BRACKETT LOSES TWO PROMINENT CITIZENS

FT. CLARK DEVELOPER DIES

Nathan K. Mendelsohn, 69, died suddenly at Fort Clark Springs, November 10, 1984. He was born March 23, 1915 in Czechoslovakia and grew up in Brooklyn, N.Y. Mendelsohn was a graduate of the City College of New York and pursued Doctoral Studies in Rural Sociology at Columbia University. Since 1948, Mendelsohn was instrumental in the development of many recreational communities in California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas. The latest development - Fort Clark Springs - was his pride and joy. North American Towns of Texas, Inc. purchased Fort Clark from Brown and Root in 1971 and renamed it Fort Clark Springs. AS President of North American Towns of Texas, Inc. Nat felt that Fort Clark Springs inherited a rich treasure chest of significant American history, recognized the value of the history surrounding Fort Clark and the importance of the value of preserving as much of the "old" as possible in his development. Nat lived to see his dream of a recreational community with golf courses, tennis courts, recreation centers for young and old, campsites and picnic areas come true.

Fort Clark Springs realizes a great loss in the passing of Nat, as does Brackettville and Kinney County. Not only did Nat give of himself to Fort Clark Springs, but to all of the Community. He helped when help was needed with a swimming pool in Brackettville, a new ambulance, 4-H projects and Little League.

Nat's memory will live on for all who have come to make Fort Clark Springs their home, and for those who come to live his dream - even for a week-end outing.

We will long remember Nat Mendelsohn.

He is survived by his wife, Helen H. Mendelsohn of Los Angeles, CA., his daughter, Janet Mendelsohn Levitt; son-in-law, Marc Levitt and granddaughter, Mirra Levitt all of Watertown, MA.; his adopted daughter, Alex Mendelsohn, of Berkeley, CA.; and brother, Emmanuel Mendelsohn of New York. Private services were held in San Antonio on Wednesday, November 14 and memorial services are to be scheduled in New York City and at Fort Clark Springs.

TROY KEVIN SHEEDY

I am dedicating this week's column to the memory of Troy Kevin Sheedy. Troy lost his life as the result of a tragic auto accident near LaJitas, in far west Texas. He had been working for the production company filming the movie "Uphill All The Way".

Troy was born on March 22, 1963 and raised in Brackettville. He is survived by his parents: John "Plunker" Sheedy (County Commissioner Pct 2) and his mother, Elaine; his brother John A. "Tiger" Sheedy IV; paternal grandparents, Johnnie and Lillian Sheedy; maternal grandmother, Nellie Fischer; and a host of relatives and close friends who loved him dearly. Troy's grandfather, Johnnie Sheedy was Sheriff of Kinney County for over 33 years.

Troy has never met a stranger who hasn't become a friend. His friendly, outgoing manner made him friends of all ages wherever he went. Color, race, age and position-in-life didn't determine who his friends were. He took people as they were and most of those who met him called him 'friend' and were the better for it.

Troy's accident occurred on Wednesday evening, November 7. He passed away at 9:20 a.m. on Saturday, November 10 at the Odessa Medical Center.

Our deep sympathy goes out to his family at this time of tragic personal loss. FARMERS AND RANCHERS

Farmers and ranchers should make their voices heard in the state's capitol when the Texas Legislature draws up a water plan, and Texas will have a water plan after the next Legislative session. That is what State Senator Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, told a group of about 150 agricultural producers gathered at the Uvalde Civic Center Thursday for the Water Use and Conservation in Agriculture Seminar.

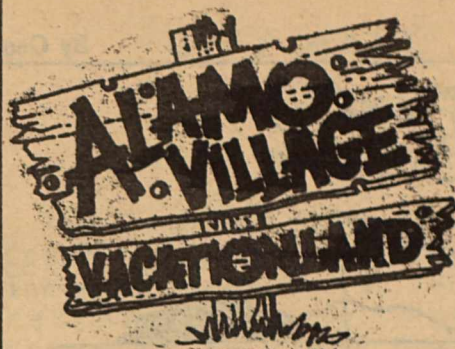

"The only limitation Texas has today is water. We are going to have a plan," Sims told the group during the morning's panel discussion. Other panel members included Dr. Gerald Higgins, Texas Dept. of Water Resources, Austin; Tom Fox, Edwards Underground Water Dist., San Antonio; Gail L. Duffin, Texas Dept. of Water Resources, Austin; and Con Mims, Nueces River Authority, Uvalde.

