RESIDENTS PLAN PROGRAMS

KINNEY COUNTY RESIDENTS PLAN EXTENSION PROGRAMS

Kinney County residents Lois Forbes, Else Sauer, Leticia Munoz, Mrs. Charlene Wilson, Nancy Frerich, and County Judge Albert Postell will be meeting with Sylvia Baker, Extension Agent-Home Economics on August 9 at 10:30 a.m. in the Commissioner's Courtroom to plan County Extension Home Economics Programs.

The Extension home economics program provides information and educational programs on nutrition, health, family economics, housing, textiles and family life.

Through the program, Extension agents work closely with Texas families teaching them how to apply research-based practices for:

- improved health
- extended income & resources
- increased family well-being.

Home Economics agents are responsible for planning and developing Extension educational programs that meet local needs. Each county has a group of citizen volunteers to assist the agents in their planning. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

All county residents are urged to attend the planning meeting. Your knowledge about local needs, interest and concerns will help in deciding which skills and information are most needed to improve the quality of living in Kinney County.

PUBLIC HEARING ON TEXAS WATER PLAN TO BE HELD

AUSTIN, Texas ----A public hearing on the water rights aspects of the proposed amended Texas Water Plan will be held by the Texas Water Development Board in Austin, Aug. 16 at 9:30 a.m. in room 118 of the Stephen F. Austin State Office Bldg., 1700 North Congress Ave.

The water code requires the board, in adopting a statewide water plan, to "determine whether or not the plan gives adequate consideration to the protection of existing water rights and whether or not it takes into account modes and procedures for the equitable adjustment of water rights affected by the plan."

The hearing should not be confused with other scheduled hearings related to the water rights adjudication program conducted by the Texas Department of Water Resources. Any action taken by the board at the Aug. 16 hearing will have no bearing on the water rights adjudication process.

Written or oral statements should be confined to the subject matter of the hearing which is quoted above.

Copies are on deposit at various public and university libraries around the state and in each of the department's field offices.

Formulation of the amended plan titled "Water for Texas, a Comprehensive Plan for the Future" from a water rights standpoint has been based on these tenets of water rights administration:

1. The plan will not interfere with vested rights under existing water rights permits.

2. For planning purposes, intrabasin needs for all beneficial purposes developing within the ensuing 50-year period will have priority over exportation for out-of-basin demands.

3. For planning purposes, water temporarily surplus to intrabasin requirements and to the satisfaction of existing rights at any time will be conserved and exported to meet out-of-basin needs only under valid permit and contractual agreements.

4. Rights under any new water rights permits as might be acquired by the Texas Water Development Board as a consequence of possible financial participation in reservoir storage projects will be obtained through full compliance with rules and procedures of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Following the water rights hearing and action by the board, the amended plan will be considered for final adoption by the board at a regular board meeting later this year.

LIBRARY NOTES

It is critical for everyone to attend the August 13th Commissioner's Court meeting at 10:00 a.m. in support of your library. This will be the last regular scheduled public meeting of the court before it adopts the final budget which will be for Oct. 1, 1984 thru Sept. 30, 1985.

We are DESPERATELY NEEDING the librarian's salary to be upgraded to $5.00 per hour or $10,000 per year so that we may interest a committed, highly qualified person to take over as library director following my resignation.

We also desperately need a full-time (as opposed to the present part-time) library assistant to be budgeted. This will help alleviate the inconvenience of not having someone previously trained to take over as librarian when that position is suddenly vacated.

Other benefits are better library hours for patrons including less days or hours closed due to not enough library staff when the librarian is at a workshop, seminar, giving a library presentation at a meeting, on vacation, or perhaps ill.

Next week the library will be closed early (6:00 p.m.) due to my husband & I visiting his mother, who's in intensive care in Dallas.

