STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED

BORN IN CAPTIVITY....One of the rare instants of Bobcats being born in captivity is shown by this baby kitten at Malone Trucking Company in Spofford.

Cuddling with his mother and being well fed on a diet of cottontail rabbits makes this "kitten" a unique part of South Texas history.

EDITORIAL

by: George

A CHEAP MAFIA MAY FEEL THEY EXIST IN KINNEY COUNTY

This past week yours truly received a threatening telephone call regarding an editorial that was recently published in this newspaper.

The calling party evidently figured he was back in the days of Al Capone or George Parr in threatening newspaper people.

Neither I nor my family are going to tolerate warped or trumpeted up threats!!

I hope his thoughts were a spur of the moment anger and tantrum.

Fortunately, the conversation was overheard by my wife and two out-of-state people.

If, this character persists will have no other choice than to turn him into the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

I will not be intimidated!!

BREEN TO WASHINGTON, D.C.

Nakai Breen and Religious Leader from Eagle Pass Kickapoos will meet with the Kickapoos Tribal Council of Oklahoma in mid-August.

After meeting with the Tribal Council in Oklahoma, Mrs. Breen and the Leaders of the Kickapoos will, after many meetings between August and mid-September, will travel to Washington, D.C. to meet with the U.S. Congress on behalf of the Kickapoos.

Mrs. Breen, who is Assistant to Kurt Blue Dog Ogalla, Sioux Indian Attorney for Native American Rights Fund, along with one religious leader from Oklahoma and four Eagle Pass Kickapoos Leaders will make their journey to Washington, D.C. to convey the needs--citizenship, land base, Federal Services, Tribal membership---to the U.S. Congress.

This emergency situation is now being seriously considered by Congress. Because of the urgency, it is realistic to expect that favorable action may be taken soon.

Sheriff Morgan Bailey reported that a number of items stolen from Malone Trucking in Spofford were recovered this past week.

Bailey stated "that Border Patrol official Roy Dyer ran across several items including a Bow and Arrows and several rounds of ammunition taken from the Malone property previously." The items were found near the Spofford cemetery by Dyer during his apprehension of illegal aliens that were in the area, they (the aliens) evidently had no connections with the Malone burglary. It appears that all the major items of the burglary were recovered as the only items missing now are the alcohol taken from the scene.

THREE ALIENS KILLED

The Sheriff reports also contained information that three Mexican aliens were killed after supposedly falling asleep on the railroad track one mile East of Spofford Monday night. There has been no identity derived from any of the Three aliens. Chief Deputy Dennis Slubar and Game Warden Bill Lindeman investigated and the bodies were removed to Don's Funeral Home in Del Rio.

On Tuesday night an alien was found on the Eagle Pass cutoff near the Spofford-Eagle Pass highway suffering from rattlesnake bite and was transported to Brackettville by Sheriff Morgan Bailey then to Del Rio by the Kinney County Volunteer Ambulance service, around 10 p.m.

On Wednesday night, Sheriff Bailey reported chasing a speeder in the Brackettville City limits that resulted in two suspects fleeing the car near the corner of Thomas and Fort Streets, the vehicle was found to contain approximately 10 illegal aliens that were taken into custody by Department of Public Safety and Border Patrol officers.

The Kickapoo have received widespread public support for their cause but still more help is needed. This is the crucial time for citizens to let their views be known.

ROUND-UP TIME GROWS NEAR

There'll be a big round-up in this Southwest Texas City of Del Rio next month. However, it won't be the traditional type roundup folks in this region are accustomed to seeing. Instead, hundreds of ranchers will be gathering August 11-13 to hear over 125 of the top ranching experts in the world.

Two dozen ranching enterprises,
eight state/Federal agencies, numerous producer concerns, and 12 agricultural universities from as many states will be represented on the giant broad-based program.

It's all part of the International Rancher's Roundup which will be held at the city's Civic Center and high school.

Thus far, about 300 persons have pre-registered to take advantage of a pre-registration fee discount and make the tour deadline.
About three or four times that number is expected to participate.

