VIDEO CENTER FOR LIBRARY

BALLET FOLKLORICO de NAVARRO

On Saturday, August 25th, the Old Quarry Society for Performing Arts will present "Ballet Folklorico de Navarro" at 8:30 p.m. at the Ft. Clark Springs Amphitheatre. Pete Ramirez and his pupils from San Antonio will perform in the bright, traditional costumes of Folklorico. Come see them at 8:30 p.m. and especially bring the children - only $1.00 for students - $4.00 for adults. This performance may be the incentive your child needs to become a famous dancer.

Tickets available at the library, the bank, the adult center or at the performance.

CAVALRYMAN SPONSORING FUND FOR VIDEO CENTER AT LIBRARY BY GEORGE LOOS/ EDITOR

A few weeks ago our Border Amateur Radio Society had the opportunity to view a video tape from NASA on the STS-9 space shuttle Columbia. I was rather suprised when our Kinney County Librarian, Mrs. Charolette Corey, informed me "That the library did not have any equipment to show video tapes."

I found out that our library has the freedom to actually receive and view literally HUNDREDS OF VIDEO TAPES AT NO COST -- IF WE HAD THE EQUIPMENT!

A SAMPLING OF WHAT THESE PROGRAMS INCLUDE:

- How to Play Golf by Sam Sneed.
- All kinds of "How to do it".
- Educational programs from Kindergarden thru College.
- Documentaries on almost every country and civilization in the world.
- Old Movies-- from W. C. Fields to John Wayne.
- The Arts.
- Aerobatics.
- History.
- Ballet.
- Baseball.
- CPR.
- Cartoons.
- Cooking.
- Drama.
- Engineering.

I JUST WENT THROUGH PART OF THE "E'S" !

THINK WHAT AN ASSET THIS WOULD BE TO THE PEOPLE OF OUR COMMUNITY---ESPECIALLY OUR STUDENTS!!

I came home and mentioned this to my daughter Crystal. Her comment was: "This is the sort of thing Mommy would have taken care of---Why don't we do it for her?" (The only difference is -- no one would have known Judy did it.)

THE LIBRARY NEEDS APPROXIMATELY $1000.00 FOR A VIDEO TAPE PLAYER AND A VIDEO MONITOR.

EACH WEEK THE CAVALRYMAN WILL PRINT THE NAMES OF CONTRIBUTORS--UNTIL OUR FINAL GOAL IS REACHED!

WE HOPE TO GET RESPONSES FROM: BUSINESSES, SERVICES, CLUBS AND INDIVIDUALS.

LIBRARY NOTES CHAROLETTE COREY.

This October will be my last month at the library after which time I plan to go into a "home ministry" to help people in my community through the love of God. God has blessed me during the time I have served the county library since 1978 as a Manpower Program Worker and then later as a paid county library assistant until December 1981 when I became Library Director. Thanks be to God, the library has grown much since Nov. 1982 when we moved into our large, new building. We have been able to provide more of the community's entertainment reference materials, & educational needs as the library budget has expanded. A sizeable LARGE PRINT COLLECTION, a special room for our increased Texas History Collection, books on business, computers, an expanded filmstrip collection and library services to "shut-ins" are all notable additions to these library services.

Other additions were provided through the generosity of organizations such as "Friends of the Library" who were responsible for raising funds to "help save the library" in 1981, purchasing our copy machine Nov 1983, starting our LARGE PRINT COLLECTION with $100.00 worth of books, and building seven bookcases in 1982-1983.

We also especially thank our "Founding Mothers" the new world study club who started the library as a bookshelf in 1966, had it adopted by the county officially in 1973 and have continued to be supportive with funds & participation along with purchasing and having four book cases built, sidewalks and curbs installed, a commemorative plaque, a coatrack & additions to our card catalog in honor of Mrs. Charlotte Golemon.

We thank members of the Lions Club for the portraits of Mrs. Charlotte Golemon and Miss Else Sauer, our first two library directors who founded our library.

We thank Charles and Tim Ward for the ceiling fans and other items which have served to make your library more pleasant.

We thank all those who donated funds and contributed time and "elbow grease" to the library - may God bless all you volunteers who have helped us through the years.

God bless the Cavalryman and especially George and Crystal Loos for all their support of the library and concern for the community.

I will miss you all --- yet I plan to keep in touch.

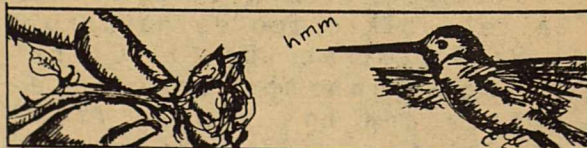

Give someone a hug and have a blessed day!

