Weston Defends Title in Local Golf Tourney

View Golfer Dick Weston, who has just finished his college career at West Texas A&M, won a 19th hole sudden death playoff with Eddie Deunkel to successfully defend his title in the Memphis Invitational Golf tournament.

Yet, a few of the golfers, like Weston and Deunkel, Memphis' Manny Scarbrough and Max Hickey of Pampa, were able to keep their scores near the par figure and be the four leaders going into the final rounds.

MISS JANET McNALLY
Named Delegate to Girl's State

Janet McNally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McNally, has been chosen as delegate to the 1973 American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State by the local Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. McCauley, president, announced this week.

Claximating the tournament was the final hole, with Weston, Deunkel and Hickey all within a stroke of each other. Deunkel birdied the last hole to catch Weston, who panned the hole, but Hickey was unable to salvage par after a missed wedge shot, and dropped back a stroke with a bogie to settle for third place.

Hickey posted a 68, Deunkel a 69, Weston a 70 and Scarbrough was fourth with a 71 round. For the tournament, the leaders were in at 212, and Hickey had 213 and Scarbrough a 216.

Ken Bailey of Amarillo had a 219, Charles Miesner of Childress had 220, Lloyd Moody of Betheny, Okla., had a 222 and Bennie Parks of Dallas had a 223. Moody's 67 the final round was the only under par round of the tournament. Parks had a 69 the final round.

Over 50 Attend 'Let's Talk Memphis' Meet Thursday

GOLF WINNERS—Dick Weston, right, defeated Eddie Deunkel, left on the 19th hole Monday after the two golfers completed 54 holes of play all tied at 212s. Weston said after he successfully defended his title, won last year, "I like the Memphis tournament, it's one of the fun tournaments everyone is so friendly. Most of all, though I like to see Deunkel's come from behind finish was aided by a hot putter and Eddie said, "putting is the favorite part of my game."

The "Let's Talk Memphis" meeting held last Thursday night attracted 55 citizens to hear the two hour program. A lot of enthusiasm for the promotion was created by the speaker and others on the program.

Passed out to business owners along the highways were name tags for themselves and their employees, purchased, courtesy of the First State Bank and the First National Bank of Memphis.

The Chamber participation in the Panhandle Playground promotion was discussed by Carrol Gardenhire, and brochures and other material were passed out.

The whole purpose of the meeting was to give the citizens and business community the enthusiasm for promoting Memphis among the tourists who stop here.

Among the tourists who stop here, the Texas Highway Dept. given by Jim Markgraf covered the subject of proper treatment of tourists who stop.

Enthusiasm really developed when Hank Brown started asking for those things those attending the meeting felt like are Memphis' greatest assets. It didn't take long for a long list to be drawn up.

The recognition of good points in a community and the belief that a community has far more good points than bad points is reflected in the general attitude of the local people.

The Chamber President, Larry Parks, said that other meetings will be scheduled for the near future to cover another phase of community promotion.

As far as the promotion during the tourist season, good strides have been taken, as seen by the Thursday's meetings and by noticing the number of employees who are wearing the name tags along the highways.

The speakers indicated that the key to the promotion is the people involved.

Jim Beeson and Hubert Dennis spoke on the subject. Dennis told of the number of tourists who stopped by the swimming pool during summer months, their comments on the City Park, and the asset of the Park of Memphis.

Beeson spoke on the asset of having a major highway passing through the community and the number of citizens who make their living off the highway frontage.

EDITORIAL Checking Inflation!

As inflation continues to cause more concern to the average American than anything else, there has been an increased demand that President Nixon impose economic controls on wages and prices as were in effect during Phase II because voluntary restraints under Phase III are not working.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen of Texas is one of those who wants controls put back into effect. The Texas Senator says that this is not because he has lost faith in the free enterprise system, but that something drastic has to be done and the monetary controls are not working.

When Phase II went out and Phase III came in last January, there was an immediate round of price increases. Some businesses raised prices to protect themselves against possible future controls. Wage earners became committed to demands for large pay increases.

In 1969 and 1970, the Administration put its faith on a tight monetary policy as the weapon against inflation. The result of that policy was a recession during which the U. S. suffered 6 per cent unemployment for 18 straight months and even though interest rates were boosted and boosted inflation was not really slowed.

