TEXAS SAFETY ASSOCIATION BOARD OF DIRECTORS ENDORSES TRAFFIC SAFETY TASK FORCE RECOMMENDATIONS

Tougher penalties for DWI offenders, increased use of child auto safety seats for infants and children under four and strengthened driver education in Texas were among the legislative recommendations unanimously approved by the Texas Safety Association Board of Directors recently. Responding to Texas Department of Public Safety Chief Col. Jim Adams' call for tougher laws and greater enforcement of those laws to deal with DWI offenders in Texas, the directors of the 400 member safety group approved all of the Task Force on Traffic Safety recommendations and pledged to work for grass roots understanding of the recommendations and their safety benefits.

Among those recommendations are raising the drinking age to 21, banning open containers of alcoholic beverages from the passenger compartments of motor vehicles and stiffer penalties for driving while intoxicated. Several Texas Safety Association members, including the immediate past president, Dave Coslett of Dow Chemical in Freeport, served on the task force.

Current Texas Safety Association President Dean Ward said, "It is imperative to remove drunk drivers from Texas highways. As safety professionals, TSA members are acutely aware of the tragic results of drunk driving. We want this behavior stopped."

TEXAS COMMISSION ON THE ARTS EXPANDS TOURING PROGRAM

The Texas Commission on the Arts (TCA) announces new guidelines, such expenses as shipping, insurance, and installation related to presenting art exhibitions will be eligible for funding.

"It's an incredible step forward for the visual arts in the state of Texas," said Kay Paris, Director of the Beaumont Art Museum. "The guidelines open up all kinds of new doors for us."

The new program follows in the footsteps of a sister program, Performing Arts Touring, which has enjoyed a celebrated success in its three-year span. Among other achievements, eighteen locations, including Sherman, Conroe and Victoria, experienced the novelty of performances by Texas Opera Theater, and Nacogdoches viewed the Dallas Civic Ballet through TCA's Performing Arts Touring program.

Under the Visual Arts Touring guidelines, nonprofit organizations meeting the general eligiblity requirements of the Commission may apply for assistance to present exhibitions borrowed from within or outside the State of Texas. Besides shipping, incsurance, and installation other costs covered may include: publicity, catalogues, posters, invitations, related events such as film and lecture series--but not opening receptions--and rental fees.

The guidelines also stipulate that requests for support may not exceed fifty pwecent of the total project costs and must be matched by the applicant one to one with cash.

DOYLE MOORE NAMED TO STATE EXTENSION POST

COLLEGE STATION-- Doyle L. Moore, a veteran with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System, who has served with distinction in several capacities, has been named to the second highest position Dec. 1.

For the past 11 years, Moore has been district director for the 19-county Southwest Texas region with headquarters at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Uvalde. He began his Extension career in Washington County and later served as Colorado County agent for a number of years. He also served as district director for the South Central Texas region, then headquartered at Gonzales.

"Mr. Moore has had a distinguished career in the Extension Service, is well known over much of Texas, and has been an effective educator and administrator," said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Extension Service, a statewide educational agency which conducts programs in agriculture, home economics, community development and 4-H and youth work to help people solve everyday problems. "He has a keen understanding of the Extension concept of teaching and the agency's ties with the land-grant university (Texas A&M) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Moore is a professional in every sense of the word," said Carpenter. "He knows how to work with people--producers, leaders, county agents, co-workers, specialist and research personnel--and we are looking to him for his continued strong leadership in all areas of Extension programming. His ability to mold effective educational programs at the county and district levels to meet the needs of people and his dedication to the Extension organization are key assets which will make him an outstanding, responsible leader and administrator at the state level."