KINGSTON TRIO TO PERFORM

UVALDE:-----The Kingston Trio, a perennial favorite among music lovers, will make a special appearance at the Grand Opera House in downtown Uvalde on Monday, Sept. 10, at 8 P.M. The group is sponsored by the Uvalde Arts Council.

The Kingston Trio became popular in the late 50s, singing classic folk songs such as "Scarlet Ribbons." Their melodies are a mixture of country, calypso, pop, and bluegrass music. Their five gold records include "Tom Dooley," "The MTA" "Tiajuana Jail," "Scotch and Soda," and "Worried Man." The Trio won the Grammy Award in country music in 1959.

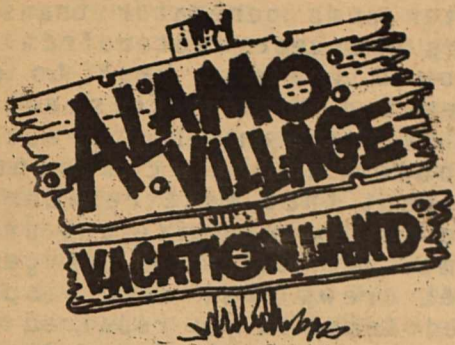

Members of the group are Bob Shane, Roger Gambill, and George Grove. Shane is the only one of the original trio to still sing with the Trio. Tickets to the concert are now on sale at the Opera House Box Office for $12.50. Members of the Uvalde Arts Council are entitled to a 10% discount. For more information, please call 1-278-4082 or write P.O. Box 1451, Uvalde 78801.

COTTONSEED DEVELOPED

WASHINGTON - U.S. Senator John Tower (R-Texas) today announced that research conducted at Texas A&M University and Texas Women's University indicates that a recently developed glandless cottonseed could have a dramatic impact on curbing world hunger.

Unlike its glanded counterpart, glandless cottonseed is safe for human consumption and contains 35 to 65 percent high quality protein. Extensive research has shown that the glandless cottonseed has the potential of meeting the needs of a burgeoning world population faced with a decreasing supply of animal protein and an increasing need for better nutrition.

"The utilization of this new source of protein will have a great impact on alleviating world hunger," Tower said. "Most underdeveloped nations have the capability to grow cotton and produce the glandless cottonseed."

This new strain of cotton has shown to be highly versatile. Researchers at TWU have tested glandless cottonseed flour in casseroles, quick breads, whipped topping, dressings, baked goods, snacks and candy. A coagulated cottonseed protein curd product has shown great promise both as a cream cheese alternate and as a meat substitute.

CITY HALL
by William Thurber

On Wednesday evening August 15, 1984 the residents of the area suffered a 100% blackout from electrical energy due to a transformer receiving a direct hit from lightning. At approximately 7:35 P.M. I received word from our utilities supervisor Frank Sanchez that our water supply pumps, our wells and our sewer lift station were not operating. As my home still had complete power we reported the outage to CP&L that part of town was out including city services.

At a little after nine the city crew was assembled and we activated the city emergency water pump generator transferring emergency water from the ground storage tank to our elevated tank. This action alleviated any low pressure problem in the city and I suspect that most residences did not even notice any problems. At 10:25 the emergency CP&L crews that were dispatched temporarily repaired the main transformer and full power was restored.

The city lift station which the city crew was handling with our gasoline pump became operational and all was well with the sewer system. The water system was another story. The two booster pumps

HOW TO CONTROL YOUR WEIGHT

by Ironman Triathlon star Millie Brown

Even athletes have to watch what they eat to keep their weight down. Here's the unstructured food plan that works for me. If your doctor says OK, maybe you'll find it helps you control your weight too:

- Eat a diet that's 50 to 65 percent complex carbohydrates (fruits, vegetables, seeds, nuts, whole grains), 15 to 20 percent protein and 20 to 30 percent fats (only 1/3 of these saturated solid or animal fat). The carbohydrates and fats act as fuel, while the protein replaces and builds body tissue.

- Have six small meals or snacks throughout the day rather than three big meals. I find this keeps my body fueled with food for energy without overworking my digestive system, which makes me feel tired and sluggish.

- Cut down on salt, substituting herbs and spices for flavor.

