TIPS FOR GREEN THUMBS by:

JOE TOWNSEND

Summer is the time of lush growing for most pot plants. There are basically only three factors in plant growth, LIGHT, WATER, & FOOD. If plants do not do well one or more of these factors is deficient. Plants vary as to their light requirements. A good rule to follow is "when you find a spot where a plant does well--don't move it!" If it does not do well where it is--try a different spot. Most plants do better the more light they get but many do not do well in direct sun, especially through a window. No plant does well if it is allowed to become too dry. No plant does well if it is kept too wet. All plants need to be fed from time to time. There is no substitute for experience. Much that is written you will find will not fit this area nor your plants, a little commonsense and basic understanding make for a "green thumb". Our mythical fantasy that "So and So" has a green thumb really means that the person applies some knowledge of basic growing needs and comes this with dirty finger nails.

AQUARENA SPRINGS

Summer is here and Aquarena Springs in San Marcos, Texas has several new attractions to help add to the entertainment and leisure enjoyment of vacationers.

An old-fashioned ice cream parlor, with a wide selection of flavors, is a new addition to the Spring House, a replica of an old country store. Another taste bud treat is the Grub Stake Snack Bar, a covered outdoor eatery whose fare includes a variety of hot and cold sandwiches, drinks and ice cream. Designed entirely in rough cedar, it seats approximately 50 people.

Also new to Aquarena Springs is an 8'X10' "walk-in" painting by artist Danal Terry. The painting is a view of the lost era of the horse drawn carriage and the log cabin. It will be used as a background for the old-timey photographs taken by Smiling Eyes Photo Gallery also found at the Aquarena Springs, in the Texana Village.

In line with Texana Village's theme of "days gone by" a truly amazing fortune teller and palm reader practices her gypsy trade Thursday--Monday in the Village Saloon.

Once again this summer guests at Aquarena Springs can enjoy the world's only submarine Theatre with underwater shows, Glass Bottom Boats, Swiss Sky Ride, Pirate's Cove, Tropical Hanging Gardens, Texana Village, Aquarena Springs Motor Inn, golf course, and restaurant...and much more.

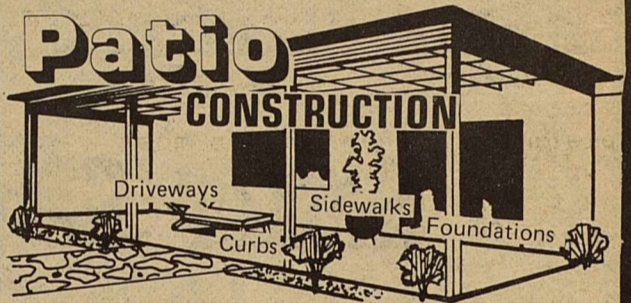

Located off of Interstate 35 between San Antonio and Austin, Aquarena Springs is open 7 days a week and summer hours are 8:00 a.m. until 9 p.m. on weekdays and 10:00 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

PUBLIC HEARING SLATED

San Antonio is among several Texas Cities chosen to be the site of regional public hearings on the proposed comprehensive annual service program plan (CASPP) for the Title XX of the Social Security Act. The San Antonio Hearing will be held at the First Presbyterian Church 4th and Alamo Streets, July 7th, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Title XX is the funding and planning mechanism for most Social Security services delivered by the Texas Department of Public Welfare, the designated Texas Title XX planning Agency.

The CASPP is the Title XX planned which details what Social Security will be available in the various regions of Texas and to what extent those services will be delivered.

The public hearing process provides citizen planning and participation in the determination of services to be delivered and in what quantity.

"San Antonio's Public hearing will be representing a 21 county area of South Texas," said David Brock, Regional Director for Social Services of the State Agency. "Testimony received at the San Antonio Hearing will bear as much weight as testimony delivered at the State-wide hearing in Austin. The regionalization of the hearings will save those wishing to testify the time and expense of traveling to Austin," he said.

Services funded under Title XX include protective services for children, Day Care, Family Planning, Employment, and community care for the aged, blind, and disabled. These services range from the Welfare Department's Anti-Child Abuse Program to Children's Foster Care and in-home care of the community's Aged, Blind and Disabled. Included in the services are many services provided by local agencies and organizations on contact with the Welfare Department.

"It is very important for those concerned with any aspect of Title XX services to be heard," continued Brock.

"Without direct citizen input we cannot accurately assess the community needs and desires."

Hearing testimony should be directed at specific points in the proposed plan. Copies of the plan are available at various offices of the Department of Public Welfare and my mail, free of charge, from: TitleXX Information Center, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas, 78701.

Sheep and Goat Industry News

Livestock producers, farmers, and home gardeners who have anything to do with pesticides have probably already been warned that the federal Environmental Protection Agency will publish a list by this fall of various pesticides that will be restricted.

Many of the present and hopefully, future users of such chemicals have taken steps to assure themselves of the opportunity to use these products, but things have not been going so well. The Texas Department of Agriculture, which is saddled with the task of approving individual Texas pesticide users, is currently about two months behind in processing applications.

