AMISTAD FACILITY OPENS

COUNCIL MEETS

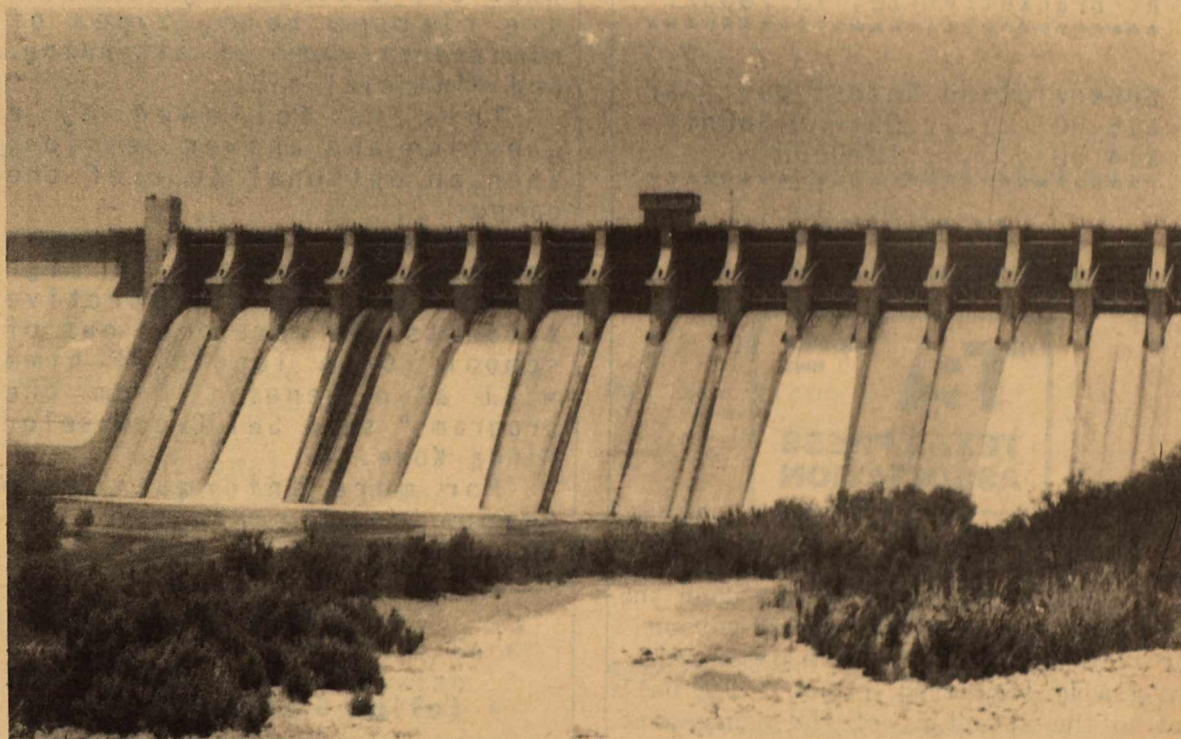

The City Council met at their regular monthly meeting Mon., May 14, at 6:30 p.m. in City Hall with seven visitors in attendance.

The operational and financial reports for the City for the month of April were approved as well as a zoning change from residential to commercial for Mr. Steve Pena in Brackett Addition Block Z, lots 6 and 7, to build a garage. Manuel Roman received a septic tank permit to park a mobile home at Brackett Addition Block 52, lot 7.

The Council, upon discussion, approved the sale of the 1929 Fire Hydrants that are scheduled to be replaced this summer. City residents desiring to purchase a hydrant for $30.00 may sign up at City Hall. The City will retain one or two of the ten scheduled for replacement for emergency backup, with the remainder offered to the public. As the hydrants become available, they will be sold to those signed up so that, hopefully, a storage problem will not occur.

