city hall

Brackettville's recent application for HUD funds was rejected this week. The funds that had been requested to improve the City's water system and streets was rejected on the basis that Brackettville failed to complete the last HUD funded project in 1976.

At the regular Monday night meeting the City Council rejected three bids for a new police car.

Mary SanMiguel was appointed election Judge for the April 4th City Election.

Action on trash burning and "leash Law" was postponed pending the arrival of information from the City's Attorney.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT

At their regular meeting last Monday, the Kinney County Commissioners approved the use of the Kinney County Civic Center for the Second Annual World Championship Tortilla Tossing Tournament to be held May 15 and 16th. The Court also approved use of the center for a fund raising benefit for the Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance Service, under the direction of Don Crowder.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Service proposed that Kinney County have a three deer season this year. This would consist of two (2) bucks and one antlerless deer, for which no permit would be required. A public hearing on the suggestion will be held at 8:00 p.m. on March 16 at the Courthouse on the matter.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE ON CHILD ABUSE SET FOR FEBRUARY 27

A regional Conference on Child Abuse will be held in San Antonio on Friday, February 27 at the Oak Hills Motor Inn, 7401 Wurzbach.

Highlighting the two-program event will be District Judge George M. Thurmond of the 63rd Judicial District in Del Rio. He will speak at a luncheon on the judicial perspective on child abuse. The conference draws together the people who come in contact with abused children and their families including law enforcement, school, state and county, also community social service staff, child welfare board members, community volunteers and attorneys.

Another significant factor of the conference is that public agencies and community resources in a 21-county area will advise a planned approach to deliver protection services within their geographical areas.

One program is recommended for attorneys, but the participants come together in two joint sessions: "Agency Perspectives on Child Abuse Issues" and "The Child in The Crack: Accountability of State Agencies." Program A is for everyone interested and involved, and offers workshop and community networking sessions.

Sponsoring the conference are the Alamo Area Council of Governments, Region 9 of the Texas Department of Human Resources, Community Guidance Center of Bexar County, Houston Bar Association --Family Law Section, Texas Association of Counsel for Children, the University of Texas at Austin--Region 6 Child Abuse and Neglect Resource Center and the Young Lawyers Association of San Antonio.

The registration fee which includes the luncheon is $12 for Program A and $35 for Program B. For more information, contact Betty Murray, Human Resources Manager at AACOG, at 225-5201.

SYMBOLISM OF ROSES.....

As well as the numerous accounting through history of the romantic implications of roses, there are many instances of the symbolic use of the rose. In England, the Order of Roses became the emblem of corage and gentle mess and the promise of reward for vallor.

In the famous age of chivalry the leaves or petals embroidered on the sleeves of knights sent the forth to cary out corgeous deeds.

Elizabeth I of England had a banner made of an embroidered white rose that flew wherever she slept.
After the death of Elizabeth, the rose was carried on the lid of her coffin to immortalize the queen, the last of this sovereign family.

During the reign of Napoleon,
a recurrence of an interest in roses occurred. At the time, it was customary to name roses for court favorites-- dukes, marquis, duchesses, and we still see those names today.

In England, roses were named for ladies and lords.

After all of the legends of roses are told, after all of its symbolism explored (and I have singled out only a few) no matter which you believe, or what name it is called by, the rose is the most popular flower in the world. Every legend enforces the connection of roses and romance....

A rose is a rose, is a rose,
is a rose.....

THANK YOU

Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
Or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent a funeral spray,
If so we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much whatever the part.

Kinney County LIBRARY

Dear K.C.,

Librarian Charlotte Coery attended the District 10 Library System Publicity meeting at the El Progreso Library in Uvalde. The committee approved her 1981-82 slogan and logo, Discover a New Frontier, for book bags and bumper stickers that will be distributed later this summer.

