SHERIFF BAILEY RESIGNS - HOOTEN APPOINTED

EDITORIAL

BY: GEORGE

EMERGENCY MEETING OF COMMISSIONERS' COURT, October 19, 1982, 3:00 p.m.

The meeting was called by County Judge Albert Postell. The actual session did not get underway until approximately 3:15 p.m., due to the late arrival of Commissioners Luna and Ward.

Judge Postell called the meeting to order and stated due to the resignation of Sheriff Morgan Bailey he felt it was justified to call an Emergency Meeting to fill his unexpired term until 1984.

County Attorney Tully Shahan recommended to the Court that they should accept Sheriff Bailey's resignation before appointing a new sheriff.

Commissioner McClure asked if there was a copy of Sheriff Bailey's resignation available, Judge Postell said on his desk at which time County Attorney Shahan volunteered to retrieve the same.

Commissioner McClure then read Sheriff Bailey's resignation to the Commissioners' Court. The Commissioners' Court at this time unanimously accepted Sheriff Bailey's resignation.

County Attorney Shahan stated that the appointment would be for the remaining time of Bailey's term until the next General Election. Commissioner Luna asked

"What are we waiting on, a discussion or motion?" At which time Judge Postell replied, "we are waiting for a motion." LUNA STATED, "WHY HAVE A DISCUSSION, WE HAD ONE THIS MORNING."**

Editor's Note:

This one statement alone denotes in your Editors' Opinion, a complete violation of the Open Meeting Act.

Commissioner Luna made a motion to appoint Norman Hooten and seconded by Alvin McClure. Those voting in favor were: Commissioners Luna, McClure and Sheedy; Opposed: (Commissioner Ward (note: no other nominations were asked for or considered, according to Parliamentary Procedure.

Meeting ended when Judge Postell stated, "Gentlemen that is all I have." (a motion was not made to adjourn the meeting.)

Although every entity within Kinney County, including the Commissioners' Court, City of Brackettville, and School Board have been notified that this newspaper is to be contacted by telephone, according to law, in the event of Emergency or Special Meetings, by the person calling said meeting. This was another case where the law was willfully violated by not notifying this newspaper. THANK GOD FOR THE GRAPEVINE!!

It is time that some of our local "politicos" realize Duval County operations are a thing of the past.

With these kind of meetings, we find it totally unnecessary to supply our readers with comic strips!!

HELP WANTED

--HELP NEEDED

Boy Scout Troop 234 is in need of adult leadership. One man and a few boys don't make a troop. A troop is only as good as the community that supports it. Lack of support means lack of involvement.

You can help. A good troop needs a variety of talented men and women to keep it organized and keep it going. But it takes an investment, it takes some of your time.

We need to give our boys the proper guidance in becoming men. If you want to see morally responsible individuals in our community, then take the initiative to get involved in Scouts. Ask about the Cub Scouts, too.

Call 563-2196 Saturday and Sunday for more information.

KEEP YOUR CHILD FROM CHOKING

Halloween brings ghosts, goblins, and sometimes, real danger. The American Lung Association of Texas warns about one danger for children--the risk of choking on holiday treats such as candy corn, hard candy, and peanuts.

At Halloween, children go door-to-door trying to fill their sacks full of candy and other goodies. Parents should insist youngsters bring the treats home for inspection. For the youngest--two, three or even four years old--some of the candy can be divided or mashed before eating.

The chewing and swallowing muscle of young children may not be sufficiently developed to cope with certain treats. Choking can result. Halloween goodies may also "go down the wrong way" and lodge in the lung inststead of the stomach. This is called aspiration. A "foreign object" of any knid in the lung can cause life-long problems. At times, surgery for removal is required.

The best warning is : be sure children are old enough to chew and swallow correctly before trusting them with small, hard bits of food.

Parents should always be on guard against "small Objects" getting into the hands of children. Particularly those young enough to put everything into their mouths. Choking, blocked air passages, even aspiration into the lung can result.

Moreover, such items as eyes and buttons might come loose from dolls or wheels from toy cars. Set a good example. Don't put anything but food into your own mouth. Keep the coffee table clear of small objects a child might reach for. And remember: Keep Halloween and all other times of the year safe for your child.