The raising of interest rates merely created a windfall for the many financial institutions which were ordered to raise interest rates and in turn had to pay more for the operating capital secured through federal channels.

In 1967, the rate of interest on a 30-year FHA loan was 6 per cent and the monthly payments were $150. By 1970, three years later, interest had risen to 8 3/4 per cent, making the payments $192 a month on the same size loan.

Since Phase III is not working, perhaps Senator Bentsen is right. Perhaps the administration had better take another look at Phase III controls. We all need some relief from inflation.

Buying The Future!

A sobering fact is staring at this nation, one that will have to be faced in the next few years if this nation's economy is to grow and prosper and meet the demands of continued inflation.

That is the urgent need for capital—private investment—to enable this country to continue to grow, remain competitive with the rest of the world, and, as a result, raise the American standard of living.

Examine a situation that's already here. It hasn't been so many months ago that a cowman in Hall County could buy a cow and calf for some over $200 on the market. Today, the same cow and calf cost over $500.

Consider a few more figures.
By 1980 U. S. population will have increased by 14 million people to a total of 224 million. In an era when talk of trillions is humdrum, 14 million doesn't sound like much. But it means that the equivalent of a new town of 38,000 people must be opened up every week from now until mid-1980. That's less than seven years away.

The necessities of modern life for this growth—roads, houses, water, power, factories, office space, stores—will not be created out of thin air. Someone has to plan them and resources must be set aside to build them.

In 1980 the gross national product—the total output of all goods and services—is expected to be in the vicinity of 1.6 trillion dollars at the dollar's 1972 value. If this estimate is correct, capital investment—in plants, equipment, houses, office buildings and so on—will have to rise from about 196 billion dollars in 1972 to around 270 billion.

It's estimated that it will take about one trillion dollars in investment to meet the demand for oil. The same thing is true in other areas. For example, the number of people between the ages of 25 to 34 will grow by 29 percent in the next seven years. This is the age group that starts families. Money will have to be found to build housing. And that, in turn, means huge investments in the lumber industry and in plants to produce refrigerators, washers, stoves—all the appliances that have to go into new homes.

Where will this investment come from? Government will supply about one fifth of it, but the rest will have to come from private means. If citizens in this nation can't save enough to provide this capital, the only alternative is to watch a decline in the American standard of living in the years before us.

Consider the cow and calf situation, when $45,000 could purchase 200 cows, each with a calf. Now the investment would be $105,000.

ACROSS THE DESK What Other Editors Say

Having Opinions!

I'm not one of those sentimental types who hang onto family relics out of the past. I have always been able to accumulate a lot of junk on my own.

But there are some things which I drag out of hiding every now and again. One of those things is the random speech notes put together by my father, Nelson Brown, 20 some years ago for a speech to a Grange organization in honor of National Newspaper Week.

The names and events mentioned are different but the good common sense on what being an editor is all about is as fresh as ever. Here's what his disjointed notes said:

"An editor, like a Grange member should have opinions—opinions which should change as conditions change . . . and beliefs which should change as circumstances do . . . convictions ought to be lived by.

"An editor does not want to be considered an oracle or a prophet, but instead a man who stimulates thinking, or urges an action after thinking has been done . . . There are many functions of a newspaper. It has the duty to present news fairly and honestly . . . and a duty to tell what's for sale.

"The major duty, though, is to stimulate thought . . . through writing editorials . . . easiest are about people . . . condemn or Next easiest are about events . . . lauding the Grange or a club or the town board. Hardest editorials are about ideas . . . which is why you don't read more of them.

"You are as well equipped as the next person to think big thoughts. Some editors say it is presumptuous of me to write on international events or even state and national affairs. I tend to let

John Foster Dulles handle affairs in Asia and Africa. Walter Ruet-her tells Soapy. Homer Martin tells mike producers. Some editors rely on Tom Stokes, Drew Pearson or Walter Lippman—men who quote each other and pat each other on the back. Syndicated columnists are a dime a dozen. They fatten on tips and serve too many masters. Distorted and dishonest thought.

"Beware of a newspaper which declares that opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the editor. Beware when it appears that the editor may have no opinions of his own or dares not express opinions on matters of importance . . . in papers as well as elsewhere. I don't regard it as presumptuous to have opinions, even convictions, and to express them.