"We have been working over a year planning the type conference ranchers have requested--one that covers the entire ranch operation, livestock specialist and Round-up co-chairman. "This could very well be the largest number of ranching experts ever assembled anywhere in the country for an educational activity. We certainly want the participants to get their money's worth."

Hoermann added that entertainment activities will occur each evening after meetings have concluded.

A 500-page bound copy of the proceedings containing most of the talks presented during the three-day-long sessions will be available.

Ranchers who plan to attend but haven't pre-registered should make motel arrangements at their earliest convenience, suggests Hoermann. He said several motels in the Del Rio area are already filled and the expected last minute flood of participants may result in room allocation problems.

However, Del Rio Chamber of Commerce personell are assisting rancher's locate motel rooms. Participants are urged to phone the Chamber Office(512-775-3551) which maintains a daily log of vacancies.

Planners say response to the Roundup has been very enthusiastic with some activities already closed out, including the two ranch tours.

inflation fighting ideas

Harried homeowners, beset with ever-soaring costs for heating and cooling houses, are likely as not to compare energy-saving ideas with neighbors.

No problem there but before you decide to invest in a costly conservation project, just like the one next door, remember that you may not get the same results. Your neighbor's experiences should be part—but not all—of your energy-saving decisions, say the experts at the York Division of Borg-Warner.

The most important factor is an analysis of your own home. What works for one home is not necessarily the best investment for another.

For example, if your home is recently built, it probably is well-insulated and modernizing heating or cooling equipment may be your best bet.

However, if your house dates back 40 years or more and no insulation has been added since the house was built, that should be your first priority.

Energy conservation measures for your house may not be the same as those needed by the fellow next door.

Which steps should you take? First, consult a reliable heating and air conditioning dealer. Your neighbor may be able to recommend one, but always get two or three estimates. Ask for a home energy audit. It's worth the time invested.

Dealers can provide fairly accurate estimates of renovations that will save you the most money. An energy audit may point out some inexpensive steps you may have overlooked—caulking around windows or leaving some storm windows on in summer to keep cool air in and hot air out.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Traveling With Children

Traveling with children may be a unique art—but it can be mastered. Start out by including your children in the planning of your vacation.

- Allow them to help in choosing your destination and the route to take. Make your lodging reservations in advance considering the distance your children can travel in one day.

- Let your children help you pack their clothing and toys for the trip. This adds to their excitement and makes them feel a part of the adventure.

- Plan car games to keep your youngsters occupied. Try "spotting contests"—a prize for the child who spots the most out-of-state license plates, for example.

The Mobil Travel Guide can be invaluable in planning your trip. It describes and quality rates more than 22,000 hotels, motels, resorts and restaurants across the United States and Canada using the recognized one-to-five star system. The Guide includes information on where you can find children's menus and accommodations with family rates and special recreation facilities.

KATHY BAUMANN, Manager

Kazen

A few days back a South Texas man walked into my office asking for my continued support of senior citizens. He was not requesting assistance for himself--he is 75 years old and still employed --but for elderly Texans who face loss of income if Social Security minimum benefits are eliminated.

He had learned that among the many "surprise" items in the Administration's substitute reconciliation bill was a provision to flatly eliminate the $122 minimum payment, even though many recipients already find it impossible to make ends meet.

As I have said before, it is no secret that changes must be made to save the Social Security system. But it is unfair--and in some cases, cruel--to cut out the small, minimum benefits for current beneficiaries. More than 60 percent of these three million people are women over 70 years of age, women who did not have the opportunity to make large salaries during their working years. It has been estimated that only about one-fifth of the current beneficiaries would likely make up their losses through Supplemental Income--if they decided to apply for it.

Those of us who opposed the reconciliation bill because we could not determine what it contained, joined by an overwhelming majority of those who actually voted for it, went on record last week to urge that "necessary steps be taken to insure that Social Security benefits are not reduced for those currently receiving them. Our action last week was an attempt to force a prompt reversal of this provision, but even the Administration has warned that there may be more surprises when the full effects of reconciliation cuts become known later this year.