If we had a full-time library assistant we could have been open until our regular 7:00 p.m. Doris Knaver and Richard Mountain are standing in for me in the mornings, Tues. & Wed., to assist our Manpower worker, Martin Lumbreras. Frances Hernandez will come in from 1:00 to 5:00 Mon., Tues., & Thurs. Martin will close at 6:00 p.m. Please be patient with us until I can return.

YOU AND YOUR HEALTH

Medicare and Private Insurance

Medicare pays a large part of the health care expenses of its carriers, but it does not pay them all. There are limits on some covered services and you must pay certain amounts called deductibles and co-payments.

Many people like to have health insurance in addition to Medicare. Before you buy such insurance, there are some things you should consider:

1. Shop carefully before you buy. Policies differ widely as to what they cover and what they cost.
2. Ask for an outline of coverage, describing what Medicare will pay, the policy will pay, and you will pay.
3. Don't buy more policies than you need. A single comprehensive policy is better than several policies with overlapping or duplicate coverage.
4. Check for waiting periods for pre-existing health conditions. If you have had a health problem, the insurer might not cover you for expenses connected with that problem immediately.
5. Beware of replacing existing coverage. Carefully compare your existing policy

When looking for private health insurance to supplement Medicare, check for pre-existing condition exclusions.

with any other policy offering. Often the new policy will impose a waiting period or will have exclusions or waiting periods for pre-existing conditions your current policy covers.

On the other hand, don't keep inadequate policies simply because you have had them for a long time. You don't get credit with a company just because you have paid many years for a policy.

Keep available your agent's and/or insurance company's name, address and telephone number.

One of the best ways to see historic Jefferson is on the horse-drawn sloop tour. The 45-minute ride winds through the residential and business areas as the driver relates the story of this charming East Texas town. Here, the tour approaches the House of The Seasons, a Victorian home built in 1872. TTDA photo by Richard Reynolds.

Just 30 miles north of San Antonio lies Guadalupe River State Park. 1900 acres of scenic Hill Country along the beautiful, cypress-lined Guadalupe River. Camping, picnicking, swimming and canoeing are just some of the activities in the park, and the bird-watcher may catch a glimpse of the rare, golden-cheeked warbler. TTDA photo by Richard Reynolds.

We thought it was perfect...
but Good Cents
made it better!

After all those years of planning and waiting, we finally were ready for our dream home. We wanted to get started on it right away, too, so we could move in and start enjoying it as soon as possible. "But thank heavens we took the time to listen to what our builder had to say about the Good Cents home and how it would reduce the amount of energy we use. We decided this might be a practical way to get our utility bills under control, so we agreed to modify our house plans to meet the Good Cents standards. "And guess what? We're using only half as much energy as before for heating, air conditioning and water heating." "So this isn't just our dream house - it's a whole lot better." It's true: the features built into a Good Cents home can cut energy use by 50% for the three biggest items in your household energy budget. Developed after years of research, the program incorporates the newest technology for energy efficiency. Every Good Cents home has a variety of energy-saving features. These may include added insulation, good attic ventilation, quality windows and doors, special measures to prevent air leaks, and an efficient heat pump that provides both heating and cooling from a single system. Besides saving you money, these features make your home more comfortable and help assure a higher resale value. Before you decide on a new house, find out more about Good Cents. Just inquire at your CPL office - or ask your builder or realtor.