"God gave us all minds at the same time he passed them out to Drew Pearson, John Knight, and Walter Pippman, township supervisors, governors, presidents and school board members. He expects all of us to use them. Mine may not be so sharp. That's why there's all the more reason why I should keep it honed the best I can — that's why you should keep yours honed too.

"This nation was founded by men with beliefs, opinions and convictions. When common men cease to have them and to express them they cannot long endure. Unfortunately there is less personal opinion expressed today than ever before in the United States. Oh, we, we parrot statements of radio and TV commentators and syndicated writers.

"We laugh at the Russian party line. But our actions are more despicable because we are not forced to accept edicts — we're not forced to be silent. But too

By BYRON BALDWIN

I had a surprise package that went to Hall County Heritage last week. This package contained 12 original cartoons, one of our former work of one of our former County Memphis school. The letter enclosed in this package was as follows: My name is Ferman Cicero. I was born in a log cabin in Smith County near Lindale, July 27, 1899. My father's name was Thomas Martin, mother was Katherine (Katy) (now deceased). My name is Echo. I moved to Memphis, Phillip. I went to Memphis where I went to school, and to Lubbock and worked in father's shoe shop. I took a correspondence course in cartooning in Kansas City, Mo., and got a job in the art department of a printing company. My religion is Baptist. I wanted a job on the

"Houston Chronicle" in Houston. So I wrote the newspaper for a job as editorial cartoonist; the editor wrote back and told me they did not need a cartoonist. Immediately I started a campaign by drawing cartoons. I drew on the back of post cards, mailing one a week. This went on for a year. I was getting a mite discouraged, so I drew a tall building on the last card. It had no doors or windows. I was running around the building, looking up, saying "I'm still looking for an opening on the Chronicle." Two days later I got a wire from the editor saying, "Come on and go to work, we give up." I worked for the Houston Chronicle 27 years and retired in 1964. Awards include USO Disabled American Veterans, Attorney General award for outstanding service, National Physicians award and National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Ferman now has exhibits of his cartoons at Truman Library, L. B. J. Library, Columbia University, N. Y., Texas Tech, S. W. Collection, William Allen White Foundation, Princeton University, Wayne State University, Michigan State University, Illinois State University. He gave 1100 cartoons to the University of Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hughes of Houston were visitors in Heritage Hall the past week. Mrs. Hughes will be remembered as Lera Martin sister of Ferman. The other sister is Judy Maran of Houston. Ferman Martin's address is 7122 Bowman Road, Houston, 77022. Zady Bell Walker of Spearman was responsible for us getting the cartoons for Heritage Hall. She is a cousin of the Martins. Hubert Dennis said he remembered how Ferman used to paste cartoons on the walls and windows of his father's shoe shop.

