall County telephone man and that was Dub Leigon of Brownfield. He is a fellow-surfer from ice falls, as he fell recently on the unexpected ice skating and broke his leg. Hope he soon gets back on two feet.

I think it was Hubert Dennis that gave me this quote a few days ago: "The mother spends the first 12 months of the baby's life trying to teach him to walk and talk. The rest of the baby's life, Mama is trying to catch up with him to tell him to 'shut up.'"

In the passing away of Robert A. Grundy of Waco, we lost the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dave Grundy. There are very few Grundys now living in Hall County along with other pioneer names that were very prominent in the early days in laying out the town of Memphis.

Some of our streets are named after some of the pioneers. The streets that I can think of now and the families not represented here very much now are Dover for Dover Debster, Montgomery, Brice, Brumley, Bradford, Boykin, Grundy, Noel, Harrison and others that I do not recall now.

Two County Superintendents Attend Panhandle School Leaders Meet Sat.

Panhandle School Leaders Association met at Robert E. Lee Jr. High, 2401 Charles Street, Pampa, Saturday, Jan. 20, 1973. Chester Cunningham, Superintendent of Estelline Schools and Tops Gilreath, Hall County Superintendent of Schools, attended the meeting. Other local superintendents were unable to attend because of prior commitments. Miss Gilreath serves the sectional group of superintendents as secretary-treasurer.

At the general session the speaker was Cecil E. Rusk, Executive Director of Texas Association School Boards. He very ably discussed H. B. No. 3 which was introduced Monday and sponsored by Cecil Parker, representative of Jefferson County, Beaumont. He encouraged school boards, superintendents, teachers and school organizations to contact their representative to oppose the measure which has several sections dealing with closed meetings, executive sessions, etc.

He also brought out different issues involved in the finance plans for schools by Texas Education Agency, Texas State Teachers Association, Mauzy's, Texas Research Plan. These plans have come about because of the ruling by the three judges in San Antonio reference the ad valorem tax for financing the schools of Texas.

The Texas state board members did not approve the T.E.A. plan at their meeting in January. Postponing it until February or later. The state board has 14 new board members but the panhandle district still has Mr. Herbert Willborn of Amarillo.

Baptist Men —

God's Word. Features of the special day begin with a fellowship breakfast at the Big O Restaurant at 7:30 Sunday morning. All the men are invited to the breakfast. Then at 9:45 men will lead in the studying of the Bible Sunday School.

The 11 o'clock worship service will feature a 35 voice men's choir, and the message will be brought by Mr. Mark Davis, a layman from the San Jacinto Baptist Church in Amarillo. Mr. Davis is the owner of Mark Davis Carpet Co.

The 7 o'clock evening worship service will feature the Youth Choir and a message by Rev. Ricky Skaggs, a member of First Baptist Church.

Following the evening worship service there will be a church-wide fellowship highlighted by a men's cake baking contest. The men of the church will prepare and serve refreshments. Prizes will be presented to the men who baked the prettiest and ugliest cake.

Pastor of the church, C. H. Murphy Jr., said "Baptist Men's Day is an annual event in our church, and it is always a spiritual blessing. We have some of the greatest men on the face of God's earth, and I expect to see a packed auditorium as a testimony of our people's belief in our men. We invite everyone to come."

Mrs. Gordon Maddox and daughter left Friday for Wichita Falls to spend the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Zack Fisher and family. Mr. Maddox joined them there on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Barren Smith returned from Dallas on Tuesday night where they had been attending the merchandise mart.

meeting was divided into its sectional groups of superintendents, secondary and elementary principals, public school supervisors and guidance personnel, school business managers and tax assessor-collectors, school board members.