In line with the fire hydrants, the City must turn off all water to repair/replace broken valves. Upon discussion by the Council, it was determined to wait until school was out, so therefore, Wed., June 6, from approximately nine o'clock in the morning until five in the evening, the water system will be turned off throughout the

AMISTAD PLANT

Over 300 persons attended the 'Open House' ceremonies of the Amistad Dam Power Plant. Of those in attendance, 200 were member/consumers of Medina Electric Cooperative. The Open House activities were coordinated by the International Boundary and Water Commission, United States Section and Medina Electric Cooperative.

The Honorable J. F. Friedkin, Commissioner of the International Boundary and Water Commission, reviewed the early planning stages of the hydro-electric facility and recognized individuals who played a leading role in the plant's evolution. A slide presentation reviewing various stages of construction explained how the power plant operated and depicted some of the equipment required to generate electricity. After the slide presentation, guests were allowed to go into the power plant and observe the operations of the generating units on tours conducted by the International Boundary and Water Commission employees. The hydro facility is operated by the International Boundary and Water Commission for the federal government.

The power generated at the facility is fed into a high voltage transmission line owned by Medina Electric Cooperative. It is delivered by this transmission line to the Central Power and Light Company system and transported to the systems of Medina Electric Cooperative and South Texas Electric Cooperative.

"CAMPUS NIGHT"

The Southwest Texas Junior College Counseling Center will begin conducting evening sessions for prospective students in May. These sessions, called "Campus Night" grew out of the perceived need for persons with no prior college experiences to learn about college.

Campus Nights have been scheduled for three Thursdays, May 3, 17 and 24, at 7 p.m. in the conference rooms of the college's Matthews Student Center.

Each session will be divided into three parts. One is information-giving where counselors will explain what opportunities are available, what are college degrees, how are classes held, types of admission, cost of attending, and financial aid.

This is followed by a question and answer session, then an optional tour of the campus.

"Campus Night is not necessarily limited to high school seniors. Prospective students who have been out of school for a length of time will also benefit from the program," said SWTJC counselor Minda Kone.

For more information on Campus Night, contact Kone at 512-278-4401, ext. 256.

LIFE & THE ARTS IN CHINA

Local residents may have the rare opportunity to hear Shirley Ray Wood (Huang) speak of her life in China on May 23rd. The lecture will take place in the lounge above Las Moras Inn at 8:00 p.m. The public is invited.

While studying at Michigan State University in 1946, Shirley met a Chinese exchange student, Yuan Por Huang. They married and later moved to China, where her husband is now a parasitologist. They have six children: one is studying in New York and another in Hawaii.

Shirley is a professor of foreign languages at the University in Kaifeng. Her speaking engagements take her on travels throughout the world. This month she will be visiting her sister, Mrs. Al DaCosta at Fort Clark Springs. While here, she has generously agreed to share some of her experiences with our community.

Small Wonder

Here's a little item that may interest a lot of people. A video color camera you can hold in the palm of your hand is available at what's been called, a very competitive price.

The solid-state camera weighs only 2.2 pounds and measures only five and a half inches high, by eight and a half inches long. A solid-state sensor replaces the normal photoconductive tube in this new CKC020 camera from RCA, known as the "Small Wonder."

A new video camera is small enough to be held in the palm of one hand.

The camera features a fast F1.2 lens, 6:1 zoom and low power consumption. A continuous, automatic white balance feature has built-in circuitry that electronically adjusts the proper color balance for both outdoor and indoor light, without the need to use knobs and switches.

The one-inch electronic viewfinder of the RCA camera, doubles as an "instant replay" monitor for on-the-spot scene review.

BRUCELLOSIS

"Brucellosis is a widespread disease and is of major economic importance to Texas cattlemen," says Dr. Tom R. Troxel, Texas A & M Extension Livestock Specialist at Uvalde. "Of all the Brucellosis quarantined herds located in the United States, approximately one-third are located in Texas."

"Infected cattle generally lose 20% of their milk producing ability which directly affects weaning weights," adds Troxel. "Abortion, sterility problems and slow breeders are also detected in infected herds."

