PRESENT DAY MYTHS
by: JOE TOWNSEND

It has come to be gibly touted that "Minorites" are oppressed and mistreated and have been for so long it is necessary to help them and give them special treatment. This is not logical, sensible, nor true. America was originally populated by poor people. Many were indentured servants (bond slaves), many were convicts freed with the provision they come to America. The vast hordes of immigrants who have peopled America were not the wealthy and intellectual, but the poor and down trodden. From this amalgam has grown the greatest nation of the world. This has come to be because these people asked no quarter. They have had personal pride which made them feel they must depend on themselves and accomplish something worth while with their lives. No race has been so badly treated as were the Chinese who were brought to America to build the railroads in the West. The Japanese were badly treated even being put in concentration camps during World War II. The Irish in New York had a terribly hard time. The Central Europeans had a hard row to hoe in the Eastern cities and the Mid-West. All of these were legal residents and came to America to become Americans and be part of the Nation. None of these demanded, expected or cried for the Government to make special concessions to them. The Chinese, Japanese and others attended public school without demanding special concessions. The children then attended "Chinese School" three hours a day after public school hours to learn chinese and hold on to their heritage. None of these groups demanded nor did Politicians demand for them that America conform to their needs wants, whims or weaknesses. Yet each group fitted into the American framework and helped build America. Were I of that race or heritage where leaders of that race or where politicians demanded special treatment for me or lower standards to apply to me, I would be insulted in the worst way. I am not willing to concede that any race or heritage is so inferior as to need special concessions and treatment. Every person in the world whatever his race, culture, background or environment is given of God the capability of being somebody important and accomplishing something important with himself, for his family and for the Country. Any person who demands special treatment, financially, education wise, society wise is by this action condemning himself as an inferior being dependent on another and incapable or unwilling to be the human being God intends him to be. This person becomes a drag on his Nation, and does not deserve the benefits of a Nation to which he does not contribute.

WILLS APPOINTED TO TEACHER CENTER POLICY BOARD

Mr. Wills, Superintendent of the Brackettville School System, was recently named to the Policy Board of the Region 20 Educational Service Teacher Center. Region 20 includes 14 counties extending from Bexar County on the East to Kinney County on the West.

The Teacher Center has been formed to provide an opportunity for classroom teachers, representatives of colleges and universities, and other professional educators to participate fully in cooperative efforts to improve the quality of teacher training and classroom performance.

The policy board will provide direction and supervision of the Teacher Center. Board members will provide assistance in planning, developing, and budgeting the policies and projects of the Center.

Mr. Wills will represent the school districts which have only one high school.

NATURALLY SPEAKING

by BEVERLY KROCK

*Ed. Note: Ms. Krock will answer that question and many others for you. And she's just the one to do it: She's with For Goodness Sake, Del Rio's own natural foods store.

Those of you who are interested in your family's health, longevity, well-being, with the benefits of increased energy thrown in as a bonus - please read on!

I prefer to abandon the term "health" food, as it carries with it the misconception that one must indulge in wild hickory nuts and dried seaweed to be "into" health foods. Natural foods are merely the same type of food we are all used to eating, but without the unnatural additives, preservatives, artificial colorings and flavorings modern science has added, while subtracting natural nutrients in the process.

Unprocessed, chemical-free foods are currently enjoying a comeback (much to the chagrin of the A.M.A. What if we all became our own doctors?) as more and more people begin to understand the importance of the fuel they put into their precious bodies. There are still many people who call natural health methods the techniques of freaks and faddists. However, artificial methods have only come into existence in the last few hundred years, and before that the only methods were natural ones.

Proper nutrition is not just a matter of doing the right things, but of avoiding the wrong things also.

Because our natural food sources have been so tampered with lately, getting wholesome food has become a lot more than just a trip to the corner store. It can be done, however, if you become a label reader. A very useful guide to good nutrition from the grocery store is the book "Supermarket Handbook".

When is a food not a food? Maybe when you buy a powdered orange breakfast drink made - surprise - not of oranges, but of sugar, citric acid, gum arabic, cellulose gum, calcium, phosphate, sodium citrate, chemical vitamins C and A, hydrogenated vegetable oil, artificial color and flavor, and BHA (a preservative). Can you remember when peanut butter was just blended peanuts? Now it's hardened vegetable oil (shortening), seasoned with dextrose and a little peanut flavor thrown in.

If you had a choice, would you knowingly comprise your diet of pesticides, fungicides, extenders, emulsifiers, dyes, bleaches, and disinfectants? Most of us wouldn't, but unfortunately the choice is not always ours in the supermarket.