How To Avoid Biting Bugs

It's here, so be prepared: biting bug season. Mosquitoes, blackflies, horseflies, and the members of the mite group—chiggers, itch mites and ticks—are all out to cause you misery, unless you're ready to resist them. Don't believe such little fellows can do that much damage? Consider the facts. Mosquitoes are capable of transmitting more than 80 diseases, including malaria and yellow fever. The tick is the prime carrier of another dangerous disease: Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Knowing a few facts about the habits of these pests can cut down the chances that a mosquito or another bug out for blood will feed on you. •When you set up camp or stop for a meal on a family outing, look for a breezy spot and avoid standing water where biting-bug eggs are likely to be. •Ticks, itch mites and chiggers hide in bushy areas, tall grass and along the edges of clearings where the soil is moist. •Mosquitoes will go through any hole that is small enough to accommodate them. To keep them out of tents and clothing, repair all holes and tears. •Use an insect repellent such as Cutter Insect Repellent, which comes in aerosol spray, cream concentrate and stick form. •Remember mosquitoes and other biting bugs are attracted to warmth and moisture. To the indiscriminate bug, your catch and your food are as appetizing as you are, so keep them covered as much as possible. •The less skin you expose, the less of a target you are. Wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants in the early mornings and evenings when mosquitoes are most active.

PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION OFFERS WATER-SAVING TIPS:

Unseasonably hot weather, below average rainfall, and water rationing programs are all too familiar to many Texans this summer. To combat these problems the Public Utility Commission is providing information to Texans, to help them reduce water use inside their homes and outdoors. Just as the efficient use of energy produces savings for you and for Texas, so too does the efficient use of water. In fact, because considerable energy is required to distribute and treat water, when you save water, you save energy.

By calling the PUC's toll free hot line, 1/800/643-SAVE, consumers may request information which will aid them in controlling their water and energy use this summer. This service is part of the Texas Tune-Up, a statewide public service campaign. The Campaign represents an unprecedented effort by the state to reach the public with the kind of accurate and unbiased information which can help Texans save water, energy and money.

THE SHERIFF'S CORNER

By Norman H. Hooten, Sheriff

It has been my experience over the years that certain times come along when we need the support and faith of our loved ones and friends to continue with our individual endeavors. I have been extremely fortunate in that I have been the grateful recipient of such a faith and support from my friends and loved ones. The poem included in this week's column was recently given to me by a close friend. When she gave it to me she simply stated that when things start to get rough to read it, it might help. It has.

If you can keep your head when all about you Are losing theirs, and blaming it on you,

If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way
to hating,
And yet, don't look too good nor talk too wise;
If you can dream and not make dreams your master,
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with triumph
and disaster,
And treat those two imposters
just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken, Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to broken,
And stoop and build 'em up
with worn-out tools;
If you can make one heap of all your winnings,
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings,

And never breathe a word about your loss;

If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you, Except the will which says to them: "Hold on!"
If you can talk with crowds
and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings-nor lose
the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,

Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And-which is more-you'll be a Man, my Son!

CRIME VICTIMS CONFERENCE

Attorney General Jim Mattox kicked off the first of five regional conferences for law enforcement officials on the subjects of crime victims and family violence Tuesday, July 31, in Austin.

Approximately 100 law enforcement officers, most from the Central Texas area, attended the first of the five conferences.

"In 1983, more than 150,000 violent crimes were committed in Texas," Mattox said. "That means a minimum of 150,000 Texans were victims of those crimes."

"Yet, only 1,168 persons--less than one percent of victims--applied for financial assistance under the Texas Crime Victims Compensation Program," Mattox said. "The problem, quite simply, is a lack of awareness about the program, both on the part of victims and their families and on the part of law enforcement officials."

"What we are attempting to do with these conferences is to familiarize officers with the background and organization of the program,"

he said. "This is an important step in making sure that all of us do not lose sight of the fact that victims and their families are the real sufferers when violent crime occurs."

The 1-day conferences also will include afternoon sessions on family violence to be taught by officials from the Texas Council on Family Violence.

"Since February, I have visited almost 20 family violence shelters in Texas," Mattox said. "A recurring theme I have heard in each location has been the definite need to better educate law enforcement officers about the growing problem of family violence in our society."

"I read just last week about a pilot program in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in which police now are making arrests for domestic violence," Mattox said. "A preliminary analysis of that program is showing that arrest is the most effective method of curbing brutality against women and children in the home."