TDA spokesmen, however, say that things are beginning to straighten out, and they soon hope to bring the program up to the point of a one-month lag. While this may be good news for those who have fulfilled certification requirements within the past few months it may taste like sour grapes to those undergoing testing shortly prior to the October 21 restriction implementation date.

There is apparently no one to blame for the delay. David Ivie, TDA spokesman, says applicant numbers were simply much greater than anticipated. "Response to the program has been very good," he says.

"We thought we'd get about 500 applications a week, as we actually got over 1500 a week for a while. We just got them faster than we thought."

The change in leadership at TDA didn't help much, either. Ivie explains that the pesticide application certificates must bear the name of the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture in order to comply with legal requirements. When former Texas Ag Commissioner, John White, left his post to help run the federal agriculture program he left behind a large number of White-stamped, but undelivered certificates.

The appointment of Reagan V. Brown to the Ag Commissioner post, explains Ivie, necessitated reprinting of all but about 6000-7000 of the certificates already completed at the time. The uncorrected items were only those that has already been mailed. Unofficial estimates have placed the reprinting "down time" at about three weeks.

The EPA has yet to release the list of pesticides to be restricted and chances are the list will not be generally available until its prohibitions become official in October. Ivie says it is likely that even then, many pesticides up for review will still be in the study basis. The chemicals, he explains, are being investigated in order of their toxicity levels, so the less poisonous compounds, though still subject to restriction, may be available for some time after October deadline.

In view of the uncertainty surrounding the restricted list, it is imperative that producers currently using almost any form of pesticide make arrangements to have themselves accepted as certified applicators, the sooner the better. A test taken in September that nets a certification in November will be of little good to a producer who needs to buy a restricted chemical on October 22.

ENGLISHMAN A CHIEF ?

COCKNEY ENGLISHMAN PLAYS INDIAN CHIEF.....Bert L. Taylor as Anton, Chief of the Alabama Tribe in "Beyond The Sundown" at the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation, 80 miles north of Houston.

LIVINGTON, Tx.--With the fading remnants of last year's Bicentennial still lingering in the back of our minds, it may strike one as rather ironic that in this years outdoor drama, "Beyond The Sundown," one of the principal chiefs of the Alabama-Coushatta will be played by an Englishman.

Bert L. Taylor, born in St. Bartholomew's London, ("within spittin' distance from St. Paul's Cathedral where all true Cockneys are born"), is a professional actor with over 36 years of stage experience. Taylor, the literal incarnation of "John Bull" will put himself to the test of creating the demanding role of Anton, Chief of the Alabama Tribe.

The transformation from Cockney to Indian Chief is not entirely new to Mr. Taylor. He faced a similar dilemma as Chief Black Hoof in the 1976 production of "Tecumseh" in Chillicothe, Ohio. Taylor explains, "Whereas the character of Black Hoof accepted defeat by the white man, I see Anton as a man who never accepted defeat, only a way for his people to survive," and to as actor with 105 productions to his credit in the last 11 years he should face no serious problem.

"Beyond the Sundown," by veteran playwright Kermit Hunter, portrays the drama of the Alabama-Coushatta Tribes during the War for Texas Independence. The elders of the tribes, having sworn to live in peace, would rather give up their homes than to fight. The conflict evolves when the young warriors leaves to fight on the side of Sam Houston and "become Americans". The drama offers more than polished spectacle to the viewer. It involves you in the drama of a living people, people not unlike ourselves in their likes and dislikes, as they try to remain neutral in the midst of war.

Director Richard G. Ayers has assembled a cast and crew of 70 professional actors and technicians for this years' drama which promises to be an enlightening evening of theatre. "Beyond The Sundown" runs nightly except Sunday, July 1--Aug. 20, at 8:30 pm. in the Sundown Amphitheater on the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation in Livingston, Texas. For reservations call toll free in the State of Texas 1-800-392-8355. or write "Beyond The Sundown", Route 3, Box 640, Livingston, Tx. 77351.

Between Us

JOE TOWNSEND

"I Heard Something Good About You." My how our spirits lift and our ears perk up when someone tells us this. Too often with some people when they say, "I heard something about so and so" you can know it is something bad or questionable. While a person who spreads gossip or bad about people may find eager listeners he never finds those who respect him. Too often because a person listens to gossip or scandal the gossip monger feels he has found a sympathetic ear and a companion spirit. He has however, found a person who patiently listens and in his mind loses all respect for the bearer of unwanted tales. While lies, gossip and scandal can cause the victim heartaches and problems they destroy the person who begins them and the one who spreads them. Look honestly about you, reminisce a little and you'll know disrespect, tragedy, and heartache awaits the scandal monger. That's what God meant to convey when He said "Whatsoever a man sows, that shall be also reap." It is so much better to be a sower of good cheer and happiness and good about people--then "that shall ye also reap."