We had as visitors in Hall County Heritage Hall the past week, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Garrott of Houston. John will be remembered by some of the old timers as the son of T. R. Garrott, who operated a general merchandise store on the northwest corner of the square where Sylvia's shop is now located. John was a visitor in Memphis last year, but he could not find anyone he knew. His mother was Nancy, the daughter of Zack Collier and sister of Jackson Collier. The Colliers moved to Estelline before the railroad was built. Some of the articles and old pictures brought back a lot of memories. One of the things I remember about John when I saw him was how he could juggle the jelly beans, pitch them in the air and they would hit in his mouth. John was born in Grove-ton and moved to Estelline when about 5 years old. His father was first in ranch business and then to the mercantile business. In viewing Dr. Vardy's picture, it brought back memories when his little cousin was razzing him by calling him "cotton head"; this irked John so he hit him near the mouth and made a pretty bad gash. Dr. Vardy was called to stop the blood. Warren never did call him "cotton head" any more. Another thing he remembered was the time when he was a boy and he went along with a cattle drive from the Mill Iron Ranch to Collingsworth County. He remembered some of the cowboys rode into a cave east of here and he would like to locate it. The only cave I could remember in that area was the cave on Horse Creek that I was in about 50 years ago. I can remember when John's sisters, Ruth and Lillian, would visit Memphis in the summer. I was a teenager and I thought both of them should be beauty queens and should go to Hollywood. John remembered the time he and his two sisters rode their horses to the top of Mt. Nebo. It was much worse coming down than going up. In his courting days, he remembered he carried his date in a buggy to the Giles Picnic and Leon Montgomery rode horseback to chaperone them. The first questions John asked us were where his dad's store and Thrasher's Blacksmith Shop were located. He remembered visiting in the King home southwest of town and he and Max had to do so much work before they had fun. He remembered when Max King was express agent here for Wells-Fargo. He also remembered when he and Bert Thrasher and Max took a trip in a covered wagon with no roads to follow on part of this trip from Memphis to Clarendon, Claude, Canyon, Silvertown, Quitaque, Turkey and on back to Memphis after a long hard trip. John especially remembered the D. H. Arnold family who moved from Estelline in the early days. Ruth Garrott passed away in 1928. She had one son who is Dr. Ernest Nalle, now of Lubbock. Lillian Garrott passed away in 1970. She had two sons, Retired Col. Robt. B. Collier of Houston and John G. Collier, also of Houston. John Garrott's wife, Helen (Holt), is a native of Houston. Her father moved to Sweetwater for his health in 1886, and his next move was to San Antonio and then on to Houston, where her father and mother were married in 1900 at the Christ Church Cathedral which is still there. John and Helen liked Heritage Hall very much and left for display some U. S. currency in 10 and 25c denominations. John and Helen both like to skeet shoot. Helen gave me a clipping from the Reno, Nev., newspaper which read as follows: "John Garrott of Houston broke the highest score in his career at the National Senior Skeet. He shattered 247 or 250 in the all group championship at Reno, Nev., at the age of 65. John wants to know if the old cistern back of his dad's store was still there that kept the water cool in the summer. I checked up on the cistern and it had been covered with the warehouse.

Other former Hall County people John reported on were Lorene Hinton's son, Bill Wilton Hinton, who is now president of Houston Baptist College. Howard Hinton, Jr. is now professor of history at the University of Arizona at Tucson.

John Garrott has been in the manufacture of brass and machinery products for over 50 years in Houston. In looking over a 1928 Marrow-Thomas catalogue, he made the remark that there was the float valve they used to manufacture and sell this company. Thanks to John and Helen for their contribution for Heritage Hall. My first recollection of the T. R. Garrott store was spending my 5c for butterscotch candy about 66 years ago. As well as I remember, Mr. L. L. Moses, father of Mozelle Stout and Enid Grimes, was the man that sold me this bill of goods.

Wish I had said that quote, "Sad but true—money and hair seem important only when you no longer have any."

Visiting in Hall County Heritage Hall was Gayland Simpson of Midland where he has been located as a geologist for Texaco for the past 4 years. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Simpson who were early day residents of the Panhandle. P. A. was born at Northfield. His mother was the former Mollie Bourland of Flomot. Gayland was a graduate in the 1963 class of Estelline High School. From Estelline to West Texas State, he married Jo Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Williams. They now have two daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cowart had as their guests in Heritage Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cowart, Jr. of Tulsa, Okla. Chas., Jr. is now Chas. Cowart the fourth in this family. He was reared in Silverton. His wife, Lois, is a Tulsa, Okla., girl. Chas. is now employed by the Koehring Co. of Sand Springs, Okla.

Mr. O. L. Hughes stated that he lived in Memphis in the years 1921-1926, when he and his brother worked for Cicero Smith Lumber Co.

Other visitors in Heritage Hall were Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Huffines of Turkey and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lawrence of Orange. Dunbar-McCracken Vows Read Tuesday In Candlelight Service

Miss Judith Jane Dunbar and Mr. Charles Bradley McCracken of Marshall, Mo., exchanged wedding vows Tuesday evening, May 29th, in a candlelight service in the First United Methodist Church of Memphis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dunbar, 1221 Bradford. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. McCracken of Marshall, Mo.

Officiating at the double-ring ceremony were Reverend Tommy Nelson of Memphis, and Monsignor John F. Kenny of Brookfield, Mo.

The ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with bronze candelabra holding cathedral tapers. Floor standards filled with white princess gladiolas and maestic daisies flanked the altar. A white satin prayer bench completed the setting.