We've all heard that "speed kills" but many chicken farmers put methedrine in the feed to step up egg production. Other feed mixtures use arsenic as an ingredient.

An artificial sex hormone, stilbesterol, when mixed with the feed of cattle, causes the animals to gain weight 15% faster on 12% less feed. This means greater profits for the rancher, but a whole lot more toxins for the human body to deal with. This chemical is not completely destroyed by cooking and cannot be deactivated in the human liver. In 1951, the Federal Drug Administration warned that unauthorized use of sex hormones could cause sterility or cancer. Stilbesterol is also capable of bringing on excessive menstrual bleeding and arresting the growth of children. In animals it caused uterine cancer and leukemia. For a number of years, pellets of stilbesterol were inserted just below the base of the brain in chickens. They were supposed to be slowly absorbed by the chickens, but in many slaughtered animals, portions of them had remained in the necks or traveled to other parts of the body to be eaten by the buyer.

How about processed lunch meats? Sodium nitrite and nitrate are added to accentuate the color. Ever notice the red water when you've cooked hot dogs? Natural frankfurters are brown in color.

During the curing process of ham, a toxin, boric acid, is often used to keep the flies away. Sausage casings contain synthetic resins, rubber and wood pulp, while the sausage itself is often composed of low grade meat or its by-products and may contain carcinogenic (capable of causing cancer) coal tar dyes to step up the color.

I could go on with what happens to "fresh" vegetables, dairy products, "enriched" bread, etc., but it would take pages.

Don't get paranoid by any means, though it does sound grim! There are many, many things you can do to properly nourish your family, starting with reading labels. If you don't recognize more than a few of the listed ingredients, you'd better pass it by! Local farmers produce a lot of organic fresh vegetables and fruits, along with yard eggs, as opposed to cage eggs (the hen never sees the ground - or the rooster!) Stick with whole grain breads and cereals and do avoid sugar as much as possible, although when you start reading those labels, you'll find it hiding in a lot of foods you'd never suspect. Estimations have it that the average American consumes over one hundred pounds of sugar a year. Many parents are aware of the effect of excessive sugar on their children's teeth and rightly so. Each year, there are about 235 million cavities in the adult population and 285 million in children.

And it's not just the teeth that excessive sugar helps to deteriorate but also our hearts, reproductive organs and circulatory systems. It has also been linked with hardening of the arteries, coronary thrombosis, varicose veins, impotence, male infertility and certain cancers.

Propaganda tells us that sugar is an "energy" food, when in fact it takes more energy for our bodies to digest sugar than it can produce. To cut down on sugar consumption, we have to reeducate our taste buds... each them that a juicy peach tastes better than a slice of layer cake, that a frosty mug of apple cider is more delicious than a coke. (If you think one little coke won't hurt, drop some nails into a bottle of coke and leave it sit for two days. More than likely, the nails will have begun dissolving!) Instead of using sugar in cereal, tea, and desserts, try honey, blackstrap molasses or pure maple syrup. If you just can't give up chocolate, try carob candy - a natural chocolate substitute with lots less sugar and "chock" full of mineral and vitamins. Dried fruit - apricots, raisins, figs, prunes and dates, are incredibly sweet by nature and very satisfying to the sweet tooth.

And try to avoid convenience foods at all costs - they do fill up the stomach, but that's about it. It takes surprisingly little extra time to whip up some "real" mashed potatoes with the lumps still in 'em, or a casserole of scalloped potatoes, layered with fresh onions and cheddar cheese (and leave those skins on!). Cut up strips of carrots, celery, zucchini and cucumbers for snacks, along with all the fresh fruit you can find - it's abundant this time of the year. A bowl of fresh strawberries or cantelope balls can be very appealing to a hungry child. Remember, they will eat what we teach them is good. If they're never offered anything but Oreos, coke and pop tarts, how can we expect them to develop tastes for anything else?

By the way, a lot of the facts contained here were furnished by Joan Weiner in her great book Get Your Health Together

A 10-minute call to San Francisco doesn't take a lot of dough.

For just $2.44 or less, you could take down these recipes by Long Distance.

We're printing these recipes to make a point: a Long Distance call lets you say so much, for so little.

In a 10-minute phone call to San Francisco, between 5 p.m. and 11:00 p.m. tonight, you could take down the recipes below. And by dialing 1+, the most you pay is $2.44, plus tax.

So enjoy a pleasant visit tonight by Long Distance. Whether you call to get a couple recipes... or just to find out what's cookin'.