Sims encouraged the producers not to let others make their decisions for them and to get their "city brothers" interested in the water problems the agricultural sector faces.

"Untill we can prove to our city brothers that the bill will benefit them, we can't get it passed," Sims stressed.

Tom Fox, general manager for the Edwards Underground Water Dist., told the group that "as far as I'm concerned, we're still in a drought because we (the aquifer) haven't gotten back to normal conditions."

The Edwards Aquifer is experiencing more and more demands on its level and the problems of below normal levels will probably continue, Fox said. Some other water source for San Antonio and the surrounding area may have to be developed, and it will probably be expensive. However, "we have to look at the cost of doing nothing," Fox said.

Fox was also a speaker the previous day at a similar conference held in Castroville. The Seminars were sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with the Edwards Underground Water Dist., the Soil Conservation Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Another conference will be held Dec. 5 at St. Andrews Hall in Pleasanton.

Participants at the Uvalde program were also able to hear top researchers outline crop water requirements, irrigation system efficiency, irrigation well design and construction, soil moisture sensing, center pivot irrigation systems, surge flow irrigation, trickle/drip irrigation systems, soil management practices, weather forecasting, dryland sorghum production, pumping plant efficiency, water management, and tailwater recovery and management systems.

CREDIT PLUS Facts from Barclays American

BILL CONSOLIDATION CAN BE THE ANSWER TO A GREAT VARIETY OF MONEY PROBLEMS

(Editor's note: Credit is a fact of life in America today, but sources of personal loans for middle class Americans are changing. This article is the first in a series of four explaining what options are available, when you should seek credit and how to go about it.)

It often has been said that the rich get richer by using other people's money.

There is a certain amount of truth to that adage.

Does the same opportunity exist for the middle class family earning between $14,000—$25,000 and living reasonably well—but struggling financially at times?

In a way it does. It's called bill consolidation.

Bill consolidation is not designed to make you rich. The goal is to get worrisome financial problems under better control.

Put simply, a bill consolidation loan is designed to pay off your old bills and replace them with a single monthly payment. Moreover, such loans usually are for longer periods and thus make your monthly payments smaller.

Not every financial problem can be solved by bill consolidation, of course. But, it is the right move for a great variety of situations.

One common example is when the unexpected strikes. Pregnancy, with its added expenses, can cause problems for families who are the most careful credit users. Extended illness similarly can create great cash problems, as can a lay off from a job.

It could be something as simple as car repair work. You may be like many people who pay their bills every month but have very little left at the end of the month. What happens when the family car suddenly requires a major expenditure? How do you pay for it?

Bill consolidation may very well be the answer. Basically, it can accomplish three things, in addition to putting much-needed cash into your hands immediately:

- It can improve your cash flow by lowering the total monthly payments.
- It can maintain your credit standing.
- Often, it can enable you to obtain additional money for other needs, at the same time.

Is a bill consolidation loan right for you? Naturally, everything depends on your unique circumstances. But, if it seems appropriate to you, asking about it is a simple matter.

The next question is, where do you go to inquire? In today's world, many financial institutions such as banks, credit unions, and financial service companies can be the source for a bill consolidation loan. The loan can be a signature loan or, for large amounts of money, a loan collateralized by your car, house or another asset.

So, if bill consolidation seems to be the right answer for you, by all means investigate. Talk with a lending professional. The least you will get for your efforts is courteous treatment and sound financial advice.

And, if bill consolidation is right for you, you will have an opportunity to use someone else's money to get your financial situation under better control.