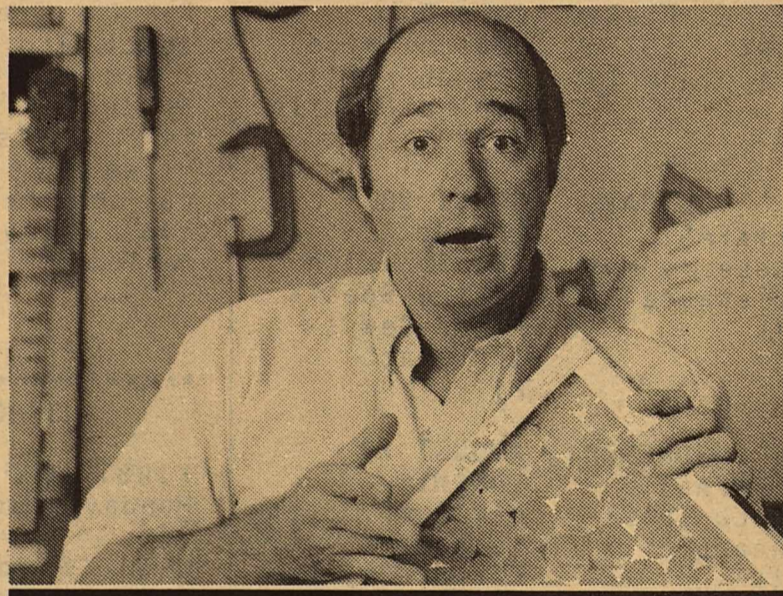

- Make sure you have a good scale so you can know with certainty how you're doing. I take my Norelco digital scale along whenever I travel for longer periods because it's so important to have a weight measurement I can trust.

- Drink six to eight glasses of water a day. Often we feel hungry when we are really just thirsty.

- Take vitamin and mineral supplements in case each day's diet isn't perfectly balanced.

- Stay away from fad diets.
- I reward myself for eating sensibly and training hard by occasionally having a sweet or dessert—home-made only!

When he tried to sell me a smaller air conditioning unit, I thought he was kidding.

I told him I wanted another four-ton air conditioner to replace the one that wore out. Then he started telling me how it might be too big for our house. And since we'd been using four tons for years, I was confused. "But, then he explained that a central air conditioner that's too big for your home is just as bad, as one that's too small - maybe even worse. It won't control the humidity well enough to keep you comfortable. And it wastes energy - uses more electricity than you really need. "I wound up with a unit a ton smaller than the old one. I wanted a high efficiency model to save energy, so I made sure I bought one with an EER/SEER of at least 8. The unit I finally settled on, in fact, is rated 8.7.

"And you know, it's doing a great job! We're more comfortable now than we ever were with the larger unit. And I really think our electric bills are lower now, too."

Whether you're buying air conditioning for a new house or replacing the system in your present home, you can save money by choosing a unit with the right cooling capacity for your needs.

Ask your dealer to size your new unit correctly. CPL will be happy to work with your dealer.

supplying water from the well and ground storage tank turned out to be inoperative due to low voltage experienced prior to shut off. Although power was restored the city crew was required to manually operate the system until 8:30 the following morning when Frank was able to by-pass a burned out box and activate one pump. The second pump had to be sent off to be rewired.

The gist of this whole story is you know the city workers are doing their jobs from 8-5 when you can see them driving around town, patching streets, repairing leaks and handling utility house calls - but do you ever really stop and realize that utilities - gas, water and sewer is a 24 hour a day task? I personally believe that we take our utilities for granted because of the outstanding manner in which the city crew of Frank Sanchez, David Martinez Jr., Manuel Villarreal, Guadalupe Sanchez, Juan Cardenas, and our new men Gilbert Sanchez, Gregorio Juarez, and Joe Bravo have done the job both during and "after" hours.

Their expertise and cooperation under some trying conditions have certainly earned my respect and we hope yours.

SCOUTING CONCLAVE

LAUGHLIN A. F. B., Texas

The 10th annual Boys Scouts of America Amistad District Aquatic Conclave will be held here Sept. 7, 8 and 9 according to Capt. Chris Maracchini, base scouting project officer.

- Troops may begin checking in at the camp grounds at the end of Liberty Dr. behind the base exchange at 4 p.m. Friday. A registration fee of $2.50 per person to cover the cost of the patch and ribbons will be collected at that time and campsites will be assigned on a first come first served basis.

"This year's aquatic conclave will surely be an event you will not want to miss," Maracchini said. "There will be ribbons and plaques presented to the winners. In addition the base Commander Lt. Col. Phil Ruiz will present a Commander's Trophy to the best overall troop. The trophy will be put on display in the wing headquarters building on base," he added.