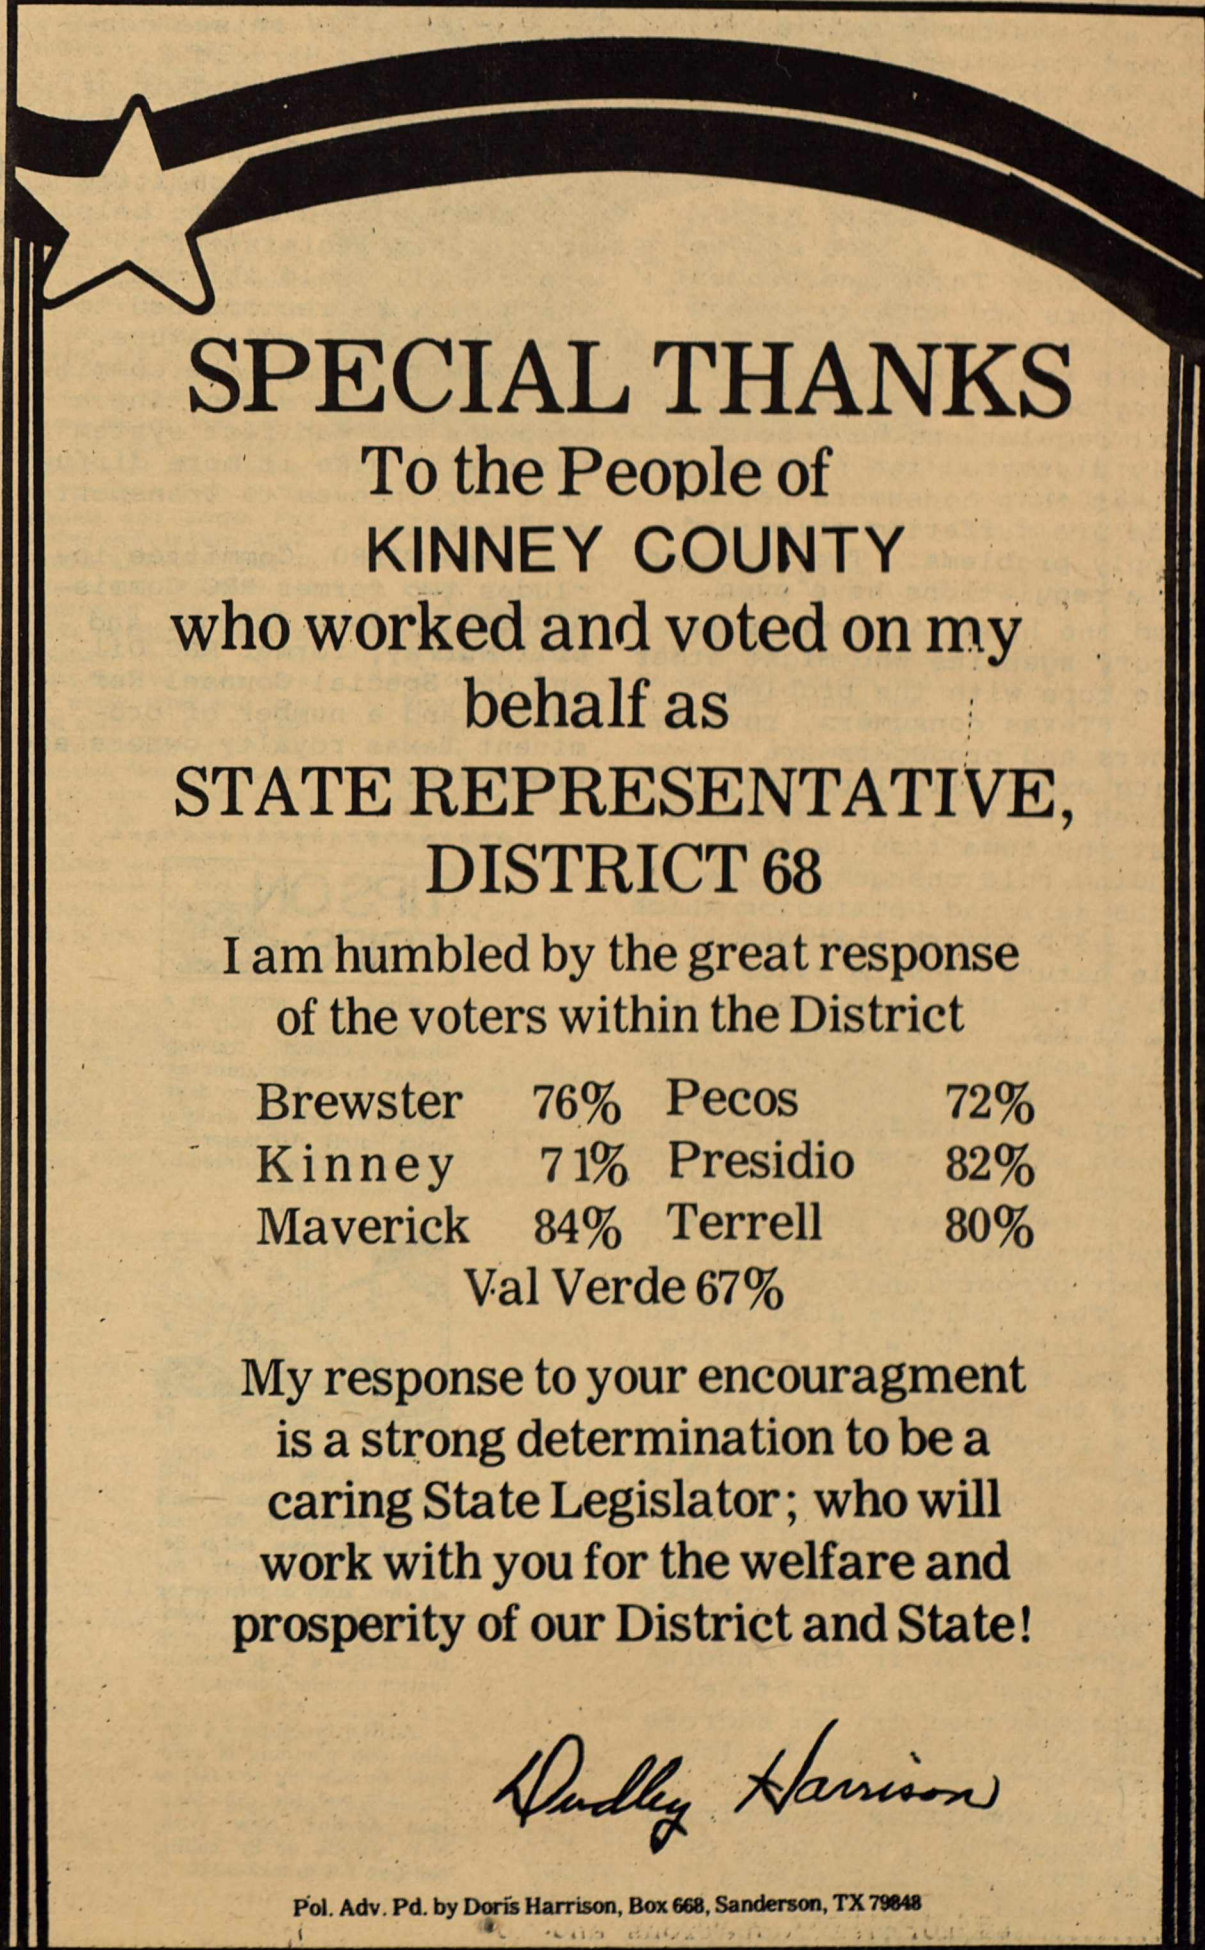

As a county agent Moore conducted effective Extension programs through a strong county program building committee. At the district level, he was an effective supervisor of county agents and their educational programs. He became the first district director for the Southwest Texas Region following a realignment of district boundaries in 1971. Two years later he was instrumental in organizing an area development program called STAR (Southwest Texas Agricultural Resources) which has contributed heavily toward the area's economy.

Over the years Moore has worked closely with various organizations and producer groups, including the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Ass-

WATCHDOG

November 11 was an excruciatingly long day for several of our state commissioners. It was one of the days that the Texas Sunset Commission held public hearings on how well a few of the state's most important agencies were doing their jobs.

Unlike the previous public hearings (which usually ended about 5 p.m.) this time the commissioner's listened to people testify until after 1:00 in the morning. The reason: one of the agencies under review was the Public Utility Commission.

At the mere mention of the PUC these days, you'll find people on all sides ready for combat. Depending on how you look at it, the PUC is either doing a remarkably good job, by keeping Texas utilities in such fine shape, or a woefully poor job, exemplified by a quick study of the skyrocketing utility bills.

So on this particular Thursday night, scores of folks from all across Texas came to tell the Commission what they thought.

There were lots of differing thoughts expressed. Absolutely every single witness representing the average consumers -- small-town and middle-sized city Mayors, City Council members from major metropolitan areas, small business people, senior citizens groups, taxpayers associations, low-income groups, consumer organizations and just plain mad citizens -- was furious with the way the PUC operated. And they had a whole host of recommendations and suggestions. Some even advocated that, because the PUC had become so biased in favor of utilities (at the expense of the customers), that we'd be better off with the entire agency abolished.