"HOW SMALL IS SMALL?"
You know you're in a small town when....

The airport runway is terraced. The polka is more popular than disco on Staurday night.

Third street is on the edge of town.

Every sport is played on dirt. The editor and publisher of the newspaper carries a camera at all times.

You don't use your turn signal because everyone knows where you're going.

You know you're in a small town when....

You're born on June 13 and your family receives gifts from the local merchants because you're the first baby of the year.

You speak to eachdog you pass by name and he wags at you.

You dial a wrong number and talk for 15 minutes anyway.

You are run off main street by a combine.

You know you're in a small town when.....

You can't walk for excercise because every car that passes offers you a ride.

You get married and the local paper devoted a quarter page to the story.

You drive into the ditch 5 miles out-of-town and the word gets back to town before you do.

You know you're in a small town when....

You write a check on the wrong bank and it covers it for you.

The pickups on main street outnumber the cars three to one.

You miss a Sunday at church and receive a get-well card.

Someone asks you how you feel and then listens to what you say.

Thank God for small towns..... and the people in them!

COWBOY HALL OF FAME

Artist have drawn and painted the West for over a hundred years now. In the beginning when there were only bulky cameras, painting was one of the few ways to record the beauty, history and people of the West.

So, not only young men, as advised by Horace Greeley, went West, but also artists armed with sketch pads, brushes and canvas. Frederic Remington, Charles M. Russell, Thomas Moran and others hang in the greatest museums in America and their best work is found in the collection of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City.

The Cowboy Hall opened its doors to the public in 1965 and has built one of the most exceptional Western Art collections anywhere in less than 20 years. The Cowboy Hall didn't stop with the great names in Western Art but also chose to support the western artist of today with a showcase for their works. Major exhibitions and grand scale monetary awards have been offered by the Cowboy Hall to attract the best artists. Prize winners from the exhibitions were acquired over the years and a collection of quality and stature was built.

By special arrangements with Board of Directors of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Mr. and Mrs. Belton K. Johnson, the collection will travel to Uvalde, Texas for an exhibition scheduled to open to the public on November 4, 5 and 6. The exhibition will be held at the Uvalde Civic Center and is presented by the Chaparrosa Ranches, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Belton K.

Johnson.

Belton K. Johnson is a director in the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and has served on the board since 1965. The exhibition of contemporary western art from the Cowboy Hall of Fame is only allowed to travel outside the museum at the invitation of a board member.

The exhibition will display all 10 of the Prix de West paintings and bronzes from the Hall's National Academy of Western Art exhibitions. The Prix de West purchase award with a value of $29,000 is offered to the exhibition's best work in any media. The National Academy of Western Art is an annual event of the Hall held each summer in June.

The first winner of the Prix de West was Clark Hulings' oil painting "Grand Canyon, Kaibab Trail" in 1973. Another winner of the prestigious award is Morris Rippel's "Bluebirds". The egg tempra shows adobe houses, a stone wall and giant trees. At the end of the road a small boy sits on an adobe wall watching four chickens, but the viewer asks, where are the bluebirds? On the left side of the painting, one is perched on a fence post and one is in flight. Both bluebirds occupy less than a quarter of an inch of the entire painting.