1. SOURDOUGH STARTER

1 package active dry yeast
2½ cups warm water
(105° to 115°)

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
2 tablespoons sugar
4 cups all-purpose flour

a) Stir yeast, water, dry milk and sugar in 2½ quart crock or non-metallic bowl until yeast is dissolved. Stir in flour gradually until a smooth batter forms. Let stand loosely covered in warm place. 3 to 5 days. Stir down batter occasionally. Store loosely covered in refrigerator.

b) Replace exact amount of starter used for each recipe by stirring equal amounts of homogenized milk and flour back into starter. (For example, replace 1 cup starter with ½ cup homogenized milk and ½ cup flour). Let stand loosely covered until it bubbles, overnight. Stir down. Each time this process is repeated, the starter becomes more active and develops a more sour flavor. Note: if stored as much as two to three weeks between usings, just pour off the watery layer on top and replace following procedure in (b).

2. SOURDOUGH BREAD STICKS

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
1 cup warm water
(105° to 115°)
1 cup Sourdough Starter
(see Recipe No. 1)
2 cups all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons vegetable oil

2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ to 1 cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted

a) Mix dry milk, water, Sourdough Starter and 2 cups flour in non-metallic bowl; cover loosely. Let stand in warm place until mixture is coarse and bubbly, at least 8 hours.

b) Mix oil, salt, sugar and baking soda into sourdough mixture. Stir in enough of the remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Knead dough lightly on well-floured board, about 2 minutes.

c) Roll dough into rectangle, 15 x 10 inches, on well-floured board. Cut into fifteen 1-inch strips. Roll each strip into even round strand, about 14 inches long. Double strand over and twist to form bread stick. Place bread sticks on greased baking sheet, brush with melted butter. Cover with plastic wrap. Let rise in warm place until double, 1 to 1½ hours.

d) Heat oven to 375°. Bake bread sticks until golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. (Makes 15).

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

It costs the American taxpayer about $30 billion a year to operate the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

According to testimony before a Senate Committee as much as $3 billion of that amount may be spent on fraudulent, or at the least, questionable payments.

The problem is wide-ranging, involving everything from payments for services not rendered to double pricelists, from kickbacks by laboratories and pharmacies to "Medicaid mills" that treat non-existent ailments.

Senate investigators, for example, selected 20 bills at random that had been presented to Medicaid for payment by a Chicago medical lab on behalf of a physician in that city. In 12 of the 20 cases the doctor had never seen the patient. Medicaid paid a total of $885 for the 20 bills but the doctor's records show that he had ordered only $119 worth of tests.

In the State of Illinois it costs a medical laboratory about 25 cents to conduct a urinalysis. A private patient is charged $3 for the work, but the government pays $10 for a Medicaid patient.

A Senate Committee report concludes that kickbacks are widespread among laboratories which specialize in Medicaid business and the president of the California Pharmaceutical Association testified before Congress that the administrator of one nursing home demanded a 25 percent rebate as the price of doing business.

A bill which I cosponsored has now been approved by Congress. It increases the penalty for Medicare and Medicaid fraud to a felony, with a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $25,000 fine.

The measure also tightens down on procedures within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for inspecting institutions that give health care under these programs, and for investigating abuses.

Medical institutions, for example, are now required to disclose complete information on ownership and on divisions of payments to ascertain if they are being operated in a fair and businesslike manner.

Only a tiny percentage of the doctors and pharmacists and others in the medical profession in this country have been involved in the questionable practices that this new law speaks to. The overwhelming majority in our medical community has, in fact, been appalled by what is happening and has taken the lead in pushing for reform.

By the same token, Medicaid and Medicare have been of great benefit to the elderly and the needy who could not otherwise afford adequate medical care. Without Medicaid, many inner-city hospitals would not be able to operate at all.

But steps had to be taken to call a halt to the abuses and frauds by putting violators on notice that they are going to be subject to strict accountability under law.

Between Us

by: JOE TOWNSEND

I'm sitting at my desk and I notice there is a super quietness as I look out across the neighborhood. There is hardly a leaf stirring. The sun is shining brightly, the weather comfortably warm. I sit and ponder and wonder what comes next. I heard a flock of geese going south in the middle of the night a couple of nights ago. I heard more geese yesterday. The humming birds are long gone, the robins also. I know by the calendar winter will soon come roaring in. I wonder, will it be tonight? Will it be a killing frost? Will it be a bristling north-er? Then I catch myself and remind me that the God who makes this day ideal is still God during the blinding blizzard or the bristling storm. This encourages me to no longer wonder, dread or have anxiety about what may come and when. From experience, I know this applies to all life. It's easy to forget God makes the beautiful and peaceful in life, but it is likewise easy to remember God in the hard and stressful times of life. This is the same God. He has the same power. He has the same love. This knowledge makes the sun to shine whatever the cares of life. He brings peace of heart in the midst of the worst storms of life. Even as He sends the geese to protection ahead of winter storms, He extends protection to us in the storms of life.