Others came up with a myriad of ideas to improve the PUC. A few of the recommendations heard most often were:

- * set up a Public Counsel to represent the residential rate-payers, since no one looks out for their interests right now;
- * stop letting utilities charge customers for their mistakes and cost overruns;

- * prohibit the automatic pass through of fuel adjustment costs;
- * make the utilities go through "management audits", so the PUC could tell if they had good

Rice Stuffs The Bird

Add an extra festive note to your holiday table this year with an elegant stuffing of rice and pecans for the roast turkey.

Versatile rice is deceptively economical, about four cents for a 1/2-cup serving, and lends itself to a variety of holiday menus. It's equally delicious as a stuffing for poultry, game, or as an accompaniment for other meat dishes.

The U.S. is known throughout the world for producing clean, uniform, high-quality rice. Various forms are available depending upon the degree of milling or extent of processing involved. Regular-milled white rice has had the hull and bran removed, and is cleaned and graded, ready to be cooked. Parboiled rice is steam-pressure processed before milling. This aids in the retention of vitamins and minerals. After cooking, the grains will be fluffy, separate and plump. Pre-cooked rice has been milled, cooked, and dehydrated. It requires a minimum of preparation time since it needs merely to have the moisture restored to it. Nutty-flavored brown rice is the whole unpolished grain with only the outer hull and a small amount of the bran removed. Most all packages of rice give cooking directions. Use your favorite form of rice for making stuffings for poultry, game or meats. Remember, cooked rice keeps a few days in the refrigerator.

Well seasoned rice, herbed chopped vegetables, and pecans make a winning combination to stuff the holiday bird.

PECAN RICE STUFFING	1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 cup butter or margarine	1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup snipped parsley
8 cups cooked white or brown rice (cooked in turkey or chicken broth)
1 cup chopped pecans
2 teaspoons ground thyme
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon ground or rubbed sage
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper

Melt butter in a large pan. Add onions, celery, and parsley. Cook over low heat until tender, stirring constantly. Add cooked rice, pecans, and seasonings. Toss together lightly. Makes enough stuffing for a 12 to 15 pound turkey.

Note: Stuffing may be cooked separately in a covered baking dish at 325° for 30 to 40 minutes.

cost-efficient, sound management practices;

* force the PUC to consider all sources of energy this state has, including renewable energy.

The Public Utility Commissioners themselves however, thought they were basically doing a pretty good job. They didn't see any need to make any major changes in the way the agency did business.

And all the utility companies were pretty much in agreement. They thought the PUC was a fair-minded, balanced regulator and the law under which the PUC operated suited them fine (which in itself is an interesting switch, since when the law was passed back in 1975, they thought the whole idea was terrible.)

The large industrial energy users, like Dow Chemical and Diamond Shamrock, concurred, for the most part. On the whole though, it seemed like there were a lot more citizens who had taken the time and trouble to come testify that they thought something was wrong with the PUC, than there were people supporting it.

Now, the Sunset Commissioner must decide what to recommend to the Texas Legislature about the PUC. They're going to be voting on the PUC in the beginning of December, so even if you missed the Public Hearing, it's not too late to let them know what you think. Write to one of the public members on the Sunset Commission, Carol Barger, at 202 W. 13th, Austin Texas 78701. She'll see that the Commission considers your opinion.

ociation and the Columbus, Uvalde, and San Antonio Chambers of Commerce. For many years he has been superintendent of various live-stock divisions at the San Antonio and Houston Live-stock Shows.

He has been president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association and president and chairman of various civic clubs, church groups, and other organizations.

Moore has served on various state staff committees in the Extension Service, including those involved in developing position and job descriptions for county agents, developing a management information system, developing a professional improvement study leave program, developing position descriptions and selection criteria for county chairmen (administrators), and planning the State Extension Conference. He has chaired state committees concerned with developing a performance appraisal system for district directors and revising the performance appraisal system for county agents.

Among his many awards and honors are the prestigious Texas Superior Service Award from the Extension Service in 1981, which he shared with his co-worker Mrs. Gloria Schwarzlose, and the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents in 1961. He has also been recognized by the Texas Plant Food Institute Texas Safety Association, and Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national Extension fraternity.

A native of Stephenville, Moore holds B.S. and M.Ed. degrees from Texas A&M University. He served in the U.S. Air Force several years.

He and his wife, Tillie, have a son, Dr. Randy Moore, on the faculty at Baylor University and a daughter, Dr. Janice Moore, on the faculty at the University of Texas.