The water sports will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday and will consist of the freestyle, dog paddle, breaststroke and backstroke, medley and golf ball chase. First place winners will be awarded 10 points, second 7 points, third 4 points and for participating 1 point will be awarded. All events will be held at the base training pool.

Maracchini pointed out that there will be some restrictions while on the base. "The flight line will be off limits the entire weekend, except for official tours and no scouts will leave the conclave area unless given specific approval of their unit leader.

"There will be no ground-fires allowed so all cooking will have to be done on charcoal or Coleman-type stoves and the scouts will have to provide their own charcoal" he said.

The scouts will be given free swimming time throughout the weekend and at the campfire Saturday evening skits and songs will be featured along with the awards presentation. "We will also be holding an inter-denominational church service at the camp area Sunday morning and after that the scouts will break camp and depart the base," Maracchini said.

"Questions concerning the conclave should be directed to me at (512) 298-5547 Monday thru Friday from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., or to Staff Sgt. John Young at (512) 298-5225, the same hours," he added.

YOUR FLOWERS AND PLANTS Helpful Hints

By Merlin Olsen

Flowers are wonderful things to give, receive and buy for ourselves, but lots of us have trouble making them last as long as we'd like. FTD florists suggest helpful ideas.

The most popular flower gift is an arrangement of mixed cut flowers in a vase, so let's talk about that type of bouquet first.

Olsen

Arrangements should be watered daily with tepid water, not too hot and not too cold. They should be displayed in a cool place, out of sunlight but not in drafts, either. The top of the TV set is a bad place to put flowers because it gives off heat even when it's not on. Ledges and sills near heating and air conditioning units also should be avoided.

Some flowers in arrangements may droop before others and should be removed immediately so they don't affect the rest of the blooms.

Still another way to extend the life of cut flowers is to add a preservative to the water. Packets of commercial preservative are available from florists at low cost. You also can use sugar—a tablespoon to a quart of water. Aspirin dissolved in water, contrary to what you may have heard, isn't much help at all. As one florist said, "We recommend aspirin for headaches, not for flowers."

THE SHERIFF'S CORNER

by Norman H. Hooten, Sheriff

The theft of a set of car keys from a car set the stage for further criminal action that finally occurred between the hours of 2:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m. Sunday morning, August 19th.

Betty Ward reported that she stopped at a local grocery store for a few moments late last week and placed her keys over the sun visor. When she returned to her car, the keys were gone. A thorough search of the immediate area and inside the store returned negative results.

Chief of Police Richard "Ski" Dempkowski was contacted and he also was unable to locate the keys. After questioning witnesses at the scene, he developed two suspects believed to have been near the car shortly before the keys were found to be missing. Chief Dempkowski contacted me and advised me of the incident and his suspects. He also advised that the vehicle had been towed away to the Ward residence on Ann St.

It was suggested that the car be mechanically prevented from starting so as to prevent what we believed to be prospective car thieves from returning and stealing the car at a later time. As we had no positive identification of the persons who we suspected of taking the keys, all we could do was to attempt to keep them under surveillance. Our hope was to catch them in or near the Ward vehicle when what we believed would be an attempt to steal the vehicle.

Sunday morning at approx. 6:30 a.m., Roy Dyer, Senior Patrol Agent with the U.S. Border Patrol called to report that his vehicle, a white 1981 Oldsmobile, had been stolen between the hours of 2:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m. that date. The vehicle was entered in the TCIC computer as a stolen vehicle.

At approx. 9:30 a.m. Mr. Billy Cashion, one of the owners of the Texas Youth Council Foster Home located on North Ann St. called to report that two of the youths being housed there were missing and were last seen at a 12:30 a.m. bed check.

The two youths, one 16-years old and the other 13-years-old were the suspects Chief Dempkowski and I had in the theft of the car keys from the Ward vehicle. Their names, descriptions, and possible destinations were also entered in the TCIC computer and linked to the theft of the Dyer car as suspects. All area law enforcement agencies were notified and most roads and highways leading out of Brackettville and Kinney County were checked in an attempt to determine if the vehicle might have been abandoned after the theft. The results were negative.

At approx. 11:45 p.m. Sunday night I was called at home by jail dispatcher Pete Bland who advised that he had received a teletype message from DPS Texarkana. It advised that one of the suspects and the stolen vehicle had been apprehended and were in custody. A short time later, the second suspect, the 13-year-old, was also in custody.

I notified Mr. Dyer and he contacted the Texarkana authorities early Monday morning and made arrangements to fly there to recover his vehicle. Charges are pending against the two juvenile criminals.

