The Brackettville City Counsel voted unanimously to begin the extermination of all strays on July 23 allowing those dogs who received the rabies vaccination recently at the clinic to be tagged. Approximately 200 dogs were vaccinated from and around the City.

As everyone knows the strays are a real problem that must be brought under control.

Police Chief Morgan Bailey stated that any dog--tagged or untagged--should be leashed or penned and not be allowed to run the streets.

The Council also discussed the utility costs problems and the rise hikes were confirmed for the second time.

As Brackettville has sent all the paper work to HUD on the claim that the City owes HUD $19,500 for a grant issued in 1973. HUD stated the problem arose when he City started the project before the confirmation was received from HUD and the City then produced papers and letters stating that the okay was given by HUD when the project was started.

City Manager, Tim Ward, reported to the Council that he had forwarded to HUD the itemized amount for labor and materials expended by the City was $14,767.85. He also informed the Council that the agency acknowledges receiving it but that no action have been reported to him. If the agency action is taken, it would mean of the $19.500 only $4,800 would be against the total sum.

Present Day Myths

by: JOE TOWNSEND

It has long been established that a polititican need not necessarily act in a way beneficial to his constituents. That his acts are to be for the good on his political entity is now just another myth. We read in the news that Mr. Carter's "Georgia Mafia" advised him to act contrary to the advice of men who are in a position to know what is best in the "energy" program. These experts in the field were want to be over ruled because the voices of Mr. Carters' think tank feel it would be "Political suicide" to act responsibly. The name of the game is, win favor with the people so you can be re-elected.
 What's good for the country is unimportant. I would hasten to point out that Mr. Carter advisers are by no means that only ones guilty of this crime. Mr.
 Baker of Tennessee has suddenly come to life and taken a tough stance regarding Salt II. He wants to be a candidate for President and he so incensed the American people by being the swing vote that gave away the Panama Canal. Now he must somehow get back into their good graces.
 Certainly the Salt II agreement should be opposed but in light of Mr. Bakers vote on the Panama Canal we are made to wonder if his stand on Salt II might not be different if he were not ambitious politically. Tis a fact of life that for most politicans their stand is guaged by whether or not it may enhance their election prospects.

The present "summit" at Camp David is nothing more than a dramatic effort to gain election support. Judging by the people Mr.
 Carter has "invited" to the meeting, it is quite plain what will come out of the meeting. The recommendations will be in keeping with a well orchestrated plan to re-build Mr. Carter's image. His Georgia cronies are advising him to sany and do things that will help him politically. They know people vote on their emotions so they are totally disinterested in what may be best for the nation They simply don't want him to,
 in their words, commit "political suicide"then they would lose their jobs. If sometimes Mr. Carter would throw out the advice of his White HOuse cronies and commit political suicide in their view he just might find he could re-gain some of his lost political base. He is about as far gone as he can go. It would be worth a try to forget politics and move on good solid abjective advice, at any not it would be good for the country and this is what he promised before his election.

PROPANE ENGINE FUEL OFFERS MOTORISTS MANY ADVANTAGES

AUSTIN--High prices and gasoline shortages are causing record numbers of motorists to consider converting their automobiles to operate on propane (liquidified petroleum gas) engine fuel, according to Lowry M. Carpenter, Executive Director of the Texas LP-Gas Association.

Propane has many distinct advantages over gasoline as engine fuel, the expert explained. It is an unleaded fuel with a naturally high octane rating of 110-120--which is considerably higher than most unleaded gasoline.

LP-Gas has a lower cost per gallon, a cleaner burning engine and lower exhaust emissions than gasoline, he continued. The fact that it contains no lead, carbon or other sludge-creating properties means fewer oil filters are used, fewer oil changes are required, carburetor expense is reduced, engines require less downtime and less money is spent on overhauls. Carpenter said propane also extends spark plug life, and eliminates pilferage and spillage.

Conversion costs, he said, are quickly recouped; and within a short period of time motorists begin saving money on the operation of converted automobiles.

Carpenter emphasized safe and efficient operation of a propane fueled vehicle depends in large part on proper installation of the entire system. The Association Executive stressed that conversions should be done by qualified firms employing experienced personnel. In addition to the installation of the propane fuel system, the vehicle's engine may require internal modifications for efficient operation. Such modifications require considerable expertise, in addition to special parts and equipment. LP-Gas engine conversion, Carpenter said, is "not-a-do-it-yourself" project.

Propane powers industrial lift trucks, farm tractors and other equipments, fleet vehicles, taxi cabs, buses, municipal trucks, cars; stationary engines such as those used in irrigation pumping; recreational vehicles and a growing number of passenger cars. Over 60 million people used LPG safely and efficiently in over 1600 uses last year.

THE CHOICE IS YOURS. BE CHOOSEY.