OPEN HOUSE

THE BORDER PATROL WILL HOLD AN OPEN HOUSE AT THEIR NEW OFFICE ON SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1977, FROM 2:00 P.M. TIL 5:00 P.M.

THE PUBLIC IS INVITED TO COME BY AND LOOK OVER THE NEW BUILDING AND ENJOY A FREE CUP OF COFFEE.

PTA

Brackett PTA met Tuesday, Oct. 11, in the H.E. cottage. It was announced that Mr. Foust's welding class will build benches for the Junior High area with the PTA furnishing the materials. It was voted to check into the costs of more fans for elementary, an extension of the PA system out to the library and title buildings, the extension of asphalt from the elementary to the title building, and the purchase of a trophy case for elementary.

Mrs. Ofelia Cadnea, the Halloween Carnival Chairman, reported on the progress of the Carnival. She has done a super job in organizing this and we are looking for all of you to attend the carnival, October 31, at the Civic Center.

The administration reported that school is running very smoothly and what a pleasure it is to have a faculty and students with such great attitudes this year.

The program was presented by the local TSTA President, Mrs. Hubner. It was an interesting film titled "A Teacher is Forever".

Refreshments were served by Lupe Morgan, Ernestine Talamantez, and Beverly Gaze.

PTA HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL SCHEDULE

6:00 PM - Carnation at Civic Center
The Carnival will begin as soon as parade is over.

YARD OF THE MONTH

Mrs. Edith Finch, a resident of the Fort Clark Mobile Home Park won YARD-OF-THE-MONTH AWARD. Gardening is one of Mrs. Finch's many interests. Other interests include needlework of all types and handi-crafts of the world. Her collection of world crafts has been sent by her children when they were living in various countries.

Durango, Colorado was Mrs. Finch's childhood home. She resided in New Mexico twenty years and then moved to Fort Clark Springs. Mrs. Finch has been living at the Fort and working at the adult center over four years. She enjoys living in this area and, as can be seen from her year, enjoys gardening here.

THE XI RHO PHI

The XI Rho Phi held a social meeting at the Adult Center on October 17, 1977.

Lily Schwandner was hostess and also gave the program for the evening. The Theme of the program was the life of the Queen. It was very interesting and beautiful.

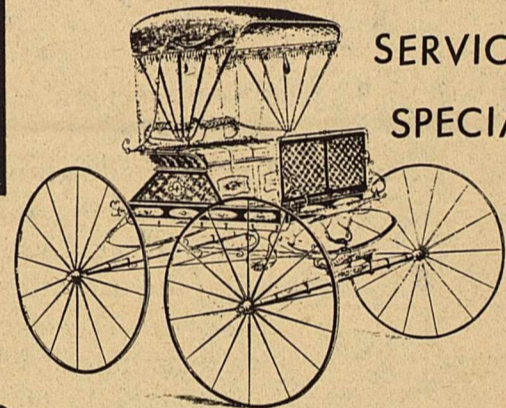

After the meeting, refreshments were served.

Frances Packard won the door prize. Second door prize was won by Nakaii Breen.

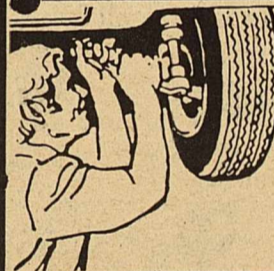

Present at the meeting were, Lily Schwandner, Nakaii Breen, Frances Packard, Mildred Borden, Dorothy Glover and Arlina Riley.

She is also active in the National Chrysanthemum Society and various other gardening and civic groups.

MARCHING CONTEST

BY: NACONA BREEN

November 5, 1977, is a big day for the Brackett Tiger Band. This is the date of the annual marching contest. The Region 10 contest will be held at Barry Field in Hondo, Texas.

Mr. Lugo, Tiger Band Director, said that eight bands will be participating in the Region 10 Class A competition. Bands from Charlotte, Comfort, Blanco, Dilley, Natalia, Lytle, and Sabinal will be competing along with Brackettville.

The public is invited to attend the Marching Contest in Hondo. The trip would be worth the time and effort.

This weekend, call both families for practically the price of one.

It's true! This weekend—and every weekend between 11 p.m. Friday and 5 p.m. Sunday—you can place two Long Distance calls for practically the price of one weekday evening call, when you dial the 1+ way.