"Cattlemen across the State of Texas have started to participate in the calfhood vaccination and the certified free herd programs," says Dr. Troxel. "According to the Texas Animal Health Commission, 877,637 heifer calves were vaccinated in 1982 and over one million heifer calves were vaccinated in 1983."

Heifers should be vaccinated with the reduced strain 19 vaccination between 4 - 12 months of age. A local accredited veterinarian, state or federal veterinarians are required to vaccinate the heifers. Dr. Troxel adds, "the vaccination studies indicate an 80 to 90% effectiveness under field conditions. At the present time, the state will pay for on-the-ranch vaccination at no direct cost to the owner."

Anytime female cattle enter the class "B" or "C" area, vaccination is required by law. There are exceptions to that law and they include: cattle from a certified free herd, cattle entering for shows, fairs and exhibitions, cattle moving within a commuter herd, spayed heifers, "S" branded cattle consigned for slaughter or quarantined feedlot or Texas origin heifers permitted to enter the area for vaccination.

Dr. Troxel adds that when cattle change ownership with the same classification, vaccination is not required but recommended.

"Many packer buyers will discriminate against heifers that have not been vaccinated," Troxel says. "Most states will not allow nonvaccinated heifers to enter; therefore, buyers are very limited on the freedom of movement of nonvaccinated heifers."

The number of certified free herds in Texas has increased from 675 in 1983 to 1037 so far in 1984. In order for a herd to be classified Certified Brucellosis Free, all cattle (older than 6 months) must pass two blood tests (negative) 10-14 months apart. All certified free herds must be yearly recertified.

Brucellosis is a very complex disease with many rules and regulations. For more information, please contact the Texas Animal Health Commission or the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Our old air conditioner broke down permanently. I'm glad.

"I didn't see it that way at first, of course. For one thing, it was July, with the weather getting hotter every day. And naturally, we were concerned about money and how much we were going to have to pay for new air conditioning.

"As it turned out, the breakdown showed us how to SAVE money.

"Our dealer explained EER and SEER—efficiency ratings for air conditioners. The higher the number, the more efficiently the unit operates. He said we'd get the most economical service from one rated 8 or above.

"The people at CPL said the dealer was absolutely right: we should choose a model with an EER of at least 8. And they helped us figure the BTU sizing right for our house. That's important, too.

"We hadn't been using the new air conditioner very long before we realized how much the old one had cost us by using more electricity than necessary to do the job.

"Now I'm happy the old unit died. Our new system has an EER of 8.7—and it's made a difference! More cool air, more comfort. Lower summer electricity bills than we've had in years.

"Wish we'd looked into this EER business a long time ago..."

Help Your Heart

Hostility and Heart Disease

Hostility may be a key aspect of the "Type A" behavior profile — the hard-driving, impatient person who is at higher risk than others of having heart attacks, said Redford B. Williams, Jr., M.D., at a recent American Heart Association meeting.

Not all Type A's get heart attacks, but in studies at Duke University Medical Center in Durham, NC, over the last seven years, Type A patients showed more severe coronary heart disease than others. And the Type A's who scored high on an experimental "hostility" scale from the standard personality assessment questionnaire, the Minnesota Multiphasic Inventory (MMPI), had a particularly high rate of heart disease reported Dr. Williams, associate professor of medicine and professor of psychiatry.

Dr. Williams studied the records of 255 physicians who had taken the MMPI 25 years earlier, while in medical school. Those who scored low on the hostility scale had a less than three percent heart attack rate during the ensuing 25 years, compared with more than a 12 percent rate for those with higher range hostility scores — nearly a five-fold difference. Their death rates from all causes followed this same pattern, being lower among the low-hostility men.

Numerous researchers are investigating the mechanisms, by putting Type A's and the more calm Type B individuals through stressful experiments in laboratories. Type A's show larger boosts in blood pressure, and larger increases in blood levels of epinephrine and cortisol, the adrenal hormones that cause blood vessels to constrict, Dr. Williams said.

The Duke researchers found, among Type A men given simple arithmetic problems, physiologic and hormonal reactions similar to those seen in emergency and fight-or-flight situations.