SUMMIT MEETING

The recent summit meeting in Ottawa may have served an important purpose which could easily be overlooked. The free world leaders not only gained some insight into the world impact of economic issues, they now have seen their counterparts in action --knowledge which may prove invaluable in future developments and negotiations. While the world was sizing up our new President, our experts were studying other heads of state, especially the new French President, Francois Mitterrand.

President Reagan learned that the American public and business community are not the only ones concerned with out continuing high interest rates. The relationship of our interest rates to the European economics is so direct that the President was warned that continued high rates here may even lead to social uprising in France and severe budget cuts in Germany.

G.I. BILL UPDATE

The Administration has indicated it opposes a new G.I. Bill of Education assistance at this time. I am a co-sponsor of the House bill to provide educational benefits for our military personnel, legislation aimed at attracting outstanding men and women and helping to retain experienced personnel needed to operate our advanced weapons systems. An important provision would allow the educational entitlement to be transferred to a spouse or child after ten years of active duty.

Much of the shortage of recruits and loss of trained non-commissioned officers and petty officers is because of competition from the civilian labor market. Many of these people have the responsibility of families, and it is difficult to criticize them for taking care of their own.

It is my hope that the Administration will consider, or that the House and Senate will proceed this session on a new G.I. Bill. I believe the issue is too important to our national defense to postpone any action.

TOP SELLING BUCK.....Mrs. Ruth Espy of Sonora, left, purchased the top selling Angora buck at the recent 1st Annual Sale of Performance Tested Angora bucks for $1,500. D.L. Cloudt, Rocksprings cosigned the animal. The sale and test were conducted at the Sonora TAMU Experimental Ranch between Rocksprings and Sonora.

Four bucks broke the $1,000 mark during the sale. The 32 top performing Angoras which were sold averaged about $550. The performance test was coordinated by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with Angora goat producers. It was undertaken to assist producers in identifying and developing more productive Angora goats.

A unique feature of the sale included the showing of color slides of each goat in full fleece prior to shearing, allowing buyers to better determine each sale animals' fleecing ability. (TEXAS AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE PHOTO).

Hints For Homeowners

SAVE A WATT

Homeowners have been besieged all winter long with messages and guidance on the necessity and methods of saving energy. By and large, the subject was oil conservation, and the nation responded admirably to the extent that imports fell significantly and storage tanks are now close to overflowing.

While we've exercised control in the use of oil and gasoline, how about that other fuel--electricity? A recent estimate places the national kilowatt-per-hour rate for this year at 5.6¢--a 49% increase over the last two years! Result: more stress and strain on the household budget.

What can be done directly to reduce home electricity consumption? We know, of course, that conservation readily results from the controlled and more efficient use of major appliances such as clothes washers and dryers, dishwashers and air conditioners. Lighting too is an obvious factor and just as controllable--that's why we have on/off switches!

But consider also the savings that come from use of fluorescents, which give soft and cool light, last longer than regular incandescent bulbs, and draw less current. New small diameter circular tubes that adapt to standard lamp sockets are available in hardware stores.

Or install dimmer switches. They're ideal where full 100-watt power is needed for reading or, at the mere turn of a knob, a lesser degree for general illumination and consequent kilowatt savings. The experts at Cooper Tools note that with a Crescent screwdriver in hand the wallbox "switch to a dimmer" can be made in minutes. Just remember to first de-fuse the circuit.

Just as we learned successfully to "think oil", it's time to "think kilowatts". And that's a double-barreled shot at the high cost of fuel, 'cause in the main it takes oil power to generate electricity.

The oldest apple orchard in the United States was planted by Franciscan fathers in 1636 near what is now Manzano in central New Mexico. Its trees are still growing.

The pound cake got its name from the pound of butter it was supposed to contain.

Eggplant Cake Is Wonderful—Not Weird!