"This is the type of program we want to inform our own law enforcement agencies of in Texas," Mattox said, "as well as introducing them to the workings of our 37 family violence shelters."

Mattox will make opening remarks at the Austin conference at 8 a.m. Tuesday. The conference will be held in room 1.110 of the Joe C. Thompson Conference Center at 26th and Red River on the University of Texas Campus.

The Austin Police Academy is co-sponsoring the opening conference, with commissioned law enforcement officers being eligible for eight hours of training credit through the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officers' standards and education.

Austin Police Chief Frank Dyson endorsed the conferences, saying, "This is an important and neglected area in police work."

Other dates, locations and co-sponsors for the 1-day conferences are Thursday, Aug. 2, in Arlington, co-sponsored by the North Central Texas Regional Police Academy; Tuesday, Aug. 7, in Lubbock, co-sponsored by the Lubbock Police Academy; Monday, Aug. 13, in Houston, co-sponsored by the University of Houston Criminal Justice Center; and Wednesday, Aug. 15, in Corpus Christi, co-sponsored by the Corpus Christi University Criminal Justice Program and the Corpus Christi Police Academy.

The media are invited to attend any or all of the conferences.

THE YEAR OF THE 'BIG SNEEZE'

AUSTIN--the more than 18 million hay fever sufferers in the United States will remember 1984 as the year of the big sneeze. According to the American Lung Assn. of Texas--the Christmas Seal People--1984 will go down as one of the worst years in history for victims of hay fever. The heavy spring rains accelerated the pollen blooms which then were borne on the winds over the length and breadth of this continent.

A SERIOUS DISEASE--

For the 1 in 20 Americans who suffer from this serious ailment, hay fever is no joke. It is an allergic disorder that can cause headache, irritability, insomnia and gastric disturbances. The chief symptoms are sneezing spasms; stuffed-up runny nose; red, swollen and itching eyes; and itchy throat and mouth. Also, hearing may be impaired and infections of ears or sinuses may result. An even more serious complication is the asthma that 30 percent of chronic hay fever sufferers develop.

Hay fever (sometimes called rose fever in the spring) has nothing to do with fever. It is caused by sensitivity to airborne pollens of trees, grasses and weeds that invade the air seasonally and vary according to regional climates, so hay fever can occur during spring, summer or fall.

At least 75 percent of people with hay fever are sensitive to ragweed, although an individual may react to more than one pollen so that his own "season" can last from early spring to the first frost. It must have been a truly satanic botanist who dreamed up Amrosia as the Latin name for ragweed, the most common offender among all the pollens. Among the many other villainous flora is the Russian thistle which, as one might imagine from its name, is particularly persistent and pesky. Despite its biblical name, the burning bush is another offender--it primarily affects the Great Plains States.

IMPORTANT ADVICE: No matter how intensely you suffer, no matter how much you think you're going to die hay fever won't kill you. But since it can result in troublesome and even severe complications, consult your doctor and follow his advice.

Through there is no cure yet for hay fever, there are up-to-date methods to ease the symptoms. If your doctor thinks desensitizing injections will help, you should start them before the hay fever season and stick to them without skipping. And stay alert for possible complications, including a real nose or throat infection, or the development of asthma.

If you are using an old prescription, consult your physician because improved remedies have been developed over the last few years. Relief for hay fever may be given as drops for eyes or nose, as sprays, or as pills or capsules.

HOW TO FIND RELIEF: For both city and country folk, air-conditioning can give some comfort. But if you really want to escape hay fever, get on a boat, sail 100 miles offshore--and stay there! While you're at it, pray for an early frost so you can return to land. If you can't go to sea, then go to the beach whenever possible. There is less pollen near a large body of water and salt air breezes are not only invigorating but good for the sinuses.

For information on hay fever, contact the American Lung Assn. of Texas, 7701 N. Lamar, Suite 104, Austin, TX 78752 or call tol-free 1-800-252-LUNG.