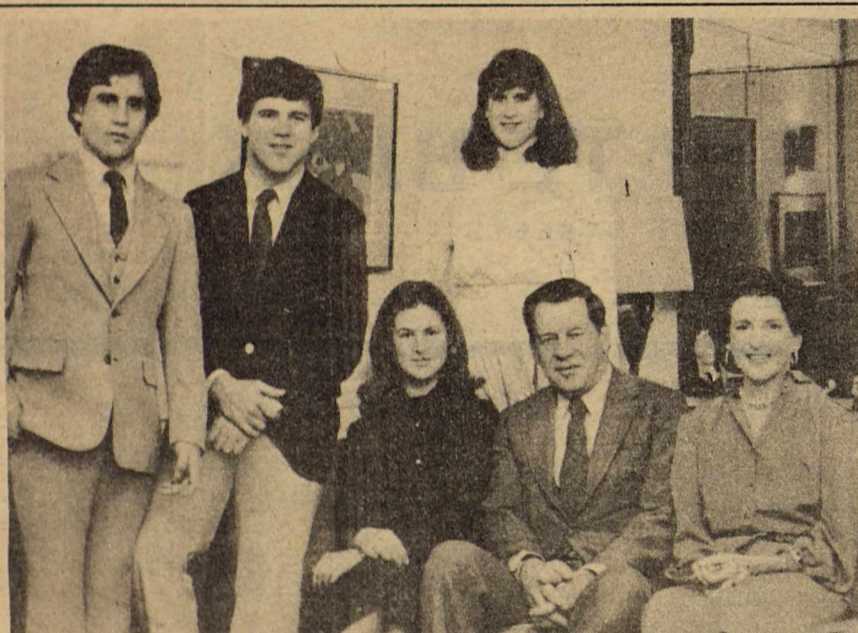

"The Marshall" by Harry Jackson, a polychrome bronze, is John Wayne in his most famous role as Rooster Cogburn, complete with eye patch. John Wayne was a member of the Hall's board of directors.

The largest bronze in the exhibition is "In the Land of the Water People" by Richard Greeves. Three Indian braves kneel at the waters edge to seek the consul of the "Water People". This work shows the study of the legends and history of the West that is being continued by the artists of today.

Contemporary Western Art is realistic in technique; this art needs no explanation or a college course in art appreciation to understand and enjoy. Anyone who walks into the Uvalde Civic Center for the exhibition will enjoy the time spent and have a greater appreciation for the American West.

The Milky Way can be easily seen as a bright haze on a clear summer night.

By helping other Americans with advice on paying their taxes, you could be making taxes pay off for you, all year-round.

You can become a trained tax consultant by taking a short course at home. Many graduates earn as much as $15 or $25 an hour in their own businesses, in their spare time. A part-time tax service can be a source of steady income because people need tax advice, in many cases, long after April 15.

The National Tax Training Institute, approved for Veteran Training, is the only tax consultant school accredited by the National Home Study Council and is licensed by the New York State Department of Education. Its at-home course will teach you tax consulting and how to operate a successful business, even if you haven't had special education or experience as a bookkeeper or accountant. It will also keep you informed of important changes in tax laws and provide free consultation after graduation.

The Institute has trained thousands of students over the past quarter century. For a free booklet on how you can learn to be a tax consultant, write to the National Tax Training Institute, P.O. Box 382, Dept. M, Monsey, N.Y. 10952.

TEXAS VETERINARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN-Garfield fans check their newspapers each day for the latest bit of outrageousness by the spunky feline. Last winter, a major weekly newsmagazine featured cats as the lead story, and this month a new play opened on Broadway entitled "Cats."

Cats were revered and worshipped by the ancient Egyptians, and historically have been useful in keeping homes and barns free from rodents. As this country's population has shifted from rural to urban, a logical choice for animal lovers has been to choose a pet that is independent, extraordinarily clean and easily housebroken.

For cat lovers the health and well-being of their pet is a paramount concern. While cats are independent creatures, they still need the help of their owners to provide them with the care they need, including veterinary care.

Dr. Fred K. Soifer, president of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association, advises cat owners to seek veterinary care when a kitten is six weeks old.

"Kittens should receive inoculations for distemper, rhinotracheitis and calici at six, eight and 16 weeks of age," said Soifer, a Houston Veterinarian who practices companion animal medicine.

Feline distemper is an extremely contagious, often fatal, viral infection. Rhinotracheitis and calicivirus account for 70 percent of infectious respiratory diseases in cats, said Soifer. Prevention of these diseases depends on the responsible owner.

Responsible ownership also includes surgical neutering to prevent unwanted kittens or having to put the kittens to sleep needlessly.

Rabies vaccination is needed at three to four months of age. 1981 Texas Department of Health reports show that rabies was more common in cats than in dogs in Texas for the second time in five years.

Internal parasites are problems in cats as well as in dogs. The tapeworm parasite is transmitted by fleas or from dogs to cats. Vomiting and diarrhea can be symptoms of internal parasitism and prompt veterinary treatment is important. Diligent flea control can help prevent tapeworm reinfection.