Librarian Coery has presented the County Commissioners with a copy of the annual report sent to the Texas State Library Board for the system's membership application. The K.C. Library will qualify this year for membership thanks to the $8,500 appropriated to the library by the county this last fiscal year. This along with our new highs in circulation and viewer count will mean more and better services for you, the library patron.

It was requested at the last library meeting that a commissioner attend the next meeting to report the library status to the board. Tim Ward volunteered to do this.

It is our intention to keep the public advised as to any new developments on the resumption of building the new library. To date the Federal judge has advised the attorneys to be prepared to present the case at an early date; this far no specific date has been set. We will keep you posted.

All essays developed through interviews with older citizens with stories handed down about life before the turn of the century in Kinney County are due in the library no later than 5 p.m. February 20th.

TEXAS TEENWORLD COMPETITION TO OFFER $1,500 IN COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Statewide competition for the Texas Teenworld contest has just been announced for July 3-5, 1981, at the Hyatt Hotel in Fort Worth.

Teenworld will select outstanding young women from all over the state to participate in the three days of activities. A $500 college scholarship will be awarded to the Texas winner. She will also receive an all expense paid trip to the Teenworld National Finals in Atlanta, Georgia, and a $1,000 scholarship to the Fashion and Art Institute of Dallas.

The Teenworld program is designed to recognize young women, 14 to 18, who excel in scholastic achievement and community involvement. Contestants are judged on poise, personality, grooming, and a speech or talent presentation, as well as scholastic and civic achievements. Entrants must have a "B" or better accumulative grade average and be able to document at least 10 hours of volunteer service to a community or charitable organization. Swimsuit competition is not part of the program.

Further information on applying for the Texas Teenworld competition is available from State Director Carol Connery at the Teenworld Regional Office, 4550 W. 109 St., #300, Overland Park, KS., 66211, phone 913/341-5588.

Shelley Chapman of Austin is the reigning 1980 Miss Texas Teenworld and will crown the 1981 winner. The Texas Pageant is the official state preliminary for the Teenworld National Pageant to be held in Atlanta, December 1981. Teenworld finalists from all fifty states will compete for $18,000 in cash and scholarship awards; a new automobile for the national winner's reigning year; a $2,000 wardrobe; a $5,000 personal appearance contract; and many other special prizes. Throughout the year, the National Teenworld Scholarship Program will award over $80,000 in scholarship and tuition grants across the nation.

Kazen in Washington

Our house Armed Services Committee began hearings last week on our defense posture leading up to consideration of new budget requests. Even as General David Jones and the other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff appeared before us, the keynote of our Committee action was sounded by Chairman Mel Price of Illinois and the new ranking minority member of the Committee, Bill Dickinson of Alabama.

Chairman Price noted that for the first time, our Committee will be responsible for the authorization of funding for operations and maintenance (or O & M) of our military system. We shall have a new subcommittee watching this function, and it is aptly named the Subcommittee on Readiness. With the jurisdiction taken over from the Appropriations Committee, it is expected that our Defense authorization bill will top $115 billion, when military construction, military nuclear systems, personnel costs and new equipment are included.

ATTENTION FT. CLARK MEMBERS

I'm using this means to contact the members of Ft. Clark. I'm forced to use the "Power of the Press" because the Board of Ft. Clark has instituted means to suppress evidently, candidates from contacting the membership and discussing issues/views. The following is provided as to means they use. They will furnish mailing labels for $70.00. No problem, I'm willing to pay. Mailing labels must be affixed to envelopes in the presence of a Board member/designee. Okay. Now the rub. Three members of the Board must approve what you want to say to the membership or the letters will not be mailed. (Oh yes, they have to mail the letters!) I object to this procedure. Our United States Constitution is clear on our freedoms. I'm unaware that the Board has the right or power to usurp them. Why the "Big Brother" approach by the Board? Enough chit chat. Now some of the things we need. Basically I want Ft. Clark to grow and prosper. To achieve this I feel we need: (1) A Board to serve the membership and not the membership serving the board. (2) Truly open meetings. (3) Better communications between the Board and Membership. This is especially true of individuals visiting Ft. Clark infrequently. You need to know what is going on, good or bad. (4) To prevent any conflict of interest from occurring. You will be receiving a ballot along with a resume of my qualifications (incidentally this had to be rewritten to satisfy the Board). I would appreciate your vote. Together we can work for a better Ft. Clark. Please vote #2 on your ballot.