Dr. Williams

Excessive levels of the adrenal hormones and of testosterone, the male sex hormone, have been implicated in animal studies in the hardening and narrowing of arteries.

Further studies are necessary to determine if the higher hormonal responses observed so far in some Type A persons are causative factors in heart disease, Dr. Williams said. If susceptible people could be identified early, then preventive measures could be taken to save their lives.

CHILD WELFARE BOARD NEEDS MEMBERS

The Kinney County Child Welfare Board is in the process of changing over.

Until a few months ago, our county was serviced by social workers from Del Rio. We now have help assigned from Uvalde. These workers have answered many of our questions and are helping to get our board active again.

During the last meeting, two members resigned. This leaves the board short of the necessary number of members to meet the by-law requirements.

Anyone interested in helping the youth of our community and their families by becoming a member of the board, please contact:

Sandy Herman - acting Chairman
A membership drive meeting will be held on Mon., June 4, at 6:30 p.m. at the County Library.

"FATHER BUCKLEY DAY"

Many parishioners and friends joined Father Maurice Buckley in celebrating mass at St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church of Brackettville on April 29. After having served as pastor for seven years, Father Buckley will soon depart to assume his new duties as an instructor at the Oblate Seminary in San Antonio.

For this special occasion, the choir from Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Uvalde sang. Everyone is deeply grateful to this lovely group for giving so generously of their time and talent.

After services, approximately 400 people gathered on the church grounds to enjoy a delicious barbecue chicken dinner prepared and served by the Knights of Columbus in Father Buckley's honor. The visiting Uvalde choir members and their families were among the special guests.

It is with regret that his parishioners and friends in the community bid farewell to Father Buckley. He has watched over and guided his flock with wisdom, compassion, love and devotion.

Texas Cities Praised For Cleanup Efforts

By Governor Mark White

AUSTIN—With the cost of litter pickup on Texas' highways totaling almost $20 million last year, elementary school students in Commerce found an innovative way to advertise the importance of keeping their community clean and attractive.

A local grocery provided the children with 3,000 grocery sacks to decorate with pictures illustrating the theme, "A Beautiful Commerce Begins With Me." The colorful sacks were returned to the store, and shoppers carried home both their groceries and a reminder to help beautify their town.

Since 1969, more than 60 Texas communities have been singled out to receive the Governor's Community Achievement Award for taking energetic steps to clean up and beautify their own backyard.

This year's six winning cities, picked from different population categories, are Commerce, Eagle Lake, Lake Jackson, Lubbock, Pearland and Tom Bean. The Beautify Texas Council will honor these cities at its annual meeting June 20-22 in Greenville.

Texans, who take pride in their state, recognize that litter and abandoned dilapidated buildings are unattractive, lower surrounding property values, and can create a public health hazard.

Litter also discourages tourism—our state's second largest industry. With the attraction Texas holds for new industry, increased tourism and population growth, we must tackle the problem of litter and other local beautification challenges through public education programs.

Cities winning the 1984 Governor's Community Achievement Award succeeded through a variety of innovative approaches that caught the public's imagination and inspired a community to roll up its sleeves and tackle major beautification programs.

Tom Bean, population 811, came up with a catchy cleanup slogan—"Pick up what you can and can what you pick up"—and combined its anti-litter campaign with downtown building renovation. Eagle Lake's farmers donated their trucks to haul more than 600 loads of debris, junk appliances and trash to disposal sites. Church groups helped the elderly clean up their property, and the city-wide beautification effort complemented new landscaping of the Eagle Lake city square.

Pearland's aggressive beautification effort decreased litter by 50 percent as measured by a photometric index, and Lake Jackson citizens met the cleanup challenges of both Hurricane Alicia and last year's record-breaking freeze by twice replacing destroyed trees and plants. Lake Jackson's city government has demonstrated its commitment to beautification by passing ordinances on tree preservation, litter abatement, and landscaping and green space requirements for new developments.