The bridal aisle was marked with cathedral pew standards of garlands and smilax tied with white satin ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered on chosen selections from "Kamenoi Ostrow", played by Mrs. George Ferris. She was attired in a gown fashioned of antique ivory organza veiled over peau de soie. It featured a ring collar and long bishop sleeves. Starched cotton lace accented the empire bodice, and rows of lace circled the pyramid skirt. The chapel-length veil of illusion fell from a crescent moon headpiece encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of stefanados centered with a single purple orchid, atop her pearl embroidered Bible.

Nancy Voyles of Lubbock was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nene Foxhall, Memphis; Miss Janet McCracken, sister of the groom, Marshall; Miss Diana Lytle, Indiana, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Charles Adams, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Michael Hilgenfeld, Norman, Okla.

Mrs. Edward Watkins of Kress, registered the wedding guests. The bridal attendants wore floor-length gowns of purple daron voile splashed with white floral print. The gowns were empire fashioned, banded by white at the collar, cuffs and waistline. They carried purple voile parasols trimmed in matching purple ruffles.

Candlelighters were Miss Decarla Sasser and Frank McCracken, Jr., brother of the groom. Mr. Bob Sloan, of Marshall, served as best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Roy Weekly, of Marshall; Mr. Carey Jones, of Nelson; Mr. Ronnie Bledsoe of Nelson; Mr. Danny Kercher of Maita Bend, and -David McCracken, brother of the groom, served as ring bearer.

Ushers were Mr. Bob Cosby and Mr. Tom Greene, both of Memphis.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of shocking pink daron voile, fashioned with a V-neckline. Long pink velvet streamers hung from a bow accenting the empire waistline. Ruffles edged the neck, cuffs and hemline. The mother of the bridegroom wore a floor-length, sky-blue dress of sheer voile over taffeta. It featured long, full sleeves, a short Nehru collar and jeweled belt and cuffs.

Two Local Boys Are Attending American Legion Boys State

The thirty-third annual American Legion Boys State sponsored by the Department of Texas and held on the Campus of The University of Texas, got under way Sunday as 860 high school boys from all parts of Texas, and two from Mexico, began registration. James P. Holley, Department Commander, announced.

Among those registering from Memphis Post 175 were Ronald Joe Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bob Browning and Jay Ed Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Campbell who were sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties—the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party, he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

Boys State helps to develop civic leadership and pride in American citizenship. This program arouses a keen interest in the detailed study of our government. These civic workshops stress the importance of maintaining our form of government and bring better understanding of our national traditions and beliefs to the more than 28,000 young men who are participating this year.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing."

The program takes an added significance since the vote has been extended to 18 year olds. Most Boys States are in the 16 to 17 age category.

Highlight of Boys State will be a trip to the Capitol on Tuesday morning where each elected Boys State Official will be given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day.

Boys State enrollment this year brings the total to 17,479 junior high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

Big Outlay Here For Home Improvements

NEW YORK, May 26—The amount of money that homeowners in Hall County are spending per year for alterations, repairs, improvements and maintenance of their property is running into big figures.

As in other parts of the country, local homeowners are in a clean-up, paint-up and fix-up mood.

Such is the case all over, according to the Department of Commerce. It says "the hardware and paint stores know it and the Census Bureau's statistics confirm it."

Locally, an estimated $731,000 went for such purposes in the past year, based upon government reports showing average outlays per housing unit in the regional area.

It represents an average expenditure in the area of $281 per unit. Nationally, the outlay was about $341.

Those were the averages. Some Hall County homeowners spent considerably more than the local figure and some a great deal less since only a small proportion of them undertake major improvements in any one year.

The principal expenditure, in general, was for additions, alterations and replacements. They accounted for nearly 62 percent of the total in the past year, the Commerce Department finds.

The other 38 percents went for maintenance and general repairs. In this category, painting was the biggest item. It accounted for almost half the amount spent. Next in order were plumbing, roofing, heating and air conditioning.

Total outlays in the United States in 1972 for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties came to approximately $1.75 billion, according to government figures. This was $1.2 billion more than in the previous year.

Much of the added cost was due to higher prices for services and materials.

Because of the continuing shortage of electricians, carpenters, plumbers and other mechanics, and because of the growing availability of easy-to-install equipment, local homeowners have been encouraged to tackle many of the repair and alteration jobs themselves.