Thanks,

ADVICE TO PRESIDENT

Mr. Price, commenting that he has served on the Committee for 33 years under nine presidents, noted that our Committee had been warning for years that our defense establishment had critical inadequacies, and he offered advice to the President. He had noted, time after time, that production of new weapons systems was seldom rejected outright, but instead was shunted aside for further study. Now, Chairman Price said, there is little time for re-study. Instead, he said, it is time to get down to work.

He also declared that in the recent past, the Committee has not had full access to the expertise of the Joint Chiefs when budgetary actions were taken, and said our Committee would have them return to discuss our existing ability to meet possible problems in Europe, the Persian Gulf or elsewhere in the world.

NON-PARTISAN APPROACH

Our Committee has always avoided political party stands on issues to do what we think best for the nation, and this was displayed anew when Bill Dickinson spoke for the Republican minority.

He said he believed we were at a watershed in security planning. For 25 years after World War II, there was military equilibrium between the super-powers. The Soviets had superior ground forces in Eurasia, but we had a big strategic lead. The Soviets then could reach areas adjacent to their homeland, but much of the Middle East, Africa and Southeast Asia was beyond the access of its military equipment. In the 1960's, Representative Dickinson said, the balance began to shift to our disadvantage. The Russians improved their missile accuracy and war-head technology, built up their aircraft and missiles with Backfire bombers and SS-20 missiles, improved their naval and air lift abilities, and used surrogate forces from Cuba, Libya Ethiopia, South Yemen and Viet-Nam.

While he said he considered such action improbable, he warned that Soviet power had grown to where they have greater strength than we do in aircraft and missiles, and could risk a confrontation. That retreat is so real that we must build our strength.

"HAVE MARCHING ORDERS"

Representatives Dickinson said there had been one other change, welcome to our Committee. The nation has expressed its desire that we be strong or, as he said, "has given us our marching orders." We must recognize that the period of the '80s is one of maximum risk because it will take us seven to 10 years to build our weapons strength. This will mean substantial increase in defense budgets, not merely cosmetic covering up of inflation.

But he also said--and I certainly agree--that there is reason to be optimistic about the future, based on the determination of the American people that "we make our defense capability unquestionably No. 1 again."

Our meeting was an inspiring start on the great task ahead of us this session.

GRAZING SYSTEMS CRITICAL FACTOR IN IMPLANT RESULTS

UVALDE--Today's cattle rancher is caught between a rock and a hard place. He looks one direction and evasions the time-honored approach to ranching that proved profitable for decades. Then he takes a second look and all kinds of new scientific developments begin to pop before his very eyes. Suddenly he's in the midst of a whirlwind that flacks one new technique after another his way.

With costs rising faster than income, ranchers must constantly stay ahead by seeking new ways to increase beef output acre while keeping costs at rock bottom, even if it means deviating from the traditional path taken by their forefathers.

On technique, growth implant stimulants, has been tried in growing calves and in many cases has resulted in increased calf weaning weights. Until recently, no data was available to determine how different grazing management systems influenced calf response to these growth stimulants.

However, Dr. Larry Varner, associate professor of range nutrition with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Uvalde, recently completed a three-year study which sheds new light on the subject.

Varner tested three successive calf crops involving 760 calves that were produced from three different grazing systems on the 10,000 acre Rio Grande Experimental Ranch near Spofford in Southwest Texas. Continuous (1-pasture-1 herd), rotational (4-pasture-3 herd) and short duration (6-pasture-1 herd) systems were used.