Other diseases common to cats are feline urological syndrome (FUS) and feline leukemia virus (FeLV). In FUS, urinary stones form from minerals in the cat's system and can block or obstruct the urinary system, cause painful irritation or leave the cat unable to urinate. Urinary obstruction can be fatal, warn Soifer.

Regular examination and vaccination can help prevent the complications of FUS in your cat and help spare him the possibilities of illness, fights and auto accidents.

"FeLV infection does not always cause cancer, but may render a cat more susceptible to other viral and bacterial diseases," said Soifer.

The hard-driving executive, under hours of stress daily, is not necessarily the most likely candidate for duodenal ulcer. Despite what you may think, the best treatment for the disease is not a bland diet and lots of milk, either.

Current research indicates that inherited tendencies, heavy smoking and large doses of aspirin are far more likely to contribute to an ulcer. But a recent survey shows that 80 percent of Americans believe incorrectly that stress and pressure cause ulcers, while 70 percent blamed emotional and psychological problems and 64 percent poor diet. Poor physical condition was called a major cause of ulcer disease by 49 percent, while just 19 percent believe heredity to be a major cause. Whatever the cause, if you have chronic pain, see your doctor.

NEWS FROM SOUTHWEST TEXAS
JUNIOR COLLEGE

Last year's speaker at the Southwest Texas Junior College High School English Teacher's Workshop, Eleanor White of Sabinal High School, recently learned that part of her presentation will soon be published in a national magazine. The speaker for this year's workshop has already received considerable national attention.

Dr. Jim W. Corder, Associate Vice-Chancellor and Professor of English at Texas Christian University, will address Southwest Texas area high school English teachers in SWTJC's Tate Auditorium Saturday morning, November 13, from 9 to 12.

Corder is best known for authoring 12 basic English textbooks, four of which will be released this year by Scott, Foresman and Company of Chicago.

He is also a published poet and is listed in Who's Who, Directory of American Scholars, and Contemporary Authors. His workshop at SWTJC will count as a regular activity of inservice for most area teachers.

When Eleanor White accepted an invitation to conduct last year's workshop, she naturally didn't expect to be published in a magazine with a national distribution.

But she sent her original idea for a writing exercise, "Writing to the Nation," to Ideas for Teaching English in the Junior High/Middle School in response to a call for manuscripts published in the journal of the National Conference of Teachers of English.

The editors of the "ideas" journal, who reside in Richmond, Virginia and Chapel Hill, North Carolina, chose her idea as one from throughout the country for publication.

White's writing unit itself is national in scope, and in corporate contact with the "real world" with the sometimes purely academic exercise of writing.

In the unit, students write letters to chambers of commerce in cities or towns of comparable size to their own hometown in every state of the union requesting various forms of information.

When the chambers respond, follow-up letters are sent to the high schools in the towns requesting more extensive information. Both letters the students write are edited and critiqued as a class project.

While English teachers attending last year's workshop didn't realize at the time that what they were hearing would be distributed throughout the country, this year's participants will know in advance that they will have access to a nationally respected

SAFETY NEWS

October 17-23, 1982 has been designated Grade Crossing Safety Week by Governor William P. Clements. The Governor joined with the railroads of Texas and the Texas Safety Association in bringing this vital safety message to the people of Texas. In remarking upon the signing of the proclamation, Jin Bearden, TSA Vice President for Railroad Transportation said, "This is not just a one-week-a-year concern, but a year-round safety issue. We want to emphasize during Grade Crossing Safety Week the importance of exercising caution when approaching crossings.

"Parents and teachers should warn children about the dangers of playing on railroad tracks, no matter how inviting they seem. The public of vehicle driving age should make a habit of 'STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN' when approaching crossings. Remember, and average freight train weighs more than 12 million pounds, takes more than a mile to stop when traveling 60 mph, and can't swerve off the tracks to avoid a 2,000 pound vehicle.

"And please, don't drive around lowered crossing gates to try and shave a few minutes off your travel time. Once those gates are down, there is at most 20 seconds until train time....never count on any more. Don't make a grade crossing your finish line."