As a result, a large part of the $731,000 spent last year on fixing up Hall County homes went to local merchants selling building supplies and equipment.

No Doubts

"But let him ask in faith, with no doubting, for he who doubts is like a wave of the sea that is driven and tossed by the wind."

Whatever comes your way, don't be a doubter. Don't believe that all is lost, that a situation is hopeless. If we give in doubt, then we cease to try. We give up, and a cause that was not lost becomes hopeless.

Have faith, for faith is confidence. Believe there is an ultimate good, believe that God will not forsake you, look within yourself for the strength to pursue, to stand firm, to carry on.

Have faith and you will continue to strive; if you continue to strive, you may never be completely defeated.

Tolbert's Texas Column Devoted To Big Jim Tarver, 'The Texas Giant'

Tolbert's Texas, by Frank X. Tolbert, in the Dallas Morning News, had as a subject of May 7, column, 'x' the late Jim Tarver, distant cousin of Mac Tarver of Memphis.

Tolbert writes, "Buster Price, an old-timer who has a stock farm in the Cottonwood Community in southwestern Wood County, said that Jim Tarver stood 8 feet tall and in his prime weighed around 400 pounds and yet he was broad-shouldered and trim of hip and didn't have the thick, leonine facial features of some giants.

"Jim was one of the stoutest men I ever knew," said Buster Price. (By "stout" he meant great strength & not portliness.)

The Cottonwood community has heavy stands of timber. And Mr. Price said that Jim Tarver could chop wood like a committee of axemen: "He used an axe with a 4 and a half foot handle and an 8 pound head, and he could really make the chips fly."

"Big Jim farmed over there. And he was a wonder with a muledrawn, moldboard hand plow."

Traver handled a heavy hand plow like a fly swatter, I was told, and could carve a true furrow without supporting wheel gauges.

In truth, for several decades, Big Jim only walked the earth around Cottonwood Creek only in off seasons between performances as the "giant" in Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus. He also appeared in silent motion pictures such as one called "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Tolbert's interest in "The Texas Giant" began recently when a woman in Fort Dodge, Kansas, wrote that she had dug up a gold ring as big as a child's bracelet. And inside the ring there is the inscription, 'J. G. Tarver, The Texas Giant.'

Buster Price said that "those of Jim's family was of normal size, or those I knew, except for his mama (who married Mack Tarver's grandfather's brother,) who was tolerably heavy woman but low."

R. L. Mullins of Wolfe City said: "I remember seeing Big Jim in John Gilbreath's store in Alba. And he had the largest feet I've ever seen." One estimate is that Tarver wore a size 26 shoe.

Buster Price said: "He sold those inscribed rings, only I never saw a gold one. They were usually of pewter and he got 4 bits for each ring and they were big enough for a 50c piece to drop easy through the ring.

Big Jim was apparently born in 1887 and died about five years ago in Little Rock, as near as Tolbert could determine. Anyway, the gentle giant is buried in Little Rock, Ark.

Mac Tarver said Big Jim used to visit in their family home when he was a boy in Kerrville, and the last time he saw him he was traveling with the circus in the late 1920's or early 30's.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foxhall and Tina and Russell spent last week in San Antonio. While there they attended the 79th anniversary celebration at Peacock Military School, which also marked the closing of the school. Mr. Foxhall is a former student at Peacock Military School. They returned home on Sunday.

Subject for this week: Brass is the finishing touch to just anything in a frame. No matter how you have been impressed by the added elegance as you see them on paintings and other things you own would be enhanced by one. Brass name plates are solid brass with a permanent lacquer finish and the engraving oxidized for a permanent contrast. They come in many styles: script, Old English, and single line block. The plates come in four sizes to accommodate the space on your frame. If your picture is a plate can definitely sell it.

The cost is nominal. The plates range from fifty cents to $1.25 ten cents per letter for engraving. I checked the average on the ones in the gallery and it's just under $3.00. Not bad considering what it adds to the picture.

Look your pictures over, design a name, come look at our plates make your selection and you can have them in three days. (—Adv.)