Two-thirds of the calves were implanted with a normal dose of Ralgro a popular implant stimulant, at about one month of age and again 90-100 days later. The remaining calves were not implanted.

Varner says the three-year average increase in weaning weights and investment return per calf from implanted calves versus those not implanted was significantly higher under the rotational grazing systems.

"In the 4 pasture-3 herd program implanted calves were 42.2 pounds heavier at weaning than non-implanted animals and returned $24.71 above implant costs," he explains.

Implanted calves from the continuous grazing system were a distant second, producing 11.9 pounds more beef per head than their non-implanted counterparts while returning $9.75 above implant costs. Implanted calves from the short duration system produced 9.7 additional pounds, returning $7.96 more than implant costs.

The Texas A&M range nutrition scientist points out, however, that although the short duration grazing system produced about two pounds less beef per implanted animal than the continuous system, the former method was able to sustain a 30 percent heavier stocking rate than either of the other grazing systems.

Varner says the rotational grazing system produced the largest percent increase in beef production per acre from implanted calves, 9 percent, followed by the short duration method (6%) and continuous system (2.5%).

"Calf response to implants appear to be in addition to the increased beef production usually seen when improved grazing management systems such as rotational or short duration practices are implemented, thus giving ranchers an additional incentive to exercise good range and livestock management," he concludes.

GOVERNOR'S REPORT

by William P. Clements Jr.

As the third most-populous state in the nation, Texas faces many problems and challenges. I have stated often during the last two years that providing an adequate water supply for our citizens, our agriculture and our industry, ultimately, may be the most critical issue of all.

If we do not accurately assess our needs in this regard and prepare accordingly, we could be in a crisis situation.

That is why I recommended in my January 22 State of the State address to the Legislature establishment of a State Water Trust Fund to hold in reserve anticipated surplus revenues toward meeting our future water needs.

Water is not an agricultural problem alone. Neither, contrary to a widely-held view, is it a sectional or regional problem.

Municipal water supplies and sewage treatment capabilities must be assured in the small towns and large cities. Our farms and ranches and industry will continue to demand more water as our population increases from 14.1 million to 22 million by the year 2000.

Already, Texas is classified as a water-short state. That is, we are using our water faster than it is being replaced by nature. According to the Texas Department of Water Resources, we are using statewide 7.1 million acre feet of groundwater per year more than is being replaced.

The withdrawal is causing water level declines, decreasing well yields, land subsidence, movement of geologic faults and saline water encroachment.

This 7.1 million acre feet deficit amounts to 41 per cent of water use in our state annually. And it is twice the amount we can take safely from our 10 largest lakes.

In a recent publication, the Department of Water Resources pointed to this long-term water supply outlook:

—Major areas of the State will be limited in growth potential to provide jobs for increasing populations unless additional water supplies are developed.

—Areas where some long-range (20 to 50 years) water shortages are anticipated include Dallas-Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Abilene, San Angelo, Midland-Odessa, High Plains, Trans-Pecos, El Paso, Lower Rio Grande Valley, Middle Rio Grande, Corpus Christi and the San Antonio area. Implementation of projects can prevent projected shortages in many of these areas.

—The Middle Gulf Coast, Houston, Beaumont, East Texas, Northeast Texas and a part of the Dallas-Fort Worth Central Texas regions can be supplied through intrastate, local area development over the next 50 years if surface-water supplies are developed on a timely schedule as now planned.

All of this led me to the conclusion that establishment of a Water Trust Fund to underwrite water development projects including additional reservoirs and distribution facilities should be a high priority goal.

As I stated in my January 22 speech, this is literally an investment in our future. It will ensure that the state surplus—unlike some in the past—will be spent in an accountable manner on a highly identifiable and critical need.

It is a form of tax relief, because by putting this money in trust, we are preventing a future onerous tax burden that the State could be forced to levy as our population and water needs increase and our oil and gas revenues decline.