Programs to control littering are not costly and their effectiveness depends on the level of voluntary community support. While pedestrians and motorists are blamed for the highway litter problem, studies reveal that the majority of litter originates from improperly covered home garbage cans, open business trash bins, uncovered trucks, and poorly maintained loading docks and construction sites.

For information on how your city can organize a beautification program, contact the Governor's Office of Community Leadership at (512) 475-4210.

By taking a few extra minutes to properly dispose of trash, each of us can contribute to a cleaner, more attractive Texas.

get ready for those hot days ahead.

The program, called the Texas Tune-Up, is intended to help Texans gain control of their utility bills by showing them how to control their energy use.

The emphasis of the program is on getting your house "tuned up" for the summer months. It will be coordinated with similar springtime programs sponsored by major utilities and electric cooperatives across the state.

One of the major items which Texans are encouraged to include in a home tune-up is the air conditioning system. The tune-up should include implementation of a regular monthly maintenance schedule, so that when the air conditioning is turned on for summer it will operate more efficiently. The more efficiently your unit operates, the less you will pay to keep cool.

Texans also should use fans as much as possible during this period before the hottest weather sets in. Moving air feels several degrees cooler than still air. So, using fans can help delay turning on the air conditioning system, and even when using the system, we can set the thermostat higher if we use fans to keep the air moving.

Another feature of the Texas Tune-Up program is the waterheater wrap. Able to be installed by the consumer, the wrap helps cut down on the amount of energy required to provide hot water. The benefits can be even greater if the water temperature is set no higher than 130°F.

Information on other low-cost or no-cost actions which can be taken to save energy (and dollars) also will be available during this special offensive against wasteful energy use.

The information will be distributed through a series of television spots, radio announcements, and newspaper stories. Brochures in both English and Spanish also will be available to provide more detailed information. In addition, Texans will be able to call a toll-free number for answers to more specific problems on saving energy in the home.

UNDERSTANDING OUR ECONOMY

Ag Options Will Offer New Marketing Alternatives

by Thomas R. Donovan,
President
Chicago Board of Trade

Trading in agricultural options, scheduled to begin around Oct. 1, 1984, is the first really new marketing tool available to U.S. producers and other agribusiness concerns in many years. In this brief article, Chicago Board of Trade President Thomas R. Donovan offers some insight into how agricultural options may be useful to U.S. producers as "price insurance," that is, how options can be used to set a floor price for expected production while still allowing the producer to take advantage of a favorable price movement.

Farm management today involves more sophisticated decisions than ever before. . . decisions and planning involving such diverse areas as land and chemical use, equipment and technology. Most times, after all the other determinations are made, the producer with the sharpest pencil and the most skillful marketing plan generates the best possible "bottom line."

Any marketing decision basically comes down to a choice: Sell now or sell later. In other words, lock-in the currently available price today or run the risk of holding out for a better price later. When trading begins this fall in agricultural options, however, there will be another alternative: Establish a minimum selling price in winter or spring while retaining the ability to profit if prices rise during the growing season or into the harvest.

"Options"—as their name implies—are limited-risk marketing tools, very much like insurance. In fact, the price you pay for an option is called the "premium." Agricultural options can prevent the producer from having to take a lower price but allow him to benefit if commodity prices go higher.

For example, if options were available today, a producer might decide to set a "floor" price for his anticipated production of soybeans by purchasing one option on November soybean futures at $7.50 per bushel (one option covers 5,000 bushels). The cost of the option (the premium) might be anywhere from 10 cents to 50 cents per bushel depending on the length of time the option covers, how the guaranteed price compares with the current price for soybeans and price volatility at the time. The premium paid by the producer represents his total financial commitment.

If the price of soybeans were to fall below $7.50 per bushel anytime before harvest, the producer who holds the option would be protected. He could sell back his $7.50 option anytime before its expiration for a profit. (The profit would roughly be equal to the difference between $7.50/bushel and the current lower price minus the amount of the premium.) If the price of soybeans moved up to $8.50 per bushel by fall, the producer could simply "walk away" from his option and never use it, and sell his beans at $8.50 in the cash market. That's why they're called options—the option holder has the choice.