What's egg-shaped, deep glossy purple and star ingredient in such dishes as moussaka (Greeks love it) and ratatouille (French adore it)? Americans enjoy it, too! Eggplant, of course. Now the handsome vegetable, which arrived from the Orient about 1,500 years ago, is making dessert news! No one would ever think the strange plant would combine so deliciously with instant pudding and pie filling in a cake, but together they make an incredibly moist and fine textured pudding cake. There's a mellowing of flavors when the baked cake is covered and stored overnight. It brings out the cinnamon and other spices in the cake batter. Dust the cake with confectioners sugar and take it to the table (or picnic) in style.

GARDEN EGGPLANT PUDDING CAKE

- 1 package (2-layer size) yellow cake mix or pudding-included cake mix
- 1 package (4-serving size) Jell-O vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling
- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/4 cup oil
- 2 cups peeled and grated eggplant
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/8 teaspoon cloves
- 1/8 teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in large mixer bowl. Blend; then beat at medium speed of electric mixer for 4 minutes. Pour into greased and floured 10-inch fluted tube pan. Bake at 350° for 50 to 55 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly pressed and cake pulls away from sides of pan. Do not underbake. Cool in pan 15 minutes. Remove from pan and finish cooling on rack. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar, if desired.

In high altitude areas, use large eggs, add 2/3 cup all-purpose flour and 1/3 cup water; increase sour cream to 3/4 cup and reduce oil to 2 tablespoons; bake at 375° for 55 to 60 minutes. (With pudding-included cake mix, use 3/4 cup flour and 1/4 cup water.)

You've probably heard of "Puff, the Magic Dragon," and surely every child knows about the wolf that would "huff and puff" and blow your house down.

But have you ever heard of PUF? It is the Permanent University Fund here in Texas, and there is much huffing and puffing about it right now down at the Legislature.

The PUF is an endowment of 2.1 million acres of state land that was set aside more than 100 years ago to help finance the University of Texas, Texas A&M and a third college "for colored youth." Guess which one of the three is not getting its slice of the pie.

The income from the Permanent University Fund was not worth squabbling over until 1923, when Santa Rita No. 1 came in — the first producing oil well on PUF lands. Today, because of oil income from hundreds of such wells, the PUF pumps out more than one hundred million dollars a year, which will buy a lot of bricks and books for the three designated schools.

Only Texas A&M and the University of Texas, however, are sharing this money, with A&M getting a third of it and UT taking two-thirds. The original idea that a black college is supposed to be part of the endowment has been . . . well . . . ignored.

Prairie View A&M, located in Waller County, lays good claim to being that college "for colored youth" originally contemplated in the state endowment. Prairie View is the second oldest public college in Texas, having been created in 1876. It has a long, distinguished history as the chief black college in Texas, and for its first six years it even received a share of the PUF income. In 1882, though, because of racially discriminatory politics, Prairie View was cut off from the fund and has never been cut back in. Instead, it has had to come to the Legislature every two years to get what little funding it is allowed. As a result, while UT and A&M are ranked among the very richest schools in the country, thanks to the PUF, Prairie View is ranked among the lowest in income.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, chairwoman of the House Committee on Higher Education, has been leading a fight to restore Prairie View to its full stature as a primary recipient of PUF funds, modestly asking for only a one-sixth share.

But such a hue and cry went up from officials of the other two PUF schools that you would think she had asked for a piece of the Alamo to be shipped to Prairie View. They found a technical provision that required a vote of the people to be taken to designate the "colored" college, and, noting that such a vote never has been taken, they say Prairie View has no valid claim.

There is no argument, however, that there is an embarrassing history of funding discrimination against Prairie View. To deter a federal civil rights action against the state, and as an appeasement to black legislators, Texas A&M regents have acted in recent years to bring Prairie View more under its funding wing, and the Legislature considered making a special appropriation to the school.

But defenders of Prairie View say that this is nothing but hush money. They point out that UT and A&M are getting full endowments, while the black college is being unfairly relegated to hand outs. Rep. Craig Washington, himself a graduate of Prairie View, says his alma mater is being "robbed of its birthright," and he argues that it is time to split PUF as it was originally meant to be, so all three schools can share, fair and square.