In the long-term sense, the Water Trust Fund would, indeed, amount to a very substantial tax savings, and I support it wholeheartedly.

At the same time, I remain hopeful that we will find a suitable and practical way to return to our citizens in the form of direct tax relief a portion of the surplus which is expected to accrue. I will continue to look for that opportunity.

St. Valentine's Day:
A 1,700 Year Tradition

February 14th is St. Valentine's Day again this year. And again this year, people happily in love, and those who hope to be, will send valentines to the objects of their affection. But few lovers realize that the history of this happiest of holidays dates back more than 1,700 years—and that its origin was anything but happy.

St. Valentine's Day stems, incongruously, from the death of a Roman bishop named Valentine, who was beheaded on February 14, 273 A.D. by Emperor Claudius II. According to one account, Claudius had outlawed marriages because they kept men at home rather than fighting for Rome. Valentine, so the story goes, paid with his life when he continued to marry young lovers. Another version had Valentine thrown into prison, where he befriended the jailkeeper's daughter. When his ornate love letters to the young lady were discovered, he was executed on February after came to be observed in much of the Christian world, but especially in England, where in 1537 King Henry VIII instituted the holiday by royal charter. A 1667 entry in Samuel Pepys' diary mentions special notes of endearment sent to his wife on St. Valentine's Day, including one with "her name writ upon blue paper in gold letters."

In America, the Pilgrims continued the St. Valentine's Day tradition and it steadily grew in popularity. Among the earliest U.S. valentines were Pennsylvania Dutch cards fashioned with painstaking workmanship and calligraphy. Some resembled lace, an effect achieved by thousands of pin pricks arranged in elaborate patterns.

Nineteenth century valentines took many forms—including colorful designs of hearts and flowers and cleverly folded cards with cut-outs of rose petals, angels, and cupids that moved when unfolded. There were also comic valentines that poked gentle fun at recipients.

Like so many things that have historical and aesthetic value, old valentines are now collectors' items. Particularly prized are lacy British valentines with pastel paper underlays, early handmade and engraved cards, and Civil War, World War I, and World War II valentines.

Norcross-Rust Craft Collection
This sentimental 19th century valentine (ca. 1835) was colored by hand. Its four lines of verse read:
"Thou darling of my life,
My soul's delight,
By day my vision, and my dream by night;
Thy service shall my only pleasure be,
And all my heart's delight in pleasing thee."

Based on traditional heart and cupid motifs, this colorful 14-penny stamp issued by the British Post Office to mark St. Valentine's Day is adding an extra touch to millions of valentines being exchanged this year in England and the U.S.

In England, the Roman conquest introduced a pagan fertility festival that was celebrated on February 14. Nearly a century after the Romans left England, Pope Gelasius abolished the pagan ritual and established St. Valentine's Day in 496 A.D. as a celebration of love.

TIGER TAILS RETURN

The first 1981 issue of the Brackett High School TIGER TAILS begins with the traditional "Love Notes" and lots of stockshow news, another Brackett February tradition.

This year the TIGER TAILS will be printed every two weeks rather than weekly. The paper is a joint project of the high school yearbook, the reference and research class, and individuals who don't mind staying after school or taking on still another thing to do.

Thank you Mr. and Mrs. Loos for giving Brackett High news a place in your paper. Thanks also to the readers who kept asking "When does the school newspaper start?"

SLEASY THE GUMSHOE (a serial by Rich Slubar)

It all started one cool, crisp afternoon while I was meandering through the streets of Cipton Village. A tall blonde, about five and a half feet tall with blue eyes and shoulder length hair approached me. I guess you might say she was of the attractive sort. I knew right away she had a problem, because her face was a little tight and she looked disturbed.

Little did I know that in just two short hours we would engage in the most spectacular journey ever conceived by the human mind.