To see the damage done by the case bearers when don't spray, just wait awhile. If pecans begin to drop off before they are mature examine them. If there is a small hole in the pecan a case bearer got it. Gather all such pecans and figure the sale value if they had matured. Compare that to the cost of spraying the tree. Remember also that when you spray that tree you kill all the beneficial insects and increase the need of further insect kills by spraying. Everything considered you will find that spraying for case bearers in out immediate area is an expensive exercise in futility. There have been ases even this year where a man comes in to town and cons people into spraying there trees. Two or three weeks pass and you look out and are amazed to see webs and web worms or army worms in your trees. Yiu immediately decide it does not good to spray. There is no way to control web worms and army worms in trees except to spray. The time to spray is as soon as you see the worms. The idea is to kill them before they can do much damage. Spraying your trees last month is no benefit. You must remember too that you can expcet a new hatch of worms on a three to four week cycle normally. This year we have already had two hatches of "web" worms and two hatches of "army"worms. We may yet have another hatch of each. Spraying trees for these pests is a continous program. No known spray will leave a residual lasting more than a few days at most. Nor is there any systemic insecticide that can kill over a long period of time, and not be too dangerous to be practical. It does good to spray trees. They must be sprayed when the worms are there. Spraying trees early in the spring can in no way prevent web worms and army worms from devastating the trees.

Public Notice

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. on July 24, 1979, in the offices of the Texas Public Utility Commission in Austin, Texas, on a proposal by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to make certain changes in the format of selected Texas telephone directories.

The principal proposed changes are: (1) to separate business and residential listings in the white pages, with residential surnames listed once in boldface type followed by the alphabetical listing of the individuals' given names in regular type; and (2) to add, in addition to the "white pages" business and residential listings and the Yellow Pages business listings, a third set of "blue pages" listing the numbers of selected governmental and public service agencies.

Inquiries may be addressed to the Texas Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas 78757.

A man said to me, "It is a waste of money to spray trees. I had mine sprayed and it did no good." He was right and wrong. You can certainly waste money spraying trees. We heard a lot this year about spraying for case bearers in pecan trees. In this particular area money is generally wasted in spraying for case bearers in pecan trees.

BRACKETTVILLE, TEXAS

BETWEEN US

By: Joe Townsend

Now that the rabies epidemic is so close to Brackettville it seems to me some consideration should be given to a leash law and its enforcement. At best the consequence of being bitten by a rabid dog or cat is a very bad thing. There is hardly an area of the city that does not have a surplus of dogs running wild. Every morning my trash barrel (a 55 gal drum) is turned over. A neighboring dog is the culprit. Every morning I feel like I'd like to kill the dog and make the owners of the dog come clean up the mess.

IN several sections of the city a person cannot walk or ride a bicycle without being cased and threatened by loose dogs. This should not be. It is a proven fact that many dog owners refuse to pen or leash or even train their dogs. They will do nothing unless forced to. If one child were to be bitten by a rabid dog running loose we would all have something to deeply regret, a leash law strictly enforced could well save the life of some child and besides no dog should be allowed to run wild on the streets and in other yards that the dogs don't own.

Texas literary sites included in new book

A new book published by Morrow, "A Literary Tour Guide to the South and Southwest", includes data on four Texas locations.

The author, Rita Stern, starts out with Austin and the story of O. Henry, whose early writing was done in the capital city. She has information about the O. Henry Museum in the former home of the author and his wife. It is located at 409 East Fifth St. and is open Tuesday-Saturday from 11 to 4:30 p.m. and on Sundays from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

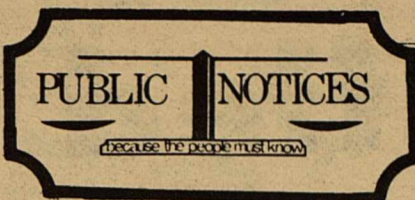

San Antonio is included because of O. Henry's attempt to publish his "The Rolling Stone" there after it failed in Austin and because of the O. Henry house on the Lone Star Brewing Co. grounds at 600 Lone Star Rd.

Ms. Stern includes a reference to the Alamo because of the many books written about the shrine of Texas freedom, including Paul I. Wellman's novel,

"The Iron Mistress", and Lon Tinkle's "Thirteen Days of Glory: The Siege of the Alamo."

The Institute of Texan Cultures is listed because of its exhibits about the many ethnic groups of the state. She mentions Langtry because of the books about Judge Roy Bean, and there is a listing of the Armstrong Browning Library at Baylor University, Waco. The Erle Stanley Gardner study at the University of Texas in Austin has mention in the book as well. The author writes, "Everything, including the walls and floors, is as it was in Gardner's study in his home in Temecula, California. Mementos and trophies hang from the wood walls and from wooden ceiling beams. His huge desk is covered with memorabilia from all over the world."

The book says the study is open weekdays from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Data is available at the Visitor Information Center in Sid Richardson Hall.