For example, a 10-minute call to someone a thousand miles away weekday evenings (5 p.m. to 11 p.m., Sunday-Friday) would cost you $2.44, plus tax. Which, you'll admit, isn't bad.

But for practically the same price, you could make two eight-minute calls over the same distance... any weekend.

It's almost like getting one call free!

So this weekend, enjoy a couple of Long Distance calls. And make three families happy!

Long Distance.

KAZEN IN ## WASHINGTON

I have given considerable attention recently to border problems. In the House, we voted 386-11 to approve changes in customs laws and procedures. The bill, if it becomes law, would increase the dollar limit on duty free imports from $100 to $250, and from $200 to $500 for goods brought in from American Samoa, Guam and the Virgin Islands. A flat 10 per cent duty would be charged on the first $600 of non-commercial items over those limits, and a one carton limit will apply to duty-free cigarettes. We have made major improvements in customs procedures.

I was joined by Congressman de la Garza and White in a conference with Robert Chasen, new Commissioner of Customs, where we expressed our strong opposition to withdrawal of Customs aerial reconnaissance to combat smuggling in the EL PASO, Eagle Pass, Laredo, Brownsville area. Commissioner Chasen was very receptive to our argument that the changes would almost invite smuggling into Texas and Gulf states, and agreed to hold up action on the plan till he could re-examine it and confer with us again.

Aid Rural Clinics

Aware that medical care is often unavailable in rural areas, we also passed legislation to permit establishment of clinics, manned by trained personnel and financed by Medicare and Medicaid eligibility. The plan will enable trained nurses and physicians' assistants, working under a doctor's supervision, to provide primary care in areas remote from normal medical access. In-home and nursing home services will also be funded.

TERRAZAS AND THE COACHES
BY: ART TERRAZAS

In an interview on Oct. 13, Coach Robert Ormsby stated that he planned for the Cubs to go out with a wide open attack and play as a team instead of as individuals. His plan worked because the Cubs defeated the Batesville team with a score of 12 to 0. Arthur Goodloe made both touchdowns.

Coach Ormsby said that in earlier games the players made mistakes, but he thought they had improved immensely. The Batesville game certainly proved that the coach was right.

The game plan was still in effect for the Oct. 20 game with Dilley. The game was hard fought and the Cubs came out victorious, 6-0.

PARENT'S NIGHT

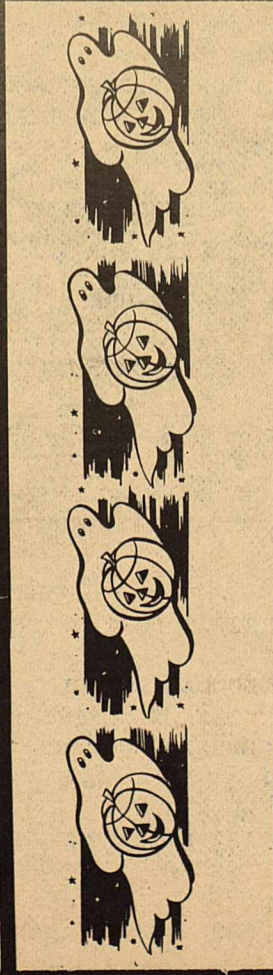

by:
TIGER CLAW STAFF

This year the Tiger Booster Club added a new twist to an old tradition, Dad's Night became Parents' Night as the Tiger Football players honored their fathers and mothers in a pre-game ceremony. Each v-rsity player met their parents at mid field where they presented their fathers with a large "T" shaped emblem. The mothers received a carnation from Mrs. Terry Crenwelge, Booster Club Secretary. After each presentation the parents were escorted off the field by their son.

Kinney County 4-H Members did extremely well at the recent State Fair of Texas held at Dallas this week. Candy Smallwood, nine year 4-H Veteran, exhibited the Champion Finewool Lamb. The first place heavyweight lamb competed with 150 other finewool lambs and columbian to capture the championship honor. The champion finewool lamb was bred by Double R Ranch of Brackettville, Kimberly Trant another nine year Kinney County 4-H veteran exhibited the second place heavyweight crossbred lamb, and seventh place heavyweight finewool. Kevin Kaplan exhibited the second place lightweight finewool and twenty-eighth heavyweight suffolk, Joel Voss fourth place lightweight finewool. Judge for the lamb show at the State Fair was Bennie Doane of Oklahoma.

Kinney County 4-H members have exhibited seven first place lambs and four champion at major livestock shows across Texas in the last two years announced Carl Esser, Kinney County Extension Agent.