How do you see it? Should UT and A&M be the only ones allowed to put a spoon in the gravy, or should Prairie View, after a hundred years, get back its spoon to take a rightful share in the Permanent University Fund? Make your views known by writing to the House Higher Education Committee at this address: State Capitol/Austin, Texas/78711.

Watching Washington

In the war against drugs, we need to muster all our resources to stamp out illegal drug abuse.

It is obvious that more must be done in Texas than has been done to this point, because there has been an alarming increase in the illegal manufacture and use of drugs in our state—up by 63 percent in 1980 alone.

The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration has provided me with preliminary estimates which show that the retail value of drugs illegally manufactured and used here increased from some $640 million in 1979 to over $1 billion last year.

The DEA reports that usage of cocaine and dangerous drugs such as methamphetamine or "speed" is on a dramatic upswing in Texas. Last year, cocaine use in the state jumped from 490 pounds to 800 pounds and the amount of dangerous drugs manufactured in the state—primarily methamphetamine—rose from 200 million dosage units in 1979 to 800 million units in 1980.

We can take some comfort in the fact that heroin use in our state has declined. The DEA reports that heroin usage in Texas dropped from 406 pounds in 1979 to 140 pounds in 1980; marijuana use declined slightly, from 1.5 million pounds to 1.25 million pounds.

We've also seen a drop in the manufacture of PCP, known as "angel dust"—which I consider the most dangerous illicit drug in use today.

According to DEA estimates, "angel dust" manufacture in Texas decreased from 200,000 units in 1979 to 150,000 in 1980. The President signed into law in 1978 my bill making it harder to obtain piperidine—one of the key ingredients in this drug—and the DEA indicates that this new law has helped their efforts to curtail "angel dust" abuse.

We can't rest easy, though, until we totally eliminate this drug—which can literally drive people crazy—as a threat to Americans.

I have other anti-drug legislation pending in the current Congress. One such measure, for example, sharply stiffens the penalty for pilots involved in drug smuggling. Currently the Federal Aviation Act provides only a $1,000 fine and a one-year flying certificate suspension. My proposed amendment sets a maximum five-year prison term, a $25,000 fine and revocation of the pilot's license.

I also have introduced legislation to provide longer prison sentences for persons who commit crimes while free from jail on bail.

My bill mandates consecutive sentencing for individuals convicted of federal crimes while they are free from jail on bail. It would require that in these cases the sentences for any additional crimes be in addition to—and not run at the same time as—the sentence for the first crime.

Someone in these circumstances, convicted of three armed robberies and sentenced to 10 years for each robbery, for example, would serve only 10 years if the sentences run concurrently. But 30 years would be the total time in prison if the sentences run consecutively, as I think they should.

Clearly, the overall picture indicates that we are losing the war against drugs in Texas. We simply cannot allow the drug pushers and smugglers to gain the upper hand in this battle.

In the 97th Congress, I intend to redouble my efforts to gain passage of anti-drug legislation and to take any other steps that are necessary to show drug-dealing criminals that we Texans are not easy prey for their deadly operations.

ENERGY SAVING WAYS

With FREEZERS

A freezer can be a real time-saver for working couples, single men, women and parents, and full-time homemakers. According to home economists from Whirlpool Corporation, there are freezers available in sizes, styles and prices to fit into any lifestyle. For example, small-size freezers can store a wide variety of convenience-type entrees so that nutritious, complete meals are quick and available anytime your busy schedule permits.

When cooking, the home economists suggest that you double the recipe and make several batches at one time, freezing the extras for later use. This technique can be a big saver on both your personal energy and cooking energy. For larger families, big freezers are available to permit the bulk purchase and storage of fruits and vegetables when they are in season, usually at much lower prices. Taking advantage of special meat sale prices, to buy in quantity and freeze, can let you enjoy your favorites at bargain rates all year long.