Mrs. George Pope, Former Newlin Resident, Honored At Flomot Social

Former administrators, teachers, students, family, and friends gathered at 8:30 p. m. Saturday, May 12, in the Flomot School Cafeteria to honor Mrs. George Pope. She is a teacher in the Flomot School, and will retire at the end of this school year.

It was an informal evening of reminiscing together. Guest came from Amarillo, Lubbock, Albuquerque, Newlin, and other surrounding areas.

Mrs. Pope will be remembered here as the former Lessie Gresham, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. L. (Ben) Gresham. She is the sister of Mrs. Annie Hamilton and Roy Gresham of Newlin and the aunt of Mrs. T. W. Tippet, also of Newlin.

The program began with the invocation by the Reverend Stanley Simmons, pastor of the Quitaque-Flomot Methodist churches. The master of ceremonies, Jimmy Ross presented Mrs. Pope to the guest with the theme, "This is Your Life" in Flomot. Then he introduced her son, Melvin Pope, of Lubbock, who recalled her college days and early married life. She and her husband came to Flomot in January, 1928 to make their first home.

Friends and neighbors briefly told of early experiences at home and at school.

The honored guest then received a bouquet of beautiful American Beauty roses from her grandchildren.

The last part of the program came when Mrs. Pope gave her farewell speech. She expressed deep sincere thanks to school administrators, all teachers, and beloved students who spent twenty five years with her during her teaching career. She told of plans after retirement which includes more leisure time to enjoy life and "to do as she pleases".

The highlight of the evening came when Mrs. June Ware presented a very lovely tea service to Mrs. Pope, from her many friends, accompanied by Mrs. Pope's lunch sack filled with lettuce (paper currency) from additional friends. Other gifts included a beautiful oil painting of Flomot's first school building, by Christeen Gilbert, made especially for a dedicated teacher of her children, an autograph plaque, made by Annie B. Floyd, a hanging bouquet, cameo pin, cologne, and an original poem from a former student, Karen Wells.

The program closed with singing the Alma Mater led by Wilburn Martin, and a sweet prayer of thanksgiving led by Mr. L. D. Bilberry.

A large maroon, scented candle, with number 25 and flowers of school colors, maroon and white, was the centerpiece for the refreshment table which was loaded with delicious food. Eating, visiting, and viewing a friendship quilt and pictures was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Ben Berryman another sister of Lubbock and Carroll Berryman attended the party for Mrs. Pope at Flomot Saturday night.

"Let's Talk Memphis"

By TOPS GILREATH

A great asset is to see things which are good in our own communities. Samuel Foss wrote a poem "Drop Your Bucket Where You Are" and it teaches a good lesson today. Memphis is fortunate in its location for it is the county seat of government. Many people come to a county seat on business, planning, research, for help and assistance in solving problems.

The County Courthouse stands as a landmark of local autonomy, it is a symbol of dignity; it renders service with unflinching courtesy; it performs vast functions of government for the people with simplicity.

County government was organized to meet local needs and functions as the level nearest the people. Strong and effective leadership come from local government officials and a town needs leadership at all times. As a people, we may differ on some issue, but we should be unified in our belief that county government is a good political subdivision. We should be unified in our efforts to make it better. The people hold the "Golden Key".

The elected county officials live in the county seat, Memphis, with the exception of the three county commissioners who live in their respective precincts. Clerical, assistants, custodial employees live in Memphis and serve in many capacities in the community. We believe our county government is strong because all of the various offices in the county courthouse are united in their efforts for the good of the total county government.

Hall County officials like to be "Officials" of which girls and boys can be proud. We, personally, hope they think of the position we hold as one worthy of their aspirations.

Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard left Thursday for Abilene where she will visit with her sons and families, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Kinard and Mr. and Mrs. Cearley Kinard. While there she will attend graduation exercises at Abilene High School on Friday evening. Her grandson, Kelly Kinard, is a member of the graduating class.

Ten-year-old Theresa Navarro hands a check for $8,050,000, payable to the United Nations Children's Fund, to UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim. Theresa and her fellow students at New York's P.S. 173, Raphael Strauss (left) and Wendy Brumsey, joined millions of U.S. youngsters in the annual Trick or Treat collection for UNICEF last Halloween. Other contributions and income from the 1972 sale of greeting cards by thousands of volunteers brought the total raised by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF over the past 20 years to more than $83 million.