The Chicago Board of Trade will participate in a program authorized by Congress and regulated by the government which will allow options on two of the agricultural futures currently traded on the exchange. Initially, we plan to offer options on soybean and corn futures.

THE SHERIFF'S CORNER

by Norman H. Hooten, Sheriff

A free-for-all fight between several local young men on the night of May 4th resulted in several injuries and the arrests of three Brackettville men on charges of ASSAULT with Bodily Injury.

Details of the event leading up to the battle are sketchy at this point, but Elias Gomez, 21, of Brackettville was hospitalized with facial injuries. A local juvenile was treated the following day for a knife wound to the stomach.

The case was investigated by Chief of Police Donnie Nance and Patrolman Richard Dempkowski. Francisco "Frankie" Martinez, 19, of Brackettville and his brother, Gilbert Martinez, 23, also of Brackettville, were arrested by City Police Officers on the night of the incident. They were later released on bonds totaling $300 each. Juan Sanchez, of Brackettville, was arrested the following day on Assault charges and released on a $300 bond. The case investigation is continuing by City Police and Juvenile authorities.

A burglary occurred at the ranch residence of 'Woody' Massingill, on the Pifon Ranch, approximately 22 miles north of Brackettville, Monday morning, May 14. Personal property items valued at over $2,000 were taken. The case is under investigation. Evidence, at this point, strongly suggests that the crime was committed by illegal aliens passing through. Misc. food items and two pairs of western boots were also taken. An APB giving the description of the property taken has been broadcast by teletype from this office to a large area of Texas. The U.S. Border Patrol is assisting in the investigation.

County Commissioner Joe York and myself, along with Val Verde County Commissioner Martin Wardlaw and Sterling City rancher George McIntosh, flew out to the Iron Mountain Ranch near Marathon, Texas to attend the 16th Annual Texas Ranger Company 'E' Bar-B-Q and peace officer meeting last week. An estimated 200 peace officers, F.B.I. agents, judges, and various district attorneys attended the event. After a good, old-fashioned Bar-B-Q at the bunkhouse, we listened to various speakers, including Texas Ranger Captain Maurice Cook and D.P.S. Colonel Adams.

Various law enforcement problems were discussed. The overall general agreement was that the ever increasing drug problem throughout the state is the most serious and hardest to contend with for peace officers today. Various methods of detection and investigation were discussed. As always, extensive law enforcement investigations require MONEY. The lack of budgeted funds with which to conduct any investigation, particularly drug cases, is a problem all law enforcement agencies are facing. Good cooperation between local, county, state and federal officers is an absolute necessity in order to successfully combat any criminal problem,

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

City. Hopefully, three valves for hydrants and two valves for control will be installed during this time. This will not solve our whole problem of water area control but should alleviate some emergency conditions in the future. Handouts will be delivered to homes and businesses.

New up-to-date ordinances for animal control and utility buildings were presented to the Council as City Ordinances #226 and # 231. No changes were recommended. Prior ordinances and resolutions were consolidated for better understanding and control purposes. Both Ordinances were approved on first reading with second readings scheduled for June and final readings for July meetings.

Louis Starzel was reappointed to serve as the Municipal Court Judge for two years to serve concurrently with the term of the Mayor as outlined in State Statutes. Mr. Starzel will maintain his residency in the City in accordance with City Ordinances.

The public hearing on Community Development Project Funds, handled by the state, was held with the City Manager presenting the State Community Affairs Program for 1984/85 and the City of Brackettville's expected and recommended participation. A Community development project grant request was tentatively approved to request $82,600 to repair the elevated water tower and replace the ground storage tank as ordered by the State Health Department.

It was announced that the Commissioners appointed by District Court Judge Thurmond to determine and set the value of the Fillipone Building under condemnation by the City has set Tuesday, June 12, 1984 as the hearing date.

The continued participation of the visitors present was encouraged by the Mayor and Councilmembers. The Mayor expressed his desires that more residents attend the Council meetings and become involved.