FACTS

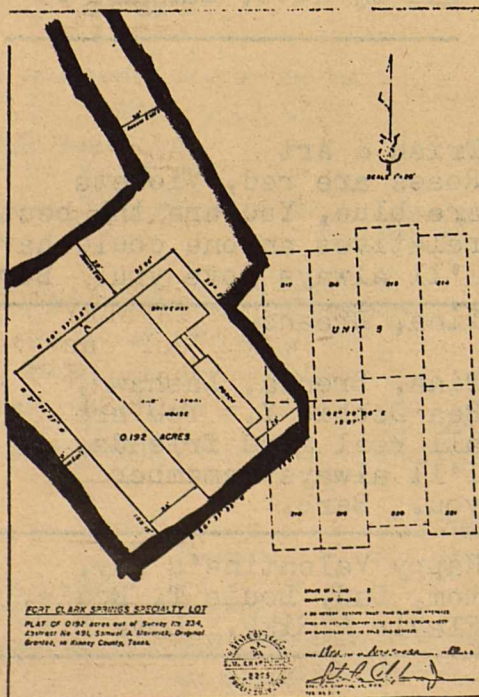

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MEMBERS OF FORT CLARK SPRINGS ASSOCIATION, INC.

It would be impossible to put all the information gathered onto this page, like putting the oak tree back into the acorn. So here is the gist of it.

The regular pastime here at the Fort is sitting around the coffee table to gripe about one thing or another. In the past, we have tried complaining to the Association Board of Directors, or circulating petitions, or holding a citizen's meeting, but none have been fruitful in solving any problems. SO, a group of members decided to go the official route in accordance with the Declaration of Protective Restrictions, and find out just how protective to the members this glory document really can be when and if it is needed. SO, you have here THE FIRST ARBITRATION initiated to settle a dispute within our own house. So far, we have found out a great deal but not much good for the individual member. If you have been holding on to a confirmed (Part X) lot selection, it can be vacated and given to somebody else if the Board so chooses, how about that!

Of course, true to form, the party of the second part has not complied with the requirement to select an arbitrator, he says he "don't want any of that crap" so what is one more rule broken, We shall allow him 90 days to reply and then see if the Board will enforce the arbitration. If the Board cannot enforce Part IX then we have no recourse within house. Without recourse, we may as well throw out ALL the rules and regulations. There would be a great amount of building around here, that is for sure, just come on in, pick out your spot, hire your own survey done, write your own deed, no restrictions whatsoever, no committees needed, everybody would have a whingding of a good time for a little while, BUT soon the 650 acres total set aside for lots will be gone, then the rest of the glens and creek banks will become private, then what? Think about it. THAT now is the gist of our DISPUTE.

He took ALL THIS AREA on ONE MEMBERSHIP

DECLARATION OF INITIATING PARTY TO THE PUBLIC

FORT CLARK SPRINGS
COUNTY OF KINNEY
STATE OF TEXAS

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS:

WHEREAS, arbitration proceedings have been initiated by the parties joined in the Petition for Arbitration attached herewith; and

WHEREAS, said arbitration has not concluded a determination on the matter of dispute; and

WHEREAS, a Warranty Deed has been executed as evidenced by public records of the County of Kinney, State of Texas, to wit: One certain Warranty Deed to BILLY N. BIZZELL and/or ELVA ROSE BIZZELL as filed for record December 15, 1980 at 9:30 a.m. and recorded Dec. 15, 1980 at 9:35 a.m. in Volume A-55 on pages 811-816 of the Deed records of Kinney County, Texas. The property described being SPECIALTY LOT per plat of 0.192 acres out of Survey No. 234, Abstract No. 491, Samuel A. Maverick, Original Grantee, in Kinney County, Texas.

WHEREAS, that certain deed described herein is the subject exhibit in the matter of arbitration herewith and the property described in that deed is subject to the Declaration of Protective Restrictions, The Fort Clark Springs Association, Inc. and this arbitration mandated by Part IX therein.