The regular November City Council Meeting scheduled for Tuesday, November 13, 1984 was rescheduled for Monday, November 19, 1984 due to a lack of a operating quorum. Councilmember Riley was on the job in Corpus Christi, Councilmember Schwandner reported under the weather while Dr. Davis was unexpectedly called on an emergency just prior to the meeting. Mayor Mendeke, Mayor Pro-Tem Tartt and Councilmember Fuentes took advantage of the time by studying tax information, correspondance from various sources and projecting city owned land uses and long term plans.

The official agenda items to discuss the City Manager appointment, Municipal Court operations, Zoning requirements and the Annual Audit will be carried over to an official meeting next Monday.

The city looks forward to the receipt of a grant to repair the water tower and to replace the ground storage tank as well as the enthusiastic support to restore the Filippone Building.

The City Manager reported that after some delay the six inch water line extention to the new RGEC site was completed by the city crew and that a good start to cathodically protect the city service gas lines throughtout the city was in progress. A new water pump ($2,600.00) was installed this week at the pump house and it was reported that during this past year 2 new water pumps and 2 new sewer pumps had been purchased, paid for and installed in the city replacing old, worn out equipment.

We continue to look to the future with pride and confidence.

WARM WINTER GATHERINGS

Winter offers its own entertaining diversions such as cozy indoor parties.

When sipping a hot Drambuie toddy fireside, it's easy to forget the weather outside. Steaming bowls of bouillabaisse inspired by Courvoisier cognac, are stick-to-the-rib favorites for cold weather gatherings.

Whether for dessert, or a midnight snack by the fire, Jamaican Fudge Cake sparked with Tia Maria gives a rich finale to an evening.

Hot Highland Toddy

- 4 cups apple cider
- 1 lemon, sliced
- 6 cloves
- 1/2 cup Drambuie
- 2 cinnamon sticks

In a saucepan combine apple cider, lemon slices, cloves and cinnamon sticks. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Strain to remove spices. Stir in Drambuie. Serve in cup or mug, garnish with a cinnamon stick. Makes 4 servings.

Chateau Bouillabaisse

- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1 cup each chopped

- celery, onion and leek
- 2 cloves garlic minced
- 1 teaspoon thyme
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/2 cup fresh parsley leaves, chopped
- 1 28 oz. can whole tomatoes
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 cup bottled clam juice
- 4 drops tabasco
- salt and pepper to taste
- Orange peel, 2-inch piece
- 1 pound fresh red snapper, striped bass or firm white fish—cut into chunks

- 18 each mussels, raw shrimp and clams, cleaned
- 12 sea scallops
- 1/4 cup Courvoisier cognac

Heat olive oil in a large 6-quart pot.

Add celery, onion, leek and garlic and saute until vegetables are soft, about 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients, except seafood to pot. Break up tomatoes with a spoon. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and cover. Cook for 20 minutes.

Add the fish and shellfish, placing the heavier shellfish on the bottom. Bring to boil, reduce heat to medium and cook just until fish is done, about 10 minutes. Add Courvoisier. Makes 6 servings.

Jamaican Fudge Cake

- Batter
- 1-1/2 cups water
  - 4 squares unsweetened chocolate
  - 1/2 cup softened butter
  - 1-3/4 cups sugar
  - 2 tablespoons brown sugar

- 1/3 cup Tia Maria Liqueur
- 2 tablespoons hot coffee
- 2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten

Glaze

- 1-1/2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
- 2 to 4 tablespoons milk
- Dash of vanilla extract

Melt the chocolate in water over moderate heat. Remove from heat. Add butter and sugars, stirring well to dissolve sugar. Let cool 1 hour.

Add Tia Maria and coffee to cooled chocolate mixture. Add dry ingredients, stirring well. Stir in lightly beaten eggs.

Pour batter in a greased and floured standard 10-inch tube pan. Bake in 250°F. preheated oven for 1-1/2 hours or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool on rack and remove from pan.

In a mixing bowl, thin sugar with enough milk to give glaze a good spreading consistency. Stir in vanilla. Spread glaze over cake. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

AVOID POWER LINES

Have respect for power lines—both those overhead and those underground—anytime you're doing a job that requires you to work near them.