Questioning of some of the remaining youths at the TYC Foster Home has provided information that the stolen keys were indeed taken by one of the youths involved in the theft of the Dyer car. Also, that the two offenders had been planning their escape/runaway from the foster home for several days.

This brings to mind several recent incidents involving the TYC Foster Home and those youths being housed in it. There have been several mass runaways and at least one other car theft involving these youths. They recently stole a van belonging to the First Baptist Church whose members have been active in trying to help these youngsters get their lives straightened out. Gratitude? The van was abandoned and recovered in South Texas and the offenders/runaways taken into custody. One of the youths involved in the latest auto theft was involved in other escape/runaway attempts and has been returned here every time. Perhaps tighter security would be in order and other measures should be taken into consideration by the owners/directors of the foster home.

Those of us in local law enforcement have worked long, hard hours to control criminal activity in the Brackettville, Kinney County area. There has been a marked decrease in the overall crime rate in our area due to this increased law enforcement activity. It is not appealing to me to have these efforts overthrown by importing problems from other communities and introduced into our community under, what appears to be, lax security and/or supervision. Should we continue to have criminal activity occur in our community that is directly linked to the foster home and its inmates or members I intend to have some serious conversations with, not only the local owners, but also the state directors of the Texas Youth Council. They contract on a monetary basis with the owners of the foster home here.

Sure, we want to assist young people who have strayed from the straight and narrow and make every attempt to assist them in getting their lives straightened out. That they will, in time, lead productive adult lives, but not at the expense of our local citizens who must suffer the expense of the loss of valuable property and constant worry of being burglarized or having their vehicles stolen.

EDITOR

Dear Mr. Loos:

With the exposure you have given to the city in regard to the taking of Mr. Huey's property, I trust you will give our response equal attention.

As the attorney representing Mr. Hawkins Huey, I participated in all of the proceedings that Mr. Thurber, your City Manager, described in the August 3, 1984 edition of the Cavalryman and I scarcely recognized what he described. Moreover, his victorious tone was a twist of the knife in the side of a very fine individual, Hawkins Huey.

Indeed we did lose. The city of Brackettville was able to take away the private property of an individual citizen. Now, a small fortune in money will be spent by the City of Brackettville to restore the building containing materials taken from Ms. Huey against her will. Across from the courthouse, I saw several old and magnificent buildings in decay, all more central to traffic routes than the one the city now owns. But the City of Brackettville decided to take what it wanted. And it did.

In years past, the government just couldn't come in and take a person's private property. I guess things change. But I believe it is a very sad day for the constitution and I believe our personal rights have been tarnished.

Ms. Huey purchased materials from Dr. Moore. She has a bill of sale recorded in the courthouse for all to see. I can't understand how Mr. Thurber could describe that as a "tentative" purchase. Only after the purchase did the city act.

Unlike Mr. Thurber, I do not attempt to interpret Dr. Moore's actions. From the very beginning, Dr. Moore told us he did not want to get involved and he did not. He only said he didn't want any activity at the building which would disturb him. That is why he sold the materials to Ms. Huey instead of selling the building intact. When the city condemned the property, he simply took no action to fight them.

It is unfortunate to me that the jury could not be asked whether or not the city had a right to take the private property of Ms. Huey. They were not. All the jury was able to decide was how much the property is worth. It was presumed that the government has the power to take. But Mr. Thurber didn't mention that. He only made it sound like this woman was out to destroy "this unique architecturally sound" structure. I guess that phrase was meant to make you feel better about the hundreds of thousands of dollars to be spent on the building. But what about the bank? And the jail? Why not them?

Ms. Huey is a dedicated preservationist who is not about to try to destroy an old building worth saving. Anyone who has seen the vintage homes she is restoring in town knows that. In fact, that is what she was going to use the materials for, restoration of two buildings which are becoming Brackettville landmarks without public money. And the "free materials offered" were no where near comparable to what the city took from Ms. Huey.

Two registered engineers at the trial testified the materials owned by Ms. Huey were worth thirty-five to forty-five thousand dollars. I don't think Ms. Huey can be faulted for turning down the city's offer of two thousand dollars, even if that is all she paid for them. We all expect to make a good bargain and sell things for more than we pay. And we don't expect to be forced to sell our property to the government.

All we learned from this is that government can take private property. And as the power of government grows, our rights decrease. Our property is not safe from the whims of government. What next? As Mr. Thurber gloats over the government's victory, I wonder what the founders of this country might say. They would never have tolerated such acts; in fact, they fought a revolution to prevent just this kind of governmental power.
