IT seems to me Brackettville and Kinney County would do well to express thanks to Ft. Clark Springs Association for the Annual Fireworks Display.

Each year attracts a larger crowd and all seem to enjoy it immensely. It would indeed be good if the Brackettville Chamber of Commerce would promote and produce some enthusiastic celebration of the Fourth of July. It is a sad thing that American Independence has come to be so trite a thing that we scarely celebrate it. IT is a reflection on all true Americans that a foreign Holiday creates more activity in our area than Independence Day. It is understandable why Cinco de Mayo should call forth celebration in Mexico but it is difficult to understand why it is given so much emphasis on this side of the Rio Grande. Any person who lives in the United States should whole heartedly support Independence Day. Let foreigners celebrate their holidays but Americans should ever hold high the banner of Freedom and prove their allegance by loyalty to the institutions that mark the milestones of America's rise to greatness. The demonstration by Ft. Clark Springs Association is a timely reminder that this is the United States of America.

Farmers and ranchers in Bexar, Kinney, Medina, and Atascosa Counties all were reporting a slowdown in to harvesting due to their inability to 9W locate baling wire.

the region during the week with Dimmit County reporting the most with one to one-half inches. County Extension Agents in Bexar, Maverick, Kinney and Real COunties all reported scattered showers during the week.

Generally, range conditions continue to deteriorate, but cattle condition is still fair to good across the area. BRUSH MANAGEMENT

Brush management is a term many people are familiar with. However, it does not mean the same thing to all people.

To some it is the complete eradication of any woody plants, leaving only an expanse of grass. To others it is the partial control of woody plants, that must be redone periodically.

In reality, it is a rare instance when a problem with unwanted or undersirable brush is taken care of in one treatment. It is a continuing problem that must be considered and worked on at least every few years because of the problem of regrowth.

Many factors enter into the management of rangeland with a brush problem.

What is the species to be treated? Mesquite, blackbrush, whitebrush and cedar can all be treated differently.

The season of the treatment (spring, fall, etc.) is very important in the success of the treatment on various species.

Does the species respond best to chemical or mechanical treatment? What will the economics of the situation allow. Does the treated area have to go to an improved pasture in order to pay for the treatment.

What are the ground moisture and ground temperature conditions? Research has shown that uless these are within certain limits, the success can be marginal in several types of treatment.

How can the brushwork be done so as to leave quality wild-life habitat while developing grazing for livestock?

In the area is rootplowed or the soil surface seriously disturbed, the area needs to be reseeded. What grass do you need to reseed on the disturbed ground?

After all the above is considered, probably the most important item of all comes along. What type of management will be given following the brushwork?

In a livestock operation, a rest period during the growing season following brush management is essential to allow the grass and forb plants to regrow and regain their vigor. The grazing must be controlled so there is no over use of the grass plants that regrow.

There is growing interest in the use of fire as a method of brush management. However, the type of management given following a fire is even more critial than with other types of brush management.

Should you have questions concerning brush management to be done on your farm or ranch, contact the Soil Conservation Service for information on this practice and the management needed for it.

VYOU WE SELECTE

In this intense heat and dry we are seeing more and more evidence of fungus attacking plants, trees and ornamentals. In any plant suddenly becomes infested with yellowing leaves with black dots or with blackening edges to the leaves you most likely have a fungus attacking the plant. At the very first sign the plant should be sprayed with a good general purpose fungicide. Most fungus can be controlled by dusting with or better still, spraying with wettable powdered sulfur.

Some fungi will not be killed by sulfur and other types of fungicide will be needed. Spray early in the morning or late, late in the evening. Repeat the treament in about a week for several times. Couple this treatment with a feeding of the plant with a plant food of strong mineral content. Particularly you will need zinc and managnese. Other minerals such as iron (copperas or iron chelate) are a constant need in many plants in our soil in this area. Fungi can be controlled by the longer you wait the more difficult will be the recovery and the more extensive the damage.

Present Day Myths

by: JOE TOWNSEND

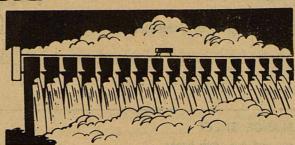

Another of the great American myths is that police officers are to preserve the peace It has come to be that the law enforcement officers is "the bad guy" and the violator of law is the good guy. It is more than tiresome to hear the cry "police brutality." There is hardly a passing day but that the media plays up in bold type the fact that someone cries "Police Brutality." The fact is that police are not allowed to be brutal enough nor jail hard enough to deter crime. There are numbers of cases where a person with a criminal record of long standing and multitude in number is killed by a police officer and the police officer is persecuted beyond measure. The crimnal may be trying to take the officers' guns or to attack the officer but this is not an important factor in the eyes of the "do gooder" and the race baiter. The hue and cry arising that so many "Mexican-Americans" are being "brutally killed" while in police custody and hence the "Mexican-American" is being persecuted is a sickening thing.

In the first place a man should have enough self respect and respect for others that he would obey the law. When one breaks the law he should expect harsh treatment. Society should totally support law enforcement. Smypathy should always be with the police officer until he is proven guilty of violation of the law. It seems the popular thing for the news media and the general populace to countanence and condon violent action by the criminal and to castigate law enforcement officers who try to uphold the law. A man can fire through the door and kill an officer who is legally trying to search the house for dope and a sharp lawyer can appeal emotionally to an unthinking jury and the man get a life sentence or less and in a few short years be out to kill another officer. A man from a so-called "minority" with a long criminal record can scuffle with an officer trying to arrest him and be killed in the fight and immediately it becomes a Federal case and Mr. Griffin Bell sets out an Investigation of "Civil Rights" violations.

Its' high time society and the judiciary and Justice Department realize that a law violater is a criminal and should be treated as such. Too many police officers are being killed in the line of duty simply because of coddling of law violators. If a person does not want to be a "victim of police brutally"let him obey the law.