Rev. Dyess is a Methodist evangelist who attended public schools in Lubbock, Texas Tech University, Emory and Henry College and the Chandler School of Theology, Emory University. USDA Asks Farmers To Report Fuel Shortages To ASCS County Offices

To help assure that farmers don't run short of fuel this season, the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is asking farmers to report any shortages to local Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) Offices, and use fuel conserving methods with tractors, trucks and other machine-driven equipment, according to Larry B. Rogers, Executive Director, Hall County ASCS Office.

The Department since February has been monitoring the farm fuel supply situation through its more than 2,800 ASCS County Offices. Any shortages are reported immediately through State TSCS Offices to Washington. In addition, a regular farm fuel situation report is prepared for Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz every Wednesday.

Any problems that arise are forwarded immediately to the Office of Oil and Gas (OOG), U. S. Department of the Interior, for solution under the voluntary allocation program. William E. Simon, Chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee and Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, has pointed out that farmers and the food industry have priority in getting petroleum products.

To assure continuous coordination with the OOG, ASCS has loaned it a professional employee. ASCS said some suppliers have not been able to meet farm customers' needs fully. Officials said this is partly because independent and cooperative fuel producers and marketers have not been able to obtain enough supplies.

The current planting period is critical to farm production. Officials involved do follow up on shortage reports to make sure that corrective action is taken.

USDA has been working with the Departments of Treasury and the Interior to encourage fuel conservation practices. Farmers can conserve fuel by keeping tractors tuned and using minimum tillage practices, for example.

USDA officials also warn farmers not to buy more fuel than they need in the near future. Officials stressed that energy conservation is necessary for farmers to have enough fuel to plant and harvest.

Public hearings will be held June 11-13 in Washington. The Treasury Department will conduct the voluntary crude oil allocation program by writing testimony should Kenneth L. Dupuy, U. S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C. 20240, on or 5 P. M. June 7.

The new trees will be planted when today's school children are active adults, some of whom will be planting the next generation of trees.

Rev. Tony Dyess To Be At Lakeview Methodist Sunday

Rev. and Mrs. Tony Dyess will conduct Sunday services, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. at the Lakeview United Methodist Church it was announced this week.

Rev. Dyess' past experience as a professional singer and comedian gives him a seasoned presentation that appeals to all age groups. His natural humor and loving spirit add much to his witness for Christ. He is an author and composer, and the couple sings some of their own songs.

Rev. Dyess says, "It is my desire to bring a fresh approach to evangelism. We must convince people that God loves them and that He is available to them today. People are tired of playing church. USDA Asks Farmers To Report Fuel Shortages To ASCS County Offices

To help assure that farmers don't run short of fuel this season, the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is asking farmers to report any shortages to local Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) Offices, and use fuel conserving methods with tractors, trucks and other machine-driven equipment, according to Larry B. Rogers, Executive Director, Hall County ASCS Office.

The Department since February has been monitoring the farm fuel supply situation through its more than 2,800 ASCS County Offices. Any shortages are reported immediately through State TSCS Offices to Washington. In addition, a regular farm fuel situation report is prepared for Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz every Wednesday.

Any problems that arise are forwarded immediately to the Office of Oil and Gas (OOG), U. S. Department of the Interior, for solution under the voluntary allocation program. William E. Simon, Chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee and Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, has pointed out that farmers and the food industry have priority in getting petroleum products.

To assure continuous coordination with the OOG, ASCS has loaned it a professional employee. ASCS said some suppliers have not been able to meet farm customers' needs fully. Officials said this is partly because independent and cooperative fuel producers and marketers have not been able to obtain enough supplies.

The current planting period is critical to farm production. Officials involved do follow that corrective action is taken.

USDA has been working with the Departments of Treasury and the Interior to encourage fuel conservation practices. Farmers can conserve fuel by keeping tractors tuned and using minimum tillage for example.

USDA officials also farmers not to buy more than they need in the near future. Officials stressed that distribution is necessary for farmers to be able to obtain fuel.

Public hearings will be held June 11-13 in Washington. Treasury Department to the voluntary crude oil allocation program. Persons wishing to written testimony should Kenneth L. Dupuy, U. S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C. 20240, on a 5 P. M. June 7.