1977-78 ARTIST IN SCHOOLS PROGRAM

The Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities' Education Division is accepting applications for the 1977-78 Artist in Schools Program.

Available to Texas Schools this year are: two components, an Interdisciplinary Team Residency and an Arts in General Education Residency; and seven continuing components--Visual Arts and Crafts, Music, Creative Writing, Folk Arts, Architectural and Environmental Arts, Film and Theatre. Interdisciplinary Team Residency is designed to focus on characteristics which two or more art forms have in common. The Arts in General Education component is designed to enhance learning in general by bringing the arts and the professional artist into a non-art classroom.

The Artist in Schools Program endeavors to enhance children's powers of perception and their ability to express themselves and communicate creatively through using tools and skills they might not otherwise develop. The program is jointly sponsored by the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities, the National Endowment for the arts, and the U.S. Office of Education.

Community organizations and schools who are interested in learning more about the Artist in Schools Program should contact Mary Lee Johns at the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities, Education Division, Post Office Box 13406, Capitol Station, Sutin, Texas, 78711, (512) 475-6637.

This week there arose a need for Oleta and I to drive Jeri's car to her at Granbury. We left around 7:15 in the evening and after spending about 30 minutes with Jeri we drove back. We arrived home about 8:35 the next morning. C.B.'s in the cars made for an interesting and fun trip. We met "Santa Claus" who was sleighing on down the southbound lane "HO-HO-HO" Oleta suggested she'd always wanted to meet Santa Claus and he replied he came once a year" I had some lengthy conversation with "Irish Indian" from Commanche who was glad to have a man who had given her 27 years of a good life and who believed we should live every day of our lives as if it were the last." As we went through Stephnville after Oleta had talked to someone, a throaty voice came on and said "What are you doing out so late good lady?" I replied, "She's keeping tabs on her husband who's driving just ahead of her." She said "Roger" and that end the inquiry. We heard a drunk making snide and filthy remarks to "bearers" on the air. We modulated for a good while with "Grandpa" in an 18-wheeler and "Rodeo Cowboy" fresh from winning calf roping in two rodeos and on the way to another. We talked with many others in the 800 miles of driving and when I was back in Brackett I just thought how nice it was to make new CB friends and to be able to visit along the boulevard with others on the super slab. Threes and Eights your way--until we catch you another way, another day--we'll be 10-10. You've got KOH 4856 the Sky Pilot from that Brackettville town.

WELFARE NEWS

Households which were receiving rent or mortgage supplements from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) between August 5, 1974 and October 8, 1975 may be entitled to increased food stamp benefits.

The State Department of Public Welfare announced today that the housing supplements paid under provision of the Housing Act of 1937 should not have been considered as income to food stamp households during this period of time.

All households which were denied, or received a reduced level of benefits because of the application of this policy may be entitled to retroactive benefits or refunds.

Further details on this matter may be obtained from any food stamp certification office.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My husband and I have joint savings and bank accounts. Would this property be taxable as part of the estate if one of us should die?

A: Joint savings and bank accounts which are community property cannot be governed by a joint tenancy provision in the contract with the bank or savings institution. Community property laws therefore would give each spouse one-half ownership of the joint accounts, and the one-half belonging to the deceased spouse would be included in the probate estate eligible for death taxes. Tax laws concerning joint accounts created before 1977 and including contributions from either spouse's separate, or non-community, estate classify as taxable that part of the joint accounts which is the separate property of the deceased person.

Q: I was paying for a home when I got married. I finished paying the mortgage after my marriage. Can I sell this property without my husband's consent? And, if my husband and I separate, is there any way of forcing him to give me my share of our income tax refund?

A: Property bought by a person before marriage remains the property of that individual after marriage and can be sold without the consent of the spouse. However, any community income utilized to meet mortgage payments could be subject to reimbursement claims by the spouse when property is divided in a divorce. Income tax refund checks jointly payable to a husband and wife must be endorsed by both before being cashed, so that neither spouse could have exclusive control over the refund from a joint return.

Q: Can a doctor or hospital perform an autopsy on the body of a patient who died in that hospital without obtaining permission from the patient before death, or without permission of relatives?

A: A coroner who has reason to suspect foul play in connection with a death has authority to order an autopsy to determine the cause of death. However, any other interference with a deceased person's body, without first obtaining consent of the surviving spouse or next of kin, is prohibited by law. Any unauthorized interference with a deceased person's body may provide the basis for a suit for damages filed by the person entitled to its custody.

Q: I just moved to Texas from a non-community property state. Is there a definite formula used in dividing property in a divorce? Is only the property acquired after marriage divided?

A: A trial judge generally has power in Texas to award any or all property of a spouse to the other spouse in a divorce settlement. This freedom extends not only to a spouse's share of community property, but also to that spouse's separate property owned before marriage or received by gift or inheritance after marriage. The judge's decision in dividing property is based on the future needs of each spouse at the time of the divorce.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P. O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.