- Keep away from overhead lines while you're launching your boat or transporting it over land. Metal sailboat masts, outriggers, power boat antennas—and other high-rising equipment—can be deadly conductors of electricity.
- Don't trim or cut down trees near power lines. This is work best left to experts.
- Check your clearance carefully when you're carrying a tall pole or pipe on a tractor, or driving a truck with a raised bed, or operating machinery such as cranes, booms, draglines, hay loaders and well drilling rigs.
- Fallen power lines also are extremely dangerous. If you see a line downed by a storm, high winds, car accident or other mishap, call Central Power and Light Company. Meanwhile, stay away from the wire and anything it touches—and keep others away, too.
- Make sure you know the location of underground power lines before you install irrigation systems or unclog drain or sewer lines. Even routine projects like digging post holes or planting trees can be dangerous if you get too close to power lines.

Stay alert—and stay clear of power lines!

"ALL NATURAL" MIGHT NOT BE

The terms "all natural", "no preservatives", and "no artificial flavors" appear on food products that a health conscious person may believe are more wholesome and without additives.

This is not necessarily true, says the Texas Medical Assn.

A recent issue of the Tufts University Diet and Nutrition Letter notes that many products with these labels contain food additives and are high in fat, sugar, and calories.

One breakfast pastry touts "no preservatives, no artificial flavors," although it contains the preservative citric acid, artificial coloring, and three different sources of sugar. Of the 10 ingredients in a "natural high fiber" cereal, three are basically sugar.

A granola type product that has 130 calories in only a quarter of a cup lists brown sugar as the second largest ingredient. A "100 percent natural" granola bar is full of sugar and chocolate chips.

Among dairy products, an "all natural flavor" ice cream contains the emulsifier polysorbate 80. In addition, a brand of yogurt that has all natural flavor and color contains citric acid and sorbic acid.

Additives certainly are not all dangerous, the Tufts newsletter notes, and many are essential for food safety. The point is that people attracted to many "all natural" products may not be getting what they think they are.

There is no government regulation of the term "all natural," which means products labeled that way do not have to meet any standards. In fact, natural type claims do not necessarily mean the product is particularly healthful.

The only way to ensure that you receive natural products without unwanted additives, fat, sugar, and calories is to read the fine print on boxes and packages.

CHICKEN POX VIRUS ALSO CAUSES SHINGLES

When your childhood case of chicken pox ended, you were probably glad to hear you would never get it again.

You won't, but the herpes zoster virus that caused chicken pox remains in the body and can strike years later in the form of a disease called shingles, says the Texas Medical Assn. (this virus is different from genital herpes.)

A typical case of shingles begins after age 50 with four or five days of fever and sometimes chills and an upset stomach. A rash resembling chicken pox then appears but is usually confined to one area, often the chest or back, and on only one side.

The rash turns into small blisters that usually begin to dry out and crust over after five days. A funny feeling or sharp pain can precede the rash, but pain more often occurs during or after the rash.

Normally, the pain will gradually go away as the rash disappears, and recovery follows. But this is not always the case.

Older people can experience pain for months or even years after the rash clears up. The rash can involve almost any part of the body and can lead to blindness if it occurs near the eyes and is left untreated.

The virus that causes shingles remains dormant in the body because the virus is never totally eliminated after a person recovers from chicken pox. Instead, the virus retreats to nerve cells next to the spinal cord. There, the virus is held at bay by the body's immune system.

But sometimes the virus gains the upper hand, and an infection occurs again, this time as shingles. Generally the infection is restricted to the group of nerves containing the virus and to the skin served by those nerves. The result is pain and a rash.

Most cases of shingles clear up naturally, but serious cases may require drugs such as amitriptyline, carbamazepine, interferon, or acyclovir to control the symptoms.

Estimates are that up to half of all people who reach 85 have suffered a case of shingles. Fortunately, only about one tenth of a percent have a second attack by that age. Shingles can occur at any age.

Some people have believed that passing a child through the limbs of a dogwood tree would make him immune to childhood diseases.