"While we look forward to an expanded opportunity for service, leaving Uvalde and the Southwest Texas area was one of the most difficult considerations in making this decision," Moore said. "We have come to love and appreciate the area and its

The Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council wants you to know some facts about drunk driving in Texas.

- One half of all traffic accidents involve a driver who has been drinking.
- It is estimated that on any weekday in Texas, 1 out of 50 drivers has been drinking or is drunk. On weekends, this ratio climbs to 1 in 10.
- Last year there were 36,774 reported accidents in Texas that were the result of DWI — more than 100 per day.
- 23% of all traffic deaths in 1981 involved drunk driving. The ten year total of DWI related deaths in Texas is 19,000 — more than the population of many Texas cities.

Texans should be outraged at this senseless destruction by drunk drivers. For too long, society has permitted innocent persons to be killed on our highways, because it is easier to ignore the DWI problem than to face it.

People have been led to believe that DWI is not really a crime, and the drunken driver is not really a criminal, but this is not true.

For the month of November, the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" on DWI. No reward is offered. Instead, the Council urges you to support local and statewide efforts to reduce the number of drunk drivers on Texas highways.

Every Texan must make a personal commitment to help put an end to this tragedy. Together we can prevent the drunk driver from spreading further death and destruction on our highways.

SHERIFF'S CORNER

Last week we mentioned briefly the contract agreement made with the U.S. Marshal's Service for housing federal prisoners. This week we will go into a little more detail and bring you up to date on the negotiations on the new contract.

Basically, the contract is an agreement whereby we agree to house federal prisoners who are either waiting to be tried or have been tried and are awaiting sentence. This agreement specifies a price per day prisoner, for this fee we provide the prisoners with three meals a day and basic medical care, etc. Any major medical expenses are to be paid for by the U.S. Marshal's Service.

At present we are receiving $14.50 per day per prisoner for an annual contract estimate of $49,150.00. We anticipate $20.00 per day per prisoner with the new contract for an annual contract estimate of $73,000.00. This will be an estimated increase of $23,850.00 annual revenue to the County.

The anticipated $73,000.00 contract will not, of course, be profit to the county, but it will go a long way to help pay for the costs of maintaining the jail and other activities related to the Sheriff's Department.

Now to bring you up to date on other jail operations.

When I came in as Sheriff on September 1, this year, we had only two jailers who were certified by the State. One of the certified jailers resigned and we hired a new one to replace him. We have since sent two jailers to school and the remaining jailer has a temporary card. We will get him certified at the next jailer's school. The jail needs a few repairs and painting to put it in shape to meet the standards required by the Jail Commission. With a little time and money there should be no problem meeting the standards.

We are also making some changes in our record keeping at the jail, within a few weeks we should have these changes made and the jailers familiar with them.

Well, that's about all for this week. A few of you have been dropping by for coffee and conversation. We appreciate your interest and the invitation still stands for any and all of you who wish to come by.

Meeting in regular session, Thursday, October 21, the Southwest Texas Junior College Board of Trustees set the 1982 College tax rate at three cents per $100 valuation. The 1982 rate is a decrease from the 1981 rate of six cents per $100 and reflects the new property values established for the tri-county district by the recently completed property reappraisals. The new rate will raise approximately the same amount of revenue as was raised by the higher rate last year throughout Real, Uvalde and Zavala Counties.

In other business, the Board heard a report on the status of the audit of the college's 1982 financial records presented by representatives of Winn, Ellinger, C.P.A. The Board approved the audits of the federal financial aids funds as presented by the auditors and will consider the audit of general college financial records at the November meeting.

The Board heard a proposal from the Business Administration Division concerning the increase in student enrollment in the college's business program, recent efforts to improve the business curriculum, and the need to purchase equipment for teaching word processing. The Board authorized the college administration to take bids and purchase a word processing system adequate to meet the Business Division's instructional needs.

The Board voted to change the time of its regular November meeting from 7:00p.m. to 3:00p.m., Thursday, November 18.

people because of the gracious and generous manner in which we have been accepted during our stay here. This, along with the support and encouragement exhibited by so many for the Extension program and staff at the Uvalde Center are among the many memories we will carry with us to be treasured in years ahead."

Moore and Carpenter will head up a thousand-member staff comprising the nation's largest Agricultural Extension Service which acts as the link between research and its practical applications in the lives of Texas residents.