NOW, THEREFORE, all persons having any interest in the described land as shown in that certain deed are HEREBY NOTIFIED OF THIS ARBITRATION and that he, she, they, may be affected by the determination of the settlement.

LET THE PUBLIC RECORD DECLARE THAT THIS NOTICE IS EXECUTED BY THE INITIATING PARTY AS REPRESENTED BY THE PETITION FOR ARBITRATION ATTACHED AND MADE A PART HEREOF.

FORT CLARK SPRINGS
COUNTY OF KINNEY
STATE OF TEXAS

PETITION FOR ARBITRATION

PARTIES TO THE ARBITRATION

PARTY OF THE FIRST PART: The initiating party, the GROUP OF MEMBERS signified by the undersigned signatures, the first ten of whom shall be fully representative of all other members whose signature appears on this document or any written document signifying that the member desires to be made a party of the first part to this arbitration.

PARTY OF THE SECOND PART: Mr. Bill Bizzell and any Accessory.

NATURE OF THE DISPUTE: The party of the second part (Bizzell) intends to be awarded a warranty deed and easement rights to property on which he has already built a personal private residence and roadway and/or seek monetary compensation for the construction by sale or other means for personal gain. The party of the first part (Group of Members) does challenge the propriety of Mr. Bizzell's methods and intends that he shall not gain personal benefit or profit in any manner by his example of presumptuous contempt of mandated restrictions meant for the equal benefit of all members.

CONTENTION OF THE INITIATING PARTY:

1. That Mr. Bizzell did, willingly and knowingly, construct a private home residence building and roadway on Association "club grounds" at Fort Clark Springs, with the exacting intent to elicit after-the-fact approval and acceptance of the unauthorized construction because of its existence.
2. That Mr. Bizzell did, willingly and knowingly, obtain a building permit by use of deceptive representation that all requirements had been met.
3. That Mr. Bizzell did, willingly and knowingly, cause a breach to occur of the following restrictions and provisions:
 - a. The Declaration of Protective Restrictions, The Fort Clark Springs Association, Inc.
 - b. The Master Plan for the Fort Clark Springs Subdivision Plat as approved and recorded for Unit Number 5.
 - c. The Master Plan for the Fort Clark Springs Subdivision Plat as approved and recorded for Unit Number 14.
 - d. The Declaration of Protective Covenants dated the 7th day of March 1973 for the real property described as lots 1 to 450 inclusive, as shown on Unit 5 plat recorded.
 - e. The procedures for development of performance lots as established by the Association Board of Directors in the minutes of the meeting dated April 19, 1979.
 - f. The restriction placed on the Application for Building Permit as recorded in the minutes of the meeting of the Architectural Committee on October 7, 1980.
4. That Mr. Bizzell being a past member of the Association Planning Committee and presently a member of the Board of Directors, did willingly and knowingly disregard any disadvantages to the Association land usage planning and concept of lot size and the location problems involved.

NAMED ARBITRATOR FOR THE INITIATING PARTY: Mr. T.J. HILL, Safford, Texas
Non-Member Resident of Kinney County

In accordance with Part IX, Declaration of Protective Restrictions, The Fort Clark Springs Association, Inc., the undersigned members of the Fort Clark Springs Association, Inc. exercise the right to petition for arbitration of the dispute cited above.

hibit rare specimens.

Valentine's Day has become so well established that in England this year millions of lovers will exchange valentines sent with a special postage stamp, issued for the occasion by the British Post Office. This beautiful stamp, an allegorical rendering of two cupids by artist Fritz Wegner, is also available in America (from StanGib Ltd., 1325 Franklin Avenue, Garden City, New York 11530) to both collectors and the romantically inclined who want to add an unusual touch to their missives of love. Of course, these British stamps must be accompanied by regular U.S. postage on valentines mailed in the United States.

Despite its unfortunate origin, St. Valentine's Day has become one of our happiest and most enduring traditions. And as long as people enjoy sending and receiving messages of love, this colorful annual ritual will continue forever.
